On Friday evening, March 1st, the following resolution was passed by the Y. P. S. C. E. of the Presbyterian church:

Resolved—That we extend our warmest thanks to Mr. and Mrs. H. M. Davidson for their cordial and generous hospitality on Monday evening, Feb. 25th, to the members and friends of our society. We shall long remember with pleasure and gratitude the heartiness of our welcome, and we gladly record our appreciation of the kindness of our host, hostess and family. Also that we tender our heartfelt thanks to the members of the sterner sex, who conveyed us thither. We owe our our pleasure to these kind friends, because they put it our power to enjoy a very pleasant evening, and free of charge gave us the use of their horses and conveyances, and themselves drove us in safety over the heavy roads to our friendly destination. Therefore, we desire Messrs. H. M. Davidson, Jas. Cullen, Sherman Garbutt and Nassau Nelson to learn that we fully realize our indebtedness to them, and we gladly take the first opportunity to acknowledge it.

Lakefield, March 1st, 1895.

A discussion as to whether the line through Douro running north from Keene to Katchewanooka Lake is the sixth or seventh line, is occupying considerable attention from some of our prominent men, some of them offering to bet a hundred dollars on the position. Which is right?

On Monday afternoon, Queen street was made the scene of a horse race between Dr. J. R. Fraser's colt, Garvin Preston's horse, H. McIlmoyl's horse and J. Hawkin's horse. Dr. J. R. Fraser's colt came in first.

On Sunday evening the total eclipse of the moon was viewed by a great many people.

On Sunday morning about half past nine an exciting time was caused on Queen and Ridge streets by the appearance of a year old fawn bounding along and apparently tired out. It was evidently chased by dogs and nearly spent when it reached here. It ran into the mill race and was getting badly cornered when Mr. Mr. Badcock got it away again. When it got on the outer edge of the mill race dam, near the bridge, it took a header into the river 15 or 20 feet below. It got out on a ledge near Mrs. Crows' house on the west side of the river and was captured by Mr. Ben Robinson who now has it in his position. A doe has since been seen down on the farm of Mr. A Hamilton, in Smith.

SCHOOL BOARD.

On Wednesday evening of last week a regular meeting of the School Board was held in the town hall.

Members present were Dr. J. R. Fraser, in the chair, and Messrs. Dench, Galvin and McDonald.

Minutes of last meeting were read and approved.

The report of the Principal of School for February was read showing an average attendance as follows: Mr. Evans, 47; Miss Duff's, 40; Mr. Wilson's, 50; Miss Cox's, 45; Miss Bower's, 30.

The report was on motion received.

The property Committee reported that they had got seating accommodation for eight more scholars placed in Mr. Wilson's room, and that there was now seating accommodation for all in the room.

Mr. Evans handed a letter to the Board from the W.C.T.U., stating that they had decided to offer three prize books, value, $3, $2 and $1, for the three pupils who took the highest marks in temperance at the coming entrance examinations.

Moved by G. J. Galvin, seconded by W. McDonald,—That this Board accept with thanks the offer of the W.C.T.U., viz., three books as prizes for the pupils with the highest number of marks on the subject of Temperance at the entrance examinations—Carried.

An account of $60 from Mr. J. H. Davis for 20 cords of wood was ordered to be paid.

Moved by G. J. Galvin, seconded by R. Q. Dench,—That the council of the village be asked to raise and place to the credit of the School Board the sum of $200 for current expenditure.—Carried.

The Board then adjourned.

COUNCIL MEETING.

The council met Monday evening last. Reeve Casement in the chair and Messrs. Hull, Lillicrap, Burgess and Hilliard.

The minutes of the last meeting were read and confirmed.

A request was presented from the school board to raise and place $200 to the credit of the school board for current expenses—Received.

A communication was read from Mr. F. H. Bell, of Harrow, asking information re fire engine—Received.

Moved by Councillors Hilliard and Lillicrap, that a special committee consisting of the mover, seconder and the reeve inquire into the advisability of placing tanks for the better protection of the village from fire, and report as to location and estimate cost of same at the next regular meeting—Carried.

Moved by Councillors Hilliard and Lillicrap that the auditors' report be received and adopted and that it be printed according to law.—Carried.

Moved by Councillors Hilliard and Hull, that the request of Messrs. Bellasis and Barlee for a grant of $15 to aid them in circulating a pamphlet advertising the village as a place of residence for retired Anglo-Indian officers be accepted, and a cheque for that amount be issued—Carried.

To the Reeve and Council of the Village of Lakefield:

GENTLEMEN,—Your Finance Committee having examined the following bills, recommend the payment of the same;

Charity, Mrs Crowe	$ 3 00
" Miss Mooney	2 50
Dr Bell, stamps and telegrams	2 22
J C Sherin & Son, charity	2 15
Madill Bros, electric light	76 98
	$87 75

JOHN HULL, Chairman.

The report, on motion, was adopted.

A communication was read from the Summer Resort Co., making a proposition that for $50 they would devote three pages to Lakefield and also give 50 copies of the same.

Moved by Councillors Lillicrap and Burgess that the offer of Mr. Frederick Smiley, proprietor of the Summer Resort Guide, be accepted providing the description and writing up of the village is satisfactory to the council, and this council, as a committee of the whole, meet Mr. Smiley to-morrow afternoon. Mr. Smiley in the meantime to prepare a draft of the proposed writing up, and that the clerk be instructed to furnish information.

Moved in amendment by Councillors Hull and Hilliard, that the offer of Mr. Smiley be laid over for future consideration. The motion was lost and the amendment carried.

Moved by Councillors Burgess and Lillicrap that the treasurer be authorized to procure the necessary number of dog tags.—Carried.

Mr. C. J. Blomfield made application for the use of the town hall free for the purpose of holding a lecture in connection with the Mechanics' Institute. The request was granted by paying for the electric light.

Moved by Councillors Hull and Hilliard that in future any public political meeting held in the town hall be free, light alone to be paid for, and that the clerk be instructed to prepare an amendment to the bylaws regulating the fees for the use of the hall accordingly—Carried.

Moved by Councillors Burgess and Lillicrap that the obstructions on Rabbit street be left to Road and Bridge Committee to have them removed.—Carried.

Moved by Councillors Lillicrap and Hull that the chairman of the Property Committee be and is empowered to purchase a stove for use in the town hall—Carried.

Moved by Councillors Hull and Hilliard that bylaw No. 248, entitled a bylaw to meet the current expenditure of the school and village, be now read a third time and passed and that the reeve and clerk sign and seal the same—Carried.

Moved by Councillors Hull and Hilliard that the treasurer is hereby authorized to place the sum of $300 to the credit of the School Board—Carried.

Moved by Councillors Lillicrap and Burgess, that the application of Mr. Chamberlain be referred to the road and sidewalk committee to examine into when making their annual inspection of the streets and sidewalks—Carried.

Moved by Councillors Burgess and Hull, that, whereas, Island No. 8, in the River Otonabee, the property of this corporation, has been sold by the township of Douro for taxes, the clerk is instructed to communicate with the council of the township of Douro to return the title. Failing a satisfactory reply, that the matter will be placed in the hands of the village solicitor—Carried.

Moved by Councillors Hull and Hilliard, that the clerk be instructed to write the general manager of the G. T. R., regarding the charge for storage of wood, setting forth the facts.—Carried.

The council then adjourned.

THE KENT CASE.

A Visit to the Works of the British North American Note Company.

Ottawa, March 13th.—A visit paid yesterday to the works of the British North American Bank Note Printing Company, in whose employment is Mr. G. H. Kent, the report of whose recovery from Bright's Disease, with all its accompanying horrors of swollen limbs, convulsions and fearful pains, has been the cause of so much discussion in the city, showed that he is still in the enjoyment of the health which he has regained by a judicious use of Dodd's Kidney Pills. For a man who may be said to have had one foot in the grave, and whose life was despaired of he presented a remarkable picture of health and vigour, and pursued his work at the heavy presses without any indication of weariness. He is loud in his praise of the remedy which cured him.

COUNTY CONVENTION.

The programme committee met last week and drafted out a very interesting bill of fare for the convention on Easter Monday. We can only give a synopsis of the programme, not being able to fill in the names of the speakers. These will be announced later on. We will soon be able to tell you where the meetings will be held.

The convention will open at 9.30 a.m. with devotional exercises. Then will follow nominating committee, reports of officers, address of welcome and reply, closing the session with a conference on Junior work.

The afternoon session opens at 2 p.m. Report of nominating committee, address, conference on "Good Citizenship" with several short addresses interspersed.

From 4 to 5 there will be a junior mass meeting. This will be a very interesting hour.

From 7.30 to 8 p. m. a song service will be held, followed by three addresses, the convention closing with a consecration service.

There is enough in this programme to help and encourage us for another year's work for the Master. Your part is to pray for the success of the convention and come prepared to receive a blessing.

Every society in the county should send at least one delegate and as many more as can come. The names of all the delegates should be sent to Mrs. A. Parker, County Secretary, or to Miss M. Rae, convenor of the Billeting Committee.

Pretty.

A bedroom suite of native white maple with birdseye maple panels, now in A. Clegg's window, attracted considerable notice on Saturday; and especially during the evening large numbers stopped to admire. It is almost white, of neat design, just the thing for a young ladies' room. Though pretty and dainty, it is not expensive. dw

Madill's Emulsion

OF COD LIVER OIL AND HYPOPHOSPHITES OF LIME AND SODA.

It will do wonders for you if your cough is a hard, troublesome and stubborn cough, or if you require building up and fattening, but you must begin in time and take it regularly, as you do your meals.

Madill's Emulsion is put up fresh and sweet every week. It is far more palatable to the stomach than other similar preparations, while a tablespoonful dose contains a higher percentage of Cod liver oil. It is properly emulsified, without the aid of eggs or other over-rich elements, and assimilates much more easily on that account.

Its potency has created not only an active local demand, but a constant request from other cities and towns of Canada.

BABY CARRIAGES.

—:o:—

Your baby deserves a New Carriage. The old one (that is the old carriage) is shabby and persists in running crooked. If the baby is a new baby so much the more does a new carriage complete the turnout.

A neat, well appointed carriage is an evidence of good taste. It is a credit to the family and relations. Do the folks honour and the baby justice with a new vehicle.

The more so that the new carriage, when bought from our stock, costs but a moderate amount. Dozens of styles. None too good. Some tasty and neat, some handsome and stylish. The prices match. All serviceable and durable.

WHAT HE SAW ON MARS

STRANGE FACTS ABOUT THE PLANET REPORTED FROM FLAGSTAFF.

Prof. Percival Lowell's Work Reviewed by Nature, England's Great Scientific Weekly—The Astronomer's Startling Story of a Good Summer's Work.

Students of the heavens are now looking forward with eagerness to the more detailed report of his work last summer in the observation of Mars, which Prof. Percival Lowell is soon to make. But already sufficient is known of his work and the conclusions he has reached to create even a more profound sensation in the astronomical world than did the original announcement by Schiaparelli of his discovery of canals upon the planet's surface.

The observation of Mars which Prof. Lowell has recently concluded were the most thorough and exhaustive ever made. With his assistants he confined himself exclusively to Mars during nearly the whole period of its opposition this year.

The observatory where this work was carried on is at Flagstaff, Arizona. This spot affords the very best facilities for observing the planet. So clear was the atmosphere at Flagstaff that almost every night since the beginning of June to the end of October a full and unobstructed view of Mars was had. The planet was under observation at every hour of the night and as it was in close opposition to the earth, the whole of its surface was mapped by the Flagstaff astronomers again and again.

"Most suggestive of all Martian phenomena are the canals. Were they more generally observable the world would have been spared much scepticism and more theory. They may, of course, not be artificial, but observations made at the Lowell Observatory indicate that they are. For it is one thing to see two or three canals and quite another to have the planet's surface mapped with them upon a most elaborate system of triangulation.

"In the first place, they were, at the season of writing, bluish green, of the same color as the seas into which the longer ones all eventually debouch. In the next place, they are almost without exception geodetically straight, supernaturally so, and this in spite of their leading in every possible direction.

"Then they are of apparently nearly uniform width throughout their length. What they are is another matter.

"Mr. Lowell thinks, however, that the mere aspect is enough to cause all theories about glaciation fissures or surface cracks to die an instant and natural death.

"But it is their singular arrangement that is most suggestively impressive," continues this scientific journal. "They have every appearance of having been laid out on a definite and highly economic plan. They cut up the surface of the planet into a network of triangles instantly suggestive of design.

"What is more, at each of the junctions there is apparently a dark spot. This feature seems to be invariable, as on closer approach junction after junction turns out to have one. The larger of these appear on Schiaparelli's chart as lakes. But there would seem to be a small infinity of smaller ones."

Mars has been found to be unlike the earth, in that it has no big mountain ranges. It is almost completely round like an orange. The irregularities in its surface are very slight. At the same time there is a singular rise and fall of tides upon Mars, and water seems to flow all over its surface in shallow seas, somewhere only a few feet deep.

Seas have been observed from Flagstaff to appear and disappear on Mars. The ground under the sea has been seen, showing that the water was but a few feet deep. The melting of the polar caps has been observed with the advance of summer, and what looked like fields have changed color, as if with rotating crops.

In short, Mars, it has been found, is like Holland. Its inhabitants appear to have drained nearly the whole of its surface as a measure of protection against encroaching waters, which threaten an invasion when summer's heat melts the polar ice and snow.

Mr. Lowell, moreover, has discovered extraordinary alterations in the planet's surface. He tells in detail the strange things he has seen, using the names of Martian seas and continents accepted by astronomers, and he includes in the summary of his work many of the observations made by Mr. M. A. Douglass at the same observatory.

A noteworthy feature of Mr. Lowell's report is the large area occupied by the dark regions on Mars, while those singular, tilted peninsulas that are so generally represented connecting the continents with the islands of the south are conspicuous by their absence. One continuous belt of bluish green stretches unbroken from the Hour-glass Sea to the Columns of Hercules.

Hesperia has reappeared, and it has done this in just the way to show it as land drying off by a sinking of the general water level. Simultaneously the region formerly occupied by the Polar Sea and the region to the north of it, from having been blue, has now become for the most part reddish yellow.

All parts of the surface seem to be revealed unveiled. For an aerial circulation the only supposition at all feasible is thought to be that of a heavy, nightly dew, advanced by Prof. Pickering.

There have also been observed on Mars strange irregularities or projections, or small notches. Many people thought them signals to earth. These are now supposed to be due to mountains, which are of no great height. The first of these was observed by Mr. Douglass on June 30.

He noted an especially prominent notch on August 19. It consisted of a projection flanked by a long shadow which cut into the planet obliquely. He measured the length of the shadow, and it was also studied by other observers. The measurements showed the height of this mysterious projection to be 3,700 feet.

Plateaus on Mars were observed on two occasions by Prof. Pickering. One of these lies not far from the Columns of Hercules. Both plateaus rise abruptly and they stand at a height of about 2,600 feet. Certain strange whitish patches have been observed on the planet. Those were first seen by Prof. Pickering on August 16.

Prof. Pickering called them clouds. Mr. Lowell says that these appearances were of two kinds. Certain whitish, flocculae patches not far from the pole might, he thought, be clouds, as they presented a peculiar aspect not like snow nor like the earth. If they were clouds they prove that Mars has an atmosphere.

BUYING FOR CASH ONLY.

An Antidebt Organization in Kansas and Its Benevolent Purposes.

The latest scheme to ameliorate the condition of the laboring class comes from Kansas. It is a combination against debt, and is known and incorporated in the State of Kansas as the "Cash Purchase Association." The object of the association is to form "circles," as they are termed, of not less than five and not more than twenty families, every member of which pledges himself not to ask for credit in purchasing the necessities of life, but to pay cash for every thing he buys. The members of these circles, says the Boston Transcript, are assured a liberal discount on all goods purchased, which, in a year's time, will amount to a neat sum. The discount is secured by the supreme lodge, and the claims of the association are that they can save the average family from $60 to $80 a year.

The organization has for its motto, "Owe no man anything." The financial department couples itself with securing for the members of the association a discount on all purchases at stores not doing a cash business. The discount is guaranteed to every member of the association. The educational department is to teach people how to get the greatest amount of home comforts with the smallest expenditure of money, time and labor; to inspire them with a contempt for the credit system, which, the association holds, is the greatest evil of modern times; to impart a correct idea of home life, economy, industry and sobriety.

The benevolent purposes are: The cultivation of mutual help and good neighborship; to teach kindness and assistance in times of sickness and death and to render all aid for the alleviation of the distress of a fellow member. The advantages of the benevolent idea are apparent. In times of distress the family of any member in good standing may borrow from the benevolent fund a sufficient amount of money to maintain the expenses of the household for one month; this money to be loaned without interest and to be replaced if the member ever becomes able to do so. In cases of extreme necessity a second month's supply of provisions will be furnished. It is the aim of the association to have its members carry insurance when it gets under way.

None but people who have not become so deeply involved in debt that they cannot see any way out, and who will pledge themselves to abstain from buying or asking to buy goods on credit, are eligible to membership. A membership fee of $1 is charged, and a card entitling the holder to the discounts on cash purchases is given to each member. The penalty of going into debt after once becoming a member is dismissal from the circle, to be placed in the rank of an applicant for membership. Any person twice committing the crime of getting into debt will be expelled for all time.

The Sea's Inroad on England.

An inspection of the cliff between Dover and St. Margaret's yesterday shows that an enormous slip has taken place—the largest subsidence of coast cliff, in fact, which has occurred for many years. When it happened, on Sunday, a dull roar was heard in the distance, followed by a cloud of dust from the debris, which blew across Dover Bay almost like a sea fog. There is every appearance that when the frost breaks further slips will occur, as there are several places along the cliff where there are great cracks on the top, as well as in the face of the cliff. One is right in front of the convict prison, which, in course of time, as well as the South Foreland Lighthouses and the Cornhill Coastguard Station, must stand in great danger of slipping into the sea, unless some measures are taken for the protection of the foreshore. So serious has been the effect in recent years of the encroachment of the sea that the whole line of cliff between Dover and St. Margaret's is becoming extensively honeycombed at the base.—London Telegraph.

Value of Carnival Toilets.

THE SOULS OF ANIMALS.

REV. DR. CHARLES J. ADAMS ON ANIMAL PSYCHOLOGY.

Life Study of the Brutes—He Says There is No Essential Difference Between Man and the Lower Animals—Good Stories About Dogs.

The Rev. Charles Josiah Adams, the animal psychologist of Rondout, N. Y., gave the New York Herald some most interesting information on his favorite topic, when spoken to in regard to the interest that he had awakened on the subject.

"Yes," answered Mr. Adams, "I am glad to be able to say that I have awakened interest in the matter. I have always been interested in the lower animals.

"I am naturally a lover of them. When I see them abused I feel the war spirit move in me. I came to see that most persons who are cruel to the dumb creature are so because they do not know what is in him. Most masters have no idea that they are giving pain when they kick their dogs or strike their horses. Might is self-centred. It takes a long while to see that the weak should be considered as anything else but a servant. The master often goes to great trouble to convince himself that there is a radical difference between him and his slave."

"Do you claim, Mr. Adams, as you have intimated, that there is no essential difference between man and the lower animals?" I asked.

"Yes; and I would like to make it clear why I so hold. I am conscious. But I am more than conscious; I am self-conscious. I am a person. And is not the lower animal a person, too? How does any one know that I am aware of myself as myself? I want something that somebody else has. I take the means to get it. I make my wants known. Does not the dog make his wants known? My dog Phlip, who spends the day with me in my study, wants to go out. He makes his want known by barking, by scratching at the door, by going through with his numerous tricks. Some days ago I was writing and did not pay attention to him for a considerable time. To attract my attention he did what a man or woman would have done under the circumstances—that is, he did something unusual. When a man cannot attract another's attention by ordinary means he tries extraordinary means. The extraordinary means that Phlip employed were to jump into a chair which sat at the end of my writing table and sit up. He had sat up before, of course, for to sit up is one of his tricks, but he had never jumped into that chair and sat up. Here was as certainly an appeal of his personality to my personality as it would be the appeal of the personality of my friend to my personality, did that friend change the pitch of his voice or speak in another language to attract my attention or do any other purposely extraordinary or unordinary thing to that end.

"One may be conscious, of course, without being self-conscious. But the point I make now is that in doing the unordinary thing to attract my attention Phlip proved himself to be a person—a self conscious person. When the dog wants something that the other dog has he takes measures to get it even if he has to whip the other dog—if he can. And when one gets from another being something that that other being has he proves that he feels, that he knows, that he is not the other being. It is a case of aggressive self. I have shown how Phlip is conscious of himself as another from his master. I have shown, also, how the one dog knows himself to not be the other dog. The mosquito which does not sit still and allow my hand to come down upon it proves by flying away that it knows itself to not be me. Even should I admit that it does so instinctively, simply and purely, may there not be such a thing as instinctive self-consciousness? But I have in mind two illustrations which clearly prove that the dog is conscious of self, and more than instinctively so—may on occasion take care of himself. In calling upon a professional friend the other day, in the thought that I might both instruct him and call his attention away from la grippe, from which he was suffering, I told him a story that had within the day been told me in a letter from a gentleman from the far west. There was a dog by the name of Diogenes, who had, as dogs will, become old in the lapse of years. He lay on a rug before the fire one evening. His master sat at one side of the open fire, his mistress at the other, so Diogenes was between them. The other member of the family was a boy, coming now to be a young man. He and Diogenes had been playmates when he was a boy and Diogenes was only a puppy. The master said to the wife: 'Diogenes is old. He has lost his teeth. He is full of rheumatism and fleas. He is no longer anything but a nuisance to us, and he is no comfort to himself. I think that to-morrow I'll take him to the hill back of the house and chloroform him.' Directly Diogenes got up, went to his master and rubbed his head on his master's knee. Then he went to his mistress and laid his head in her lap. Then he went to the young man and licked his hand and looked into his face again and again. Then he went to the door, opened it with his nose and passed out into the night. He did not come back that night. He did not come back the next day. They tracked him, till his tracks were lost among the number of tracks on the highway. They made inquiry for him through the neighborhood the following day. Everybody knew him, but nobody had seen him. He had gone off because the master whom he had served faithfully through the years had said that he was going to take his life. Would any one think of saying that a man who ran away to save his life was not self-conscious?

"The story attracted my friend's attention away from la grippe, but it did not instruct him. He told me a story within his own knowledge of a dog that had run away because he had heard his master say that he was going to shoot him. He who does not know that self consciousness is one of the attributes of the lower animal has never paid attention to the lower animal.

"But does the lower animal reason?" I asked.

"Unquestionably," answered Mr. Adams. "An old gentleman fell into a hole in the ground made by a tree which had lain for years and rotted away. He so fell that his arms were held by the sides of the opening to his sides. He cried out. Nobody heard him. Nobody? Yes. His dog heard him, and did something rational. The master lay in the hole with his head down hill. The dog got below him, worked his head under the head of the master, then his head and shoulders under the master's back, until the master was so raised that he could use his hands and so help himself to his feet. Could a man without arms and hands have gone about saving another man situated as this one was in a more rational way? No. The dog employed means to an end—definite means to a definite end. He reasoned."

"Do you believe in the immortality of the lower animals?" I asked.

"I will answer you as I answer all who ask me that question. I hope for the immortality of all sentient creatures—for the immortality of the sentient universe. I don't want to put myself on the level of a dog. No need of that. Then I know some dogs which I would not want to put on the level of some men I know. But some one else says:—'I do not want to have mosquitos and other disagreeable bugs and things in heaven with me.' The most disagreeable things here may be agreeable there. Then I never heard of but one person, and he was a very foolish young man, who committed suicide because the flies bothered him. But as mosquitoes are not everywhere in time, they may not be everywhere in eternity. Though the dogs are within immortality, St. John the Divine says that they are without heaven, together with some other disagreeable persons. I have no doubt that St. John means bad dogs. I know some dogs that deserve heaven more than some people I have known."

What John Wanamaker, the Most Heavily Insured man in America, Says:

(INTERVIEW WITH JOHN WANAMAKER.)

It is very generally known that Ex-Postmaster General John Wanamaker, of Philadelphia, carries the largest amount of Life Insurance of any man in the United States. A representative of the press recently interviewed this gentleman while he was travelling with the Presidential party, and this interview will be found, we believe, of general interest:—

"You are said to be the most heavily insured man in the country, Mr. Wanamaker," remarked the press representative.

"How did you come to think of that?" he said with a smile. "You are not looking for any disaster under such excellent management as our friend Boyd is giving this train and party?"

"No," I replied. "A newspaper friend in San Francisco, who had heard the report, wanted me to ask you it it was true, and if so, what your business reasons are for it?"

"Well," he modestly answered, "I have heard it stated that I am the most heavily insured man in the country. I don't know about that. The amount of my policies is $1,550,000, and the value, with the accumulations since the policies were taken out, is about two millions of dollars."

"In what class of companies are your policies?"

"They are all in stock and mutual companies, and none of them in what are known as assessment or instalment companies."

"Are they full life term policies or on what is termed the 'tontine' plan?"

"I have generally taken ten and fifteen payment policies and very few life policies. With about all good companies a contract can now be made whereby there is no risk of losing a policy after two years' premiums have been paid. If the party insured chooses to withdraw he can get a paid-up policy. Indeed, I understand that some companies have forms whereby the insurer can after one year, if desired, withdraw and receive a paid-up policy. There is practically little risk, any more, in insuring in the old companies."

"Perhaps you would be willing to tell me how you came to insure so heavily?"

"I thought the matter out, and convinced myself that it was a good business venture. Besides, it seemed to me that I might, perhaps, give away more money in lifetime if there was a fixed certainty of putting it back into my estate by Life Insurance. I conceive that the best way for a man to carry on benevolence is not to leave it to be done through his will, but to do it in his lifetime, and I felt that Life Insurance would give me more freedom in carrying out some plans I have, and which I would be glad to see completed before I leave this world. If you want to ascertain what the circumstances were in placing the Life Insurance, I must go further in my answers and say that I should not have gone so far in my Life Insurance but for the skill of the agent who tackled me to insure to a greater extent than I would otherwise have done. He was an old friend who had been in mercantile business and who knew how to present Life Insurance without boring me. I feel to-day sincerely grateful to the man who followed me so discreetly with information about companies, and who kept the subject before me until I settled the question."

"When did you begin taking Life Insurance policies?"

"My first policy was taken when I was twenty-one."

"Do you consider it a good thing for a man of small means?"

"I certainly do. Most young men spend more for cigars during the year than the annual cost of a $2,500 policy in a good company. If they must have the cigars they might divide between cigars and Life Insurance and carry at least a $1,000 policy. I think every young man, before he is married, ought to try to get at least a $1,000 policy."

"Among how many companies are your policies divided, and where are they located?"

"About forty companies. Most of them are located in the East. A few are in the West and a few in Canada."

"Do you recommend Life Insurance to others, especially those in whom you feel a personal interest?"

"I can perhaps answer that best by saying that I presented a few years ago a $1,000 policy, paid up for one year, to every insurable head of family in my employ. Many of the prudent men who received them not only kept them but added to them, and I have the satisfaction of knowing that in not a few cases those policies have been the means of saving worthy families from want."

It will doubtless be of interest to our readers to know that John Wanamaker carries a large policy in the Canada Life Insurance Company, thus evincing his confidence in the soundness of Canada's oldest and largest Company. During the last few years quite a number of American capitalists have been convinced of the SUPERIOR MERITS OF THE CANADA LIFE, and have accordingly placed their insurance therein, in preference to any other company.

The Canada Life is now being recognized in the states of Michigan, Minnesota and Ohio as the Company that gives the best results for the least premium.

Artificial Auroras.

Artificial miniature auroras of the borealis variety have been produced by both De la Rive, the French savant, and Lenstrom, the Swedish astronomer. In Professor Leustrom's experiments, which were made in Finland, the peak of a high mountain was surrounded with a coil of wire, pointed at intervals with tin nibs. The wire was then charged with electricity, whereupon a brilliant aurora appeared above the mountain in which spectroscopic analysis revealed the greenish yellow rays so characteristic of nature's display of "northern lights"—Foreign Letter.

Our Other Self.

Each of us has two selves, the higher and the lower. When God seems out of reach, as is often the case, and our prayers return to us heavier and sadder than when they left our lips, it is a good plan to commune with that alter ego which is a shade nearer the divine, that part which longs to help and to overcome, but is held down by the infirmities of the lower nature. Ask it for strength and instruction, and by so doing help the whole man. God is so often beautifully found in such ways.—American Woman's Journal.

Treatment of Shoes.

The longer leather shoes and boots are kept, provided the storing place be dark, the longer they will wear. Hence it is real economy for adults to have two or more pairs of shoes on hand at one time.

Rub the soles with a mixture of one part resin and six parts tallow, melted together. Apply this quite hot, and heat well in. The resin is a preservative, and the mixture keeps the soles from getting wet through and adds to the durability of the leather.

To Make Pure Blood

There is no medicine before the people equal to Hood's Sarsaparilla. It is the standard spring medicine and blood purifier and it possesses pecular merit which others try in vain to reach. It really makes the weak strong. Do not neglect to purify your blood this spring. Take Hood's Sarsaparilla.

Permanently Cured by Taking
AYER'S Sarsaparilla
A CAB-DRIVER'S STORY.

"I was afflicted for eight years with Salt Rheum. During that time, I tried a great many medicines which were highly recommended, but none gave me relief. I was at last advised to try Ayer's Sarsaparilla, by a friend who told me that I must purchase six bottles, and use them according to directions. I yielded to his persuasion, bought the six bottles, and took the contents of three of these bottles without noticing any direct benefit. Before I had finished the fourth bottle, my hands were as

The Electric Lamp.

The best, and, in fact, the only really efficient incandescent electric lamp of to-day is characterized by a continuous glass chamber, from which the air has been exhausted, and in which is the light-giving carbon filament, supplied with current by platinum wires, sealed in the neck of the glass bulb. This seems a simple enough contrivance, but the preparation of the materials and the putting of them together involve the greatest care, and the present high state of the art has been attained only after many years of ceaseless labor and patient effort.

The carbon filament has probably caused more work and worry than all the rest of the lamp put together. It is the essential part. Until lately the raw material for its preparation was bamboo, which was cut into thin strips and carbonized, but now some artificial compound of carbon is used, the exact nature of which is kept secret. This substance is cut into thin strips, and is carbonized by heating in a suitable furnace. These carbonized filaments are of various lengths and thicknesses, some having a diameter of only five-thousandths of an inch, and are bent into different shapes, the one most favored at present being the spiral. At the largest lamp works in the United States all the sixteen candle-power high voltage lamps—the most common size there—are now made with spiral filaments, as well as all lamps above sixteen candle-power. The more familiar "horshoe" and "hairpin" filaments, however, still have a place in the art, particularly in the smaller sized lamps. Sixteen, 20 24 and 32 candle-power 50-volt lamps are still made in plain loops, and probably always will be.—J. H. Cunts in Cassier's Magazine.

Coffee as a Germicide.

Coffee has been found by a German investigator to possess marked germicidal properties. Pure coffee of the ordinary strength in which it is utilised as a beverage killed cholera bacilli in three hours and typhus bacilli in twenty-four hours. The anti-bacterial substances seem to be developed in the coffee bean by the roasting process.

About Our Eyes.

As a result of the examination of four thousand eyes, Dr. Miles, of Bidgeport, Ct., found that sixty-five per cent. required glasses. The women and girls far exceed the men and boys. The period during which the people have the most trouble with their eyes is between twenty and thirty.

Flashes By Wire.

Great Britain will send her channel squadron to the Kiel naval parade with which the North Sea and Baltic canal will be opened in June.

A Quebec post office employee was arrested yesterday afternoon on a charge of having robbed money letters. He has been suspected for the last two years Search at his residence resulted in finding $1,900 hidden in a tin box.

Eating a Pineapple.

There has been much written and said about how to eat an orange, but never a word as to how to eat a pineapple, until now. The Florida Dispatch says: "As it is with a roast of beef so with the pineapple; no one would think of cutting a roast of beef with the grain and expect to have a tender roast. The pineapple has a fiber running from center to circumference, and to have it tender it should be nicely pared and all the eyes cut out, as there is a sharp spear like a nettle in each eye or cavity where the seed forms, and often, in eating the pine those nettles pierce the tongue and lips and make the mouth sore. After it is nicely pared then slice the pine vertically; keep turning the apple and slicing off the outside until the core is reached, and then you can eat the fruit without fear of sore mouth and it will be tender and juicy and luscious, as you have cut across the fiber."

Coughs, colds, sore throats, asthma, bronchitis, and all lung troubles are quickly cured by Hagyard's Pectoral Balsam.

THE SAWDUST QUESTION

Chaudiere Lumbermen Declare They Will Not Burn It.

THEY WILL IGNORE THE LAW

If the Citizens Do Not Object They Think No One Else Will—Their Mills Not Built in Such a Way as to Enable Them to Burn Their Sawdust.

Ottawa, March 18.—Though W. C. Edwards & Co. are putting in sawdust carriers and an incinerater, the lumbermen at the Chaudiere will not do so. The position they are in was put in this way by one of the mill owners yesterday: "We will not burn our sawdust. The fact is, as we have already stated, we cannot. Our mills are not built in a way to permit us to do so and to get them in the necessary shape would cost as much nearly as rebuilding. If we had to do that we would prefer to do it up the river and nearer our limits." "How about this summer?" he was asked. "Will you saw after the first of May when the new Act goes into effect?" "Yes. If we are running before the 1st of May we will keep on till some citizen complains and causes us to be stopped. It all depends on the citizens. If they do not object no one else will and I don't think the people want to see the mills stopped and the men out of work." "But what about the Government, will they not enforce the Act?" "As I understand it, no. The Act is there, but, like a good many others, will not be pushed by the Government unless somebody urges them to it." Mr. Edwards said that if he was a Chaudiere mill man he would leave and build elsewhere rather than put in an incinerater.

FOURTEEN CUTS ON HIS HEAD.

Doctors Agree That They Could Not Possibly Have Been Caused by a Tree.

St. Thomas, March 18.—The evidence adduced yesterday was principally relative to the insurance upon deceased's life and the examination of the medical gentlemen who made the post-mortem. On court resuming, His Lordship gave judgment rejecting the evidence of Patrick Delina Fitzpatrick, a worthless character, upon whose life Hendershott tried to place a risk, but was unsuccessful.

Gilbert Roache, insurance agent, deposed as to the placing of the $5,000 risk in the Mutual Reserve Fund upon deceased's life.

Dr. C. B. Duncombe swore that Hendershott was with deceased when he examined him for the insurance.

Dr. F. Lawrence made the post-mortem and several hours were taken up in his examination. There were fourteen cuts in all upon deceased's head which could not possibly be caused by a tree but could be by the back of an axe. Mr. Osler said he would produce the skull of deceased, but to this the defence entered an emphatic protest, and decision was reserved by His Lordship.

The court room was packed and many were unable to gain admittance.

In the afternoon the medical testimony occupied nearly the entire time of the session. The following doctors were called for the Crown: E. W. Gustin, D. McLarty, W. E. Smith, Robt. Kains, Jas. Fulton, C. Duncombe, S. Day, St. Thomas; John Cascaden, Dutton; Dr. Brock, Bismarck; C. C. Sinclair and Dr. Kingston, Aylmer. They were unanimous in their opinion that the wounds upon the head of the deceased could not have been caused by the falling tree. Mr. Macdonald cross-examined them all, but failed to shake their testimony. Their evidence closed the case for the Crown and the defence began their side of the case this morning at 9.35.

WALKER LIBERATED.

The Crown Had Not Sufficient Evidence to Detain Him.

Brampton, March 13.—After an incarceration of a year and three months Walker, the alleged accomplice in crime of MacWherrel, is now a free man. He was liberated at the opening of the assizes here by Mr. Justice MacMahon at the instance of the Crown. Mr. McFadden, the Crown Attorney, stated he had not sufficient evidence to offer on the charge on which Walker has been held.

Five Years for the Daylight Robber.

Toronto, March 18.—On the afternoon of February 25 last, the tobacco store of Lena Webber, at 185½ Queen street west, was entered by two men, who attacked her and robbed her of $30. The young woman told the story of the robbery in the police court yesterday and positively identified Cusack as one of the men. She said that he seized her by the throat, and with his companion dragged her into a passage-way. Then $30 in bills, silver and coppers were taken. "I didn't miss the coppers until after the detectives were there," remarked Miss Webber, and the court room smiled. Cusack tried to prove an alibi, but Magistrate Denison did not see the case in the way the prisoner wished, and despite Lawyer DuVernet's efforts he sentenced him to five years in the penitentiary.

Mr. W. A. Ogilvie Safe.

Ottawa, March 18.—W. A. Ogilvie, the well-known Dominion Land Surveyor, who has been in the Yukon district for some months past, has reached Port Townsend, Washington Territory, and is now in British Columbia. As Mr. Ogilvie has not been heard of for some time there had been some doubt expressed in the press as to his safety, although the Department here entertained no such fears. Mr. Ogilvie's mission to the Yukon was to look into the question of collecting customs dues and to obtain other information which the Government desire in regard to the country. He is expected to reach Ottawa in a week.

Made Her Will on Both Sides of a Slate.

Hamilton, March 18.—Lawyer Patten has applied for papers of administration in the case of Margaret Jane Stenabough, a spinster, late of Ancaster Township, who bequeaths property valued at $1,926, principally to Miss Simth, who lived with her. It is probable the relatives of Miss Stenabough will contest the will, as it was written on both sides of a slate shortly before Miss Stenabough died.

Minard's Liniment is used by physicians.

Orange Grand Lodge in Session.

St. Catharines, March 18.—The Grand Orange Lodge of Ontario West began its annual session in the court house here yesterday afternoon, there being a very large number of delegates present. Grand Master J. L. Hughes, of Toronto, is presiding. After an afternoon of strictly business the meeting adjourned at 4 o'clock. In the evening the many visiting delegates, together with the members of the local lodges, attended divine service in St. Thomas' church. Rev. William Walsh, Grand Chaplain, delivered a splendid discourse, dealing with matters of peculiar interest to the Orange fraternity in the many phases of its life. The local brethren are to entertain their guests tomorrow morning with a trip to Niagara Falls via the Niagara Central. A special train of the company's handsomest cars is to be at the service of the delegates. The session will continue at least until to-morrow evening.

Accepts the Call to London.

Lindsay, March 18.—A meeting of the Lindsay Presbytery was held here yesterday to decide the question of the translation of Rev. R. Johnston, B.A., from St. Andrew's Church, Lindsay, to St. Andrew's Church, London. Very powerful reasons were advanced by the Lindsay congregation why Mr. Johnston should not be taken from them, while the London delegation advanced equally strong arguments why the translation should be made. After hearing both sides of the question Mr. Johnston has decided to accept the call to London. This is the second minister which Lindsay has sent to the same church in London.

Looking For Wrecks.

Halifax, March 18.—The Government steamer Newfield will sail for Sable Island to-morrow morning should the weather be favorable to see if there are any wrecks there.

Appointed Governor of East Africa.

Berlin, March 18.—The Tagezeitung announces that Baron von Wisaman, the African explorer, has been appointed Governor of East Africa.

Telegraphic Briefs.

Hon. Sir Thos. McIlwraith, ex-Premier of Queensland is dangerously ill in London.

Dr. Sproule was yesterday selected by the Conservatives of East Grey to again contest that riding in the coming Dominion elections.

The youngest son of Mr. H. J. Sirret, of North Cardwell, was yesterday morning burned to death by a fire which totally destroyed his residence.

The first two of the transports having on board the advance guard of the French expedition to Madagascar have arrived at Majunga on the southwest coast of the island.

The Ex-Queen Sentenced to Five Years.

Victoria, B. C., March 18.—Advices from Honolulu confirm the previous reports that the ex-Queen has been sentenced to five years' imprisonment. Leading Royalists are organizing for annexation. The military commission has disposed of all cases to come before it and there has been a general release of unconvicted prisoners. Martial law has been relaxed and will soon be declared at an end.

FINANCE AND COMMERCE

TORONTO, March 18, 1895.

Street prices are wheat, 65½c; barley, 49 to 49½c; peas, 60½c; oats, 33c.

On the London stock exchange Grand Trunks rallied smartly on the issue of Mr. Barker's report, but closed much under the best.

Buffalo barley market is easier on all grades. Buyers do not seem to want much more and several lots previously held out of the market are being offered. No. 1 Canada 65c; No. 2, 63c; No. 3 extra 59 to 61c.

When business began yesterday morning on the Chicago Board of Trade May wheat opened at 56⅝, an advance of just two cents over the closing price yesterday. The shorts were set wild and on investment buying the price was rapidly bid up to 57½c for May, an advance of nearly 3 cents. It declined at the close to 56⅝c. There was not much wheat for sale.

Canada products on the Buffalo market yesterday were rather scant. The big break in eggs has stopped importations and it is not likely that many eggs will be sent from Canada until prices advance. The supply was heavy and values still lower. Strictly fresh in cases sold at 14c wholesale. Butter is steady and unchanged, top prices for fancy creamery 20c from wholesalers. Potatoes continue active and one or two cars of Canadas were amongst the receipts, good demand. Fancy white, 62c; good to choice, 56 to 58c; red and mixed, 52 to 56c per bushel in car lots and from store 62 to 65c by the load. Apples are a little weaker under more liberal supplies; fair to fancy, $3 to $4.50; common, $1.50 to $2. Cabbage, $5 to $7 per 100; imported, 2 to 2½c per lb.

A CHANGE OF POLICY

The Government Now Selling Timber Limits at Auction.

CANADA AND NEWFOUNDLAND

The French Shore Dispute Should be Settled Before the Incorporation of Newfoundland with Canada —The Colony is in a Bad Way Financially.

Ottawa, March 13.—A series of timber limits amounting to 60,000 square miles was held to-day by the Dominion Government in the rotunda of the Russell House, and $21,000 realized. It is interesting to contrast this with the former policy of the Government in refusing to put up timber limits at public auction. They preferred to give them away to their political friends for a nominal sum on private application and it was this policy which led to so many scandals and finally to the expulsion of J. C. Rykert from the House of Commons. The practice was for a member of Parliament to apply on behalf of himself and his friends or sometimes on behalf of others alone, and the Department of the Interior concluded the arrangement, of which the general public were in total ignorance. These limits, obtained for a song in this way, were afterwards disposed of, many of them, for large sums to the profit of the private persons, and to the loss of the public. The Liberals protested for many years against this system, and moved many resolutions in Parliament declaring that these limits should be put up at public auction, the same as was done by the Ontario Government. The sale to-day only gives the right of cutting timber on the limit for ten years, after which it reverts to the Crown. Under the old system, which the Liberals so vigorously attacked, instead of $21,000 going into the public exchequer, a few hundreds only would have been exacted. This shows that the Liberals by breaking down the old system and compelling the Government to sell their limits by public auction have rendered a distinct public service, and it also shows as an example in how many ways the Liberals if in power would conserve the public interest instead of showing gross favoritism to a few political friends. This is just one of the differences between the two parties.

Juggling With Justice.

To hear the new Minister of Justice on the stump boasting that the Conservative party always deals out even-handed justice, one would think that he and his colleagues were paragons of virtue, but tested by the actual facts they are shown to be hypocrites of the worst kind. A poor fellow in one of the penitentiaries had been very sick for some time, and although every effort had been made to obtain his release it was not until about a month ago that Sir Hibbert Tupper, acting on a report that the man was on his deathbed, authorized his release, but the day before the pardon reached the prison the unfortunate fellow died. Some will remember the case of Donald Morrison, who under a mistaken idea that he could defend his farm with a gun against a sheriff's officer, committed what was technically manslaughter. After serving many years in the penitentiary the Scottish societies took up his case and urged his release, but in vain, until the last moment, when he was dying, the Department of Justice ordered his release, but he died next day in the Montreal hospital. Contrast these and similar cases with the treatment meted out to Messrs. McGreevy and Connolly, who were convicted of stealing one million dollars from the taxpayers of this country by the connivance of their friends in the Government. Their sentence was made very light, only 12 months, but the Department of Justice ordered their release when they had been confined three months. Although they were living on meals supplied from the best hotel in the city, drinking the best of liquors, and living in all respects except that of liberty the same as ever, they were released, forsooth, because their health was endangered if they were kept in prison any longer. When they came out they were as sleek and fat as when they went in, and if the Government had waited until the physician could report that they were real sick, they would have waited a long time. However, we must not blame the Cabinet, members of which visited the prisoners in jail, for releasing their fellow conspirators.

The Newfoundland Question.

The report from St. Johns, Newfoundland, that a delegation is coming to Ottawa from the Government of that colony to negotiate terms for its entry into the Confederation is a repetition of a similar report sent out some months ago from the same place, and may be taken with a grain of salt. No communication has been received in Ottawa from that Government, and one would think that they would at least wait until they were invited before they came, at least this is what Premier Bowell said in effect when referring to the first report of the same kind, about two months ago. Certainly the Bowell Ministry has its hands full at present in trying to preserve its own existence, and have no desire to begin an important negotiation such as the taking in of Newfoundland. Public opinion in Canada is averse to the incorporation of Newfoundland until the French shore question is settled between the British and French Governments, because if we are to have a question between the French Government and the British Government thrown into the arena of Canadian politics it would complicate matters considerably. The majority of the people of Newfoundland are opposed to Confederation and that is another reason why the present time is inopportune for the consummation of that which will undoubtedly become an accomplished fact some day in the near future. Then the colony is at present in a totally bankrupt condition, financially, and ship loads of provisions and supplies are going there every fortnight to relieve the starving people. For example, a report from one single parish states that forty families there are starving, and there was nothing to give them. In St. Johns, the chief place of the colony, it is said that there are 2,800 families in distress relying upon the relief committee. The despatch as to a delegation leaving for Ottawa is, however, unreliable. For instance it says that one of the proposals is to be that Canada shall send a commission to investigate the affairs of the colony and the civil service, a most unlikely arrangement. It is safe to say that most of the despatch is a bogus one but the advocates of confederation down there have got control of the local press and of the telegraphic channels of news.

Dairymen's Convention at Kincardine.

Kincardine, March 14.—The Dairymen's Association of Western Ontario held a successful district convention here yesterday afternoon and evening. There was a large representation of farmers from North Bruce, the hall being well filled. In the absence of Mayor Tolmie, of Kincardine, ex-Mayor Barker welcomed the association to the town. At the afternoon meeting addresses were delivered by J. W. Wheaton, of London, secretary of the association, J. S. Pearce, London, and Wm. Dickson, Attwood. Prof. Dean also gave a short address. In the evening addresses were given by Prof. Dean, of the Ontario Agricultural College, W. C. Shearer Bright and others. The convention in many respects was equal to any of its kind held by the association. It will serve to create a new interest in dairying and to promote a better quality of dairy produce in this district.

Liberal Meeting at Lorette.

Quebec, March 14.—Hon. Mr. Laurier, Mr. Fremont, M.P., and Mr. Fitzpatrick, M.P.P., and a large number of Liberal politicians met at Lorette yesterday. After the usual introduction by the Mayor, Hon. Mr. Laurier opened the meeting with a speech in favor of Mr. Fremont, the present member for Quebec county. "Reciprocity with the United States is desirable some times," said Mr. Laurier, "considering the failure of our agricultural products." He criticized the Conservative tariff policy, making an onslaught on protection on behalf of the farming class. Messrs. Fremont and Fitzpatrick and Senator Pelletier followed in the same tone as Mr. Laurier.

North Simcoe Farmers' Institute.

Nottawa, March 14.—The meeting held at Nottawa yesterday under the auspices of North Simcoe Farmers' Institute was well attended and a lively discussion followed each address. The subject of orchard cultivation and grafting was introduced by Mr. G. C. Caston, of Craighurst, followed by Mr. W. Marshall and Mr. Watts, of Nottawa, and that of dairying by Mr. J. W. Steinhoff, of Sebringville. The manner in which these subjects were discussed showed that the farmers in the neighborhood are realizing the importance of these two branches and are giving them especial attention.

Cut Off the Air Brakes.

Niagara Falls, N.Y., March 14.—The police have under arrest here Wilson Simes, a young railroad engineer, who is charged with cutting off the air brakes between the engine tender and baggage car of a West Shore passenger train after it had started south from the Suspension bridge yards early yesterday morning. The train was stopped just in time to prevent a serious collision. Railroad engineers say that a gang of men, evidently bent on train wrecking, have been practising this trick for the past three months between this city and Tonawanda. The matter is being investigated.

Lac Train Wrecker Caught.

Windsor, March 14.—Wm. Lauson, a harmless looking Frenchman, was brought into Magistrate Bartlett's private office yesterday in charge of a constable. He admitted that he placed the steel rail on the Grand Trunk railway Saturday morning. He did not know that only by the lucky arrival of a special freight train the midnight express had narrowly escaped being wrecked. He pleaded guilty. A dozen Frenchmen, on hand to speak a good word for him, said he was subject to fits of insanity. He was let go on suspended sentence.

Mr. Masson Did Not Accept.

Owen Sound, March 14.—The Conservatives of North Grey have convened another convention for Tuesday next for the purpose of selecting a candidate for the Commons. At a convention held on February 9, Mr. James Masson, M.P., secured a majority of the delegates, but not having accepted the nomination a second convention has been called.

MOB RULE OUT WEST

An Angry Mob of Miners Thirsting for Blood.

ITALIANS SHOT IN REVENGE

The Mob Break Into the Jail and Lynch a German Prisoner—Great Excitement Prevails—A Boy Unintentionally Killed by the Crowd.

Denver, March 14.—Mob rule has reigned among the miners in the coal camps of Huerfano county since Sunday night and seven of their victims—all Italians—have been slain by bullets from the mob's Winchesters. Four Italians were killed from ambush while being taken prisoners in a waggon to the jail at Walsenberg after the coroner's commitment for complicity in the murder of Abner J. Hixon, a temperance saloon keeper at Rouse. An American boy who was driving the waggon was unintentionally killed by the fusillade of bullets. Before daylight this morning a mob of miners and citizens of Walsenberg gathered outside the jail where two of the Italians were confined, and got inside by a pretense and killed both the prisoners.

It is reported that the same mob, thirsting for more blood later took out of the jail a German charged with rape and killed him. During the excitement two other prisoners escaped.

Rouse, Col., March 14.—The excitement attending the shooting of the Italian prisoners has subsided considerably. The situation was quiet here. There was no indication of trouble at the time they left and the news of the shooting created surprise and great excitement. The prisoners were in charge of Deputies Danford and Harriman and Driver Joseph Welsby. They started at six o'clock in the evening. When on a bridge less than a mile from Walsenberg six masked men rode up and ordered the driver to stop, the deputies to hold up their hands and the prisoners to get out.

INTERNATIONAL COMPLICATIONS.

Three That Will Demand the Attention of the President.

Washington, March 14.—The United States Government finds itself to-day with the promise of three international complications on its hands, all of which have developed within the past twenty-four hours. No action of a positive character has yet been taken with reference to the reported firing on the American steamship Alliance by a Spanish warship. The Spanish Minister, Senor Muruaga, called upon Acting Secretary Uhl yesterday morning and informally gave assurance of prompt explanation and reparation if wrong had been done. The merits of the case are involved in the question whether the Spanish warship had the right to stop the Alliance in the belief that she was conveying aid to the insurgents, and the further question whether, granting the right of the Spaniard to order her to heave to, Capt. Crossman was justified in imperilling his ship by not obeying him.

The killing of Italians at Walsenberg, Col., is regarded as a most unfortunate sequel to the Mafia riots in 1890. The Marquis Imperial, first Secretary of the Italian Embassy, called at the State Department yesterday and presented a despatch saying that four Italians had been killed by a mob at Walsenberg. The Marquis asked that the Federal Government take steps to secure the safety of other Italians. Mr. Uhl promised to do so and sent a telegram to the Governor of Colorado asking what measures had been taken to ensure compliance with the request of the Italian Government. After the telegram was sent news of the killing of another Italian at Walsenberg was received by Mr. Uhl.

To those causes of international trouble, the serious wounding of the British Purser Bain at New Orleans, and the still pending interruption of British commerce at that port and a third difficulty of no slight dimensions. All of them will demand the President's attention on his return.

WHAT CHINA WILL CONCEDE.

An Indemnity and Her Islands to Japan, But Nothing in Manchuria.

London, March 14.—The Standard's Berlin correspondent says: China easily will agree to pay the indemnity and is willing to surrender her islands to Japan's demands, including Formosa, if France consents, but she will absolutely refuse to grant anything in Manchuria. A special envoy has induced the Czar to oppose such a proposal on Japan's part. The correspondent confirms the report that China has offered to concede territory to Russia but says the details of the bargain will be kept a secret for the present.

ROSEBERY WILL RESIGN.

Parliament Will Be Dissolved Immediately After Easter.

London, March 14.—Lord Rosebery, owing nominally to the present state of his health, has determined to place his resignation in the Queen's hands. It is expected that dissolution of Parliament will take place immediately after the Easter recess.

Chinese Officials Terrified.

Shanghai, March 14.—The high Chinese officials have been terrified by the fall of Wei-Hai-Wei and New-Chwang. Seeing nothing to stop an immediate advance upon Pekin they are hurrying thence by the wholesale, deserting their posts in the wildest panic. The Japanese squadron of 16 warships and cruisers has been sighted off North Formosa hovering along the coast between Kilung and Tamsui which evidently are destined to be first attacked. The garrisons number 20,000 and the Japanese probably will adopt their previous tactics of a combined land and sea attack. They probably will disembark marines between Tamsui and Kilung.

THE ATTACK ON THE PATRONS.

It is easy to see why the Conservatives are more vicious and violent towards the Patrons now than at the time of the Provincial elections. The reforms on which the Patrons insist in their printed platform are reforms of abuses, represented by the Conservative platform. The Patron movement, not of intention, but of necessity, is directed against the Conservative party, because the policy of that party is contrary to what the Patrons think is in the interests of the country. The main planks of the Patron platform are directed against the policy of the Conservatives; and that, in this respect, the Patron policy is practically identical with that of the Liberal party, is the fault—if fault it be—of the facts and not of either the Liberals or Patrons. That the Conservative party, as a party, has no love for the Patrons, is shown by the anxiety of the Conservative organs and orators to place the Patrons in a false position. The Hamilton Spectator and other rabid organs of its kidney, insist that "the Patrons have now taken their place as an annex of the Mowat Government." This is as untrue as it is unjust and and unfair. This charge is, doubtless, founded upon the fact that the Patrons voted with the Mowat Government on the buncombe motion of Dr. Willoughby in reference to the fees question. To any one more capable than the organs of distinguishing and appreciating independent political action, this vote is a proof of the independence of the Patrons. In voting as they did, to the superficial observer, the Patrons were voting against something upon which they have very strong convictions. But this they did not do. With a laudable appreciation of fair play they voted against a clap-trap motion, intended to embarass the government, and to trap the Patrons into recording a partisan vote. The merits of the question were not (in view of the pending report of the Fees Commission and the government's position) involved in Dr. Willoughby's motion. He knew, and the Patrons knew, that the government contemplated dealing with the fees question on the basis of the report of a commission which had not yet reported. Under such circumstances the Patrons would have been as guilty as the "orthodox" Opposition if they had pursued a course that would have deprived the house of the important information, the report of the Fees Commission contained and had committed themselves to the consequences of a snap verdict. No; the Patrons acted in a straight-forward and honourable manner in their vote on Dr. Willoughby's motion. If, regardless of fair play and honest considerations, they had voted as solidly with the Opposition, they would have been blameable in this that they would have thereby made themselves parties to an arrangement for the violation of a declared policy of the Patrons, that their existence as a party is, not for the purpose of defeating governments, but to give effect to their views by honest and legitimate methods.

QUERIES.

The Montreal Gazette is compiling an N. P. catechism, and the faithful organs publish scraps of it from time to time. The Montreal Herald, after the manner of the Gazette, but with a great difference in the matter, propounds the following queries:

Will the National Policy shortly enable the farmers of the Northwest to export "640,000,000" of No. 1 hard?

Will it ever again gives us $1 a bushel for our wheat?

Will it shortly "plant forests of chimneys on the banks of the Grand River?"

Will it shortly "give employment to 300,000 stalwart iron workers?"

Will it shortly enable some manufacturer to live without protection?

Will it shortly give the Canadian consumer his necessaries at prices as cheap as obtain in other countries?

Will it settle the Northwest with teeming millions?

Will it shortly enable us to deposit to the National credit the small sum of "$58,000,000 as the proceeds of the sale of lands in the Northwest?"

If not shortly, when we may expect to do these things, long since pledged to be among the first fruits?

WHEN the Protestant Protective Association was making itself intensely active against Sir Oliver Mowat last year, it was freely predicted by the Liberals that the association would be mild enough when the Dominion elections came off. And mild enough it is, sure enough, remarks the Brantford Expositor. So far as the election campaign is concerned no one would ever know that there is such a society in existence. The Rev. Joseph Madill, who a year ago was flitting about all over Ontario, stirring up bad blood for election purposes, has disappeared from public view. As no one has taken up his work, so much the better for the country, and what about the dread of Catholic domination? And what about the safety of the Manitoba school system at this crisis? If the P.P.A. does not come to the rescue, there will be hard to convince the public that it was ever organized for the purpose of assisting Sir Oliver Mowat's government out of office.

Thirty-three Years Without Food.

A queer story, and one which readers would do well to thoroughly salt (give it more than the proverbial grain) before swallowing, comes with first class recommendation all the way from England. Thirty-three years ago, in 1860, a member of the Chaplin family died at Blankney, Lincolnshire, and was laid in the family tomb. This particular Chaplin was a naturalist, and among his other pets had a large gray bat. That bat was permitted to enter the tomb and was sealed up alive along with the corpse of his dead master. In 1866 the vault was opened, and to the surprise of all the bat was alive and fat. On four different occasions since the Chaplins have looked after the welfare of their dead relative's pet, and each time it has been reported that the bat was still in the land of the living, although occupying quarters with the dead. He was last seen in 1892.—St. Louis Republic.

Feather Trimming.

The great controversy over the wearing of feathers is developing considerable heat. There is no appreciable effect yet of the pleas on behalf of the bright plumaged birds. The hat boxes of the Princess of Wales have just been peeped into, and what was seen there may have an important influence on a large number. On the hats recently made for the princess and her daughters there are many feathers, but we are told there are none except from birds which are used for human food. Most of the hats are of the half Alpine shape, now coming into fashion. One of the neatest contained black cock's tail feathers. A little color has been introduced, showing that the princess is bringing her mourning to a close.—London Correspondent.

A New Steel Process.

A new method of producing steel has been suggested to M. Jules Garnier by M. Moissan's diamond making experiments. He claims that it is successful. The steel is instantaneously made by placing a bar of iron and a stick of charcoal together in a parallel direction in an electrical firebrick furnace of a temperature of 1,000 degrees and subjecting them to a strong current. M. Jules Garnier expects that his discovery will revolutionize the steel industry.—Exchange.

GALWAY.

On Sunday, Feb. 24th, in the R. C. church, Bobcaygeon, the Rev. Father Nolan, P. P., united in marriage Mr. Thos. Cahill and Mrs. M. Roach. Mr. Jas. McGuire supported the groom, while Miss L. Clouston assisted the bride. The young couple receive the earnest wishes of their many friends for a happy and prosperous life.

On Monday, Feb. 25th, another one of those happy events took place at the R. C. Church, Galway, when the Rev. Father Nolan, P.P., united in the holy bonds of matrimony, Miss Katie Cain of this place with Mr. John Owens, of Eanismore. The groom was supported by Mr. Carlin of Eanismore while Miss M. E. Pearson assisted the bride. After the nuptial knot was tied, the happy couple returned to the residence of the bride's mother, where a sumptuous dinner was served. In the evening a large number of guests assembled to celebrate the occasion, and Mr. and Mrs. Owens exercised their entertaining power in a very skilful manner. All enjoyed a very pleasant evening. Mr. and Mrs. Owens will take up their future home in Eanismore, and their many friends tender their sincerest wishes for a happy and prosperous life.

Miss Maggie Flaherty, who for the last few years has been living in Lockport, N.Y., is now visiting her parents in this place, and as Miss Flaherty is a great favourite in social circles a hand of welcome is extended to her by all her friends.

Messrs. Jas. Allen and Jas. Hickey, who for the past five months have been engaged in lumbering in Parry Sound district, have recently returned home. They speak highly of the manner in which they were used by their western friends, and indeed their appearance bears out this favourable opinion.

As Swamp Lake forms the dumping ground of the logs in the immediate vicinity, it presents to the observing eye a scene of activity, courage and energy on the part of the farmers bearing timber to its waters. Going a few miles south on the outlet of Nogey Creek are to be seen extending for miles, huge masses of Hemlock logs. These also are the labours of individual farmers. Observing more closely, the absence of pine is very conspicuous, notwithstanding we are in a pinery. How is this to be accounted for? Is it because sufficient pay is not warranted for the preparation of the pine for market?

Although the hauling of telegraph poles is not carried on so extensively as last year, still the yards at the village are gradually filling up and what may lack in quantity will be made up in quality.

As Mrs. T. Peacock, who has lately come to our midst, has been called away to attend to her mother, who is seriously ill, much sympathy is extended to Mr. Peacock for the great responsibility again thrown on his shoulders during this severe weather.

Mrs. Ed Allen, Sr., and her son Robert, are visiting friends in Peterborough, and its immediate vicinity.

Mr. Daniel Flaherty, accompanied by his bride, returned to this township, where he intends to remain for some time.

Council Meeting.

Moved by John Gilmore and M. Collins that in the opinion of the council, the repairs made to the burnt dam at foot of Swamp Lake, in the township of Galway, are not sufficient to render the dam of any use to the public and that the prayer of the petitioners be granted in rebuilding said dam; that a copy of this resolution be sent to Mr. J. R. Stratton, M.P.P., to urge on the Commissioner to have said dam rebuilt—Carried. Moved by Jas. Allen and Geo. McKee that the time for collecting taxes be extended to 1st April; that the reeve attend to the adjourned land sale and purchase lots under chapter 93, section 170, R. S. O.—Carried. Moved by G. McKee and Jas. Allen that the clerk notify all pathmasters on boundaries to appropriate the proceeds of all saleable timber on road allowances for the purpose of repairing roads—Carried. Moved by Jas. Allen and John Gilmore that the following accounts be paid and that the clerk and reeve sign orders for the same:—Registering births, marriages and deaths, $4.20; M. Cain, statute labour for Gilmore & Co., $3.00; M. O'Brien, statute labour for Gilmore & Co., $3.00; Mountany & Thompson, statute labour for Geo. Reid, $4.00; auditors, T. White and J. Doherty, $3.00 each, $6.00; Geo. McKee, council fees up to date, $2.50; Thos. R. White, for selectiong jurors, $1.25—Carried. Council adjourned to meet on first Tuesday of June.

REV. DR. D. G. SUTHERLAND DEAD.

Brief Biography and Sketch of a Successful Ministerial Career — Succumbs After Long Illness.

Rev. Donald Geo. Sutherland, M.A., LL. B., DD., pastor of Central Methodist church, Bloor street, Toronto, died at the parsonage, Gwynne street, at 10.30 Tuesday evening. Dr. Sutherland entered the pastorate of Central church July, 1893. In September of the same year he was stricken with typhoid fever, which confined him to his home until spring, when he was ordered by his physicians to Clifton Springs. Returning he assumed the work of his pastorate, but was again taken seriously ill, and when Conference met in June last, Rev. V. H. Emory was appointed associate pastor. Hopes were entertained of his ultimate recovery, until two weeks ago, when a change came, and he gradually sank, until his death last night.

The deceased minister was a son of the late Capt. Sutherland, who was killed in the Desjardins Canal accident in 1857. He was born in Toronto, on April 13th, 1839. Receiving his education in Victoria University, he commenced the practice of law in partnership with Wm. Laxier, Q. C., in Hamilton, in 1862. A year later, he entered the ministry of the Methodist church, and was ordained by Rev. Morley Punshon.

He received his M. A. and LL. B. from Toronto University, and his B. D. and D. D. from Victoria.

Dr. Sutherland was one of the most scholarly men and successful pastors in the Methodist connection. He travelled extensively through the Orient, an account of his trip being published in the Methodist Magazine, in 1881. In 1872 he married Helena, daughter of Hon. J. C. Aikins, who, with four children, one son and three daughters, survive him.

It is not to be wondered at, that Ayer's Pills are in such universal demand. For the cure of constipation, biliousness, or any other complaint needing a laxative, these pills are unsurpassed. They are sugar-coated, easy to take, and every dose is effective.

Catarrh Relieved in 10 to 60 Minutes

One short puff of the breath through the Blower, supplied with each bottle of Dana's Catarrhal Powder, diffuses this Powder over the surface of the nasal passages. Painless and delightful to use, it relieves instantly, and permanently cures Catarrh Hay Fever, Colds, Headache, Sore Throat, Tonsilitis and Deafness. 60 cents. "As" by H. S. Macdonald.

Sallow complexion, blotches, pimples, ulcerations, eruptions, scrofula and skin diseases depend on impure vitiated blood. Burdock Blood Bitters purifies the blood, removes all effete matter and cures all the above named diseases.

NORWOOD NEWS NOTES.

(From our own Correspondent.)

Miss Alma Hammond, Orillia, who has been spending a few weeks here with her sister, Mrs. F. Fry, returned home Tuesday morning.

A number of people from here attended the funeral of the late Mr. W. B. Carmichael.

Mr. Jas. Masterson is seriously ill at his home in Percy.

Mr. Wm. Gebbie, who has been attending the High School here, left for the Western States this week.

Mr. Ed. Zufeldt has returned to Norwood, having secured a position with Mr. Wm. Bailie.

The firm of Fraser & Foster has been dissolved and the hardware business is now entirely in the hands of Mr. D. A. Fraser.

The funeral of the late Mrs. Stent, Toronto, eldest daughter of the late Wm. Sedgwick, was held here on Tuesday. The remains arrived on the noon train and were conveyed to the Methodist church where an appropriate service was held by Rev. Jas. Anderson. The remains were then taken to Norwood cemetery, followed by a large number of friends and relatives of deceased. Mrs. Stent was well known in Norwood, having resided here for a number of years.

A number of the members of the Methodist Sunday School and Epworth League, gathered at the residence of Mrs. Thos. Howson, Tuesday evening to hold a farewell social in honour of Mr. and Mrs. Ben Howson, who are about to remove to Asphodel. Refreshments were provided to which ample justice was done. The evening was spent in games and other amusements, Mrs. Howson was an active worker in the Sabbath school and in the Epworth League and her presence will be greatly missed.

A meeting of the council was held in the clerk's office on Monday evening, all the members present. The contracts for supplying lumber to the corporation were let to Thos. Wallar, Samuel Scott and Jerry Murphy. No other business was done.

At a meeting of the Norwood Lodge, I. O. O. F., held Tuesday evening last, the following resolution of condolence was carried unanimously: Moved by Bro. Stuart, P.G., seconded by Bro. Hoffstetter: "That we, the members of Norwood Lodge, No. 262, I. O. O. F., have heard with very great regret of the death of Mrs. Eli Gear, mother of our respected brother, Mr. E. Gear, P. G., and desire to convey to him our deepest compassion in the sad loss he has sustained and to assure him that he has our heartfelt sympathy in this hour of his sad affliction; and that the secretary be instructed to forward a copy of this resolution to Bro. Gear under the seal of the Lodge."

The regular monthly meeting of the School Board was held Monday evening last, the following members being present: W. E. Roxburg, chairman; W. H. Stephenson, secretary; Thos. Cuthbertson, T. Fraser, T. Rork, Jas. Raddon, A. R. Anderson, Wm. Webster, W. Brethen and Dr Pettigrew.

The minutes of the last regular meeting were read and signed.

Mr. Anderson, chairman of supply committee, reported that 152 cords of hardwood had been purchased for the schools and that same has been measured and paid for at the rate of $2.30 per cord. On motion the report was received and adopted.

Moved by Mr. Cuthbertson, seconded by Mr. Brethen, that the truant officer be requested to submit a report for the past year—Carried.

The supply committee were authorized to purchase wire hooks for the cloak rooms.

Moved by Mr. Brethen and Dr. Pettigrew that the High School be closed on Tuesday and that the furnaces be thoroughly cleaned under the supervision of Mr. Fraser—Carried.

Moved by Messrs. Brethen and Raddon that the fees for non-resident pupils be increased to $5 per term, this increase to take effect at the opening of the autumn term—Carried.

The meeting then adjourned.

The Color of Beeswax.

Dr. C. C. Miller, in a recent number of Gleanings, gives the following "straw" on the color of beeswax: "Who of us hasn't wondered what it is that gives the bright yellow color to beeswax? Wax is generally considered white when first produced in little scales. Cowan says it is always tinted, the color coming from the pollen consumed. But what makes it get yellower in the hive? A German writer says that, like the young of nearly all animals, the young bee, on first emptying its bowels, discharges feces of intense yellow, and this colors the comb. White comb confined in the centre of a colony, but inclosed in wire cloth, remains white."

Finger Nail Omens.

Cut them on Monday, cut them for news.

Cut them on Tuesday a pair of new shoes.

Cut them on Wednesday, cut them for health.

Cut them on Thursday, cut them for wealth.

Cut them on Friday, cut them for woe.

Cut them on Saturday, a journey to go.

Cut them on Sunday, your safety seek, the devil will have you the rest of the week.

A Domestic Query.

He asked his wife at eventide,
"How does the new girl strike you pet?"
His wife in meekest tones replied:
"She hasn't struck me yet."

When Baby was sick, we gave her Castoria.
When she was a Child, she cried for Castoria.
When she became Miss, she clung to Castoria
When she had Children, she gave them Castoria

A Popular Traveller.

Mr. G. Fred Anderson, the popular representative of T. S. Simms & Co., St John, N. B., in speaking of Norway Pine Syrup, says: "It is the best cough cure I ever used, and I prefer it to any other. Have given it to friends of mine, and it cures every time. It would be difficult now to induce me to take any other."

To search out impurities and drive them from the system is the work of Burdock Blood Bitters; thus B.B.B. cures dyspepsia, constipation, bad blood, biliousness and all diseases of the stomach, liver bowels and blood.

Words of Weight and Wisdom

Canada's Well-known Railroad Contractor, Mr. J. W. Dinwoodie, III.

Treated by Several Doctors and Tried Nearly Every Proprietary Medicine—Got Very Little Benefit—Was Influenced to Use South American Nervine—Found Immediate Relief—"The Nervousness Has Entirely Left My System"—"I Will Never Be Without It in My Home."

MR. J. W. DINWOODIE, CAMPBELLFORD, ONT.

Men of affairs usually weigh their words. They are not of that class of people who carry their hearts upon their sleeve. One of the best known men of affairs in Canada is Mr. J. W. Dinwoodie, the large railroad contractor, evidence of whose work is to be found in all parts of the Dominion, from the Atlantic to the Pacific, to chain one section of our vast Dominion with another and bring its people into easy touch with each other through the medium of the iron horse, as Mr. Dinwoodie has in a short lifetime done, is a work of which any man may be proud. Hard and brainy labor, however, is necessary to success of this character, and the strongest constitutions are in danger of breaking down under the strain. It has been so with Mr. Dinwoodie. The great thought that he has had to give to his work, and the care and responsibility that it has carried with it finally told on his constitution, and he became a victim of nervous troubles, his liver and kidneys becoming seriously disordered.

Naturally he consulted a medical man. Comparatively no relief was obtained. He changed his doctor, and did not stop with one, two or three physicians, but he got no better. Various proprietary medicines were recommended, and, as he says himself, "Tried them all, but got very little benefit. Last fall I was camping out, and I was feeling very ill. I happened to pick up a paper with the advertisement for South American Nervine. I determined to give it a trial, and procured a bottle from the local druggist. After having taken but a few doses I found very great relief. The severe pain that I had been suffering in the small of my back left me and the nervousness that had rendered me, in a large measure, unfit for work, has as a result of the continued use of Nervine, become banished from my system. I am now able to enjoy refreshing sleep the night through. I keep South American Nervine always in the house, and I do not hesitate to say that it is the very best medicine I have ever taken, and most confidently recommend it to anyone troubled with nervousness of whatever form and the attendant diseases of the liver and stomach that follow this weakness."

The important fact can not be too often emphasized that South American Nervine cures at the nerve centers, from which emanate all diseases. This being an undoubted scientific truth, fully and perfectly demonstrated by science, it is never an experiment to use Nervine, but in this remedy is always found a certain cure.

AN OFT-TOLD TALE

Illustrating the hollowness of relationship in time of trouble and showing how the widow's stay and the orphan's shield is a policy in the Manufacturers' Life.

When God removed Papa to Heaven,
And Ma was left to strive for seven,
With scarce enough for burial fees,
(So lingering was poor Pa's disease),
Though full of grief, we'd no despair,
Relations spoke so kind and fair.
Our Grandpa said that he, for one,
Would try and see what could be done.
Our Uncle William and our Aunt,
Hoped we should never come to want
But mother's brothers talked the best,
A great deal kinder than the rest.
They said that home they'd take us all,
Only their rooms were few and small.
Well mourning from Uncle Page,
To push us forward when of age.
They then went home, but stop, I mind,

They gave us every one, a kiss,
And said, 'be good and mind Mamma,
And we will be to you—Papa."
For many weeks they could not come,
So much were they engaged at home.
Until they heard Mamma had found
Behind Pa's desk upon the ground,
An envelope, "to my dear wife,"
Five Thousand Manufacturers' Life
Which soon the Manufacturers' paid.
So Ma commenced a genteel trade,
And then they came, it seemed so funny,
To buy Mamma would lend them money.
But Ma said no, if you are poor,
A invite will your life insure;
And then the Manufacturers shall
Your best friend be what'er befall.

March Movers

It may seem early to talk about spring goods in March, yet the fact is, we prefer to be ahead of time than behind.

There are many things that these bright, sunny days suggest as being desirable.

SPRING COSTUME TWEEDS.

Ladies are beginning to talk quite freely about their costumes. Get a suit made up—then you are ready for a fine day.

COSTUME SERGES

Thursday, March 14th,—An unexpected dip. At this morning's observation, the self-registering thermometer indicated 8 degrees below zero.—THOMAS TELFORD.

The Vernal Equinox.

The vernal equinox will occur on Thursday next, 21st inst., when the sun on its journey northward will cross the equator. It is then half way between the winter and summer solstices, and will make the day and night of equal length here and all the world over.

Our Retail Branch will occupy Bentley's Old Stand, No. 340 George Street, until repairs are made at our own stand.

Hog Shipments.

On Tuesday, of last week, Mr. D. Black shipped from Campbellford to Peterborough 95 live hogs and 15 dressed; and on the same day, he made a shipment to Montreal of 53 live hogs, 12 cattle and 8 calves. Two days ago, he followed this up with the movement of 110 live hogs and 4 cattle.

Sabbath School Convention.

The Northumberland annual Sabbath school convention was held in Campbellford to-day and will continue to-morrow. Two sessions were arranged for to-day and three for to-morrow. Several clergymen of the county will be present to give addresses, and a very interesting and instructive time is expected. Several Sunday school workers from town are in attendance.

Sgt. Elcome Leaving for Campbellford.

Mr. R. Elcoma, who was in the employ of Mr. Alfred Dawson until the latter retired from business has decided to open a grocery store in Campbellford. Mr. Elcome should do well in the village down the line, as he was most deservedly popular in Peterborough. He was a prominent figure in military circles, being the president in the non-coms' mess.

The Weather.

We may expect a considerable amount of pleasant weather during April and May, as the prevailing winds will blow from a warm quarter, and it may be safe to predict an early spring. The first half of March kept up a wintry character, without any break to rain, and it is presumed that there will not be an excessive rainfall when spring opens. Present indications point to a period of balmy weather from the last week in March, and rainfalls will not be frequent. So say our local prophets.

Pedigree Books Lost.

The clerks in the Agriculture and Arts Department are hard at work trying to figure out a pedigree book for shire and heavy draught horses out of the fragments of leaves and debris picked up in the ruins of the Association's building at the corner of Queen and Yonge streets. The records for both these classes were almost totally destroyed, and it is thought to be almost impossible to make up a complete list again. The secretary, Mr. Wade, has sent out a circular to all the breeders whose addresses he could remember, asking them to give returns of their pedigrees to him so as to aid in the work. He would like if all those whose addresses he has been unable to obtain would correspond.—Globe.

Who Could This Be?

It has been reported that a man from Peterborough will lease the Victoria hotel, says the Campbellford Herald, if a license is granted to Mr. Geo. Willman, the proprietor, but this is untrue. The preference will be for some one in Campbellford or vicinity. Several applications for it have already been made.

Refuse to Take Them.

Many persons continue to complain of newspapers being sent to them from different parts of Canada and the United States without an order having been given for same. The simple rule in every case of this kind is to refuse to take them from the post office. No publisher can compel a person to pay for a paper any more than he can for a coal mine, provided he has not ordered the paper or taken it from the office.

An Indian Relic.

A few days ago Mr. Alex. Rannie, of Seymour east, brought to the Campbellford Herald office a stone resembling free-stone, which was ploughed up last fall on the old "George Milne" farm, on lot 23, in the 3rd con. of Seymour, now occupied by Mr. E. Moore. It is pointed at both ends, like a spear head, and is about 5 inches long by 2¼ broad. It was originally about 7 inches in length, but a piece was broken off while the young man, who discovered it, was cleaning off the earth to see what it was. On one side of the stone four figures, 1617, have been but, all very distinct, which may mean that it was in use nearly three hundred years ago. It will be kept until some relic hunter makes a bid for it.

Stock-taking Over.

Messrs. Grafton & Co., clothiers, 397 George street, have just completed stock-taking for another season, and are squaring up accounts after another very satisfactory year's business in Peterborough. Mr. J. J. Grafton, of Dundas, spent a couple of days in town facilitating the work of stock-taking, and expressed himself encouraged and well satisfied with their Peterborough branch. The firm have just opened a new branch store in Orillia under very flattering prospects, and will also open next week a strong clothing branch in the City of Hamilton, making five branch stores in Ontario. These enlargements of territory would point to a very satisfactory results from their branch establishments.

SONS OF IRELAND AND HOME RULE.

On Friday night a grand concert under the auspices of the Sons of Ireland will be given in Bradburn's Opera House. A chief feature of the programme will be a lecture by Mr. Alex. Sproule on Home Rule from the Landlords' standpoint. In addition an excellent programme will be presented, consisting of vocal and instrumental music, and including recitations by that talented little elocutionary wonder, Miss Lola Ostrom. Reserved seats at Sallsbury's Bookstore.

WEDDING BELLS IN SMITH TOWNSHIP.

Celebration of the Nelson—Fitzgerald Nuptials Last Evening.

A pretty wedding was celebrated at the "Elms," the residence of Councillor G. W. Fitzgerald, of Smith, last evening, when his eldest daughter, Mabel M. Fitzgerald, was united in marriage to Mr. N. Nelson, a prosperous young farmer of Smith.

Rev. A. R. Macdonald, B. A., of Lakefield, performed the ceremony, assisted by Rev. A. C. Weaver of Lakefield, in the presence of about 125 guests, all of whom were relatives or intimate friends.

The bride looked charming in a costume of cream serge trimmed with Irish point lace and ribbon and wore the usual bridal veil ornamented with lillies of the valley. She also carried a handsome bouquet of white flowers and was assisted by her sister, Miss Mildred E. Fitzgerald, who was also attired in cream serge, and her cousin, Miss Lillie A. Fitzgerald, who was costumed in pale blue Bengaline. The groom was assisted by Mr. Milton Nelson.

The bride entered the drawing room, where the groom was in waiting, on the arm of her father, to the strains of the wedding march.

At the conclusion of the ceremony, the usual congratulations were extended to the young couple. Later on in the evening a most appetising repast was served.

Among the guests present were: Mrs. James Kendry, Miss Sarah Rutherford, Mr. and Mrs. Thos. Rutherford, Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Craig, Mr. and Mrs. S. Sharpe, Mr and Mrs. Thos. Murphy, Mr. Robt. Fair, Mr. and Mrs. A. Moore, Mr. and Miss Choate, Miss M. Fitzgerald, Mr. and Mrs. A. Fitzgerald, Misses Graham, Miss Sedgwick, Mr. J. McDonald, Miss E. Glover, Mr. Walter McKee, Mr. G. W. Bennett, Mr. and Mrs. T. H. G. Denne, Mr. and Mrs. A. St. A. Smith, the Misses Denne, Mr. R. Denne, Mr. Hugh Walker, Port Hope, Mr. John Walker, Port Hope, Mr. and Mrs. Porter Robinson, Miss J. Trennum, Bobcaygeon, Miss Braden, Bobcaygeon, Mr. and Miss Bell, Bobcaygeon, Mrs. T. Robinson, Miss H. Robinson, Miss L. Allen, Mr. B. Allen, Misses Maggie and Aggie Fitzgerald, Mr. A. Fitzgerald, Misses Maggie and Hattie Fitzgerald, Mr. F. Fitzgerald, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Sanderson, Mr. and Mrs. S. McKibbon, Mrs. Jos. Nelson, Miss Nettie Nelson, Mr. J. Nelson, Miss M. Nelson, Messrs. R. and H. McKee, Mr. Wm. Casement, the Misses Stabler, Mr. Jas. Girven, Miss May Nelson, Mr. T. Wallace, Miss Wallace, Mr. and Mrs. R. Braden, Mr. and Mrs. T. Braden, Mrs. and Mrs. S. McKee, Messrs. E. and F. Roseborough, Mrs. A. Braden, Messrs. H. and A. Mann, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Graham, Mr. J. J. Bennett, Mr. and Miss Nicholls, Mr. S. Garbutt, Mr. E. Garbutt, Miss Eva Mann, Mr. Jas. Mann, Miss Maggie Milburn, Mr. J. Walker, Miss Edith Fitzgerald and Mr. F. D. McKay.

POOL MATCH.

The pool match between Mr. W. Burdick and J. Gordon commenced at the City Hotel last night and was very closely contested during the evening. When time for closing came the match stood 10 to 13 in Burdock's favour. A dispute arose in the last game over a decision of Referee Rountree. Gordon called foul on Burdick, but the latter shot and had pocketted the ball before the referee gave his decision and Gordon claimed that the referee could not allow it, which he did. The match, which is for $25 a side, best 16 out of 31 games, will be continued to-night at 8 o'clock.

HOCKEY.

The clothing store clerks hereby challenge the grocery clerks to a game of hockey on a date to be mutually arranged.

In the matter of EXAMINER-Review match report in the EXAMINER, Mr. Geo. Heap called to deny the statement that he asserted before the match his intention of making slugging his game and also repudiate the comment that "his conduct was beneath the respect of the spectators." Mr. Heap is entitled to the benefit of his denial, but a conclusion can be drawn from the statement since made by him that if there is another hockey match he "will show them what slugging is."

Whitby, March 13.—The Collegiate Institute team played to-night with the Bank of Commerce team from Toronto, Whitby winning by six goals to five, in the most evenly contested match of the season. The rink was crowded with spectators.

CURLIANA.

There was no curling at the rink last night, but early this morning the last draw in the Kendry cup series was played off between rinks skipped respectively by Messrs. W. G. Ferguson and R. S. Davidson. As will be seen by the appended score, Skip Ferguson's colts were the victors:—

J Wylie,	D Hall,
E B Clegg,	J S Knapman,
D Davidson,	R B McKee,
W G Ferguson, sk..19	R S Davidson, skip....8

The Kendry cup was donated last year and won by a rink skipped by Mr. J. H. Connal. It is a handsome trophy, the bowl of the cup consisting of a silver curling stone supported on a silver tray by four brooms, with brooms and pipes clustered about the base.

Six rinks of the Granites play off draws in the Innes medal series to-night.

This afternoon Skips LeBrun and Brown are playing one of their famous matches which are provocative of so much fun.

A HORRIBLE SPECTACLE.

A Head to be Exhibited on a Platter to a Jury.

The exposure in court at St. Thomas, of the head of a murdered man before the accused and jury is almost unparalleled in Canadian courts. In the case, however, the head of William Henderahott, with its natural hair, the features unchanged from their aspect in life, and bearing a calm look of repose, will be brought into the room on a platter, and will be examined by the jury. The spirits have splendidly preserved the head, and there is now nothing to disfigure it, except the faint red lines of the post-mortem, and the deep jagged cuts which the Crown say were caused by the axe.

In their present state the horrible memento cannot but have a telling effect on the prisoners. The defence objected strenuously to the production of it.

THE EVANGELISTS.

A Large Congregation in George Street Church Last Evening.

George street church was again crowded last evening by a large congregation which listened with interest to the earnest words of the evangelists. After the usual devotional exercises and the singing of a few solos by Mr. White, Rev. Mr. Moore delivered an excellent sermon on "Bondage in Sin and Deliverance Through Christ," taking as his text the words: "If the Son therefore shall make you free, ye shall be free indeed."—John viii ch, 36th v.

To-morrow afternoon a special service will be held for children in George street church at 4.15 o'clock, when it is hoped there will be a large attendance.

FIBRE CHAMOIS

Better and Cheaper Than Haircloth.

Fibre Chamois Is now being recognized by all leading modistes as the only proper support for Puffed Sleeves, being far superior to anything else for this purpose.

A Garment interlined with Fibre Chamois cannot be injured by careless packing or crushing, as it will at once resume its correct form upon being lightly shaken.

Fibre Chamois is also of inestimable value in skirts and sleeves to be worn at the seashore, because it is not affected by damp air, as are materials deriving their stiffness from starch or glue.

Fibre Chamois does not cut through the bottom of skirts and ruin the boots.

ADDRESS AND PRESENTATION TO MR. MAXWELL HALL.

A Former Peterborough Citizen Handsomely Remembered.

The following is taken from an Orillia paper:—

"On the evening of the 23rd ultimo, about one hundred of Mr. M. Hall's friends met at his home, Longford, and presented him with a valuable coonskin coat and the following address, to which he replied in a speech full of love, sympathy and gratitude:—

DEAR BROTHER AND FRIEND.—We, the members and adherents of the Methodist church, (Orillia circuit) together with friends of other churches, assemble here to-night to remind you that we are not forgetful of your fifteen years residence among us during which time you have endeared yourself to us as a worthy citizen, a self-sacrificing neighbour and a true Christian friend. In the varied walks of industrial, social and religious intercourse, you have contributed abundantly towards making our lives pleasant and profitable. In religious life your prayer was fervent in social and domestic life your laugh was merry, and whenever sorrow visited our homes, your words of consolation and sympathy made the sorrow lighter. As an ardent and devoted Methodist, we have admired your zeal, hospitality, and generosity, and the efficient discharge of all official and honourary duties heaped upon you by your circuit and conference. None among us will miss you more than the young people and little ones of our homes, who have received their religious training at your feet, as their much beloved Sabbath school superintendent. Our families do not forget your tender training, it is with them yet, it will go out to life with them, and be a safe anchor, when tossed upon life's heaving sea. "God's word will not return unto Him void." The seeds of truth you have planted in young hearts will abundantly spring forth and break into ten thousand blossoms, and open into the golden fruits of Christian character. Your true, constant friendship has been much prized by us, it was a flower that bloomed in every season, casting its charms on every walk of life. Your friendship, allied with charity, has entered our abodes of sorrow, and caused happiness and peace; it has knocked at the disconsolate heart and spoken words of encouragement and joy. Such friendship can only be found to bloom in soil of a noble, self-sacrificing heart, and though we drop tears of honest regret at the thought of your departure from us, yet we are comforted in the assurance that our friendship being based on religion must be immortal, so no earthly separation can destroy the Christian friendship for it walks up and down among God's children with its immortal smiles, and if we are true to it, it will be our constant joy in time and in eternity.

Friendship has a charming voice,
Friendship makes the heart rejoice;
Give to friendship, friendship's due;
Remember us and we will you.

We are not unmindful at this time of the many kindnesses received at the hands of your dear wife, of her charity and self-sacrificing efforts in the interests of the social and religious well-being of the community; and while we wish you happiness and prosperity in your new position and business, we would not forget to pray God's benediction and angel guards to attend your family and make your future abode

A home, that paradise below
Of sunshine and of flowers,
Where hallowed joys perennial flow
By calm sequestered bowers.

Recollecting the pleasant years made agreeable by your acquaintance, we, your friends, herewith present to you this coat as a slight token of the very high esteem we cherish for you, our neighbour, brother and friend, and ask your acceptance of the same, not for its intrinsic value, but because of the undying love that prompted the gift."

COURT MARMION'S TEA AND CONCERT.

A Very Successful Social Gathering and Entertainment.

A tea and concert under the auspices of Court Marmion, No. 29, Juvenile Branch, A.O.F., was held in Unity Hall last night. There was a large attendance of the friends of the order present. Bro. The committee wish to return thanks to the Stroud Company for the use of the dishes and the excellent tea and coffee furnished for the occasion.

THE FEDERAL ELECTIONS.

Political Questions Divide Public Interest with the Kent Case.

Ottawa, March 14.—The interest created here by the wonderful recovery of Mr. G. H. Kent, from Bright's disease, and the fact that he was only saved from death by a timely use of Dodd's Kidney Pills, has been partially overshadowed by the question of the Federal elections, and people who were asking one another a week ago whether they had heard of the case, are now also discussing the political outlook with almost equal interest. Enquiries are, however, being persistently made with regard to the disease and its cure, and it is stated on good authority that several cases of recovery from diabetes and Bright's disease through the same agency will shortly be made public, and will doubtless excite as much interest as that of Mr. Kent's, still further inducing the use of the valuable remedy.

STATIONERY ENGINEERS.

A Highly Successful Meeting Held Last Night—Delegate Appointed.

At a meeting of the local branch order of the Canadian Association of Civil Engineers, held in the Sons of England Hall last night there was a good attendance. The president, Mr. Sylvester Potter, occupied the chair, and the meeting was one of the most successful ever held by the local order. Papers were read by Messrs. Robinson, McKay and Potter on "The Principles of Steam and its uses." Mr. Jos. Smart was appointed a delegate to attend the annual meeting of the Stationery Engineer's Association, to be held in Toronto at an early date, to discuss legislation affecting engines, boilers, etc., to be introduced at the present session of the Local Legislature.

A STREET CAR COLLISION.

Narrow Escape of a Driving Party—Amidships Collision of a Street Car With a Sleigh—Fortunately no Person Seriously Injured.

Last night, a collision took place between a north-bound street car and a pleasure sleigh, on Water street, at the intersection of Dublin street. A party of young people were preparing for a drive into the country and were gathering up the members of the company. Six or eight had been called for and were seated in a sleigh with the seats spanning lengthwise. They were driving down Dublin street to Water street to make another call, and had just passed from Dublin into Water street, within a few feet of the street railway track, when car No. 3, in charge of motorman Taylor, was seen moving northward at its usual rate of speed. A building directly on the corner of the street prevented the occupants of the sleigh seeing the car in time to escape.

THE CAR WAS SO CLOSE AT HAND

that it was impossible for the driver of the sleigh to stop safely or turn aside; all that could be done was to go forward as rapidly as possible, which was done, but the horses had just got clear of the further side of the rails with the vehicle directly across the track, when the car struck the sleigh "stem on," or at right angles. Motorman Taylor, with fortunate presence of mind, had reversed and put down brakes, which so greatly reduced the speed of the car that the shock of the collision was not a severe one—perhaps more of a push than a blow. However, the sleigh was overturned partially and resting on the runners of the northern side and the back of the longitudinal seat, was pushed some little distance in front of the car, the horses fortunately submitting quietly to being backed up by the push of the car. The car struck the sleigh rather in front of the middle and the driver, Mr. Charles Westlake, was thrown out and sustained some flesh wounds about the eye, face and lips, but fortunately not of a serious character. None of the other occupants were thrown out and none of them received any more serious injuries than the shock of the fright.

A CLERGYMAN'S LETTER.

Magnificent Work Accomplished in St. Anne's Parish.

The Sick and Diseased Made Well by Paine's Celery Compound.

Thousands in the Commercial Metropolis Know What the Great Spring Medicine Has Done.

In the great archdiocese of Montreal, the parish of St. Anne's is one of the largest and most important. The parish is a populous one, and the work of the dozen or more clergymen who devote their time and talents to the spiritual and charitable interests of the people, is heavy and never-ending.

In this thickly settled and congested parish the sick and suffering are numerous, but Christian help and consolation is ever near in the hour of danger. In scenes of sickness and disease this great parish has been blessed by an agency that has saved thousands of lives in other parts of the Dominion. We now refer to that marvellous medicine, Paine's Celery Compound, so well and favourably known in every Canadian home.

The popular clergymen of St. Anne's have, from time to time, heard wonderful reports from their parishioners of the magnificent work accomplished by Paine's Celery Compound. Fathers, mothers, brothers and sisters have been raised to health and strength. Those pronounced incurable by physicians have been snatched from the jaws of death.

The Rev. P. Rioux, one of St. Anne's most popular clergymen, knowing about the good work done by Paine's Celery Compound, and having experienced most satisfactory results from its use in his own case, writes as follows:

"I am fully convinced both by personal experience and by the statements of many parishioners intrusted to my care, that the celebrated medicine, Paine's Celery Compound deserves a high recommendation. I, therefore, willingly indorse the testimonials already given in its behalf."

ST. LUKE'S CHURCH.

The usual Wednesday evening service was held last night in St. Luke's church, an earnest address being given by Rev. Carl Smith, of Lindsay.

The reverend gentleman took for his text Gal vi, 14: "But God forbid that I should glory save in the cross of our Lord Jesus Christ." It was, said he, a matter of common remark that our Lord seemed to have come to upset all those traditions of his day, which from long established custom were believed or observed, but had outlived the usefulness they had once possessed or the truth they formerly expressed. Was Galilee a despised province? In Galilee He would dwell. Was Nazareth regarded as a mean village? Nazareth should be His home. Was wealth admired and worshipped? He would have nothing. Were formalist Scribes and Pharisees the venerated of the Jews? His disciples should be men of low estate.

Insincerity was the crying evil of our Lord's day. Forms and shibboleths from which the spirit had fled, were laid like heavy burdens upon men's shoulders.

And to some extent it is so to-day. Many people profess to glory in the Cross of Christ, but what does it mean to them? As it symbolized the whole spirit of our Lord's life, so should it symbolize the spirit of our. The Cross to our Lord meant

1. Devotion to duty. "My meat is to do the will of Him that sent Me, and to finish His work."

2. Secondly, it symbolizes devotion to the cause of others. "I am among you as He that serveth." "The Son of Man is not come to be ministered unto, but to minister, and to give his life a ransom for many."

3. And thirdly, faithfulness unto death. "It is finished," cried our Saviour from the cross.

This is the meaning of the Cross of Christ, and it should be the symbol inspiring the life of every servant of Christ.

Madill's Emulsion

OF COD LIVER OIL AND HYPOPHOSPHITES OF LIME AND SODA.

It will do wonders for you if your cough is a hard, troublesome and stubborn cough, or if you require building up and fattening, but you must begin in time and take it regularly, as you do your meals.

Madill's Emulsion is put up fresh and sweet every week. It is far more palatable to the stomach than other similar preparations, while a tablespoonful dose contains a higher percentage of Cod liver oil. It is properly emulsified, without the aid of eggs or other over-rich elements, and assimilates much more easily on that account.

Its potency has created not only an active local demand, but a constant request from other cities and towns of Canada.

BABY CARRIAGE

is a necessity. Mothers, as well as babies have been housed up all winter and both need fresh air, and as one can't go out without the other, come to the Peterborough Bookstore and buy that Baby Carriage you and your husband have been discussing so often the past winter.

We have them at prices to meet all purses—from $3 up to $15 or higher if you can stand the altitude.

A specially fine stock made by the Gendron Steel Wheel Company, Toledo, Ohio, guaranteed to be perfectly free from imperfections in every respect. Beautifully Upholstered in Satin Plush and commoner materials, with best Satin Parasol to match.

Our announcement is a little early, but it enables you to call early and get a choice.

We will keep in stock this season complete lines of Boys' Velocipedes, Girls' Tricycles, Children's Waggons and every variety of Juvenile Wheeled Goods.

BABY CARRIAGES.

Your baby deserves a New Carriage. The old one (that is the old carriage) is shabby and persists in running crooked. If the baby is a new baby so much the more does a new carriage complete the turnout.

A neat, well appointed carriage is an evidence of good taste. It is a credit to the family and relations. Do the folks honour and the baby justice with a new vehicle.

The more so that the new carriage, when bought from our stock, costs but a moderate amount. Boxes of tyres. Need too good. Some tasty and neat, some handsome and stylish. The prices match. All serviceable and durable.

See our stock before placing the baby on wheels.

THE SPEARING OF FISH

A CANADIAN WINTER SPORT THAT HAS ITS DRAWBACKS.

Fishing Through the Ice on Hamilton Bay—A Lonely Occupation That is Neither Exciting nor Remunerative—The Huts of the Fishermen.

Hamiltonians are pardonably proud of their beautiful land locked bay. When summer comes innumerable pleasure craft, from steamboat to canoe, enliven its surface, and no more gallant yachtsmen hail from any port than those who sail on this sheet of water.

There are others, however, who use the lake for more utilitarian purposes, and seek to eke out a livelihood when work is scarce. Reference is made to the fishermen, whose huts dot the different sections of the bay when it is locked in winter's embrace. The largest colony is situated about midway between Carroll's Point and the mouth of the Desjardin's Canal, of fateful memory. Immediately overlooking this spot, and adjoining the canal, are the Burlington Heights, the site of the entrenched British camp whence issued the daring band one historic night during the War of 1812, which surprised and defeated the American forces at Stony Creek, five miles to the eastward, sending them back to the Niagara River at a rate altogether incompatible with comfort.

As those huts are all pretty much of the same model, a description of one will answer for all. They are made of wood, about four feet square, thickly padded to keep out the wind and are placed over a hole in the ice about a yard in diameter. A stove fashioned out of a piece of old stovepipe, attached to the side of the hut and having a smaller pipe leading through the roof for the escape of smoke, serves to keep the interior as snug as the proverbial bug in a rug. The sportsman occupies a seat on the edge of this yawning hole and holds in his hand a short rod, to which is attached a line having at its end an imitation fish. This he gently jerks up and down a foot beneath the surface to lure something worth striking within the radius of the fatal circle. It comes—probably a pike—so intent on the bait before it that it does not notice, suspended above, like the sword of Damocles, the five pronged spear in the hands of the fisherman, who silently lowers it in the water, until, like a flash, the barbs are locked in its flesh and its career as a live fish is brought to a dramatic finish. It not infrequently happens that the fish gets in its flash first, when the man's only resource is to lie judiciously about the enormous size of the one he has just missed. Those who are supposed to know say that one seldom strikes the first fish that makes its appearance. Darting so silently, so suddenly, into the narrow circumference of the hole over which, perhaps, the fisherman has been bending for hours, he gets "rattled" for the one instant required by the fish to flirt its tail and vanish from sight. More science is required in spearing than in impaling a cockroach on a pin. Due regard must be paid to the defection caused by the magnifying power of water, or the misses will out number the hits by a large majority. While the season's catch assumes respectable proportions, there are times when the sport is mournful in its dullness.

"I have sat in this hut three days hand-running, from morning to night," said one fisherman, "and not seen the sign of a scale.

"You see," he continued, "it all depends on the weather. When it is very cold the fish go into deep water and lie near the bottom; but when it comes a thaw they swim in shallow water and feed among the weeds."

Sunfish, perch, herring, black bass, dogfish and pike are the victims aimed at, the latter predominating and varying in weight from two to fourteen pounds. When sold they fetch about five cents per pound.

About fifty huts are placed in this locality and there are others in the vicinity of Willow Point, Huckleberry Point and the Brant House, a total of about 100 in the aggregate. Spearing was prohibited by the Fishery Department last season, but that does not imply that the sport was not indulged in. Each householder is enabled to lock himself in, a convenient buoy was always at hand to mark the spot where the tell-tale spear was hastily submerged to escape the eyes of the inspector, and when the door was finally opened the occupant was found demurely fishing with a hook and bait, "though you might fish for a month that way without a bite," remarked the good-natured informant, with a twinkle in his clear blue eye. However, there is no need for subterfuge now, as spear fishing has been legalized.

When one considers the weary hours passed by these men in their cramped and lonely quarters—each hut accommodating but one person—and the closeness of the air they breathe, for such comparatively small results, it leads to the inference that either the direst necessity, through lack of more remunerative employment, impels it, or that there is a love of angling and abhorrence of work that "passeth all understanding."

History Repeating Itself.

Once Mr. Gladstone had been cutting down a tree in the presence of a large concourse of people, including a number of "cheap trippers." When the tree had fallen and the prime minister and some of his family who were with him were moving away, there was a rush for the chips. One of the trippers secured a big piece and exclaimed: "Hey, lads, when I dee, this shall go in my coffin!" Then cried his wife, a shrewd, motherly old woman, with a merry twinkle in her eye: "Sam, my lad, if thou'd worship God as thou worships Gladstone, thou'd stand a better chance of going where thy chip would na burn!"

A House Laundry.

A laundry that is perfect in detail is the special pride of a woman who has a beautiful new home. The room I have in mind is wainscoted with white marble to a height of four and one-half feet, with the walls above tiled in blue and white. The floor is also tiled. The tubs of white marble have wringers of brass attached. A peculiar feature of the laundry is the very large clothesboiler or kettle, which is built in the wall near the tubs and so low that it nearly touches the floor. As there are faucets for hot and cold water in the boiler, as well as over each tub, no water has to be lifted or carried, and there is consequently no wet floor. The floor is covered by a bright rug. This wash-room connects with a hot-air room, where the clothes are quickly dried.—New York Evening Post.

News of the Day in Brief.

A nest of smallpox has been discovered on West Lake street, Chicago, among colored men who came from Tennessee a month ago. Five cases have been taken to the pest house.

The Imperial House of Commons yesterday passed the item of £7,000 to cover the expenses of trying to extradite Jabez Spencer Balfour, the Liberator wrecker, from Argentina.

Track laying on the Toronto, Hamilton & Buffalo railway between Brantford and Hamilton will be completed to the western limits of Hamilton by Saturday night and regular trains will soon be running over this part of the road.

The general emigration from Great Britain continued to increase in February, but emigration to Canada declined one-fourth as compared with last year.

Lightning and Rain.

It is popularly supposed that the sudden downpour which usually follows a bright flash of lightning is in some way caused by the flash. Meteorologists have proven that this is not the case and that, exactly to the contrary, it is not only possible but highly probable that the sudden increased precipitation is the real cause of the flash.—St. Louis Republic.

Why Fogg Is Puzzled.

"There are two things," remarked Fogg in a contemplative mood, "that I don't understand. One of these is how the world got along before I came into it and the other how it is going to get along after I have left it."—Exchange.

Overdressed For His Part.

A justice of the peace, who exercised the functions of that office in a portion of the state where such officials are permitted great latitude, had before him a suspicious character arraigned upon a charge of vagrancy.

The prisoner, who was quite well dressed, secured the services of a lawyer in court to defend him. The man pleaded not guilty, and the lawyer in concluding his remarks said:

"What, your honor, that man a vagrant? Oh, no! I insist upon his discharge. Why, see the good clothes he is wearing!"

"Yes, I see them," replied the justice, "and in consequence of their excellent condition I shall discharge him on the charge of vagrancy and bind him over for simple larceny."—New York Herald.

ITCHING PILES AND PIN WORMS.
No More Misery.
DR. CHASE'S OINTMENT
Gives Instant Relief.
ITCHING PILES is an exceedingly painful and annoying affliction, found alike in the rich and poor, male and female. The principal symptoms are a severe itching, which is worse at night, when the warm bed seems to heat. So terrible is the itching that frequently it is impossible to procure sleep. Often the sufferer unconsciously scratches the parts until they are sore—bleed and become worse. Excessive moisture is exuded. Pimples are peculiarly affected from the slightest irritation and exertion. These and every other symptom of Itching Piles or irritation in any part of the body are immediately allayed and quickly cured by Chase's Ointment. It will instantly stop itching, heal the sores and tissues, dry up the moisture.
PIN WORMS is an ailment entirely different as to cause from Itching Piles, yet the effects and symptoms are exactly the same. The same intolerable itching; the same creeping, crawling, stinging sensation, characterizes both diseases. Chase's Ointment acts like magic. It will at once afford relief from this torment.

AN OCEAN TRAGEDY.

THE TERRIBLE FATE WHICH BEFEL THE CENTRAL AMERICA.

A Contest Between Angry Waters and a Bucket Line, In Which the Latter Lost. A Cowardly Engineer—A Bird Guided the Ellen to the Rescue.

And who that remembers can hear without a thrill the name of the steamship Central America, which sank in a great storm on Sept. 12, 1857, with most of her officers and crew, nearly 400 passengers and $1,800,000 in gold?

The Central America was crowded with treasure laden people from California on their way to New York. After leaving Havana on Sept. 8 she ran into a storm. The steamer began to leak, and Captain Herndon called upon the passengers to form lines and pass the buckets. Hour after hour the tempest howled, and the huge vessel groaned as the immense seas broke against her. Hour after hour the men with the buckets toiled for their lives: slowly the water gained on them.

The officers exhorted the bucket gangs not to pause for a moment if the ship was to be saved. The wind roared and the storm increased in fury. Every passenger stuck to his post and worked until he fell to the deck exhausted. Then the women offered to take the places of their wornout, fainting husbands and brothers, but none of the men would allow it. As the horror of the situation gradually dawned on the minds of the women and children the air was filled with sounds of terror, but above the raging hurricane and the cries of lamentation rose the chorus of the bucket men:

Heave, oh! heave, oh! stamp and go,
We'll be jolly blather, oh!

All day long they sang this song and fought for life against the steadily rising water. Mrs. Easton, a bride on her honeymoon trip, passed bottles of wine to the heroic men to strengthen them in their desperate work. All night long the struggle was continued, and still the ocean gained inch by inch. The women begged, with tears in their eyes, to be allowed to help. They cheered the brave fellows and wept when they saw them fall to the deck with white faces and trembling limbs.

During the next day the peril of the steamer was increased by the lack of food and water. The hurricane tossed the sinking hull about and shattered her spars and masts. While the tired and sleepless men stuck to the buckets the women knelt and prayed to God for assistance.

About 2 o'clock in the afternoon a sail was seen to windward. Guns were fired and signals of distress hoisted. The strange vessel, which turned out to be the brig Marine of Boston, answered the signals and tried to approach, but the gale blew her about three miles away.

Then the boats were made ready, and the women and children prepared themselves. They had to strip off nearly all of their clothes and put on life preservers. Many of the women had gold, which they could not carry with them. Two of them went to their staterooms and took out bags of $20 gold pieces, which they threw down in the cabin, inviting the others to take what they pleased. The money rolled and jingled about on the floor, while the two weeping women explained that they were returning home to enjoy the fortune which they had made in California, and that they would be beggars if the ship was lost. None of the women dared to take more than two pieces of gold lest it might weigh them down.

The men still remained at their work, saying that they would remain on board until another ship arrived, as the Marine could not take all the passengers, and the women and children must be saved first. Among those heroes was Billy Birch, the famous minstrel.

Two of the lifeboats were smashed by the sea, but three boats were filled with women and children, many of the latter being infants. The last boat to leave carried the chief engineer. He solemnly promised the captain to return, but the moment he got into the boat he drew a knife and threatened to kill any one who followed him. Later on, when the women and children were put on board the Marine, the chief engineer, like the coward and liar he was, refused to return.

Now the sinking steamship was so low in the ocean that almost every wave swept her deck. Some of the passengers got into the rigging, while others tried to build a raft. Night came on. The storm continued to rage. The ship quivered and caressed. Rockets soared up into the bellowing, angry heavens. Slowly the vessel filled with water, and the doomed host clinging to her deck and rigging prepared for death. There was no weeping and no shrieking, no wringing of hands. The captain stood at the wheel to the last.

All at once the ship, as if in an agony of death herself, made a plunge at an angle of 45 degrees, and with an appalling shriek from the engulfed mass she disappeared, and nearly 500 human beings were left struggling among the fierce waters. The scene was horrifying, and many who were saved afterward fainted at the mere memory of it.

A few held on to planks and spars all through the wild night, and as the day broke the Norwegian bark Ellen arrived and picked up 49 of the men.

"I was forced out of my course just before I met you," said the captain of the Ellen to the rescued passengers, "and when I altered my course a bird flew across the ship once or twice, and then darted into my face. A few minutes later the bird repeated its movements. I thought it an extraordinary thing, and while thinking on it in this way the mysterious bird reappeared, and for the third time flew into my face. This induced me to alter my course back to the original one, and in a short time I heard noises in the sea and discovered that I was in the midst of shipwrecked people."

What John Wanamaker, the Most Heavily Insured man in America, Says:

(INTERVIEW WITH JOHN WANAMAKER.)

It is very generally known that Ex-Postmaster General John Wanamaker, of Philadelphia, carries the largest amount of Life Insurance of any man in the United States. A representative of the press recently interviewed this gentleman while he was travelling with the Presidential party, and this interview will be found, we believe, of general interest:—

"You are said to be the most heavily insured man in the country, Mr. Wanamaker," remarked the press representative.

"How did you come to think of that?" he said with a smile. "You are not looking for any disaster under such excellent management as our friend Boyd is giving this train and party?"

"No," I replied. "A newspaper friend in San Francisco, who had heard the report, wanted me to ask you it it was true, and if so, what your business reasons are for it?"

"Well," he modestly answered, "I have heard it stated that I am the most heavily insured man in the country. I don't know about that. The amount of my policies is $1,500,000, and the value, with the accumulations since the policies were taken out, is about two millions of dollars."

"In what class of companies are your policies?"

"They are all in stock and mutual companies, and none of them in what are known as assessment or instalment companies."

"Are they full life term policies or on what is termed the 'tontine' plan?"

"I have generally taken ten and fifteen payment policies and very few life policies. With about all good companies a contract can now be made whereby there is no risk of losing a policy after two years' premiums have been paid. If the party insured chooses to withdraw he can get a paid-up policy. Indeed, I understand that some companies have forms whereby the insurer can after one year, if desired, withdraw and receive a paid-up policy. There is practically little risk, any more, in insuring in the old companies."

"Perhaps you would be willing to tell me how you came to insure so heavily?"

"I thought the matter out, and convinced myself that it was a good business venture. Besides, it seemed to me that I might, perhaps, give away more money in lifetime if there was a fixed certainty of putting it back into my estate by Life Insurance. I conceive that the best way for a man to carry on benevolence is not to leave it to be done through his will, but to do it in his lifetime, and I felt that Life Insurance would give me more freedom in carrying out some plans I have, and which I would be glad to see completed before I leave this world. If you want to ascertain what the circumstances were in placing the Life Insurance, I must go further in my answers and say that I should not have gone so far in my Life Insurance but for the skill of the agent who tackled me to insure to a greater extent than I would otherwise have done. He was an old friend who had been in mercantile business and who knew how to present Life Insurance without boring me. I feel to-day sincerely grateful to the man who followed me so discreetly with information about companies, and who kept the subject before me until I settled the question."

"When did you begin taking Life Insurance policies?"

"My first policy was taken when I was twenty-one."

"Do you consider it a good thing for a man of small means?"

"I certainly do. Most young men spend more for cigars during the year than the annual cost of a $2,500 policy in a good company. If they must have the cigars they might divide between cigars and Life Insurance and carry at least a $1,000 policy. I think every young man, before he is married, ought to try to get at least a $1,000 policy."

"Among how many companies are your policies divided, and where are they located?"

"About forty companies. Most of them are located in the East. A few are in the West and a few in Canada."

"Do you recommend Life Insurance to others, especially those in whom you feel a personal interest?"

"I can perhaps answer that best by saying that I presented a few years ago a $1,000 policy, paid up for one year, to every insurable head of family in my employ. Many of the prudent men who received them not only kept them but added to them, and I have the satisfaction of knowing that in not a few cases those policies have been the means of saving worthy families from want."

It will doubtless be of interest to our readers to know that John Wanamaker carries a large policy in the Canada Life Insurance Company, thus evincing his confidence in the soundness of Canada's oldest and largest Company. During the last few years quite a number of American capitalists have been convinced of the SUPERIOR MERITS OF THE CANADA LIFE, and have accordingly placed their insurance therein, in preference to any other company.

The Canada Life is now being recognized in the states of Michigan, Minnesota and Ohio as the Company that gives the best results for the least premium.

A DEFENSE OF THE LIAR.

The Position In Society, Politics and Commerce of the Prevaricator.

For many years the wise men have insisted upon the importance and beauty of truth. We read that all the glorious and lovely productions of the arts depend upon the truth as upon a solid and enduring foundation. We read that poetry and beauty rest upon the congenial substance of truth as a statue upon its pedestal. But the man has not as yet arisen who has given the other side of the question justice or yielded due praise to the efforts and worth of liars. We respect and revere the truth. We adhere to it in theory and in practice—a thing rare in the adherents of mere opinions—but we believe in justice though the heavens fall, and in all the good, old fashioned axioms. In all truth, however, to speak paradoxically, the liar, as an element of practical advancement, has been too long ignored. It is time that the pen and the brush should do him homage.

Who sets the great enterprises afloat? Who is the originator of vast investments and the instigator of magnificent projects?

The liar.

Who is it that floats the bonds, discounts corporations and consolidations?

Who is it that has settled the wild lands of the west and made Uncle Sam no longer a freeholder?

The liar.

Who is it that originates "booms" and distributes capital from the unwary to the wise?

Who is it that makes wildcat mines successful and sets a prize upon human ingenuity?

Who is it that gives the impulse to politics and the trend to political economy?

The liar.

The liar has as many guises as Proteus. Anon he wishes to make your fortune, and again he wants to borrow a dollar.

But he is always pleasant, affable, agreeable, whether engaged in the soliciting of millions in world stirring plans or in attempting to secure a free lunch. The truthful man will affront you with rude candor and hold up your faults brutally to your notice. But the liar—he will do nothing of the sort. He will make you comfortable and happy. He will put you at peace with the world and with destiny.

Whether he is in commerce, in politics or in the show business, whether he is offering you a position or asking a favor, let his merit be recognized.—Minneapolis Commercial.

The Hardworking Sultan.

This ruler is currently imagined to allow his ministers to do all his work, while he himself lives a life of luxurious indolence. The very reverse is the rule. The one man in all the Turkish dominions who works morning, noon and night, whose mind never rests from effort to carry his people through the difficulties which beset bad system and lack of means, is the monarch. The ministers work little, the sultan incessantly. Not only is this well known, but an intimate of mine is an aid-de-camp in daily attendance upon his majesty, and my ideas gleaned from him have given me a hearty respect for the personality of the present bearer of the crescent.

Since his accession he has scarcely left his palace. Here he labors with honest fidelity to effect the impossible, for the bad Turkish customs are like the laws of the Medes and Persians. The system is as rotten as the people are hard to teach. Moreover, the sultan is the simplest and most plainly dressed man in his dominions. The unpretentious courtesy of his personal bearing, his apparent lack of egotism, his rather pale, nervous, fatigued looking face, are dignity itself. I have never seen a more patriarchal ceremony or one of higher tone than the quiet procession of Selamlik.—Harper's Magazine.

Ram's-Horn Wrinkles.

When good seed is sown, the better the ground the better the crop.

If some man had a bulldog's teeth they would bite when he wouldn't.

A selfish man is about the ugliest thing upon which angels have to look.

It generally takes a blockhead a good while to find out what ails him.

If our faults were written on our faces, how quick we would all hang our heads.

SMALLPOX IN HORSES

A Large Number of Men and Horses in Halifax Afflicted.

THE DISEASE ATMOSPHERIC.

It Attacks the Hoof Under the Fetlock and is Similar to Ordinary Scratches or Greased Heel—Any Animal Liable to Contract It.

Halifax, March 14.—A large number of horses in Halifax are suffering from a disease which attacks them principally under the fetlock, somewhat similar to ordinary scratches or greased heel, and is followed by an oily greasy substance which comes from the parts affected. Some horses have the disease in the mouth, others elsewhere. Government Veterinary Jakeman describes the disease as variola equinea, or more commonly called smallpox. He says the disease was very prevalent in Montreal during 1878. The disease is atmospheric and any animal is liable to contract it. The worst feature of the disease is that persons attending stricken horses may become inoculated and in many cases blood poisoning sets in. Dr. Jakeman has a slight touch of the disease in his hand. A young man in the north end of the city who has but one hand contracted the disease in the other arm and it is feared he will have his arm amputated. Another man is so ill from the disease that there has been some doubts of his recovery. Many of the trotters owned by members of the Halifax Driving Club are affected with the disease.

MASSEY-HARRIS WORKS.

Brantford and Woodstock Likely to Lose the Branches There.

Niagara Falls, N.Y., March 14.—The committee of citizens appointed to raise the $25,000 bonus demanded by the Massey-Harris Company for the removal of their Brantford and Woodstock plants to this city have begun the work of receiving subscriptions and are meeting with fair success. It is said Cleveland has offered the Massey-Harris Company $300,000 to locate their plant in that city but the Canadians prefer the Falls owing to the cheap power available and the splendid shipping facilities. If the $25,000 bonus is given they promise to erect a plant costing $128,000 and employ at once between 400 and 1,000 men.

The Frozen Herring Industry in Danger.

Gloucester, Mass., March 14.—If Newfoundland enters the Confederation of the Dominion of Canada, the frozen herring fishery, as far as Americans are interested, will be seriously affected. The herring which are frozen and brought to the United States are caught in small coves near the shore in Newfoundland within the three-mile limit. As at present conducted the business is satisfactory to those on both sides. But if Newfoundland surrenders its autonomy and becomes a part of the Dominion, her fisheries in common with other matters will be regulated by Dominion laws.

I. O. F. Grand Lodge.

Woodstock, March 14.—The Grand Lodge of the Sons of England opened yesterday morning with a considerably larger attendance. The day's sessions have been entirely taken up with discussions of the matters pertaining to the constitution and government of the order. A committee on appeals was appointed, and also a committee to draft a reply to the address from the local lodge. The Grand Lodge was not in session last night, having adjourned until this morning, when the election of officers will be proceeded with.

Price of Cut Nails.

Montreal, March 14.—At a meeting of the representatives of the cut nail factories of the Dominion held here yesterday, the question of differences with the Maritime Provinces representatives and the question of terms was discussed and a satisfactory arrangement was reached. There is no difficulty on the question of prices as the cutting is being done solely by the jobbers, over which the association has no control. The association decided to stand by the scale of prices.

ONTARIO LEGISLATURE.

A Committee to Investigate the Whole Subject of Government House.

Toronto, March 14.—A flutter of excitement ran about the Chamber when Mr. Haycock, the Patron leader, arose and moved this resolution: "That in the opinion of the House the maintenance of Government House and the establishment connected therewith at the expense of the Province should, after the expiration of five years from the appointment, or other earlier determination of the term of office of His Honor, the present Lieutenant-Governor, be discontinued."

He said that in his opinion government was too expensive in Ontario and particularly the maintenance of Government House. Since Confederation Government House had cost over $300,000. Considering that all the Lieutenant-Governor had to do was to open and close the sessions of the Legislature he thought too much money was being spent for this purpose. All the other duties of the governor were social. He had nothing but praise for the present incumbent, whom he considered the most suitable gentleman for the position, but he thought that owing to the hard times the pruning knife should be applied.

Sir Oliver Mowat said that the subject was a most important one. He thought that the resolution might be modified to suit all parties. There were many public advantages to be derived by the keeping up of Government House. The Lieutenant-Governor was the Queen's representative and also of the people and should be properly housed. He suggested that a committee should be appointed to inquire into the whole subject. He said that the present site upon which Government House stood belonged to the Dominion Government. He thought that the consent of the Government might be had to sell that property, which would bring at least $300,000. With this money a Governor's house might be built in Queen's Park and supported from the interest of the $300,000. He named these gentlemen to act on the committee: Messrs. Drydon, Bronson, Stratton, Ferguson, McNish, Marter, Whitney, Howland, Haycock, McPherson and himself.

Mr. Haycock said that if the Government would first pass his resolution and agree to the principle that Government House should be abolished he would then agree to the appointment of the committee to arrange the details. He had been mistaken when he said that Government House had cost $300,000 since Confederation; he found from the figures that it had actually cost $469,000.

Mr. Marter said that seven years ago he had moved a resolution along the same lines calling for the abolition of Government House. His resolution had been voted down. He would support Mr. Haycock's resolution since he saw no reason to change his mind.

Mr. Hardy said that the matter was not in any sense a party question. Anyone who voted for Sir Oliver's amendment would not be committing himself to either side of the question but would simply signify his intention to wait for further information from a fair-minded committee composed of members of all parties in the House.

Mr. Whitney said that the position of the Conservatives was clear and had been so for years. They would vote for the resolution.

The amendment was carried amid much excitement by a vote of 44 to 37. Mr. Howland voted with the Government.

Mr. Crawford did not vote and the P.P.A. members voted with the Patrons and Conservatives. Two of the Reformers also voted with the Opposition—Messrs. Haggerty and Taylor.

The Tender and Contract System.

Mr. Cleland continued the debate on the tender and contract system. Messrs. Hardy, Marter, Haycock and McPherson also spoke upon the question. The Patrons divided on the vote. The amendment was lost, 38 to 49. Mr. Haycock voted with the Opposition.

Tuition Without Cost.

Mr. Richardson introduced a bill to amend the High Schools Act. The bill provides for the repeal of that clause in the Act which provides that counties shall pay for pupils residing in their municipalities who attend high schools in towns separated from the county.

Mr. Stratton's New Bill.

Mr. Stratton introduced a bill to legalise a debenture by-law of $3,000 for the townships of Burleigh and Anstruther. The bill was read a first time.

The Public Accounts.

At the Public Accounts Committee yesterday Chairman Awrey submitted the detailed accounts of the Central Prison which were taken up and checked by some of the members. At the request of Hon. Mr. Harcourt the consideration of Mr. Matheson's resolution, advocating more detail in the public accounts, was deferred for a week. Mr. Harcourt wished to consult with the Provincial auditor on the subject.

No More Gratuities.

Mr. Dynes gave notice that he would move this resolution: "That in the opinion of this House there should be no allowance or gratuity to any employee of the Government for living expenses or for any other purpose beyond the salary attached to his office."

University Finances.

From a return just laid before the Legislature regarding University finances it appears that the receipts of the institution in 1894 were $113,289. The chief items of revenue were $50,921 interest on investments, $35,557 fees of students, $13,609 rents. The amount spent in salaries was $60,920. The president's salary was $5,000, the librarian gets $1,800, the chief professors $3,200 each.

Hoping the Next Will Be a Girl.

They are so alarmed in Germany for fear the next child soon to be born to the emperor and empress will be a boy that prayers have been offered in some of the churches by the superstitious, not to say unscientific, subjects of the empire to avert the calamity. According to an old prophecy, the Hohenzollern dynasty will surely fall when an emperor has seven sons. As William is already the father of six, and but one daughter, it will be understood that a mate for the little girl is more desirable than the unlucky number seven. But it does not need another boy in the family to open the eyes of the German Empire to the rude pace its "God annointed" ruler is going at the present time, for surely the sex of an infant can have little to do with the discomfort and the alarm that are now animating all classes.—Boston Herald.

THE HENDERSHOTT TRIAL.

The Defence Trying to Prove an Alibi for John Hendershott.

St. Thomas, March 14.—Counsel for the defence yesterday morning made a formal application for the discharge of John Hendershott on the ground that sufficient evidence had not been produced to show his connection with the death of his nephew, William Hendershott. His Lordship refused the application, stating that the case must go to the jury, and they must decide whether evidence unfavorable to the prisoner had been produced.

Mary Lily Hendershott, daughter of the elder prisoner and the affianced bride of the younger prisoner, described her father's and lover's mode of life, and the drive she took with her father when they left their home upon that fatal 14th of December, on their way to St. Thomas, Aylmer, Tilsonburg and Eden. Her father was scarcely out of her sight more than five minutes during the trip. She was positive that William Henry Hendershott had quarrelled with his father over division of property. Her father and deceased had been out in the woods cutting timber all the week.

Albert Mariatt saw Hendershott in St. Thomas near the noon hour on December 14.

Other witnesses are giving evidence to sustain an alibi in the case of John Hendershott, and it is believed that so far as he is concerned the Crown's case has failed.

In the afternoon J. Z. Long, architect, who had taken notes and measurements of the tree, testified that in his opinion the tree fell unexpectedly, as it was rotten in the centre, and that it probably swerved while falling.

Robert Connelly, a lumberman, gave similar evidence.

Dr. Vanbuskirk said that he did not think the axe caused the wounds upon the head of the deceased. He claimed to have found a sliver of wood in one of the wounds, but was unable to produce it. His evidence was much weakened by the cross-examination of Mr. Osler. Professor Nancrede, of Ann Arbor University, a surgical expert, said that the wounds might have been caused by either the tree or the axe, but if made by branches it would require a branch for each wound.

SKIPPED OUT WITH $4,000.

The Acting Teller of the Traders Bank at Stratford Leaves Suddenly.

Strathroy, March 14.—John W. Patterson, acting teller of the Traders Bank here, left town on Saturday night taking with him about $4,000 of the bank's funds. It has been learned that he went through to Chicago. The bank is, we understand, fully protected. Patterson was a steady, well-conducted young man of about 20 years of age, having the confidence of his superior officers, and his leaving in such a manner is a great surprise to his many friends. It is almost certain that he will be captured, as the most active steps have been taken to secure that end.

FINANCE AND COMMERCE

TORONTO, March 14, 1895.

Street prices: Wheat, 64c; goose, 69c; oats, 37½ to 38c.

Hog products are scarce locally, and prices are higher. Dressed hogs, $5.75 to $5.85.

Eggs, newly laid, are down to 15 cents and likely to be lower.

Trade in general shows a gratifying improvement, and in most lines is much steadier than for some time past.

Red clover seed is higher, the price quoted now by wholesale men being $6 to $6.50. The tendency of the market is higher. Timothy, machine threshed, $2.50 to $2.75 per bush.; flail threshed $2.00 to $2 per bush.; alsike $5.50 to $5.25.

Timothy, $10 to $12 per ton; clover, $8 to $9 per ton; straw, $7.50 to $8.50.

Hides, cows $4.50, steers $5; wool, 20c for choice; sheepskins 85c.

The bull campaign in wheat came to an inglorious end in Chicago yesterday in spite of firm cables, crop damage reports and the weather bulletin announcing a cold wave, the close being ½ to ⅝c below yesterday. Corn lost ¼ to ⅛c and oats ⅛c. Provisions were higher.

THAT MISSING LIST.

Some of the Difficulties and Drawbacks of the Franchise Act.

THE OLD SYSTEM PREFERABLE

All Good Reforms Introduced Have Been Those Urged for Years in Parliament by the Liberals—A Minister Looking for a Seat.

Ottawa, March 14.—It is reported that Mr. Joseph Marshall, M.P. for West Middlesex, is to retire in favor of the Hon. J. C. Patterson, Mr. Marshall to receive a Government position. This is the third or fourth seat created for Mr. Patterson since the beginning of the campaign, notwithstanding that he is the sitting member for West Huron. The number of seats placed at Mr. Patterson's disposal in the newspapers must excite the suspicion that some intimate political assistant of Mr. Patterson's is actively engaged in creating the impression that Mr. Patterson can have his choice of any number of seats. The fact is that the Minister of Militia is practically without a seat, and has none in sight. If forced to contest West Huron again it will simply mean that the Government are desirous of dropping Mr. Patterson, as he cannot get into Parliament again by way of West Huron, which he only captured in a bye-election by a majority of 16. When Mr. Patterson was taken into the Cabinet he was looked upon as a rising star, but he has greviously disappointed his friends, and had an otherwise amiable disposition soured.

The Unfair Franchise Act.

The statement is being made that owing to the fact that the revised voters' list for West Huron was not forwarded within the time specified, February 28th, no general election could take place until a session of Parliament had been held and this one list legalized. This statement, however, has no foundation, because there is a special provision in the statute that where at the time of the election a revised list is not ready the last revised list shall be used. For instance, if there was an election to-morrow in West Huron the list of 1891 would have to be used, but if the revised list of 1895 comes in before there is an election it will then be the last revised list and will of course be used. It might be prudent at the next session of Parliament to pass a bill removing all doubt at all that the more technicality of the list not coming within the time specified will not be allowed to stand in the way of its being used; otherwise there would be a large number of voters in West Huron disfranchised, and there is nobody who would wish to raise a technical objection, the result of which would disfranchise a portion of the inhabitants of West Huron. It might be well, however, in such cases to provide a punishment for the revising barrister who was so negligent of his duty as not to obey the statute.

The incident only emphasizes the difficulties and drawbacks of the Franchise Act, which the Liberals are pledged to repeal the moment they return to power. The Liberals have been advocating a return to the former system, which worked all right from 1867 to 1885, of using the Provincial lists prepared by municipal officers every year, and so good a case had they and so persistently did they advocate it in Parliament that they converted Sir John Thompson to their views and that statesman actually introduced a bill last session into Parliament adopting the Provincial franchise as the basis for the Dominion franchise. Influences were brought to bear, however, upon him and he afterwards withdrew that portion of the bill, but gave an official pledge that he would put it through at the next session, never thinking that he would not live to see another session. All good reforms introduced by legislation have been those urged for years in Parliament by the Liberals, and steadfastly resisted by the Conservatives, until public opinion became so strong in favor of the Liberal view that the Government was forced to adopt it. The sugar duty is another example of this. Mr. Paterson, of Brant, in 1893 moved for a reduction on refined sugar from 8-10th of a cent per pound to 5-10th, but the Government and every one of their supporters voted it down. In the following session the Government turned about and reduced the duty to 6-10th of a cent or very close to the amount mentioned by Mr. Paterson. Mr. Paterson also included in his resolution that raw sugar up to number 16 Dutch standard should be free, instead of up to number 14, but this was voted down, only however, to be adopted by the Government at the next session of Parliament. The recent reforms in the criminal law put through by Sir John Thompson were initiated by Mr. M. C. Cameron, of Huron, when that gentleman was in the House. It is the old story of Tory resistance to reforms in the interest of the people until they can no longer resist and then they give in and claim credit for them.

Getting Within the Fortress.

The Conservatives of Ottawa are to hold a nominating convention next Tuesday. There is some trouble among them owing to the number of aspirants and to the splitting up of the party into two wings, one of which is led by Mr. Taylor McVeity, a young Conservative lawyer, who declares that he is going to run whether he gets the nomination or not. The prospects are good for the election of one if not two Liberals in this city, as the Liberals are united and enthusiastic.

Seeking a Refuge.

Mr. Curran, the Solicitor-General, or some of his friends, are persistently circulating a rumor to the effect that he is going into the Cabinet or on the Bench. Even the Government organ in this city, the Citizen, cannot resist this morning in publishing a very sarcastic paragraph concerning this rumor and says that as he cannot get both positions at once it may be that he will enter the Cabinet first and then get the judgeship afterwards, for which they say he is eminently fitted by his high legal attainments. It is well known here and in Montreal that Solicitor-General Curran, Q.C., M.P., LL.D., knows nothing of law, and the Citizen's paragraph has consequently set the town laughing at Mr. Curran.

THE MIDDLEMARCH TRAGEDY.

Medical Testimony to Show that Death was Caused by the Tree.

St. Thomas, March 15.—The defence medical testimony in the Hendershott murder case was continued yesterday morning. Dr. Mason, St. Thomas, did not think that an axe could have produced the wounds found upon the head of deceased, because the skull was not fractured, and is of opinion that branches of a tree could have made them. None of the wounds on the head were necessarily fatal; death was likely caused by laceration of the base of the brain, with convulsions before death. This tends to support the theory of the defence that the deceased was struck by a branch of a tree, and, life not being extinct, he dragged himself forward to the position in which the body was found.

Witness said that the principal wound on the back of the head could not have been made by anything having so small a surface as an axe. The wound over the right temple, which exactly fits the axe, was, in witness' opinion, produced by a blow upwards.

Dr. Waugh, of London, gave evidence of a similar character, as also did Dr. Going.

Robert Miller testified as to the financial standing of Hendershott, who, he said, was in comfortable circumstances.

After luncheon George Holmes, of Toronto, testified that in his opinion the tree fell about eight feet out of line to the west and then rebounded two feet to the east.

J. Z. Long, recalled, produced a model of the tree to illustrate his previous evidence.

Matthew Campbell, of Lawrence, testified that he thought the tree fell about eight inches out of line. Upon cross-examination he admitted that evidence in this connection was largely a matter of conjecture.

Mrs. Charles Welter, aunt of the prisoner Welter, repeated the story of Welter coming to their house and telling of the tragedy and asking her to send for the coroner and also to send a telegram to John Hendershott. She said that John Hendershott was at their house about nine o'clock in the morning. She saw no blood on Welter's clothing or face.

John Ketchabaw, recalled, identified pieces of the tree which he had seen at John Hendershott's as those which had been used to carry the dead man to the house. He said that he was at Hendershott's when David Hendershott said he had a stick in his trunk covered with blood and hair which had killed his son; that Will Welter wouldn't kill him any more than he would. At the funeral Mrs. Smucks, who was in the same rig as witness, told him she was in the woods when the tree fell and saw Welter running to Charles Welter's house. At another time the witness was present when David Hendershott said that if he didn't get the insurance money that John would not. He would send him down first.

Sylvester Swisher, recalled, said he met David Hendershott some days after the inquest when latter said there was an axe missing but he knew where it was and it would turn up at the proper time.

In rebuttal, Dr. Lawrence, recalled, said that what Dr. Vanbuskirk had taken from the wound in the head of deceased and showed him, was not a sliver. He said when he read his post-mortem report to Dr. Vanbuskirk that the latter said he had changed his mind and that the case looked very suspicious.

Edwin Wardell, recalled, said the top of the branch which the defence claimed killed Hendershott was fully nine feet from the head of the body and four feet clear of the body.

Richard Saunders, who cut the limb from the tree to carry the body to the house, swore that the limb was about five feet from the body and nine feet from the head. He had pressed the limb down to the ground and it did not touch the body. He said he had examined the ground where the head lay and there was no stubble or grass in the ground.

Richard Curtis, who helped to carry the body into the house, said the top of the limb was four feet away from the nearest part of the body.

THE MANITOBA SCHOOL QUESTION.

The Ministers Assembling at Ottawa Cabinet will Meet To-Morrow.

Ottawa, March 15.—It was announced at noon yesterday that the Cabinet caucus to decide the Manitoba question would not meet until to-morrow afternoon. Sir Mackenzie Bowell, Caron, Ouimet, Daly, Dickey, Curran and Wood have arrived. Senator Bernier, of St. Boniface, who is looking after the interests of the minority, has arrived here from Quebec and had an interview with Sir Mackenzie Bowell yesterday.

Piano Tuning.

Mr. G Gumpricht is in town. Orders may be left at Messrs Taylor & Macdonald's or at the Peterborough Bookstore.

ONTARIO LEGISLATURE

The House Spend the Day in Committee of Supply,

THE PATRONS' PLATFORM.

Questions That Will be Asked of the Government To-day or in the Near Future—No Commutation to Judges and Local Masters.

Toronto, March 15.—On the surface there was nothing of importance transacted at the Local Legislature yesterday. The regular routine business of the day was quickly disposed of and the House went into Committee of Supply. Many items of little importance were passed and the House rose at six o'clock to allow the members to attend the Speaker's dinner in the evening.

While routine business was going on the Patrons were [illegible] ways and means to place their pl[illegible] prominently before the public. Th[illegible]s of their labors were several resolutions which will be moved in the House as soon as an opportunity is afforded.

Mr. Haycock will move "That in the opinion of this House the commutation allowance to the judges and local masters as asked for by the estimates were originally and now are in many cases excessive and should be reduced so as not to exceed the revenue derived from the fees in respect of which the commutation allowance is paid."

Caven After Registrars.

Mr. Caven has signified his intention to move this resolution: "That this House is of the opinion that registry offices should be inspected in a manner that would afford a better safeguard against fraud in regard to the proportion of the revenue payable by the Registrar, and so long as the present system continues of appointing and paying them that they should be governed by rules, providing as far as practicable for uniformity in the amount which they may pay out of the gross income for assistance and other expenditure in connection with their office."

To Elect County Officials.

Mr. McNichol has decided to ask the Government to state their policy with reference to county officials. He will move "That in the opinion of this House all county officials paid by the county except county judges should be elected by a direct vote of municipal electors, the existing system of Government inspection being continued and office filled during efficiency and good behavior, and that where incompetency or irregularity occurs in any office the inspector shall lay his complaint before an unpartisan tribune to be specified by an Act of this House, also shall have power to act."

London Normal School.

Mr. Whitney will ask Sir Oliver Mowat to-day if he intends establishing a Normal school at London.

Grenville's License Commissioners.

Mr. Bush is anxious to know if the License Commissioners for the County of Grenville for the present year have been appointed. If so, what are the names of such commissioners? If no appointments have been made, what is the reason for the delay?

Interesting to Creditors.

Mr. Howland will ask the Government to-day if it is their intention to introduce during the present session an Act for the prevention of sales of merchandise stock in trade with intent to defraud creditors.

Thrilling Experience in a Shanty.

Ottawa, March 15.—Some thirty shanty men employed by Mr. George Fraser, lumber jobber, in the Magnasippi, had a thrilling experience on Sunday night last. It was at the camp on the south branch of the river mentioned. It seems that a box of sawdust, in which dynamite had been packed, took fire through a match being carelessly dropped in. In a moment the shanty was on fire. Foreman Gendron, jumping from his bunk, seized the burning box and attempted to get out of the door, which was blocked by the excited men. Before egress could be had four men were fearfully burned. Had it not been for the pluck of the foreman, Mr. Gendron, a fatality would assuredly have to be recorded.

North Bay will be the County Seat.

North Bay, March 15.—Voting took place in Nipissing district yesterday on the selection of a county seat. North Bay, Mattawa and Sturgeon Falls were the towns named for the honor. North Bay has 107 majority with three or four places to hear from which will probably increase the majority in favor of North Bay.

Brockville's Oldest Resident Dead.

Brockville, March 15.—Brockville's oldest resident, in the person of Curtis Meade, and probably one of the oldest in this Province, died yesterday morning. He had attained the great age of 96 years, and was in full possession of all his senses up to the time of death. He had 4 children, 24 grandchildren, 15 great-grandchildren and 1 great-great-grandchild.

Fined for Violation of the Medical Act.

Tara, March 15.—August Meyers, of Sullivan township, County of Grey, was yesterday found guilty of a violation of the Medical Act and fined $25 and costs, $40 in all, or one month in Walkerton jail. The information was laid by Assistant Medical Detective E. Briggs, of Walkerton.

Charged With False Pretences.

Montreal, March 15.—Jas. O'Brien, jr., a son of James O'Brien, the well-known millionaire who made his fortune in the ready-made clothing business, has been arrested on a charge of false pretences laid by the Quebec bank, and the amount involved is $20,000.

Daily Examiner.

FRIDAY, MARCH 15, 1895.

THE Patrons seem to be a bad lot when exercise of their right to vote as they choose stirs up Conservative bile to the extent indicated by the Toronto World. After calling Leader Haycock a "fraud," a "humbug," a "lion" stuffed with straw and such like classic epithets, the World concludes by this choice bit of literary elegance:

"The public have sized you up, Haycock. You are the yellow dog of politics. Henceforth people will kick you about like a thing that is cheap and nasty. You have no standing. You represent no principles. You are a political nonentity, a by-word, an object of ridicule. The sentence of the court is that a tin can be tied to your tail, Haycock, that you be set loose in the streets, and that a proclamation be issued making it no misdemeanor to fling stones at you, to jeer and ridicule you out of countenance."

And this from a Conservative organ that a few months ago was urging the Conservative Opposition to unite with the Patrons and follow their leadership.

MR. McCARTHY, who left the Conservative party through motives of personal spleen, is now acting the part of a mischief-maker pure and simple. But we have not yet got to the stage of governing through popular meetings.—Ottawa Citizen.

Nor yet though the popular will, while Conservative methods in the form of Gerrymanders, manipulated franchise lists, bribery by government grants and subsidies and bribery direct by boodle funds, abstracted through contractors, are in vogue.

THE Massey-Harris manufacturing company, having got all it can in the way of big profits and music halls for Toronto, out of the Canadian farmers, now purposes removing its factories, employing twelve or fourteen hundred hands, to the United States for the sake of the larger market. Messieurs, the Massey-Harris Company, has the National Policy made you rich?

BLUE Nose Legislators are not gallant. There were lively scenes about the Nova Scotia Legislature on Wednesday, when the vote on the motion to extend the franchise to women came up. The motion was opposed by all the members of the Government, and lost on a division by 21 to 13. Nova Scotia ladies can't vote yet.

Now let us hear the Conservative organs score the Patrons for voting with the Opposition on Sir Oliver Mowat's amendment in reference to the abolition of Government House.

THE National Policy can make the proud boast that it has set at least one infant industry on its feet—to walk over to the United States—that is the Massey-Harris Company.

A PITIFUL CASE.

(The Globe.)

The Tory policy seems to be to hunt the Catholics of Ontario all over the face of earth when a political object can be achieved by charging an alliance between the Grits and the Pope, and when a Federal election comes on to pillory the Grits as the enemies of "the constitution," hostile to the "building up of a great Canadian nationality," inciters to quarrels of race and creed, and all the other claptrap of desperate politicians.

A few months ago the Tories of Ontario set the P.P.A. on the track of the Catholics. Now these same leaders of Protestantism are chuckling over their plans to get "the Catholic vote" and crucify the Grits, who have been cursed from every Tory Platform in the province as the miserable and unpatriotic partners in a compact with "the hierarchy."

The game, openly played in the face of day, must make the Catholic people feel nothing but contempt for the sectarian managers. They will probably prove to the country that they are not the chattels of the Tory party and that they cannot be sold to-day and bought to-morrow, as the Tory managers imply. They will prove that they vote, as do other Canadian citizens, on the merits of public questions, and that it is not as easy to make an alliance with the Catholic people to destroy a Liberal Opposition as it was to make an alliance with the P.P.A. to destroy a Liberal Government because it would not rob Catholics of their rights under the constitution.

The course of the Tories in the Local election was an outrage upon the Catholics of the Province, the course now proposed by the Tory managers is an insult to the Catholic community; and a party which can descend to these miserable and contemptible devices to hold the favour of a great country is unworthy of the confidence of either Catholics or Protestants, and ought to be summarily ejected from office.

JAPAN'S LITTLE BILL.

All that Japan wants from China as a condition of peace is a hundred and fifty million dollars, the province of Manchuria, the island of Formosa and the fortresses of Port Arthur and Wei-Hai-Wei.

Manchuria is about the size of Ontario and Quebec combined and contains twelve million people, or more than double the population of the Dominion of Canada.

Formosa is a fertile island, nearly half the size of Newfoundland, with about half a million people on it.

The fortresses of Port Arthur and Wei-Hai-Wei are two of the most important on the east coast of China.

THE BEST ROOT SUGAR INDUSTRY.

Mr. Robert H. Lawder Speaks Highly of Peterborough's Adaptability to the Production of Roots as Well as of its Adaptability as a Site for a Factory—The Profits of Beet Raising.

Mr. Robert H. Lawder, representing Messrs. Michel Lefebvre & Co., Montreal, proprietors of the Beet Root Sugar Factory at Berthierville, P. Q., was in town, on Thursday, in the interests of beet root sugar. Experts in this industry in Belgium and France write that capital in these countries is waiting investment in the manufacture of beet root sugar in Canada or the United States—preferably in Canada, since they PREFER BEETS GROWN ON CANADIAN SOIL.

At present the United States duty on foreign sugar is 40 per cent. with an additional duty of 1/2 per cent. per hundred pounds on refined sugar. With either a customs duty or a bonus equal to this impost, the capitalists mentioned would prefer Canada as a field for investment. A part of Mr. Lawder's business, the last four weeks, has been to confer with small gatherings of representative farmers in different parts of the county to ascertain if they would be willing to raise beets according to his proposal. Several of the French correspondents say that it would be a great inducement to establish factories if they could find farmers willing to take beet stock in a company that is stock payable in beets in annual instalments during the currency of the contract. Mr. Lawder reports that everywhere the prices and conditions he submitted were found satisfactory to the farmers who have attended these meetings. As abundance of water and first class railway connections are favourable conditions, Mr. Lawder thinks Peterborough presents many advantages. In the present depressed condition of agriculture, every opening that promises profit should at least be freely investigated and if found satisfactory should be taken advantage of. Mr. Lawder says he has been connected with the beet root sugar industry for seven or eight years, and from his observation he is satisfied that it can be developed into an industry second only in importance to the great cheese industry. To produce beet sugar to meet the consumption of sugar in Canada would require the output of at least thirty large well-equipped factories. This would involve the investment of at least $900,000 in the construction of buildings, etc., and the employment of a large number of hands. In addition, the supply of the required quality of sugar beets would require the operation of extensive farming activities, with a profit which should prove attractive to the farmers. On well tilled soil, such as abounds in the vicinity of Peterborough, there could be raised fifteen tons of beets of the value at a factory of $4 per ton—$60 per acre. The outside cost of producing these, every item of labour and expense included, is given at from $30 to $35 per acre, leaving a net profit of from $30 to $25 per acre for the farmer. If these figures are correct, and they are vouched for as the result of actual experiment, the beet root sugar industry would pay the farmer, in case he found a market for his produce, a little better than average grain growing. The subject is especially worth the attention of the farmers, and as the success of the enterprise seems to depend upon the circumstance of a bounty being given by the Government, the farming community would do well in their investigation of the facts to also consider their relations as electors to the proposal to subsidize the industry. The enthusiasts in beet root sugar manufacture claim that beet root sugar is, in the interest of the farmer, as well entitled to a bonus as pig-iron or butter. Farmers should think the matter over.

Josephine Begin's Defence.

Sherbrooke, March 14.—In the Begin case, the two lawyers for the defence finished their addresses after an effort lasting over three hours. Mr. Belanger, in French, and Mr. Broderick in English. Their statement of the case and appeal to the jury was of a most melting character. They were followed by Mr. Mulvena for the Crown in a forcible address in French. The court then adjourned. Mr. White will address the jury to-day in English.

THEY ARE GIVING AWAY.

Physicians Commence to Realize the Value of Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Ottawa, March 15.—The inveterate reluctance to admit the success of patent medicine, usually evinced by physicians is rapidly giving away as far as Dodd's Kidney Pills are concerned. The cases of Dr. Rose and Dr. McCormick, who published details of their recovery from diabetes and Bright's disease, through the agency of this remedy, were the first attacks on the citadel of their skepticism and now it appears as if the remarkable recovery of Mr. G. H. Kent, of this city, the details of which have been already transmitted to the press, could complete what has been so auspiciously began. The published interviews with Mr. and Mrs. Kent and the sworn statement of the former leave no foothold for disbelief.

Sallow complexion, blotches, pimples, abscesses, old sores, scrofula and skin diseases depend on impure vitiated blood. Burdock Blood Bitters purifies the blood, removes all effete matter and cures all the above named diseases.

ATLANTIC AND LAKE SUPERIOR RY.

The Scheme Will Not be Pushed Until Present Railway Crisis Passes Away

London, March 15.—The attention of the Hon. Senator J. R. Thibaudeau was drawn to a statement emanating from Montreal that a cablegram had been received in that city from London intimating that the subscription for the first issue of Atlantic and Lake Superior Railway bonds to the amount of $6,500,000 would close for city subscriptions on Wednesday and that "success was assured." Senator Thibaudeau, in reply to a query as to the facts of the case, stated that the Atlantic and Lake Superior scheme would not be pressed at the present juncture, but would wait until the present crisis in the affairs of Canadian railways had passed away.

LI HUNG CHANG'S POSITION.

He Need not Return to China if He Fails to Secure Peace with Japan.

Shanghai, March 15.—It is reported that Li Hung Chang is instructed to consent to an indemnity; also if necessary to a cession of territory. The Japanese will occupy Manchuria, Shan-Tung promontory and Formosa. The idemnity will be guaranteed by the customs and will be paid quinquennially. China is also ready to surrender her southern squadron now hiding at Nankin. The Emperor and Dowager Empress warned Li Hung Chang that he need not return unless successful. They upbraided him for concealing from them the deplorable condition of China which they said might easily have been victorious if properly prepared.

HARCOURT FOR SPEAKER.

If He Accepts Mr. Campbell-Bannerman will be Leader in the House.

London, March 15.—The Globe asserts that intimations have been conveyed to certain members of the Opposition that Sir William Harcourt, Chancellor of the Exchequer, will accept the Speakership of the House of Commons. His candidature is not opposed. If this is settled Right Hon. Mr. H. Campbell-Bannerman will succeed Sir William Harcourt as Government leader in the House.

Consolidation of the Empire.

London, March 15.—Yesterday's newspapers comment on a speech delivered by Sir Charles Tupper, Canadian Commissioner, at the Article Club on March 9. Sir Charles said he was convinced that Parliamentary Federation was impracticable. The consolidation or union of the Empire was the goal toward which hopes should be directed. He was sure that Newfoundland would soon join Canada. He expected the Australian colonies and then South Africa to follow the example set by the Canadian provinces.

Brazil and Portugal Reconciled.

Lisbon, March 15.—The British Minister in Rio Janeiro has been successful in his mediation between Brazil and Portugal, that the entente has been renewed and that diplomatic relations will be resumed soon. The coolness between the countries began when a Portuguese warship carried Admiral de Gama and other conspicuous insurgents beyond the jurisdiction of the Brazilian Government.

Cuban Despatches Must be Inspected.

Madrid, March 15.—The Government has begun exercising the strictest censorship over despatches to and from Cuba. Nothing unfavorable to the Government is permitted to pass. No cipher messages are sent unless the key be given the Government.

Sydney, N. S. W., March 15.—Premier Reid, in replying to a deputation yesterday, pledged himself to woman suffrage although declaring it would be impossible for a long time to introduce the bill.

Canadian Horse Trade with Belgium.

Antwerp, March 15.—A syndicate is forming in Belgium to import Canadian horses. Its agents will go to Canada to open the trade.

Will Discard the Electric Light.

Windsor, March 15.—Walkerville is to be lighted by natural gas as soon as the weather will permit the piping to be done. The electric lighting is to be dispensed with. Walkerville council have been experimenting with the best burners made and propose having the best kind of a plant. The light committee of the council are now dealing with the matter. The Walker firm approve of the gas lighting system and urge the council to adopt it although the electric light plant, by which the town is now lighted, belongs to them.

Preparing for Opening of Navigation.

Ottawa, March 15.—The marine authorities on the great lakes evidently expect an early opening of navigation this spring. A communication has been received at the department here to the effect that the lights on the United States side of Lake Erie and the Detroit river would be put in operation to-day. The Dominion authorities were asked to co-operate by ordering the lights to be started up on the Canadian side. This will probably be done.

North Waterloo Reformers.

Elmira, March 15.—The Reform convention for North Waterloo met here yesterday afternoon for the purpose of selecting a candidate to represent them at the coming elections for the House of Commons. A number of names were proposed, amongst them being I. E. Bowman, the present member, and E. W. B. Snider, ex-M.P.P. Mr. Bowman, on account of ill-health and advancing age, declined the nomination. Mr. E. W. B. Snider received the unanimous choice of the convention.

A VAGUE SHRINE.

There's something looking in my life
A yearning undefined,
While in the change of calm and strife
Still haunts thy troubled mind.

There is a vague, evasive good,
A dream of something higher;
A longing, dimly understood,
Yet breathing sweet desire.

Can it be love? Nay, nay, I think!
I've tried that little game:
But when I reached the fatal brink
I paused—and back I came.

Can it be fame, or great success?
I fancy not, my boy:
The praise and the bitterness
Would far outweigh the joy.

Perhaps it's that I'm growing old,
And would be more content
Had I a million, hard and cold,
Put out at five per cent.

—Harry Romaine.

INDIAN ASTRONOMY.

Aboriginal Beliefs in the Constellations and Movements of the Planets.

The Osages, in common with many other tribes, believe that the constellations are gods and goddesses. They have a tradition to the effect that once upon a time the Osages possessed neither bodies nor souls. They appealed to a divinity known as the Male Red Bird, who furnished them with souls in the bodies of birds. Thus they pursued existence for awhile in the likeness of feathered creatures. In this guise they first visited the earth. There they met another divinity called the Black Bear. He offered to serve them and they asked him to visit the various constellations with a petition in their behalf. They wanted human bodies for themselves. The Black Bear went successively to the sun, to the moon, to the morning star, to the constellation of the deer head—meaning the Pleiades—to the constellation of the Goose Foot, and finally to the Female Red Bird, who was found brooding on her nest. She it was who granted the request which others had refused, giving to the Osages the bodies in which they have since dwelt.

The sun is a god devoutly worshipped by most Indians. The ceremony of the sun dance, as performed by the Sioux and Ponca, has often been described. Everybody has heard how the warriors torture themselves, one part of the performance gone through by the young brave consisting in attaching himself to the dance pole by lariats passed through loops of his own skin, then freeing himself by dashing away on horseback or otherwise. For three days and nights they dance, gazing continually at the sun by day and the moon by night, while it is supposed they swallow neither food nor water. As a matter of fact, however, the dance pole is planted usually in a spot near which certain succulent roots grow. These they pluck up slyly, eating them and sucking the juices. Among the Sioux Indians the buffalo bull is importantly associated with the sun dance. Oddly enough, in ancient Egypt the sun god Ra was associated with the deified bull called Apis.—Chicago Times.

Queer Answers.

The uncivilised nations are like children in their simplicity and gentleness. Every adult knows what odd questions a child will ask and what curious explanations they are in the habit of giving. Nothing could equal the childlike simplicity of the replies lately given in an examination in chemistry held in an Indian university:

"Sulphur is a smelliful gas. Nitrogen is a remarkably lasy gas and is good for nothing. Carbon always exists in a dark room. There is no living being in the whole world that does not contain carbon. Gas is made by filling a poker with coal and heating it. Chlorine gives botheration to the throat. Hydrogen is a colorless invisible gas and burns itself without anybody's help. Nitric acid is used in the preparation of current electricity. It is very bad for teachers to pour it on our hands.

"Soda is formed by heating castor oil and potash. Caustic soda is used in the manufacture of soda water, and this is used in medicine for purgative purposes. Caustic soda is used as a summer drink. Quicklime is made by pouring water on slacked lime. We can eat this substance (CaO); it has the power of digesting food.

"Lime is used as a kind of gum for builders to stick bricks together."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Never In Time.

The late H. J. Byron had a horror of funerals, but was once prevailed upon to attend that of a fellow Bohemian. After waiting long at the cemetery entrance, he and his companions followed a funeral into the chapel, and when the service was half over, discovered that it was that of a stranger. Their friend's funeral had not come yet.

"Ah," said Byron, "just like poor Bill—never in time!"—London Million.

A Popular Traveller.

Mr. G. Fred [illegible], the popular representative of T. S. Simms & Co., St. John, N. B., in speaking of Norway Pine Syrup, says: "It is the best cough cure I ever used, and I prefer it to any other. Have given it to friends of mine, and it cures every time. It would be difficult now to induce me to take any other."

Words of Weight and Wisdom

Canada's Well-known Railroad Contractor, Mr. J. W. Dinwoodie, III.

Treated by Several Doctors and Tried Nearly Every Proprietary Medicine—Got Very Little Benefit—Was Influenced to Use South American Nervine—Found Immediate Relief—"The Nervousness Has Entirely Left My System"—"I Will Never Be Without It in My Home."

MR. J. W. DINWOODIE, CAMPBELLFORD, ONT.

Men of affairs usually weigh their words. They are not of that class of people who carry their hearts upon their sleeve. One of the best known men of affairs in Canada is Mr. J. W. Dinwoodie, the large railroad contractor, evidence of whose work is to be found in all parts of the Dominion, from the Atlantic to the Pacific, to chain one section of our vast Dominion with another and bring its people into easy touch with each other through the medium of the iron horse, as Mr. Dinwoodie has in a short lifetime done, is a work of which any man may be proud. Hard and brainy labor, however, is necessary to success of this character, and the strongest constitutions are in danger of breaking down under the strain. It has been so with Mr. Dinwoodie. The great thought that he has had to give to his work, and the care and responsibility that it has carried with it finally told on his constitution, and he became a victim of nervous troubles, his liver and kidneys becoming seriously disordered.

Naturally he consulted a medical man. Comparatively no relief was obtained. He changed his doctor, and did not stop with one, two or three physicians, but he got no better. Various proprietary medicines were recommended, and, as he says himself, "Tried them all, but got very little benefit. Last fall I was camping out, and I was feeling very ill. I happened to pick up a paper with the advertisement for South American Nervine. I determined to give it a trial, and procured a bottle from the local druggist. After having taken but a few doses I found very great relief. The severe pain that I had been suffering in the small of my back left me and the nervousness that had rendered me, in a large measure, unfit for work, has as a result of the continued use of Nervine, become banished from my system. I am now able to enjoy refreshing sleep the night through. I keep South American Nervine always in the house, and I do not hesitate to say that it is the very best medicine I have ever taken, and most confidently recommend it to anyone troubled with nervousness of whatever form and the attendant diseases of the liver and stomach that follow this weakness."

The important fact can not be too often emphasized that South American Nervine cures at the nerve centers, from which emanate all diseases. This being an undoubted scientific truth, fully and perfectly demonstrated by science, it is never an experiment to use Nervine, but in this remedy is always found a certain cure.

Though full of grief, we'd no despair,
Relations spoke so kind and fair.
Our Grandpa said that he, for one,
Would try and see what could be done.
Our Uncle William and our Aunt,
Hoped we should never come to want
But mother's brothers talked the best,
A great deal bolder than the rest.
They said that home they'd take us all,
Only their rooms were few and small.
We'd promises from Uncle Papa,
To push us forward when of age.
They then went home, but stop, I miss,
They gave us every one, a kiss,
And said, 'be good and mind Mamma,
And we will be to you—Papa."
For many weeks they could not come,
So much were they engaged at home,
Until they heard Mamma had found
Behind Pa's desk upon the ground,
An envelope, "to my dear wife,"
Five Thousand Manufacturers' Life
Which soon the Manufacturers' paid.
So Ma commenced a genteel trade,
And then they came, it seemed so funny,
To beg Mamma would lend them money.
But Ma said no, if you are poor,
A trifle will your life insure;
And then the Manufacturers shall
Your best friend be what'er befall.

Victoria Park.

Manager Arkles of Victoria Park, is in town to-day on a business trip. He is having his popular summer resort renovated throughout. When completed it will be a popular rendesvous for anglers. The various steamers plying the Otonabee stop there both going and coming, which affords tourists a day's outing, fishing and sailing.

Ireland's Patron Saint.

In connection with the services in St. Mary's church, Lindsay, next Sunday evening, Rev. Father Collins, of Peterborough, will deliver a lecture relative to Ireland's patron saint. A good attendance is assured, as Father Collins is well and favourably known in this vicinity as a clever speaker and theologian.—Lindsay Watchman.

A Stray Deer.

Considerable interest was excited in Lakefield by the appearance of a yearling deer, on Sunday morning, which had travelled down the Young's Point road ahead of a cutter for some considerable distance, and which was captured after some trouble by Mr. Ren. Robinson. Mr. Robinson released the animal, on Monday, but it was evidently much terrified and exhausted, and after swimming the river near the sawmill, was recaptured by Mr. W. Calder, who now has it comfortably stabled and reports that it is doing well and becoming very tame.

AUCTION SALE OF CROCKERY.

A big consignment of newest patterns of Crockery to be sold by auction, commencing Saturday night, March 16th, in the store next door to Taylor & McDonald's Drug Store. Be sure and attend. Rousing bargains; Goods must be sold.—CHARLES STAPLETON Auctioneer. tf

A Harvey Man in Trouble.

The Lindsay Watchman says:—"About ten days ago a young man named Marshall, of Harvey, visited Lindsay, and when about to go home, entered the Royal hotel and purloined a heavy overcoat, leaving an old ulster in place thereof. The latter had been borrowed in Bobcaygeon, and upon reaching that classic city, Marshall left the coat, which he had borrowed so unceremoniously. A complaint was lodged with Chief Bell, who notified the authorities at Bobcaygeon, who soon located Marshall and the stolen coat. A warrant was issued for his arrest, and sent to Constable Nicholls, at Bobcaygeon, when Marshall was brought to Lindsay. He appeared before P. M. McIntyre on Saturday last and was sentenced to one month in goal and $14.95 costs in default of payment of which he will serve two months."

Paragraphs Picked Up and Pencilled for Public Perusal.

—Nothing new in police circles.

—Monday will be sheep day on the market.

—The sleighing on Charlotte street is very poor.

—A special meeting of the town council is called this evening.

—The Orillia public schools have been closed on account of an outbreak of diphtheria.

—An enormous quantity of hay was marketed this morning, as was also a great deal of wood.

—Lindsay skating rink has secured Miss Mabel Davidson for a second exhibition of fancy skating on Friday evening next.

—All the evidence in the Hendershott murder trial is in, and counsel will address the jury to-day. A verdict may be reached.

—Remember to call in to-morrow at the Peterborough Bookstore, and get your favourite periodical or newspaper. A. H. STRATTON & Co.

—Mr. C.W. Ashford, the Port Hope man who was under arrest in Honolulu, was banished from the country and has arrived in San Francisco. He speaks in very disparaging terms of President Dole and his coterie of adventurers.

—The ice at the rink is in excellent condition, but on account of the many other attractions, the attendance was not as large last evening as might have been expected. A large crowd is expected this evening.

—Philatelists will be interested to learn that the Canadian Inland Revenue department has just approved a new revenue stamp to be used in receipts for payment of electric light inspection fees. They will will be red in colour and in else two inches by three-quarters. The stamps will be of seven different denominations, viz: 25 and 50 cents, $1, $2, $3, $5 and $10.

—Swindlers generally operate for cash, but a new variety is abroad that works on tick. A fakir sells a liniment warranted to cure deafness. He tests the deaf man with a weak ticking watch, which of course the patient cannot hear. He rubs some of his liniment on the deaf ear, holds a loud-ticking watch to the ear, which is naturally heard, and the "cured" man buys many bottles. Thus the fake is worked.

Rev. Messrs. Crossley and Hunter in St. John, N. B.

"Fully twelve thousand people attended the evangelistic services yesterday, and even then hundreds were turned away. Never have two men created such a furore in this city. In the homes and on the streets it is the chief subject of conversation. Politics and civic affairs are forgotten. Many people who have never thought of going to church have been going regularly, many have been converted, and the general tone of the city's morality has been improved."—Daily Record, 11th inst.

TO-NIGHT'S LIBERAL MEETING.

The Liberals are reminded of the meeting to-night in the offices of Messrs. Stratton & Hall, Water street, to consider matters in relation to the representation of West Peterborough in the Liberal interests. It is to be hoped that all Liberals who have the cause of good government at heart will make it convenient to be present to-night. Another Cabinet meeting was held at Ottawa yesterday, but the question of dissolution or the assembling of Parliament was not considered. We hope the Liberals will not be thrown off their guard; but will complete preparations for meeting an election contest whenever it may be brought on.

HOCKEY.

The Lindsay Watchman in commenting on the Volts vs. Lindsay hockey match on Friday last says:—"An exciting match, Lindsay vs. the Volts, of Peterborough, took place at the skating rink on Friday evening last. Bad luck seems to follow our boys this season, for while they appeared to have the best of the game throughout and kept the puck pounding around the Volt's goal, they were unable to score. The game was fast on both sides and after a number of brilliant plays resulted in favour of the visitors by two goals to one. During the progress of the match Mr. Geo. Kempt, of the Montreal Bank was struck in the face by the "puck" and hit by a stick in the hands of a Peterborough man at the same time, breaking his nose, blacking his eye and inflicting a severe cut on the left temple. George got his wounds bandaged up and resumed his place on the defence position until the game was finished.

The first team of the Volts play hockey in Millbrook to-morrow afternoon.

The EXAMINER will have a much heavier team on the ice for the return match with the Review Tuesday evening. The match comes off between 7 and 8 o'clock.

The grocery clerks accept the challenge of the dry goods men to play hockey and have arranged to secure the rink between the hours of 10 and 11 o'clock Tuesday night. Mr. Jack Cumming will captain the grocery men, and he has picked out a team of heavy weights who he says "wont do a thing to the all wool and a yard wide man." The grocery men are willing to play for fun, money or marbles.

The local Bank of Ontario team is making a strong effort to bring the Bank's Toronto seven to Peterborough for a game.

The Collegiate Institute team do not go to Whitby to-day, as during the week Whitby wrote stating that they had decided not to play. After a victory over the Bank of Commerce team from Toronto, on Wednesday, they evidently plucked up courage and decided to tackle the Peterborough Collegiates after all. A telegram was received, last night, by the Collegiates urging the team to come to Whitby, but it came to hand at too late an hour for arrangements being made to take the trip.

The hockey teams of the EXAMINER and Review will meet on the rink for their return match, on Tuesday evening next. The Review has acknowledged that young MacWilliams is not elegible to play as a bona fide member of the staff and he will accordingly be replaced by another man on Tuesday. This change will make the two teams far more even in strength and the spectators may expect to have even more fun witnessing this, than the last match.

The students of the town will play hockey against a picked team from the banks at the rink to-morrow evening, the Bank of Ontario team from Toronto being unable to come to Peterborough this week.

The Millbrook Reporter speaks as follows concerning the recent Millbrook vs. Keene hockey match:—"The Millbrook hockey club drove over to Keene on Wednesday last to play their return match with the club of that place. It will be remembered that the local team defeated Keene here some time ago by a score of 5-0 and no doubt would have done the same this time had they been given fair play and treated as their opponents were treated here. Millbrook was, of course, greatly weakened by the absence of G. Leach and others, but as it was they had the best of the game and when half time was called the score stood 4-2 in favour of the visitors. But Keene were determined to win, by fair means or foul, and resorted to all kinds of roughness and shinny and were backed up by a half-civilized crowd of spectators who made the rink ring with their cries of "slug him," "dump him over the beam," and many other equally uncourteous sayings. Millbrook were also handicapped by the darkness of the rink which only contained a few lights in the centre of the ice, while the Keene umpire persisted in shutting his eyes when the puck was about to be shot on the Keene goal, and then he would declare that he did not see it go through. The referee assisted the home team all he could, not only by his decisions, but by coaching them and continually placing himself in front of Millbrook players when they were about to shoot on their opponents' goal. The referee declared the game in favour of the home team by a score of six to four, but it really was a tie as one goal, if not more, was grossly denied the visitors. Nattrass and Coombe played a brilliant game, while C. Leach took three of the Millbrook goals. The teams lined up as follows:

Millbrook.		Keene.
Tucker	goal	F Soucee
Coomb	point	J Dixon
Pickup	cover point	J McIntyre
Nattress	forwards	A S Laing
Duncan		F Quinn
Leach		A Walsh
Handley		J Quinn
Clarry	umpires	D Kennedy

Referee, A D Anderson.

POOL MATCH.

The pool match between Mr. James Gordon and Mr. W. Burdick was finished at McGregor's billiard parlour last night and resulted in a victory for Gordon by two games. When the match was resumed, the score stood 10 to 13 in Burdick's favour, but Gordon played a good game, Burdick getting only one game during the night. Considerable money changed hands over the match, the friends of Mr. Burdick giving odds on him. This was Gordon's first match of any importance. The games were scored in the following order:—1st game, Burdick 8, Gordon 2; 2nd game, Gordon 8, Burdick 2; 3rd game, Gordon 8, Burdick 2; 4th game, Burdick 8, Gordon 5; 5th game, Burdick 8, Gordon 4; 6th game, Gordon 8, Burdick 1; 7th game, Gordon 8, Burdick 2; 8th game, Burdick 8, Gordon 6; 9th game, Gordon 8, Burdick 4; 10th game, Gordon 8, Burdick 2; 11th game, Burdick 8, Gordon 5; 12th game, Burdick 8, Gordon 6; 13th game, Burdick 8, Gordon 4; 14th game, Burdick 8, Gordon 2; 15th game, Burdick 8, Gordon 6; 16th game, Gordon 8, Burdick 5; 17th game, Burdick claimed Gordon made two successive scratches; 18th game, Burdick 8, Gordon 7; 19th game, Gordon 8, Burdick 1; 20th game, Burdick 8, Gordon 7; 21st game, Gordon 8, Burdick 2; 22nd game, Burdick 8, Gordon 5; 23rd game, Gordon 8, Burdick 3; 24th game, Gordon 8, Burdick 2; 25th game, Gordon 8, Burdick 1; 26th game, Burdick, 8, Gordon 6; 26th game. Gordon 8, Burdick 2; 28th game, Gordon 8, Burdick 6; 29th game, Gordon 8, Burdick 4; 30th game, Gordon, 8 Burdick 5. Score, Gordon 16, Burdick 14.

Like a Miracle

Consumption—Low Condition

Wonderful Results From Taking Hood's Sarsaparilla.

Miss Hannah Wyatt
Toronto, Ont.

"Four years ago while in the old country (England), my daughter Hannah was sent away from the hospital, in a very low condition with consumption of the lungs and bowels, and weak action of the heart. The trip across the water to this country seemed to make her feel better for a while. Then she began to get worse, and for 14 weeks she was unable to get off the bed. She grew worse for five months and lost the use of her limbs and lower part of body, and if she sat up in bed had to be propped up with pillows. Physicians

Said She Was Past All Help

and wanted me to send her to the 'Home for Incurables.' But I said as long as I could hold my hand up she should not go. We then began to give her Hood's Sarsaparilla. She is getting strong, walks around, is out doors every day; has no trouble with her throat and no cough, and her heart seems to be all right again. She has a first class appetite. We regard her cure as nothing short of a miracle." W. WYATT, 39 Marion Street, Parkdale, Toronto, Ontario.

Booth as Billposter.

One story of Booth's trip to the Sandwich Islands remains with me. He had gone there in 1854 in company with his comrade, Mr. David C. Anderson, en route to Australia, and they were to play in the Royal Hawaiian theater. They had hired a native to paste up the bills announcing the performance. This had to be done with a preparation named "poe-poe," made from a vegetable called "tara-tara," which is a favorite food in Honolulu, but the poor man was so hungry that yielding to temptation he incontinently ate up the paste, and to their surprise no bills appeared. When the reason was ascertained, they feared to trust another native, and it was therefore agreed that as Booth was the younger he should act as billposter, and it came to pass that every night after the performance Edwin went about the city with his play bills and bucket of paste and put up with his own hands the posters announcing what the company would play on the following night. And he assured me that he did this honestly and did not eat any of the paste!—William Bispham in Century.

Chewing Gum.

I asked a very famous physician the other day if it was injurious to chew gum—not that I do it—and he answered:

"Yes and no."

"And how?" I inquired.

"To chew gum for five or ten minutes after a meal is absolutely beneficial," said he, "especially for hasty eaters, who do not half masticate their food, because the action of the jaws causes the gastric juices to flow, and that is good. But so few people can use and not abuse it. They get the gum in their mouths and keep at it till they fairly dry up the saliva supply, bring on a headache and get generally nervous. This will cause indigestion."—New York Recorder.

WOLCOTT'S LUCKY DRAW.

Four Sharpers had a Plan to Worst Him in a Gentlemen's Game, but They Failed.

Washington Corr. New York Sun.

Senator Wolcott, of Colorado, is the hero among clubmen, as a result of a recent experience in a so-called gentlemen's game of poker which took place at a fashionable resort here. Colorado's junior Senator likes to tickle the pasteboards a little every now and then, and this winter he has been famous at the national capital for the number of quiet but big games of poker played. In a gentlemen's game there is no limit, and pretty high play has been in consequence. At one of these seances it happened that four sharpers had it in for the silver Senator, or, as they termed him, "the sucker from Colorado," and after two hours' play it was patent that Senator Wolcott was no match for his adversaries, for his pile of chips dwindled as perceptibly as though sprinkled with alum from the Thompson-street Poker Club rooms. He was not a very heavy loser, however, and so hung on, hoping that luck would change.

Fortune did favour him, too, in a manner that made four very disconsolate, glum-looking gamblers after the betting had ceased. It was a put-up job, and the cards were stacked to a nicety just as a big jack pot hove in sight. In a deal a straight, running from five to *, four hearts and a seven of diamonds was given Senator Wolcott.

In this game straights beat three of a kind, and the straight flush was a lulu hand. Of course, after the jackpot was opened, Senator Wolcott stayed in, but, instead of standing pat, as it was hoped he would, he drew one card. This did not upset the calculation of the sharpers who were trying to skin him, but rather whetted their appetites for such a cinch as they were sure they had on him now.

There was some pretty stiff betting, for there was big hands out, but the Senator was in luck, for in drawing one card he got the seven of hearts, which gave him a straight flush. When the final call was made it was simply because the four other players were out of stuff, and a straight flush, four aces, a king full with queens for elders, four jacks and an ordinary club flush were exposed. The four sharpers are still wondering how on earth they miscalculated about that seven of hearts, and one of them declared that he had been over-reached by a man with a bug up his sleeve. At all events, Senator Wolcott is the poker hero of the hour, but he is inclined to be a trifle shy of any more gentlemen's games.

AN ACCIDENT WHICH MAY BE FATAL.

Mrs. Robinson, of Verulam Thrown Violently From a Cutter.

A serious accident occurred in Lindsay Wednesday morning, which may yet yet result disastrously. Mr. Alex. Robinson, of the Scotch Line, Verulam, drove into town accompanied by his mother, who is over 70 years of age. When passing Mr. Cullon's shop, near the bridge, he stopped to take in some repairs, leaving the mother in charge of the horse, which has always been very docile.

From some unknown cause the animal took fright and started off, and on reaching Kent street threw Mrs. Robinson out, striking the right side of her forehead on a small stone at a telephone pole on the Waverley House corner, leaving her quite unconscious for a time, and inflicting a severe wound. She was picked up and carried into Mr. Reid's hotel and medical aid summoned. Her wounds were promptly dressed and she now lies in a very precarious condition, although good hopes are entertained for her recovery.

The runaway horse left the cutter and took to the sidewalk and ran madly along to William street, where he turned and ran as far as the entrance to Clunan's hotel yard, which he entered and rushed right into the stable, which, fortunately, was open at the time. Strange to say the animal was none the worse of the escapade and the only thing that was broken was the shafts of the cutter.

MR. MULLIGAN'S LAKEFIELD CONCERT.

A Number Drove Out From Town to Attend—An Excellent Programme.

The members of St. Andrew's choir and a number of others from town drove out to Lakefield to assist Mr. Mulligan in a concert which he was giving in the village.

The programme, as will be seen, was an excellent one and a large attendance was present.

A LECTURE ON ART.

Mr. Bernard McEvoy, of Toronto, in the Y. M. C. A. Hall.

An appreciative audience gathered last evening in the hall of the Y.M.C.A. to listen to a lecture by Mr. Bernard McEvoy, of the editorial staff of the Toronto Mail and Empire. The chair was taken by Sheriff Hall, who introduced the lecturer after an introductory pianoforte solo, well rendered by Mr. Percy Owens.

The subject of Mr. McEvoy's lecture was "Our Attitude Towards Art," and he opened with some instructive and interesting remarks on the artistic temperament and artistic faculty in general, claiming that these were widely distributed among the human race and that most people possessed some RUDIMENTARY ART INSTINCT.

Differentiating the real from sham aestheticism, the lecturer remarked that if there was any real love of art in an individual it would manifest itself in spite of the untoward conditions.

He said that our attitude towards art should be that of interested learners. There were some who turned their backs upon it and did not even say "Excuse my back." They prided themselves upon being "practical" and they ignored the poetic. People of this sort might be compared to the ox of the field, whose idea of happiness was comprised in grass and turnips and who had no realisation of the beauty of the landscape in which his grass-meadow was situated. Coming to the consideration of the characteristics of pictures, Mr. McEvoy said that they might be ranged under four heads, viz.: form, light, colour and personality. Form, comprised good composition and good drawing. It also had to do with perspective, both linear and aerial.

Light, as treated by the artist, was a

of study, and on its proper manipulation much of the success of a picture depended.

In treating of colour the lecturer was of opinion that the moderns surpassed the old masters, and in dealing with "personality" he indicated that the term was employed to characterise that special qualifying touch that came from the artist's own nature and made his picture something higher than a mere photograph, or a mathematical scale drawing.

The lecture was very attentively listened to, and at the close a very hearty vote of thanks was proposed by Mr. Dennistoun, and seconded by Rev. Herbert Symonds. The proceedings were further enlivened by musical and vocal selections, a duet being played by Miss Ackerman and Mr. P. Owens, which was followed with "Beyond the Sunset Gate," by Miss Clara Bellegham, whose singing was very much appreciated by the audience.

THOUGHT THE LAMP WAS GOING TO EXPLODE.

The Dropping of it Almost Caused a Serious Conflagration.

On Wednesday evening last, a number of the members of the family of Mr. Wm. Kindred, of the Temperance House, Hunter street, narrowly escaped meeting with an accident, the result of which might easily have been of a most serious nature.

Miss Etta Kindred was carrying a gasoline lamp from one room to another, when the draft encountered in the doorway caused the light to flare and flicker in a manner which led one of her sisters to believe that an explosion was about to take place. The alarm was given in a moment and Miss Etta, in fear that the lamp was in reality about to explode, dropped it on the floor and retreated back into the room.

The breakage of the lamp released the oil and in a moment the doorway was filled with an alarming looking sheet of flames. Mrs. Kindred and Miss Etta were penned in the room by the fire, which apparently increased in volume every second. Rather than risk the danger of their clothes taking fire where they stood, both resolved to pass through the doorway, although it was filled with flames.

Mrs. Kindred passed through the fiery ordeal in safety, but unfortunately Miss Kindred was not so lucky and her hands and face were severely scorched as she passed through the circle of flame. Her injuries though painful are not serious.

LINDSAY'S LOSS.

Rev. R. Johnston Accepts the London Invitation.

Lindsay, March 13.—A meeting of the Lindsay Presbytery was held yesterday to decide the question of the translation of Rev. R. Johnston, B.A., from St. Andrew's church, Lindsay, to St. Andrew's church, London. A deputation from the London church was present. Very powerful reasons were advanced by the Lindsay congregation why Mr. Johnston should not be taken from them, while the London delegation advanced equally strong reasons why the translation should be made. The Lindsay congregation was ably represented by Messrs. J. D. McIntyre, police magistrate; John McSwayn and J. R. McNeillie. After hearing both sides of the question, Mr. Johnston has decided to accept the call to London. This is the second minister which Lindsay has sent to the same church in London. The late J. Allister Murray of St. Andrew's, London, was pastor of the Presbyterian church here before going to that city.

THE AUBURN BRIDGE MATTER

Those Interested Will be Asked as to the Kind of a Bridge Required.

The members of the Street and Bridge Committee met last evening and discussed the Auburn Bridge matter. It was decided to refer the matter back to the petitioners in order to ascertain just what kind of a bridge was required, as several different plans and specifications have been placed before the committee. It will also have to be ascertained whether the town can have the right of way at any time it was thought desirable to change the contemplated foot bridge into one which could be used as a thoroughfare for horses and vehicles. A number of the members of the committee thought a fair course to pursue in the matter would be for the town to make a grant towards the erection of the bridge, the balance of the amount required being raised by assessment as a local improvement.

DEATH OF MRS. CATHARINE LEONARD THIS MORNING.

A Devoted Mother and a Loyal and Steadfast Supporter of Her Church.

The death of Mrs. Catharine Leonard, relict of ex-councillor Thomas Leonard, occurred this morning at her residence. Mrs. Leonard was stricken with paralysis about two months ago and was the victim of a second stroke on March 5th, from which she never rallied.

The family consists of Charles, barrister of Toronto; George, barrister, of Osgoode Hall, Toronto; Mrs. George Grioux, two unmarried daughters living at home, and a step daughter, Mrs. Kearney, of Young's Point. The two sons in Toronto have been telegraphed for and are expected in town to-night.

The deceased was a very able, clever woman and a devoted mother. She was a member of the congregation of St. Peter's Cathedral, a steadfast and loyal adherent and supporter of her church, and one who was universally respected for her many admirable qualities. Mrs. Leonard was seventy-four years of age, was of Irish parentage, and had been a resident of Peterborough for over fifty years.

THE GOOD TEMPLARS HOLD A CONCERT.

An Entertaining Programme Presented —A Large Attendance.

City Lodge, I. O. G. T., held one of its pleasant and profitable monthly musical and literary entertainments, last night, in the A. O. F. Hall. The various pieces were well rendered and were very creditable to the performers. The chair was taken about 8 p. m. by Dr. Goldsmith, whose wholesome and cheerful remarks added to the pleasure of the evening.

The Butterfly and Its Case.

The most curious thing about the butterfly is the size of the case from which the insect proceeds compared with the size of the insect's body. The case is rarely more than an inch long and a quarter of an inch in thickness. The butterfly covers a surface of nearly 4 inches square.—St. Louis Republic.

Incendiary Fire at Lindsay.

Lindsay, March 15.—An incendiary fire in Sylvester Bros'. agricultural implement factory yesterday caused $8,000 damage. Madill's Emulsion

OF COD LIVER OIL AND HYPOPHOSPHITES OF LIME AND SODA.

It will do wonders for you if your cough is a hard, troublesome and stubborn cough, or if you require building up and fattening, but you must begin in time and take it regularly, as you do your meals.

Madill's Emulsion is put up fresh and sweet every week. It is far more palatable to the stomach than other similar preparations, while a tablespoonful dose contains a higher percentage of Cod liver oil. It is properly emulsified, without the aid of gums or other over-rich elements, and assimilates much more easily on that account.

Its potency has created not only an active local demand, but a constant request from other cities and towns of Canada.

I SHALL NOT DIE FOR THEE.

For thee I shall not die,
Woman high of fame and name;
Foolish men thou mayest slay,
I and they are not the same.

Why should I desire
For the fire of thy eyes
Slender waist or swanlike limb?
Is't for them that I should die?

The round breasts, the fresh skin,
Cheeks crimson, hair so long and rich
Indeed, indeed, I shall not die,
Please God, not I, for any such.

The golden hair, the forehead thin,
The chaste mien, the gracious ease,
The rounded heel, the languid tone—
Fools alone find death from these.

Thy sharp wit, thy perfect calm,
Thy thin palm, like the sea foam;
Thy white neck, thy blue eye,
I shall not die for these alone.

Woman, graceful as the swan,
A wise man did nurture me;
Little palm, white neck, bright eye,
I shall not die for ye.
—Douglas Hyde in London Sun.

An Old Family.

Several years ago there was an old family in Pennsylvania named Roth. Indeed the long line of Roths was about all the family had to show by way of distinction, and so much did they make of the long branches of the family tree and the Niagara of blue blood that had in centuries past coursed through their veins that people of the more recent generations really began to think these Roths were of some account.

One evening there happened to be a party in the little town of M——, and beside the great Roth family the guests numbered among others young Dr. Sharp. He was a popular and rising physician and considered by matchmaking mammas a particularly desirable catch.

Mrs. Roth had four marriageable daughters, so at the first favorable opportunity she cornered the young doctor and sought to impress upon him the importance of her wonderful family.

"Why, doctor," she said, "we all came over on the Mayflower, so I know you will not think me bold in asserting that the Roths are really one of the first families."

"Pardon me," replied the young physician, "but I have no hesitation in saying that your family enjoys even a greater distinction."

"Oh, doctor," gushed the old woman, giving herself a congratulatory hug on her coming triumph. "Indeed you flatter us."

"Not at all," he replied, "for I know you are the first family."

"Who told you that, dear doctor?"

"The Bible," he replied reverently, "for it says the Lord was Roth."—Boston Budget.

Count D'Orsay and Lady Holland.

A story going the rounds is one told of the famous Count d'Orsay. On the occasion of his first visit to England, while he was very young, very handsome and not easily disconcerted, he chanced to be seated at dinner next to the brilliant and singular Lady Holland.

That remarkable and many sided woman was in, as it happened, one of her imperious humors, and her young neighbor soon felt its weight. She dropped her napkin. The count picked it up gallantly. Then her fan, then her fork, then her glass, and as often her neighbor stooped and restored the lost article. At last, however, the patience of the youth gave way, and on her dropping her napkin again he turned and called one of the footmen behind him. "Put my plate on the floor," said he. "I will finish my dinner there. It will be so much more convenient to my Lady Holland."—New York Times.

Growth of the Human Heart.

Dr. Benecke of Marburg has made known his observations on the growth of the human heart, the fact appearing that the increase is greatest and most rapid during the first and second years of life, its bulk at the end of the second year being exactly double what it originally was. Between the second and seventh years it is again doubled in size. A slower rate of growth then sets in and continues during the period of maturity of other portions of the body. After the fifteenth year up to the fiftieth the annual growth of the heart is about .061 of a cubic inch, the increase ceasing about the fiftieth year.—Leisure Moments.

Royal Pin Money.

The Princess of Wales' long retirement has enabled her to save much of her pin money—£10,000 a year—and bring it up to a comfortable amount. In the past Alexandra has had plenty to do with that allowance, dressing herself most elegantly, her daughters very much less so, and fitting out the boys. Times have changed, her children have an annual income of £36,000 to divide among themselves, and the princess has lived aloof from London society since the death of her eldest son, thereby incurring but little expense for dress.—New York Advertiser.

"Neither is a dictionary a bad book to read," says Emerson in his essay on books. "There is no cant in it, no excuse of explanation, and it is full of suggestion—the raw material of possible poems and histories. Nothing is wanting but a little shuffling, sorting, ligature and cartilage."

German papers give detailed descriptions of six statues recently unearthed in a crypt under the sacristy of the "Peter-Paul Kirche" at Liegnitz, in Silesia. The statues, which are all connected with one another, are supposed to represent apostles, and to date from the twelfth century.

BUYING FOR CASH ONLY.

An Antidebt Organization in Kansas and Its Benevolent Purposes.

The latest scheme to ameliorate the condition of the laboring class comes from Kansas. It is a combination against debt, and is known and incorporated in the State of Kansas as the "Cash Purchase Association." The object of the association is to form "circles," as they are termed, of not less than five and not more than twenty families, every member of which pledges himself not to ask for credit in purchasing the necessities of life, but to pay cash for every thing he buys. The members of these circles, says the Boston Transcript, are assured a liberal discount on all goods purchased, which, in a year's time, will amount to a neat sum. The discount is secured by the supreme lodge, and the claims of the association are that they can save the average family from $60 to $90 a year.

The organization has for its motto, "Owe no man anything." The financial department couples itself with securing for the members of the association a discount on all purchases at stores not doing a cash business. The discount is guaranteed to every member of the association. The educational department is to teach people how to get the greatest amount of home comforts with the smallest expenditure of money, time and labor; to inspire them with a contempt for the credit system, which, the association holds, is the greatest evil of modern times; to impart a correct idea of home life, economy, industry and sobriety.

The benevolent purposes are: The cultivation of mutual help and good neighborship; to teach kindness and assistance in times of sickness and death and to render all aid for the alleviation of the distress of a fellow member. The advantages of the benevolent idea are apparent. In times of distress the family of any member in good standing may borrow from the benevolent fund a sufficient amount of money to maintain the expenses of the household for one month; this money to be loaned without interest and to be replaced if the member ever becomes able to do so. In cases of extreme necessity a second month's supply of provisions will be furnished. It is the aim of the association to have its members carry insurance when it gets under way.

None but people who have not become so deeply involved in debt that they cannot see any way out, and who will pledge themselves to abstain from buying or asking to buy goods on credit, are eligible to membership. A membership fee of $1 is charged, and a card entitling the holder to the discounts on cash purchases is given to each member. The penalty of going into debt after once becoming a member is dismissal from the circle, to be placed in the rank of an applicant for membership. Any person twice committing the crime of getting into debt will be expelled for all time.

The Sea's Inroad on England.

An inspection of the cliff between Dover and St. Margaret's yesterday shows that an enormous slip has taken place—the largest subsidence of coast cliff, in fact, which has occurred for many years. When it happened, on Sunday, a dull roar was heard in the distance, followed by a cloud of dust from the debris, which blew across Dover Bay almost like a sea fog. There is every appearance that when the frost breaks further slips will occur, as there are several places along the cliff where there are great cracks on the top, as well as in the face of the cliff. One is right in front of the convict prison, which, in course of time, as well as the South Foreland Lighthouses and the Cornhill Coastguard Station, must stand in great danger of slipping into the sea, unless some measures are taken for the protection of the foreshore. So serious has been the effect in recent years of the encroachment of the sea that the whole line of cliff between Dover and St. Margaret's is becoming extensively honeycombed at this time.—London Telegraph

The assayer who examined the aerolite that fell on the farm of Lawrence Freeman near Bath, S. D., on the afternoon of Aug. 29, 1892, reports that the principal minerals it contains are gold, silver, nickel and cobalt.

WILY BARNSTORMERS

TRICKS WHICH ARE PLAYED BY IMPECUNIOUS THESPIANS.

Some of the Methods They Use to Stake the Gullible Landlord Into Camp—Timely Arrival of the Comedian's Friend—The Trunk Trick.

Any one who knows the look of the "barnstormer" can tell him at a glance. It is the fine days that bring him out. Little is seen of him on wet and rainy days, but give Old Sol just half a chance and you wonder at the array of immaculate linen, cigarettes and Prince Alberts exhibited by these fly by night stars, whose ways of securing an existence are as ingenious as they are manifold. The men, with but few exceptions, are barbers or waiters who do not work at their trade, as they are either too light for heavy work or too heavy for light work. The ladies are as a rule the possessors of good homes, which they desert to follow their cherished calling.

A company of Keystone talent leaves Philadelphia to play the state of New Jersey. Their stock in trade consists of a $35 bank roll and several bundles—not trunks—of wardrobe. Of course they are in possession of their ability, which is not appreciated by New Jersey natives, and after making several stands, pursued by angry hotel keepers, they go ashore on the rocks, and with one accord all noses point toward the Quaker City. The ladies have little trouble in securing transportation, as they are experienced in the art of telling the conductors a story calculated to soften a heart of steel. They ride, and before reaching the Delaware river have "touched" the accommodating ticket puncher for 8 cents each with which to pay their ferry fare.

Not so with the men, as they care not for varnish covered cars, but prefer riding in what is known to the professionals as a side door sleeper, but which the railroad calls a box car. The comedian has secured possession of his valise, which he has expressed to his destination. On reaching home he redeems it from the express company and hies himself to some theatrical hotel, where he secures room and board for a week, at the end of which time he is unable to pay and informs the hotel man that he is expecting to sign with Manager So-and-so and will settle in a day or two. After hearing this song for four weeks the landlord takes charge of his grip and advises him to find other quarters.

Happy thought! His friend, Tom Blower, has arrived in the city, and as Tom is dressed—in their language—out of sight, our comedian hunts him up, and after a short confab with him Tom can be seen walking in the direction of the hotel lately occupied by Comedy. Reaching there, he calls at the desk for our comedian and is informed by the proprietor that he is not in, whereupon Tom becomes agitated, and in a confidential tone tells the hotel man that he desires to engage Comedy to work the rest of that week, as his comedian has been taken ill. "Why!" he exclaims, "I must get him at any price, as he is the only man in the city acquainted with the lines and the finest comedy exponent in the country." Comedy now strolls in, and Toms falls upon his chest with joy and engages him, in tones to be overheard by the landlord, to complete the week with him at a salary of $50. The landlord is happy and already hears the jingle of the simoleons due him.

Tom here informs our friend that he must report for dress rehearsal at once, whereupon the landlord is told that his wardrobe is in the grip, which is handed him instanter. He and his friend Tom depart arm in arm. But they never come back.

Several years ago a company stranded near Philadelphia, and all but the leading man returned to New York, he remaining with headquarters at the hotel in which he was stopping, expecting, as he told the country landlord, a money order from his wife. At the end of three weeks no money order had made its appearance, and the Thespian's trunk was taken into the storeroom as security by the hotel man. The day following this move a young lady alighted from the train and registered at the hotel, and in a very short time became acquainted with the leading man. She wanted to buy a trunk. He would sell her one and stated to the innkeeper that he had a chance to sell his trunk and gave him the impression that the proceeds of the sale should apply on his board bill.

The trunk was removed to the actor's room, where the contents were taken out of it and wrapped in a paper, after which the lady was called in to examine the "keister." She was in love with the style and make of it and paid the actor $10 in cash for the same. The bundles were lowered out of the window by the actor and expressed to Philadelphia. The lady paid her bill at the hotel, amounting to $1, and that afternoon left for this city in company with the leading man, who was none other than her husband, and in whose pocket quietly reposed the baggage check for his trunk, which the day before had been the property of the

What John Wanamaker, the Most Heavily Insured man in America, Says:

(INTERVIEW WITH JOHN WANAMAKER.)

It is very generally known that Ex-Postmaster General John Wanamaker, of Philadelphia, carries the largest amount of Life Insurance of any man in the United States. A representative of the press recently interviewed this gentleman while he was travelling with the Presidential party, and this interview will be found, we believe, of general interest:—

"You are said to be the most heavily insured man in the country, Mr. Wanamaker," remarked the press representative.

"How did you come to think of that?" he said with a smile. "You are not looking for any disaster under such excellent management as our friend Boyd is giving this train and party?"

"No," I replied. "A newspaper friend in San Francisco, who had heard the report, wanted me to ask you if it was true, and if so, what your business reasons are for it?"

"Well," he modestly answered, "I have heard it stated that I am the most heavily insured man in the country. I don't know about that. The amount of my policies is $1,550,000, and the value, with the accumulations since the policies were taken out, is about two millions of dollars."

"In what class of companies are your policies?"

"They are all in stock and mutual companies, and none of them in what are known as assessment or instalment companies."

"Are they full life term policies or on what is termed the 'tontine' plan?"

"I have generally taken ten and fifteen payment policies and very few life policies. With about all good companies a contract can now be made whereby there is no risk of losing a policy after two years' premiums have been paid. If the party insured chooses to withdraw he can get a paid-up policy. Indeed, I understand that some companies have forms whereby the insurer can after one year, if desired, withdraw and receive a paid-up policy. There is practically little risk, any more, in insuring in the old companies."

"Perhaps you would be willing to tell me how you came to insure so heavily?"

"I thought the matter out, and convinced myself that it was a good business venture. Besides, it seemed to me that I might, perhaps, give away more money in lifetime if there was a fixed certainty of putting it back into my estate by Life Insurance. I conceive that the best way for a man to carry on benevolence is not to leave it to be done through his will, but to do it in his lifetime, and I felt that Life Insurance would give me more freedom in carrying out some plans I have, and which I would be glad to see completed before I leave this world. If you want to ascertain what the circumstances were in placing the Life Insurance, I must go further in my answers and say that I should not have gone so far in my Life Insurance but for the skill of the agent who tackled me to insure to a greater extent than I would otherwise have done. He was an old friend who had been in mercantile business and who knew how to present Life Insurance without boring me. I feel to-day sincerely grateful to the man who followed me so discreetly with information about companies, and who kept the subject before me until I settled the question."

"When did you begin taking Life Insurance policies?"

"My first policy was taken when I was twenty-one."

"Do you consider it a good thing for a man of small means?"

"I certainly do. Most young men spend more for cigars during the year than the annual cost of a $2,500 policy in a good company. If they must have the cigars they might divide between cigars and Life Insurance and carry at least a $1,000 policy. I think every young man, before he is married, ought to try to get at least a $1,000 policy."

"Among how many companies are your policies divided, and where are they located?"

"About forty companies. Most of them are located in the East. A few are in the West and a few in Canada."

"Do you recommend Life Insurance to others, especially those in whom you feel a personal interest?"

"I can perhaps answer that best by saying that I presented a few years ago a $1,000 policy, paid up for one year, to every insurable head of family in my employ. Many of the prudent men who received them not only kept them but added to them, and I have the satisfaction of knowing that in not a few cases those policies have been the means of saving worthy families from want."

It will doubtless be of interest to our readers to know that John Wanamaker carries a large policy in the Canada Life Insurance Company, thus evincing his confidence in the soundness of Canada's oldest and largest Company. During the last few years quite a number of American capitalists have been convinced of the SUPERIOR MERITS OF THE CANADA LIFE, and have accordingly placed their insurance therein, in preference to any other company.

The Canada Life is now being recognized in the states of Michigan, Minnesota and Ohio as the Company that gives the best results for the least premium.

confiding hotel keeper, and who, to date, had never received a cent from the proceeds of that sale.

A common practice followed by these catch-as-catch-can managers is to give the country hotel keeper an order for the amount of his bill, payable at the box office in the town to be next played, to which place they agree to pay his railroad fare. They reach the town in the early hours of the morning, and the traveling hotel man is put to bed with the company's manager, who lies awake until he is assured that his companion and creditor is sound asleep, when he arises and in a few moments is in possession of the order he has given on the box office, having extracted it from the clothes of the unsuspecting sleeper, who, when he discovers his loss, has nothing left to do but to return home a much wiser man.—Philadelphia Times.

CURACOA, A QUEER ISLAND.

Dependent Upon Rain For the Water Supply—Some Odd Customs.

Curacoa is one of the queerest little islands of the Caribbean sea. It lies 60 miles north of Venezuela, is about 40 miles long and 12 or 14 wide, and it has a population of more than 50,000.

There is no means of procuring fresh water on the island except by saving rainwater in reservoirs. A number of wells have been bored under the supervision of the Dutch government, to which it belongs, but each ended in failure.

A curious statement regarding these borings is made by the inhabitants of the island. They say that in each and every case after a certain depth was reached the tools dropped out of sight, indicating that there is no solid foundation to the island. The borings were made in low places and through hills, and in about 30 different places, each with the same ultimate result. A few wells have been dug to a lesser depth and brackish, unpleasant tasting water is obtained from them, fit only for manufacturing purposes.

The approach of the rainy season is always an interesting time there. The water in the reservoir is low at this time, and the natives eagerly await the opportunity to gather a fresh supply. Clothing is never washed there in fresh water, but at all hours of the day the beach is alive with women beating the clothes with clubs on the rocks.

The houses are all built in the Dutch style, and are mostly of stone, with tile roofs. The streets are very narrow, in some places so narrow that it is possible to shake hands with the occupant of a room across the street simply by leaning out of the window.

There is a scarcity of young women in the island, but an overplenty of old and wrinkled dames. It is said the young women leave home as soon as they are of marriageable age and seek husbands in Caracas, Venezuela, or some other South American city. Yet there are some of the prettiest girls there a traveler ever set eyes upon. They are the daughters of Dutch fathers and Spanish mothers, and the mingling of the two bloods has produced a beautiful race, which is growing quite numerous there.

Three-quarters of the population is of African descent, or mixed African, Spanish, Dutch and Indian. A few Indians, said to be descendants of the Caribs, are still to be found on the island living in huts of straw.

Their sole business in these days seems to be the peddling of lottery tickets. Everybody invests in the lottery there, and as there are drawings each day the peddling of tickets forms quite a paying business.

Some of the Africans there are magnificently formed, especially those employed along the lagoon in loading and unloading steamers and ships. They are at home in the water and will dive under a steamer for a "real" or 10 cent piece.

Of late years they are forced to wear suits while sporting in the lagoon near the settlements, but as the lagoon extends in the center of the island several miles each way they may be seen every evening making their way in punts to a point beyond observation where they can enjoy themselves untrammeled by clothing.

The Maca pruen, or monkey plum, is the favorite fruit, and the parrot is the favorite bird. For $1 a young parrot that can talk in Spanish may be purchased, and a mocking bird can be had for 50 cents.

None of the liquor which obtains its name from the island is made there now. The Dutch have taken hold of the manufacture of the liquor and have transferred the business to Holland.—New York Herald.

Queen Victoria's "Jubilee Book," the volume containing the jubilee speeches and addresses, is 18 inches thick, has leaves 2 by 3 feet and weighs 68 pounds.

An advertiser in a New York daily a few days ago offered a reward for the return of two sets of teeth and no questions asked.

Method is like packing things in a box; a good packer will get in half as much again as a bad one.—Cecil.

"I was afflicted for eight years with Salt Rheum. During that time, I tried a great many medicines which were highly recommended, but none gave me relief. The Aerial Tramway Scheme.

Niagara Falls, N.Y., March 15.—Reservation Superintendent Welch says that the projected aerial tramway scheme, if it is contemplated to operate it from any part of the state park, will be opposed. Mr. Welch will at once go to Albany to endeavor to secure its defeat. Mr. Welch says that the law creating the state reservation at Niagara contemplated restoring the Falls and their surroundings to a state of nature and that that has always been the aim of the commissioners. Just as soon as one of these money making contrivances is let in the officials may as well throw up their hands. Mr. Welch cannot understand why the Canadian commissioners should have permitted a Canadian charter to be obtained.

Lottery Brokerage Raided.

Wilkesbarre, March 15.—A sensation was created in this city yesterday when the police raided the "Commission Brokerage" office of John Wursburger and the inmates. Wursburger is known all over north-eastern Pennsylvania as the "Lottery King of Luzerne County," his brokerage business being merely a blind. For the past ten years he has been selling tickets openly, and it is estimated he did a business of over $190,000 a year. The police found several thousand dollars' worth of tickets of all the lotteries doing business and also lists of his regular customers, showing that bankers, doctors, lawyers and prominent business men were spending large sums monthly through Wursburger's agency.

S. O. E. Grand Lodge Elect Officers.

Woodstock, March 15.—The Supreme Grand Lodge of S. O. E. assembled yesterday morning at 9 o'clock and elected their officers for the ensing year as follows: Geo. Clatworthy, Toronto, president; Bro. London, Belleville, vice president; J. W. Carter, Toronto, secretary; B. Hinchcliffe, Toronto, treasurer; Bros. Clay and Williams, Toronto, auditors; Bros Skippon, King and Swait, Toronto, trustees; Bros. Skippon, Waters, Patching, Hancock, Pritchard, Burns, Hodgetts, Evans, Swait, Riddiford, Ftaber, Moore, Corion, Sellwood and Cameron were elected the beneficiary board. Peterboro' was selected as the next place of meeting. The delegates were last night entertained by the local lodge to a grand banquet.

Brantford's Boy Burglars.

Brantford, March 15.—At the police court yesterday, Tim Fallon, Fred Meade, and W. Harrison, young boys aged 12, 13 and 14, pleaded guilty to entering the store of G. A. Cryster and stealing a sum of money. Another charge against them was that of breaking into the office of John Mann & Son, also the office of H. F. Leonard & Co. J. Bradshaw, 13, and Ed. Watts, 14 years old, were charged with entering Rozell's harness shop and stealing straps, whips, etc. Bradshaw pleaded guilty, Watts not guilty. After hearing the evidence the police magistrate reserved judgment.

Shoddy Mill Burned.

Waterloo, March 15.—The frame shoddy factory of Aloyes Bauer & Co., after having taken fire two or three times within as many years, fell a prey to the flames yesterday. The fire started in the picker room, and rapidly spread, destroying the machinery and burning out a great deal of the inside of the factory. There was an insurance of $1,000 on it up to a few months ago, but re-insurance was declined by the company. A brick addition containing the engine and boiler was saved with light damage. Mr. Bauer will probably re-build and make the new factory all brick and fire proof.

Petroleum to be Tried.

By a recent order of the Russian admiralty, petroleum will be tried as a fuel under the boilers of the two new armored cruisers Rostislaff and Rossia, now being built for the Russian navy. These war vessels will be the first to be supplied with petroleum furnaces, and a thorough test will be made of the value of this fuel before other vessels are fitted for its use.

R. G. Dun & Co. Said to be Disinclined to Proceed Further.

CASE NOW IN GENERAL TERM

The Action of the District Attorney Will be Governed by the Decision on the Appeal—He is Out of the Firm and of No Account.

New York, March 15.—A rumor has been in circulation several days in Staten Island that the case against Erastus Wiman had been dropped and would never again be heard of. Credence was given to it among Mr. Wiman's friends and neighbors, because of his increasing activity as a promoter of electric railways on the Island, where he has secured several valuable franchises for a company in which he is interested.

There seems to be little foundation for the story, however. District Attorney Fellows says that the case is now in the General term, which will, no doubt, soon render a decision on the appeal from the judgment on conviction. If the conviction is sustained, Mr. Wiman will probably seek a further stay of execution and carry the case to the Court of Appeals, where it would lie for another month or two. If the General term reverses the finding of the jury, the District Attorney will consider the questions of an appeal to the higher court, a dismissal of the case, or an immediate retreat His action will be governed by the grounds of the decision.

Enquiry in other directions indicates that the rumor originated in the circulation of some casual remarks by members of the firm of R. G. Dun & Co., who are said to be disinclined to press the charge further. It was shown at the trial that R. G. Dun was not ardent in the prosecution, and the inference was that the younger members were the prime movers in the prosecution. The supposition is that they have no further cause for activity against their late associate, and are willing to let the matter drop.

Colonists for Liberia.

Philadelphia, March 15.—The Danish steamer Horsa sailed from here last night for Savannah, having been chartered by the International Migration Society to take about 200 negro colonists from Savannah to Monroe via Liberia. The emigrants will be accompanied by an agent of the society. The Horsa will probably arrive at Savannah on Sunday and if possible sail for Liberia the same day. The society has organized its first party of emigrants with great care, selecting them mainly from Mississippi. In making the selections only men both single and married of good physical condition have been chosen and permitted to join. The married men will be accompanied by their wives and families and the society has made arrangements to give the unmarried colonists ten acres of land and the married ones twenty-five acres upon their arrival in Liberia. The Liberian Government will shelter the colonists for three months until they have built their own houses. Good mechanics and carpenters especially it is claimed can have plenty of work at good wages while those familiar with farm work can engage in coffee growing.

Two Thousand Pigeons will be Destroyed.

London, March 15.—The London Gun Club is arranging for a monster tournament on the club grounds here from April 9 to 12 and in that time between 2,000 and 3,000 live pigeons will be sent up from the traps. One thousand dollars in gold is to be given in prizes.

Sell Your Old Rubbers.

Brantford, March 15.—Since the end of October last up until the early part of the present month, a dealer in this city has collected in Brantford and its immediate vicinity a whole carload of cast off rubbers. They have been sent away to a buyer, and a cheque for $1,200 received in return for them.

An Actor Wants His Salary

Quebec, March 15.—Mr. Theo. Hamel, manager of the Academy of Music, was arrested on a capias last night at the instance of Mr. Blondel, one of the French opera actors, for his salary.

Has Had Hydrophobia for Four Years.

Buffalo, March 14.—John C. Rogers, aged 24, arrested for intoxication, was bitten four years ago by a dog and has since had intermittent attacks of hydrophobia and was attacked with one while in the cell at police headquarters yesterday morning. The physicians pronounce the case genuine hydrophobia, the patient barks like a dog, whines, tears his clothes with his teeth and even licks his hands. The doctors are at a loss to understand how the man has survived through a series of attacks which were each followed by a long period of rationalism.

Will Support the Government.

Montreal, March 14.—Sir Donald Smith has accepted the candidature for St. Antoine division of this city in the next Dominion election and will run as a straight supporter of the Dominion Government.

FINANCE AND COMMERCE

TORONTO, March 15, 1895.

In the Toronto market yesterday there was no change from quotations. The street price for wheat runs at 64c, oats 30c and rye 50c. All other quotations stand unchanged.

In Chicago the speculative grain market was active. Wheat closed last evening at 56⅛c, and in the afternoon stood at 56⅜c to 56⅝c.

C. P. R. stock was quoted at 85½ yesterday in New York, having declined a little.

East Buffalo sheep and lambs market is firm for good stock; slow and lower on other kinds. Fat mixed sheep bring $3.75 to $4.20. Light to good wethers $4.40 to $4.75 with a few extra fancy lots higher. Prime hundred pounds lambs $5.85.

No. 1 Canada barley is quoted at 64 to 65c; No. 2 at 63c; No. 3 extra Canada at 60 to 61c in Buffalo. There is not much enquiry for it.

The Peterborough Music Co., 404 George street, are offering beautiful new organs at $50.00. A large stock to select from.

Robbed and Beaten to Death.

Greensburg, Pa., March 15.—Saturday last Mrs. Colinsky and her daughter started to walk from Mammoth Mine to Mt. Pleasant where they intended to purchase tickets for Hungary. They had $600 in their possession when they left Mammoth. Yesterday the bodies of mother and daughter were found concealed in a brush heap at the road side. They had been robbed and frightfully beaten. It is supposed they were followed and assaulted by two Hungarians who knew of their having the money. The suspected men have disappeared. The husband and father of the murdered women was killed in a mine disaster at Mammoth some time ago.

Arrival of Hawaiian Rebels.

San Francisco, March 15.—Among the passengers on the steamer Arawa, which arrived from Sydney via Apia and Honolulu yesterday morning, were Captain Davis, P. G. Canarinos, Carl Klamme, Henry von Werthen, C. W. Ashford and Harry Juane. They are all from Honolulu and were released from prison on condition that they would leave the country. Before leaving Ashford called on the ex-Queen and asked if he could do anything for her in America. She replied that all possible had already been done.

Colored Printers Organize.

Chicago, March 15.—The National Afro-American Typographical Association was organized yesterday at a meeting of colored printers and journalists of both sexes from the North and South held here. It is the first colored printers union in the world.

By Persons Unknown.

Denver, Col., March 15.—The coroner's jury in the case of the Italians who were killed in the Walsenberg jail has rendered a verdict to the effect that they were killed by persons unknown.

A PENSION FOR LIFE.

"I cannot understand" said a capitalist to a friend, "why men are so imprudent as to allow themselves to sink into money embarrassments. There is a simple rule that I follow myself, and that I have always found a great safeguard—it is never to let one's balance at the bankers fall below five thousand. By strictly adhering to this rule, one is sure to be able to meet any unexpected and immediate necessity."

The rich man's rule is golden, but his prescription not only lacks practicability but common sense. It reminds one of the advice given poor Joe, whom Dickens has immortalized; but underneath it there lies this thought: Live within your income. The difficulty of having a balance at one's bankers has increased during the last few years, for competion is greater, the margin of profit has lessened and the chances of retiring upon a fortune are not so numerous as they were. Under these circumstances, it becomes necessary to adopt other means of providing for the inevitable rainy day which comes to most men, whether professional or commercial.

The only available method of providing a pension for life is that of life assurance, the original object of which was to indemnify the family for the loss of its bread-winner; but the endowment plan has now become the most popular form of insurance. Under this system, a man may receive his money at a given time, the age being fixed when effecting the insurance. "But I want to retire before I am an old man," remarks an objector. Very well, if you can afford to retire when you reach middle age, nobody will object. Your determination is praiseworthy. May you be able to carry it out! Most business men remain in harness until the end. The anxiety to become rich is one of the curses of civilization. It robs a man of all the pleasures of life; it prevents him enjoying the good things placed before him by a bountiful Providence, and from acting the part of the good Samaritan. It is not to such a man that we appeal, but rather to the man who wants to live on the sunny side of the hedge.

"Gather ye rose-buds as ye may," was the advice of the Poet Herrick, and no better advice could be given. We knew a man who was afraid of having a holiday, for fear his family would need the money if anything happened to himself. Now, if he had insured his life, he could have gone away with an easy mind; for a policy-holder, though not justified in living up to his income, may indulge himself with more comforts than the man whose life is not protected by insurance. While an insurance policy tends to alleviate the wants of the future, it also enables the holder to accept more fully the advantages to be enjoyed while he is yet living. He can secure to himself and family many little luxuries that otherwise he would feel called upon to deny, in order to leave something behind to provide for them. The policy is the protecting shield, which, while guarding his loved ones, gives confidence meanwhile to its possessor in fighting the battle of life.

A pension for life is something to look forward to, even if it does not become payable until middle life has been passed. The sweets of life are not monopolized by youth. There are a few, green sunny spots in the desert of life even in old age. "Life is so very pleasant," declared Crabb Robinson, when he had turned three score years and ten, "that I do not like to think how old I am." Some men never do grow old. They seem to have discovered the secret of perpetual youth; they retain both vigor of body and strength of mind. But whether a man be strong or weak there comes a time in his life when he would like to relax, to sever his connection with business pursuits and to follow his own inclinations. With the aid of the money derived from his insurance policy, this laudable desire may easily be carried into effect, and the afternoon and evening of life spent in comfort and peace. In short, an endowment policy in the Confederation Life Association gives absolute protection to your family during the existence of the policy and secures to yourself a sum of money at a given age, which may, if desired, be applied in any of the following ways:—

First.—The policy may be surrendered and the entire value taken in (1) cash, (2) paid-up policy, payable at death; (3) life annuity, an annual payment to the insured till death.

Second.—Or, the policy may be exchanged for a paid-up policy of assurance, payable at death, without profits, for an equal amount of insurance, and, in addition, there will be paid an annuity for life of $45 per $1,000, applying the accumulated surplus either in (4) cash, (5) bonus addition to the sum assured, (6) life annuity.

GUILTY FOR BOTH MEN

Welter and Hendershott Sentenced to be Hanged on the 18th of June.

WILL APPLY FOR A NEW TRIAL

Counsel for Prisoners Pleads Eloquently in their Behalf—Mr. Osler Replies on Behalf of the Crown—The Jury Take Over Four Hours to Decide.

St. Thomas, March 16.—At eight o'clock yesterday morning, or one hour and a half before opening of court, the space in front of each entrance door to the court house was crowded with a large number of excited men, women and children, struggling to obtain an entrance to hear the addresses of counsel for the defence and Crown and the judge's charge to the jury.

When the outer doors were opened a scene was witnessed which does little credit to any civilized community, women and children mingling with the men in their frantic efforts to reach the court room.

Directly the prisoners were placed in the dock they were surrounded by a group of relatives and intimate friends, principally women, and dressed in black, and all weeping profusely. Both prisoners were strongly affected by the scene, the elder one bowing his head and the younger one crying bitterly.

About 10 o'clock Norman Macdonald, the prisoners' counsel, commenced his address to the jury, and in a calm, clear voice and deeply earnest tone he went over the evidence sustaining the alibi in favor of Hendershott, and in a scathing manner he denounced the attempts of the witnesses, some of them near relatives of the prisoners, to ruin the reputation and perhaps take away the life of an innocent man by repeating conversations which had occurred months ago and detailing statements which the prisoner may have made in a thoughtless, joking manner, and which had no direct reference to the case before them.

He attempted to show that a clear case of alibi had been proven by the defence. He then touched upon the case of Welter. There was no motive upon Welter's part to take away the life of his young friend and relative, and the motive on Hendershott's part did not apply to Welter. The jury could not convict one prisoner and free the other; the two were bound together, indicted together, and the Crown knew why. He reminded the jury of the terrible responsibility that rested upon them, and as the lives of the two men hung upon their verdict great caution was necessary in arriving at such a verdict.

Referring to the life insurance, Mr. Macdonald asked: "To whom was the policy upon the deceased man's life made payable?" Edith Welter. "And at whose suggestion was it made payable to John Hendershott until the young couple were married?" The agent of the life insurance company.

The trip of Hendershott and his daughter on the fatal 14th December had been long contemplated, and was to fulfil engagements made months previously. The Crown failed in its attempts to show Hendershott's poverty. Hendershott was well-to-do, and money could not be the motive in his case for commission of such a terrible crime. Two hundred years ago capital punishment was the penalty for mutilating Westminster bridge; now it should be taken from the statute books of every country.

He asked the jury if they believed it possible that a young man of hitherto good character and belonging to a Christian household could suddenly commit such a horrible murder as was charged against him.

Mr. Macdonald closed his address at 12 o'clock, after speaking over two hours. His address evidently made a strong impression upon the jury in favor of the prisoners, and is considered one of the ablest ever given in this court room.

Mr. Osler upon rising to address the jury said they were not there to consider the policy of capital punishment. They were there to do justice to the prisoners and nothing more. Compassion or mercy had no place here. He might reply to his learned friend's plea for compassion for the prisoners by a similar appeal for the young man who was cut off in the morning of life, the Crown claims, by the hands of the prisoners at the bar. In regard to the evidence being merely circumstantial he said that that was the only kind of testimony upon which the scheming, deliberate murderer could be convicted, and he believed it to be the best class of evidence. If there were no convictions upon circumstantial evidence then the worst class of murderers would always escape the penalty of their crimes. He reviewed the evidence at length in an eloquent and convincing address of two hours and a half duration.

His Lordship's charge to the jury occupied about two hours and was a thorough summing up of all the evidence adduced. He cautioned the jury upon many points in which there was room for doubt. His charge was considered favorable to the prisoners. The case was given to the jury at 5.45 and the court adjourned until nine o'clock. At that hour the court room was jammed and hundreds were standing outside the court house. The jury came in at 10.05. Court Clerk McLaws asked them if they had come to a verdict. The foreman said "Yes," and then the clerk asked for the verdict. "Guilty," said the foreman, "for both men." As soon as the verdict was given the spectators began to rise and a thrilling scene followed. The daughter of prisoner Hendershott gave way to violent grief and the constables were kept busy trying to restore order. His Lordship asked the prisoners if they had anything to say. They both replied in the negative. He then asked them to stand up that sentence might be passed on them. The two men arose to their feet deathly pale. Chief Justice Meredith then sentenced them to be hanged on June 18th next. They were immediately led away to their cells amidst the heart-rending cries of their relatives.

It is said that their counsel will at once apply for a new trial.

Fatal Nitro-Glycerine Explosion.

Houghton, Tex., March 16. — Three thousand pounds of nitro-glycerine exploded at the Hancock chemical works near Dollar Bay yesterday. All the buildings of the company were wrecked. The employees were at dinner and only one man was killed. Several were injured by flying debris but not seriously. In a magazine adjacent were stored 5,000 pounds of dynamite but it did not explode though the buildings were wrecked. The property damaged is valued at $5,000. Windows were broken in buildings at Lake Linden, six miles away.

Wants to Recover the Elbe's Mails.

Detroit, Mich., March 16.—Capt. James Reid, the noted wrecker of Bay City, has made a proposition to the Government to recover the mail lost with the Atlantic steamer Elbe on January 20. He asks for his services in recovering the mail and as a wrecker $20,000, which is considered by experts to be very reasonable when the great danger of the undertaking is taken into consideration.

Fifteen Million Dollars Involved.

San Francisco, March 16.—Judge L. E. McKisick, acting as special counsel for the Government, has filed a claim involving $15,000,000 in the case of the United States against Jane L. Stanford, executrix of the will of the late Senator Leland Stanford, to recover the Stanford estate's pro rata of taxes due the United States from the Central Pacific railroad.

MR. WIMAN'S APPEAL

Sustained by the General Term of the Supreme Court.

FORMER JUDGMENT REVERSED

All the Questions Presented by Counsel in their Arguments Not Discussed—Judge Follett took a Different View of the Matter and Dissented.

New York, March 16.—The General Term of the Supreme Court has reversed the judgment convicting Erastus Wiman of forgery in the second degree on which he was sentenced to five years and six months in state prison. Judge Vanbrunt wrote the opinion reversing the judgment which Judge O'Brien concurred in. Judge Follett dissented.

Judge Vanbrunt in stating his opinion says: "In the disposition of this appeal it does not seem necessary to discuss all the interesting questions which have been presented by the counsel in their arguments. There is substantially no conflict of evidence; and the questions which arise thereon relate to the inferences which necessarily must be or which may be drawn therefrom." Then follows a history of R. G. Dun & Co. under which Wiman was to receive 17 per cent. of the net profits of the business, or a sum not to be less than $10,000 in any one year. Upon the termination of the association it was provided that Dun should have the sole and exclusive right to possession and control of all the property of the agency, the records and books and the settlement of affairs. Under the seventeenth article of the agreement, it was provided that neither of the parties should use the name of the firm on any note or other obligation of debt, except to deposit to the credit of the firm, and under the eighteenth, that neither of them shall sign any note or endorse the same or negotiate any instrument, obligation, undertaking or evidence of debt without the written consent of R. G. Dun.

ERASTUS WIMAN.

Judge O'Brien writes an opinion concurring in the result reached by the presiding justice, that the judgment of conviction should be reversed and a new trial ordered.

Judge Follett took a different view of the case. He says that the defendant was charged with the crime of forgery in the second degree. Then follows the provision of the code under which Wiman was tried and sentenced to five years and six months in state prison. He reviewed the objections and exceptions to the refusal of the lower court to charge as asked, and says that in none of these was the court in error. Judgment, he says, should be confirmed.

SIR HENRY PONSONBY DYING.

The Queen's Private Secretary Seriously Ill with Paralysis.

Osborne, Isle of Wight, March 16.—Sir Henry Frederick Ponsonby, G.C.B., K.C.B., P.C., private secretary to Queen Victoria and Keeper of the Privy Purse, who was stricken with paralysis on January 7, is dying. He is the son of the late Major-General the Hon. Sir Frederick Cavendish Ponsonby. He was born in 1825 and served with the Grenadier Guards in the Crimea. He was private secretary to the viceroys of Ireland, Earls of Clarendon and St. Germans from 1852 to 1855, and from 1856 to 1861 he was equerry to the late Prince Albert, the Prince Consort.

Trade Features in the States.

New York, March 16.—Bradstreet's says: There are fewer new and favorable trade features this week than unfavorable ones, but in most instances they outweighed the latter, which points to a continuance of small volume of business and quiet demand. Unfavorable weather which has served to check demand so many weeks continues to make itself felt south and in many parts of the west. The coal miners' strike and labor difficulties at New Orleans have served to cut into business at points dependent upon these centres of disturbance. In addition to increased competition here by Australian wools, demand for the raw staple has fallen off, and word is received that American dress goods manufacturers are using considerable Australian mixed with the American staple. The dry goods continues depressed, prostration being in excess of demand, cotton goods being moved generally only at concessions. Wall Street seems to take a favorable view of the absence of gold shipments, the improvement in prices for agricultural products and the disposition of both bituminous and anthracite coal interests to come to an agreement. The bond syndicate continues to control the market and the fear for gold exports has decreased. Silver is higher on expectations of an international monetary conference. Bank clearings throughout the United States amount to $909,067,000 this week, a decrease of ten per cent. from the week before. Material improvement in the iron and steel industries is indicated. Exports of wheat, flour included as wheat, from both coasts this week amount to 2,791,000 bushels

GOVERNMENT HOUSE.

The aggressive character of democratic sentiment has found expression in the agitation from time to time for the abolition of Government House, that is of the maintenance (such as heating, lighting and keeping the building and grounds in general repair) of an official residence at provincial expense for Her Majesty's representative, the Lieutenant-Governor. In the Local Legislature on Wednesday the question was again brought into prominence by the motion of Mr. Haycock, leader of the Patrons, to the effect that the maintenance of Government House and the establishment connected therewith should be discontinued, after five years from the date of appointment of the present Lieutenant-Governor. The question is not a party question, for the first motion on the subject was made some years ago by a Liberal. The present leader of the Opposition, Mr. Marter, was the next to move, but he had not the sympathy of his leader at the time, Mr. Meredith, who made a vigorous speech objecting to the abolition of Government House, while the last motion was made by the leader of the Patrons; and the question was an open one at the last general elections. Still the solution of the question is not without its difficulties; the merits of the case are not fully understood, and the reference of the matter to a committee, whose investigations would furnish information on which to base intelligent action is the application of a proper principle. It would seem to the EXAMINER that the best way to deal with this question would be for the Legislature to adopt the line advocated by Mr. Stratton during the late election campaign. Government House property is vested in the province of Ontario so long as it is used for its present purpose and if the Government House is abolished this property reverts to the Dominion Government, by whom it had been given to the Province as a site for the official residence. Mr. Stratton's proposition was that the Government sell the present property, which is worth about $200,000—the civic assessment being $314,000 for the present site of government house—procure a site on University grounds or in Queen's Park, erect another building and invest the balance for the maintenance of the official residence. This would meet the views of both parties—of those who wish, on sentimental grounds, to maintain the gubernatorial dignity—and of those who object to the present expense on economical grounds. Of course this could only be carried out with the consent of the Dominion Government; but it is not probable that they would object. They donated the property for its present purposes and if these purposes are fairly carried out in another way there could hardly be, under the circumstances, any serious objection. The present buildings were erected by the Sanfield Macdonald government at a cost of $78,000 and the opposition of the day claimed that these buildings were too large and too expensive. It is probable, therefore, that suitable new buildings could be erected for $50,000 which, if the present property could be sold at its assessed value, would leave a balance, which if invested judiciously, would yield a sufficient revenue to maintain a Government house without any draft upon the current revenues of the Province. This proposition, it seems to us, involves a practicable and practical solution of a matter which, at present, under any other proposed treatment, seems to present many difficulties. It involves no loss to the province and meets the wishes of both those who are opposed to and those who favour the abolition of Government—while it shows no disregard for the dignity of Her Majesty's representative, it meets the desire of those who are dealing with the subject in a spirit of economy.

Will Appeal to Ottawa.

Toronto, March 16.—Lawyer T. C. Robinette left for Ottawa last night to appeal to the Minister of Justice on behalf of the following four convicts: Patrick Lyon, sentenced to four years for perjury. John B. Hutchinson, sentenced to seven years and 30 lashes for indecent assault. Michael King, who is serving five years in the Central prison for highway robbery. Donald Morrison, who got four years for burglary. Mr. Robinette will see Minister of Justice this morning at 11 o'clock and present largely signed petitions in each case.

DISTRIBUTION OF SAMPLES OF GRAIN FROM THE EXPERIMENTAL FARM AT OTTAWA.

To the Editor of the Examiner:

DEAR SIR,—During the past eight years, samples of those varieties of grain, which have succeeded best on the Experimental Farms, have been distributed on application in 2-lb. bags to farmers in all parts of the Dominion free through the mail. The object in view in this distribution has been to improve the quality and characters of these important agricultural products throughout the country. This work has met with much appreciation and a considerable degree of success.

Last year I was instructed by the Hon. Minister of Agriculture to forward, as far as practicable, two samples to each applicant, but the applications received were so numerous that on this basis of distribution all the available stock had been promised by the middle of February, and all later applicants could not be supplied.

This year, my instructions are to send one sample only to each applicant, with the hope that with this limitation every farmer in the Dominion, who so desires may share in the benefits of this useful branch of the work of the Experimental Farms.

The distribution now in progress consists of some of the most promising sorts of oats, barley, spring wheat, peas, field corn and potatoes. Already more than 7,000 applications have been filled. All farmers desiring to participate in this distribution should send in their applications early, and state which of the above named samples they would prefer, and their wishes will be met as far as practicable, until the available stock is exhausted. The grain can be sent early, but the potatoes will not be distributed until the danger of being injured in transit by frost is over. Letters addressed to the Central Experimental Farm may be sent free of postage.

WM. SAUNDERS,
Director Experimental Farm.

Y.P.S.C.E. NOTES.

A Few Hints on Some Ways of Working.

A ten minute discussion at each prayer-meeting on the duties of some of the committees, is found very beneficial to committeemen. All the members should be asked to tell briefly some way in which the work of that committee might be improved. Faithful committeemen will be the first to desire help for the improvement of their work.

A delightful plan for adding interest to the meetings is to write to absent members or distant friends for messages bearing on the topics of the various meetings. These responses would be very helpful if the custom could become general.

Letter evenings are becoming popular. Prominent Christian Endeavourers are asked to send letters bearing on the topic of the evening. These letters read at the meeting add greatly to its success.

A South Carolina Society puts one of the officials of the church on each of the committees, as an ex-officio member. This is done in order to bring the work of the society directly under the supervision of the church officers, and does away with the complaint that Christian Endeavour makes a separation between the old and the young, or creates a church within a church.

TRINITY EXAM. PAPERS STOLEN.

William Terry, a Grand Trunk Brakeman, Charged with the Theft.

Toronto, March 16.—Trinity's examiners are hard at work getting ready a new set of examination papers for the approaching final and fellowship examinations. The reason whereof is that by some means a student obtained possession of a complete set of the questions. William Terry, a brake man on the Grand Trunk, was arrested yesterday on a warrant sworn out by the college authorities, charging him with the theft of the papers. In the police court Terry was arraigned, and refused to either plead or elect, and the case was remanded until Monday.

The authorities allege that Terry secured a set of the papers and sold them to a student for $275, of which $200 remains unpaid. The student, it is said, retailed the contents of the papers to other students at so much per question.

One young man gave the snap away, and the merchant appeared before the Board. There, it is said, he admitted getting the papers from Terry.

Sons of England Grand Lodge.

Woodstock, March 16.—During the greater part of yesterday the Grand Lodge has been in Committee of the Whole in consideration of the constitution of subordinate lodges and the Grand Lodge. The consideration of the constitution concerning subordinate lodges was completed but no changes of importance were made. A great deal of interest was aroused during the consideration of the constitution of the Grand Lodge over the proposed changes in the beneficiary department. It was finally resolved to make monthly assessments instead of at death as previously. The present scale of the assessment will remain in force and the monthly rate will be calculated upon the basis of the number of death calls for last year, which was 16. During the afternoon session the newly elected officers of the Grand Lodge were installed by Supreme Grand Past President Thomas Elliott, Brantford.

Sent to the Reformatory.

Brantford, March 16.—At the police court yesterday morning F. Meade, W. Harrison and J. Bradshaw, for burglary, were sentenced for an indefinite period to the Penetanguishene Reformatory.

N.P. A VICIOUS SYSTEM

That is What a Life-Long Conservative Declares It to be.

TARIFF FOR REVENUE ONLY

Why Sir Donald Smith Changed His Mind—He is Out of Touch with the People—Good News from the Lower Provinces—Halifax May be Redeemed.

Ottawa, March 15.—The first candidate to enter the field in Ottawa in the present campaign is Mr. A. Hudson, who has been nominated by the Labor party. He is a railway man employed on the C. P. R. The Conservatives hold a convention to select their candidates next Tuesday. There is a decided split in the party caused by the independent stand of the leader of one wing, Mr. Taylor McVeity, who, although a strong Conservative all his life time now declares that the National Policy is a vicious system and that a tariff for revenue is the only proper policy. If the numbr of converts from protection to the doctrine of a tariff for revenue only in the ranks of the people generally is anything to be compared to the secession among the prominent men, it must be very large. The Conservative standard bearer for many years in Inverness, N.S., for the Local Legislature, and always a strong supporter of the N.P., is now the Liberal candidate for the House of Commons in the present campaign. His name is Mr. McLennan, and he has declared himself a straight follower of Mr. Laurier. Mr. Calvin, M.P. for Frontenac, elected as a Conservative, discovered the rottenness of the N. P. before he was in the House very long, and voted against the Government on the question on one or two occasions and now refuses to bear their standard any longer in Frontenac. Both Mr. McCarthy and Col. O'Brien are well-known converts to the doctrine of a tariff for revenue only and Principal Grant has also taken the same side, although in the past always a supporter of Sir John Macdonald and Sir Charles Tupper. It is a noteworthy fact that one of the Conservative candidates for the House of Commons at the Capital of the Dominion is a strong opponent of protection. He has a large following and threatens to capture the regular nomination at the convention. All this goes to show that a Government led by a dyed-in-the-wool protectionist, as Premier Bowell was described by Sir Hibbert Tupper to be, does not represent even the views of Conservatives, whose leaders they are supposed to be. The coming election will give the death blow to protection in this country, where it should never have taken root.

Sir Donald Smith has at last consented to come out as the Government candidate in Montreal West, after intimating that he would not accept the Conservative nomination, but would be purely independent. It was thought strange that the President of the Bank of Montreal, which is the Government bank and which has the financial agency in England for the Government, should have any hesitation in coming out as a straight Government man, but according to a report which is current here to-day the explanation lies in a visit paid to Premier Bowell three or four days ago by Sir Donald Smith. At this interview it is said that Sir Donald referred to the published report of Government assistance to the Hudson Bay railway, and as a strong C. P. R. director, he is opposed to the granting of any assistance to this road. Therefore he told the Premier that unless he got an assurance that no substantial assistance could be given or promised to this enterprise, he would refuse to run again as a straight Conservative. Rather than lose Sir Donald's support the Premier readily gave the desired pledge, and thus matters were arranged satisfactorily. Sir Donald Smith admits that if he were in England he would be a free trader, but his party are trying to make the Canadian people believe at the present time that free trade is ruining England and her commerce. Sir Donald Smith does not believe this, and says so plainly, but adds that he would like the protection to Canadian industries continued. Sir Donald is many times a millionaire and does not feel the payment of taxes, and is in fact above all the ordinary considerations which govern the majority of people in this country in condemning protection. During the session of 1891 Sir Donald Smith only lifted up his voice on one occasion, and what do you think that was? To advocate an increase in the salary of the High Commissioner in London from $10,000 to $20,000. In all matters, therefore, which concern the taxation of the people, Sir Donald Smith is entirely out of touch with the people. He has great influence with the Government of the day, and is a far more powerful man in Canada than the Prime Minister. The only safety for the people is to place men in office in Ottawa who are not governed by Montreal millionaires or selfish monopolists.

The Cabinet meeting to-morrow afternoon is expected to be one of the most important in the history of Confederation because the course of the Government on the Manitoba School question will then be decided. Whether the result will be known to-morrow evening or whether another Council meeting will be necessary is uncertain, but the chances are that the general public will not be informed of their decision before Monday. It is understood that Premier Bowell, Haggart, Patterson, Daly, Foster and Montague are strongly opposed to any interference with Manitoba. That is their personal view, but whether they will give way to the other view as a matter of policy is not definiely known. All the signs look as if they had decided on interference before the appeal was heard.

The political news from the Lower Provinces is very cheering for the Liberals. The St. John, N. B., ratification meeting to endorse the Liberal candidates was an immense affair, and among the speakers was Attorney-General Blair, Premier of the Province. In Halifax the Liberals have unanimously nominated the two strongest men in that city, Messrs. M. Dwyer and Wm. Roche, both business men of the highest standing. The nomination was made with great enthusiasm and carried by a standing vote. Halifax, with these candidates and the Liberal policy, will without doubt be redeemed.

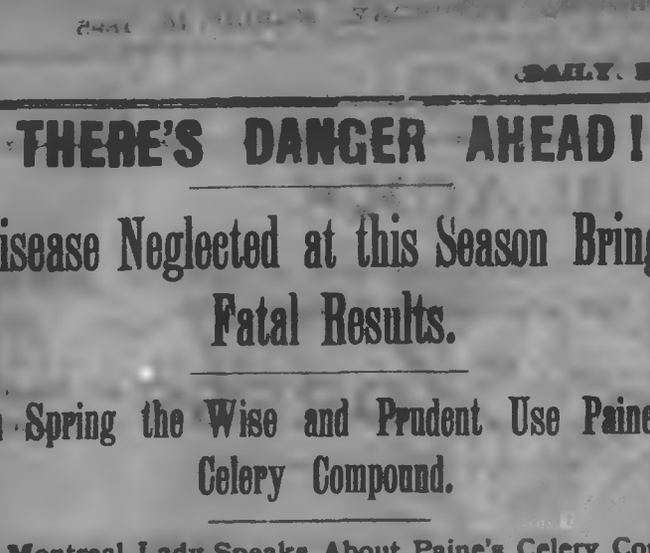
THERE'S DANGER AHEAD!

Disease Neglected at this Season Brings Fatal Results.

In Spring the Wise and Prudent Use Paine's Celery Compound.

A Montreal Lady Speaks About Paine's Celery Compound—Her Doctor Failed to Cure Her—Her Sufferings from Indigestion, Headache and Nervousness, banished by the Great Medicine—She Says: "I am Completely Cured."



Miss Bridges, 23 Dorchester street, Montreal, actuated by a sincere desire to do good to suffering humanity, gives public testimony regarding Paine's Celery Compound, which raised her from a condition of suffering, alarming and dangerous, to complete health and increased bodily vigor and strength.

She tells us of her disappointments with patent medicines and her failures with one of the best city physicians.

In her hour of peril, Miss Bridges' attention was directed to that never-failing spring medicine, Paine's Celery Compound, the great disease-banisher and health-giver. She joyfully and gratefully tells of her success, and gives unstinted praise to a medicine that is blessing thousands every day.

Sufferer, do not, for a moment, delay the work of purifying the blood and strengthening the system. The spring season with its variable weather, demands that you look after your health.

Miss Bridges writes as follows regarding her cure by Paine's Celery Compound:

"I consider it a pleasure as well as a duty to put on record what Paine's Celery Compound has done for me. I suffered for years from indigestion, headache, pains in the back and side, and from a nervous, tired feeling. I used many patent medicines without any good results. I was also attended by one of the best doctors, and used his medicines, but could not get cured.

"I saw Paine's Celery Compound advertised and decided to try a bottle. It gave me such good results that I used six bottles, and I found myself altogether a new person. I have used it both spring and autumn since 1890, and I can say with pleasure that all my troubles are banished; my nerves are strong, my sleep is good and appetite splendid.

"I would therefore strongly recommend Paine's Celery Compound to all who suffer as I did; they are sure and certain of good results."

Thought He Could Jump.

A young man the other day got an umbrella where the bottle got the cork—in the neck. This young man is one of those fellows who can readily explain to you that nothing that any one else can do is really as difficult as it appears. He joined a local gymnasium not long ago, and after watching the members once or twice going through their exercises came away with the feeling that he was a full fledged athlete. Walking on East Court street alongside of the jail, he espied two women ahead of him walking abreast and carrying a basket of freshly washed clothes between them. The street being narrow at this point, they took up the full width. The young man, being in a hurry, thought he could save time by jumping over the basket, but his calculation was not acute enough, and he kicked some of the wash off. After walking a few steps he turned around to ascertain the result of his maneuver and was just in time to see an umbrella hurled at him by the unerring aim of an enraged woman. He tried to dodge, but was too slow.—Cincinnati Commercial Gazette.

Ancient Stationers.

In mediæval times the stationarius, or stationer, held official connection with a university and sold at his stall, or station, the books written or copied by the librarius, or book writer. Such is the origin of the modern term stationer, one who now keeps for sale implements of such service, and not usually the productions of literary persons.—Harper's Bazar.

A Lost Bride.

An absentminded groom in Rome, Ga., forgot that he was to be married the other day, and when the time for the ceremony arrived he was not present. An examination showed that he had overslept himself. He apologized, but the father of the bride refused to accept him as a son-in-law, and the engagement was broken.—Detroit Free Press.

Tyrolese as Artists' Models.

The Deutsche Revue gives an amusing account of the troubles of Franz von Defregger in obtaining models. The famous art professor of Munich generally chooses his subjects among his own special land's folk, the Tyrolese. Finer models it would be hard to get, but they have one fatal superstition—that whoever allows himself to be sketched, painted or drawn will obtain a speedy immortality through the grave, whatever may be his fate on canvas. Thus, in 1878, when painting his "Letztes Aufgebot" ("Last Levy") and other pictures, he spent months in a country beerhouse before he could find a likely model, and when he got the man into his studio it was all in vain, for no sooner had he seen the javelins, darts, pikes and a complete suit of armor than he shied back, professed a faintness of stomach and fled downstairs. With his second model he advanced a little farther, but as soon as he was clad in armor and brandishing an ancient battle-ax a stout country woman rushed in: "Was! Du willst mit dem Landsturm gehen? Das sollst du nie und nimmer." And, seizing him, armor and all, she ran him down the fatal stairs. Outside she held him fast and stripped off his armor piece by piece; then, leaving the disused panoply lying in a heap, she hurried him home, a model husband, but not a model hero.

What Makes Home.

It is not the interior of one's house, but the interior of one's mind which makes home.—Ella Wheeler Wilcox.

It is not to be wondered at, that Ayer's Pills are in such universal demand. For the cure of constipation, biliousness, or any other complaint needing a laxative, these pills are unsurpassed. They are sugar-coated, easy to take, and every dose is effective.

A Popular Traveller.

Mr. G. Fred Anderson, the popular representative of T. S. Simms & Co., St John, N. B., in speaking of Norway Pine Syrup, says: "It is the best cough cure I ever used, and I prefer it to any other. Have given it to friends of mine, and it cures every time. It would be difficult now to induce me to take any other.

CONSUMERS CORDAGE AFFAIRS.

The Annual Report said to Show a Loss of over $800,000 on the Year's Business.

Montreal, March 16.—There is trouble in the Consumers Cordage Co., which controls the cordage business of the Dominion. A number of wealthy Americans and Canadians are interested in the company, one of the largest shareholders being E. M. Fulton, the well-known New York millionaire. His son, E. M. Fulton, jr., was also one of the directors and in the board are also W. Whitlock, New York, and J. F. Stairs, M.P., Halifax. The managing director was A. W. Morris, a prominent young Montrealer, who in addition to the interest he held in the concern received a salary of $30,000 a year for his services as managing director. The company has controlled the cordage business of the Dominion and it was generally believed that the profits were enormous. A different condition of affairs was revealed at the annual meeting which has just been held here in the utmost privacy. A strong effort was made to keep the facts secret but they have leaked out and have caused a decided sensation in financial circles. It is claimed that the annual report, which was not printed, revealed a very bad condition of affairs, showing a loss of over $800,000 on the year's operations. One item of $170,000, representing an overdraft by one of the directors, provoked an angry discussion, some of the shareholders claiming that the money had been used for speculative purposes. After a great deal of wrangling a special committee was appointed to make a full and complete investigation regarding the company's position, and further action was deferred until the committee presents its report. The election of directors resulted in Mr. Morris and E. M. Fulton, sr., being omitted from the board. Criminal proceedings are threatened by some of the shareholders against certain of the directors.

A SESSION FIRST.

Parliament Likely to be Called to Meet on the 18th of April.

Ottawa, March 16.—The report is current in the city that Parliament will meet on the 18th of April. This information comes from what is usually considered reliable quarters, but until after the meeting of the Cabinet it is very doubtful if one can speak with authority on the subject. The likelihood, however, is that there will be a session before an election. The reason given for this is the Manitoba School question. It is now considered good politics to have the matter discussed by the House, thereby getting all the party into line on the subject, as well as getting the policy of the Opposition before the country, instead of leaving the question to be debated and disposed of in the midst of a general election. While this idea is likely to prevail all the members of Parliament being anxious for a session, some of the members of the Government are still in favor of a general election first. In this connection they point to the state of the finances, which will require additional taxation to meet the decreased revenue. Besides this there are three vacancies in the House which should be filled before Parliament meets. These are Quebec West, Vercheres and Antigonish, which have no representatives at present. Should these constituencies go against the Government on the eve of a general election the fact would be injurious to the administration. Quebec West, Antigonish, N.S., were held by the Conservatives and Vercheres by the Liberals. All these matters will be taken into consideration before a decision is arrived at.

Words of Weight and Wisdom

Canada's Well-known Railroad Contractor, Mr. J. W. Dinwoodie, III.

Treated by Several Doctors and Tried Nearly Every Proprietary Medicine—Got Very Little Benefit—Was Influenced to Use South American Nervine—Found Immediate Relief—"The Nervousness Has Entirely Left My System"—"I Will Never Be Without It in My Home."

MR. J. W. DINWOODIE, CAMPBELLFORD, ONT.

Men of affairs usually weigh their words. They are not of that class of people who carry their hearts upon their sleeve. One of the best known men of affairs in Canada is Mr. J. W. Dinwoodie, the large railroad contractor, evidence of whose work is to be found in all parts of the Dominion, from the Atlantic to the Pacific, to chain one section of our vast Dominion with another and bring its people into easy touch with each other through the medium of the iron horse, as Mr. Dinwoodie has in a short lifetime done, is a work of which any man may be proud. Hard and brainy labor, however, is necessary to success of this character, and the strongest constitutions are in danger of breaking down under the strain. It has been so with Mr. Dinwoodie. The great thought that he has had to give to his work, and the care and responsibility that it has carried with it finally told on his constitution, and he became a victim of nervous troubles, his liver and kidneys becoming seriously disordered.

Naturally he consulted a medical man. Comparatively no relief was obtained. He changed his doctor, and did not stop with one, two or three physicians, but he got no better. Various proprietary medicines were recommended, and, as he says himself, "Tried them all, but not very little benefit. Last fall I was camping out, and I was feeling very ill. I happened to pick up a paper with the advertisement for South American Nervine. I determined to give it a trial, and procured a bottle from the local druggist. After having taken but a few doses I found very great relief. The severe pain that I had been suffering in the small of my back left me and the nervousness that had rendered me, in a large measure, unfit for work, has as a result of the continued use of Nervine, become banished from my system. I am now able to enjoy refreshing sleep the night through. I keep South American Nervine always in the house, and I do not hesitate to say that it is the very best medicine I have ever taken, and most confidently recommend it to anyone troubled with nervousness of whatever form and the attendant diseases of the liver and stomach that follow this weakness."

The important fact can not be too often emphasized that South American Nervine cures at the nerve centers, from which emanate all diseases. This being an undoubted scientific truth, fully and perfectly demonstrated by science, it is never an experiment to use Nervine, but in this remedy is always found a certain cure.

AN OFT-TOLD TALE

Illustrating the hollowness of relationship in time of trouble and showing how the widow's stay and the orphan's shield Mas a policy in the Manufacturers' Life.

When God removed Papa to Heaven,
And Ma was left to strive for seven,
With scarce enough for burial fees,
So lingering was poor Pa's diseases.
Though full of grief, we'd no despair,
Relations spoke so kind and fair.
Our Grandpa said that he, for one,
Would try and see what could be done.
Our Uncle William and our Aunt,
Hoped we should never come to want
But mother's brothers talked the best,
A great deal kinder than the rest.
They said that home they'd take us all,
Only their rooms were few and small.
We'd promises from Uncle Page,
To push us forward when of age.
They then went home, but stop, I miss.

They gave us every one, a kiss,
And said, "be good and mind Mamma,
And we will be to you—Papa."
For many weeks they could not come,
So much were they engaged at home,
Until they heard Mamma had found
Behind Pa's desk upon the ground,
An envelope, "to my dear wife,"
Five Thousand Manufacturers' Life
Which soon the Manufacturers' paid.
So Ma commenced a genteel trade,
And then they came, it seemed so funny,
To beg Mamma would lend them money.
But Ma said no, if you are poor,
A trifle will your life insure;
And then the Manufacturers shall
Your best friend be what'er befall.

Fall Exhibition in Lakefield.

On Tuesday a meeting of the directors of the Smith, Ennismore and Lakefield Agricultural Society was held in the town hall, Lakefield, for the purpose of revising the list. A number of changes were made in the list, but none of any importance. The days for holding the next exhibition were fixed for Tuesday and Wednesday, Sept. 17th and 18th, two days earlier than last year.

The Mechanics' Institute.

The following new books have been added to the library of the Mechanics' Institute: Beyond the Dreams of Avarice, Besant; John March, Southener, Cable; Under Fire, King; Madame Sans-Gene, Sardou; Travels with a Donkey, Stevenson; The Silverado Squatters, Stevenson; The Dynamiters, Stevenson; Treasure Island, Stevenson; The Adventures of Jones, Cagrath.

The Hendershott Case.

William D. Welter and John Hendershott were found guilty at St. Thomas yesterday of the murder of William H. Hendershott, and sentenced to be hanged June 18. It is said a new trial will be applied for. In connection with the case Welter is reported to have made a confession, telling the story of the murder, which was committed by himself and John Hendershott in a most cruel manner. When the result of the deliberation of the jury became known in Peterborough, considerable excitement was manifested.

A SPECIAL MEETING OF THE TOWN COUNCIL

TO RECEIVE THE AWARD OF THE SEWER ARBITRATOR.

An Appeal to be Made Against the Award—The Auburn Bridge Talked Over—The Electric Lamps Talked Out.

At a special meeting of the council held last evening there were present the Mayor and Councillors Cahill, Sproule, Best Denne, Mills, Phelan, Dawson, Clinkscale, Sawers, Stone, Mason and Brady.

The meeting was called by the Mayor ostensibly to consider general business, but more particularly to talk over the sewer award informally with the town solicitor.

The following

were received and referred as stated.

From Robert McLean, of the Fire Underwriters Association, stating that the Fire Appliance Committee of the Association was satisfied with the extra precautions taken by the town in the matter of fire protection.

Received and referred to the Fire, Water and Light Committee.

From M. Connors asking a remission of taxes on his income.

Referred to the Court of Revision.

From Louis F. Heyd, barrister, of Toronto, stating that unless an answer was received immediately concerning an accident received by Mrs. M. S. Chrysler, a writ would be issued for damages.

Referred to the town solicitor.

From Jos. Peacock, asking for an extension of time in which to pay his taxes.

Referred to the Court of Revision.

From Edg. Pearse, County clerk, stating that in the matter of an erection of an anchor pier at Pigeon Creek Bridge, which was recommended by the County Engineer, the county council decided to erect the pier provided that the necessary expense was approved by the county of Victoria and the town of Peterborough. Enclosed was an extract from the report of the County Engineer in the matter as follows: "This bridge during the summer has had several repairs thereto, consequent on the ice shove and storms in the spring of last year. It yet requires the floats mentioned in my last report added, and further I would recommend that an anchor pier should be placed in the southwest bay above the bridge to hold the ice until it weakens and gradually thaws and thus prevent damage resulting therefrom to the bridge. This pier must be 20 feet square, 11 feet high, built of round logs, pinned with iron pins and filled with stone at an estimated cost of $250, and should be put in from the ice."

J. E. BELCHER,
County Engineer.

Referred to the Joint Committee.

From the Salvation Army, asking for a grant of $50 towards the support of their band.

Referred to the Finance Committee.

From Edg. Pearse, County Clerk, enclosing the following extract from the report of the Committee of the County Council on Petitions which was adopted on the 25th day of January, 1895, as follows:

"Your Committee recommend that this Council pass a memorial to the Dominion Government asking them to assume control of all swings in bridges over the Trent Valley waters, and further recommend that the Town of Peterborough be requested to pass a memorial in similar terms."

Referred to the Street and Bridge Committee.

From J. R. Stratton, M.P.P., acknowledging receipt of memorial to the Legislature asking that all taxes be paid by the owner, and stating that it had been presented to the Legislature by him on March 7th.

Received.

Chairman Best, of the STREET AND BRIDGE COMMITTEE

submitted a report recommending the payment of $50.00 to David Knox for the purchase of drainage pipes for his new vinegar factory and soda water works on Queen street. The committee, Mr. Best stated, had come to no agreement regarding the erection of the bridge at Auburn.

Councillor Brady did not agree with Mr. Best that that the committee could not agree. He thought the clerk had been authorised to advertise for tenders and the question referred back to the petitioners for further information regarding the cost.

Mr. Best pointed out that this course had been merely suggested, and no definite action had been taken.

Mr. Sproule thought that the Street Railway Company was anxious to cross the river at about this point and possibly arrangements might be made whereby the company and corporation might together defray the cost of the bridge.

Considerable discussion followed concerning the advisability of erecting a highway bridge or simply a foot bridge. The Mayor, on behalf of the Auburn Company, stated that, if a highway bridge was erected, the right of way would be granted by the company.

Mr. Dawson was sorry to see the council beginning to of whether the bridge should be a highway or simply for foot passengers. Two years years ago the council haggled over this matter and in consequence the bridge was not built. Mr. Dawson stated that he would never vote away the ratepayers' money for a highway bridge. All that was needed was a foot bridge.

Mr. Mills drew the attention of the council to the fact that this bridge was in reality a local improvement. When the west end wanted a drain, it could only get it by having it put in as a local improvement. He thought that while the town might bear the greater portion of the cost of the bridge, yet a portion of the expense should be borne as a local improvement by the parties benefitted.

Mr. Brady presented an argument in favour of the bridge by the statement that many of the children at Auburn were unable to attend school on account of not caring to risk the danger of daily crossing and re crossing the dam.

NOTHING HAD EVER BEEN DONE in the way of improvement for the portion of town in question.

Mr. Cahill stated candidly that he would vote against giving $1,800 for a footbridge. He would prefer giving the balance and erecting a highway bridge. However, a footbridge might be erected at a great deal less expense than $1,800.

The Mayor stated positively that the Auburn Company would not grant a 66 foot right of way from one end of their property to the other for a foot-bridge. If a highway bridge was erected, well and good. If not, the Company would only grant a right of way as far as the railroad, along which the foot-bridge passengers would have to walk until they came to one of the town streets.

Councillor Denne was in favour of referring the question to the ratepayers in order to ascertain whether a highway or a footbridge was most desirable.

Councillors Dawson and Stone thought this was but a scheme to shelve the question, as the other wards of the town being more populous, and not being directly benefitted by the bridge, would vote the proposal of building it down.

On motion, Mr. Meldrum addressed the council. He was in favour of a highway bridge. If the town wished to encourage manufacturers to locate here, one of the best ways to do it would be to improve the approaches to the town. A footbridge, moreover, would never stand against the heavy current which swept down the river.

Mr. Meldrum was asked why he had signed the petition for a footbridge if he was opposed to it.

He answered that he had only signed one petition, and that was

FOR A HIGHWAY BRIDGE.

An examination of the petition showed that the original petition had been tampered with, but by whom was not ascertained.

At this juncture the electric light was cut off, and the councillors talked until 11 o'clock in the dark. A number of motions were made and withdrawn concerning the erection of the bridge. Finally Councillors Best and Denne moved that the matter be deferred for a month in order to see what the Street Railway Company intended doing in the matter of building a bridge.

In amendment, Councillors Brady and Stone moved that the Clerk advertise for tenders for the building of a highway bridge and footbridge at Auburn, according to the specifications in the Clerk's office, and report at the next meeting of the Council.

The amendment was lost and councillor Best's motion was then carried on the following vote:

Yeas.—Cahill, Sproule, Best, Denne, Phelan, Dawson, Clinkscale and Sawers—8.

Nays.—Denne, Stone, Mason, Brady.—4.

On motion of Messrs. Cahill and Sproule, three hundred copies of the auditors' report will be immediately printed for distribution.

Town Solicitor Edwards was then called upon to read the judgment of the arbitrator regarding the sewer award, which he received that evening. The full text will be found in another column. It is an important document and worthy of perusal.

Councillor Dawson asked what it would cost to appeal against the award, and was told by Mr. Stone, that to take it one court higher to a single judge, would involve an expense of not more than $100.

Councillor Sawers thought that the town solicitor should have the best available counsel in Canada to act with him in making the appeal. The names of Mr. Christopher Robinson or D'Alton McCarthy were mentioned.

On being asked for his own opinion regarding the award, Mr. Edwards unhesitatingly pronounced it bad. He was anxious to have it appealed and would gladly avail himself of Mr. Sawers' suggestion.

The council appeared unanimous in its opinion concerning the appeal and on motion of Councillors Stone and Brady, the town solicitor was authorized to appeal the case and empowered to select such counsel as he saw fit in the matter, also to employ counsel to assist him in the Mason appeal.

THE OUTFALL SEWER ARBITRATION AWARD.

THE TEXT OF JUDGE KETCHUM'S DECISION.

His Reasons for Arriving at His Conclusions—The Merits of the Case Considered—A Matter of Interest to Both Town and Township—The Town Will Appeal.

In the matter of the arbitration between the town of Peterborough and the township of North Monaghan.

My award herein is based on the following conclusions:—

The town of Peterborough is in the situation contemplated by section 492 of the Consolidated Municipal Act, 1892, being so situated that in the construction of the system of sewers proposed to be constructed in the town, of which the Edison sewer already constructed, and the outfall sewer now under construction are parts, it is necessary, in order to procure an outlet therefor, to extend the outfall sewer, the main sewer into which the street sewers are intended to discharge, into the contiguous municipality of North Monaghan. The town asks the power to make this extension unfettered by any conditions which will interfere with its intention to use this outfall sewer, after it is constructed, as a means and for the purpose of conveying to and depositing in the river Otonabee, at a point within the limits of the township, the

SEWAGE OF THE TOWN

in its raw or natural condition. The council of the township objects to this deposit of the raw sewerage into the river within its territory on the ground that its effect will be prejudicial to the health and injurious to the property of the people below the outlet of the sewer, who have the right to make use of the waters of the river for drinking and other purposes, and they object to the extension of the sewer through the township unless the power so to extend it is coupled with the condition or conditions by which the town will be required to purify the sewage and as far as possible deprive it of its dangerous and obnoxious elements before discharging it into the river. This is the only condition insisted upon by the township. There is no objection to the construction and maintenance of the sewer through the township upon the course and to the point proposed, if the sewage is so purified before being discharged. And it appears from the evidence that the land in the immediate vicinity of the proposed point of discharge is of a character favourable to the establishment there of the system of purification by sand filtration, which is said to be one of the best, if not the best, of the various systems which so far have

BEEN TESTED BY EXPERIENCE.

The question, which I have to decide, is whether such a condition as the township insists upon ought to be attached to the permission to extend the sewer as proposed.

I am of the opinion that the township of North Monaghan has the right to prohibit the proposed discharge of the sewage into the river within its boundaries. The Municipal Act, section 492, sub-sec. 49, gives the council power to make any regulation for sewerage or drainage that may be deemed necessary for sanitary purposes, and this power is expressly preserved by sub-sec. 3 of section 492. The deposit of the sewage in the river at the point proposed, without the consent of the township of North Monaghan, would, I think, be a trespass, which the township would have the right to prevent. The proposed disposition of the sewage will also be a serious interference with the rights of riparian proprietors below the outlet. Now unless section 492 of the Municipal Act, under which this inquiry is held, gives power or authority to interfere with the exercise of those rights of the township of North Monaghan and its people, I

OUGHT NOT TO ALLOW,

and I think I would have no power to allow, that disposition of the sewerage within the boundaries of the township. That section does not expressly touch the matter. It is concerned with the construction and extension of the sewer, not with its operation, or with the use which may be made of it after construction. It provides that the arbitrators shall determine the terms and conditions upon which the extension of the sewer shall be allowed. These terms and conditions plainly are such as may be onerous to the town, not such as may be onerous to the township. They are such as will qualify and limit the power to extend the sewer, not such as will enlarge it to an authority to commit a nuisance. Then, can any authority to interfere with the rights to which I have alluded be applied from that section. The rule of construction applicable is, I think, that which is stated in Managers of the Metropolitan Asylum District vs. Hill and others, 6 App. Cas., 193, and in Western Counties' Railway Company, 7 App. Cas., 178. In the former case Lord Watson, at page 213, says: Where the terms of the statute are not imperative, but permissive, when it is left to the discretion of the persons empowered to determine whether to them shall be put into execution or not, I think the fair inference is that the legislature intended that discretion to be exercised in strict conformity with private rights, and did not intend to confer license to commit nuisance in any place which might be selected for the purpose." In this case the statute is permissive, not imperative. If the right to discharge noxious matter into this stream can be inferred it must be inferred in every other case to which the Act applies, without any regard to the degree of pollution or danger that may be caused by it. I think then that no such right can be properly or fairly inferred.

The sewer will not be useless if this discharge of the raw sewage into the river is prevented, because it may be used to convey that sewage to the filtration beds. I think the Legislature has wisely refrained from dealing with this subject in a general way, and has reserved its power to deal with it according to the circumstances of each particular case, as it may be brought before them. It might be proper to grant such a privilege in some cases, and it would be manifestly improper to grant it in others.

Then if these rights exist, and I have the town to infringe upon them, it may be asked why the township and its people should not be left to the protection which the law will give them if such rights are interfered with. But I think I would be shirking my responsibility as an arbitrator if I took that course. The townships are entitled to my decision and to be thereby relieved of the onus of establishing in another court at some future time that they are entitled to be protected from the proposed interference. I think, therefore, that I must hold that the township is entitled to insist upon its condition. It may, perhaps, be inferred from my award that I have given the town permission to use the sewer in the manner proposed during the term of five years. I have fixed that period not because I thought that I had power to do so, but in the belief that the township will not object to it. I think the people of the township are reasonable men, who do not wish to embarass the people of their county town unnecessarily or to refuse them a reasonable time in which to adopt such measures as may be considered advisable. Under the existing circumstances I think there is little danger to be feared during that period. If it should arise the townships will have its remedy.

If I am wrong in the conclusions which I have expressed there is still another view of the matter, which in my opinion justifies the award. Upon the evidence I find that with which would exist under the conditions assumed and the danger which would exist from the germs of disease which the sewage would probably contain, the water of the river below the outlet of the sewer and in a greater or less degree from thence throughout the whole course of the river to its mouth, would be unfit to be used for drinking or in ice or in any domestic operation or process, by which disease might be communicated by such germs to the individual; and that the danger from such use of the water will increase as the degree of pollution increases by the increase in the population of the town, or otherwise, and that at some time in the future it will most probably be necessary for the protection of the people of the townships that the sewage be purified before being put into the river. It is clear I think that this pollution will constitute a serious interference with the legal rights of these persons who occupy the borders of the river below the proposed sewer outlet and of others, and it is desirable to consider what those rights are and what right the town has to interfere with them. It is hardly necessary to cite authority for the proposition that every riparian proprietor has at common law the right to the enjoyment of a natural stream of water on the surface, as incident to the rights of the soil itself and the right to have the water come to him in flow quantity and quality. That right, where the waters are navigable, is subject only to the qualification that the public right of navigation must not be obstructed or interfered with. Lyon vs. Fishmongers Company, 1 App. Cas. 662. North Shore Railway Company vs. Pion, 14 App. Cas. 612. The right to object to pollution of the water is not confined to riparian owners. Watson vs. City of Toronto, Gas, Light and Water Company, 4 U.C.Q.B., 158, and which case Robinson, C. J., says that the plaintiff there had the same right that all others had to go anywhere on Lake Ontario and take water for their purposes, whether they possessed any house or lands upon its banks or not.

The same right, in short, that any person had not to die of thirst upon the banks of a navigable water, which is, by law, accessible to all. The possession of these rights and the effect the proposed pollution will have upon them are amongst the "circumstances" which I am required to consider under section 492. Then what is the right of the town? If the town were so situated that it could pour its sewage into this river within its own territory, it would have the right to do so without asking authority from any one and that right would not be taken from it or interfered with unless it could be shown that some permanent or serious injury was being occasioned by its exercise. But the position is in my opinion

A VERY DIFFERENT ONE.

The town has no right to deposit its sewage outside its own territory, except that which is given by section 492, and that is not an absolute right. Where, as in this case, the council of the contiguous municipality objects, it may be refused, or if granted, be made subject to such terms and conditions as the arbitrator or arbitrators may impose. It is therefore now in the nature of a favour to be asked than that of a right to be granted. Under such circumstances and where a privilege is asked, which will be a benefit only to the parties asking it, and which, if granted, may be productive of a great injury to those from whom it is asked, for whom compensation is provided and where it is shown that there is no absolute necessity that such risk of injury should be incurred, it is, I think, eminently reasonable and proper that such conditions, as may be necessary to prevent the apprehended injury, should be attached to the privilege. The townships interested in this case should not be compelled to submit to the pollution until disease or death has actually occurred from it, nor should they be burdened with the responsibility of establishing to the satisfaction of a court that a nuisance has been created. Prevention, not cure, should be the principle which should be adopted. I therefore think that the power to discharge this sewage in its natural state into the river should in any case be limited in point of time. The time when it should stop will arrive whenever the quantity of the sewage and the other conditions shall be such that danger to health may be reasonably apprehended from a continuance of the practice. To meet the necessity of the case there should be power to extend the time from time to time until this danger point appears to be close at hand. I have not such power. My award must be final and I cannot leave anything to be determined in the future by me or by others. I can only fix a certain definite period beyond which the pollution shall not continue. It is possible that the court has the power to entertain applications to extend the period, which I have fixed or that it could reserve such power to itself by modification of this award under Section 494 of the Consolidated Municipal Act.

OR INJURY TO PROPERTY

It was argued before me that the interests of the comparatively few people in the townships [who would be affected by this pollution should give way to the interests of the town. That is an argument addressed to the discretion of the Court, which is well answered, I think, by Sir J. Romilly, M.R., in Goldsmid v. Tunbridge Wells Improvement Commissioners, L. R. 1 Eq. at pages 169-170. That case also reported on appeal in 1 Chy. App. 349, is an instructive one upon the questions raised here.

It was also argued that as the water of the river is not now fit for drinking purposes, the additional pollution proposed would be no injury to the townships. What I understood the evidence to show is this, that the water ought not to be taken as a public water supply for any considerable body of people, such as would be in a town or city. It does not show that it is now dangerous to the people of the townships, on the contrary it shows that certain of them do use it for drinking purposes, though not to a very large extent, and have done so for a long time without harm. But that it is now fouled to some extent is not a reason why the additional pollution should be allowed. Crossley v. Lithowder, L. R. 2 Chy. App. 478.

It was stated upon the argument that the expense of establishing a sewage farm here will, if it can be made a condition, prevent the town from carrying out its proposed sewerage system. I think this statement ought not to influence me. In reference to a consideration of that kind, Lord Hatherly in the Attorney-General vs. Colney-Hatch Lunatic Asylum, L. R. 4 Chy. 146, says, "The Court will always find its simplest course as far as regards the administration of Justice is to ascertain the exact state of the law, which regulates the relations of the parties, and having done so to proceed to act upon it without any reference to the difficulties of the case on the part of those against whom it is obliged to decide, leaving those parties to relieve themselves as best they can from the position in which they have placed themselves, and if there be no other mode of escape to cease to do the acts which occasion the wrong,

AS TO THE SANITARY QUESTION,

I think from the evidence that the pollution, to the extent assumed upon the reference, might be allowed to continue for a number of years without perceptible damage to the people below, if the water is not used for drinking purposes. I am assuming, of course, that the conditions, as they now are, as regards the health of the people of the town, and as regards the factories, mills, tanneries and manufacturing industries of the town, and the general plan of the river will continue. Under certain conditions which do not at present exist, there would be danger to cattle and possibly to human beings, even if the water is not used for drinking purposes. It is of course impossible to say, with any accuracy in advance of the results of actual experience, how long the pollution ought to be allowed to continue, and, therefore, I would suggest an application to the court to obtain power to extend the time from time to time, as circumstances show at the time of the application, seem to justify.

As to costs, it was admitted by counsel on both sides upon the argument, that they should follow the event. I have therefore directed that they be paid by the town of Peterborough.

Arbitrator.

A GRAND ENTERTAINMENT.

The Successful Concert and Lecture Under the Auspices of the Sons of Ireland.

The concert and lecture given in the opera house last night under the auspices of Peterborough Lodge, Sons of Ireland, No. 11, was attended by a limited audience, which was far short of the merit of the entertainment. Mr. W. H. G. Armstrong presided. The programme, which was a long and varied one, included well-rendered instrumental duets by Messrs. Roadhouse and Corbin. Miss Lola Ostrom the ever popular young elocutionist, gave two numbers which were as usual especially excellent and enthusiastically received. In her two solos, Miss Lily Jackson made a decided hit. She was loudly encored at both appearances. She possesses a remarkably sweet voice and good vocal style. Mr. R. J. Hiller never appeared to better advantage. His humorous selections were capitally presented. Messrs. Kingscote and Hayden, in their vocal duets, sang well, their harmony and expression being excellent. Miss Aggie Patterson's humorous recitations, a young elocutionist of much promise, were very heartily received and applauded. Mr. Rott. Beach gave a capital imitative drum solo. Miss Lily Pascoe also gave a fine recitation and Mr. John Miller an appreciated cornet solo. Between the first and second parts of the programme Mr. A. H. R. Sproule, J. P., of Ballymona, Ireland, delivered in good style a brief address on "Home Rule and the Irish Question." After dealing with the grievances of Ireland, the speaker turned his attention to Home Rule, which was characterised as a scheme in the hands of political agitators. The space taken by long local reports prevents further reference to this lecture.

FAINT'S WOOLEN MILLS DAMAGED BY FIRE.

A Bucket Brigade Does Good Service Until the Arrival of the Hose.

The fire brigade was called out for the first time in many weeks last evening, at 7.45 o'clock, Faint's Woolen Mill in Ashburnham, just east of the Hunter street bridge, being discovered to be in flames.

The fire had gained great headway before the alarm was given, and it was 23 minutes later before the hose was stretched and water playing on the flames. The hydrant on Queen and Hunter street was utilized, but the hose sleigh had to make two trips before enough hose was secured to stretch the distance required.

In the meantime the fire engine appeared on the scene, but its services were not called into requisition.

Shortly after the alarm was given a hole was chopped through the river ice and a bucket brigade being organized, excellent work was accomplished in keeping the fire in check until the hose had been laid.

The fire originated in the picking department of the mill, and as the walls and ceiling were fireproof the main building escaped being badly damaged. A huge draft pipe of wood drew the flames up into it in such a manner as to belch them forth again in such a sheet as to lead those not in the immediate vicinity to believe that an immense conflagration was taking place. Fortunately the wind was light and the sparks settled without being driven to any great distance.

The fire originated in the picking room and the sparks were actually driven through a pipe 45 feet long to another department. The flooring beneath the carding machine was burned and that costly piece of mechanism was precipitated to the ground floor and badly damaged. Altogether, Mr. Faint places his loss at about $400. An insurance of $350 was carried in the Gore Mutual Insurance Company on the plant and premises damaged. Mr. Faint is unfortunate in the way of fires, having been burned out several years ago.

In the matter of the application of Frank Arkles, inquiring if a "six-months' license would be granted him for a hotel at Victoria Park, (Hale's Bridge), Otonabee, without the usual petition from the electors, the Inspector was instructed to notify Mr. Arkles that while in any event a petition would be necessary, the Commissioners were not favourable to granting such a license for the hotel in question.

The Globe, Jan. 29th, 1895, says: "The entertainment presented by G. H. Snazelle at Massey Hall last night was remarkable in several ways, one being the demonstration of Mr. Snazelle's marvellous versatility as an entertainer. For two hours and a half he held the attention and drew the applause of a delighted audience. The entertainment was an unique combination. The second part was mainly humourous, and Mr. Snazelle showed to greater advantage if that were possible. Altogether Mr. Snazelle is as enjoyable an entertainer as ever came to Toronto." Imperial Penny Postage.

London, March 16.—In the House of Commons yesterday Right Hon. Arnold Morley, the Postmaster-General, informed Mr. Henniker Heaton, M.P., that the Government had taken no steps to obtain the assent of the Canadian and Australian Governments to the Imperial penny postage scheme. The Government, Mr. Arnold continued, was well aware that many of the important colonies were opposed to the scheme. Mr. Henniker Heaton denies this statement and says that Canada and the Australian colonies would welcome the immediate institution of a penny rate from England, as a first step, if only properly approached. The Prince of Wales and Lord Rosebery warmly support Mr. Heaton's plans, but Mr. Arnold Morley, the Postmaster-General, and the officials will not budge in this direction.

OF COD LIVER OIL AND HYPOPHOSPHITES OF LIME AND SODA.

It will do wonders for you if your cough is a hard, troublesome and stubborn cough, or if you require building up and fattening, but you must begin in time and take it regularly, as you do your meals.

Madill's Emulsion is put up fresh and sweet every week. It is far more palatable to the stomach than other similar preparations, while a tablespoonful dose contains a higher percentage of Cod liver oil. It is properly emulsified, without the aid of eggs or other over-rich elements, and assimilates much more easily on that account.

Its potency has created not only an active local demand, but a constant request from other cities and towns of Canada.

A TWENTY YEARS' SIEGE.

THE STORY OF A WELL-KNOWN GRENVILLE COUNTY MAN.

Rheumatism Held the Fort for Twenty Years, Resisting all Treatment and Efforts to Dislodge it—The Patient Thoroughly Discouraged, but Acting on the Advice of Friends, Made One More Effort which was Crowned with Success.

From the Brockville Times.

There are very few of the older residents of this section to whom the name of Whitemarsh is not familiar. F. H. Whitemarsh of Merrickville, was for thirty years a member of the council of the United Counties of Leeds and Grenville, and on four occasions filled the office of warden of the counties. His son, Mr. George H. Whitemarsh, to whom this article refers, is als well known throughout the counties, and is the Merrickville correspondent of the Times. It is well-known to Mr. Whitemarsh's friends that he has been a sufferer for many years from rheumatism, from the thraldom of which he has now fortunately been released. Mr. Whitemarsh tell how this was brought about, as follows: "For over twenty years previous to the winter of 1894 I was almost a continual sufferer from muscular rheumatism, sometimes wholly incapacitated from doing any kind of work. After trying remedies of all kinds and descriptions without any benefit I at at last came to the conclusion that a cure was impossible. In the fall of 1893 I was suffering untold pain and misery, and could not rest day or night. Several of my friends strongly urged me to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and reluctantly, I confess, for I had lost faith in all medicine, I began to do so. To my surprise and great satisfaction I soon began to experience relief, and this feeling grew to one of positive assurance that the malady that had made life miserable for so many years was leaving me as I continued the treatment. By the time I had used nine boxes of Pink Pills not a twinge of the rheumatism remained, but to make assurance doubly sure I continued the treatment until I had used twelve boxes of the pills. This was in January, 1894, since when I have not had the slightest trace of any rheumatic pain. I am satisfied beyond a doubt that Dr. Williams' Pink Pills cured me, and I can confidently recommend them to all rheumatic sufferers"

Rheumatism, sciatica, neuralgia, partial paralysis, locomotor ataxia, nervous headache, nervous prostration and diseases depending on humors in the blood, such as scrofula, chronic erysipelas, etc., all disappear before a fair treatment with Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. They give a healthy glow to pale and sallow complexions and build up and renew the entire system. Sold by all dealers and post paid at 50c. a box or six boxes for $2.50 by addressing the Dr. Williams' Medicine Company, Brockville, Ont. Do not be persuaded to take some substitute.

To See Plants Grow.

There are several ways of rendering the growth of plants both audible and visible, but the modus operandi in the "latest improved" experiments is as follows: In order to make the growth of a very vigorous plant visible, a fine platinum wire should be carefully attached to the growing part. The other end of this wire should be attached to a pencil pressing gently against a drum which is being driven by clockwork. If the growth be uniform a straight line is marked on the paper, but the very slightest increase is shown by inclined tracing.

A slight modification of this arrangement renders the growth audible. In this experiment the drum must be covered with platinum foils of a certain width, and separated from each other by spaces about one eighth of an inch.

These strips of platinum should be made to complete the circuit of a galvanic battery, to which an electric bell is attached. In this case the bell is kept continually ringing while the plant is growing the height of the width of the strips used, and is silent while the pointer is passing over the spaces between the strips of metal. The growing of corn may be heard direct by means of the microphone, and there are those who declare that they have heard it without any artificial assistance whatever.

Among the Freaks.

"Ha, he, ha," shouted the fat woman.

"What's the matter with you?" inquired the Ossified Man.

"I have a fine joke on the Circassian Beauty.'

"What is it?"

"Why, she's accepted an invitation from the Armless Wonder to go sleighriding, and she doesn't know she's going to have a good time."

Done With.

Artist—I sold a picture yesterday.

Friend—Ah! What are you going to do with the money?

Artist—It's already done with. My landlady bought it for half the board bill I owe her.

THE SEPARATE SCHOOL QUESTION.

Enactments Since Confederation Can be Repealed by the Legislature.

Toronto, March 15.—The House sat only an hour, yesterday, but long enough to draw from the Government a most important opinion upon the Separate School question. Dr. Ryerson asked Sir Oliver Mowat whether under the recent decision of the Judicial Committee of the Imperial Privy Council the amendments to and changes in the Separate Schools Act of Ontario, passed since Confederation, can be repealed by this Legislature, and whether in the event of the repeal of any such amendments, an appeal will lie to the Governor-General, or the Governor-General-in-Council, under the ninety-third, or other section, of the British North America Act.

Sir Oliver in reply said: "Under the decisions of the Judicial Committee of the Imperial Privy Council the enactments of the Legislature of Ontario in regard to Separate Schools since Confederation can be repealed by this Legislature. The effect of such a repeal is authoritatively declared by the late judgment of the Judicial Committee of the Imperial Privy Council and I can add nothing to what appears from their judgment as to whether in the event of said repeal an appeal would lie to the Governor-General or to the Governor-General-in-Council under the ninety-third or other section of the British North America Act."

This statement on the part of the Premier caused considerable excitement among the members. Dr. Ryerson is not satisfied with the last half of the reply. He wishes to get some definite opinion from Sir Oliver as to whether an appeal would lie or not and will bring up the subject again in another way later on in the session.

A Fruit Inspector.

A deputation of fruit growers from Niagara town and township waited upon Hon. John Dryden yesterday with regard to certain legislation which it is understood will be introduced by the Government providing regulations for the inspection and grading of fruit. One feature of the bill to which the fruit growers object is the appointment of an inspector to be stationed at Toronto whose duty it will be to inspect all fruit placed upon the Toronto market. The members of the deputation urged that this would not be practical because of the large quantity of fruit moving. Mr. Dryden said that when the bill was being framed the views of the deputation would be considered.

The Fees Commission.

Mr. Haycock asked Sir Oliver Mowat when would the report of the commission appointed to enquire into the method of appointment and payment of [illegible] be laid before the House.

The Premier replied that the report was being printed and would probably be laid before the House on Monday.

A New Appointment.

Sir Oliver Mowat said in reply to Dr. Willoughby that it was the intention of the Government to appoint a clerk of Forestry but that the appointment had not been made yet.

Ottawa Separate Schools.

Hon. G. W. Ross answering Dr. Ryerson said that the Government had not received a petition from the Separate School Board of Ottawa asking for an amendment to the Separate School Act to enable the election of Separate School Trustees to be held simultaneously with municipal elections or by ballot. And it was not true that a member of this House wrote to the Board asking them to withdraw the petition on the authority of the Government or of any member of it.

Against Sunday Cars.

The Executive Committee of the Ontario Lord's Day Alliance, numbering over thirty gentlemen from all parts of the Province, waited upon the Government yesterday and protested against any legislation being enacted which would enable the thirteen electric radial railways now applying for charters to operate their cars on Sunday. Sir Oliver Mowat promised that due consideration would be given the views of the deputation before deciding upon the question.

LICENSE COMMISSIONERS.

New Appointments Made by the Government for this Province.

Toronto, March 16.—These license commissioners were appointed by the Ontario Government yesterday and will be gazetted on Monday:

West Hastings—H. G. Bleecker, Frankford; James W. Clark, Belleville; Henry F. Young, Tranton.

Lennox—C. Huffman, Napanee; H. L. Davy, Odessa; M. S. Madole, Napanee.

West Lambton — Archibald McLean, Sarnia; David Trotter, Petrolia, and J. S. Lymington, Sarnia.

Condition of Trade in Canada.

New York, March 16.—Montreal reports a fair volume of business but slow collections and the volume of spring orders less than last year. A similar report is made by Toronto, except that a few wholesale lines show gains. There is no change in the condition of trade in Halifax. Wholesale dealers report the volume of sales light and the condition of the country roads very bad. Logging has ceased in New Brunswick, the cut this year being less than usual, owing to the heavy snowfall. Business failures throughout the Canadian Dominion, as reported to Bradstreet' this week, number 39, against 53 last week, 45 one year ago, 32 two years ago and 37 three years ago. Bank clearings at Winnipeg, Hamilton, Toronto, Montreal and Halifax aggregate $17,449,000 this week, a falling off of about four per cent. from last week's total and about five per cent. from the corresponding total one year ago.

THE KENT CASE.

People in Ottawa Awakening to a Sense of Their Duty.

Ottawa, March 16th.—The results of the statements published here in the newspaper with regard to the case of Mr. G. H. Kent, of 114 Cambridge street, whose wonderful recovery from Bright's disease through the medium of Dodd's Kidney Pills has awakened so much interest in this city, are shown by the undoubted fact that people here are beginning to realise that an ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure, and as a consequence the demands on the local druggists for this valuable remedy are unprecedented. The opinion expressed by the doctors that an enormous percentage of the community are afflicted with the incipient symptoms of that complaint have also had their effect.

The Student Lamp.

I have known a lamp to be consigned to the attic in disgrace because nothing seemed to reach the root of the trouble. when all that was necessary was to pour some alcohol or ammonia into the reservoir socket, shaking it back and forth through the curbed tube and allowing it to run out at the burner. This treatment brings a brownish oily scum, which is the cause of the odor and which affects the flame as well. Absolute cleanliness is necessary in order to get a good clear light from a lamp of any sort, and ammonia or alcohol will always be found most effective in securing this. If it is desired to concentrate the light, nothing is better for a student lamp than the glass shades which are painted a dark green on the outside. This color is cool and agreeable and extremely beneficial to the eyes, which should never be forced to endure for any length of time the excessive heat that is thrown out by the larger lamp.—Philadelphia Record.

OUR GREAT COUNTRY.

BIG IN EXTENT AND GREAT IN UNDEVELOPED WEALTH.

Some Compatriots That Should Make All Canadians Proud of Their Country—The Magnitude of the Heritage of the Men of the Northern Zone.

It is difficult even for Canadians to realize how big a country and how rich a country in undeveloped wealth they have. We have only lately begun to learn the facts as to the extent and characteristics of the vast area handed over to Canada by the British Government to possess and develop. Ontario alone, 222,000 square miles, is bigger than all the following States of the American Union put together:

	Square miles.
New York	49,170
Massachusetts	8,315
Connecticut	4,990
New Jersey	7,815
Maine	33,040
Pennsylvania	45,215
Maryland	12,210
Indiana	36,350
Vermont	9,565

A total of 206,670 square miles. With Delaware, 2,050; District of Columbia, 170; Rhode Island, 1,250, thrown in, totalling 210,140 square miles, there would still be room for another State as big as New Jersey, 7,815 miles, and some 4,000 square miles more to spare.

Quebec is nearly 7,000 square miles bigger than Ontario, measuring 228,900 square miles. These two provinces, with British Columbia, 383,300 square miles, alone total 834,200 square miles, are as large as all the following big Western States put together:

	Square miles.
Colorado	103,925
Idaho	84,800
Illinois	56,650
Iowa	56,025
Kansas	82,080
Michigan	58,915
Minnesota	83,365
Ohio	41,060
Oregon	96,030
North Dakota	70,795
Utah	84,970

or 818,615 square miles in all, leaving over 15,000 square miles to spare.

Our Northwest territories alone comprise 906,000 square miles. This region, added to the preceding three Canadian provinces, only, 834,200 square miles, give a total of 1,740,200 square miles, an area larger than Alaska, 577,390 square miles, and all the Southern States put together, namely:

	Square miles.
Alabama	52,250
Arkansas	53,850
Florida	58,680
Georgia	59,475
Kentucky	40,400
Louisiana	48,720
Mississippi	46,810
Missouri	69,415
North Carolina	52,250
South Carolina	30,570
Tennessee	42,050
Texas	265,780
Virginia	42,450
West Virginia	24,780

a total of 887,480, leaving another quarter of a million square miles (275,830) to compare with the States left out of the above enumeration.

But a large part of Canada still remains to be mentioned, namely:

	Square Miles.
Manitoba	73,956
Assiniboia	89,535
Saskatchewan	107,092
Keewatin	282,000
Alberta	106,000
Athabasca	104,500
Territory east of Keewatin and south of Hudson Bay	196,800
Territory of Hudson's Bay	358,000
Islands north and northwest, not enumerated in above	300,000
	1,617,883
Great Lakes and River St. Lawrence, not included in above	47,400
Prince Edward Island	2,000
New Brunswick	28,200
Nova Scotia	20,600
Total	1,715,983

The States and Territories not enumerated in the foregoing list are as follows:

	Square Miles.
Arizona Territory	113,020
California	158,360
Indian Territory	31,400
Montana	146,080
Nebraska	77,510
Nevada	110,700
New Mexico Territory	122,580
Oklahoma Territory	39,030
South Dakota	77,650
Washington	69,180
Wisconsin	56,040
Wyoming	97,890
Total	1,099,440

The above areas include, on the United States side, all water as well as land surfaces, but omit some land surfaces on the Canadian side, which, with Newfoundland and enumerated islands, would bring the combined land and water surfaces of British North America in excess of the United States area, although the official figures for the United States land and water (complete) aggregate 3,602,990 square miles, against the partially-computed areas of British North America of 3,510,612 square miles, of which 3,456,383 are shown in the above tables.

Students of the situation can best understand the magnitude of the heritage we in the past have been so careless about, by comparing the Canadian areas with those of the United Kingdom itself and the European nations. All Britain and Ireland, for example, contain 120,960 square miles—England and Wales, 58,311; Scotland, 29,785; Ireland, 32,582, and the islands 302. This entire area, if it could be set down in Ontario, would leave not very far from half the Province still untouched, plenty of room, at any rate, for another England, Wales and Ireland. The whole of the United Kingdom and Ireland, if they could be dumped into British Columbia, would take up less than a third of that Province, leaving an unoccupied area big enough to accommodate the same twice over, with a trifle of 20,000 square miles or so to spare.

Ontario alone, 219,650 square miles, is bigger than France, 206,000 square miles; Germany, 212,000 square miles; Italy, 114,000 square miles; Spain, 182,758 square miles.

Ontario and Quebec alone, 447,150 square miles, are bigger than Austria-Hungary, 236,311 square miles; Sweden and Norway, 288,771 square miles; and all the smaller states of Europe put together added to either of the above. The biggest state in Europe is Russia, containing about 2,041,809 square miles. Our Northwest Territories, 906,000 square miles, Manitoba and Northwest districts, enumerated above, 1,617,783 square miles, total 2,523,783 square miles, are big enough to swallow all Russia in Europe and leave 481,974 miles to spare, an unused area greater than all France and Germany put together.

To the European entering Canada, or the Eastern American taking a trip into the north country, Montreal is the threshold of Canada. Beyond Montreal, going west or northwest, lie a slice of Quebec, all of Ontario, then Manitoba, after that the prairies, the immense stretches enumerated above, then the region of the Rockies, and after that British Columbia and the shores of the Pacific. You can gather a practical idea of the immensity of Canada by embarking for Europe from the threshold aforesaid. The run to Quebec is roundly 150 miles, and from Quebec to Belle Isle 740 miles, total 890 miles, with the shores of the St. Lawrence both sides of you greater part of the way before you strike the Eastern boundary of the Dominion, the Atlantic Ocean. It takes a voyage up or down the St. Lawrence to or from the Atlantic, and bearing in mind that Montreal, when reached by the westbound traveler, is, after all, only the threshold of Canada, with her forests, her gold, silver and other mines; her fisheries, her hills and valleys, her prairies, her fertile wheat belt, to comprehend what an enormous heritage here remains to be peopled and developed.

What John Wanamaker, the Most Heavily Insured man in America, Says:

(INTERVIEW WITH JOHN WANAMAKER.)

It is very generally known that Ex-Postmaster General John Wanamaker, of Philadelphia, carries the largest amount of Life Insurance of any man in the United States. A representative of the press recently interviewed this gentleman while he was travelling with the Presidential party, and this interview will be found, we believe, of general interest:—

"You are said to be the most heavily insured man in the country, Mr. Wanamaker," remarked the press representative.

"How did you come to think of that?" he said with a smile. "You are not looking for any disaster under such excellent management as our friend Boyd is giving this train and party?"

"No," I replied. "A newspaper friend in San Francisco, who had heard the report, wanted me to ask you it it was true, and if so, what your business reasons are for it?"

"Well," he modestly answered, "I have heard it stated that I am the most heavily insured man in the country. I don't know about that. The amount of my policies is $1,550,000, and the value, with the accumulations since the policies were taken out, is about two millions of dollars."

"In what class of companies are your policies?"

"They are all in stock and mutual companies, and none of them in what are known as assessment or instalment companies."

"Are they full life term policies or on what is termed the 'tontine' plan?"

"I have generally taken ten and fifteen payment policies and very few life policies. With about all good companies a contract can now be made whereby there is no risk of losing a policy after two years' premiums have been paid. If the party insured chooses to withdraw he can get a paid-up policy. Indeed, I understand that some companies have forms whereby the insurer can after one year, if desired, withdraw and receive a paid-up policy. There is practically little risk, any more, in insuring in the old companies."

"Perhaps you would be willing to tell me how you came to insure so heavily?"

"I thought the matter out, and convinced myself that it was a good business venture. Besides, it seemed to me that I might, perhaps, give away more money in lifetime if there was a fixed certainty of putting it back into my estate by Life Insurance. I conceive that the best way for a man to carry on benevolence is not to leave it to be done through his will, but to do it in his lifetime, and I felt that Life Insurance would give me more freedom in carrying out some plans I have, and which I would be glad to see completed before I leave this world. If you want to ascertain what the circumstances were in placing the Life Insurance, I must go further in my answers and say that I should not have gone so far in my Life Insurance but for the skill of the agent who tackled me to insure to a greater extent than I would otherwise have done. He was an old friend who had been in mercantile business and who knew how to present Life Insurance without boring me. I feel to-day sincerely grateful to the man who followed me so discreetly with information about companies, and who kept the subject before me until I settled the question."

"When did you begin taking Life Insurance policies?"

"My first policy was taken when I was twenty-one."

"Do you consider it a good thing for a man of small means?"

"I certainly do. Most young men spend more for cigars during the year than the annual cost of a $2,500 policy in a good company. If they must have the cigars they might divide between cigars and Life Insurance and carry at least a $1,000 policy. I think every young man, before he is married, ought to try to get at least a $1,000 policy."

"Among how many companies are your policies divided, and where are they located?"

"About forty companies. Most of them are located in the East. A few are in the West and a few in Canada."

"Do you recommend Life Insurance to others, especially those in whom you feel a personal interest?"

"I can perhaps answer that best by saying that I presented a few years ago a $1,000 policy, paid up for one year, to every insurable head of family in my employ. Many of the prudent men who received them not only kept them but added to them, and I have the satisfaction of knowing that in not a few cases those policies have been the means of saving worthy families from want."

It will doubtless be of interest to our readers to know that John Wanamaker carries a large policy in the Canada Life Insurance Company, thus evincing his confidence in the soundness of Canada's oldest and largest Company. During the last few years quite a number of American capitalists have been convinced of the SUPERIOR MERITS OF THE CANADA LIFE, and have accordingly placed their insurance therein, in preference to any other company.

The Canadian Life is now being recognized in the states of Michigan, Minnesota and Ohio as the Company that gives the best results for the least premium.

Electricity Generated in His Mouth.

A curious case has just been recorded in which an electric current was found to be generated by a plate of artificial teeth. A patient consulted his doctor on account of a severe pain in his tongue. But the sufferer was assured that there was nothing the matter. He then paid a visit to his dentist, who informed him that his teeth were perfectly sound. Being, however, dissatisfied he called upon an electrician he knew and asked him if it were possible he could have any electricity in his mouth. On examining the teeth his friend found that two metals were used to fix them to a composition plate. To these metal wires were then attached and connected to a galvanometer. Then the teeth were replaced in the patient's mouth and the metals moistened with saliva. No sooner was this done than the galvanometer showed quite a large current from so small a source—enough, it is stated, to cause ulceration and severe pain when long continued upon so sensitive an organ as the tongue. The plate was covered with an insulating varnish, and thence forward all the troubles ceased.—Industries and Iron.

A Negress Turning White.

Aunt Mariah Gooch, colored, living here, is seventy-eight years old, and was born and raised near Monroe. She belonged to Joshua Brents, father of J. M. Brents, ex-county clerk. Aunt Mariah is gradually turning from black to white. Her face and neck and part of her ears are black, presenting a very marked contrast to her snow-white scalp and hair. A small spot under each arm and one hand and part of the other, with the face and neck, constitutes the entire portion of her skin that remains black. The probabilities are that she will in time be entirely white. During all this marvellous change which has taken place she has had as good health as any one of her age would ordinarily have. She is able to do her own housework, and seems to be good for years to come.—Munfordsville (Ky.) Despatch.

Permanently Cured by Taking

AYER'S Sarsaparilla

A CAB-DRIVER'S STORY.

"I was afflicted for eight years with Salt Rheum. During that time, I tried a great many medicines which were highly recommended, but none gave me relief. I was at last advised to try Ayer's Sarsaparilla, by a friend who told me that I must purchase six bottles, and use them according to directions. I yielded to his persuasion, bought the six bottles, and took the contents of three of these bottles without noticing any direct benefit. Before I had finished the fourth bottle, my hands were as

IV.

THE CENSORSHIP OF THE PRESS.

Lord Dufferin recently wrote, "In these days great publicity is given to offensive matter, to nauseous trials and to traits of guilt, folly, vulgarity, that can only pander to the worst sort of prurient curiosity." Such words from such a man, command attention, and in this age must lead many to ask, why the newspaper is so utterly free from those legislative enactments which have restrained all other public expressions of opinion in the community. The platform, the stage, the pulpit, the book stall, and the bill board, are, to a certain extent, restrained by enactments of a moral nature. To the press alone is reserved the freedom of printing anything and everything which is calculated to induce perusal, subject only to the provisions of the law of treason and libel. This is a highly moral age. It has been the policy of our legislatures to pronounce in unmistakeable terms against every form of gambling, raffles, betting, lotteries, prize drawing, and kindred forms of money speculation upon pure chance. The Criminal Code contains severe penalties for disobedience of these modern injunctions.

The sale of intoxicating drinks to minors and of tobacco to youths under 18 years of age is prohibited. Special enactments have been passed for the benefit of inebriates. The manufacture and sale of alcoholic liquors and subtle drugs is under the CLOSEST GOVERNMENTAL SUPERVISION.

The authority of the parent over his children, which for centuries has been regarded as supreme, has recently been declared subject to official review. Education has been entirely assumed by the State, and the municipal curfew bell now rings, not because of the turbulent character of our citizens, or the danger to the community from fire, but because of the care exercised by the authorities to protect the morals of youth.

There can be no denying in the face of these enactments and of many more which might be enumerated, that the safe guarding of the community at large, and of youth in particular is one of the chief functions of the modern state. When therefore a distinct patent cause of contamination can be indicated, it is the duty of right-minded men to formulate a remedy. Glance then for a moment at the modern newspaper, even of the best type. We find the chief departments are the criminal calender and, the sporting column. Every item of fraudulent dealing and scandalous conduct is welcomed with double-leaded capitals. From petty larceny to capital offences nothing is omitted. East and West, North and South the slums of the earth are daily dragged with a muck rake. Nothing is too vile, nothing too hideous, nothing too shameful for the public press. Humanity steeped in guilt is the predominant phase of character presented to the public gaze.

Are we then in

to accept as one of the necessities of modern civilization, the morning collation of everything that is debasing within the very circle of our carefully guarded homes?

It may be argued on behalf of the newspaper that since these things actually occur, and are no mistake, that their very truth is sufficient excuse for publication. The truth of a libel is only a partial defence to an action for damages, and only to be relied on when it is in the interest of the public to give it prominence.

What then shall we say when the community has been libelled? Where the plague spots which exist upon the body politic are made a spectacle for the public gaze, and its secret vices are paraded on every highway? Surely the cases are analogous and the test the same. When the public weal is subserved give candour and free speech the widest latitude, but when the contrary is the case let golden silence take the place of brazen speech, and furthermore let the things that are better unsaid be uttered subject to severe penalty.

Who is benefitted by this dreadful catalogue? Not the man of criminal instinct, surely, for he reads, we may imagine, with diabolical pleasure beyond anything yet attempted by him, and from which he may increase his knowledge of the art of evading detection and mark well the pitfalls, which have tripped his co-temporary. Nor yet the young man trembling on the verge of the abyss into which he hesitates to precipitate himself, for does he not read of murderers transformed into heroes, the centre of attraction, courted by women, pampered by men, interviewed by reporters, lionized by the press, and feel that this is notoriety and worthy of a great sacrifice.

We need go no further. If these narratives do not benefit the criminal classes, it is unnecessary to argue that they benefit the non-criminal classes, to many of the latter they offer nothing more than a horrid fascination which impels perusal and exhausts emotions which should be reserved for the highest objects.

It may be further argued on behalf of the newspaper, that the publication of the particulars of every criminal investigation, coupled with a record of the punishment inflicted, and the subsequent picture drawn with the most accurate minuteness of the hanging or public whipping of the culprit, all tend to deter the criminal class from the committal; of similar offences and thereby justify publication. If this argument be sound, why is it that the sentiment of the public in later years is withdrawn with horror from the terrible spectacles which characterise the earlier part of this century, when all criminals were hanged in public or publicly lashed to the triangle, so that the stripes might be laid on, and blood flow in full view of the whole community.

If there is any strength in the contention that publicity is to be courted, because of its deterrent effects, surely it is better to have the offence itself expiated in public, than to have a mere sensational story, which treats in a picturesque manner of justice vindicated, and which can never have an influence at all, compatible with the scenes which the prudence of our modern legislation has seen fit to abolish.

This is another modern anomaly; we exclude the public and admit the press. It is no longer necessary to secure a point of vantage from which to observe the contortions of the unfortunate. Everyone may enjoy the sensation by his own fireside.

The newspaper is not entirely to blame for this state of affairs. It simply publishes what the subscriber expects and wants; it is with the latter that the form must originate. The Grand Jury of the County of York referred to the matter in their last presentment, and if it were taken up by the Grand Jury of this and other counties an improvement may be looked for. It may even be necessary for the Legislature to pass a special act to enable Judges and Magistrates to inflict penalties upon the proprietors of newspapers publishing matter which it is in the interest of the community to suppress.

A MEMBER OF FORTNIGHTLY CLUB.

[It has already been noted that a high compliment was paid to the Peterborough press at the meeting of the Fortnightly Club, when Mr. Denniston read the paper, of which this letter is a condensed report. We are assured that many sensational articles are suppressed by the editors, but that subscribers sometimes censure them for omitting what they read in other papers on the ground that they are not "up to the times." By altering the word "up" into "down" the truth is expressed.

The world, we believe, progresses in the main, but there are always some respects in which it deteriorates, and we fear this matter of the public press is in some parts of the continent a case in point. It is probable that the question will become a burning one, and meantime every man worthy of the name of a citizen should jealously defend the purity of the press, and support at the sacrifice, if necessary, of his own lower instincts, every editor who, realising the enormous power of the press for good or evil, strives to use that influence for the public good.

THE EVANGELISTIC SERVICES.

Large Attendance and Deepening Interest.

At the evangelistic services held in the George street Methodist church last night there was a large congregation, and evidences of deepening interest in the work going on.

Mr. Moore preached a powerful sermon from the text found in Revelations. 3-20:

"Behold I stand at the door and knock: If any man hear my voice and open the door I will come in to him and will sup with him and he with Me.

The sermon was full of practical thought well presented and had a marked impression upon on the large and attentive audience present.

Many requests for prayer were read, which indicates an increased anxiety for the best results.

Mr. Whyte's singing was, if anything, more effective than usual, and the large choir ably assisted in that part of the service.

In the after-meeting a great number gave evidence of a desire to lead a better life, and many personally attested to having received a change of heart.

These meetings will be continued at St. Paul's church every night next week.

There will be a mass meeting of children in St. Paul's to-morrow (Sunday) afternoon at 4.15, which will be addressed by the Evangelists.

SHORT IN HIS ACCOUNTS.

The Treasurer of Wentworth County Admits He has Used the County Funds.

Hamilton, March 16.—The Wentworth County Council met yesterday morning in the Court House to hear the report of the county auditors, when the astonishing discovery was made known that County Treasurer John T. Stock was short in his accounts to the extent of nearly $9,000. Mr. Stock frankly admitted that he used the county funds. In addition to his official position, he carried on a general store in Waterdown and drove into the city to his office every day. The Waterdown business has not been paying and Mr. Stock has been helping himself to the county's funds for years to keep up the general store. His sureties are John Stock, of East Flamboro', Thomas Stock, of Dundas, Geo. Smith and John Weir, of East Flamboro', and himself, and they are jointly and severally bound in the sum of $20,000. The exact amount of the shortage is said to be $8,926 and this amount has been made good by the sureties. Mr. Stock has been treasurer of the county for 18 years and received as salary $1,200 a year. He was considered one of the most upright men in the county. At times he has handled as much as $90,000 and though his sureties were only bound for one-third of this amount, not the slightest doubt ever entered the minds of those who knew him that the money was not perfectly safe in his hands. The county council decided to allow Mr. Stock to retain his position at least for the present, but they will curtail his power so that he will have not more than $3,000 at his disposal in future.

The French Shore Dispute.

London, March 16.—Sir George Baden-Powell had a question in the House of Commons yesterday urging the British Government to make the present negotiations between Canada and Newfoundland the occasion for a fresh attempt to settle the French shore dispute. Mr. Sydney Buxton, the Secretary for the Colonial Office, said he was not prepared to answer that question at the present juncture.

Wages will be Advanced 15 Per Cent.

Mount Pleasant, Pa., March 16.—The 10,000 coke workers employed by the Frick and Southwestern companies were notified yesterday that their wages would be advanced 15 per cent. on April 1.

Belleville Briefiets.

Belleville, March 16.—The 300 cattle at Corby's distillery have been sold to Hathaway & Gould, of Boston. American capitalists will be here next week to discuss the establishment of steel works here.

FINANCE AND COMMERCE

TORONTO, March 16, 1895.

Prices of poultry stand unchanged as follows: Turkeys, 10 to 12c per lb.; geese, 7 to 8c per lb.; chickens, 50 to 65c per pair; ducks, 70 to 90c per pair.

It now looks as if the deliveries of hogs expected to come forward in the spring are not in the country. Until the factory hogs commence coming in deliveries of hogs will probably be light.

The most extraordinary drop in the market has been the decline in ten days of newly laid eggs from 25 cents a dozen to about half that figure. At first there was a famine, but in eight days the market was overloaded.

Wheat was irregular yesterday at Chicago but the bears won with ½c decline for May. Cash was ½c higher. Corn and oats were steady to a shade lower for the futures and firm and fractionally higher for cash. Provisions were weak.

Three thousand bushels of choice Canada barley sold on the Buffalo market yesterday at 64c.

Buckwheat is quoted at 50 to 55c in New York.

Parents Must Have Rest.

BABY CARRIAGES.

Your baby deserves a New Carriage. The old one (that is the old carriage) is shabby and persists in running crooked. If the baby is a new baby so much the more does a new carriage complete the turnout.

A neat, well appointed carriage is an evidence of good taste. It is a credit to the family and relations. Do the folks honour and the baby justice with a new vehicle.

The more so that the new carriage, when bought from our stock, costs but a moderate amount. Dozens of styles. None too good. Some tasty and neat, some handsome and stylish. The prices match. All serviceable and durable.

See our stock before placing the baby on wheels.

REMEDIAL LEGISLATION

Will the Government Decide to Grant It

They May be Defeated.

BIDDING FOR THE FARMERS

While the Farmers Have Been Loaded up with Unnecessary Burdens a Certain Class Have Been Growing Rich out of the Taxes Levied upon Them.

Ottawa, March 16.—The Cabinet Council called for yesterday to decide the Manitoba School question was postponed till to-day owing to the indisposition of Sir Hibbert Tupper, the Minister of Justice, who was confined to his house with a cold. Premier Bowell spent part of the forenoon with him, and they discussed the matter between them. A great many of the friends of the Government are urging them to call a session of Parliament in order to try and involve the Liberals in their school policy. That is they hope that remedial legislation would have to be endorsed by the Opposition by their votes and thus make them equally responsible with the Government. This is all imaginary, however, and the chances are that if a session was held the Government would find themselves in the minority on this question because their own followers would desert them. At all events the Government would run a chance of being defeated, and if so they would have to resign, and a new Government would have a right of immediate dissolution and the Conservatives out of office would not come back with a corporal's guard. There is another reason why Parliament will not likely be called together. If it is writs will have to be issued for new elections immediately in Quebec West, Antigonish and Vercheres, which are now vacant by the death of Mr. Mason, Mr. Geoffrion and Sir John Thompson. A prominent Conservative admitted the other day that the Government under such circumstances could Lose All Three Seats.

The deeper the depression in business and the larger the deficit grows the less inclined is Mr. Foster to meet Parliament, and there is not the slightest doubt that the rumors about a session have their foundation in the anxiety of sitting members and a few others with whom the wish is father to the thought. Meanwhile the Government is losing ground every day.

The number of ministerialists who are refusing to face the music at the general elections is quite large. The Hon. J. C. Patterson, Minister of Militia, made desperate efforts to get Judge McHugh, County Judge of Essex, to come down from the bench and bear the party standard in North Essex. He got the convention to offer the nomination to the judge, but after reflection his honor refused it, and the Conservatives of North Essex are in a worse plight than ever, owing to the ill-feeling and dissentions caused by Mr. Patterson's attempt to force a candidate upon them whose acceptance of the nomination would have been nothing short of indecent. Mr. Patterson told a friend here the other day that in his opinion Judge McHugh was the only man who had any chance of defeating Mr. McGregor in North Essex. If this is so, then the Government must now give up hope of getting back what was formerly one of their strongholds, but which now may be counted as a Liberal entrenchment. In Frontenac the Conservative member, Mr. Carscallen, has declined re-nomination, and in a number of other constituencies the same thing has happened. A characteristic of the present campaign is the number of very strong candidates who have come out in the Liberal interest, not alone in Ontario, but all over the Dominion.

Bidding for the Farmers.

In their desperate effort to bid for the votes of the farmers, the Government are taking extraordinary steps. First they offered to buy the butter at 20c a pound, and send it to England, and now they have decided to appoint a farmer to collect agricultural statistics, correspond with farmers' societies and, of course, issue bulletins. In other words they will add to the staff of the Agricultural Department by the appointment of some strong upholder of the National Policy, who will, with the assistance of the Dominion statistician, sign his name to a number of bulletins of more or less value. The statistical branch of the Department is at present in duty bound to issue these statistics, and if they were accused of neglecting this duty would probably reply that it had been attended to carefully, and that the interests of the farmers had not suffered.

A Sharp Contrast.

In this connection it is interesting to examine the policy of the Government. If they realized that agriculture was the great staple industry of Canada, and acted upon that belief, they would relieve the farmers of any unnecessary burdens. Instead of that they have loaded upon the backs of the farmers such a weight of taxation that they have staggered along under it, amid great difficulties, with the mortgage debt accumulating. On the other hand a certain class have been growing rich out of the taxes levied on the farmer, a class whose comprises only a small proportion of the people, and whose promise to provide a home market for the farmer has resulted in an increase of population of 11 per cent. during the last ten years as compared with 18 per cent. in the ten years previous to the National Policy. It is indeed a mystery why so much attention is paid to the manufacturer by the present Government, why he should only give a little attention to the farmer on the eve of an election, and then only to the extent of appointing a partisan to one of the departments to print bulletins. The trade of the country consists so far as our exports are concerned of only between six and seven millions of dollars in manufactures, while the exports of agricultural products run up to between fifty and sixty millions. The Government have, however, applied by passing an Order-in-Council last November under which manufacturers will get back all the customs duty they pay on raw material entering into goods exported. For instance, if an agricultural machine is manufactured for South America, no duty is collected on the material entering into it, but if it is manufactured and sold to a Canadian farmer he has to pay full duty. It is surely not a wise policy to tax Canadian farmers for the benefit of their competitors in foreign markets. It is nothing short of an outrage.

A Test to Their Sincerity

Lunenburg, N.S., Liberals have nominated J. D. Eisnhauer, ex-M.P. as their candidate at the approaching election.

AN ALLEGED CONFESSION.

Welter Said to Have Told the Story of the Crime to a Friend.

St. Thomas, March 18.—The facts of the killing of William Henry Hendershott on December 14 last were, it is reported, placed in the hands of the Crown by a man to whom Welter confessed his crime, and told the story on condition that he would not be called as a witness. It appears, according to this late story, that the murder was committed before John Hendershott went to Eden, and that he was present and assisted in the crime. Will Hendershott was struck with the axe on the right temple while on his hands and knees, drinking from the very pool where the bloody axe and hands were washed after the crime. He rose and attempted to run. The two men ran after him, and one of them seized him by the wrists while the other hit him repeatedly with the axe. The weakness of the other blows was probably caused by the horror of the criminal who handled the axe, but one blow on the back of the head was also of fatal force. The body was placed where they thought the tree would fall, but it fell in another direction, and it had to be moved to where it was found. The place where the blood lay at the crotch of the tree was where it first was placed. Then they washed themselves and the axe in the pool, and hid the bloody weapon in the log. Everything was arranged. The trip to Eden, the telegram, and return to St. Thomas and Welter meeting Hendershott there were all planned in detail.

ROBBING THE MAILS.

Ottawa Street Letter Boxes Broken Open and the Mails Stolen.

Ottawa, March 18.—A series of robberies was brought to light here Saturday in connection with the post office department. As one after the other of the morning delivery returned to the office he reported that a letter box on his route had been forcibly broken open and the contents scattered over the street, whilst at the same time a number of letters and other articles of mail had been carried off. The first one to be reported was that situated between Slater and Maria on Bank streets. Another was discovered on Elgin street and still another on Wellington street, until half a dozen were reported. From a careful inspection of the boxes tampered with it would show that the perpetrator was thoroughly acquainted with his work, and the boxes appeared to have been opened by an experienced hand, one or two of the instances leading to the belief that the regulation key had been used. The Dominion and city police are working up the matter.

WELLINGTON COUNTY'S TREASURER

The Action of the County Council not Approved of by the Ratepayers.

Hamilton, March 18.—It is probable that the action of the county council in reinstating Treasurer John Stock in his position will cause trouble. The ratepayers in the county object to such action on the part of their representatives, and although Mr. Stock is held in high esteem by the majority of the constituents, they do not approve of the council's action in the matter. A couple of farmers have called on a prominent lawyer in the city for advice and were told that the members of the Council can be prosecuted in the criminal courts for compounding a felony. No action has yet been taken in the matter but it is likely the councillors will reconsider their decision in the matter.

TRINITY EXAM. PAPERS.

A Young Toronto Printer Under Arrest on the Charge of Stealing Them.

Toronto, March 18. — When William Terry, the Grand Trunk brakeman, was arrested, charged with obtaining Trinity Medical School examination papers and selling them in advance to the students, it was at once concluded that there was another man in the case, who first obtained the papers and gave them to Terry. John F. Howden, a printer employed by Bowsell & Hutchison, where the papers were set in type, is under arrest on the charge of stealing them, and the Crown will endeavor to prove that he was the only man who could procure the valuable proofs in advance. He is out on bail and will appear in the police court this morning.

ROUNDHOUSE BURNED

Two Firemen Instantly Killed While Fighting the Flames.

SIX LOCOMOTIVES DESTROYED

The Elevator and Oil House in Danger—The Loss is Estimated at Between $75,000 and $100,000 and is Fully Insured.

Toledo, March 18.—A fire attended by loss of life occurred in this city yesterday morning at the round house of the Wabash railway. Three men lost their lives, two being instantly killed. Nine others were more or less injured, one of them it is thought fatally. All the dead except one were employees of the Wabash railway. They constituted the company's fire department for the protection of the shops and were engaged in fighting the flames when the accident occurred, that resulted so disastrously to them. The round house is located at the foot of South street. It was a substantial brick structure with a capacity of twenty engines and contained six locomotives when the fire broke out. The flames were first seen in the cupola that surmounted the roof shortly after 10 o'clock. An alarm was telephoned to the city fire department and in the meantime the yard company got one stream playing on the blaze, which soon made its way to the roof. The walls of the building were believed to be secure, and the firemen pressed closely in towards the building. It was seen that the roof would soon fall, but no danger was apprehended from that source until the southwest wall, weakened by the destruction of the frame supports that connected it with the roof, was observed to tremble and suddenly fall out on the volunteer firemen. Before the majority of the men could realise their peril the heavy wall was down on top of them, burying them under a heap of smoking debris. All but Bowen, Preston and Bohlman were quickly taken out. Bowen and Preston were dead when found. Bohlman was found unconscious and succumbed to his injuries shortly after being taken home.

When the first of the city firemen answered the alarm there was imminent danger of the fire spreading to the Wabash elevator and the repair shops which stood close by. The oil house was also menaced, but the flames were held in check, and the firemen finally succeeded in saving the surrounding property. The round house was completely wrecked, and the six engines stored there were rendered useless. The loss is estimated at from $75,000 to $100,000 and it is believed to be fully insured.

SIGNS OF SPRING.

Steamship Men Looking Out for the Coming Season's Business.

Windsor, March 18.—H. O. and A. B. Mackay, the Montreal steamship men, are considering the advisability of running the steamers Acadia and St. Magnus between Windsor and Montreal instead of from Toledo. It all depends upon the amount of flour transportation to be had. Supplies are wanted for Toronto, Hamilton, Prescott and Montreal. O'Dette & McWherry are investigating the field as to the prospects of adequate shipping and will call on both Windsor and Detroit millers for figures. The two vessels have been rebuilt and refitted during the winter. One of the Carriers, of Carrier & Sons, of Levis, was in town looking after the flour supply. His firm ships from Windsor about ten thousand bags a month during the summer but he can't get all they need. He says if there was a big mill in Windsor they would take the entire output.

Undesirable Immigrants.

Halifax, March 18.—Martin and Vernet Vendivits are prisoners on the Allan Line steamer Numidian, which sailed Saturday for Liverpool. They immigrated to America on the last trip of the Numidian but were prevented from landing at Portland by the United States immigration authorities on the ground that they were likely to become charges on the place. While the Numidian lay at her pier in Portland the men were confined to a state room under lock and key. One night they broke the lock, opened the door and escaped. Detectives were put on the track of the men, who are Hebrews, and they were recaptured and returned on board the day before the Numidian left Portland for Halifax. The brothers made another attempt to get to shore at Halifax, but were prevented.

The Tea Inspectorship.

Montreal, March 18.—There are a large number of applications for the proposed Government tea inspectorship but the Government has no intention of creating such offices. Controller Wallace had decided that the analytical test is not a satisfactory one and he will instead apply the ordinary trade methods of testing the purity and quality by drawing the samples. This work will be done by experienced testers now on the staff of the department at Ottawa and without any increased cost to the public. With regard to the inferior teas which have been already brought in he will exercise his discretionary power and permit the owners to re-export them.

Brant County Registrar Dead.

Brantford, March 18.—T. S. Shenston, registrar for the County of Brant, passed away suddenly at midnight Friday night. He had been ill for a couple of weeks past but was supposed to be much improved and was down stairs during the day. He retired to his bed shortly after ten o'clock and soon after passed away quietly from heart failure. Mr. Shenston was appointed registrar for the County of Brant in 1853, which position he held until the time of his death. The funeral will take place to-morrow afternoon.

The Daily Examiner is delivered to all parts of the Town for 10c. a week, 40c. a month, $1.00 for six months.

THE CULTURE AND CARE OF CHILDREN.

A Sensible Appeal Against Physical Overstrain and Mental Overwork.

Paper read by Miss A. M. Harmon before the "Local Council of Women," Ottawa, February 2nd, 1895;

No child can succeed as a scholar unless both body and mind are kept in proper tone. This cannot be done unless each has the requisite amount of exercise—not injured by lack of training, nor taxed beyond the power of healthful action. There must be a judicious care of the body, the muscles developed and inured to the service required of them, and the nerves strengthened and invigorated.

There is no need in our land of children suffering from want of out-door exercise, for there is ample space, the purest of air, and a favourable public opinion about the importance of physical culture.

Walking, skating, tobogganing, playing ball and tennis are delightful amusements, intended to give grace of movement, and strength to body and mind, but they are sometimes unwittingly made injurious by the child who does not know the ill-effects of over-exercising one set of muscles to the detriment of the others, or of fatiguing the body with long-continued repetitions of one kind of movement.

Many girls are injured for life in this way. They skate hour after hour, day after day, and generally in covered rinks, unblessed with sunlight or pure air, until, finally, and, exhausted by this serious drain upon their system, they succumb to some form of nervous debility, which through the remainder of life will exist as a depressing thorn in the flesh.

THEIR NERVES ARE UNSTRUNG,

The same state of body is induced by excessive dancing.

What was a most graceful and health-producing exercise among the ancient Greeks, who practised the art in the open air, in the daylight, in ample, unconfining clothing, which allowed freedom of action to the whole body, and consequently produced a symmetrical development, has become to some of our young people a harmful pastime. Indulged in to excess, in hot, close rooms, night after night, in hours which nature intended should be given to sleep and rest, and renewal of the forces, and frequently in an environment of unhealthful excitement, it has been followed by baneful consequences.

Dancing was designed to produce grace and ease of movement, to give an added charm to the courtesies of life.

What can be said of some of the exponents of the "latest methods," for example, the so-called "high-kicking," which is without one claim to artistic effect, and has many objectionable features.

No longer does the curve reign supreme—the rounded line of beauty—the perfection of movement—the quiet, gliding grace so attractive in a woman.

The angle is trying to usurp its place, and we have a deplorable exhibition of angularity and stiff, martial bearing with hands on hips, and a man-like tread that threaten to do away with our sweet, graceful girls and introduce a race of Amazons.

Mental work makes large demands upon the nervous system, and should see that the supply of healthy, physical force largely exceeds this demand, so that regular continued study will be a pleasure instead of a toil.

The good old fashioned doctrine of "a sound mind in a sound body" is worthy of our belief, and should influence our management of children.

If these conditions are necessary in order to secure the success of a student, what can be expected of scholars whose guardians totally ignore the laws of health, and the principles of growth?

For the past few years in our cities a questionable system has been adopted of getting up public performances, ostensibly for the purpose of raising money to augment the funds of certain charitable institutions and churches.

Possibly, this method of raising money for such purposes, debatable as the question may be, would elicit little criticism, if it were not that the interests of the children are involved in it.

The promoters of these schemes are naturally anxious to secure as many attractions as possible, and, understanding human nature, they seek the co-operation of parents who have pretty, bright and attractive children. Then an enrollment is made—from the wee "tots" in the nursery and kindergarten, to the boys and girls in their teens. The little ones whose winsome sweetness and bright intelligence ought to be the treasured possession of the family alone, are paraded before the public, and their names, which ought to be known only in the home circle, are the common property of the street.

It may not occur to the promoters of a scheme, which depends for its success upon the attractiveness of the children, that school children are earnest workers, time-fillers, and not time-killers, and that time is therefore precious to them.

Scholars who were studying earnestly, with laudable ambition, up to the time of the interruption, have their

and, according to their temperament, are affected in one of the two ways—either they become absorbed in the acting, dancing or whatever the diversion may be to the complete neglect of their school duties, or the more conscientious ones try to do both, but the exhaustion caused by over exercise of the muscles and strain upon the nerves, induced by long, wearying rehearsals in close, badly ventilated halls, with late hours, loss of sleep and rest, soon take away all energy and spring, and there is an end to good mental work.

The scholars' legitimate business has been interfered with and a disastrous break made, for weeks, sometimes months, in the study of subjects which demand close, consecutive application. But the greatest mischief is done to the child's higher nature. The insidious poison of public praise and the contagion of harmful influence from which the child should be shielded in a carefully guarded home, creep into the soul, and deaden or destroy the delicate intuitions, which are the child's God-given inheritance.

As a life-long friend of children, I plead for the removal of this evil.

VICTORIA COUNTY'S NEW CHEESE BOARD.

THE LINDSAY BOARD NOW ESTABLISHED.

The Preliminary Board Met on Saturday Last and Appointed Officers—The Rules Revised and Adopted.

A meeting of the preliminary committee of the Lindsay Cheese Board was held in the council chamber on Saturday morning last pursuant to adjournment. Among those present were Henry Glendinning, Manilla; F. Sandford, Fenelon Falls; N. Campbell, Lorneville; Thos. Robertson, South Verulam; Dennis Scully, Emily; John Crewes, Mariposa; L. W. Reid, Reaboro; D. Sinclair, Cambray; Jno. Graham, Fenelon; P. S. Mark, Oakwood; and Messrs. Merrill, O'Leary, D. Ray and J. H. Southcott.

On motion Mr. Henry Glendinning was appointed chairman. In a brief address he reviewed the business done at the inaugural meeting and called for the despatch of business.

Mr. Robertson, delegate to the Peterborough board meeting, said he had obtained a copy of the old rules regulating that board, but several changes had been made in them for 1895 which had not yet been printed; a copy would be forwarded to him in a few days.

ELECTION OF OFFICERS.

Mr. D. Ray suggested that the permanent officers should be appointed before consideration of the rules.

Mr. D. Scully thought that would be a step too far in advance; some of the officers appointed might not be selected as salesmen by the factories, and in that event they would not attend the board meetings. He suggested that the meeting should revise the rules and leave the appointment of the officers till a later meeting, when the factories would have selected their salesmen.

After a few minutes' discussion the meeting came to the conclusion that it would be best to proceed with the election of the officers and run the risk of the same salesmen being re-appointed—in the case of vacancies occurring from that cause others could be appointed at the first meeting, which all would attend

The officers were then elected as follows:

President—Mr. Thos. Robertson.

1st Vice-President—Mr. John Crewes.

2nd Vice-President—Mr. John H. Curtin, Derryville.

Secretary—Mr. Michael Brown, Minden.

Treasurer—Mr. F. Sandford, Fenelon Falls.

Mr. Henry Glendinning was first tendered the position of president, but declined the honour for the reason that he expected to be absent from home the greater part of the summer; Mr. John Crewes was next proposed, but he also resigned, saying that a young, active and experienced man was needed for the position, and that Mr. Robertson possessed all the required qualities.

THE BOARD REGULATIONS.

On motion, the Peterborough rules were then read clause by clause by the chairman and various alterations were made to suit the requirements of the Lindsay board.

As many of the factories in the district will not commence manufacturing till about the second week in May, it was decided that the first board meeting shall be held about the first week in June. The executive officers will come together again in a few weeks to make arrangements for certain supplies needed and decide upon the quarters to be occupied.

COLD SPRINGS—OTONABEE.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

On Friday evening, March 15th, the Patrons of Industry of Cold Springs held an oyster supper to which they invited a number of their friends. After doing ample justice to the delicious bivalves and other tempting viands which were served up, as only the ladies of this neighbourhood can serve them, a short time was spent in pleasant social intercourse. The President, Mr. Thos. Sisson, then took the chair, and after thanking all for being present, he explained the aims and objects of the Patrons of Industry. An impromptu programme was then given. Your correspondent, unfortunately, is unable to give it exactly as rendered, but it was about as follows:

President's address
Recitation	Miss Emma Long
Vocal music	The ladies
Reading	Mr M W Matchett
Vocal quartette	Misses Robertson, Dawson, Bennett and Ambrose
Mouthorgan so'o	Mr W Robertson
Duet	Miss C Robertson and Mr W Robertson
Address	Mr John A Bennett
Solo	Miss C Robertson
Mouthorgan solo	Mr W Robertson
Reading	Mr O'Sisson

Several others who were present also enlivened the evening by a few pointed remarks. The fact that so many numbers on the programme were encored shows how well they were executed. A hearty vote of thanks was, on motion of Mr. M. W. Matchett, seconded by Miss L. Bennett, tendered to the Patrons by the invited guests for the very pleasant evening they had thus enjoyed. The vote of thanks was acknowledged by the President, after which the pleasant gathering began to disperse, regretting only that it was time to go home. The society here is in a very prosperous condition under the able management of its efficient officers. New members join at almost every meeting. The next meeting is to be on Friday evening, March 29th.

NOT ONE DAY

FREE FROM HEADACHE.

Three Years of Suffering, Headache Every Day, and no Relief from Doctors or Medicine until B. B. B. made a Complete Cure.

DEAR SIRS,—I had severe headache for the past three years, and was not free from it a single day. I used doctors' medicines and all others I could think of, but it did me no good. My cousin said I must try B. B. B. because it is the best medicine ever made, and I took three bottles of it, with the result that it has completely cured me. I think Burdock Blood Bitters, both for headaches and as a blood purifier, is the best in the world, and am glad to recommend it to all my friends.

FIFTY MINERS KILLED.

An Explosion of Dynamite Buries 250 Below Ground.

Troppau, Austrian Silesia, March 18.—At the time of an explosion which took place in the Hohenegge mine on Saturday there were 280 miners below. Of this number 30 have been rescued slightly injured. Later in the day 20 more of the miners were rescued but the remaining 230 are imprisoned in the galleries, which are blocked with debris. The bodies of several of the imprisoned miners have already been extracted from the debris. It is estimated that 50 persons were killed. The disaster is attributed to the accidental explosion of a number of dynamite cartridges known to have been in the possession of a foreman. The latter is missing.

Forty-three dead bodies have been taken form the mine owned by the late Archduke Albrecht. The Archduke Frederick has ordered that an annual pension of 100 florins be paid the widow of every victim, the first payment to be made at once.

A Water Spout Causes a Flood.

Gadsden, Ala., March 18.—News has reached here of a water spout some 20 miles above here near Coosa River. The facts are very meagre, but considerable damage was done and some lives lost. Coosa River at this point is rising now some three inches a minute and river men predict that it will rise 10 feet to-night. For many hours the rain fell in torrents, flooding the streets and washing away small bridges. The damage to farms is very heavy and the farmers will lose thousands of dollars if the Coosa River gets beyond her banks.

A Crazy Man's Freak.

Chicago, March 18.—A mildly insane man created a scene on Saturday afternoon in the rooms of the Board of Education in the Schiller building by declaring that he was the assistant superintendent. For fully an hour the crazy man sat at the desk of A. S. Nightingale and dictated business. His name was found to be J. L. Ganton, a college bred man, who came from Ontario four months ago. He passed an examination for a teacher's certificate and served as a substitute. He was decoyed to the city hall, examined by a physician and locked up.

Fatal Result of a Quarrel.

Chicago, March 18.—Edward Gorman, a Canadian, was fatally shot by Police Officer Mainsfert yesterday at 50th and Halsted streets. The officer was so brutally beaten that his condition is critical. He interfered in a quarrel between four men, who kicked him into insensibility. Before losing consciousness Mainsfert fired two shots, one of which entered Gorman's body.

Murderers Escape From Jail.

Seattle, March 18.—In a big county jail delivery here last night twenty prisoners escaped. Prisoner Blanck, under sentence of death for murder, held up the jailer with a wooden gun and obtaining access to the jailer's office secured arms and ammunition. He then freed all the prisoners, several of whom are under sentences of death or held for trial on murder charges.

The Fire Escape Didn't Work.

Duluth, March 18.—Fred. Marcoll, and George Marcoll, his cousin, while illustrating the working of a patent fire escape, were killed here Saturday night. They started to come down the rope in a sliding belt from the sixth story of a hotel. The rope broke and the young men were dashed to pieces on the pavement.

Newspaper Building Burnt Out.

Cleveland, March 18.—The newspaper building on Ontario street, occupied by the World, the A. N. Kellogg newspaper company, and the United Press was destroyed by fire last evening, the fire starting at 6 o'clock. The total loss was about $130,000. It is thought that the fire started through the carelessness of a porter.

Will Vindicate the Law.

Denver, Col., March 18.—In the House yesterday a resolution was adopted requesting Governor McIntyre "To use all the power at his command for the punishment of the persons guilty of the wholesale butchery in Huerfano county to the end that justice may be done, and the supremacy of the law in Colorado be vindicated."

Flour Millers Combine.

Grand Forks, N.D., March 18.—The flour millers of the Red River Valley, Western Dakota and Montana, have formed an association for the purchase of wheat and the sale of their products. Twenty-one mills are in the combination.

The Consul Investigating.

Walsenburg, Col., March 18.—Dr. Cune, the Italian Consul from Denver, is here investigating the recent troubles. The excitement has entirely died out, but the searching for the missing prisoners continues.

Death of a Prominent Cattle Dealer.

Buffalo, March 18.—Edward F. Senope, the well-known commission stock dealer, is dead, aged 51. His firm for many years has handled a large portion of the Canadian sheep trade in this market.

No Trace of the Reina Regente.

Madrid, March 18.—Much wreckage has come ashore near Tarifa in the last thirty-six hours. The supposition is that it came from the missing cruiser Reina Regente. The Alfonso XII, which was sent out to search for the cruiser, has reported from Tangier that she has found no trace of her. Many steamers passing eastward and westward through the straights have made similar reports. The Government does not credit the report that the Reina Regente was seen disabled during the storm.

THE KENT CASE.

Physicians Universally Admit the Diagnosis to Have Been Correct.

Ottawa, March 18th.—The diagnosis in the case of Mr. G. H. Kent of this city, whose recovery from Bright's disease, by the use of Dodd's Kidney Pills, has been so extensively chronicled, appears to have been a very correct one. The swelling of the body and extremities to an abnormal size, the fearful convulsions and consequent insensibility, the racking pains, the formation of the hard ridges across the pit of the stomach, and the great loss of albumen are all symptoms of this terrible disease, and it is universally admitted by all who have been approached on the subject that the case was unmistakable in its character. This also universally admitted that he owes his restored health to the above mentioned remedy.

THE DEATH OF THE EARTH.

It Will Be Occasioned by the Gradual Extinction of the Sun.

M. Camille Flammarion says that in all probability, notwithstanding all the circumstances which threaten it, our planet will die, not of an accident, but of a natural death. That death will be the consequence of the extinction of the sun, in 20,000,000 years or more—perhaps 30,000,000—since its condensation in a relatively moderate rate will give it on one hand 17,000,000 years of existence, while, on the other hand, the inevitable fall of the meteors into the sun may double this number.

Even if you suppose the duration of the sun to be prolonged to 40,000,000 years, it is still incontestable that the radiation from the sun cools it, and that the temperature of all the bodies tends to any equilibrium. Then the earth and all the other planets of our system will cease to be the abode of life. They will be erased from the great book and will revolve, black cemeteries, around an extinguished sun.

Will these planets continue to exist even then? Yes, probably in the case of Jupiter, and perhaps Saturn? No, beyond a doubt, for the small bodies such as the earth, Venus, Mars, Mercury and the moon. Already the moon appears to have preceded us toward the final desert. Mars is much farther advanced than the earth to the same destiny. Venus, younger than us, will doubtless survive us. These little worlds lose their elements of vitality much faster than the sun loses its heat.

From century to century, from year to year, from day to day, from hour to hour, the surface of the earth is transformed. On the one hand the continents are crumbling away and becoming covered by the sea, which insensibly and by slow degrees tends to invade and submerge the entire globe. On the other hand, the amount of water on the globe is diminishing. A careful and reasonable calculation shows that by the action of erasure alone all the land on our planet will be covered by water in 10,000,000 years.

Bronze Powder Making.

Nearly a hundred establishments are engaged in the manufacture of bronze powder in and near the cities of Furth and Nuremberg, Germany. It is composed of copper, tin, zinc and antimony melted in proper proportions and cast first into rods of half an inch in diameter and about three feet long, these rods being rolled until about two inches wide and then cut into suitable lengths for handling. The pieces go to the hammers, where they are beaten into a very small fraction of their former thickness, and are then taken to a sulphuric acid bath, where each sheet is washed to remove all impurities, rust and dirt.

After being thoroughly dried the sheets are again hammered by steam hammers until no further reduction is possible, there being a limit to which machinery can be used. Up to this stage the treatment which the metal receives, whether intended for powder or metal leaf, is identical, but now the process changes. If designed for metal leaf, the further beating is done by hand, but if for bronze powder the sheets go to the shears, where they are cut up into small particles and become known as clippings. These are now ready for the stamp mills, which are run in batteries, enabling one man to run or attend 50 or more. When sufficiently pulverized, the powder is sifted in a special manner, the heavier and better qualities going to one receptacle and the inferior grades to another.—New York Sun.

British India.

Great Britain has been stretching her wings over India. In 1849 she laid claim to 636,000 squares miles of that country. She made additions to this every year except 1843, 1845 and 1852, down to 1856, when her possessions aggregated 856,000 square miles. Advances were made in 1866, 1882 and 1886, and now the area of India under British rule is 937,887 square miles. British India is larger than all that part of the United States lying east of the Mississippi river and its population five times as great as the present population of this whole country. Great Britain may not be able to acquire much more of India. Indeed there is likely to be difficulty in retaining what she has with native dissatisfaction and the watchfulness of her aggravating enemy on the north, who in the last 40 years has moved his boundaries over many degrees of latitude.—Texas Siftings.

Distressing Constipation Cured by B. B. B.

GENTLEMEN,—For three years I have been terribly troubled with that distressing complaint, Constipation, and tried different medicines until last spring, when I commenced taking Burdock Blood Bitters, and after the use of five bottles had no more of my terrible suffering. Before I began using B. B. B. my appetite had almost gone and I was thin and very weak, but after the use of each bottle I could (and so did others) see a wonderful change in my looks and I felt my strength returning to me.

March Movers

It may seem early to talk about spring goods in March, yet the fact is, we prefer to be ahead of time than behind.

There are many things that these bright, sunny days suggest as being desirable.

SPRING COSTUME TWEEDS.

Ladies are beginning to talk quite freely about their costumes. Get a suit made up—then you are ready for a fine day.

COSTUME SERGES

In Black and Navy, are a staple demand at this season, for between season dresses. We have a beautiful variety both in styles of Serge, widths and qualities.

WHITE UNDERWEAR.

In these goods and in Corsets every week sees fresh stock coming in. Embroidery and Torchon Lace, with fine tucks and frills, makes a stock ladies will revel in.

KID GLOVES

From the best European makers—new colours, new stitchings. Prices of regular goods are not down, but we have a number of special offerings.

HOSIERY.

Black, are still the thing in all weight, in both Cashmere and Cotton. Values better than ever.

RIBBONS, LACES, VEILINGS, EMBROIDERIES.

As fast as we can open out and mark off. See us in our spring attire.

LOCAL NEWS.

Telfordian Temperature Topics.

Monday, March 18th.—At this morning's observation the self-registering thermometer indicated 12 degrees above zero. No change following the mock sun and halo is strange, but all signs fail, as the girl said in receiving a good-bye the day before the intended nuptials.—THOMAS TELFORD.

First Class Piano Tuner.

The Mason & Risch Piano Co., of Toronto, are sending one of their tuners to town for a week. Those desirous of getting a thoroughly first class job done will kindly leave orders at Peterborough Bookstore. Entrust no work to any person claiming to work for them unless they carry a certificate from the firm. 6d

Serious Accident.

George Whissill, a foreman in one of the Ellis lumbering camps in Haliburton had his leg crushed to a jelly between two logs one day last week. He was taken to Fenelon Falls, and by the time he was under a physician's care his leg had swelled to such a size that it was over 20 inches in circumference. He is now recovering and the limb will not have to be amputated.

The Saturday Market.

The market, Saturday, was a fair one for this time of the year. Butter sold at 16 and 18 cents, there being a considerable quantity of it exposed for sale. Eggs were not so plentiful, but only brought 11 and 13 cents per dozen. Chickens are now scarce at 50 and 60 cents per pair potatoes being 45 and 50 cents a bag. The grain market remained unchanged.

Poor Sleighing.

The Doure and Otonabee farmers found considerable difficulty Saturday in crossing the Hunter street bridge, especially if they were bringing heavy loads of wood into town. The snow and ice have disappeared from the bridge completely making the sleighing very bad. The running is not so poor on the country roads as it is on the town streets, which are quite bare in places.

Telegraph Poles.

A good deal of money has gone into the pockets of the farmers during the past five or six years for telegraph poles, which Mr. George Martin has been buying during that period for the Great North Western Telegraph Co., and shipping all over Ontario to wherever they are needed. This season Mr. Martin has bought nearly 6,000 poles, about 4,500 of which are awaiting orders as to their destination. They vary from 25 to 60 feet in length, and the prices range from 40 cents to $5.

Return the Martini-Metford Rifles.

Col. Otter has issued the following order to all regiments in the second district:—"In accordance with instructions received from headquarters, the Martini-Metford rifles lately issued to your corps for experimental purposes, together with all unexpended ammunition, are to be returned to the superintendent of stores, Toronto, without delay. You will forward the above by freight, notifying me of the date of shipment."

The Sewer Award.

Mr. E. B. Edwards, town solicitor, in appealing against the award of Judge Ketchum is doing so under the direction of the council. Mr. Edwards, on being asked, stated to the members that in his opinion the award was "bad." He did not advise either for or against appeal, but simply asked the instructions of the council on the matter. Mr. Edwards has already seen Mr Christopher Robinson, Q. C., who thinks that there is good grounds for an appeal from the award and has agreed to act as counsel in the case.

—Twelve brakesmen have been permanently laid off on the G. T. R. Brockville-Belleville division. The discharged men claim that their dismissal is due to a desire on the part of their fellows to make better wages, and feel much aggrieved thereat.

57th Battalion.

All non-commissioned officers are particularly requested to attend a special meeting to be held in the mess rooms to-morrow evening.

All the Way From Jerusalem.

Matthew Hoddart, of Jerusalem, who is sojourning in Peterborough, appeared in court this morning against a young man, whom he wished to charge with disorderly conduct. No interpreter being present the case had to be adjourned until to-morrow when Hoddart's wife will be in attendance.

I. O. O. F. Concert.

At the last regular meeting of Peterborough Lodge No. 111, I.O.O.F., it was resolved and a competent committee appointed to hold a grand concert and entertainment on Monday evening, 22nd April, in the opera house. No doubt this will be the concert of the season. Please make no engagement for the above date.

The Pool Match.

An interesting pool match was in progress all afternoon at the Oriental between T. J. Proctor, of Toronto, and Geo. Green, of town. Proctor was brought here from Toronto by Stubbs, who is backing him to the tune of $100, and giving the local man two balls in the rack each game. Twenty-one games will be played. Green had won the first five games at the time of going to press. The series resulted in favour of Green by 11 games to 2.

Re-organization of Lacrossists.

There will be only one senior lacrosse team in Peterborough this year, and consequently it will be one of the best. The Shamrocks are ready and willing to amalgamate with the Peterboroughs and as last year some of the Shamrock men were very fast, the Peterboroughs will be considerably strengthened. It is rumored that Mr. "Jimmy" McCabe will not be in Peterborough for the lacrosse season. This would, indeed, be a catastrophe as for an all round player, "Jimmy" has not his equal in the Midland Counties. It is probable that the lacrossists will re-organize this week.

Nearly a Runaway.

Mr. John Young, of Monaghan, brought in a big load of fat sheep to market, this morning, but had a narrow escape from an accident, when about to cross George street on Simcoe Motor No. 3 came shooting along just as he came to George street. His horses being unaccustomed to electric cars, reared up, but owing to the heavy sleighing, the sleigh refused to be moved backwards. Just when laying back on their haunches and pawing the air in their fright, the strap supporting the neckyoke on one of the steeds broke, but with a bound Mr. Young was at his horses heads and prevented what looked as though it was going to be a pretty badly mixed up load of sheep.

Snasalle.

Our readers are again reminded of Mr. Snasalle's entertainment—"music, song and story," which will be given at the Opera House, on Thursday and Friday night next. Mr. Robert Gourley, business representative for the clever artist, arrived in Peterborough, on Saturday evening, to make final arrangements for his visit here. We are requested to state that the plan for reserved seats will be opened to-morrow. Prices of admission have been fixed at what should prove a very popular scale, and considering the superior performance, which is announced, a liberal patronage should be accorded to Mr. Snasalle, for he is eminently entitled to each. Prices 35, 25 and 50c. 1t

HOCKEY.

One of the fastest and most interesting games of hockey of the season was played at the rink Saturday night between a combination team from the Ontario and Montreal Banks and a team composed of students. From beginning to end a succession of brilliant plays was witnessed by the spectators, who grew most enthusiastic over the splendid exhibition of hockey to which they were being treated. The two teams lined up as follows:

Bankers.		Students.
Crane	goal	Hamilton
Montgomery	point	Paquette
Parsons	cover point	Lewis
Thompson	forwards	King
Taylor		Goldsmith
Wonham		Bellegham
McGill		Lowe

The students scored the first goal in four minutes, King putting the puck between the flags.

The next game was very swift and better hockey has not been seen on the rink this winter than was exhibited before Wonham tied the score in seven minutes. Crane made some splendid stops in this game, the goal umpire almost rubbing his hand several times before he saw that the goal-keeper had saved his flags.

The next four goals went to the students, two being scored by King, one by Bellegham and one by Goldsmith.

The students owe much to the efficiency of Hamilton in goal, who made stops of some shots, which many men less active would have allowed to score.

In the second half Taylor was placed at cover point, and played a strong, steady game, being exceptionally suited for the position. Thompson at point made some lifts which called for applause, while the forward line, composed of Parsons, Montgomery, Wonham and McGill did some very fast work.

It was the excellence of the students' combination which outwitted the bankers, King, Goldsmith, Bellegham and Lewis playing an exceptionally brilliant game as forwards, their accurate passing calling for cheers time and again.

Poussette and Adams constituted an almost impenetrable defence, the latter and King playing the star games of the evening. The games were scored as follows:

1	won by	Students,	scored by King,	time 4 mn.
2	"	Bankers,	" Wonham,	7 "
3	"	Students,	" Bellegham,	4 "
4	"	Students,	" King,	3 "
5	"	Students,	" King,	17 "
6	"	Students,	" Goldsmith,	10 "

All who had the pleasure of witnessing the match are most anxious to hear of another one being arranged for next week.

Mr. W. J. Montgomery, the affable captain of the Peterboroughs, is considered to be the luckiest man in town and his good fortune will be envied by many when it is announced that he is the instructor for the Ladies Hockey Club and twice a week spends an hour in initiating the members of the class into the mysteries of hockey.

It is the clothiers, not the dry goods men, that the grocers play on Tuesday evening next. The former team will be selected from the staffs of Gough Bros., H. LeBrun and T. Dolan. The grocers have a much larger field to pick from.

Elated by their victory over the Bankers' combination team on Saturday evening, the Students' team is out with a whole bushel of challenges. They wish to play a combination team of printers to-night, the Peterboroughs on Wednesday evening, and the Volts on Thursday. The town team has accepted the challenge for Wednesday evening, and the match will be called at 7 o'clock on Wednesday evening, and will be quite one of the fastest of the season, and well worthy of patronage. It is thought the two teams will line up as follows:

Students.		Peterboroughs.
Hamilton	goal	Dixon
Poussette	point	Montgomery
Adams	cover point	Parsons
Goldsmith	forwards	Phelan
King		Wonham
Bellegham		Davidson
Lewis		LeFevre

A combination team of Review and EXAMINER offices have agreed to give the students a practice game at the rink, to-night. The newspaper team will be composed of the MacWilliams brothers, Dobbin, Heap, Glover, Terrill and Hubbs.

The Athletics of Kingston were beaten in Belleville on Friday evening by a score of 4-2. This is the team which Peterborough defeated on its own rink. Belleville claims that they are the Limestones, not the Athletics, but the personnel of the team is almost the same as when Peterborough was in Kingston. The Intelligencer says: "The Kingston team said after the game that the Belleville boys knew how to play hockey and they would like to see them play Peterborough."

The teams of the second Volts and second Collegiates having dropped out of the town Hockey League, leaves the honours to be divided between the Collegiate I, Volts I and Peterborough II, and the Collegiates claim that the championship comes to them if the second town team does not consent to make arrangements to play off the tie at present existing. The series could easily be concluded this week and the question of the championship settled.

CURLIANA.

A most interesting match was played at the rink on Saturday evening between Skips Dennistoun and Attrill, in which the former came out with flying colours. The second draw in the Innes medal was being played off and the rinks were composed as follows:

R Stevenson,	M O'Brien,
E H D Hall,	W J Drope,
E A Peck,	W L Allen,
R M Dennistoun, sk'.22	T P Attrill, skip.....11

THE EVANGELISTS.

These Good Men Still Remain With us in Peterborough.

Yesterday morning the evangelists conducted service in the Mark street church, Ashburnham, having a large congregation in attendance. Rev. Mr. Beer occupied the pulpit of Rev. Mr. Young, who was absent from town.

In the evening Rev. Mr. Moore and Mr. White were in St. Paul's, while Rev. Dr. Torrance took the George street pulpit.

Mr. Moore took as his text in the evening the words: "For God commendeth His love towards us, in that when we were yet sinners Christ died for us."—Romans, ch. 5, ver. 8. His theme was the "Love of God," and was dealt with in a manner which was most convincing of the fact that the Saviour is pre-eminently a God of Love. Mr. Moore stated that he had been a Christian for over forty years and yet was ready to acknowledge that he knew little or nothing of the love of God, which was so great and so deep that only a fraction of it could be understood in a life time. The speaker knew of no reason why the Saviour should love mankind as he did. He loved them because he loved them. This was all that could be said.

Mr. Whyte's soul-stirring solos during the evening were greatly appreciated, as well as a short address by him. The meeting this week will be held each evening in St. Paul's church.

Work and Health.

Much has been said about the evil effects of overwork and the necessity for proper periods of rest. The point has not been too strongly urged; but it must be remembered at the same time that the best health is enjoyed only by hard worker

The athlete's arm attains its size by virtue of the greater quantity of nourishing blood attracted to it by the severe exercise which it undergoes. The mental athlete accomplishes his extraordinary amount of brain work only after years of mental training and effort.

Rarely do the parts thus exercised fail. The neglected functions and organs are more often the cause of the "breakdown."

Work is essential to health. Health in its perfection is found only where both brain and body are active; and it is possible that the keenest health has been enjoyed by the hardest workers in the fields of both mental and physical labour.

Sir Walter Scott, whose work stands as a monument to his industry as well as to his genius, was, we are told, most indefatigable in his pursuit of physical exercises of all kinds, in many of which he excelled, and in which he could tire most men as easily as he could excel them in feats requiring long-sustained mental effort. Much the same thing is told of Goethe.

These men fulfilled to the utmost the advice of the adage: "Work while you work and play while you play."

Those whose enjoyment of life is largest, and whose accomplishment of work is greatest for the longest time, are those who go into their work and play in a whole-hearted fashion, or, as it is often expressed, "for all they are worth." For such health is supplied in greatest measure.

The best health is not to be found in the indulgence of "loafing," which is neither rest nor work; it is generated rather by the alternate exercise of brain and muscle. By this means both are flushed with the fluid which gives health and life to all the tissues—the blood.

Uses For Rats.

Of all living things rats seem to be among the most repulsive, and when dead what can be their use? But even they are the subjects of production in the industrial arts. The fur is valuable and finds a ready sale. The skins make a superior glove—the gant de rat—and are specially used for the thumbs of kid gloves, because the skin of the rat is strong and elastic. The thigh bones were formerly valued as toothpicks for clubs, but are now out of fashion, while the tendons and bones are boiled up to make the gelatin wrappers for bonbons.—North American Review.

CAPES and JACKETS

—AT—

HALL, GILCHRIST & CO'S.

The growth of the trade in our Mantle Department has been marvellous.

THE REASONS WHY.

1st.—Because we buy our goods for each season five months later than any competitors, (which can only be done by going direct to the manufacturers), thereby giving us the very latest styles.

2nd.—Because our syndicate purchase is as large as the combined purchase of any three Canadian houses, and being for spot cash we get the lowest possible prices.

3rd.—Because we sell for spot cash we can sell on smaller profits.

4th.—Because our stock is as large as any two houses in town. We give our customers a much larger variety to choose from.

5th.—Because we carry no goods over to the next season. All our stock is new.

Our stock when complete will be the largest and best value we have ever shown for any previous spring season. ALL WE ASK IS COME AND SEE BEFORE YOU BUY.

ST. PATRICK'S DAY AT ST. PETER'S.

KEEPING THE MEMORY GREEN OF IRELAND'S PATRON SAINT.

The Several Services of the Day—Large Attendance at all—Rev. Father Scollard's Special Sermon on St. Patrick—The E. B. A. Attend at 8 O'clock Mass in a Body—The Special Music of the Day.

Yesterday was the festival of Ireland's patron saint, St. Patrick. Though the weather was chilly and though the piercing winds and the snow-clad and frost-bound earth were more reminiscent of January than suggestive of June, there was a warm spot all over the Irish heart in loving memory of the patron saint of the Green Isle. His memory was kept green on every Irish breast by the sprig of Shamrock or its equivalent in green ribbon. At St. Peter's Cathedral the day was specially honoured.

At eight o'clock mass, which was celebrated by His Lordship Bishop O'Connor, Ven. Archdeacon Casey briefly referred to the life and labours of Ireland's patron saint.

CORPORATE COMMUNION.

Branch No. 21, E.B.A., took Holy Communion in a body at this service. Having assembled at the convent hall at 8 o'clock, they marched to the church and occupied seats in the centre aisle, being marshalled by Mr. P. Doris. At the conclusion of the the mass members returned to the convent where a vote of thanks was passed to the Sisters for the many acts of kindness shown them in the morning. The E.B.A. also marched from their hall in the evening and occupied seats in the body of the church. The musical portion of the service was especially fine, and was furnished by the Convent pupils under the direction of Sister St. Mary. "Hibernia's Champion Saint, All Hail" was excellently rendered by the pupils, and at communion an appropriate hymn was sung in excellent voice by Miss Lewis. An admirable arrangement of "All Praise to St. Patrick" was sung with great spirit by the Convent children. Before and after the service Irish melodies were rendered very creditably by Sister St. Mary.

At 10.30 o'clock mass was celebrated by Ven. Archdeacon Casey. His Lordship Bishop O'Connor, in an eloquent sermon on the gospel of the day, made reference to Ireland's Patron Saint. During the Mass the hymn "All Praise to St. Patrick" was sung in good voice by Mrs. Geo. Ball. The organist, Miss Kate Hurley, also contributed Irish melodies on the organ.

At Vespers, sung by Ven. Archdeacon Casey, the Cathedral was filled with a large congregation assembled to listen to preached by Rev. Father Scollard, under the auspices of the St. Vincent de Paul Society to a very large congregation. Rev. Father Scollard took as the subject of his excellent discourse "Ireland's Faith: the Greatest Triumph of Christendom." Christianity, he stated, from the cross to the present day had witnessed many magnificent triumphs, but none equal to the signal triumph of Ireland's Catholic faith.

The true faith had been delivered to the Irish by Saint Patrick, whose history, the Rev. Father stated, was familiar to all. His patience in captivity, the thoughts which haunted him while in slavery, his release, preparatory studies under Pope Celestine and the particulars of his arrival in Ireland in 1492, were all facts too well known to be dwelt upon to any length.

The success St. Patrick met with in his attempt was phenomenal. It could be said of the Pagan Irish that lawless as they were, their swords were not dipped in the blood of the first missionary sent to them.

TO CONVERT THE IRISH

Ireland was the only nation, which owed its conversion to the efforts of a single man and the work progressed so happily that St. Patrick was never cost a single pang of grief or a drop of blood. It was essentially a bloodless campaign. When St. Patrick landed, Ireland was universally Pagan and at the time of his death, it was universally Christian.

For three centuries Erin was the fairest field in Christendom, and was known as the island of saints and scholars. But this peaceful period was of short duration. The Irish were soon to for the preservation of their faith and freedom, but though the struggle was a bitter one the close of it marked an epoch in Irish history, the people of Erin being triumphant.

In the beginning of the ninth century the hardy and unruly Northmen poured into the island, and waged war against the faith of the people, also making a strong effort to subjugate them. The invaders were men of gigantic stature, undaunted courage and unrelenting cruelty. On the contrary the Irish in the simple practice of their faith were most gentle and merciful. The strangers were well versed in all the arts of war, whilst the Irish were totally unprepared for the invasion after having lived three centuries in peace. The religion of the Germanic hordes was a religion of blood. They firmly believed that their or heaven would be in exact proportion to their slaughter of human beings and especially Christians, while upon earth. Such were the characteristics of the pagans.

Like the billows of the Atlantic invasion after invasion rolled in upon devoted Ireland. Her seaboard towns were burned, their inhabitants massacred. The invaders sailed up the rivers, sacked the churches burned the institutions of learning, putting the people to the sword and carrying the bishops and priests away into captivity. This persecution continued not for thirty or forty years, but for over three centuries, and in saying that Ireland survived all this, Father Scollard thought it was sufficient proof in itself to constitute the grandest triumph in Christendom, as Ireland's faith rose triumphant from her ruins.

For the next 300 years Ireland once again enjoyed a time of comparative peace and took advantage of this to rebuild her

DESTROYED CHURCHES AND UNIVERSITIES.

A time of sore tribulation, however, was in store for the sons of Erin. In the sixteenth century there came to Ireland the officers and mercenaries of Henry VIII, of England, and strong efforts were made to undermine the faith of the Irish. King Henry first tried gentle persuasion. He said "worship as you please, only acknowledge me as the head of the church." But Ireland, heretofore divided by petty jealousies, rose as one man and answered "where Peter is, there is the church."

Henry then brought his army into Ireland and instituted a persecution which was continued by his successors for over 300 years.

Father Scollard dwelt at considerable length upon the injustice which was meted out to Ireland during the succeeding three centuries, under the various rulers of England and upon the great efforts which were made to subjugate the people and endeavour to make them change the form of their religion. In trying to coerce Ireland, England was of supreme magnitude, the speaker thought. Argument and reason in the endeavour to make a change in the Irish religion would have been pardonable, but coercion, in respect to this question, was a sin indeed. Death, imprisonment, persecution and exile were the reward of those, who adhered to the Catholic religion.

The Irish were forbidden to have their children taught by Catholic instructors and forbidden to have them sent abroad to be educated. So if the Irish were ignorant, it was through no fault of their own.

During all these years of persecution Ireland kept true to her faith and, queried the speaker, where on earth is the Christian nation that had been so tested?

In conclusion, Father Scollard cautioned his congregation against going away from the church nourishing any uncharitable feelings towards their Protestant fellow-citizens, as those of the present generation could in no way be held responsible for the acts of their predecessors. The interesting sermon was closed by an exhortation by Father Scollard, in which Ireland was held up as a shining example, and the members of the Church impressed with the importance of holding fast to the faith and not bartering it away for things of this world.

Previous to the lecture, the choir rendered the hymn "All Praise to St. Patrick," Miss Hurley taking the solo, and while the collection was being taken up, Miss M. Hurley sang, "Hibernia's Champion Saint all Hail," in good voice.

DEATH'S HARVEST.

The Silent Reaper Passes Through the Community.

For the past day or so death has been very busy in Peterborough. In another column is recorded the death of three old residents and the account of the two deaths appended goes to show that youth gives no immunity from the sweep of the reaper's scythe.

It was with deep grief and sorrow that on Saturday the sad news was heard in Peterborough to the effect that a young life had passed away in Toronto in the very prime of youth. Miss Flora M. Ferguson, the eighteen-year-old daughter of Mr. Wm. Ferguson, of 16 Aylmer street, had only been seriously ill for six weeks, but on Thursday, March 14th, it was advisable that she should proceed to Toronto, where she could be under the care of her uncle, Dr. Bingham, while an operation, which was found to be necessary, was being performed.

On the following Saturday Miss Ferguson entered the Toronto General Hospital. The operation was successful, but the affliction from which she suffered had taken a deeper root in her system than was thought and the result of the operation was to drive the disease to a more vital point, and the fair young girl passed away at one o'clock Friday morning, her parents and two of her sisters from Peterborough being present at the time of her demise.

The funeral took place on Saturday morning at 11.40 o'clock, from the residence of Dr. Bingham to Mt. Pleasant cemetery, the funeral service being conducted by Rev. John Neil, of Westminster Presbyterian church, Bloor street.

Miss Ferguson was a member of St. Paul's church, and was at one time an appreciated member of the choir, until ill health compelled her retirement.

DEATH OF MISS ALICE COOKS.

The death of Miss Alice M. Cooks, aged 19, took place very suddenly Saturday morning at the residence of her father, Mr. W. S. Cooks, 616 Aylmer street.

For the past two years Miss Cooks has been a sufferer from phthisis, and has been gradually growing weaker. On Friday afternoon she expressed a desire to be taken for a drive, and apparently enjoyed the outing very much, and retired at night in better spirits than she had manifested for some time. Early in the morning the deceased complained of not feeling well, and sank rapidly until her death, shortly after nine o'clock. Although her physicians held out no hope of recovery, the sudden death of their daughter was a great blow to the parents.

The funeral took place this afternoon to the Little Lake Cemetery, service being conducted at the house by Rev. C. H. Kenrick, the deceased being a most consistent member of St. John's church. The pall bearers were Messrs. Wm. Howden, A. Head, B. Roberts, C. Butcher, W. Rogers and J. Johnston.

A TRIO OF "VAGS"

Held on Suspicion at Police Headquarters Till Friday.

There were three "vags" up before the magistrate this morning and by the request of the chief of police they were all remanded until Friday next. The three wanderers gave their names as John Devine, of Pembroke; James Young, of London, and Patrick Curry, of Montreal. All pleaded guilty to the charge of vagrancy preferred against them.

The trio, it seems, came to town on Friday and begged from door to door all day and part of Saturday. Saturday afternoon they were picked up by the police and stated they were steel workers from Homestead, Pa., and had been thrown out of employment. They will be held until more is learned about them.

Y. M. C. A. NOTES.

Short, interesting testimonies and hearty singing were characteristic of the Saturday night service.

At the Bible class the discussion on "Is the Bible true," proved to be helpful to the men present.

Mr. Pady's address on "Brands" was straight and strong. The men thoroughly enjoyed it, and while all profited by it; some young men will look back to yesterday as a red letter day in their history.

The Literary Society meets to-morrow night at 8 o'clock; expect a helpful meet.

OBITUARY.

Three Veteran Citizens Pass Away.

WM. LANG, PETERBOROUGH.

This morning Mr. Wm. Lang, of London street, passed away in the seventy-first year of his age. The deceased gentleman suffered from a brain affection last fall, which about two weeks ago developed into inflammatory softening of the brain. He was a native of Scotland and came to Canada over sixty years ago, first settling in North Monaghan where he spent most of his life. About seven or eight years ago he removed to Smith township, where he resided until last fall, when he removed to Peterborough. He was united in marriage to Miss Savigny, of Otonabee, daughter of Mr. Geo. H. Savigny, of England. His wife still survives, as well as fourteen out of the fifteen children that blessed their union. Of the children all are married except the eldest and youngest, and all are living in Ontario except Mrs. James Holmes, of Dakota, and Mrs. Robert Campbell, of Manitoba. Mr. Lang leaves behind him thirty-three grand children. He was a staunch Liberal in politics and in religion, a Baptist, worshipping in Baillieboro during his Monaghan residence and in Lakefield, during his residence in Smith. Deceased was highly respected in the community in which he passed the years of his life. The funeral takes place from the family residence, 177 London street, on Wednesday, at 2 o'clock, to the Little Lake Cemetery.

THOMAS H. EDMISON, SMITH.

Another of the pioneers of Smith township passed away, this morning, in the person of Mr. Thomas H. Edmison, who departed this life at the advanced age of 89 years. He has been ill for about a month of a kidney affection. Mr. Edmison was born in Northumberland, England, in 1806. He came to this country in 1832, first settling in Peterborough. Here he remained till his marriage, on Feb. 28th, 1838, to Miss Mary Bickerton, when he removed to Smith township, where he settled on a farm on the Communication Road. His wife died last August at the age of 79 years. Mr. and Mrs. Edmison's union was blessed with nine children, all of whom are deceased except two, Mr. R. J. Edmison, who lives on the homestead, and Rev. T. J. Edmison, of Wellington, Prince Edward county. Mr. Edmison was in politics a Liberal and in religion a Methodist. He lived a life of uprightness and piety which earned for him the high respect of all who knew him. The funeral will take place on Tuesday at 2 o'clock from the family residence, Communication Road, to the Little Lake cemetery.

MR. CHARLES EASTLAND.

The death of Mr. Charles Eastland, aged 60 years, occurred on Sunday morning last at his residence, 401 Wolfe street, from where the funeral will take place at 2.30 o'clock to-morrow afternoon.

The deceased was born and brought up in North Monaghan at the Eastland Homestead at present owned and occupied by Mr. Robert Eastland. Mr William Eastland, merchant, so long and favourably known in Peterborough, was another brother of the deceased.

A widow and seven children—four boys and three girls—survive to mourn the death of a most indulgent husband and father. The funeral services will be conducted by Rev. J. J. Ree and interment take place in the Little Lake cemetery to-morrow.

PERSONAL.

Mr. John Lang, Otonabee, the Liberal candidate for East Peterborough, was in town to-day.

Rev. Septimus Jones, Rural Dean of Toronto, lectures on "Oliver Goldsmith, in St. John's Sunday school to-morrow evening.

Mr. C. R. Devlin, M. P., Ottawa county, who is to deliver an address this evening at the E.B.A. concert, is the guest of Mr. E. Phelan.

Mrs. and Miss McLaren, of Seattle, Wash., U. S., and Miss Campbell, of Chatham, are the guests of Mr. and Mrs. A. Comstock.

Mr. Joseph Begley left on Saturday for Chicago, where he will remain for the summer. Joe will be sadly missed in lacrosse circles.

Mr. R. Mulholland, of the firm of Mulholland & Roper, is in Toronto to-day to attend the banquet of the Bankers' section of the Toronto Board of Trade.

Mr. George Matthews, Lindsay, and Messrs. W. and A. Matthews, Ottawa, are in town to-day, attending a directors meeting of the Geo. Matthews Company.

Mrs. Chas. W. Wilkins, of Belleville, who for the past several months has been the guest of Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Ranney, Gilmour street, and Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Stratton, Benson avenue, returned home this morning.

The president and secretary of St. Andrew's Society, yesterday paid a visit to their bard, Mr. Wm. Telford, Smith. They found the sweet singer of the society suffering considerable pain and in serious ill health from a complicated affection of the liver. The bard's intellect, however, is still active and his spirits undaunted. He feels that his course is nearly run and calmly awaits the approach of the last dread enemy, and has made preparations for carrying out his wishes in the event of his demise. He has already selected, in conference with Mr. Foord, superintendent of the Little Lake cemetery, his last resting place in the family burial plot, and has also selected his pall bearers. The muse has not yet deserted the bard. A few days ago some friends visited him, bringing with them some floral offerings in the shape of primroses, etc. Mr. Telford was sitting up for a short time, and while his friends were waiting he composed two graceful verses acknowledging the kind attentions he had received. Though in very low health Mr. Telford's physicians expect that he may possibly be spared to his hosts of friends some time longer, a consummation most devotedly wished by them all.

CHURCH CHIMES.

The offertory at St. John's next Sunday will be devoted to the Superannuation fund.

The service in St. John's church next Wednesday evening will be conducted by Rev. Septimus Jones, of Toronto, his subject being "Christianity and the Labour Movement."

The Wednesday evening address will be the first of a course of three by Rev. G. Warren, Lakefield. The remaining two will be given on Friday, March 29th, and Friday, April 2nd.

The third of the course of "Popular Health Lectures" will be given in St. Luke's school house to-night by Dr. Bell, subject, "What we should and what we should not do with our bodies." Physical exercise. Admission free.

Pretty.

A bedroom suite of native white maple with birdseye maple panels, now in A. Clegg's window, attracted considerable notice on Saturday; and especially during the evening large numbers stopped to admire. It is almost white, of neat design, just the thing for a young ladies room. Though pretty and dainty, it is not expensive. dw

Madill's Emulsion

OF COD LIVER OIL AND HYPOPHOSPHITES OF LIME AND SODA.

It will do wonders for you if your cough is a hard, troublesome and stubborn cough, or if you require building up and fattening, but you must begin in time and take it regularly, as you do your meals.

Madill's Emulsion is put up fresh and sweet every week. It is far more palatable to the stomach than other preparations, while a tablespoonful dose contains a higher percentage of Cod liver oil. It is properly emulsified, without the aid of eggs or other over-rich elements, and assimilates much more easily on that account.

Its potency has created not only an active local demand, but a constant request from other cities and towns of Canada.

THE GREAT FRENCHMAN.

Ferdinand de Lesseps and His Place in 19th Century History.

A man died in France the other day whose years had almost covered the nineteenth century, and whose phenomenal rise and fall was one of its romances. Ten years ago he was known to the French as "le grand Francais"; he had everything for which a Frenchman longs—wealth, notoriety, power in the world, and domestic happiness. He died stripped of his honors, disgraced; and the end was the result of his temperament, exactly as the triumphs had been.

In 1806 Ferdinand de Lesseps' father was sent by Bonaparte to Egypt as the French diplomatic agent, and was commissioned to select a Turkish chief capable of ruling at Cairo. He selected Mehemet Ali, who could hardly read or write, but upon whom he could depend to hate the English and be loyal to the French. The young Ferdinand, born in 1805, was brought up as the friend of Mehemet Said, Mehemet Ali's son, and was educated as a diplomat, with his head full of plans of French dominion in the east, born of the dreams of Napoleon.

After several diplomatic appointments, Ferdinand de Lesseps became consul general at Cairo in 1839. Here he played a prominent part in the intrigues which ended in the bombardment of Acre by the British fleet, and the dismissal of Thiers by Louis Philippe. De Lesseps was removed from Cairo, but his diplomatic career did not come to an end until 1849, when he crossed swords with Louis Napoleon, who, he declared, had maliciously tricked him in a matter of statecraft.

For four years de Lesseps was in retirement. Then his old friend Mehemet Said was made Khedive of Egypt, and his old enemy Louis Napoleon married Eugenie de Montijo, who was de Lesseps' cousin.

The French diplomat was never without a project. He carried them up his sleeve, as Fouche was said to carry conspiracies. He had heard much of Napoleon's plans in Egypt, and he had read the report of Lepere, the engineer who declared that a canal across the Suez was a possibility. De Lesseps made his way to Egypt, and broached the subject to Mehemet Said, who would have promised him support for almost anything. He went back to France, called together an international scientific committee, and transported its members to Egypt, to lay out the course of the canal—all at the expense of Mehemet Said. Lord Palmerston opposed the scheme in the name of England, and forbade the Porte to ratify it. Then de Lesseps put aside old grudges and went to Louis Napoleon. He carried the day with French support. In 1869 the canal was opened, before the Khedive, the Empress Eugenie, the Emperor of Austria, the Crown Prince of Prussia, and a great assemblage of other notables.

De Lesseps is described by people who knew him in the heyday of his greatness, as having an almost hypnotic power. He was full of life, of vigor, of enthusiasm, of belief in his own plans. People loved him for his joy in life. He fascinated them because he promised them what they wanted, with the fullest conviction that he could give it. His manner to women charmed them, and at great entertainments he was always the centre of the assembly.

His first wife was a Mlle. Delamalle, whom he married during his service in Egypt, and who bore him two sons, Charles and Victor. At sixty, when he was left a widower, he had just arranged a marriage for his nephew with a beautiful young girl, Mlle. de Bragard. As he walked with her one evening in the garden of her father's house, she told him that it was not his nephew she loved, but himself, the hero of the day. They were married, and had ten children, two of whom are soldiers in the French army. The eldest daughter is the Countess de Gontant-Biron, the youngest is still almost a baby.

De Lesseps is often classified as an engineer. This he was not, though he accomplished the most remarkable engineering work of the century. He was by profession a diplomatist; his great achievements were won by no technical skill, but by the wonderful force of his personality. He knew little of engineering, or he would have seen the difference between Suez and Panama. His optimism was marvelous, magnificent, unwavering. Never would he allow any one to insinuate, in his hearing, that there could exist the smallest possibility of failure for any of his undertakings. He was perfectly sincere in his self-confidence. Men who were really practical authorities pronounced overwhelmingly against his Panama project; but calm men listened to the flood of de Lesseps' talk, through which there was the everlasting clink of gold, with smiling faces. The peasants of France poured out the contents of their woolen stockings at his feet. He sat in his office telling gay little tales, while crowds of business men waited in his anterooms. He lent his name, believing it would almost dig a canal of itself; and he was the victim of the corrupt men who used it. Finally his mind gave way at the downfall of his plans, and he spent the last months of his life daily expecting Queen Victoria to come and set matters right, believing that his destiny would care for him in the end.

The "Great Frenchman," member of the Forty Immortals, president of the Geographical Society of France, patron of a hundred associations, a man who helped to mold the destiny of nations—and he died ruined in purse and name, mercifully ignorant of his sentence to five years' imprisonment. Truly a strange and pathetic life story!—Theodore Schwartz, in the March Muncey.

A DIPLOMATIC BOY.

His Reformation Was Sudden and Many Sided and Served His Purpose.

I have a little son 8 years old. He is smart and bright, and for mischievousness I think can't be beaten. I was sitting in a room one day reading and smoking, when he came sauntering up to me with the forefinger of his left hand in his mouth. I thought at the time that there was something wrong, but said nothing with regard to the same.

"Pa," he said after awhile, "I didn't get one demerit in school today."

"You didn't, Willie?" I interrogated, throwing a rather fierce look upon him. "Well, I'm sure that's a good showing."

"Yes, and I carried a bucket of coal up for Kate after school," he went on, still keeping that finger in his mouth.

"Why, you are getting very considerate," I returned.

"Yes, and I brushed your coat all off nice and clean."

"No, Willie; you didn't do that?" I asked, looking frowningly at him, for I knew he had been up to something.

"Yes, I did, pa, and I lit the gas in ma's room for her."

"Well, now."

"And I shined your best shoes until they glitter like Sister Ella's looking glass."

"Is that so? What else have you done?"

"Well, I studied all my lessons in school, got out at the regular time, said 'yes, sir,' to Uncle John and helped the hostler around the stable."

"Why, what is the matter with you? Are you going to get sick?"

"No, sir," he replied, twisting around a trifle, "but I'm going to be a better boy—at least for a while."

"You are? Well, I'm glad to hear that."

There was a short pause, and then he said: "Here, pa, are two cigars for you. I bought them with my own spending money. I'll buy you a barful when I get money enough."

At this juncture he placed both little arms around my neck and sobbed aloud.

"Oh, pa," he asked, "do you like your little boy?"

"Why, of course I do," I replied, getting alarmed. "Are you ill?"

"No, but I've got something to tell you. Would you keep your little Willie from pain?"

"Certainly I would. Tell me what is the matter, my son?"

"All right, pa, I will—dear, good, old pa. This morning Billy Button, Tommy Todd and myself were playing ball, and I couldn't catch very well, so I went and got your brand new stovepipe hat and caught with that. Pa, that hat must be made of awful poor stuff, for the first fly ball went clear through it, knocking the roof out. But never mind, I'll buy you another one," clasping me tighter as I essayed to rise, "and one gooder'n that too!"

What could I do?—Boston Courier.

Paderewski as a Hard Worker.

To be a pet of the public sometimes has its disadvantages. M. Paderewski, for instance, keeps up his reputation only at the cost of tremendous efforts. To an interviewer for Black and White he has confided the fact that he practices at the piano often for 15 or 16 hours a day. Once, in New York, he had to work up eight entirely distinct programmes in little over as many days, and then it was a case of 17 hours' practice daily. One must always be at it, he explains, to keep the fingers right and the memory active. The work is certainly tiring, and M. Paderewski considers that playing billiards—a game he is very fond of—has saved his life by affording him the necessary relief from his arduous work.

Those crashing blows of his on the piano are not, as some might imagine, made with the closed fist. Sometimes they are done with the third finger stiffened out, sometimes with the thumb sideways. He seems to see nothing wonderful in the effect produced, although his hands are so delicate that an ordinarily firm shake makes him wince. It is true that he has a forearm such as a professional strong man might envy, so perfect is it in its muscular development.—London Daily News.

ITCHING AND PIN WORMS. PILES

No More Misery.

DR. CHASE'S OINTMENT

Gives Instant Relief.

ITCHING PILES is an exceedingly painful and annoying affection, found alike in the rich and poor, male and female. The private parts and nerves terminate, which is worse at night when the warmth of bed increases it. So terrible is the itching that frequently it is impossible to preserve sleep. Often the sufferer unconsciously during sleep scratches the parts until they are sore—bleeding and inflamed, when extreme misery is created. Females are peculiarly affected from this disease, causing unbearable irritation and trouble. There are several kinds of Piles, Blind, Bleeding, Protruding, Internal and Itching, but they are all relieved by Chase's Ointment. It will instantly stop itching, heal the sores and ulcers, dry up the moisture.

PIN WORMS is an ailment entirely different as to cause from Itching Piles, yet its effects and symptoms are exactly the same. The same intolerable itching; the same creeping, crawling, stinging sensation, characterizes both diseases. Chase's Ointment acts like magic. It will at once afford relief from this torment.

AN UNCROWNED KING.

SIR CECIL RHODES AND HIS AMBITIONS IN THE DARK CONTINENT.

He Wants to Extend His Sway Over the Whole of Africa—A Man Who Has Boldly Defied the Home Government—His Epoch.

Sir Henry Brougham Loch has been recalled from Cape Colony, where he has been Governor, British High Commissioner and Commander in Chief. His recall is due to his long-standing difference with Cecil Rhodes, the Premier.

Chief Tafari of the Province of Agame, acting as an ally of the Italians operating in East Africa against the Abyssinians, has attacked and defeated a force of Tigrin near Adigrat, chastising them severely and killing a great many.

Menelik, the Emperor of Thoa, returned to his capital January 24, after pillaging the country en route.

The French expedition, which left Marseilles some months ago under the command of Captain Montell, for service in the interior of Africa, were surprised, the Quotidien reports, and a sanguinary conflict ensued. Three hundred men, half of the entire force, are said to have been killed, while the remainder were driven from the line of march and their retreat has been cut off.

Captain Montell was sent to Africa to assert French claim to certain regions brought into dispute by Belgian proposition to let Britain have a substantial right of way through the Congo State. The expedition's task, though simple in appearance, was in reality so full of peril that after previous reverses the subject of recalling it was seriously discussed by the French press and government, especially as the advantage to be derived from the mission is problematical.

Cecil Rhodes is aptly termed the uncrowned king of South Africa. His ambition to extend his sway over the whole Dark Continent is scarcely concealed. Cape Colony, of which he is the Premier, is a British colony, but it has been said that Mr. Rhodes might not hesitate, under favorable conditions, to declare independence of Britain and establish an empire, perhaps of his own. More than once he has boldly defied the home Government. While in England lately on official business he said in an interview for publication:

"I am aware that Germany would like to have Walfisch Bay, for the German Consul told me so when I requested permission to lay my telegraph wire through German East Africa. But we will never relinquish it. It belongs to Cape Colony, and the English Government has nothing to say in the matter."

The telegraph he loftily refers to as "my telegraph wire" is another of his schemes to acquire domain—the thin edge of a wedge to split territory off from the chunks claimed by other Powers: a project to consolidate and strengthen the British forces in Africa from one end of the continent to the other putting Egypt in electric touch with Cape Colony.

Immediately following Rhodes' visit to England comes the removal of Sir Henry Loch, who nominally has been the head of affairs in the colony. Sir Henry has seriously impeded some of Rhodes' plans. His despotism takes the curb bit off the restless Premier.

Rhodes is in his prime, about 40 years old, a type of robust manhood. The younger son of an English clergyman, he went to South Africa fortune hunting about the time of the diamond discoveries at Kimberley. His success in gem digging has earned him the title of "Diamond King."

He is also the leading spirit, in fact if not in name, of the British East Africa Company. That gold-seeking company wanted Matabeleland, and Rhodes is credited with bringing on the war which ended in the death of the picturesque King Lobengula and the practical extermination of the Matabeles.—Chicago Times.

The Mexican Boundary Line.

The international boundary line between the United States and the republic of Mexico is marked by pyramids of stones placed at irregular distances along the line all the way from the Rio Grande to the Pacific ocean. Wherever it was found practicable to do so these pyramids were built on prominent peaks at road crossings, fords, etc. The line was not surveyed, as is the usual custom, the location of the monuments being based on astronomical calculations and observations.—St. Louis Republic.

A Farsighted Man.

Fogg—Munniworth was always a farsighted man, and his ventures were almost invariably successful.

Figg—But what good is he to society? He will give money for the heathen, thousands of miles away, but he never can see the suffering right at home.

Fogg—I said he was a farsighted man.—Boston Transcript.

AN OFT-TOLD TALE
Illustrating the hollowness of relationship in time of trouble and showing how the widow's stay and the orphan's shield Ma's policy in the Manufacturers' Life.

When God removed Papa to Heaven,
And Ma was left to strive for seven,
With scarce enough for burial fees,
(So lingering was poor Pa's disease),
Though full of grief, we'd no despair,
Relations spoke so kind and fair,
Our Grandpa said that he, for one,
Would try and see what could be done.
Our Uncle William and our Aunt,
Hoped we should never come to want
But mother's brothers talked the best,
A great deal kinder than the rest.
They said that home they'd take us all,
Only their rooms were few and small.
We'd promises from Uncle Page,
To push us forward when of age.
They then went home, but step, I miss,

They gave us every one, a kiss,
As I said, "be good and mind Mamma,
And we will be to you—Papa."
For many weeks they could not come,
So much were they engaged at home.
Until they heard Mamma had found
Behind Pa's desk upon the ground,
An envelope, "to my dear wife,"
Five Thousand Manufacturers' Life
Which soon the Manufacturers' paid.
So Ma commenced a genteel trade,
And then they came, it seemed so funny,
To beg Mamma would lend them money.
But Ma said no, if you are poor,
A trifle will your life insure;
And then the Manufacturers shall
Your best friend be what'er befall.

What John Wanamaker, the Most Heavily Insured man in America, Says:

(INTERVIEW WITH JOHN WANAMAKER.)

It is very generally known that Ex-Postmaster General John Wanamaker, of Philadelphia, carries the largest amount of Life Insurance of any man in the United States. A representative of the press recently interviewed this gentleman while he was travelling with the Presidential party, and this interview will be found, we believe, of general interest:—

"You are said to be the most heavily insured man in the country, Mr. Wanamaker," remarked the press representative.

"How did you come to think of that?" he said with a smile. "You are not looking for any disaster under such excellent management as our friend Boyd is giving this train and party?"

"No," I replied. "A newspaper friend in San Francisco, who had heard the report, wanted me to ask you if it was true, and if so, what your business reasons are for it?"

"Well," he modestly answered, "I have heard it stated that I am the most heavily insured man in the country. I don't know about that. The amount of my policies is $1,550,000, and the value, with the accumulations since the policies were taken out, is about two millions of dollars."

"In what class of companies are your policies?"

"They are all in stock and mutual companies, and none of them in what are known as assessment or instalment companies."

"Are they full life term policies or on what is termed the 'tontine' plan?"

"I have generally taken ten and fifteen payment policies and very few life policies. With about all good companies a contract can now be made whereby there is no risk of losing a policy after two years' premiums have been paid. If the party insured chooses to withdraw he can get a paid-up policy. Indeed, I understand that some companies have forms whereby the insurer can after one year, if desired, withdraw and receive a paid-up policy. There is practically little risk, any more, in insuring in the old companies."

"Perhaps you would be willing to tell me how you came to insure so heavily?"

"I thought the matter out, and convinced myself that it was a good business venture. Besides, it seemed to me that I might, perhaps, give away more money in lifetime if there was a fixed certainty of putting it back into my estate by Life Insurance. I conceive that the best way for a man to carry on benevolence is not to leave it to be done through his will, but to do it in his lifetime, and I felt that Life Insurance would give me more freedom in carrying out some plans I have, and which I would be glad to see completed before I leave this world. If you want to ascertain what the circumstances were in placing the Life Insurance, I must go further in my answers and say that I should not have gone so far in my Life Insurance but for the skill of the agent who tackled me to insure to a greater extent than I would otherwise have done. He was an old friend who had been in mercantile business and who knew how to present Life Insurance without boring me. I feel to-day sincerely grateful to the man who followed me so discreetly with information about companies, and who kept the subject before me until I settled the question."

"When did you begin taking Life Insurance policies?"

"My first policy was taken when I was twenty-one."

"Do you consider it a good thing for a man of small means?"

"I certainly do. Most young men spend more for cigars during the year than the annual cost of a $2,500 policy in a good company. If they must have the cigars they might divide between cigars and Life Insurance and carry at least a $1,000 policy. I think every young man, before he is married, ought to try to get at least a $1,000 policy."

"Among how many companies are your policies divided, and where are they located?"

"About forty companies. Most of them are located in the East. A few are in the West and a few in Canada."

"Do you recommend Life Insurance to others, especially those in whom you feel a personal interest?"

"I can perhaps answer that best by saying that I presented a few years ago a $1,000 policy, paid up for one year, to every insurable head of family in my employ. Many of the prudent men who received them not only kept them but added to them, and I have the satisfaction of knowing that in not a few cases those policies have been the means of saving worthy families from want."

It will doubtless be of interest to our readers to know that John Wanamaker carries a large policy in the Canada Life Insurance Company, thus evincing his confidence in the soundness of Canada's oldest and largest Company. During the last few years quite a number of American capitalists have been convinced of the SUPERIOR MERITS OF THE CANADA LIFE, and have accordingly placed their insurance therein, in preference to any other company.

The Canada Life is now being recognized in the states of Michigan, Minnesota and Ohio as the Company that gives the best results for the least premium.

TRIAL BY ORDEAL.

Remarkable Story From India About Catching a Postal Thief.

The narrator of the following story some years ago had charge of a postal division on the western coast, parts of which had seldom been visited by a European officer. The people were for the most part simple country folk and very superstitious. One morning the narrator received information that a considerable sum of money, forming part of the contents of the mail from a head to a suboffice, had been stolen on the road. The whole affair was wrapped in mystery.

The only clew the police had been able to obtain was that one runner, whom we shall call Rama, had since the theft paid off certain debts in the village which had long pressed upon him, but there were no other suspicious circumstances, and the man had 10 years' good service. As a last resource it was determined to resort to trial by ordeal and for this purpose an aged Brahman, who was supposed to possess occult powers and to be in daily communion with the gods, was consulted and readily undertook to discover the thief. All the runners—a goodly array of sturdy Mahratta peasants—were summoned to the office, and under the guidance of a cheyla, or disciple, of the old Brahman we all proceeded to a small deserted temple of Mahadeo, situated at some distance from the village.

It was a desolate spot and bore an evil reputation. The temple, owing to some act of desecration in the past, had been abandoned and was almost buried among weeds and tangled brushwood.

The hour selected was about 6 p. m., and the long twilight shadows gave the place a weird, uncanny look. The old Brahman was awaiting us, and as we approached appeared to be busy muttering incantations. The runners all seemed to be more or less under the spell of the hour, but the look of real fright in Rama's face was quite distinct. The Brahman, having finished his incantations, rose and addressing the men said:

"You are about to face the gods. To the innocent the trial will be nothing, but to the guilty much. In the temple a magic wand has been placed on the altar. Each of you must go in by turns, take up the wand and turn round three times, repeating the name of Mahadeo. The wand will stick to the hand of the guilty one." By this time it was nearly dark. I glanced in through the door of the temple. A solitary oil buttee threw a fitful light on the altar, on which an ordinary bamboo stick about two feet long reposed among grains of uncooked rice and nut limes, the whole sprinkled with red powder.

A curtain was drawn across the door, and the men entered one at a time. As each one appeared the Brahman seized his hands and raised them to his forehead, and then allowed them to pass on and join his fellows. Coming to Rama, he went through the same pantomime, but instead of allowing him to pass on bade him stand aside. When the last man had gone through the ordeal the Brahman turned to Rama and said quietly:

"Tell the sahib how you stole the money."

"To my utter amazement," continues the writer, "Rama fell on his knees, confessed that he was the thief, and offered to show where he had hidden the balance of the money. He had succeeded in opening the mail bag without seriously disturbing the seals. The postmaster had not really examined them and so their having been manipulated had escaped notice. Needless to say, the Brahman was rewarded and poor Rama was sent to repent at leisure in the district jail."

Now the natural question is: "How was it done?" Very simply. The temple, the lonely glen, the uncanny hour, the incantations, all were merely accessories to appeal to the superstitions of the ignorant peasants. The "magic wand" was thickly smeared with strongly scented sandalwood oil. Rama's guilty conscience prevented him from touching it, as he firmly believed the wand would stick to his hands, and his of course was the only hand that did not smell of oil.—Times of India.

A Hungry Guest.

Rosini and a friend of his went to dine with Mme. P——, a lady of property, who under a show of liberality, harbored a natural propensity to avarice. The dinner was of a very meagre description. At night, when the time came for the guests to take their leave, Mme. P—— thanked the great composer for his kindness in accepting her invitation, and said:

"I should be very glad, maestro, if, before you leave Paris, you would do me the honor of coming to dine with me a second time."

"I shall be most happy," Rosini replied, "and will do so at once, if you like."—Tablette des deux Charentes.

Pit Boys go on Strike.

Spring Hill Mines, N.S., March 18.—The pit boys came out yesterday on strike. Their grievance, as far as can be learned, is as follows: Previous to the fire the men were working 8 hours a day and the boys 10. Since the fire the men have been working 6 hours, three-quarter time, and the boys 8 hours as three-quarter time. The boys considered this was unjust and demand 6 hours as three-quarter time and as this was refused they came out. The boys are an indispensible factor in mining. As a result of their strike all the men were obliged to quit work. Things at present are at a standstill.

Ex-Detective Flynn Guilty.

Montreal, March 18.—The jury, after being looked up all night, returned a verdict Saturday morning of "Guilty, with a recommendation of mercy," against Flynn, the ex-Grand Trunk detective, accused of perjury. The maximum penalty is 14 years' penal servitude. The police magistrate sentenced Maggie Connell, Flynn's accomplice, to one month's imprisonment. She has already served two months in jail for vagrancy.

Hamilton and Brantford Connected.

Hamilton, March 18.—The Toronto, Hamilton and Buffalo railway has its rails laid to the western limits of the city and construction trains are now running between Hamilton and Brantford. It is not likely that work will be started on the eastern portion of the road until milder weather sets in.

THE PREMIER'S HEALTH

His Doctor Declares a Six Months Rest Absolutely Essential.

HE WILL HAVE TO RESIGN

He Suffers Still From Insomnia and Deeply Feels the Treatment Accorded Him by His Colleagues in the Commons—Harcourt Will Succeed Him.

London, March 18.—The Morning Post points under sensational headlines to-day: Lord Rosebery's health is the subject of the gravest anxiety. He suffers still from insomnia and his doctor says that six months rest is absolutely essential. The Premier will have to resign, which is all the more probable as he feels deeply his isolation and the fact that he is ignored by his colleagues in the Commons. If he retires Sir William Harcourt will succeed him, asking the present ministers to remain in office."

Prospects of Gladstone's Return.

London, March 18.—The rumor about Lord Rosebery's impending resignation found its way to the public here and enjoyed a brief though exciting run. It is now treated as quite devoid of foundation, but it is as well not to be too sure of that. Those who are most positive that Lord Rosebery never had the idea of retiring wear an abstracted, far away look when the subject of Gladstone's return from the Riviera is broached. It would need little more to start a terrified whisper coursing through officialdom that he intends coming back, brushing Lord Rosebery out of the way, and seizing the Premiership again, with Armenia as an electrical fighting cry to go to the country with. His health and spirits are excellent, and he can see as well as ever he could.

The Speakership.

The Speakership succession has developed into a desperately involved muddle. The obvious man for the place was Courtney, who is a queer sort of combination of learned professor and incorruptible hayseed politician. All sides admit from experience of him as chairman of committee that, so far as personal qualifications go, he is altogether the fittest man to be Speaker, but he has declined to stand. But there the trouble only begins. Harcourt and his group of sympathizers in the Cabinet have been in favor of Courtney; what may be described as the Rosebery faction in the Ministry want to put Campbell-Bannerman, the present Secretary of War, into the place, and he for some reason hardly obvious, is a hot candidate for the office. The Tories have a candidate of their own, but they are suspiciously willing to drop him and make Campbell-Bannerman's election unanimous, if the Cabinet will adopt him as the official candidate.

The British Naval Policy.

The color of the week's Parliamentary debates has been chiefly notable for the remarkable unanimity with which the men now in office have accepted the policy of their predecessors in regard to the navy. The attitude of Lord Rosebery's Cabinet is in striking contrast with the line adopted by Mr. Gladstone and Sir William Harcourt, when the latter were in the Opposition. For this reason the Conservatives of to-day have pardoned the inconsistency of their opponents and last week has witnessed many expressions of warm approval of the ministerial policy from the Opposition benches; even the criticisms of the Conservative leaders were delivered in a sympathetic spirit, and the great subject of naval defence was completely lifted out of the arena of party issues.

Two Ecclesiastical Precepts.

London, March 18.—Public attention has been attracted this week to two ecclesiastical precepts from high authorities. Archbishop Walsh has established a new qualification for holiness. He has issued a regulation in his archdiocese in which he directs that no one, child or adult, shall be admitted to confirmation or instructions in preparation for it who has not been vaccinated, or who having reached the age of seven years has not recently been vaccinated. The Archbishop of York sent a letter enjoining on the clergy "The greatly diminished use of tobacco" and other acts of self denial during Lent. At the same time the announcement was made that His Grace will go abroad "for a somewhat longer period than usual."

Dudley Will Visit Canada Now.

London, March 18.—Dudley Churchill Marjoribanks, the eldest son of Lord Tweedmouth, will accompany his mother on a journey through Canada. They go to visit the family of the Earl of Aberdeen, the Governor-General of Canada. The announcement of the engagement of the young man to Miss Sutherland, a member of the gaiety theatrical company, was made a week ago, coupled with the statement that Lord Tweedmouth insisted that the marriage should be postponed two years.

Ordered to the Front.

Tokio, March 18.—Marshal Prince Komatsu has been ordered to proceed at once to the front as commander-in-chief of all the Japanese armies. Premier Count Ito will proceed to Simonaseki today to prepare for the reception of the Chinese peace envoys. Mr. Mutsu, Minister of Foreign Affairs, is already there.

Sixty-Five New Archbishops.

Rome, March 18.—At the consistory today the Pope will precognize sixty-five archbishops and bishops, including Archbishop Langevin of St. Boniface, of Canada, and Very Rev. M. F. Howley, of St. Johns, Nfld.

Presbyterian Church Destroyed by Fire.

Windsor, March 18.—The Presbyterian church, corner of Victoria avenue and Chatham street, was entirely destroyed by fire Saturday afternoon. The fire is supposed to have originated from the furnace, which had been recently started in order to heat the church for Sunday's services. The fire department were severely criticised for their inability to do effective work when they first arrived. The value of the building and contents is estimated at about $20,000, insured for $12,000.

Customs Discrimination.

Montreal, March 18.—The Customs Department is now checking all the entries to see that importers pay the same rates of duty no matter at what port the goods are brought through. Toronto and Montreal entries are being specially watched as there were many instances in the past where importers had to pay in some cases over a hundred per cent. more at Toronto than Montreal merchants were charged and vice versa.

Run Down by the Trolley.

Hamilton, March 18.—Chas. Doherty, 5 years of age, was run down by a trolley car on James street near the bay Saturday afternoon and was badly cut about the head and forehead. Had it not been for the fender he would probably have been killed.

Fell Dead While Preaching.

Picton, March 18.—Yesterday morning Cornelius White, a preacher in the Society of Friends, fell dead while preaching in the Friends' meeting house at Bloomfield.

Safety for Christians Assured.

Constantinople, March 18.—The Porte has sent a note to Mr. Terrel, the American Minister, assuring him of the safety of the Christians in Asia Minor. Orders on this subject have been sent to the Provincial Governors.

Spring is at hand, and a

is a necessity. Mothers, as well as babies have been housed up all winter and both need fresh air, and as one can't go out without the other, come to the Peterborough Bookstore and buy that Baby Carriage you and your husband have been discussing so often the past winter.

We have them at prices to meet all purses—from $3 up to $15 or higher if you can stand the altitude.

A specially fine stock made by the Gendron Steel Wheel Company, Toledo, Ohio, guaranteed to be perfectly free from imperfections in every respect. Beautifully Upholstered in Satin Plush and commoner materials, with best Satin Parasol to match.

Our announcement is a little early, but it enables you to call early and get a choice.

We will keep in stock this season complete lines of Boys' Velocipedes, Girls' Tricycles, Children's Waggons and every variety of Juvenile Wheeled Goods.

A. H. Stratton & Co.

BABY CARRIAGES.

:o:

Your baby deserves a New Carriage. The old one (that is the old carriage) is shabby and persists in running crooked. If the baby is a new baby so much the more does a new carriage complete the turnout.

A neat, well appointed carriage is an evidence of good taste. It is a credit to the family and relations. Do the folks honour and the baby justice with a new vehicle.

The more so that the new carriage, when bought from our stock, costs but a moderate amount. Dozens of tyles. None too good. Some tasty and neat, some handsome and stylish. The prices match. All serviceable and durable.

See our stock before placing the baby on wheels.

THE CABINET COUNCIL

No Public Announcement Yet Respecting the Government's Policy.

TORY PREDICTIONS FALSIFIED

All the Predictions Based on the Principle of Making the People Prosperous Have been Falsified—The Conservative Party Exposed as a Reckless Set.

Ottawa, March 18.—The much talked of Cabinet Council on Saturday resulted in no public announcement respecting the Government's policy. They met again this (Monday) morning at eleven and are now in session. Where there is so much difference of opinion between members of the Cabinet on the school question delay would be natural, but a long delay has taken place and owing to the public uncertainty and anxiety it would be the duty of statesmen to come to some decision as early as possible. Foster, Caron, Daly, Patterson, et al. have no claims to the title of statesmen. They are mere parish politicians with the boldness of unscrupulousness added.

Diminishing Trade.

If the N. P. was to do anything it was to increase our exports and make them greater in volume than the imports. For the eight months of the present year—returns for which appear in Saturday's official Gazette—the exports were very much below the imports, and the total trade was nearly $12,000,000 less than during the corresponding eight months of 1894, and 1894 was below 1893. The decrease on exports amounted to $5,000,000 and the decrease in imports to over $6,000,000. The detailed statement of imports for February shows a duty on coal oil of 30 per cent. but on sparkling wines it was only 55 per cent. The duty collected on rice was 55 per cent. Fancy a tariff—a revised tariff too—which taxes such necessaries of life as coal oil and rice as high and higher than sparkling wines! Bituminous coal paid 35 per cent. The total average duty on all dutiable goods was over 31 per cent., just as high or a little higher than under the old tariff.

Among the free imports were the following: Raw sugar, $463,000; raw cotton, $415,000; hides and skins, $160,000; wool, $50,000—all goods for the use of manufacturers only—raw silk, India rubber and many other such articles. But the free list is searched in vain for anything in favor of the general consumer, except tea, coffee and hard coal. The total dutiable goods for the month amounted to $4,734,000 and the free goods to $3,667,000.

Bleeding the Treasury.

The scheme known as the Hudson Bay railway has been begging for assistance from the Dominion Government for at least 10 years, and secured grants of land amounting altogether to about 7,000,000 acres, enough in all conscience to build two railways. But the public refuse to believe that if a railway was built to Hudson's Bay that it would be of any use owing to the want of open water for navigation. There has therefore been a great deal of incredulity among members of Parliament and the general public and also among British investors, who refuse to advance capital or buy the bonds. Consequently the promoters have not been able to make much headway, and all they have done is to build 40 miles of road, which are now simply two streaks of rust 40 miles long. No one will look at the scheme and the company is hopelessly bankrupt in resources. For instance the report of the Manitoba Railway Commissioner just out shows that the Hudson Bay railway is indebted to the Province to the amount of $358,454. On the eve of an election, however, the Dominion Government are credited with the intention of further aiding this scheme, in order to fly it as an election kite in Manitoba. If so the taxpayers of Canada should show by their votes that they do not approve of their money being wasted on wild-cat schemes.

Predictions Falsified.

The cold facts are rapidly leaving the N. P. without a single advocate, except a few of the subsidized newspapers. All the predictions based on the principle of making a people prosperous by taxation have been falsified. The Tory leaders predicted in 1878 that the Northwest would have a million people in 1891; the census of 1891 found only 250,000. The Tory leaders predicted that by 1891 the Northwest would produce 540,000,000 bushels of wheat; the actual production was 18,000,000 bushels. This last was a Topper prediction. The idea of these barefaced lies was to induce the people to believe that the Tories and the N. P. would bring prosperity. They also predicted that by 1891 land sales in the Northwest would reduce the debt $200,000,000. The account net debt is $200,000,000 and the land in the Northwest has not paid for its administration and surveys. The Tory leaders denounced an annual expenditure of $86,500,000 as excessive, and yet have increased it to $37,500,000. All these things expose the Conservative party as one of hypocrisy, as a scrambling, reckless set who execute themselves now by saying, "Yes, we are the party of hope."

The Party at Ottawa.

Ottawa is supposed to be a Conservative stronghold, yet they are very anxious at present lest the Liberals can elect one of their high members. They meet in convention to-morrow. There are eight aspirants for the two nominations. The independent candidate, Mr. Taylor McVeity, says he will run whether he gets the convention or not. He was the regular Conservative nominee at the Ontario elections last year. The "machine" are bent on getting rid of McVeity but he has the only Conservative organization in the city and may get the convention. If so, Liberal prospects are thereby brightened.

The Chief Justice and McCarthy.

In the Supreme Court on Saturday the Chief Justice, Sir Henry Strong, and Mr. Dalton McCarthy had a passage at arms in which Mr. McCarthy came out best. He wanted to read some extracts from a case but the Chief Justice stopped him and said it was against the rule. "What rule, my lord?" asked McCarthy. "A rule," replied the Chief Justice, "which obtains in every court where the English language is spoken." "Well," replied McCarthy, "I have had some experience in such courts and this is the first time I ever heard of such a rule." He added if the Chief Justice did not wish to listen he would address the other members of the court. The upshot was that McCarthy read his extract.

To Restore the Coliseum.

Rome, March 18.—Signor Baccelli, Minister of Public Instruction, proposes that 125,000 lire be spent yearly to restore the Coliseum.

FIRED ON THE ENGLISH FLAG.

A Spanish Cruiser Fires on a Steamer off the Cuban Coast.

Havana, March 19.—The commander of the Spanish cruiser Conde de Venadito reports that on March 8, while cruising off the eastern coast of the island, he sighted a steamer heading for Maisi Point. The steamer's course was to the northeast. The cruiser hoisted a flag and the steamer replied by raising an English flag. The cruiser signalled the steamer to stop but without effect. As the steamer proceeded at full speed the cruiser first fired two blank shots and then two solid shots. The commander says he did not desire to hit the steamer but merely to cause her to heave-to. He asserts that the steamer was but one and a half miles off the Cuban coast when the firing occurred. The authorities here have ordered a full inquiry to be made into the commander's acts. Judging from Capt. Crossman's story nobody can doubt that the steamer in question was the Alliance, which was fired on by a Spanish officer on March 8.

Nothing has been heard here to confirm the rumor that the gunboat Alsedo has sunk an American schooner. The rumor is regarded as utterly unfounded in fact.

GONE BACK TO SEOUL.

Corea's Representative to the U. S. Recalled at his own Request.

Washington, March 19.—Ye Heun Gik, the Corean Charge d'Affairs, who has been confined to the Legation in this city by serious illness for the past three months, has been recalled by his Government at his own request and will leave to-day for San Francisco, where he will take the steamer for home. Until another Minister reaches here from Seoul, the legation will be in the hands of Pank Yung Kin, who was educated at the University of Pennsylvania and who has been secretary of the legation since the close of the Chicago World's Fair, where he was the Corean commissioner. Considerable significance is attached to this latest change in the Corean representation here as it demonstrates that Corean independence of Japan as well as of China is to be maintained in the relations of the Hermit Kingdom with the United States.

THE HYAMS IN COURT.

The Investigation Before the Police Magistrate Resumed.

Toronto, March 19.—The final stage of the preliminary examination in the Hyams case commenced yesterday afternoon, and it is the intention of the Crown to push it through until all the evidence is in. There are yet twenty witnesses for the Crown to be examined, and it is hardly probable that the case will be concluded before Thursday night.

John Thompson, a sailmaker, who worked for the Fensom Elevator Co., was the first witness. He stated that in the fall of 1893 he put a new hook on the rope on a hand elevator in the warehouse on Colborne street, but would not swear to the weight shown him. He was sure that if the weight was suspended on the hook it could never come off, though he had known hooks to come off in a way that was unaccountable.

Benjamin D. Humphrey, the undertaker, said that he had been summoned to the Hyams' warehouse on the day of Wells' death. One of the Hyams, he thought it was Harry, had his fingers cut, and said that the injuries had been received in lifting the weight. He went down stairs and found the body lying a few feet from the elevator, with the right side of the face up. He was there until the coroner arrived, and did not see the body moved in the meantime. The weight was lying between the body and the elevator shaft. Coroner Aikins arrived shortly afterwards, and after viewing the surroundings, told the witness that the body might be removed. It was taken away, and the head was fixed up in presentable shape, the fissures being filled up with plaster of Paris.

THE CASE WILL BE REVIEWED

And the Province of Manitoba Asked to do Justice to the Minority—The Result of Agitation in Western Ontario Over the Matter.

Ottawa, March 19.—The Cabinet sat all day yesterday excepting an hour and a half for luncheon, adjourning at six o'clock. After the adjournment, the Premier stated that he had nothing to give to the press. An evening paper says in regard to the meeting that the general belief now is that there will be no peremptory remedial order made against Manitoba in the school case. This is said to be the result of the agitation in Western Ontario over the matter. What the Government is now likely to do is to review the whole judgment of the Judicial Committee of the Privy Council, as well as the recent hearing of the case before the Dominion Cabinet, and close the document with a request to the Province of Manitoba to do justice in the matter. In other words the question is to be left to Premier Greenway to settle, without any direct order being made by the Dominion. At all events such is the talk going on in official circles.

The rumor is also current that it was decided to summon Parliament at once. The date given is still the 18th of April.

PEELEE ISLAND'S PROSPECTS.

Natural Gas and Oil Exists in Large Quantities on the Island.

Windsor, March 19.—Peelee Island is to be explored for natural gas and oil by the Standard Oil and Gas Company. George Lypps, acting for that corporation, has leased several thousand acres and will begin operations in a short time. Manager Harris, of the company, says: "Gas is so abundant there that it can be lighted in some places where it escapes through the strata, and some of the islanders have lights burning all the time without having drilled a foot into the ground. There are also plain indications of a large amount of oil. The Ontario Natural Gas Company has also been getting options on tracts of land on the island and between the operations of the two companies there is a bright prospect in view for the islanders." A prominent resident of the island who was in Windsor yesterday says that there is enough capital in view that would be used for the construction of factories in the event of gas in sufficient quantities being discovered to make Peelee Island a great manufacturing place. Its excellent shipping facilities would be in its favor.

Sympathy for Windsor Presbyterians.

Windsor, March 19.—The Presbyterians are taking the loss of their church with fortitude. Sunday's services were held in the opera house. Rev. Mr. Tolmie announced that three citizens, not members of the church, had started the subscription list before any means of raising money had been considered. Kindly feelings were expressed in all the churches. Canon Hinoks, at the Episcopal church, offered the use of his edifice to the Presbyterians. The board of managers will meet Friday night and talk over the project of rebuilding. There was $11,000 insurance on the church and $2,000 on the organ. The building was only ten years old and was worth from $20,000 to $25,000. Services will be held in the opera house for the present. Everyone is satisfied the fire originated from an overheated furnace.

An Interesting Relic.

Ottawa, March 19.—Mr. Adolphe Rosenthal has received a letter from Germany which he will always keep as an interesting relic. It was part of the German mails that sank to the bottom of the English Channel with the ill-fated steamer Elbe on the 30th of January. These mails have but recently been raised and are now being distributed. The letter which Mr. Rosenthal received bears the post mark "Berlin, 28th January," two days previous to the loss of the steamer.

Lost all his Samples.

Lindsay, March 19.—Fire started in the sample rooms of the Benson House yesterday afternoon and did a good deal of damage. Mr. Kelk, of the firm of E. F. Walker & Co., of Montreal, lost all his samples. The fire started from the stove in the baggage room. Hurly & Brady, grocers, are heavy losers by water having damaged their stock. Gough Bros.' large stock of ready made clothing is somewhat damaged.

Thirty Girls for Niagara District.

Halifax, March 19.—Among the 216 passengers who arrived by the Allan Line steamer Mongolian yesterday afternoon were 30 girls, between the ages of 5 and 18, sent out by Miss Rye for Niagara district.

THE LIBERIAN EMIGRANTS.

Rev. C. S. Smith Thinks it a Scheme to Make Money out of the Negroes.

Savannah, Ga., March 19.—The steamship Horsa will sail from Savannah to-day for Monrovia, Liberia, with 200 negro emigrants from the neighborhood of Memphis, Tenn., and Birmingham, Ala., who have been waiting ten days for her. Rev. C. S. Smith, of Nashville, a prominent minister of the African Methodist church, is making a fight on the movement. He declares that the ship does not comply with the Government regulations and will make an application to the collector of the port to refuse her clearance papers. He has been to Liberia recently and gives a very unfavorable report of the state of affairs there. He considers the movement simply a scheme on the part of white men to make money out of the ignorant negroes.

TUESDAY, MARCH 19, 1895.

For long it has been the complaint that there were too many lawyers in the Legal House. But the farmers have themselves removed such a ground of complaint, as shown by the present composition of the Legislature. The Toronto correspondent of the Illustrated Buffalo Express, furnishes an interesting diagram showing the percentage of the different classes and callings of which the House is composed. The big half of the House is composed of the spinal column of the country—the farmers who comprise 46 per cent. of the legislative number. The merchants are next with 22 per cent. and the erstwhile superabundant lawyers compose a modest 17½ per cent.; the doctors are next in numerical strength being, however, only 6½ per cent. The remaining eight per cent. is divided between journalists, contractors and auctioneers in the proportions of 2½, 2½ and 3 per cent. respectively. So it seems that there are enough farmers to "boss the job," at least—if they stick together—in the divided list.

'Don't believe any man who tells you that any Government can make any particular class prosperous without injury to some other class in the community. You may depend upon it that anyone advocating such a doctrine knows he is propounding a policy which he knows will be emphatically disavowed, and it will afford you little consolation to find that you have been defeated by your own credulity, and defeated to no purpose."—Hon. Alex. Mackenzie in 1877. There are many men in Canada who have found out the truth of Mr. Mackenzie's words.

Mr. William Patterson is a queer man, if our Conservative friends are to be believed, says the Globe. He is a manufacturer who, according to Dr. Montague, grew enormously wealthy under the N. P. He is pledged to support a policy which, according to the Conservatives, will close up his factory—or factories, is it?—and make him as poor as any of his fellow citizens. And still, as if unmindful of his fate, he goes about asking, "Has the National Policy made you rich?"

An Ottawa gentleman occupies a column and a quarter of good space in telling why he has left the Liberal party. And in all that space no reference whatever, the Ottawa Journal points out, is made to the Ontario Government office, which the gentleman wanted but did not get.

HOW THE COTTON COMBINE WORKS.

The N. P. Favours combines, and the cotton industry is a shining example of how profits are realised at the expense of the consumers of cotton. Hon. David Mills, speaking in the House of Commons in the session of 1892, said:

Here is a little bit of recent history of the Dominion Cotton company. It is the one of these two great combines which was first incorporated (1890) soon got into full swing, and is making admirable profits now. On the 1st of September, 1892, the paid-up capital—I shall not enquire how it was paid up, for I do not know—was quoted as $15,000,000. I will presume that it was all bona fide paid up, either by the present shareholders in cash, by the transfer of interests in the mills which were swallowed up, or one way or the other. Now, on the 7th of the same month, September last, a scheme for watering the stock was made public, although outsiders knew it for some time, and had been quietly buying up the stock. The statement made by the company was that they had only been paying 8 and 10 per cent dividends, but that their profits for the last three years had been from 26 to 27 per cent., and they therefore proposed, that by paying $10 per share, each stockholder would be entitled to a full paid-up share of $100 of the new stock, thus increasing the capital to $3,000,000 by that delightful method. THEY WATERED THEIR STOCK TO ABSORB SOME OF THESE DIVIDENDS THAT THEY WERE BECOMING ASHAMED OF. What is the effect of that watering? The original stockholders got two paid-up shares of $100 at a cost of $55 each. They paid $110 for two shares, worth at par $100 each. As to the value of the watered stock I see by the Montreal Gazette this morning that 140 per cent. was paid at the board of the stock exchange for paid-up stock of the Dominion company. Now, that gives to each shareholder, who, as we have seen, only pays $55 per share, a profit of $85 per share, OR OVER 154 PER CENT. PROFIT on his capital. He can realise that rate today on every share he holds, besides receiving the regular dividends of 8 and 10 per cent.

THE LITTLE BOY WAS SAVED.

A Mother's Words.

A grateful and happy mother writes as follows:

"Lactated Food saved our little boy. We had tried seven different kinds of prepared food, besides the various ways of giving oatmeal, lime-water, and almost everything else. He was as thin as it was possible for a child to be, and we have since learned that the doctor expected that he would die. Another doctor recommended Lactated Food. We hesitated about making a change as he was so low. We used Lactated Food, however, and it saved his life. He is now two years old, fat and perfectly well."

No other food known to physicians and mothers can do the life-saving work that Lactated Food does from day to day.

WESTWOOD.

(From Our Own Correspondent.

On the evening of Friday, March 8th, a large number of persons assembled in the Foresters' hall, being to be royally entertained by the craft at their anniversary oyster supper. After everyone was satisfied with the oysters, the following toasts were proposed by the C. R., G. A. L. Humphries:

"The Queen," which was heartily responded to by all singing the National Anthem.

"The Governor General, Dominion and Provincial Parliaments," coupled with the name of East Peterborough's popular representative, Thos. Blezard, Esq., M. P., who gave an interesting and instructive address.

"Our Township Council," was responded to by Wm. Buck, reeve of Asphodel, and Councillors Christie, Oakman and McMillan.

"The Learned Profession," was responded to by Rev. Mr. Peake and Dr. McNaughton.

"The Craft" was heartily responded to by Bros. Wm. Sharp and R. H. Elliott, Inspector for Foresters.

The following toasts were proposed by the V. C. Ranger, Thos. H. Nelson:

"Agriculture"—Responded to by Messrs. G. A. L. Humphries, W. Sharp, Jr., D. C. McColl, H. S. Nellson, Wm. Dickson, Hopk. Elmhirst and Steele.

"Mechanics"—Responded to by Bros. J. G. Kobb and D. Breckenridge.

"Manufactories"—Responded to by Bros. M. Breckenridge and R. C. Humphries.

"The Press"—Responded to by Mr. J. G. Keefer, editor of the Norwood Register.

"The Ladies"—Responded to by Messrs. Elmhirst, Walker and Nelson.

"Our Chairman" was proposed by Bro. R. R. Elliott, and responded to by C. R., G. A. L. Humphries.

The above toasts were interspersed with music and song. In the "wee sma' hours" the gathering dispersed, after joining a circle around the tables and singing "Auld Lang Syne."

The Farmers' Institute meetings here were a decided success, especially the meeting at night, when the hall was packed. Mr. F. Birdsall, the president, occupied the chair at the several meetings. The principal speakers were Messrs. Baynor, Honey, Ewing and Mills. The entertainment at the night meeting was a decided success, and of a high order.

CURED OF ASTHMA.

HOW A YOUNG LADY IN TORONTO WAS RESTORED TO HEALTH.

She Suffered for Years From This Distressing Complaint and on Occasions Was Confined to Her Room for Weeks—Her Father Tells How She Was Cured.

From Brockville Recorder.

Mr. Reuben Barber, architect of the city of Toronto, at one time a resident of Merrickville, has been visiting old friends and relatives in and around the village recently. While chatting with the Recorder coorrespondent, the recent wonderful cures in the vicinity through the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills came up, when Mr. Barber said he had an experience in his own family quite as remarkable. Asked if he would give the particulars, Mr. Barber said that some seven years ago, while living in Mount Forest, his daughter took a severe cold which developed into asthma. At first she would be confined to her room for days and to see her struggling for breath one would think she could not possibly live an hour. As she grew older the asthmatic spasms became more frequent and of longer duration. Sometimes she would be unable to leave her room for weeks, and then she would rally and be better for a short time. After we moved to Toronto she was put under the care of one of the best doctors in the city. At first his treatment seemed to help her, but after a few months she became as bad as ever and the medicine did not appear to do her the slightest good. We had now fully made up our minds that the trouble was incurable. We had read so much of Dr. Williams Pink Pills, that we were determined to give them a trial, really looking upon them as a sort of forlorn hope. My daughter began taking the pills and continued the treatment for about six months when she found herself entirely free from the distressing disease. Seven months have now passed since she took the last box, and she has never had the slightest spasm or return of the trouble. "She is now the picture of health," says Mr. Barber, and we give the entire credit to Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and lose no opportunity of sounding the praises of this great medicine." These pills are a positive cure for all troubles arising from a vitiated condition of the blood or a shattered nervous system. Sold by all dealers or by mail, from Dr. Williams' Medicine Company, Brockville, Ont., or Schnectady, N. Y., at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $250. There are numerous imitations and substitutions against which the public is cautioned.

A MONUMENT TO GARIBALDI IN ROME.

Rome, March 19.—The corner stone of the Garibaldi monument was placed yesterday in the presence of the Ministers, Garibaldi's sons and the municipal authorities. The monument is intended to commemorate the defence of Rome in 1849. It will be completed and unveiled with great pomp next September on the 25th anniversary of the reunion of Rome with Italy.

Burned to the Water's Edge.

Kaslo, March 19.—The steamer Spokane, belonging to the Columbia and Kootenay Navigation Co., one of the finest steamers on the Kootenay river, was burned to the water's edge yesterday. At the time of the fire there was considerable freight on board, part of which was destroyed. The steamer was valued at $15,000, insurance $5,000. The cause of the fire is not known.

In Favor of the County.

Ottawa, March 19.—In the Supreme Court yesterday the case of Wilson v. the Corporation of Elgin was argued. The question involved was whether a County Council could detach a township or village from a High school district. Judgment was given in favor of the County Council by their Lordships.

The Pit Boys' Strike Off.

Spring Hill Mines, N.S., March 19.—Work was resumed again yesterday in the mines with the understanding that there is to be a change of time the first of April to the satisfaction of all concerned.

Truly Astonishing.

Miss Annette N. Moen, Fountain, Minn., says: "Ayer's Cherry Pectoral has had a wonderful effect in curing my brother's children of a severe and dangerous cold. It was truly astonishing how speedily they found relief after taking this preparation."

PURE & SURE

ARE YOU CLEANSED?

Without Cleansing There is no True Life.

PURE BLOOD MEANS HEALTH AND STRENGTH.

Paine's Celery Compound the World's Best Spring Medicine "Makes People Well."

In spring time nature commences to don a fresh attire. She puts on new garments and decks herself with fresh beauties. She throws aside the dull and dead condition of winter with its accumulated impurities, and is infused with a new and vigorous life.

In like manner, at this season, should all men and women banish the weights and burdens of impurities with which the system is filled. The blood is filled and clogged with poison and disease; the nerves are weak; the muscles are flabby and relaxed. The whole system is like a disordered house; it requires cleansing and setting in order, that all the machinery may work safely and harmoniously.

Thousands who have been cleansed and made strong by Paine's Celery Compound, willingly support the assertion that this medicine cleanses and rejuvenates the human system in spring time, in a way that no other medicine can do. It gives new life, fresh red blood, vigour and strength to the weak, nervous rheumatic and dyspeptic, and makes the skin of those suffering from blood diseases as soft and clean as that of a little child.

Mr. D. McMahon, of Peterborough, Ont., thankful for new and fresh blood and restored health, writes as follows:

"I have great pleasure in testifying to the fact that Paine's Celery Compound has caused a remarkable change in my condition. I was troubled with a very bad type of Eczema on my face, and in patches over my body for four years; and was under treatment of three doctors at different periods. I have also tried other remedies, but all proved useless. At last I bought a bottle of Paine's Celery Compound, and put in Iodide of Potassium, as recommended on the label. The one bottle did me so much good that I bought five bottles more, and now am happy to say I am perfectly cured, and completely free from the troublesome disease."

SWORD VERSUS PEN.

The Newspapers of Madrid and the Army Officers at Loggerheads.

Paris, March 19.—The editors of the Republican journals Ideal and Justicia in Madrid will be tried by court-martial for denouncing the officers who attacked the newspaper offices. A rigid censorship of press matter is in force in Madrid. It is necessary to send the most important news by mail to Bayonne whence it is despatched by telegraph. A message forwarded thus last night says that the officers of the Madrid garrison were still intensely excited. The newspapers expected to be attacked and most of the offices were barricaded and armed on Saturday evening. El Pais had a guard of armed civilians. Strong bodies of police were placed so as to be at hand for action in case any of the principal offices were attacked. The officers and many of the soldiers gathered in the streets all day and uttered threats against the editors. Several efforts were made to intimidate even the foreign correspondents. The Imparcial has denounced the War Minister freely. It is said that Senor Sagasta blames him for his lack of energy in dealing with the rioters.

Madrid, March 19.—Queen-Regent Christiana received Gen. Campos yesterday afternoon. He reported that all was quiet in the city and he was confident that officers would not seek further revenge upon the newspapers. After Gen. Campos left the place the Queen-Regent gave an audience to the Presidents of the Chambers.

Washington, March 19.—Minister Hannis Taylor has cabled the State Department a confirmation of the news that the Government has resigned and that Martinez Campos has been appointed Captain-General at Madrid and that the new Government will probably be under Canovas del Castillo.

Parents Must Have Rest.

A Specialist of one of our Colleges, says: "We spent many sleepless nights in consequence of our children suffering from colds, but this never occurs now We use Scott's Emulsion and it quickly relieves pulmonary troubles."

ONTARIO LEGISLATURE.

Municipalities Have No Power to Regulate Hours for Closing Saloons.

Toronto, March 19.—The session at the Local Legislature yesterday was dull and uninteresting. It was expected that the report of the Fees Commission would have been laid before the members but such was not the case and it is doubtful if it will be made public before Thursday next. A deputation representing the W. C. T. U. waited upon the Government and asked that factories and mercantile establishments where women were employed should be inspected by women. Dr. Ryerson introduced a bill along these lines.

Closing of Saloons and Shops.

Mr. Crawford asked if municipalities in this Province had the power to regulate the hours for the retail sale of liquors by the license holders therein, also what body has such power, if not the municipalities.

Hon. Mr. Harcourt replied. He said that municipalities had no right to regulate the hours for saloons or taverns, but that they had the right to regulate the hours for shops. This opinion was based upon a decision that had been rendered by Chief Justice Harrison. The License Commissioners had power in both cases.

London Normal School.

Mr. Whitney asked if the Government has decided upon the establishment of a Normal School at London.

Hon. Mr. Ross replied that the Government did not intend establishing such a school at London or any place else.

Toronto Registry Office.

Mr. Howland asked if it is the intention of the Government to introduce an Act during the present session amending the Registry Act by re-uniting the Toronto Registry Office and abolishing the office of Registrar of East Toronto.

Sir Oliver Mowat replied that the Government did not intend to abolish the office.

Sir Oliver is Considering.

Mr. Howland asked if it is the intention of the Government to introduce during the present session an Act for the prevention of sales of merchants' stocks in trade with intent to defraud creditors.

Sir Oliver Mowat replied that the matter had only been brought to his notice last week and that he had not had time to fully consider the matter but would do so shortly.

Won't Have to Pay.

Mr. [illegible] introduced two bills, the effect of which if passed will be to grant people living in incorporated villages the right to work out their statute labor instead of paying a tax. The law would then place villages upon the same plane as farmers in the townships.

To Cut Down His Fees.

Mr. Davies introduced a bill to amend the Act dealing with counsel fees in connection with the administration of justice The bill is presented at the instance of the York County Council in order to make it clear that the clerk of the peace is only entitled to one fee for preparing the municipal voters' lists for the whole municipality and not to one fee each subdivision.

Pathmasters to Collect Fees.

Mr. Wood moved the second reading of his bill to enable pathmasters to collect statute labor fees. The bill was read a second time and will be discussed before the Municipal Committee.

More Appointments recommended

The Game and Fish Commissioners in their annual report presented yesterday recommend that two more wardens should be appointed this year. They also recommend that Mr. H. K. Smith, warden of the eastern portion of the Province, be appointed chief warden, the post being vacant since the resignation of Mayor Stewart, of Hamilton, and that deputy wardens be made constables under the Act so as to permit them to serve summons, subpoenas, etc.

Forget to Enclose the Money.

Toronto, March 19.—James Tate, a farmer of Zephyr, tried to get the postal officials into trouble by sending an empty envelope to the Manson-Campbell firm, of Chatham, and then kicking because it did not contain $26 when it reached there. He was sent to the county jail yesterday for two months. Tate had purchased a fanning mill from the Chatham people and the offence was due to a reluctance to pay for it.

Pledged to Secure Ireland's Autonomy.

London, March 19.—Justin McCarthy presided last night at the annual Nationalist banquet in London. He said in his speech that there was neither division nor faction in the party—that all were pledged to secure Ireland's autonomy and to nothing else. John Dillon, T. P. O'Conner and others uttered similar sentiments.

Bravery Rewarded.

Washington, March 19.—The President has sent through the State Department a number of watches and medals to mariners who had rescued American ships and seamen. The recipients were Captain Francis E. Jenkins and members of the crew of the American schooner Geo. A. McFeddon, February 10, 1895; and Captain Jacob Wyman and members of the crew of the British bark Buteshire who effected the rescue of the captain and sailors of the American schooner Florence J. THE KENT CASE.

Many Enquiries as to Details Being Made from Distant Places.

Ottawa, March 19th.—So many enquiries have been received from parties residing here from people at a distance with regard to the details of the cure of Mr. G. H. Kent of this city from advanced Bright's Disease by the use of Dodd's Kidney Pills, that it is evident that the fame of his recovery has penetrated to a considerable distance from the capital. In order that those residing in remote places may have no difficulty in obtaining full information it might be well to state that Mr. Kent's address is 114 Cambridge street, and that full accounts of his wonderful recovery from death's door were published in several issues of the leading Ottawa dailies, the press having taken a considerable interest in the case.

Calcutt's Water Tube.

Mr. C. Anderson, of Little Current and Mr. J. Johnston, steamboat inspector, were visiting Calcutt's Brewery, inspecting the patent water tube improvement, and have pronounced it a great improvement, and that it will save a large amount of fuel, and increase the power.

Oliver Goldsmith.

Students who are reading Oliver Goldsmith's works will be interested in the lecture to-night in St. John's school house Rev. Septimus Jones will, however, treat the subject not in a scholastic but in a popular style, which will make it interesting to all. It is a good thing to have even a casual acquaintance with remarkable men—worth more, in fact, than 15c., the price of admission. 1d

A Common Hymnal.

Rev. D. J. Macdonnell, formerly of Peterborough, and another member of the Toronto Presbytery to be selected will sail for Edinburgh in a few days to represent the Canadian Presbyterian church at the revision of the hymnal. It is hoped the result of the work of the conference will be to arrange a common hymnal for Presbyterians in Scotland, Canada, Australia and England. Mr. Macdonnell expects to be away a month.

Rev. Septimus Jones.

Rev. Septimus Jones, who speaks in Peterborough to-night and also to-morrow evening; formerly ministered in Gaspe and Quebec City, later he worked in Belleville in Christ church, which was built during his rectorship. Mr. Jones was afterwards appointed to the Church of the Redeemer, Toronto. He is chairman of two important committees of the Synod and Rural Dean of Toronto, in addition to which he was for some time president of the Toronto Ministerial Association. Mr. Jones' address to-morrow evening will deal with some of the labour and social problems now attracting attention. Men are especially invited and all seats in the church will be entirely free.

Snasalle.

The plan of reserved seats for Mr. Snasalle's two performances at the opera house on Thursday and Friday next, was opened this morning. There will be a distinct change of programme each evening. Referring to his recent season in Toronto the Globe says:—"The entertainment presented by G. H. Snasalle at Massey Hall last night was remarkable in several ways, one being the demonstration of Mr. Snasalle's marvellous versitality as an entertainer. For two hours and a half he held attention and drew the applause of a delighted audience. The entertainment was a unique combination. The second part was mainly humourous, and Mr. Snasalle showed to greater advantage, if that were possible. Altogether Mr. Snasalle is as enjoyable an entertainer as ever came to Toronto." 1d

Mr. J. J. Hanratty, of Peterborough, Inspector of the Standard Life Assurance Company, says the Insurance and Finance Chronicle, Montreal, called upon us on the 9th inst.

Mr. Andrew Tilley, formerly of St. Andrew's choir, is now living in Toronto, and is recognized as one of the leading soloists of that city. It is said that Mr. Tilley may possibly be engaged to give a concert under the auspices of St. Andrew's church, some time in the spring.

An event worthy of notice in commercial circles in Peterborough is the retirement from active business of Mr. Wm. Lech, of the firm of Lech & Sons, fur merchants. During over a third of a century of active commercial life, Mr. Lech has been not only a prominent reputable and successful business man, but a citizen, who has done credit to his adopted town. He goes into the enjoyment of the leisure which his business ability and success have well earned, carrying with him the equally well earned respect of all classes of citizens, and their wish that he may be long spared to enjoy his otium cum dignitate.

Suit for Criminal Libel.

Chief Police Rossel has instituted a suit for criminal libel against Mr. W. H. Robertson, of the Morning Times. The case has been taken up by the Crown and although what purports to be an apology for the statements made appeared in this morning's issue of the Times, Chief Rossel does not consider that sufficient amends has been made and he states the charge will be pressed.

A Syrian in Court.

Matthew Hoddart, the Syrian, brought his wife into court this morning as an interpreter and complained that a number of young boys and men made a practice of persecuting him by throwing ice and snow at his door. The police arrested a youth on the information laid, and the magistrate fined him two dollars and costs or ten days. He took the days and the Syrian will probably be allowed to live in peace hereafter.

THE SPRING ASSIZES.

Only Three Civil Cases to Come Before Mr. Justice Street.

The assizes opened this afternoon before Justice Street. The new law reducing the Grand Jury from 24 to 12 came into force for the first time. There were only ten of the Grand Jurymen present, viz:—John Carlisle, Geo. R. Elliott, Wm. Bawler, Wm. A. Graham, T. J. Johnston, Dawson Kennedy, Joseph Milburn, Robt. Miller, Wm. Mellmoyle and John A. Ross.

Those absent were T. G. Eastland, Adam Hall and Wm. J. Hales.

Mr. Dawson Kennedy was chosen foreman.

His Lordship, in addressing the Grand Jury, took occasion to congratulate the county on its freedom from crime, there being no criminal cases on the docket. The only duty which the Grand Jury, therefore, had to perform was to inspect the county gaol and report upon its condition.

The first case taken up of the three on the Civil List was that of Murray vs. The Bell Telephone Company, which was an action brought by Thos. Murray, a farmer residing in Douro, against the Bell Telephone Company, claiming $1,000 damages for injuries received by him in coming in contact with a wire owned by the Bell Telephone Company. The injuries were received on Sept. 11th, 1894, on Hunter street. G. Watson, Q. C., of Toronto, and W. H. Moore, for the plaintiff, and Edwards & Murray for the defendants.

The other cases coming on at this assizes are as follows, and will probably be tried without a jury:

Henderson vs. Henderson.—An action brought by David Henderson and John Henderson, of Otonabee, against Annie Henderson of the same place. David Henderson, sr., who died in February, 1894, willed to the plaintiffs the west half of lot number 13, in the ninth concession of Otonabee, but the defendant, after the death of David Henderson, sr., entered into possession of the said lot. The plaintiffs claim possession of the lot; $500 for means profit of the premises since the death of David Henderson, sr. The defendant denies the allegations made by the plaintiffs. Hall & Hayes for the plaintiffs; Edwards & Murray for the defendants.

McPherson vs. Brown et al.—The plaintiff, T. J. McPherson, of Warkworth, alleges in this action that the defendants did wrongfully pull down a pile of wood and erect an engine and engine house on land leased from the defendants, and he asks $300 damages, and an injunction ordering the defendants, their agents or servants to desist from committing any nuisance. D. J. Lynch, Campbellford, for the plaintiff; E. B. Stone for defendants.

LOCAL LOYALTY OF A PETERBOROUGH POETESS.

The following sprightly poem by a Peterborough young lady, Miss Alma McCollum, Gilmour street, appears in vignette form in the illustrated Saturday edition of the Mail:

The Girl We Saw.

BY ALMA F. L. MCCOLLUM.

Bert and I were down on King,
Taking note of everything;
My old friend had just come home,
Been a season off at Rome,
London, Paris,—all the rests,
And at last found home the best.

Such a crowd we met that day
Coming from the matinee,
Bertie said, in any place
Not for beauty, style or grace,
Could a lady e'er compare
With Toronto's fairest fair,

Look, he said, at Venus there,
Oh, I say what lovely hair!
'Tis it was; a golden brown,
Just the colour of her gown,
And her eyes soft, dove-like grey,
Such as steal the heart away.

Well as for grace, well no Delsarte
Could have given her that art,
Broad brimed hat with tips a curl,
Such a lovely—lovely girl!
Bert and I were in a maze,
We could nothing do but gaze.

Come, he said, let's walk behind,
I will wager you can't find
Such a girl or half so sweet
Anywhere but on this street.
Ho, I laughed, go back to Rome—
Peterborough is her home.

OUR FLOURISHING MECHANICS' INSTITUTE.

Its Foremost Position Among Those of the Province—Its Large Library and Excellent Reading Room.

According to the report of the Minister of Education just issued, the Peterborough Mechanics' Institute occupies a foremost position in the Province. We have the largest library outside the larger cities and larger than most of the cities. There are between 7,000 and 8,000 volumes in the Peterborough Mechanics' Institute library, a number exceeded by only Brantford, Hamilton and Toronto, which have free libraries, a circumstance accounted largely for larger volume of books. In the matter of newspaper periodicals also Peterborough is far ahead. We have on our tables seventy newspapers and periodicals, a number exceeded only by Hamilton and Toronto. What makes the comparison stronger in Peterborough's favour is the fact that our membership is only 317—a number largely exceeded by other places. These facts show that in the matter of membership our citizens do not appreciate as highly as some other places, the great reading advantages, the energy of the president and directors has placed before them. With the best library in the province, apart from free libraries and those in the cities, and with second best reading room in the province, the membership of the local Institute should be easily double what it is now.

ST. JOHN'S Y. P. A.

Hold their Regular Meeting—Very Successful—An Excellent Programme.

The Young People's Association of St. John's held their regular meeting last night, and it was one of the most successful in its history.

The president, Miss A. Sproule, presided. It was decided on a vote to hold a series of entertainments to commence after Easter, and it was decided further that the proceeds of the first concert will be devoted to purchasing music for the choir. The concert which will be held will be of a kind entirely new to the public, and practice will be commenced at once.

The programme, which was a very fine one, consisted of a very pretty instrumental duet by Miss A. Sproule, and Miss Edith Barlee; instrumental duet, violin and cornet, by Mr. J. Bent and Mr. George Miller; and excellent reading by Miss B. Fair; a beautiful vocal solo by Miss Clara Clark, and a reading by Rev. Mr. Davidson.

The next meeting of the Association will be held on April 1st.

Hood's Cured After Others Failed

Scrofula in the Neck—Sunshine All Gone Now.

Sangerville, Maine.

"C. I. Hood & Co., Lowell, Mass.:

"Gentlemen:—I feel that I cannot say enough in favor of Hood's Sarsaparilla. For five years I have been troubled with scrofula in my neck and throat. Several kinds of medicines which I tried did not do me any good, and when I commenced to take Hood's Sarsaparilla there were large bunches on my neck so sore that I could not bear the slightest touch. When I had taken one bottle of this medicine, the soreness had gone, and before I had finished the second the bunches had entirely disappeared." BLANCHE ATWOOD, Sangerville, Maine.

N. B. If you decide to take Hood's Sarsaparilla do not be induced to buy any other.

THE EVANGELISTS.

The Meeting Last Night the Best of the Series.

Rev. Mr. Moore took as his text in St. Paul's church last night, the words "No man cared for my soul," Psalms, chap. cxlii, ver. 4. He delivered his discourse under three heads, viz:

What is implied.

Who should care for the soul?

What are the consequences in not caring for souls?

The service was one of the most effective of the series, being most solemn from beginning to end, with an earnest spirit prevailing. It was followed at the close by a large number of experiences, a number of whom professed to have settled the matter of their eternal salvation.

The attendance was one of the largest yet witnessed and this week bids fair to yield the most gratifying results of the series. Mr. Whyte sang several solos with his usual vigor and was supported by a most excellent chorus formed by St. Paul's choir.

To-morrow afternoon at three o'clock a service will be held in the Murray street Baptist church. These afternoon meetings are always very interesting and largely attended.

ANOTHER CHANCE FOR MIXED FARMING.

"Hiram Walker & Sons are contemplating the erection of an immense tobacco factory in Walkerville, and are at present getting the estimates for the machinery. The firm, for some time, have been engaged in the growth of tobacco, and two years ago sold their entire crop to the tobacco factory in Joliette, in the Province of Quebec. Last year, the market was dull, and they have about 120,000 pounds on hand. They have concluded that there is a large market for the home tobacco in Canada, if properly manufactured."

This may be an opening for enterprising agriculturists. Some experiments have been made on the growth and use of home grown tobacco, but owing to some defect in growth soil or curing, the people who smoke it, can only remain on speaking terms with our neighbours by smoking their pipes on some high mountain, where the potent fragrance is wafted upwards to the complaining stars.

HEALTH RESTORED.

APPETITE REGAINED.

STRENGTH RETURNED.

Distressing Constipation Cured by B. B. B.

GENTLEMEN,—For three years I have been terribly troubled with that distressing complaint, Constipation, and tried different medicines until last spring, when I commenced taking Burdock Blood Bitters, and after the use of five bottles had no more of my terrible suffering. Before I began using B. B. B. my appetite had almost gone and I was thin and very weak, but after the use of each bottle I could (and so did others) see a wonderful change in my looks and I felt my strength returning to me.

Pretty.

A bedroom suite of native white maple with birdseye maple panels, now in A. It is almost white, of neat design, just the thing for a young ladies room. Though pretty and dainty, it is not expensive. dw

CAPES and JACKETS

—AT—

HALL, GILCHRIST & CO'S.

The growth of the trade in our Mantle Department has been marvellous.

THE REASONS WHY.

1st.—Because we buy our goods for each season five months later than any competitors, (which can only be done by going direct to the manufacturers), thereby giving us the very latest styles.

2nd.—Because our syndicate purchase is as large as the combined purchase of any three Canadian houses, and being for spot cash we get the lowest possible prices.

3rd.—Because we sell for spot cash we can sell on smaller profits.

4th.—Because our stock is as large as any two houses in town. We give our customers a much larger variety to choose from.

5th.—Because we carry no goods over to the next season. All our stock is new.

Our stock when complete will be the largest and best value we have ever shown for any previous spring season. ALL WE ASK IS COME AND SEE BEFORE YOU BUY.

THE EMERALDS HOLD A GRAND CONCERT.

C. R. DEVLIN, M.P., DELIVERS A STIRRING ADDRESS.

A Programme of Unusual Excellence Presented—A Large Audience in Attendance Last Evening.

The annual concert of the Emerald Beneficial Society in the Opera House was very largely attended last evening, and was an eminent success, the various numbers on the programme being rendered in a manner so excellent as to call for an encore in every instance.

Mr. W. J. Devlin announced the numbers which were presented in the following order :

PART I.

Selection of Irish airs.....Miss K Hurley
Recitation, "Erin,".....Convent Pupils
Song, "Come In" the Garden, Matilda,".....Miss Annie Dunn

Comic Song, "There Goes Major Casey".....Mr. D Donoghue
Song, "Something Tells Me So".....Miss Annie Dunn
Instrumental, Mandolin and Mouth Organ....Messrs. Hickey and Ricketts Pantomime Act (original.....Messrs Simons and Connors

Upon Mr. C. R. Devlin, M.P., being announced, Mr. J. W. Fitzgerald, in taking the chair, remarked that although Mr. Devlin was a comparative stranger in Peterborough, his name, as an orator and Home Ruler, had come before him and was familiar to every Irishman and Irishwoman in the community, and that while there might be some adverse to Home Rule in the country, he believed the great majority of the people of Canada were in favour of a measure of justice to Ireland and of the establishment of peace and concourse between the two nationalities.

Mr. Devlin is a clear and forcible speaker and when he warmed up to his subject, interspersed his calmer remarks which were well received and lustily cheered. In opening, the speaker made a neat, complimentary reference to Rev. Father Scollard's able sermon in the cathedral on Sunday evening. The sermon, he understood, had so well covered the ground of the Irish question in the past, that the audience would be fully en rapport with the situation, if he, himself, spoke without further preliminary on the present and the future in connection with "Ireland's reasonable demand" viz. Home Rule.

In reference to Ireland's agitation for Home Rule, Mr. Devlin quoted Mr. Gladstone in saying that it was the grandest struggle that ever stirred the energy of man. Canada had been granted Home Rule and had prospered under its own government. All Canadian Provinces were each self-governed and pratically speaking, under Home Rule.

Ireland had been unmercifully tyrannised over and her early history was so dark that even English historians had no excuse to put forward as a palliation of the injustice which had been meted out to Ireland.

Those opposed to Home Rule, in support of their contentions, stated that would not be fairly represented if Ireland were granted a constitution. In repudiation of this, Mr. Devlin called attention to the fact that the majority of Ireland's greatest leaders had been Protestants. If Ireland ever inflicted the slightest injustice upon the Protestant minority, he would as earnestly advocate the rescinding of the Act, as he was now urging the passage of the Home Rule Bill.

THE PROTESTANTS IN IRELAND

Although the bark upon which all Ireland's hopes rested had sunk, when just within sight of shore, the speaker hoped that Her Majesty would yet live to see the day when she would affix her signature to the constitution which gave Ireland Home Rule.

Others who were opposed to the measure accused those in favour of it of being disloyal, but the very same thing was said of these noble Canadians who worked so long and earnestly before they were successful in procuring Home Rule for Canada. When he thought of these grand men, the speaker gloried in being called a for were they not called so, and was not his cause as just as theirs.

Mr. Devlin paid a complimentary tribute to Sir Edward Blake, who, he thought, in his action in throwing his lot in with the Irish, voiced the sentiments of the majority of Canadian people.

In concluding the speaker prophesied that Home Rule, when the measure was granted, would be as much a blessing for England and for Ireland as the denial of it had been a curse to both nations.

A beautiful bouquet of flowers was presented to Mr. Devlin as he resumed his seat and the following vote of thanks was read by the chairman :

To C. R. Devlin, M.P. :

Moved by E. Warde, seconded by J. Daley, That we, the officers and members of the Emerald Benevolent Association of Peterborough, having invited you Sir, to be with us here this evening at our annual celebration of the anniversary of St. Patrick, and to speak to us on the subject of Home Rule for Ireland, a subject dear to the heart of every Irishman and woman, beg to tender you our grateful thanks for your graciousness and kindly response.

And now having heard your brilliant and patriotic discourse in the cause of Ireland which has given to us a new inspiration, and "a spur to our cur cold blood not," we beg again to repeat the offering, not only of the thanks of the Emerald Benevolent Association, but we believe the thanks of the assembly, and of the patriotic Irishmen and women of Peterborough.

Please then, dear sir, to accept and carry with you to your home this testimony of our gratitude and fond remembrance of your many friends in Peterborough.

Signed on behalf of the Society by

WM. J. DEVLIN,
M. J. HICKEY,
P. DOHERTY,
J. HANRAHAN,
J. FARRELL,
A. SIMONS.

In submitting the vote of thanks by the Association, Mr. Fitzgerald endorsed the sentiments of his discourse and said how absurd it was of the opponents of Home Rule to talk about the separation and dismemberment of the Empire. He said, on the contrary, that that no act of the Imperial Parliament would so strengthen and consolidate the Empire as granting to Ireland the right to manage her own affairs, and that until it was granted, the sons of Ireland, at home and abroad, would not be satisfied, nor should they be satisfied. He ridiculed the idea of a poor, unarmed, peaceable population of 5,000,000 people, though every one had risen in rebellion, standing out against 36,000,000 of the British people, with an organized army and the most powerful navy in the world at their back. The thing was preposterous. But the time, he said, was near at hand when the advancing intelligence of the world would claim for Ireland her just rights and then, and not till then, would be written the long deferred epitaph of the immortal Emmett and the glorious cause for which he and his illustrious namesake, Lord Edward Fitzgerald, died, be vindicated. Mr. Fitzgerald concluded by saying that poor suffering, hopeful, faithful Ireland expected now that her sons everywhere would become united and do their duty, and praying that they would do their share and "God save Ireland."

THE WHEEL.

The Campbellford Bicycle Club met last Wednesday for organization. The meeting was very enthusiastic, and bicycling will likely boom in Campbellford this year. The following officers were elected : C. L. Owen, President ; Dr. Macoun, 1st Vice-President ; J. N. Fant, 2nd Vice-President; Jas. P. Archer, Sec.-Treas.; E. W. Gaudrie, Captain ; Fred J. Smith, 1st Lieutenant ; I. Frederick, 2nd Lieutenant ; Geo. Benor, Bugler ; Racing Board, E. T. Morton, E. Burke, Wm. Carnahan ; Delegate to annual meeting of C. W. A., Fred J. Smith.

HOCKEY.

The Bank of Commerce hockey team won the Bank League championship in Toronto, but on going to Montreal were beaten in that city by the Bank of Montreal team by 12 goals to 2. Benedict, of the B. of M. team, in a moment of inspiration, dashed off the appended poem on the game :

O, blood and thunder, likewise tear and bounds!
The Crystal Rink is filled with horrid sounds—
Yells, execrations rend the murky air.
Like hungry lions fighting in their lair.
The Bank of Montreal and Commerce teams,
Dash at each other's throats with frantic screams.
To think that men with mothers, sisters wives,
Should thus bloodthirsty seek each other's lives!
The combat deepens ; on and on, ye brave,
Who rush to gory glory or the grave!
See now McDougall, strongest of the strong,
Dash forward, soon enveloped in the throng
Of Commerce backs ; he swipes from left to right,
Daring each one to come outside and fight.
But, with a mighty yell, what's this we see!
Swar.by DeBoucherville, for victory,
Plunge through the battle smoke like fiery mole,
And amidst frantic plaudits scores a goal.
The puck is faced, once more do they engage,
Once more the bloody warfare do they wage.
But now the Commerce forwards press the fight.
Oh, Hades! 'twas a miserable sight!
Nowers, like a butcher, chops the ice in vain,
But Heardly forced his way with might and main
Up to the very goal of Montreal.
Et tu Brute! then let Cæsar fall!
Alas! alas! the score stands one to one,
And no one knows who'll yank the frosted bun.
Again the puck is faced. Now B. of M.,
With blood in eye, the commerce rush they stem,
And backwards hurl the forwards on their backs,
Lashing the slippery ice with sounding whacks.
Wallace, DeBoucherville, McDougall, Smith,
Compared to them the gods of Homer's myth
Are pigmies all. Now on the foe they dash,
Cheered by the crowd, their sticks like lightning flash.
Forward, ye brave, and fight with heart and soul!
Horray! the puck flies through the Commerce goal!
Once more the puck is faced, and with a yell,
As if the fiends were all let loose from hell,
Or like some mighty ocean tidal wave,
The B. of M. sweeps on, and naught can save,
The Commerce goal again the puck flies through.
The score stands three to one. The whistle blew
Half-time. The panting warriors seek repose.
Stitch up torn cheek, or staunch the bloody nose,
Talk o'er the fight and what is yet to come,
Adjusting pads to aching knee and thumb.
The whistle blows. Each at the other flies,
Hate and defiance flashing from their eyes.
Wallace now tries another goal to score.
He's body-checked by Nowers, "Foul!" they roar.
But Smith and Strathy, sweeping on the foe,
Dash at the puck. The crowd yells, "Let her go!"
And go she does right through the Commerce goals,
And now the Lord have mercy on their souls!
Goal after goal in quick succession scored ;
The Commerce backs to right and left are floored.
To crown the conquest, Thompson forward scoots,
Our trusty Point, and 'twixt the goal posts shoots.
Once more triumphant shouts of Montreal
Fill Commerce souls with wormwood and with gall.
Their rage and disappointment just to tame,
We now have let them score another game
But to prevent them thinking we were tired,
Twice more the puck through Commerce goals is fired.
The whistle blows, the warriors' rage subdue.
The game is won. The score stands twelve to two.
The Commerce team slinks mournfully away.
The B. of M. are heroes of the day!

Cock-a-doodle-do!

BY BENEDICT OF "OURS."

As the students were anxious for a practise game before playing the Peterboroughs, on Wednesday evening, a team from the REVIEW and EXAMINER offices gave them a game, last night, which served the purpose and was not altogether devoid of good points. The improvement in the play of the printers was the subject of considerable favourable comment. The defense, consisting of Dobbin, Glover and Heap, was a good one and more than once the fast combination work of the student's forward line was brilliantly checked and the tables turned by the steady work of this trio. The forwards, too, of the newspaper team held their end up well and occasionally showed their opponents that they knew a thing or two about the game, although they skated but seldom and practised hockey not at all. The MacWilliams brothers did especially good work as did Hubbs.

The students played their usual fast and effective game, although their combination work did not show up as well as it did in the match with the Bankers on Saturday.

Pousssette did some neat work at point, while Davidson's pretty lifts at cover-point were one of the features of the game. The match was almost entirely devoid of roughness, and was won by the Students by the score of 9 goals to 3. The two teams lined up as appended :

Referee—Walter Phalen.

As the newspaper men made such a creditable showing last night, they are now looking around to ascertain whom they may devour, and have settled on the "Greenies," who are hereby challenged to a friendly game.

The Millbrook team comes up to play the Volts between seven and eight o'clock this evening.

The grocers and clothiers meet on the rink this evening for what will probably be the funniest game of the season. A physician will be posted at both goals with three or four more seated along the sides of the rink. The puck will be faced at 10 o'clock.

The hockey match between the gastronomic caterers and the habilmentary purveyors, otherwise grocers and clothiers, to-night, begins at 9 instead of 10 o'clock, as announced.

Barber's Itch—"A Guaranteed Cure."

Messrs. Douglas Bro. & Co.: '

GENTLEMEN,—I have much pleasure in offering you testimonial on the cure of barber's itch. For over three weeks my face was nothing but a mass of sores, and it was still getting worse. It got so bad that I was ashamed to go out on the street, I went to a very prominent doctor of this town, and he told me it would be a few months before I could get rid of it. On a Sunday, a neighbour came in to see me with about half an ounce of your Douglas' Egyptian Liniment and requested me to try it. I thought I would give it a trial ; I put it on my face that same day, and inside of three days my face was as smooth as ever it was. I might also say that I only bathed my face since, and that I consider I have a permanent cure. I cannot recommend your Liniment too highly for the value it has been to me. This I declare to be be true and correct.

I remain yours,

ST. JOHN'S WOMEN'S AUXILIARY.

Annual Meeting—Reports Presented—Election of Officers.

The annual meeting of the St. John's Branch of the Women's Auxiliary was held at the rectory yesterday.

The attendance was good, and the reports of secretary, treasurer and superintendent of Mission Band showed that good work had been done throughout the past year.

The report of the Parochial Secretary, Mrs. Samuel White, plainly showed that the missionary zeal of the W. A. members is not limited to the Northwest or foreign missions, the poor of our own town and parish being worked for and materially assisted.

After the president had read the annual address the election of officers took place, which resulted in the re-election of the former officers with the exception of Mrs. Jas. Best, 2nd Vice-President, and Miss McCallum, Assistant-Superintendent Mission Band, resigned. Scrutineers of votes reported :

Mrs. G. A. Smith—President.
Mrs. Weller—1st Vice-President.
Mrs. Clarke—2nd Vice-President.
Miss Kirkpatrick—Treasurer.
Miss M. Rubidge—Parochial Treasurer.
Miss Beak—Secretary.
Mrs. S. White—Parochial Secretary.
Mrs. Salisbury—Superintendent Mission Band.
Mrs. R. M. Roy—Assistant Superintendent.

A vote of thanks was moved by the Rector, seconded by Mrs. Vernon to the officers of the Women's Auxiliary for the very efficient manner in which they had discharged their duties.—The rector also appointed Mrs. Vernon and Mrs. Perry in addition to the former Board of Management.

Madill's Emulsion

OF COD LIVER OIL AND HYPOPHOSPHITES OF LIME AND SODA.

It will do wonders for you if your cough is a hard, troublesome and stubborn cough, or if you require building up and fattening, but you must begin in time and take it regularly, as you do your meals.

Madill's Emulsion is put up fresh and sweet every week. It is far more palatable to the stomach than other similar preparations, while a tablespoonful dose contains a higher percentage of Cod liver oil. It is properly emulsified, without the aid of gums or other ever-rich elements, and assimilates much more easily on that account.

Its potency has created not only an active local demand, but a constant request from other cities and towns of Canada.

IT WAS A LUCKY SHOT

IT SAVED A ROCKY MOUNTAIN HUNTER'S LIFE FIVE TIMES.

He Took Good Aim, and When Quiet Was Once More Restored He Counted Up Five Dead Bodies—No Wonder He Is Called a Famous Story Teller.

A group of men were sitting on the hotel porch "swapping" yarns. "Some people do not believe in luck; well, I do, and I'll tell you why," said the traveler as he paused and deliberately put his right leg across the knee of his left and glanced pensively down the street. The group pricked up their ears, for the traveler was a famous story teller, and all rightly judged that his remark was but the prelude to the recital of one of his adventures.

"When I was some 15 years younger than I am now," continued the traveler, "I was exceedingly fond of hunting. One fall my love of this sport led me to take a hunting trip in the Rocky mountains. I was ambitious and wanted to add a grizzly bear skin and a few elk heads to my collection of trophies, and incidentally, if it might be, to let daylight through an Indian or two.

"Well, for two weeks I hunted without getting sight of hair or track of elk, bear or Indian, and the thing was beginning to get monotonous, when one afternoon found me traversing the bottom of a deep canyon. I was alone, my guide having remained in camp on account of a sprained ankle. The bed of the canyon was rent with deep fissures and covered with great rocks, and its sides were seamed and cracked. A few stunted shrubs and trees, of the kind the elk is fond of feeding upon, grew along the sides and bottom of the canyon, and I hoped to find some of the animals here cropping the tender twigs. At last, just as I rounded a high point of rocks, I caught sight of an elk, a noble fellow, standing some 10 rods up the canyon with his face toward me. He was nosing the air suspiciously, and I feared that I would not get a shot at him unless I was quick about it. Accordingly I threw my rifle to my shoulder, and taking hasty aim at the broad, flat forehead fired.

"I was totally unprepared for the startling effect of that shot. Almost at the instant my finger pressed the trigger there came a puff of white smoke from behind a rock some 20 rods up on the opposite side of the canyon, and I saw an Indian leap to his feet only to fall back dead, while at the same moment a piercing scream, seemingly coming from directly over my head, caused me to look quickly up. In the midair, with great paws outstretched and long, sharp nails extended, I beheld a mountain lion apparently about to drop on my head. I bounded to one side. As I did so my blood almost froze with horror, for I had jumped directly over a rattlesnake, which now lay not two feet from me, with his head reared ready to strike.

"Before I could make a movement to defend myself from this new danger down upon the snake fell the body of the lion, crushing out its life. The lion rolled over once or twice and then, to my surprise, lay still. I had not had time to recover from the terror and astonishment caused by these startling incidents when my ears were greeted with a terrific bellowing, and looking up the canyon I saw the elk charging down upon me. I whirled about, intending to seek safety in flight, when, to my utter confusion, not a dozen feet away and directly in the path I must pursue if I continued my flight a monster grizzly bear reared himself up on his hind legs and with wide open mouth rushed for me. I was in an awful situation. I could see no possible way of escaping. On the right hand was the perpendicular wall of the canyon and on the left a deep chasm. Before was the grizzly bear and behind the rushing elk. Death faced me whatever way I turned. I trust I may never feel the horror of that moment again. The grizzly bear sprang forward to seize and crush out my life with his strong arms, and the elk gave a mighty bound, his huge horns lowered ready to transfix my body.

"At that moment my heart seemed to sink into my boots, and I fell flat upon the ground. With a crash like that of the collision of two locomotives, the animals met over my prostrate form. The terrific momentum of the elk bore himself and the bear over my body. For about five seconds there was a tremendous struggle; then both beasts fell, locked together, to the ground, and in a moment more had expired. One of the sharp prongs of the horns of the elk had pierced the heart of the grizzly, and the elk's neck had been broken by the bear in his death struggle. I bounded to my feet, not knowing whether to run or stand still, so sudden, so terrible and so many had been the dangers which had threatened me. But everything was quiet, and all my foes were dead.

"On investigation I found that my rifle ball had struck the elk at the base of the horns, where the bone is thick and hard, and after partially stunning him had glanced diagonally across the canyon and pierced the brain of the Indian, who, concealed behind a rock, was about to fire upon me. The shock of the ball had been sufficient to deflect the aim of the Indian enough to cause him to miss me and to pierce the heart of the mountain lion just at the moment he sprang upon me from a cleft in the rocks above my head. The lion landed upon the rattlesnake and crushed the life out of him before he had had time to strike, and the elk and the bear in their eagerness to kill me had destroyed each other.

"I call that a lucky shot, at least for me, because it saved my life five times and was the death of an Indian, a grizzly bear, an elk, a rattlesnake and a mountain lion."

And the traveler deliberately removed the right leg from the knee of the left and glanced upward with the look of a man who is confident that he is a favorite of Providence.—Chicago Tribune.

HOW FLOUR IS MANUFACTURED.

The Various Processes Through Which Wheat Passes In the Mill.

The noises on the inside of the mill are deafening. One who has never been in a flouring mill of the largest size cannot realize what a peculiar lot of noises are made by the machinery. As soon as the wheat enters the machine from the long spout which brings it down from the upper floor it falls between two rollers of iron—"chilled" iron they call it, and very hard iron it is too. One of these rollers revolves rapidly, the other more slowly, in order that the separation of the coat, or bran, from the kernel may be more easily accomplished. The wheat first passes between rollers separated just enough to allow the coat to be crushed. It is then carried away to the top of the mill again, to a room where the sun vainly tries to shine in through the flour coated windows far above the city's roofs. It next passes over a wire sieve which separates the bran from the kernel proper.

This bran, which contains much of the flour material, again passes down and is ground once more, this process being repeated four times, making five grindings, each one finer than the one preceding it. Each time the fibrous or bran portions are more completely separated, and at last the bran comes out a clear, brownish husk with every particle of flour removed.

The inside part of the kernel has meanwhile been going through an interesting process. After the first grinding or breaking it passes to a big six sided revolving reel covered with a fine wire netting or sieve. Through this reel the finer portions of the kernels pass, coming out in what are called "middlings," a granulated mass which goes back to the rollers for another crushing. This process is repeated through five reels, all but the first being of silk. The last one has 120 threads to the lineal inch. The flour which comes out of the fifth reel, while white in hue, is yet not of the finest or "patent" grade, but is classed as "baker's" or second grade flour.

The middlings above referred to are purified by an interesting process. They are passed over a fine wire sieve, through the upper part of which a strong current of air is passed. This holds in suspense the tiny portions of fibrous matter which may have been in the flour, and at last, after this process of middlings purifying has been very carefully carried out, the flour appears a spotless, snowy white—the "patent" flour, as it is called. In the process of grinding in this gradual and repeated way, the germ of the wheat, a tiny particle about the size of a mustard seed, is separated from the white flour. It is what one might call the life part of the wheat. If it were ground up, it would not leave the patent flour so white and powdery, so it is separated in one of the sievings and passes into the darker or lower grade flour. It contains, however, the best and most nutritious part of the wheat.

The last thing that happens to the pulverised kernel before it is ready for market is the filling of barrels or sacks. Down many stories through a smooth tube comes the white or "patent" flour. Under the tube is the barrel or the sack, as the case may be, and, as it begins to fill, a steel augur just the size of the barrel bores down into the flour, packing it carefully and solidly beneath the broad blades.—St. Nicholas.

For Winter Egg-Laying.

A few quarts of millet seed may be useful to induce the hens to exercise when confined to the house in the winter. Scattered among the leaves and litter on the floor the hens will hunt all day for them and do a great deal of scratching for a little food, not enough to fatten them much.

A Battered Legend.

A hotel in Switzerland bore on one of its walls the time honored inscription, "Hospes, salve!" ("Welcome, stranger!") After rebuilding the legend had to be restored, but the painter, who must have had some experience as a traveler, made a very slight alteration in one of the words, and caused it to read, "Hospes, solve!" ("Pay, stranger!")—San Francisco Argonaut.

A BOON TO ALL SICK ONES

Cures When Other Medicines and Doctors Have Failed

RESTORES THE SICK TO HEALTH.

"I Can Attribute My Restoration to Health Solely to South American Nervine." Says C. J. Curtis, of Windsor.

C. J. CURTIS, WINDSOR, ONT.

When one has climbed a high mountain it is not difficult to mount the ordinary hill. A medicine that will cure when the case is a desperate one, may be safely taken as a good all round medicine in ordinary cases, and it is not alone the very sick who need medicine.

The statement is borne out by a multitude of facts, thousands of testimonials from reputable citizens, that South American Nervine cures, after what are considered the best medicines in the country have failed, and where the skill of the ablest physicians has come to naught.

The acknowledged scientific principle of disease is weakness and disorganization at the nerve centers. These nerve centers are the main spring of the whole system. When the stomach is out of order the certain remedy is to set the nerve centers in right condition again, so with every other trouble. Thus it is that it may be liver complaint, nervousness, indigestion, heartburn, sour stomach, loss of appetite, impoverished blood, consumption of the lungs, catarrh of the stomach, sick or nervous headache, sleeplessness, pains in the kidneys, or other ailments from which a person is suffering South American Nervine will cure, and cure quickly, and best of all cure effectively and lastingly in every such case.

Much as we were disposed to laugh at La Grippe as a trifling complaint when it first made itself known in this country, later developments have proved that it is a serious malady. The after effects are such that very thorough measures need to be taken to ensure perfect restoration to health. South American Nervine has proven wonderfully efficacious in giving back health to the victims of La Grippe. Mr. C. J. Curtis, a wealthy and well known farmer near Windsor, Ont., suffered from a severe attack of this malady, leaving him exceedingly weak and with no appetite. No medicine seemed to do him any good until he was influenced to try South American Nervine and his testimony is this: "After taking one bottle I found very great benefit from it, my appetite improved wonderfully, and I felt my strength returning very fast." Mr. Curtis then purchased five bottles, but after taking only three out of the five, to use his own words: "I am feeling as nearly well to-day as I ever did, and I can attribute my restoration to health and strength solely to South American Nervine."

THE SUICIDE THEORY.

ELLA WHEELER WILCOX COMBATS BOB INGERSOLL'S DICTUM.

The Brilliant Lady Gives Some Very Good Reasons Against Taking One's Own Life —Instances from Real Life That Confirm Her Conclusions.

The press has teemed with discussions on "Suicide" of late. A man well known in the world of intellect and famed for his brilliancy and originality, has published himself to the world at large as an advocate of the rights of a human being to end his life when it becomes a burden to him.

To the religious mind the very discussion seems blasphemous. But even to one not blessed with a sustaining faith, many arguments against self-destruction must present themselves.

However confident the materialist may be in his own mind that annihilation follows this earth life, he has no means of certifying to it. He may have arguments innumerable, but he has no positive proof to sustain his position.

I have encountered many materialists who cried loudly, "I do not believe," but I have yet to meet one bold enough to say, "I know there is no life after death."

Perhaps it might not be too sweeping an assertion to state that every thinker on this subject, whether believer or scoffer, at some time in his life places an interrogation point after his own opinions.

Nevertheless, the materialist must remember that there are thousands of seemingly sane people on earth with intellects quite equal to his own, who are ready to assert their convictions, based on spiritual proofs, that death is but the ante-room to another existence. It is all very well for him to say that he does not believe, because, he has not had these experiences, but he has no more right to declare that his friends have not obtained such proofs, than he has to tell them point-blank that they are liars or heretics.

That it is possible for some people to see without the aid of the human organ of vision, has been conclusively proved by the investigations of the Society of Physical Research. Only last week a member of my family was talking with a lady who claimed to possess this power. "Give me a test," he said. "I am going directly to my office. Tell me what is the first thing I will see on arriving there." After a moment she replied: "You will see a man wearing spectacles." The gentleman proceeded to his office, and, waiting for him at the door, stood a friend who had just arrived on the train—a friend who wore spectacles.

Now, even one instance of this kind seems a very reasonable argument to me in favor of the indestructibility of the spirit. The mind or soul which can see without the aid of the body in this life, will surely continue to see after the body has disappeared in the grave. There are so many scores, yes, thousands, of well-authenticated cases of this kind on record, that the arguments of the materialists seem excessively lame to my thinking.

Therefore so long as the least doubt exists regarding the state which succeeds death, it must strike one that, judged merely by the standard of taste, it is very bad form to go where we have not been invited. Confident as we are that an invitation will come in time, we have no assurance of a welcome if we thrust ourselves in prematurely.

So while the house of Death may seem desirable to many a poor sojourner here, he had better wait for the appointed time to go. We on earth know when we can receive our friends, and we prefer not to be surprised by unannounced guests. We should show as great courtesy to the host in that mystic land as we desire shown us here.

Then again, I dare say there are comparatively few middle-aged people, in every score, who have not at one time or another experienced a momentary suicidal mood. Some great financial disaster, reducing one from affluence to poverty; the loss of a very dear one by death; a blow to the affections, or a long illness, has turned many a strong, naturally cheerful nature into a morbid channel and induced suicidal tendencies.

Those who have passed out of such shadows into the sunlight of happiness, look back with horror at the temptation which assailed them, and thank God that they were saved from such a fate.

How terrible it seems, then, to think that any responsible human being should put forth one argument, or utter one word, which can influence some wretched fellow creature, temporarily assailed by thoughts of self-destruction, to end his life.

I could mention the names of two people well known in the world of philanthropic and noble work, one a man and one a woman, who in different parts of the globe both contemplated suicide in early life—one owing to poverty, one to a disappointment in love. Without doubt half either of them rean an ably written article at that critical hour on the "Rights of the Suicide," it would have served to turn the scale, and two valuable citizens of the world to-day would have been absent from the post of duty.

However much a brilliant man may enjoy writing or saying a "new thing" and startling the conventional world from its calm, it is a serious matter to send out thoughts, no matter how well clothed in words, which shall act as leaden weights upon the reckless and earth-weary souls struggling in the sea of despondency. Far nobler is it to throw out a plank, even if it be worm-eaten and time-worn. It may serve as a life preserver for the unfortunate to cling upon until assistance comes in human or divine form.—Ella Wheeler Wilcox, in the Peterson Magazine.

What John Wanamaker, the Most Heavily Insured man in America, Says:

(INTERVIEW WITH JOHN WANAMAKER.)

It is very generally known that Ex-Postmaster General John Wanamaker, of Philadelphia, carries the largest amount of Life Insurance of any man in the United States. A representative of the press recently interviewed this gentleman while he was travelling with the Presidential party, and this interview will be found, we believe, of general interest:—

"You are said to be the most heavily insured man in the country, Mr. Wanamaker," remarked the press representative.

"How did you come to think of that?" he said with a smile. "You are not looking for any disaster under such excellent management as our friend Boyd is giving this train and party?"

"No," I replied. "A newspaper friend in San Francisco, who had heard the report, wanted me to ask you if it was true, and if so, what your business reasons are for it?"

"Well," he modestly answered, "I have heard it stated that I am the most heavily insured man in the country. I don't know about that. The amount of my policies is $1,550,000, and the value, with the accumulations since the policies were taken out, is about two millions of dollars."

"In what class of companies are your policies?"

"They are all in stock and mutual companies, and none of them in what are known as assessment or instalment companies."

"Are they full life term policies or on what is termed the 'tontine' plan?"

"I have generally taken ten and fifteen payment policies and very few life policies. With about all good companies a contract can now be made whereby there is no risk of losing a policy after two years' premiums have been paid. If the party insured chooses to withdraw he can get a paid-up policy. Indeed, I understand that some companies have forms whereby the insurer can after one year, if desired, withdraw and receive a paid-up policy. There is practically little risk, any more, in insuring in the old companies."

"Perhaps you would be willing to tell me how you came to insure so heavily?"

"I thought the matter out, and convinced myself that it was a good business venture. Besides, it seemed to me that I might, perhaps, give away more money in lifetime if there was a fixed certainty of putting it back into my estate by Life Insurance. I conceive that the best way for a man to carry on benevolence is not to leave it to be done through his will, but to do it in his lifetime, and I felt that Life Insurance would give me more freedom in carrying out some plans I have, and which I would be glad to see completed before I leave this world. If you want to ascertain what the circumstances were in placing the Life Insurance, I must go further in my answers and say that I should not have gone so far in my Life Insurance but for the skill of the agent who tackled me to insure to a greater extent than I would otherwise have done. He was an old friend who had been in mercantile business and who knew how to present Life Insurance without boring me. I feel to-day sincerely grateful to the man who followed me so discreetly with information about companies, and who kept the subject before me until I settled the question."

"When did you begin taking Life Insurance policies?"

"My first policy was taken when I was twenty-one."

"Do you consider it a good thing for a man of small means?"

"I certainly do. Most young men spend more for cigars during the year than the annual cost of a $2,500 policy in a good company. If they must have the cigars they might divide between cigars and Life Insurance and carry at least a $1,000 policy. I think every young man, before he is married, ought to try to get at least a $1,000 policy."

"Among how many companies are your policies divided, and where are they located?"

"About forty companies. Most of them are located in the East. A few are in the West and a few in Canada."

"Do you recommend Life Insurance to others, especially those in whom you feel a personal interest?"

"I can perhaps answer that best by saying that I presented a few years ago a $1,000 policy, paid up for one year, to every insurable head of family in my employ. Many of the prudent men who received them not only kept them but added to them, and I have the satisfaction of knowing that in not a few cases those policies have been the means of saving worthy families from want."

It will doubtless be of interest to our readers to know that John Wanamaker carries a large policy in the Canada Life Insurance Company, thus evincing his confidence in the soundness of Canada's oldest and largest Company. During the last few years quite a number of American capitalists have been convinced of the SUPERIOR MERITS OF THE CANADA LIFE, and have accordingly placed their insurance therein, in preference to any other company.

The Canada Life is now being recognized in the states of Michigan, Minnesota and Ohio as the Company that gives the best results for the least premium.

ELECTIONS IN CORSICA.

The Loss of a Life or Two Apparently Not of Much Account.

The elections for the council general were going on all over the island of Corsica. The canton of Soccia comprises several villages, among others Guagno, noted for its famous mineral springs and also for the turbulence of its people. The elections took place in each village, and on the morrow the presidents of the several bureaus were to meet at Soccia for the formal declaration of the poll. In consequence of certain disorders that had already occurred, the mayor of Soccia issued an edict to the effect that none of the inhabitants of Guagno was to enter the village that day.

The inhabitants of Guagno chose to ignore this order, and 60 of them, all armed, and all angry that their candidate had been defeated, marched upon Soccia, headed by their mayor. Two gendarmes—not armed—had been placed at the entrance of the village and warned the advancing troops that they were to come no farther. The mayor of Guagno cried "Fire!" There was a general volley from his followers, and the two gendarmes fell dead. "They both bore excellent characters. One of them had been 24 years in the service, had been proposed for the military medal and leaves a wife and three children."

Such was the first account in the daily paper of Bastia. It occupied about seven inches of one column. The next day the editor had had time to reflect (or he, too, may possibly have had a significant warning), for in an article three inches long the account was somewhat qualified, and there was this important emendation, "It seems we were not correct in stating that it was the mayor of Guagno who gave the order to fire upon the gendarmes."

The third day there were just two lines, "In consequence of the unfortunate affair at Soccia it is probable that the mayor of Guagno will send in his resignation." That was all. I took in the newspaper regularly for a week, for I was curious to see how the affair would end, but there was nothing more—apparently no inquiry, no prosecution of the offenders.—Contemporary Review.

The Tower of Silence.

The Parsees will not burn or bury their dead, because they consider a dead body impure, and they will not suffer themselves to defile any of the elements. They therefore expose their corpses to vultures. One sees nothing but the quiet, white robed procession (white is mourning among the Parsees) following the bier to the Tower of Silence. At the entrance they look their last on the dead, and the corpse bearers—a caste of such—carry it within the precincts and lay it down, to be finally disposed of by the vultures which crowd the tower.

Meanwhile, and for three days after, the priests say constant prayers for the departed, for his soul is supposed not to leave the world till the fourth day after death. On the fourth day there is the Uthanna ceremony, when large sums of money are given away in memory of the departed. The liturgy in use is a series of funeral sermons by Zoroaster.

Of superstitions the Parsees have had more than they retain. Connected with burial is the popular conception as to the efficacy of a dog's gaze after death. Dogs are sacred and supposed to guide the souls of the dead to heaven and to ward off evil spirits; hence it is customary to lead a dog into the chamber of death, that he may look at the corpse before it is carried to the tower.—Nineteenth Century.

Very Desirable.

Ada—How does this sound to put in the paper? "A lady wants to sell her favorite horse to kindly gentleman, young, sound and not afraid."

Kitty—Why, that's exactly the kind of a man I'd like to marry!

An Unusual Experience.

William Cox, of Monticello, Ky., ate his New Year's dinner at a table around which sat three of his living wives, two of whom he had divorced.

"Several years ago, I caught a severe cold, attended with a terrible cough that allowed me no rest, either day or night. The doctors, after working over me to the best of their ability, pronounced my case hopeless, and said they could do no more for me. A friend, learning of my trouble, sent me a bottle of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral, which I began to take, and very soon I was greatly relieved. DR BELL ON PHYSICAL EXERCISE

Third Lecture in the Course on Popular Hygiene at St. Luke's.

An excellent lecture on the above subject was given by Dr. Bell last night in St. Luke's school house. The lecturer said that when the amazing complexity of the human body is considered and the small care we take of it, it is wonderful that we are so healthy as we are. The body is composed of a framework of bones, some of which enclose the cavity in which are situated the vital organs; to the bone muscles of various kinds are attached, to which run the blood vessels bearing to the muscles the food that has been taken and digested. Now the muscular system can only be preserved by judicious exercise. Food builds up the muscles, but exercise of the muscles reacts upon the digestive system, for the activity of the internal organs is stimulated by exercise. It is important to know that dyspepsia and other distressing maladies are produced not only by lack of exercise, but also by injudicious exercise.

Of exercises, the lecture characterized walking as one of the best. Not the mere promenading of the streets, but a brisk walk in the country. The clothing should be loose so as to give free play to the muscles, and in the strongest terms high-heeled boots, with the heels in the wrong place, were denounced. Walking boots should have broad flat heels, otherwise the strain fell upon organs of the body that could ill endure it.

Riding and boating were strongly recommended. In regard to bicycling the doctor condemned racing, which involved a stooping position injurious to the lungs, and too hard riding which damaged the heart. It was too early to speak positively but the medical journals were recording instances of weakened heart arising from immoderate riding. With caution in these respects bicycling was recommended. Military drill, and in connection therewith the formation of boys' brigades by the churches, was warmly advocated.

Of games, cricket was highly eulogized as the best and most gentlemanly game. The need of a gymnasium in Peterborough was referred to.

In regard to time and circumstance, exercise should never be violent. In commencing gymnastic exercises great care should be taken to slowly increase the strain put upon the muscles.

(2) Exercise should not be taken either directly before or directly after eating. The need of this entailed by a too short dinner hour for workingmen, clerks and others was condemned. More and better work would be done if a longer time was given for mid-day rest.

(3) Caution should be exercised by parents in the case of children approaching maturity.

(4) Draughts and too rapid cooling when heated are to be avoided.

The lecturer concluded with some valuable remarks on rest. Sleep on a hard bed with light clothing, and in a cool room, was recommended.

At the conclusion a hearty vote of thanks was tendered the lecturer, moved by Rev. C. W. Hedley and seconded by Councillor Dawson.

The next and last lecture of the course will be given by Dr. Clark next Monday, on "Fresh Air and Pure Blood."

NOT ONE DAY

FREE FROM HEADACHE.

Three Years of Suffering, Headache Every Day, and no Relief from Doctors or Medicine until B. B. B. made a Complete Cure.

DEAR SIRS,—I had severe headache for the past three years, and was not free from it a single day. I used doctors' medicines and all others I could think of, but it did me no good. My cousin said I must try B. B. B. because it is the best medicine ever made, and I took three bottles of it, with the result that it has completely cured me. I think Burdock Blood Bitters, both for headaches and as a blood purifier, is the best in the world, and am glad to recommend it to all my friends.

BRITAIN'S ULTIMATUM

The Nicaraguan Government Called Upon to Pay 15,000 Pounds

WITHIN SEVEN SHORT WEEKS

For the Expulsion of the British Consular Agent at Bluefields Last Year—A Commission to Fix the Damages Sustained by British Subjects at the Same Time.

Managua, Nicaragua, March 19.—The British Government, through its Minister here, has submitted an ultimatum to Nicaragua. It demands a cash indemnity of £15,000 as smart money to pay for the expulsion of Mr. Hatch, the British consular agent at Bluefields, during the troubles there last year and also the appointment of a commission to adjudicate the damages sustained by the persons and property of British subjects who were expelled from the Mosquito reservation about the same time. By the terms of the ultimatum Great Britain is to name one of the commissioners and Nicaragua the other and these two are to choose a third who shall not be a citizen of the United States. It was also made known that a British warship is now on her way to Nicaragua to enforce these demands, which must be complied with within seven weeks from the 26th of February last, the date of the ultimatum.

CATHOLICS AND PYTHIANISM.

Mgr. Satolli Temporarily Suspends the Edict Against Membership.

Fall River, Mass., March 19.—At the instance of H. A. Dabugue and others of this city and Judge Choquette of Providence, Mgr. Satolli has issued a decree temporarily suspending the edict of Pope Leo relating to Catholic membership in the Knights of Pythias. These gentlemen returned yesterday from a visit to Washington, whither they had been sent by Lafayette lodge of this city to ask a hearing on the matter. They represented that one lodge of Pythians in this city consisted of 260 French Canadians and one lodge in Providence included 160. They said so far as they were able to observe they could see no conflict between Pythianism and Catholic doctrines and requested a suspension of the edict. His Grace seemed much surprised at the facts presented and announced that he would suspend the edict temporarily and would issue a formal decree to that effect in a few days. He promised to bring the matter to the attention of the Vatican at the earliest possible moment but would hold out no hope that his action would be endorsed as a permanent policy to be followed.

THE NIAGARA AERIAL RAILWAY.

The Ottawa Government Satisfied With the Project.

Niagara Falls, N.Y., March 19.—Attorney Pound, of Lockport, for the proposed aerial railway over the Niagara river, is satisfied that the New York state authorities will not permit a landing to be made in the park reservation and the company has acquired rights just below the reservation limits. Mr. Pound has received word from the State Department at Ottawa that the Canadian Government was satisfied with the project but required the usual rights of customs supervision. The company has agreed to this.

Perished in a Snow Storm.

Quebec, March 19. — Sergeant-Major Smith, Superintendent of Militia Stores at Quebec, has been informed that his two sons, David and Robert, aged respectively 30 and 28 years, had perished in a snow storm on the prairies while on a pleasure excursion from Calgary, N.W.T., where they were employed.

FINANCE AND COMMERCE

TORONTO, March 19, 1895.

There is not much wheat offering on the local market, and of the other grains the same is true. Wheat, red, 69c; wheat, white, 69c; wheat, Manitoba, 83½c; buckwheat, 39c; barley, No. 1, 50 to 51c; barley, No. 2, 46 to 47c; barley, feed, 44 to 45c; oats, 35 to 36c; peas, 60c; rye, 45c.

The local offerings of dressed hogs are somewhat small, prices are $5.75 to $5.85.

Newly laid eggs are scarce and prices are firmer at 13c a dozen.

There are fair offerings of dairy produce. Butter can be had in almost any quantity, but the price of the good article is not yet materially affected by the fact that before very long the cattle will be on the pasture. Butter, tub, 13 to 14c; rolls, 15 to 17c; creamery, tub, 20 to 21c; creamery, rolls, 21 to 23c.

Despatches from New York are to the effect that on all sides general business is undoubtedly improved. There is not likely to be a boom, but it is felt that there will be in the very near future an advance in all the markets and an improved business.

Alsike, fair, $4.00 to $5.00; alsike, good, $5.25; red clover, $5.20 to $5.50; timothy, $1.50 to $2.00.

There was a fair demand for Canada barley in Buffalo yesterday but the advance shut it off. No. 1 Canada was quoted at 66 to 67c and No. 2 at 64 to 65c. The stock in store exceeds that of last year by 177,128, but the amount of free barley is no greater and of choice grades hardly any is offered. This fact and the decrease in stocks seems to warrant the action of the holders of Canada barley in sharply advancing prices.

French cables showed a declining market, while in Liverpool and Antwerp a firm market was reported.

C. P. R. stock in New York was quoted yesterday at 38¾, and in London at 87⅛.

District Attorney Fellows says He Will Go to the Court of Appeals.

New York, March 19.—District Attorney Fellows says that he has not yet read the decision of the General Term reversing the judgment convicting Erastus Wiman of forgery in the second degree, but added that he was quite certain the case would go to the Court of Appeals. He explained: "Where the judges of the General Term can't agree it would be idle for one to try a case in the lower courts. It is a matter that should be decided by the Court of Appeals."

BOWELL AND WALLACE

Strained Relations Exist Between the Two Over Manitoba Schools.

REPATRIATION SCHEMES FAIL

The Present Government Without an Immigration Policy—The N.P. Has Had the Effect of Decreasing the Number of Farmers Over Seventeen Per Cent.

Ottawa, March 19.—Strained relations exist between Premier Bowell and Controller Wallace over the Manitoba School question, if report speaks truly. Mr. Wallace has been pledging his reputation and his word that no interference shall take place with Manitoba's educational system. Now he is threatened with a remedial order passed by the Administration of which he is a junior member, and it is said that he has made up his mind to publicly condemn any such order if it be passed, or rather when it is passed, because up to within the last few days it was well understood that an order of some kind would be passed. Mr. Bowell was seen holding an excited conversation with Mr. Wallace the other day, and it was very plain that the Premier was angry, and was upbraiding Mr. Wallace. One of the troubles is that Mr. Wallace will not be a follower of Mr. Bowell. He feels that as Grand Master of the Orangemen he should be the Conservative leader of Ontario. It is rumored to-day, however, that the Quebec Ministers, Messrs. Ouimet, Angers and Caron, find it harder to get this remedial order in the shape they want it since the argument was heard on the appeal two weeks ago. A mild suggestion to Manitoba or a weak order on the Legislature to do something for the minority will not be accepted by the Quebec Ministers or anything that is not acceptable to the bishops, and anything stronger, implying a policy of interference with Manitoba and the upsetting of her educational system, is against the wishes of four out of five of the Ontario Ministers.

Very Rich in Predictions.

If predictions could make the country prosperous, Canadians would be the happiest people under the sun, but it is alas! so easy to predict great things, but hard to accomplish them. For four or five years the immigration branches of the Government and their officers have been predicting an immense flow of immigrants from the United States into Canada, but somehow or other the flow has never set in, although there must of course be some small result from the 25 or 30 agents which the Department has in the United States. Mr. McInnes, an agent in Michigan, who is now here, states in an interview that during the coming season the prospects are good for a large influx from the United States. Mr. McInnes said last year, and the year before, and the late Mr. Webster spent his last breath in predicting a large volume of immigration and Capt. Holmes, another of these United States agents, has an interview with himself published every now and again, in which he anticipates for the immediate future great things in this direction. When the returns are examined it is seen that huge sums of money have been spent on the immigration propaganda in the United States, the excuse being to bring back Canadians to their own country. How much better would it be to adopt a policy that would keep Canadians in their own country instead of driving them out and then spending money trying to get them back. Conservative members of Parliament are on record in Parliament as saying that they considered this expenditure in the United States as money wasted, and recommended the Government to apply its energies in the Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland, which are emigrating countries. The United States is not an emigrating country, but on the contrary receive hundreds of thousands of immigrants every year. The present Government has never had the capacity to find an immigration policy, and the result is seen in the sparse population of the Northwest.

Fewer Farmers in Canada.

That the policy of high taxation, coupled with the general extravagant and corrupt administration of the Government, is responsible for the enormous exodus of the Canadian people to the United States, is pretty well proved, but one particular instance might be given in this connection. Between 1871 and 1891, nearly all of which was under a tariff for revenue, the number of farmers in Ontario, Quebec, Nova Scotia and New Brunswick increased from 476,293 to 628,361, about 30 per cent., but during the National Policy period, 1881 to 1891, the number of farmers decreased to 583,054, a loss of 36,277 farmers. Yet the National Policy was to protect the farmer as well as the manufacturer, and the artizan and the fisherman and the miner and everybody else, and make them all rich. Taking Nova Scotia, New Brunswick and Prince Edward Island alone the number of farmers was less by 20,000 in 1891 than in 1881. If 17 years of Tory policy in an agricultural country reduces the number of people engaged in agriculture, is it not about time that the people took matters into their own hands and placed in power a Government whose policy would be not to protect a few men to an excessive extent, and allow the magnificent resources of Canada to be developed, and developed in such a way that markets would be found for the goods at remunerative prices, because after all it is not the selling of a large bulk that is of any advantage to a man but the getting of a profit on what is sold. To sell a thousand dollars' worth of goods at a profit of 10 per cent. is much better than selling a million dollars' worth with no profit, or with an actual loss.

The Sinking Ship.

It's a very old proverb that "rats desert a sinking ship," and the number of Government supporters who are deserting their party and looking for soft jobs for themselves looks ominous for the Government. Mr. George Taylor, the chief Conservative whip in the House of Commons, is said to want to be Superintendent of the Rideau Canal; R. S. White, M.P., is to be Collector of Customs in Montreal; J. Metcalfe, M.P. for Kingston, wants the Wardenship of the Kingston Penitentiary; A. W. Ross, of Lisgar, the Governorship of Manitoba; A. McKay, M.P., the Hamilton Collectorship, and half a dozen other members want to be made Senators. They smell a cyclone coming.

Liberal Rally at Milton.

Milton, March 20.—The Halton Reform Association are to hold their convention here to-morrow for the purpose of nominating a candidate to contest the county in the coming Dominion elections. Mr. John Waldie, ex-M.P., and a number of other prominent Liberals are expected to be present, also a grand rally of the Liberal party.

GREAT BRITAIN AND NICARAGUA.

The Belief is General That the Trouble Will be Amicably Settled.

London, March 20.—Lord Kimberley, Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs, personally handed to the Nicaraguan Minister at the Foreign Office the ultimatum of the British Government demanding reparation for the expulsion from Bluefields of Mr. Hatch, the British Consular agent. A copy of the document was cabled to the British Minister resident in Nicaragua. Lord Kimberley emphatically demands adequate satisfaction from Nicaragua. In official circles the belief is general that the matter will be amicably settled and that no demonstration by a British squadron will be necessary to enforce the demands of Great Britain.

The General and the Journalist.

Madrid, March 20.—General Martines De Campos, Captain-General of Madrid, summoned the officers of the Madrid garrison and said to them: "If there is any further rioting on the part of the officers of this garrison, they will have to meet me as an opponent." Later he received a deputation of journalists, to whom he said: "If you make any further attacks upon the army which incite a renewal of the recent rioting, you will undoubtedly be shot."

Mr. Campbell-Bannerman Withdraws.

London, March 20.—After the meeting of the Cabinet yesterday it was announced that Mr. Campbell-Bannerman had withdrawn his candidacy for the Speakership.

Canada's First Annual Horse Show.

Toronto, March 20.—The success of the horse show which is to be held in the new armory in this city on April 18, 19 and 20 is assured. The citizens have subscribed liberally towards it, some $3,000 having been donated by business men and public spirited gentlemen. The armory affords the largest open space within four walls in the Dominion, and the ring will be 210 by 100 feet. Several distinguished sportsmen from New York will attend, some of whom will act as judges. Mr. Joseph H. Allan, an old British army man, will act as ring master.

Agriculture and Arts Association Gone.

Toronto, March 20.—In the Legislature yesterday Hon. Mr. Dryden moved the first reading of a bill which if passed will wipe out the Agricultural and Arts Association and will provide that the work of the association in connection with registration of animals shall be continued as at present. The association is to hold their property until January 1, 1896, when it will revert to the Government. Secretary Wade will be continued in his position. The bill passed the first reading.

Dr. Baxter Defeats Patron Senn.

Cayuga, March 20.—The following are the returns for Haldimand election, majorities only being given in each case. For Dr. Baxter—Cayuga, 134; Township of North Cayuga, 96; Township of Oneida, 8; Township of Rainham, 98; Township of Walpole, 78; total, 408. For John Senn — Caledonia, 2; Hagersville, 18; Township of Dunn, 92; Township of Seneca, 10; Township of South Cayuga, 4: total, 126. Majority for Dr. Baxter, 282.

Montreal's Big Failure.

Montreal, March 20 — Meredith & O'Brien, stock brokers, have filed their statement of liabilities in court. The total shown is $75,000. Among the creditors are: Quebec Bank $40,000; N. M. Price, Quebec, $975; Pellatt & Pellatt, Toronto, $300. A meeting of creditors has been called for the 26th inst.

Dominion and Provincial Arbitration.

Ottawa, March 20.—The Dominion and Provincial accounts arbitration will meet again in Quebec on the 25th inst. Judge Casault, who is one of the arbitrators representing Quebec, and who has been indisposed recently, has sufficiently recovered to be present.

Montreal Wants a Military School.

Montreal, March 20.—A deputation of Montreal military men waited on the Minister of Militia last night and asked to have the military school at St. Johns removed to Montreal. The Minister promised to press the matter on the attention of the Government.

WOULD SEND HIM HOME

The Infant Republic's Representative at Washington in Trouble.

HIS RECALL WAS CONSIDERED

State Department Officials are Reticent as to the Probable Causes of the Unpleasantness, but it is Believed Some Remarks of the Minister Have Not Been Proper.

Washington, March 20. — Intimations have been made in generally well-informed circles for some days past to the effect that Mr. Thurston, the Hawaiian Minister, has not been altogether persona grata to the authorities in Washington, but so guarded have these suggestions been, and so reticent are all prominent officials who have been spoken to on the subject, that no basis for a public assertion of them could be obtained from any proper authority. That the relations between the representative of Hawaii and the Secretary of State have stamped somewhat strained of late appeared very evident to those who have given close attention to that phase of the situation. Various circumstances appear to have concentrated to an extent which justifies the almost positive assertion that representations have been made to the Hawaiian Government that friendly relations between it and the United States would be better served by the recall of Mr. Thurston than otherwise. The date of such suggestions is not definitely known but it may be mentioned that the matter was considered by the President and Mr. Gresham as well as brought up in full Cabinet before the adjournment of Congress, when the particular reasons were considered why objection is held to the continuance here of the present Minister from the infant republic. Positive public official utterances on the matter of this Government's request for Mr. Thurston's recall is not forthcoming at this moment; but enough is known to justify the assertion that such request has been made, and the impression is prevalent that a correspondence between the department and the Minister actuated the demand and hastens a request for its early compliance. While consistent with the reticence maintained at the State Department in this matter no public reference to the causes of the unpleasant character of the relations between Government officials and the Minister can be evolved, there are some that express the opinion that several very frank and emphatic remarks that have from time to time been dropped by the Hawaiian Minister have not been regarded as strictly within the line of a dignified propriety.

Minister Thurston, when asked for information regarding the story in circulation, said: "I am sorry that I cannot oblige you, but I have nothing to say directly or indirectly."

Secretary Gresham refused positively to discuss the matter at all. The only reply he would make to questions on the subject was that he had nothing whatever to say.

SANK WITH ALL ON BOARD.

The Spanish Warship Reina Regente Foundered Near Gibraltar Straits.

Cadiz, March 20.—The Spanish cruiser Alfonso XII., which has been cruising in the Mediterranean in search of the missing warship Reina Regente, has arrived here. She found the Reina Regente at Bajo Acetunos, near Coull, near the straits of Gibraltar, where she had sunk. Only about 18 inches of her masts were visible above the surface of the water. The news brought by the Alfonso XII. has created a profound feeling of sorrow here.

From the best information obtainable here it is regarded as probable that all on board were lost. Not a single survivor has been reported as having arrived at any port, nor has a single body been found that could be identified as that at one of the officers or crew of the lost ship.

The Alfonso XII. is taking divers and diving appliances for the purpose of removing the bodies from the sunken ship and examining the condition of the vessel, with a view of ascertaining the possibilities of raising her. Until something further is heard from the Alfonso XII. nothing can be definitely known, but all hands were undoubtedly lost.

PROVINCE OF NEWFOUNDLAND.

The Approaching Conference Will Consider Its Entry Into the Dominion.

London, March 20.—In the House of Commons yesterday afternoon Mr. Sydney Buxton, Parliamentary Secretary to the Colonial Office, in answer to Sir George Baden-Powell, said he understood that the approaching conference at Ottawa between the members of the Dominion Government and Sir William Whiteway, Premier, with other representatives of the Island of Newfoundland, would fully consider the proposal for the entry of the island into the Canadian confederation as a province.

Mr. Buxton further said that a reply had been received from Newfoundland in answer to the Imperial Government's offer to relieve the prevailing distress on the island out of the public funds, and Sir Herbert Murray would shortly start for Newfoundland as Her Majesty's commissioner to carry out that object.

Still Undecided.

Ottawa, March 20.—After the adjournment of the Cabinet meeting yesterday Sir Mackenzie Bowell informed the reporters that there was no news to be given out.

A Female Constable.

London, Ont., March 20.—The sheriff of Middlesex will appoint a female constable to commence duty at the assize court which opens next week.

Cheaper Thread.

Glasgow, March 20.—J. & P. Coats & Co., the Scotch and American thread manufacturers, have reduced the prices of their products by twenty per cent.

SESSION OR NO SESSION.

The late Chieftain was the author of the "double shuffle," but that statesman-like achievement is dwarfed by the single shuffle—the persistent political pirouette now being performed by his present successor and his colleagues. They have been dancing about for months in a brisk endeavour to avoid impalement on the sharp horns of the dilemma represented by the crucial question, session or dissolution? What a shameful position for the Government of a great country like Canada. Here we are two months or more after a session of Parliament is due, and we have no reliable assurance that the question of either dissolution or session has been considered. This dawdling and delay, this flagrant disregard of the business interests of the country, which are suffering under the inexplicable circumstances, only adds to the burden of condemnation on the score of their past records that handicaps them in the race for the political goal. The government does not own the country but the country—and it is in no way proud of the possession—owns the government. What right, then, has the government, in order to snatch a political advantage, to play fast and loose with the interests of the people? There should have been a session of parliament to permit of the people being in a position to pronounce intelligently upon the past record of the present government. If another session is not held the popular verdict will only be based upon the record as disclosed by past sessions. Nearly a year has elapsed since parliament met, and the government record should be considered in the national committee of the whole, parliament. The country is entitled to thorough investigation into the details of the circumstances of extravagent expenditure that has resulted in a deficit by some six millions. There are scores of darkest spots upon which the search-light of parliamentary investigation should be thrown. Plainly the Cabinet Ministers are afraid of a session before the election and as plainly they are afraid of an election without a session.

THE HEATHER ABLAZE.

Correspondence from the far west would indicate that the tour of Hon. Wilfred Laurier through the Northwest and British Columbia last fall will bear practical fruit. Letters received from these quarters show that Liberals in Manitoba, the territories and the Pacific province are politically very much alive. Strong candidates are being placed in the field, excellent organization effected, and vigorous preparations being made for a vigorous prosecution of the coming election campaign. The Manitoba and the West have been in the past largely regarded as a Conservative preserve, but that condition of affairs is over. There is a great political awakening and the people are beginning to see that, while Government favours may be of a certain pecuniary advantage, honest administration and a wise fical system that will serve to encourage and stimulate the people in the direction of hopeful self help, are better than corrupt coddling and Government pap. All along the line, from the Pacific to the Atlantic, the Liberal cause has aroused the enthusiasm of its adherents. While the Government is shrinking and shaking—letting "I dare not wait upon I would, like the poor cat i' the adage," the Liberals are drawing up their forces in battle array, ready for the contest whenever it may come, and with a hopeful presage of victory.

MR. NICHOLAS FLOOD DAVIN, the bard of the Blizzard Belt, is to be opposed vigorously in his aspirations for the representation of Assiniboia West, in the House of Commons. The probabilities are hat history—in the matter of the election in 1878 in Haldimand, a riding which would have none of Nicholas—may be repeated on the classic shores of Pile o'Bones Creek.

THE Privy Council was in session, says, the Mail and Empire, all day Monday, in Ottawa, when the school question was debated, "but apparently no decision was arrived at." Nobody expected a decision. The Government has been trying three months to decide whether to hold a session of parliament or dissolve the house and they are as far off of either as ever.

PERMISSION has been granted by the Governor-General to the Chippewa Indians to sue the Dominion Government for the recovery of 2,468 acres of land in Caradoc township, and a sum of money alleged to have been wrongfully taken from them. The whole case involves more than $100,000.

NORTH SIMCOE is booming with Conservatism—the Conservative Association is blessed with two presidents—one Mr. Telfer, representing the hard shells, and the other, Mr. Pepler, representing the McCarthy element of the electorate.

IF the Dominion Government does not soon "screw its courage to the sticking point" in the matter of bringing on the elections, some of the candidates nominated long ago will perish of old age.

HON WILFRED LAURIER'S illness is not serious, and he hopes to be able to start upon his Ontario tour in a short time.

THE PRESS COMMISSION.

A Summary of the Conclusions Arrived at.

The report of the commissioner appointed to inquire into the matter of the payment of officials by fees and of the advisability of electing certain officials has been presented. A summary of the conclusions at which the commission arrived is printed below:—

"No change should be made in appointing the officers by handing over the choice to local authorities.

"The fee system should be continued as to all administrative officers, i.e., Registrars of Deeds, clerks and Registrars of Courts, Sheriffs and Bailiffs.

"Salaries should be paid to all judicial or quasi-judicial officers, e.g., Local Masters, County Attorneys, and (for convenience) Clerks of the Peace (as a conjoint office).

"The expenses connected with clerical and other assistance in the offices should be systematized so that uniformity and no diversity may characterize the service.

"A limit should be placed upon the receipts of fee-paid officers, to be fixed by the Legislature, having regard to the just mean between scanty and excessive compensation.

"These results are responsive to all the matters with which the commissioners are directly charged; incidental suggestions have been made on germane or collateral subjects in the course of the report, which are not here specifically enumerated."

The evidence and grounds upon which these findings have been made make a bulky volume. The commissioners' report is most comprehensive in its scope. The matters referred to it have been dealt with exhaustively in all their relations and aspects. The result of their work will have a historical and even national value long after its immediate purpose is accomplished. It may be doubted whether a more thorough or capable investigation was ever made by a commission into the subjects consigned to it.

KENNE.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

Some people are very expert to detect and report the faults and weakness of others but overlook their own shortcomings. To such onesided persons we say, search your own hearts and banish every evil thought and desire before you judge or condemn others. God only knows the motive of our hearts, and we are told in the Good Book to judge not others lest we be judged ourselves.

The Y.P.S.C.E., in connection with the Presbyterian church of this place, hold meetings in the basement of the church every Monday night. All who are interested in endeavour work are cordially invited to attend the meetings and assist the young people in this good work.

The Presbyterian Sunday school never was in a more prosperous condition than it is at present. The attendance of both teachers and scholars is good, and a great interest in the lessons is manifested by all in connection with the school. Mr. James McNeil, the superintendent, is to be complimented on the honour of holding the office for a longer term than any other person in the county. Both old and young are invited to attend the school and hear the Word expounded by the teachers and superintendent.

On Wednesday last, the 13th inst, at 4 o'clock p.m., Mr. A. Wood and Miss A. Richardson were made man and wife by Rev. Mr. Andrews at the residence of the bride's father. On the same evening at 7 o'clock Mr. Duncan Mather and Miss A. Grey were united in the bonds of matrimony by Rev. Mr. Andrews at the residence of Mr. Jas. Gray, father of the bride. We extend our congratulations to the newly-married couples and trust that their married lives will be a happy, prosperous and long one.

An early spring is predicted and farmers are getting their farm implements repaired for action as soon as the ground is fit to work.

A great many potatoes in this neighbourhood have been frozen during the cold weather of this winter.

Some of our citizens are excited over the coming election. Mr. Lang's prospects of success are excellent.

FREE FROM HEADACHE.

Three Years of Suffering, Headache Every Day, and no Relief from Doctors or Medicine until B. B. B. made a Complete Cure.

DEAR SIRS,—I had severe headache for the past three years, and was not free from it a single day. I used doctors' medicines and all others I could think of, but it did me no good. My cousin said I must try B. B. B. because it is the best medicine ever made, and I took three bottles of it, with the result that it has completely cured me. I think Burdock Blood Bitters, both for headaches and as a blood purifier, is the best in the world, and am glad to recommend it to all my friends.

Two Boys Shot by a Negro.

New Orleans, March 19.—A negro shot two brothers named Pattingim yesterday, killing one and fatally wounding the other. In a spirit of fun Frank Pattingim threw down a few chips or splinters on the negro's head from the second storey of a factory where he was employed. The negro looked up and applied a vile epithet to the boys and made threats. The boys then went down stairs to punish him for his insolence. When they reached the sidewalk the negro drew a revolver and began firing, hitting Frank in the left breast, killing him almost instantly and shooting Harry in the breast near the right arm. The negro was arrested.

The C. P. R. Will Compete.

Detroit, March 19.—It is reported here that the Northern Steamship Company and its ally, the Great Northern railroad, are not to have the Detroit and Michigan field to themselves this year, as the Canadian Pacific is to be a competitor. It is stated that the plans are practically completed by which the Canadian Pacific's fine steamer Manitoba, which was built for the road's Lake Superior traffic before the line was built north of that lake, will be a Detroit visitor this summer, and it is believed the Canadian Pacific will put a fleet of boats on the Mackinac route eventually.

Truly Astonishing.

Miss Annette N. Moen, Fountain, Minn., says: "Ayer's Cherry Pectoral has had a wonderful effect in curing my brother's children of a severe and dangerous cold. It was truly astonishing how speedily they found relief after taking this preparation."

Y.P.S.C.E. NOTES.

THE PLEDGE.

"Dear Endeavourer,—Will you not take your pledge, sit down in some quiet corner and read over what you have promised to do. Then prayerfully resolve that you will keep this pledge better during coming months than ever before; and remember, please, that these promises have been made to your Master, even Christ the Lord, and not to your friends of the Look-out Committee."

The above was sent to the members of a society in the United States, but we think it well worthy of a place in our column, as this question of the pledge, its requirements and its fulfilment is one of vital importance to the welfare of your society as well as to your own spiritual state. We have many critics ready to find fault. The best answer we can give is by faithfully witnessing for the pledge in our daily lives, which is after all a better way of preaching Christ than any other.

Rev. Dr. Clark, in answering some objections to the pledge, admits that all the members may not fully keep the pledge, but he states, after carefully studying the subject, that the great majority of Endeavourers, "trusting in the Lord Jesus Christ for strength," do try to fulfill all the conditions of the pledge. He closes the article with a few words to Endeavourers as follows: "Still there is ground for improvement. We can raise our standard higher, and with God's blessing we will do it. Let every endeavourer be ashamed to offer his own conscience a paltry excuse. Let him be ashamed to place his business, or his school duties, or his pleasure, before his more strictly religious duties. Let him blush with contrition of heart over every weak excuse in which he indulges. There is no occasion for framing new excuses; the world, the flesh and the devil are all busy at this task. The only Endeavour standard is what "Christ would have me do." Let us never lower this, but ever cultivate a more heroic, courageous, conscientious type of Christianity, for this is what the world needs most to-day."

REPORTS.

The president of every society in the county and town should get the last copy of the Endeavour Herald, and show to the secretary and to every convenor of a committee, an article therein entitled as above, written by Miss M. Pennington, of Toronto. There are some good pointers in it, but the article is too long for this column.

CORRESPONDING SECRETARIES.

We received a letter a few days ago from the Provincial Secretary, asking for information from various societies in our county. If the corresponding secretaries, of these societies, knew their duties or were not too lazy to perform them, there would have been no need to ask for information. A secretary as soon as appointed should learn the duties of the office and honestly and punctually perform them. The carelessness of corresponding secretaries must be a source of continual annoyance to the Provincial Secretary. A corresponding secretary should be continued in office from term to term, and if there is a change made the new secretary should at once notify the county, provincial and international secretaries, and always answer the above officials as promptly as possible.

When new societies are formed, the secretary should at once inform the county secretary and should notify the provincial and international secretaries.

It seems to us that the coming county convention, on Easter Monday, could profitably give half an hour to the discussion of this branch of the work, combining with it, hints on how the secretaries could help the editor in making this column more newsy.

If you send two or more delegates, be sure and send your new president and corresponding secretary.

IS IT ANYTHING TO YOU ENDEAVOURERS

That hundreds of young people right in our own county are perishing? That hundreds of mothers are wearing their lives out fretting about their boys? That hundreds of young wives are living a life of misery due to the infidelity of husbands? That hundreds of children are brought into this world yearly to live lives of untold agony and die a death that knows no peace? All due to the social evils of the day, the pool room, the bar, then a life of everlasting darkness, not only affecting their own individuality, but dragging dear ones down with them. Endeavourers, will these, our brothers, come before the judgment seat and in the words of the Psalmist say: "No man cared for my soul?" Do you fully feel your responsibility? Then up and be doing. "The harvest is ripe, but the reapers are few." You say, what can we do? We feel utterly powerless to cope with the evils of the day. Just so, and as long as you look upon it in this light so long will you be powerless. Nothing is impossible with God.

"Still the drunkard's in the gutter—
Does anybody care?
Yes the God in heaven heareth,
And he answereth prayer."

At the annual convention of last March thirty-six societies were reported. Supposing one member of each society started a temperance campaign on these principles.: "I will endeavour to further the cause of temperance by voting straight temperance myself and using my influence to get one more converted to my way of thinking, each year infusing the same spirit into them, each to endeavour to enroll one yearly in the cause of temperance. If one member of each Society adopted this plan, in ten years we would have this country out and out for temperance. You say that is too long to wait. Christian Endeavour movements should be conducted on systematic principles, and it would be better to wait ten years, and have the country organized on a true basis, than to make a big splurge and come out defeated. Now, the Endeavourers who read this want to consider that the responsibility of furthering this scheme in their Society rests with them.

One of the special features of the county convention will be the Junior Rally which will be held in the afternoon. The Rally throughout will be conducted by the children, and special music is being prepared for the occasion. A conference of the junior workers will be held some time during the day, when plans of working with the children will be presented and discussed.

Distressing Constipation Cured by B. B. B.

GENTLEMEN,—For three years I have been terribly troubled with that distressing complaint, Constipation, and tried different medicines until last spring, when I commenced taking Burdock Blood Bitters, and after the use of five bottles had no more of my terrible suffering. Before I began using B. B. B. my appetite had almost gone and I was thin and very weak, but after the use of each bottle I could (and so did others) see a wonderful change in my looks and I felt my strength returning to me.

NO SUSPENSION OF THE EDICT.

The Fall River Pythians Misconceived the Abiegate's Intentions.

Washington, March 20.—The delegation of Fall River and Providence gentlemen who visited Washington for the purpose of invoking the good offices of Mgr. Satolli in behalf of Catholic Pythians in those cities have slightly misconceived the Monsignor's intentions, according to the interpretation placed thereon at the Legation. Father Hooker, private secretary to the Monsignor, said: "These gentlemen presented two cases which were conceived to possess peculiar features entitling them to especial consideration and the matter was referred to Bishop Harkins, of Providence, for action. The two lodges as stated are composed entirely of Catholics and it was suggested to Bishop Harkins that if there were no reasons to the contrary that had been presented at the Legation he might permit the members to perform their required church duties at Easter. Two members of the lodges are said to be dying and they were desirous of retaining their membership in order to save the insurance attaching thereto to their families. This Mgr. Satolli thought might be permitted and so advised Bishop Harkins. The whole matter, however, is one of local discipline, and rests with the bishop for final determination. There will be no suspension of the edict against membership in the order and no decree will be issued. Everything that has been received from Rome since the edict was published looks to a more rigorous enforcement rather than any relaxation."

How Mr. Hunter Buys Cattle.

Toronto, March 20.—There was a lively meeting of the Public Accounts Committee yesterday when Mr. Hunter, a Government official, who purchases cattle for the public institutions to the extent of $60,000 per annum, was examined on the stand. He admitted that he had taken an active part against the Conservative candidate in West Toronto at the last election and that he did not purchase by tender. He said that he bought cattle for public institutions in the open market just as he would do if he were in business for himself. He denied that he purchased exclusively from the political friends of the Government.

Club-Swinging Record Broken.

Halifax, March 20.—The world's record at club swinging was broken in this city last night. Corporal Kershaw, of 1st King's Regiment, swung three-pound clubs for 12 hours, 30 minutes, finishing at 8.30 p.m. The previous record was held by a sergeant of the Norfolk Regiment and gymnastic instructor at Aldershot, England, who swung two-pound clubs for 12 hours, 20 minutes. Kershaw is only a young man and his feat is regarded as marvellous.

Going Out of Business.

Toronto, March 20.—On account of the death of Col. Skinner, a few months ago, the firm of James A. Skinner & Co., crockery dealers, has decided to retire from business, and the announcement is made that it is liquidating voluntarily. The business was moved from Hamilton to this city about three years ago, and as the firm enjoyed a first-class financial reputation they were welcomed by the business community.

Must Hold Country Poultry Shows.

Toronto, March 20.—A deputation from the Ontario Poultry Association waited on the Government yesterday to ask for a grant of $500 to enable them to secure wire coops for their annual show. Mr. Dryden promised to consider the matter and remarked that he was about to introduce a bill into the House which if passed would compel the association to hold annual shows in the country districts.

Tried to Cheat the Insurance Companies.

Winnipeg, March 20.—Simon Goldtaub, merchant, of Plum Coulee, was burned out last week and put in his claim to insurance companies for the loss of his stock. Insurance people were suspicious and found large quantities of goods from Goldtaub's store packed away in a stable and covered with hay. Goldtaub is now in jail.

Admiral Ting Did Not Kill Himself.

Paris, March 19.—The European edition of the Herald is informed by its Shanghai correspondent that according to the Chinese newspapers Admiral Ting did not kill himself at Wei-Hai-Wei but was smuggled away in safety. The three coffins conveyed from Kwangchi to Chee-Foo contained Generals Liu, Chang and Tai. The Chinese troops defeated by the Japanese under Gen. Nodzu are reported from Shanhakwan as retreating rapidly toward Tien-Tsin and Pekin.

New York Excursionists at Naples.

Naples, March 19. — The Hamburg-American line steamer Fuerst-Bismarck, with a large number of excursionists from New York, has arrived here. After a stop of five days she will proceed to Genoa, thence to New York, where she is due about April 5.

An Escort Will be Provided.

Constantinople, March 19.—The Porte has consented to provide an escort and a special interpreter for the foreign representatives with the Armenian commission of inquiry and has sent instructions to this effect to the local officials.

Trinity College School.

As the re-building of Trinity College School on the old site depends upon whether the new edifice would have ample protection against fire or not, the Port Hope council last Monday night, after awarding the contract for the waterworks, very wisely passed a resolution, extending the waterworks mains to Trinity College School. It is the intention of the school authorities to put pipes through the new building, and use the water for domestic purposes.

The Spring Blockade.

The sidewalk in front of the great retail establishment of Grafton & Co., clothing manufacturer, was the scene, yesterday, of the annual spring blockade of packing cases. The boxes were piled high and almost hid the store for a few hours. The result will no doubt be seen in the course of a day or two in the representation of the latest spring styles in clothing, all manufactured by Grafton & Co., which will appear in the windows, and which will serve as index to the extensive assortment of new spring stocks within. 1d

The Snow Going.

The brilliant searching rays of the sun is responsible for the gradual vanishing of the snow and the losing of the sleighing. This surely has been one of the old-fashioned winters the seniors are wont to tell about, when good sleighing was to be had from before Christmas until the sugar-making was on. Here we are, nearly the end of March, and no wheels in use yet, though true, the sleighs have to hug the shady side of the roads and haunt the ditches in order to use the remains of the ice and snow. If the roads become sloppy and soft during the day, the strong frosts of the night converts all moisture to ice for the morning. For the most part we have had a bright, cold, snowy, old-fashioned winter that causes all to look eagerly for the first signs of the coming spring with its new green clothing.

HOCKEY.

The rink was crowded last evening with an audience which had assembled to witness a match between the grocers and clothiers of the town. The spectators were prepared for almost anything in the way of fun, yet the extremely ludicrous exhibition which took place surpassed all expectations, and the odd figures cut by some of the participants in the struggle which took place, was provocative of such merriment as caused the rink to echo and re-echo with laughter.

The clothiers were gayly decked out in fancy (?) suits—trousers of a startlingly loud check and white coats. Across the backs of the latter were displayed the advertisements of the different firms which were represented.

Roadhouse appeared on the ice with a fringe of false whiskers around his face, but the grocers would take no chances of losing the puck in them, so Roadhouse had to remove them. A counter protest was entered by the clothiers against Cummings' moustache, but after an examination the referee pronounced it genuine. The grocers looked askance at Jimmy Tully's heavy facial adornment, but upon his agreeing not to do any crooked work by hiding the puck in it, he was allowed to play and the two teams lined up as follows:

Grocers.		Clothiers.
Armstrong	goal	W S Merrill
Miles Henry	point	T Meredith
Wm Dayman	cover point	G Butcher
J Cummings, J Connal, F Matchky, F Hamilton	forwards	F Logan, J Tully, W Roadhouse, F McPherson
Perry Goldsmith	Umpires	Walter Stocker, Walter Phelan, Referee.

The puck was faced and the whistle blew. Then the referee made a dash for the side just in time to escape the shock with which the opposing teams came together with a blood curdling yell. A few seconds silence ensued as the eight forwards slowly picked themselves up from the ice, wondered what had struck them, and made up their minds that hockey wasn't all it was cracked up to be. The puck was finally found hidden in the voluminous folds of Miles Henry's long sweater, which a young lady facetiously remarked badly needed a tack taken in it as it reached almost to his knees.

It was apparent from the start that the clothiers were determined to rush the game and though the grocers fought hard and resorted to every device known, they were gradually forced backwards on the defensive and Butcher finally scored for the clothiers, who raised a mighty shout thereupon. Their exuberance, however, was short-lived as the next goal was cleverly shot by Cummings, while Logan and McPherson were nursing their shins on the side seats, having had them sharply rapped in a scrimmage in front of the goal.

The sympathies of the spectators went out to the grocers after this, as before half time was called Logan had scored two and McPherson one for the clothiers, making the score 4-1 against the grocers.

When half time was called each player sank down in his tracks or the ice for a brief rest, that is each player with the exception of Miles Henry, who happened to be reclining in the corner at the time, and laid there quite contentedly.

Upon changing ends the clothiers again started in with a rush and McPherson scored for them. The hopes of those backing the grocers sank to zero, but raised again when Matchkey and Connal by hard, steady play, each scored a goal for that team.

Jimmy Tully shone forth brilliantly at this juncture and was well supported by Meredith, the pair working a combination which enabled Tully to score twice.

This, however, was the last spasmodic effort of the clothiers, for although Merrill and Butcher put up a great defence, the grocers scored the next three goals, Matchky shooting the puck through twice and Connal once.

Through some misconception on the part of the referee it was announced at this juncture that the number of goals scored by each team was seven and it was agreed to play off the tie. In reality the clothiers had scored seven goals and the grocers but six. The next goal went to the grocers, as Jimmy Connal put the puck through in short order and the match was awarded to the grocers As it has been since ascertained that the game resulted in a tie, another game may probably be played to-morrow evening to decide definitely as to which is the strongest.

The grocers state that one goal which Hamilton scored was lost track of, and claim that this gives them last night's match. The umpires bear them out in the statement.

The game arranged for to-night between the Students and Peterborough I, is postponed till Friday night.

The Millbrook hockeyists failed to make an appearance at the rink last evening, and in consequence the game which they were announced to play with the Volts, did not come off, much to the disappointment of the spectators who had assembled to witness the match.

Yesterday afternoon the Port Hope hockey team went over to Whitby to play hockey with the team of that place, which was so badly defeated bo the Collegiate I here. The Port Hope Times said regarding the match: "It is to be hoped that the boys will win, for no doubt they will receive some notice to the repeated challenges sent Peterborough if they do." Unfortunately, the "boys" did not win, but on the contrary were defeated by the score of nine goals to none.

This evening on the rink the combination hockey team from the EXAMINER and Review offices will meet an aggregation of hockeyists known as the "Greenies." The puck will be faced off at 10 p.m. sharp. The teams will be composed as follows:

Combination.		Greenies.
Dobbin	goal	W Hall
Glover	point	R H Bradburn
Heap	cover	W Dumble
Hubbs, McWilliams, McWilliams, Terrill	forwards	E Goldsmith, G Frost, Gus Hay, C Dumble

CURLIANA.

Great excitement prevailed at the rink, last night, when the third draw in the Innes' medal series was played off between rinks skipped by Messrs. D. W. Dumble and R. M. Denniston. As will be seen by the appended score the former was victorious by three shots:

—Carter	R Stevenson,
J Jeffreys,	W J Drope,
W A Allen,	J M Irwin,
D W Dumble, skip..16	R M Denniston, sk..13

THE WHEEL.

The Belleville Intelligencer says: "The Ramblers bicycle club will likely meet in a few days for organization, as Laurie Lockett, the secretary, has received a communication from the C. W. A. Board, asking him to send in the names of our delegates to the annual meeting on April 12th. If the club has a membership of over fifty they will have fifty votes at the meeting. It is important that all who intend joining should do so as early as possible after organization that the club may have the above number of votes. All the local wheelmen are in favour of Peterborough getting the annual meet this season, but they will have to do something more, as strong representations will be made from the west in favour of Waterloo."

Mr. Laurie Lockett is well known in Peterborough, and has many friends here. He may be depended upon doing his best to bring the meet to the Plate Glass City.

Peterborough will have between two and three hundred votes at the annual meeting of the C. W. A., as there are fully that many members of the Club on the membership roll.

Scrofula in the Neck—Sarsaparilla All Gone Now.

Sangerville, Maine.

"C. I. Hood & Co., Lowell, Mass.:

"Gentlemen:—I feel that I cannot say enough in favor of Hood's Sarsaparilla. For five years I have been troubled with scrofula in my neck and throat. Several kinds of medicines which I tried did not do me any good, and when I commenced to take Hood's Sarsaparilla there were large bunches on my neck so sore that I could not bear the slightest touch. When I had taken one bottle of this medicine, the soreness had gone, and before I had finished the second the bunches had entirely disappeared." BLANCHE ATWOOD, Sangerville, Maine.

SIGN OF THE INDIAN QUEEN.

THE D. A. G. BANQUETTED.

The Officers of the 57th Entertain Col. Cotton and the Officers of the Artillery and Cavalry as Well as a Number of Ex-officers.

Col. Cotton, Deputy Adjutant-General, is in Peterborough inspecting the accoutrements, etc., of the local corps of artillery, cavalry and militia. The Colonel entered upon his task yesterday morning and will probably not finish until late to-night.

Last evening he was banquetted by the officers of the 57th Battalion. A number of other guests were also present from among the officers of the cavalry and artillery as well as from the ranks of the ex-officers residing in the vicinity. In all about forty guests enjoyed the hospitality of the officers of the Rangers and a most pleasant evening indeed was spent in their quarters.

During the course of the evening the subject of the formation of the new military club came up for discussion and every officer present was evidently warmly in accord with the movement.

As Col. H. C. Rogers has been promoted to the position of commanding officer of the Prince of Wales Dragoons, the accoutrements of the troop of which he was formerly in charge have been handed over to Capt. Johnston, of Millbrook, who succeeds to the captaincy.

THE NON-COMS. SECURE DOWN TOWN APARTMENTS.

A Suite of Rooms to be Arranged for at an Early Date.

The non-commissioned officers mess of the Rangers held a special meeting, last evening, with the object of discussing the advisability of procuring new apartments, as those at present occupied in the drill shed are not sufficiently large to accomodate the members of the mess.

After considering the question from various standpoints, it was finally resolved to secure the rooms lately vacated by Peterborough Lodge, I. O. O. F., at the earliest possible date and to hold a formal opening of the same in the way of a smoking concert or a social. Committees were struck to make the necessary arrangements relative to the procuring of the apartments.

The non-coms. by securing this suite of rooms are placed in a position which will enable them to fittingly entertain the non-commissioned officers of all visiting corps and to hold concerts, etc., occasionally in the large hall in connection with their new quarters.

THE ELECTIONS APPROACHING.

The Issue of a Remedial Order to be Followed by the Issue of the Writs.

The Dominion Cabinet Council Tuesday afternoon at Ottawa adopted a remedial order in the Manitoba school appeal, which will be forwarded to the Manitoba Legislature. The terms of the order will not be made public until the Governor-General signs it. The writs for the general elections may be expected immediately.

HALDIMAND BY-ELECTION.

Dr. Baxter Elected by a Majority of 282.

The result of the local election in Haldimand on Tuesday was the return of Dr. Baxter, Liberal, over Mr. Sean, the Patron candidate, by a majority of 282.

CAPES and JACKETS

—AT—

HALL, GILCHRIST & CO'S.

The growth of the trade in our Mantle Department has been marvellous.

THE REASONS WHY.

1st.—Because we buy our goods for each season five months later than any competitors, (which can only be done by going direct to the manufacturers), thereby giving us the very latest styles.

2nd.—Because our syndicate purchase is as large as the combined purchase of any three Canadian houses, and being for spot cash we get the lowest possible prices.

3rd.—Because we sell for spot cash we can sell on smaller profits.

4th.—Because our stock is as large as any two houses in town. We give our customers a much larger variety to choose from.

5th.—Because we carry no goods over to the next season. All our stock is new.

Our stock when complete will be the largest and best value we have ever shown for any previous spring season. ALL WE ASK IS COME AND SEE BEFORE YOU BUY.

BAPTIST MISSIONS

ANNUAL MEETING.

A LARGE ATTENDANCE AND ENCOURAGING SUCCESS.

The Report of the Secretary—Interesting Addresses and Papers—Good Financial Results.

The sixteenth annual meeting of the Women's Missionary Circle of the Baptist church was held in the church Tuesday afternoon.

Mrs. (Dr.) Hunter, president, occupied the chair.

There was an unusually good attendance of members and representatives were present from all the missionary societies in town.

After devotional exercises

THE SECRETARY'S REPORT

was presented as follows:—

Our Circle closes the year with a membership of 63, one more than last year, but the average must be reported three less than at our last annual meeting. The low average may be accounted for by holding the meeting alternately at the Mission, Hark street, for the last six months, the distance being so great that many could not attend. The meetings were held there to accommodate those in the south part of the town. This change called for one additional officer, assistant secretary. Mrs. Mowry was appointed to fill the position.

During the past year fourteen meetings were held. The largest number in attendance, 20; smallest, 6; average 14. Prayer is one feature of our meetings. The work of the various mission fields is discussed. Bible readings were given, suggestive of the work, such as, "go, work to-day, promises of to Christian work, one body, freely ye have received, freely give." One meeting of a social character was held at the residence of Mrs. Stratton. Although the evening was unfavourable, a large number gathered and spent a pleasant and profitable evening.

Three members of our circle attended the Associational meeting at Haldimand and two delegates were sent to the annual meeting of the society in Toronto. Our representatives seemed to catch the missionary spirit and gave stirring reports respecting the work of the past, the present and the great work yet to be accomplished.

For some time the annual meeting of the society has been held in the west; our circle considered that to extend the interest eastward the eastern circles should have a fuller representation. This by holding an occasional annual meeting in the east. After due consideration our Circle extended an invitation to the Home and Foreign Mission Boards to hold the next convention here. The invitation has been accepted, and the Boards have decided to hold the annual meeting at Peterborough in May.

The spread of our missionary periodicals is on the increase. There are 25 subscribers for the Link and 26 for the Visitor.

Our Mission Bands are pressing onward and upward, doing good work under energetic presidents.

It is with feelings of sadness that this report cannot be concluded without recording the death of one of our members, a charter member and an active worker since the organization 16 years ago. "Work while it is day, for the night cometh when no one can work."

MARY A. NICHOLLS,
Secretary.

The Mission Treasurers submitted the following report:

Home Missions	$45 50
Northwest Indians	2 10
Foreign Missions	32 00
Total	$160 60

The report was adopted.

THE ELECTION OF OFFICERS

resulted as follows:

President—Mrs. (Dr.) Hunter, (re-elected.)
1st Vice-President—Mrs. M. Mowry.
2nd Vice-President—Mrs. Ellis.
Secretary—Miss Nicholls, (re-elected.)
Treasurers—(Home Missions) Miss Laura Branch; (Foreign) Miss Grace McDonald.

OTHER CONTRIBUTIONS.

Miss Aldridge read an excellent paper on the Foreign Mission work of the Baptist denomination, and Miss Annie Hutchinson, a similar paper on Home Missions.

Mrs. (Dr.) Scott sang the sacred solo "Cast thy bread upon the waters," to the accompaniment of Miss Aldridge.

Miss Annie Walton, director for the Peterborough Baptist Association, favoured the meeting with an address upon "Improving our Opportunities" very gracefully and effectively delivered.

A clever and thoughtful paper on "Little Things" was contributed by Mrs. W. H. Murray, of St. Paul's Auxiliary, and was listened to with unusual pleasure.

The roll call was succeeded by the collection, which amounted to $7.

IN SOCIAL CIRCLES.

A ball will be given to the gentlemen of Cobourg, on the evening of Tuesday, April 23rd. At a meeting of those interested, on Monday night, Mr. Howard, of the Dominion Bank, was elected Hon. Secretary. Invitation, Decoration and Executive Committees were also struck. It is the intention to keep this year's dance well up to the standard maintained in former years. Corlett's orchestra, of Toronto, has been engaged.

Port Hope will hold a fancy dress ball on Easter Monday.

Belleville and Peterborough, as well as Campbellford, it is said will also give large assemblies immediately after Lent.

If Your'e Wide Awake

You can share in a lot of "saaps" for early buyers to-day, consisting of a taking selection of travellers samples, including fancy pen holders, pencils, pens, erasers, ink bottles, envelopes, writing paper, and a heap of other stationery and fancy novelties. If your'e wide-a-wake, you'll buy something you can't get every day. Cracking value! A. H. STRATTON & Co., 417 George street.

REV. SEPTIMUS JONES ON OLIVER GOLDSMITH.

He Speaks for an Hour and a Quarter Most Interestingly.

A small but appreciative audience gathered in St. John's school house last evening to listen to a lecture on "Oliver Goldsmith" by Rev. Septimus Jones, of Toronto. The members of the Young Ladies' Literary Society of the town, with the president, Miss Flora Stevenson, occupied seats in a body in the front of the hall.

The entertainment was opened with an instrumental selection by Mrs. Smith and Mrs. Hibbard, after which Miss Clara Clarke sang "The Holy City" in a most pleasing manner. The chairman, Rev. J. C. Davidson, then introduced Rev. Mr. Jones to the audience.

The attention and interest of those in attendance increased steadily as the speaker advanced upon his subject, the hour and a quarter during which he spoke passing all too quickly.

In glowing words, Mr. Jones depicted his waywardly picturesque hard in the different periods of his eventful life. He described his youth in Ireland, his features in regard to his professional training and his romantic wanderings over the continent of Europe, frequently introducing most ludicrous incidents in connection with his many strange adventures.

Finally Goldsmith's life in London was sketched together with his early death, which was occasioned by the irregularities of his life and general worry and anxiety.

The two sides of his character most strikingly brought out were his droll, humorous improvidence and his unbounded generosity, oftentimes exercised at the expense of others.

From the beginning until the end of his lecture the speaker held his audience fairly enthralled, moving them at will from periods of hushed silence to spontaneous laughter. When he concluded a general expression of pleasure was heard from every side regarding the literary treat. A vote of thanks, moved by Mr. Poussette and Principal Fessenden, was carried most cordially and unanimously. In reply Mr. Jones stated that the evident interest which was manifested had assisted him greatly in delivering his lecture.

Rev. Mr. Jones delivers a sermon in St. John's Church to-night on "Three Relations in Life—husband and wife, parent and child, and employer and employee."

LIVE LAKEFIELD.

From Our Own Correspondent.

Mr. Edward Abbott and family of Douro started for Mission City, B. C., on Tuesday of last week where they will make their future home.

Miss Amy McWilliams left here on Tuesday of last week for Winnipeg, Man.

Mr. Reggie Abbett has secured a position as cheesemaker at Chilliwhack, B. C., and left here on Tuesday of last week to fill it.

Revs. W. Limbert and A. C. Reeves were in Harvey last Thursday attending the S. S. convention there.

Mr. Geo. Goodwin, of Ottawa, contractor, was in the village last week looking after the T. V. C. contract.

Mrs. Jas. Davidson and daughter, of Smith, are the guests of the Misses Walton.

Mrs. Reynolds, of Bethany, is the guest of Mrs. Moore.

Mr. Hogan, of Messrs. Hogan & McDonald, was in the village last week examining the prospective work on the T. V. C., with a view of putting in a tender for the work. He thinks a very desirable change is made by taking the river route.

Mr. Kidd and Miss Kidd, of Dummer, are the guests of Mr. A. J. Kidd.

Mr. J. J. Turner, jr., and wife, of Peterborough, were in the village last week, the guests of Mr. John Todd.

Rev. A. C. Reeves and Mr. R. Graham were in Port Hope on Tuesday, attending the meeting of the Presbytery.

Miss M. Rae, of Peterborough, was in the village last Friday.

Mr. John Nelson, who has been spending the winter with his brother in the county of Essex, returned home last week.

Quite a large number of our young people were entertained by Mr. and Mrs. H. M. Davidson, Smith, on Monday evening. They spent a pleasant evening, returning home at an early hour in the morning.

Capt. S. Reynolds is busily engaged overhauling the Golden City for her summer work. He is putting in truss rods throughout.

Mr. Scrimger has been busy for the past week papering and painting R. Graham & Son's millinery show room, which now presents a handsome and neat appearance.

On Thursday evening Prof. G. W. Mulligan gave a splendid concert in the town hall by the members of his class, assisted by the members of St. Andrew's choir, Peterborough, and others. The programme was a good one and well rendered. The audience might have been larger, but those present were very appreciative. Special mention might be made of the parts taken by Miss Hendren, Miss Belleghem, Mr. King, Mr. Mulligan Mr. Millar, as a cornetist, and Prof. Arnold, the pianist and accompanist of the evening. After the concert the members of the class served refreshments to the visitors from Peterborough.

On Friday evening a lecture will be delivered in the town hall in aid of the library fund of the Mechanics' Institute by Mr. Jas. A. Fife, B.A., of Peterborough, the subject being "Combustion," which will be illustrated by experiments. The price of admission is only 10 cents, so that all may attend.

On Friday evening a hockey match was played between Keene and Lakefield at the rink. A large number of spectators were present. The game commenced about nine o'clock and resulted in a victory for the home team by 7 to 4. The following were the positions of the players:—

THE ENNISMORE BY-ELECTION.

Mr. John Moloney Elected by a Majority of One.

Yesterday the election was held in Enismore to fill the vacant seat at the council board, caused by the action of the court. It will be remembered that at the January elections Mr. James Scollard was returned as councillor for Enismore, though Mr. John Moloney, another candidate, claimed that he had a majority of the votes. On that ground he entered a protest against Mr. Scollard's return. At the hearing of the case before Judge Weller, on March 5th, the seat was declared vacant by consent and writ for a new election issued. The election took place on Tuesday, the same two candidates being in the field. There was a large vote polled and the result was exceedingly close, Mr. Moloney receiving 93 and Mr. Scollard 92 votes. The highest number of votes received by any councillor at the January elections was 100. The result being so close in Tuesday's election, it might be suggested that this was an opportunity for a recount, but it does not seem probable that there will be any recount. It is stated that the ballots were counted over fifteen times at the close of the poll.

THE ASSIZES.

Damages in the Murray vs. Bell Telephone Co'y Suit Assessed at $466.

Late last night the jury in the case of Murray vs. The Bell Telephone Company brought in a verdict in favour of the plaintiff and granting him damages to the extent of $466. Watson, Q. C., of Toronto, and W. H. Moore acted for the plaintiff, and Edwards & Murrray for the defendants.

A verdict for the plaintiff was found in the case of Henderson vs. Henderson and an order made by which both parties pay their own costs. Hall & Hayes for plaintiff, Edwards & Murray for the defendants.

The case of McPherson vs. Brown et al. is now on. The plaintiff, Mr. T. J. McPherson, of Warkworth, alleges in this action that the defendants did wrongfully pull down a pile of wood and erect an engine and engine house on land leased from the defendants, and he asks $300 damages, and an injunction ordering the defendants, their agents or servants to desist from committing any nuisance. D. J. Lynch, Campbellford, for the plaintiff; E. B. Stone for defendants.

THE KENT CASE.

A Doctor Pronounces an Opinion on the Merits of the Cure.

Ottawa, March 20.—A conversation held a few days ago with a well known Ottawa physician revealed the fact that a far larger percentage of the community than is generally believed are suffering from the incipient symptoms of Bright's disease. He also stated that he had taken a considerable interest in the reported case of Mr. G. H. Kent, of this city, and admitted that in view of the published interviews and the affidavit of Mr. Kent, he had no hesitation in ascribing that gentleman's recovery from a very serious condition to Dodd's Kidney Pills. It was impossible to get over the fact that Mr. Kent had taken no other remedy.

THE FRUITS OF "PROTECTION."

Thirty-five years of ever-increasing protection has had a remarkable effect upon the distribution of wealth in the United States. There were in the United States in 1890, when the last census was taken, 62,622,250 people. A writer in the Arena, a high-class magazine, declares that half of the wealth of the whole United States is owned by 30,000 of those people. According to the same authority there are one million homeless tramps.—Witness.

Madill's Emulsion

OF COD LIVER OIL AND HYPOPHOSPHITES OF LIME AND SODA.

It will do wonders for you if your cough is a hard, troublesome and stubborn cough, or if you require building up and fattening, but you must begin in time and take it regularly, as you do your meals.

Madill's Emulsion is put up fresh and sweet every week. It is far more palatable to the stomach than other similar preparations, while a tablespoonful dose contains a higher percentage of Cod liver oil. It is properly emulsified, without the aid of eggs or other over-rich elements, and assimilates much more easily on that account.

Its potency has created not only an active local demand, but a constant request from other cities and towns of Canada.

FOUND ON THE TRAINS

A MAN WHO FOR FIFTEEN YEARS HAS BEEN PICKING UP THINGS.

A Few Items From the Notebook of Charlie—People Who Forget Portable Property—Umbrellas Head the List of Forgotten Belongings.

Whenever during the daytime a New York, New Haven and Hartford train rolls into the Grand Central depot a stoop shouldered, little man, with keen gray eyes and a beard that doesn't grow with sufficient luxuriance to require frequent trimming, strolls down to the end of the platform. When the train stops and while the most laggard of the passengers are still leisurely alighting, he hops nimbly on the rear platform of the last car and proceeds to literally "go through" the train. Sometimes a much excited passenger who has suddenly recollected that he has forgotten something rushes madly back into the train and discovers his portable property in the hands of the little man. Then, if he is of a suspicious disposition, he glares and scowls at the little man, and sometimes pounces upon him and indignantly demands to be told what he is doing with "that."

Then a tired look comes into the little man's face and he mildly explains that he is employed by the company to search incoming trains for articles left behind by passengers, which he conveys to the lost property room, where the owners can always get possession of them again by furnishing presumptive evidence that the things belong to them.

When Charlie—that is what the other employees about the depot call him, although he has another name which appears on the payrolls of the company—first began this work, his beard wasn't tinged with gray, and he wasn't a bit stoop shouldered. That was 15 years ago. All these years, from 6:30 in the morning until 6:30 at night each day, he has been picking up things that careless passengers have forgotten to take with them when they left the train.

It would make any man stoop shouldered to be continually looking for things that long. But his eyes are as keen as ever, and his honesty is still proof against all temptations. If that were not the case, he could have retired with a snug little capital. From the pocketbooks and purses and "wads" that he has found while pursuing his unique occupation he could have slipped enough into his own pocket to render him quite independent.

There are no blanks in his daily records. Never a day goes by that he doesn't find something that somebody has forgotten. He picks up fewer things on Sundays than on any other days, because on Sundays travel is comparatively light, and passengers are apt to be less preoccupied with business cares and therefore not so likely to forget things. On some days his list of articles found on the incoming trains is quite a formidable one.

This, for instance, is what he turned into the lost property room on Aug. 17: Thirteen umbrellas, two rings (one plain gold and one with diamonds), one overcoat, one package of legal papers, one satchel, one lady's jacket, one Derby hat, one valise, one cape, one cane, one package of underwear, one mackintosh and one pocketbook.

And this is what he found on Aug. 27: Seven umbrellas, one parasol, one shawl, one overcoat, one pair of shoes, one package containing a suit of clothes, one pair of spectacles, one purse, one flask of whisky and one smelling bottle.

When the articles are taken to the lost property room, they are labeled with the date on which they are found and the number of the train. Nearly all the articles that have any intrinsic value are redeemed. The rest are simply stored away for the gnawing tooth of time to prey upon.

Charlie is of the opinion, and surely he may be regarded as an expert on the subject, that everybody is liable to forget something at some time or other. Umbrellas are the articles that are most frequently left behind on the trains by travelers. The man who could devise an infallible system by which the owner of an umbrella would always be sure to remember it would reap a fortune. Charlie has tried his own wits at it, but was forced to give it up.

He has come to the conclusion that a state of ecstatic happiness, equally with one of intense preoccupation, is apt to produce forgetfulness of portable property. He has discovered that newly married brides and grooms are quite as apt to forget the little things they may be carrying with them as the man who has got so much business on his hands he can't think of anything else. The man who never travels without a flask of whisky seldom forgets it. Perhaps that is because the act of putting it into his pocket immediately after taking a nip has been so often repeated that it belongs to the category of unconscious cerebration.

It is not an infrequent thing for a man to leave a stovepipe hat on the rack and walk out of the car with a little skull cap on. But when he gets into the streets the small boys are sure to shout, "Shoot the hat!" or "Where did you get that hat?" Then he discovers the mistake that he has made, but the fact that he is never grateful to the small boys for reminding him of it and never rewards them must be regarded as evidence of that perversity inheritent in human nature which so often puzzles the philosopher.

Charlie is of the opinion that some people would forget their own mothers-in-law if they had half a chance. There is one man whose umbrella he has picked up in the train so often that he has lost track of the number of times. And yet that same man has told him frequently that he never leaves the house with his umbrella that his wife doesn't say to him, "Now, dear, be sure you don't forget your umbrella."

Women, so Charlie has found, are even more apt to leave things behind them in the cars than men.—New York Herald.

HIS WIFE SHAVED HIM.

She Wasn't Going to Be Late to Church if She Knew It.

The story was told by a talkative man who was evidently from the country. The barber drew it out by the usual question asked of new patrons, "Do you shave yourself?"

"Not much," was the reply. "Does my face look as if I did?"

The barber confessed that his face was in good condition, whereupon the talkative man added, with a chuckle:

"And I don't usually get shaved by any barber, either."

"How's that?" asked the barber.

"My wife shaves me," answered the talkative man, with another chuckle. "She's done it every day for five years," he added, "and I ain't never had any reason to complain of her work."

"Who taught her the trade?" asked the barber, becoming interested.

"Learned it herself. It came about this way: One Sunday morning soon after we were married I started off to a barber shop to get shaved before going to church. The shop was crowded, as I knew it would be. But as I'd never been any great churchgoer I didn't hurry. I waited for my favorite barber, who of course was everybody's favorite too. And when I finally got home it was pretty late. I thought my wife would get tired of waiting, you see, and go on to church alone, expecting me to follow. But she hadn't. She sat with her things on, and when I saw her I was prepared to catch it," and the talkative man giggled reflectively.

"And did you catch it?" prompted the barber.

"Well, she wanted an explanation, and of course I told her the usual story about having to wait.

" 'Well,' says she, 'you won't do no more waiting around barber shops while you and I live together. You can shave yourself in future.'

" 'No, I can't,' says I. 'I cut my face.'

" 'Then I'll shave you,' says she.

" 'You can't,' says I.

" 'Yes, I can,' says she, 'and I will.'

"I thought the best way to convince her and keep peace in the family was to let her try it once, so the next Sunday I submitted, telling her beforehand that if she didn't give me a clean shave and no cuts, I wouldn't go to church. Well, sir, she gave me as good a shave as I ever got from a barber, and after that I let her keep it up, and I've never been sorry for it. I tell you, it's a luxury there can't many poor men afford."

"Next!" said the barber.—Buffalo Express.

Cotton Factory Experiments.

A system of moistening the air of a cotton factory—as is required in some departments of a mill before blowing it into the rooms—has been the subject of much experiment. It has been found that, if a jet of steam or vapor is discharged into the main duct any degree of humidity desired can be obtained, but all the air is moistened alike, being distributed to the different rooms by the risers leading thereto. That, however, which is best adapted for one department in a cotton mill may not prove equally favorable for another.

Then, too, the introduction of moisture at this point may work disastrously to the walls of the ducts and risers. It is now found that this objection may be overcome at a small expense, by carrying a steam pipe down through each room and putting opposite each opening in the flue, through which the air enters the room, an outlet with valves for regulating the flow of the steam. In this way the exhaust steam from the engine which drives the blower flows into the room, and being caught up by the current of air passing from the flue is thus distributed throughout the room. Experience with this plan through cold weather has proved its peculiar value.—New York Sun.

The Reason Why.

The wonderful capability which the Jersey shows of adapting herself to the widest sort of climatic and other conditions are really to be inferred from her surprising productive powers; it is a high order of vitality that is enabling her to go and establish herself wherever there is civilization.

BUILT UP THE SYSTEM IN A WONDERFUL MANNER.

James A. Bell, of Beaverton, Ont., Brother of the Rev. John Wesley Bell, B.D., Prostrated by Nervous Headaches--A Victim of the Trouble for Several Years --South American Nervine Effected a Complete Cure.

In their own particular field few men are better known than the Rev. John Wesley Bell, B.D., and his brother, Mr. James A. Bell. The former will be recognized by his thousands of friends all over the country as the popular and able missionary superintendent of the Royal Templars of Temperance. Among the 20,000 members of this order in Ontario, his counsel is sought on all sorts of occasions. On the public platform he is one of the strong men of the day, battling against the evils of intemperance. Equally well known is Mr. Bell in other provinces of the Dominion, having been for years a member of the Manitoba Methodist Conference, and part of this time was stationed in Winnipeg. His brother, Mr. James A. Bell is a highly respected resident of Beaverton, where his influence, though perhaps more circumscribed than that of his eminent brother, is none the less effective and productive of good. Of recent years, however, the working ability of Mr. James A. Bell has been sadly marred by severe attacks of nervous headaches, accompanied by indigestion. Who can do fit work when this trouble takes hold of them, and especially when it becomes chronic, as was, seemingly, the case with Mr. Bell. The trouble reached such intensity that last June he was completely prostrated. In this condition a friend recommended South American Nervine. Ready to try anything and everything, though he thought he had covered the list of proprietary medicines, he secured a bottle of this great discovery. A second bottle of the medicine was taken and the work was done. Employing his own language: "Two bottles of South American Nervine immediately relieved my headaches and have built up my system in a wonderful manner." Let us not deprecate the good our clergymen and social reformers are doing in the world, but how ill-fitted they would be for their work were it not the relief that South American Nervine brings to them when physical ills overtake them, and when the system as a result of hard, earnest and continuous work, breaks down. Nervine treats the system as the wise reformer treats the evils he is battling against. It strikes at the root of the trouble. All disease comes from disorganisation of the nerve centers. This is a scientific fact. Nervine at once works on these nerve centers; gives to them health and vigor; and then there courses through the system strong, healthy, life-maintaining blood, and nervous troubles of every variety are things of the past.

THE LAWYER'S VISION.

A Remarkable Instance of Physical Suffering and Thought Transference.

The Popolo Romano relates the following authentic fact, without giving more than the initial of the person to whom it occurred, a distinguished young lawyer of literary reputation, who stated that he could not give the most remote explanation of it: "Some years since, on a hot summer afternoon, the Avvocato A——, together with his wife and two children, left their house in Via Sesta at 6 o'clock precisely for an evening walk. He was in good health and spirits, but just as they crossed the street he was suddenly seized with a shock through his whole body, which caused all the blood to leave his face and obliged him to support himself against the wall. His wife in alarm assisted him to steady himself, anxiously asking what was the matter.

"He recovered himself speedily and was able to continue the walk, only describing an unaccountable perturbation and humming in his ears. The evening breeze and exercise gradually calmed and revived him, and he completely regained his usual frame. They went to visit some friends and then rested at a cafe, when toward half past 11 o'clock a storm which had been gathering began the first blasts of wind, and they hurried home. Scarcely arrived indoors, the Avvocato A—— hurried to remove some flowerpots from a balcony over the street, taking a lamp with him. The wind extinguished the light, so he had to continue his operations in the dark, only illuminated now and then by the lightning flashes. He was just lifting the last flower vase, an ornamental one, given him by his mother, when he was startled by seeing a kind of black veil waving upward close in front of him, which, as it rose, assumed a human form.

"Very much disturbed, he immediately related the strange appearance to his wife, and the perturbation before experienced again overcame him, leaving him unable to sleep all night. Early in the morning came a telegram from his brother at Ferrara stating that their mother had been suddenly seized with cerebral syncope the previous evening at 6 o'clock and had expired at midnight, just as the Avvocato A —— had seen the black veil vanish into space."

A Tender Hearted Tramp.

Robert James Gordon, a casual, declined to break stone in return for food and shelter at the Newcastle workhouse, and doubtless much to the surprise of the workhouse authorities successfully resisted the proceedings taken against him for that act of insubordination. Being called on in the Newcastle police court to explain his refusal, Mr. Gordon, who appears to be an educated man and is described as speaking "logically and fluently," asked the bench to consider what such work meant to a man like him.

His hands would, he said, become quite lacerated, and were he a clerk or a tailor the result would be that in searching for employment afterward he would be unable to follow it. In the case of a shorthand writer, too, he asked how he would be able to write 180 words per minute if his hands were mangled in the way they assuredly would be after breaking a ton of stone. His chances of gaining work were thus minimized, and he "submitted respectfully" that according to law the master of the workhouse did not use any of the discretion which the regulations directed him to use.

After the magistrates had consulted together for some time, the chairman stated that the bench could not agree upon a decision, and that the defendant would thus get the benefit of the circumstance. Personally, he added, he should certainly have punished him, but his colleague being of a different opinion they had concluded to dismiss the case.—London News.

One Consolation.

On the dock at Tripoli may be seen a curious collection of articles. They represent import and export taxes and are sold by the customs officials. The import tax is 8 per cent of the value, and the export tax is 1 per cent. If any one refuses to pay the tax, the officials take possession of one-eighth of the merchandise.

Some time ago a European foreign minister visited Tripoli in the service of his country. He had with him 100 visiting cards. When a tax was demanded on these, he was angry and refused to pay it. A high official of the government was summoned to settle the matter.

He solemnly confiscated 8 per cent of the merchandise in question, 24 visiting cards.

"Very well, keep them," cried the irate ambassador, "keep them. I resign myself. I shall not be obliged to pay you a visit of ceremony for 24 years."—Youth's Companion.

One For the Turk.

One of the stories that drifted out of the plaisance is of the mosque where prayers were said daily at regular intervals for the natives. A pious woman passing accosted a young Oriental and chatted with him, finishing with a nod toward his prayer house and the remark, "I hope you go to church every Sunday, like a Christian." "No," was the quick reply, "I go every day, like a Turk"—which must score one for the heathen.—New York Times.

What John Wanamaker, the Most Heavily Insured man in America, Says:

(INTERVIEW WITH JOHN WANAMAKER.)

It is very generally known that Ex-Postmaster General John Wanamaker, of Philadelphia, carries the largest amount of Life Insurance of any man in the United States. A representative of the press recently interviewed this gentleman while he was travelling with the Presidential party, and this interview will be found, we believe, of general interest:—

"You are said to be the most heavily insured man in the country, Mr. Wanamaker," remarked the press representative.

"How did you come to think of that?" he said with a smile. "You are not looking for any disaster under such excellent management as our friend Boyd is giving this train and party?"

"No," I replied. "A newspaper friend in San Francisco, who had heard the report, wanted me to ask you it it was true, and if so, what your business reasons are for it?"

"Well," he modestly answered, "I have heard it stated that I am the most heavily insured man in the country. I don't know about that. The amount of my policies is $1,550,000, and the value, with the accumulations since the policies were taken out, is about two millions of dollars."

"In what class of companies are your policies?"

"They are all in stock and mutual companies, and none of them in what are known as assessment or instalment companies."

"Are they full life term policies or on what is termed the 'tontine' plan?"

"I have generally taken ten and fifteen payment policies and very few life policies. With about all good companies a contract can now be made whereby there is no risk of losing a policy after two years' premiums have been paid. If the party insured chooses to withdraw he can get a paid-up policy. Indeed, I understand that some companies have forms whereby the insurer can after one year, if desired, withdraw and receive a paid-up policy. There is practically little risk, any more, in insuring in the old companies."

"Perhaps you would be willing to tell me how you came to insure so heavily?"

"I thought the matter out, and convinced myself that it was a good business venture. Besides, it seemed to me that I might, perhaps, give away more money in lifetime if there was a fixed certainty of putting it back into my estate by Life Insurance. I conceive that the best way for a man to carry on benevolence is not to leave it to be done through his will, but to do it in his lifetime, and I felt that Life Insurance would give me more freedom in carrying out some plans I have, and which I would be glad to see completed before I leave this world. If you want to ascertain what the circumstances were in placing the Life Insurance, I must go further in my answers and say that I should not have gone so far in my Life Insurance but for the skill of the agent who tackled me to insure to a greater extent than I would otherwise have done. He was an old friend who had been in mercantile business and who knew how to present Life Insurance without boring me. I feel to-day sincerely grateful to the man who followed me so discreetly with information about companies, and who kept the subject before me until I settled the question."

"When did you begin taking Life Insurance policies?"

"My first policy was taken when I was twenty-one."

"Do you consider it a good thing for a man of small means?"

"I certainly do. Most young men spend more for cigars during the year than the annual cost of a $2,500 policy in a good company. If they must have the cigars they might divide between cigars and Life Insurance and carry at least a $1,000 policy. I think every young man, before he is married, ought to try to get at least a $1,000 policy."

"Among how many companies are your policies divided, and where are they located?"

"About forty companies. Most of them are located in the East. A few are in the West and a few in Canada."

"Do you recommend Life Insurance to others, especially those in whom you feel a personal interest?"

"I can perhaps answer that best by saying that I presented a few years ago a $1,000 policy, paid up for one year, to every insurable head of family in my employ. Many of the prudent men who received them not only kept them but added to them, and I have the satisfaction of knowing that in not a few cases those policies have been the means of saving worthy families from want."

It will doubtless be of interest to our readers to know that John Wanamaker carries a large policy in the Canada Life Insurance Company, thus evincing his confidence in the soundness of Canada's oldest and largest Company. During the last few years quite a number of American capitalists have been convinced of the SUPERIOR MERITS OF THE CANADA LIFE, and have accordingly placed their insurance therein, in preference to any other company.

The Canada Life is now being recognized in the states of Michigan, Minnesota and Ohio as the Company that gives the best results for the least premium.

GREELEY AND RAYMOND.

A Philosophical Dissertation on the Merits of the Two Great Editors.

There is not a paper in all this country that possesses the individuality that characterized the New York Tribune when Horace Greeley was its editor or The Times when edited by Henry J. Raymond.—Kansas Commoner.

The day of great newspapers, edited by great editors, such as Horace Greeley and Henry J. Raymond, has passed away.—Chicago Tribune.

We had the pleasure of knowing both Greeley and Raymond. We were more intimate with the first named of these contemporary editors than with the other. They were able, sincere, energetic, public spirited Americans. Neither of them was a cherub. Mr. Greeley, good man! said "damn" more than once as we regret to remember, and when he called Raymond "the little villain" that cool headed man retorted in language which many people have forgotten. The two did not get along very well together when one was editor of The Tribune and the other among his assistants, nor afterward when they were editors of rival papers, though both were of the same party. Neither of them was an "ideal editor," or a very deep thinker, or a first class statesman or a notable scholar.

Greeley was a stronger and more stirring writer than Raymond, but Raymond was a far more skillful editor than Greeley. Greeley was more fervent in mind than Raymond; Raymond was more judicious and nimble than Greeley. Raymond, when he was a member of the legislature, and the speaker of the assembly, and the lieutenant governor of the state, and a member of congress, and a delegate to state or national conventions, gave evidence that he was greatly more ingenious in politics than Greeley, who, indeed, during the brief period of his service in congress, did not win distinction. Raymond always kept up a close intimacy with those astute political managers, Thurlow Weed and William H. Seward, while Greeley was unable to stay long in the "political firm of Seward, Weed & Greeley," in which, as he said when he left the concern, he had been a "junior partner."

Greeley was more of a philosopher than Raymond, who, in turn, was more of a man of affairs than Greeley. Greeley was often compared with Benjamin Franklin, though he did not possess Franklin's scientific quality; Raymond might be compared, in many respects, with Franklin Pierce, though he was not of Pierce's politics. Greeley had certain eccentricities of manner and action; Raymond was always regarded as a very level headed man. Both of them belonged to the antislavery school in politics; but Greeley's fervor in the cause far surpassed Raymond's. Greeley had in his earlier years been a champion of "social reforms" which were bitterly denounced by Raymond, who, however, in the latter years of his life, began to look with favor upon certain theories of socialism. Greeley was negligent in his dress; Raymond was natty. Both Greeley and Raymond were founders of New York daily papers which still exist, but neither of which is now characterized by the traits of its founder.

We agree with The Kansas Commoner that none of the New York papers now possesses the individuality of Greeley's Tribune or Raymond's Times, and no one of them can possess it, for both of these memorable individuals long ago departed for "the undiscovered country from whose bourn no traveler returns" after it had been their lot "to grunt and sweat under a weary life," but that is not a reason why we should despair of the American press. We may yet have editors not unworthy to be compared with the greatest and best we have ever had.

A true man was Horace Greeley, strong, earnest and good—honored be his memory! An able man was Henry Jarvis Raymond—clear headed, quick witted, reasonable, temperate, genial and highly accomplished—let his name shine in the editorial galaxy!—New York Sun.

Window Screens.

A transparency at a kitchen window attracted my notice the other day by its novelty. "I made it," said the owner, "because I could not get a transparency at the village store. I wanted one of those screens, you know, that permit you to see out, but do not let outsiders see in. I took an old frame for a wire screen, painted it to match the outside painting of the house and then tacked it to a piece of organdie, fitting it perfectly and stretching it very tight. From thin chints I cut flowers and sprays, and arranging the design in my mind proceeded to paste them on. After all were on I laid a piece of pasteboard behind and put on heavy weights until they were dry. I then gave the whole a coat of white varnish."

Reassured.

Angelina (anxiously)—Are you sure, dear, that you don't regret it, and that you don't sometimes miss your life as a bachelor?

Edwin (with cheerful conviction)—Not a bit. I tell you what, Angy, I miss it so little that if I were to lose you—a—I'm blessed if I wouldn't marry again.—London Tit-Bits.

AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL
"Several years ago, I caught a severe cold, attended with a terrible cough that allowed me no rest, either day or night. The doctors, after working over me to the best of their ability, pronounced my case hopeless, and said they could do no more for me. A friend, learning of my trouble, sent me a bottle of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral, which I began to take, and very soon I was greatly relieved. By the time I had used the whole bottle, I was completely cured. I have never had much of a cough since that time, and I firmly believe that Ayer's Cherry Pectoral saved my life."—W. H. PUBLIC OFFICIALS.

Discussion in the House as to the Proper Method of Appointment.

Toronto, March 20.—The feature of yesterday's session at the Local Legislature was the vote on the question of the proper method of appointing public officials. Dr. Meacham moved a vote of want of confidence in the Government, condemning them for appointing county officials and asking the members to declare in favor of empowering county councils to appoint their own officials. The Government was sustained by a majority of 23.

Sir Oliver Mowat announced last night that Dr. Barter had been re-elected in Haldimand by over 200 majority. Both Reformers and Conservatives cheered the announcement.

A Verdict by Ten Jurors.

Hon. Mr. Hardy moved the second reading of his bill to permit in civil cases a verdict to be rendered by an agreement of ten of the twelve jurors. He said that under the present system agreements in many cases were difficult. In some countries a bare majority of the jury was sufficient. He trusted that there would be no opposition to the bill.

Mr. Whitney said so far as he was concerned personally he would be just as pleased to see the jury system in civil cases abolished altogether. He was not, however, prepared to admit that more harm would arise from the continuance of the present system than by the adoption of the proposed plan. The bill was read a second time and sent into the Committee.

A Provincial Arbitrator.

Mr. Marter introduced a bill entitled "The Municipal Arbitrations Act." The bill provides that in all disputes or claims to which municipal corporations are parties an official arbitrator shall determine the issue. The arbitrator shall be appointed by the Lieutenant-Governor-in-Council and must be a barrister of at least 10 years' standing at the Ontario bar. He shall have the power of the judges of the High Court and an appeal from his decision would lie only in the Court of Appeal. The remuneration of the arbitrator is fixed at $15 per day and each of the parties will be called upon to pay one-half unless the arbitrator awarded costs to either of the parties. The bill was read a first time.

To Catch the Patrons.

Dr. Meacham on motion to go into Committee of Supply moved this amendment: "That in the opinion of this House the present mode of appointing registrars of deeds and other county officials is unsatisfactory and should be changed, and that the appointment of the said officials whose salaries are paid in full or mainly by the counties by which they are appointed should not be vested in the executive of the Province but in the people of the locality through their municipal bodies." He said that under the present system the country was called upon to pay large salaries to party hacks whose sole qualification was that they had served the Government and made a business of their politics. He was anxious to see the right to appoint officials vested in the county councils.

The Patrons Vote Solid.

Sir Oliver Mowat said that the Conservatives were very anxious to take from the Government the right to make Provincial appointments and yet they were quite pleased that the Dominion Government should continue to make appointments. It was clear that it was purely a party dodge. The Conservatives had no hope that they would be able to make Provincial appointments, therefore they were anxious to abolish them. The amendment was moved at a most inconvenient time inasmuch as it did not admit of an amendment following. A great change was advocated at one sweep, namely, that all appointments should be vested in the county councils. Appointments by popular vote were not asked. Such a change should not be made without great care and caution. A commission had been appointed to inquire into the present system and this commission had just made its report. Impartial men of all shades of politics composed that commission. There was a Patron upon it and when the investigation opened he was open in giving his opinion that the present system was bad, but as evidence was heard he had changed his mind and with all the other commissioners had signed the report stating that the present system could not be improved.

Mr. Whitney said that Sir Oliver had made as good a case as possible out of the bad material at hand. His answer that the Conservatives at Ottawa did the same thing was no answer at all. He simply had to say that if the Ottawa Government made appointments in that way the Ottawa Government did wrong and because they did wrong was no excuse why the Ontario Government should continue a bad and pernicious system. The Premier was opposed to the idea of appointments being made by the county councils on the ground that such a system did not exist in any part of the world. That was no argument. If such an idea were carried out all over the world there would be no progress. Sir Oliver was an old Tory and did not like any kind of change. He did not like the idea of losing control of an army of office holders who at general elections went broadcast over the land as political heelers doing election work for the Government.

Messrs. Dryden, Masten, Matheson and several others also spoke upon the question. The vote having been taken the Patrons with the exception of Messrs. Garney and Kidd, who shirked, voted solidly with the Government, making 56, while the P. P. A. members voted with the Conservatives, making a total of 23. The amendment was lost by 33 votes.

An Important Measure.

Mr. Stratton introduced a bill respecting joint stock companies.

The power for water and gas companies to issue preferred stock is given by chapter 26, sec. 50a; sub.-sec. 1, which says the directors may make a by-law for the purpose. Some companies have already passed a by-law authorizing the issue of preferred stock and others wish to issue additional stock as preference stock giving the same such preference and priority as respects dividends and otherwise over ordinary stock as may be declared by the by-law but preserving the priority of any previously authorized preference stock, and this amendment is to enable them to do so. The bill passed the first reading.

Exempt From Taxation.

Mr. German introduced a bill amending the Municipal Act so as to exempt ice storage houses from taxation. He introduced another to enable gas and water companies to issue additional stock as preference stock under their act.

In Supply.

The House went into Committee of Supply in the evening. Nothing of importance transpired up to the hour of adjournment.

'VARSITY COMMISSION.

The Names of the Gentlemen Who Will Investigate the Trouble.

Toronto, March 20.—The commission who will investigate the affairs of University College and examine into complaints as to its management and concerning charges of inefficiency against members of its staff has been decided on by the Government. Its members will be Hon. T. W. Taylor, Chief Justice of Manitoba (chairman); Mr. J. J. Kingsmill, of Toronto, formerly county judge; Judge Sankler, of St. Catharines; Mr. B. M. Britton, B.A., Q.C., of Kingston; and Professor John Campbell, M.A., LL.D., of the Presbyterian College, Montreal. Of these, four are graduates of the University of Toronto or other universities. They will meet in Toronto on April 8.

Buried Under a Load of Wood.

London, Ont., March 20.—John Hobbs, a resident of Nissouri township, was on Saturday morning last driving to the city with a load of wood, and when he had reached the Grove Church the centre of the road being bare of snow he turned off to one side. On this ridge he drove for a short time, walking or riding at the side of the load, when suddenly sleigh, wood and all toppled over, and poor Hobbs underneath, where he lay until rescued by a passer-by. How he escaped instant death is most marvellous. The horses, fortunately, never left their load.

Sailed for Liberia.

Savannah, Ga., March 20.—The steamer Horne, with 197 negro emigrants for Liberia, sailed at one o'clock yesterday afternoon for Monrovia. Five thousand negroes lined the wharves as the ship passed out.

Ten Days for Passing a Silvered Copper.

Brantford, March 20.—At the police court yesterday Wm. Fewings was sentenced to ten days in jail for passing a Prince Edward Island copper silvered over to imitate a 25 cent piece.

Telegraphic Briefs.

The Connecticut House has passed a bill which requires that every elector must be able to read a clause of the constitution printed in the English language.

Official advices fully corroborate the despatch from Havana, which contained the substance of the report made by the captain of the Spanish cruiser Conde de Venadito, which fired upon the Alliance. The captain of the Conde de Venadito insists that the vessel which he attempted to intercept flew the English flag at her masthead.

FINANCE AND COMMERCE

TORONTO, March 20, 1895.

The receipts at the cattle market are comparatively small and the prices show but little change from the quotations of the past two weeks. Cattle were in liberal demand, the recent change in regulations having no doubt had some effect with the dealers. Sheep sold at about the same price and hogs too were in the same demand.

On the street to-day one load of barley brought 49c, one of peas 61c, and 400 bushels of oats 41 to 42c. Outside prices were unchanged.

Potatoes are 60c a bag in cars on track and 70 to 90c retail.

Wheat was 86¼c in the speculative market in Chicago at noon yesterday for May options. The tendency was lower.

Provisions were also lower, but stocks were strong.

C.P.R. stocks in London were quoted at 88½c; 88¼c was bid here, with no sales.

Corn, oats and provisions in Chicago all weak in sympathy, no doubt with the bearish feeling regarding wheat.

There is much complaint about the quality of eggs that are being sold for fresh. It seems that some dealers, to work off their limed stock, are mixing them with those of recent date. The effect is that they are making a good profit on their old stocks, but the consumers are getting poor value for their money.

A NEW REFORMATORY

Ottawa Ministers Object to Its Location at Alexandria.

IT SHOULD BE NEAR A CITY

A Larger Place Would Afford Much Better Facilities for the Religious Instruction of the Inmates—The Minister to be Asked to Select a Different Site.

Ottawa, March 20.—The Ottawa Ministerial Association has placed itself on record against the proposed new Dominion reformatory at Alexandria. The meeting was a special one called to consider a communication from the Prisoners' Aid Association respecting the reformatory. The communication stated the idea was entertained that the proposed reformatory should be located near a city rather than near a small place like Alexandria. A larger place would be much more desirable because it would afford much better facilities for the religious instruction of inmates. In a larger town there were more clergy and more lay workers who would go into prison work. The Ministerial Association unanimously agreed with this and appointed a committee consisting of Revs. Dr. Moore, Dr. Benson, Dr. Saunders, Dr. Campbell and Rev. R. R. McKay to wait on the Minister of Justice to urge the selection of a different site.

With regard to the proposed reformatory, matters now stand as follows: Last session $10,000 was placed in the estimates for the purchase of a site. Some of the properties near Alexandria were looked at by Dominion officials but the price asked was considered too high. So far the arrangements for the purchase of a site have not been concluded, and if it is decided to accept of any of the properties in the vicinity of Alexandria expropriation will have to be resorted to.

Pretty.

A bedroom suite of native white maple with birdseye maple panels, now in A. Clegg's window, attracted considerable notice on Saturday; and especially during the evening large numbers stopped to admire. It is almost white, of neat design, just the thing for a young ladies room. Though pretty and dainty, it is not expensive. dw

BABY CARRIAGES.

—:o:—

Your baby deserves a New Carriage. The old one (that is the old carriage) is shabby and persists in running crooked. If the baby is a new baby so much the more does a new carriage complete the turnout.

A neat, well appointed carriage is an evidence of good taste. It is a credit to the family and relations. Do the folks honour and the baby justice with a new vehicle.

The more so that the new carriage, when bought from our stock, costs but a moderate amount. Dozens of styles. None too good. Some tasty and neat, some handsome and stylish. The prices match. All serviceable and durable.

See our stock before placing the baby on wheels.

A WEAK EXECUTIVE

Conservatives are Disgusted at the Timidity of the Cabinet.

CONVERTS FROM PROTECTION

Mr. E. F. Clarke, of Toronto, One of the Latest Converts to the Benefits of Free Trade—Many Other Cases of Conservatives Who Have Joined the Liberal Ranks.

Ottawa, March 20.—The irresolution of the Cabinet and its lack of any definite policy have given rise in the country to a want of confidence in the Government which is not surprising, because indecision and vacillation in an executive are inexcusable. Conservatives take no pains to conceal their disgust at the timidity and want of back-bone in the Cabinet, but what can they expect with that essence of mediocrity, Premier Bowell, at its head? He has no authority over his colleagues, or over his followers. It is a case of a very small man being chosen by circumstances for a position he would never have reached by choice of his fellow Conservatives. Outside of one or two the whole Cabinet is weak and the only respectable men in it are exceedingly unpopular. In fact Conservatives are hopeless for the immediate future of their party, while on the contrary the Liberals are sanguine and confident.

Ottawa Conservative Split.

The split which has existed for the last 12 months reached the culminating point last night when the ward meetings were held to elect delegates to the Conservative nominating convention for the House of Commons. The supporters of Mr. Taylor McVeity, an independent Conservative opposed to protection, captured nearly all the meetings, and in some cases the other men, who may be styled Bowell Conservatives, held subsequent meetings of their own and elected a separate set of delegates, who will, however, be without credentials. The regular Government Conservatives are determined that Mr. McVeity shall not obtain the nomination, and Mr. McVeity himself says that while he would sooner have the convention he will run whether he gets it or not. There is evidently some fun in store, and perhaps the Liberals may profit by it.

Converts from Protection.

Use is being made of an interview published in Montreal with Mr. A. F. McIntyre, late of Ottawa, to argue that some Liberals are going back on Mr. Laurier's policy. Mr. McIntyre, although a very respectable gentleman in private life, has degenerated politically into a crank. At the time the Liberals at Quebec were using their ballots to put Mr. Mercier out of office for corruption Mr. McIntyre appeared in print with an interview, not quite so long as the present one, in which he wanted rebellion or annexation if Mr. Mercier was forced out. He worked hard to get the Ontario Government to appoint him County Crown Attorney at Ottawa last year, and because he did not get it he ran against Sir Oliver's candidate, and is now no doubt quite willing to run against Mr. Laurier's. If Mr. McIntyre had got the appointment from the Ontario Government he would now be a great admirer of Mr. Laurier's. However, nobody knows Mr. McIntyre outside of where he lives, and something is being made out of him, doubtless, by the Conservative press because they cannot name one Liberal now in public life who since the experience of the National Policy has become a protectionist. On the other hand it is easy to name scores of prominent people who have, since the N.P., been converted from the doctrine of protection to one of a tariff for revenue only, which is as near free trade as Canada can get at present. There is Dalton McCarthy, Principal Grant, Senator Boulton, Col. O'Brien and others of less prominence who have all declared against protection since the acknowledged failure of the National Policy. Mr. McLennan, now a Liberal candidate in Inverness, N.S., was a Conservative candidate down there for many years for the Legislature, but is now carrying Mr. Laurier's standard with a certain assurance of redeeming the county. There is Mr. Tarte, who was once the chief organizer in Quebec for the Conservatives, and is now organizer for the Liberals of that Province. Mr. E. F. Clarke, of Toronto, is one of the latest converts to the benefits of free trade, as was shown by the recent able article in the Orange Sentinel in that line.

The Case of Mr. Calvin.

The case of Mr. Calvin, M.P., of Frontenac, is one of the most remarkable. He is a comparatively young man, whose father did a large business and who is himself engaged in an extensive trade. Very likely he has not given very much attention to fiscal questions and like many others became a Conservative because his father was a supporter of Sir John Macdonald's. When he came to Ottawa in 1891 for his first session he saw disclosed the frightful corruption on the part of Conservatives which was exposed during that session. He had to listen to the speeches of the Liberal leaders on the trade question and heard the best defence the Government could make. His eyes were opened and in his third session he voted for the following resolution, moved by Sir Richard Cartwright, February 16th, 1893: "That the present customs tariff bears heavily and unjustly upon the great consuming classes of the Dominion and should be at once thoroughly reformed in the direction of free trade, and that the amount of taxes collected be limited to the sum required to meet the necessities of government efficiently and economically administered." Mr. Calvin thus voted against the protective tariff and in favor of a tariff for revenue only, and so impossible was it for him to continue to support a protective Government that he declined to run again for Frontenac and retires into private life for the present. There are very many other cases. For instance the Liberal candidate in Western Assiniboia, Mr. Hitchcock, in accepting the nomination said that he had been a Conservative, "but I am now a Liberal from conviction." In the Province of Quebec the number of Conservatives who have come in under the standard of Mr. Laurier is very large. Some idea may be gained when it is recalled that at a Liberal convention the Mayor of one of the parishes, accompanied by thirty or forty electors, marched into the hall and announced that they had always been Conservatives but had decided to join the Liberal ranks.

The Remedial Order will be Signed To-day

Ottawa, March 21.—It is understood that the remedial order on Manitoba, asking that Government to grant the minority's appeal, will be signed this afternoon by Lord Aberdeen.

The Situation in West Durham.

Bowmanville, March 21.—The political situation in West Durham is getting interesting and already the three candidates for the Commons are canvassing and working like Trojans. Mr. R. Beith, the present member, has held public meetings in every polling division in Darlington at which he has spoken himself and was assisted by Dr. McLaughlin, W. Rickard, president West Durham Reform Association and Dr. Mitchell. These meetings were well attended. Mr. D. F. Walsh, the Conservative candidate, is busy among the electors of Clarke township, and the Patrons are likewise active. Hon. Wilfrid Laurier, Sir Richard Cartwright and Mr. James McMullen, M.P., are announced to address two meetings, one in the town hall and the other in the music hall, to be held conveniently to accommodate the electors to-morrow afternoon in the interest of Mr. Beith and, on Saturday, in the town hall, Mr. J. L. Haycock, Patron leader, is billed to speak in the interest of Mr. C. J. Thornton, the Patron candidate. The candidates are anxious to get the ear of the farmers before spring work commences.

The Dicks Inquest.

Toronto, March 21.—The evidence at the adjourned inquest on Tuesday night into the death of Mrs. Dicks who was burned to death on the morning of March 2nd, established the fact beyond a doubt that the body found was that of Mrs. Dicks. Doctors John Caven and John McConnell gave the result of their autopsy performed on the remains of Mrs. Dicks. They were of the opinion that death resulted from burning, and upon a careful examination failed to discover any evidence of violence or criminal neglect, either pathological or otherwise. No evidence of violence was found. All the post-mortem conditions proved that death was caused by burning. This testimony was another damaging blow to the Crown's theory that Arthur Dicks murdered his wife. Nothing has yet been adduced to support the charge. The inquest will be resumed to-morrow night.

The Shooting Was Justifiable.

Cornwall, March 21.—Wm. Carpenter and Frank Easterbrooke, charged with the shooting of the Indian Oak while Oak was stealing wood on Easterbrooke's farm on Cornwall Island, had their preliminary trial concluded before Police Magistrate Bethune yesterday afternoon and were acquitted. The evidence adduced went to show that defendants in protecting their property were called upon to defend their lives, as the Indians attacked them with their axes and the shooting of Oak was justified under the circumstances.

Nova Scotia Legislature Closed.

Halifax, March 21.—The Local Legislature closed yesterday afternoon. Guards of honor were furnished by the King's Regiment and the 63rd Rifles, the Halifax Garrison Artillery firing the salute. Among the Acts passed was one to provide for the formation of a Provincial Farmers' Association, designed to bring together the most enlightened and progressive farmers of our Province in annual convention for the promotion of important agricultural interests.

Sunday Street Cars.

Hamilton, March 21.—The Hamilton Presbytery at its regular meeting passed a resolution endorsing the action of the Lord's Day Alliance in its efforts to have the Government insert into the proposed bill a clause forbidding electric railway companies from carrying on their traffic on Sundays.

High Class Horses for New York.

Montreal, March 21.—Dr. Seward Webb, of New York, has purchased from Mr. Buzzell, the well-known horseman of the Palace Stables, Montreal, a car load of high class horses for coaching purposes. They will be used principally for the coaching drives of the Old Country Club.

Prices of Furs Go Up.

At the Hudson Bay fur sales this year there has been a decided advance in prices. Marten jumped seventy-five per cent. above the prices realised last year, while mink went fifteen per cent. Otter, fisher and lynx maintained the prices of last year but there was a slight decrease in foxes. The sale as a whole, however, is regarded as most satisfactory.

THE PLAYFUL CYCLONE.

No Person Killed, But Housetops and Chimneys Suffered Badly.

Augusta, Ga., March 21. — At nine o'clock yesterday morning Augusta was visited by the most destructive wind storm since 1878. The cyclone came from the southwest with but little warning and in less than a minute had passed over the city into South Carolina. In its track lay destruction. Houses were wiped from their foundations and sent in all directions over housetops that were not touched by the bounding circular wind. There were no fatalities though in many instances roofs were carried away while the occupants were left unhurt. The majority of the houses ruined were small one-storey ones, as the section of the city over which the cyclone passed is that for the most part inhabited by the poorer classes of whites and negroes. The path of the cyclone was about a mile in length from the first place it struck to where it finally rose and passed over. The path was in the shape of an "S" and the cyclone struck about every quarter of a mile making four descents and rebounding, but the second one was perhaps the worst. This was on Gwynett street, between Eighth and Ninth.

The flour mill of Miller & Co. proved a target for the flying debris. A small outhouse from a yard a quarter of a mile away came sailing through the air and struck the side of the mill. The force of the missile shattered the iron and the little house was driven into the side of the larger one. Scantlings and boards also pierced the iron sides of the mill till it had the appearance of a frontier fort after an attack. Several hundred yards further to the northeast the wind came down and demolished one half of the round house of the Central Railway of Georgia. One of the locomotives in the shops at the time was badly damaged and the tin roof of the remaining portion of the building was stripped off. On Fenwick street, near the Southern railway yard, a house containing five persons was blown away, leaving nothing but the flooring and yet no one was hurt.

In all about 40 houses were badly damaged and 20 utterly destroyed. The loss is estimated at $80,000. About 75 people were rendered homeless.

Severe Snow Storm in the South.

St. Louis, March 21.—The snow storm in this vicinity has been general during the past 24 hours. Reports from Southern Missouri and Illinois show that the storm has been severe in these sections. Railway traffic is generally impeded. The storm is still raging and is the most severe in years. The snow is six inches deep and is drifting. At Percy, Ill., a steady northwest gale with blinding snow and minute particles of ice is blowing at the rate of 48 miles an hour. The snow has drifted three and four feet deep in places.

C. P. R. SALARIES.

Sweeping Reductions to be Made From President Van Horne Down.

Montreal, March 21.—It is stated that on the 1st of April a sweeping reduction will be made in the entire salary list. All salaries from $3,000 up will be cut twenty per cent., and all below $3,000 ten per cent. The matter has been under serious consideration for some time and it was generally conceded by those in a position to know that a move of this sort by the executive would be more than likely. It is said that no favoritism will be shown and Sir William Van Horne, as president with $50,000 a year, will suffer as well as the ticket seller at a salary of one-sixtieth that amount.

LAKEHURST.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

The sabbath school Association of Harvey and North Smith held their fourth annual convention in the Presbyterian church, Lakehurst, on Thursday, March 14th. The morning of the day turned out clear and cold and before the hour had arrived (10 a.m.) a goodly number were present from North Harvey and North Smith, together with the delegation who were to address the convention. These were Rev. J. J. Rae, Charlotte street Methodist church, Peterborough; G. R. Clare, Bridgenorth; A. C. Reeves, Presbyterian, and W. Limbert, Methodist, Lakefield, and S. Sing, Bobcaygeon. These, together with the resident ministers of Lakehurst, Revs. Messrs. Jamieson and Fulford, and the efficient help of the president, W. D. Ventress, and the secretary, A. E. Kennedy, not forgetting the efforts of the united chorus, contributed to make a most interesting convention. At about ten a.m. the president, W. D. Ventress, took the chair and called upon Rev. Mr. Jamieson to conduct the devotional exercises, after which the secretary read the minutes of last year's convention. Then followed the report of Sabbath Schools in the bounds of the Association. Six reported a steady progression in numerical, financial and spiritual things. Rev. W. H. Fulford then addressed the convention. Subject, "The Influence of the Scholars upon the Teacher." The chief points of argument were, the leading of the child into place in the church, and the child the emblem of faith in Christ, and the pattern of it. A short discussion followed this as well as upon all papers. Rev. S. Sing then addressed the convention on the subject "The Sabbath School Teacher." He dealt at length with the properties and qualities of efficient Sunday School teachers. His remarks were well received and no doubt all were much benefitted by them. After a short discussion of this topic, the Nominating Committee were appointed. Miss Nellie Weir presided at the organ through the morning session, which adjourned at 12.15.

AFTERNOON SESSION FROM 2 TO 5 P.M.

After the meeting was called to order, the president requested Rev. Mr. Fulford to conduct devotional exercises, after which the report of the Nominating Committee was received. It was as as follows: President, A. E. Kennedy; Secretary-Treasurer, David Weir; Committeemen—North Smith, S. Harrison; Lakehurst, J. Coons and W. Stephenson; Government Road, Matthew Waram; North Harvey, A. Brock, W. D. Ventress and G. H. Brummell.

Mr. Ventress then resigned the chair to Mr. Kennedy, and Mr. Weir took his seat at the table. Rev. Mr. Jamieson's address was to the point and heartily received. His subject was "The Preparation of Sabbath School Teachers." He touched upon the subject in a manner helpful to all. Rev. J. J. Rae then came forward and with his blackboard gave a demonstration of a very practical method of teaching a lesson to a class, teaching them both through the eyes as well as the ears. Mr. Rae is a specialist on teaching by blackboard, and his lesson was heartily appreciated by all.

The choir lead in singing a familiar hymn, then Rev. A. C. Reeves, of Lakefield, presented a masterly paper to the convention on the connection of the Sabbath school with the church. His paper treated largely upon the Bible schools, which existed among the Jews before the Christian era, then bringing it down to the present day. Rev. W. Limbert, of Lakefield, then addressed the convention upon the spiritual welfare of the schools. He laid, as did all the speakers, great stress upon the point that the teachers should have the salvation of his class at heart, and he believed that there should be more conversions in the Sabbath schools, the teachers thus seeing the fruit of their labours.

Rev. G. R. Clare, Bridgenorth, then read a scholarly paper, subject, "A study of the Epistle of the Ephesians." He gave thus a comprehensive view of the whole Epistle, bringing out clearly and distinctly its most important points, showing the apostle's strength and beauty of thought. Again the choir led in the singing of a familiar hymn and W. D. Ventress, ex-president of the convention, gave a few practical every day remarks upon "The relation of the Sabbath School to the Home." They were to the point. Then came the question drawer, over which Mr. Rae presided, and answered all the questions he could, but some questioner innocently asked at what time did Jonah swallow the whale, he apparently was not well enough up in his dates to answer. Session closed with benediction.

EVENING SESSION, FROM 7 TO 9 P.M.

After devotional exercises Mr. Limbert again addressed the convention, dealing with his subject in a masterly manner, showing clearly that his heart is in the work in which he is engaged. Mr. Rae's study of New Testament history was a treat to all, and he, as well as the rest of the rev. gentlemen, may rest assured of a hearty welcome to Harvey on any future occasion.

Mr. Reeve's address upon "Temperance" enforced the idea of total abstinence the only cure for victims of alcoholic liquors. It should be taught in the Sabbath schools. His position as regards the question of prohibition was clearly defined.

Collections were taken up at both afternoon and evening sessions to defray expenses in connection with this convention. The gathering was dismissed by the benediction. The large number in attendance voting it a most enjoyable affair.

The united choirs aided in the enjoyment of the occasion. Much is due their help.

FREE FROM HEADACHE.

Three Years of Suffering. Headache Every Day, and no Relief from Doctors or Medicine until B. B. B. made a Complete Cure.

DEAR SIRS,—I had severe headache for the past three years, and was not free from it a single day. I used doctors' medicines and all others I could think of, but it did me no good. My cousin said I must try B. B. B. because it is the best medicine ever made, and I took three bottles of it, with the result that it has completely cured me. I think Burdock Blood Bitters, both for headaches and as a blood purifier, is the best in the world, and am glad to recommend it to all my friends.

ANOTHER PROOF OF THE VALUE OF THE GREAT SPRING MEDICINE.

The following letter from Mrs. H. Harbour, of Winnipeg, Man., should give strong encouragement to all who suffer from heart disease, kidney trouble and general weakness. Such sufferers should take warning of the dread results that are sure to follow if disease is neglected in the spring season. Now is the time to cleanse and put away loads of disease; a month or two later your case may be a hopeless one. Paine's Celery Compound is the only cleanser and disease-banisher that can meet successfully the worst cases. It succeeds when all other medicines fail; it is the only true health-restorer, and our best Canadian people testify daily to its virtues and wondrous health-imparting qualities.

Mrs. Harbour says:—

"It is with great pleasure that I write to thank you for your wonderful medicine, Paine's Celery Compound. A month ago I was very sick and happened to see one of your publications, in which I read of others being cured. I concluded to try Paine's Celery Compound myself, and I now thank God for the wonders it accomplished for me. I was suffering from heart disease, kidney trouble and general weakness, and some days was not able to stand without experiencing great pain; my appetite was also very poor. Since I used the Compound I am able to get about the house and work, and can now eat anything put before me.

"I trust my testimony may lead many to try your valuable remedy."

KINMOUNT.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

The home of Mr. A. Hopkins was the scene of a pleasant surprise last Saturday evening, it having become known that Miss Bertha was going to Belleville to attend Albert College. The teachers and officers of the Union Sunday school gathered at her home to bid her farewell. Miss Hopkins was presented with a beautiful gold bracelet and the following

ADDRESS:

Miss Bertha Hopkins:

DEAR FRIEND, MISS HOPKINS,—We, the teachers and officers of Kinmount Union Sunday school, embrace this opportunity of expressing our appreciation of your services as organist in our school. You have been organist for the past four years, and during that time you have not only been prompt and efficient in the discharge of your duties but, besides, you have cheerfully and without hesitation assisted in our public entertainments and other work of the school, and we ask you to kindly accept this gold bracelet, not as a remuneration for your services but as an expression of our appreciation of your services and our kind feelings toward you.

And now we all heartily join in wishing you every enjoyment and prosperity in your contemplated course of study at Belleville.

Signed on behalf of the school,

J. KINGSBORO, Supt.,
R. P. CUMMINGS,
(Miss) A. GRAHAM,
H. J. HARPER.

Mr. Hopkins, on behalf of his daughter, made a very pleasant and suitable reply.

While Mr. Will Coben was wending his may into the village last Saturday, with a heavy load of telegraph poles, he felt chilly and got off to walk. While walking another teamster with a light load came up and announced his approach by a loud snap of his "blacksnake," which frightened Mr. Coben's team. They ran into the village and attempted to make the turn on to the bridge, but the load had attained such momentum that it shot right over the end of the bridge and dragged one of the horses with it, leaving the other horse on the bridge. Although the horse and load fell a distance of nearly twelve feet, he escaped with a few bruises and a shaking up. Mr. Coben may well feel thankful that the results were not more serious. This should be a warning to thoughtless teamsters who are continually cracking their whip to show off their smartness.

Miss Sara Lord Bailey gave one of her select programmes under the auspices of the Union Sunday school, one evening last week. The entertainment was a decided success in every particular.

Considerable talk about the elections, but not much enthusiasm yet. Mr. Hughes, Government candidate, addressed the electors here last Wednesday night. His address did not create much enthusiasm, but he said he would try and do better next time.

FRUIT TREE SPRAYING.

A Spraying Expedition From the Agricultural College.

Prof. Mills, of the Agricultural College, Guelph, is arranging to set out a spraying expedition the coming spring. A couple of capable men with a proper outfit will be sent out to show how the spraying of fruit trees for the destruction of insect pests and fungi should be done, something on the principle of the Travelling Dairy. Prof. Mills has written Mr. J. Fred Davidson, president of the West Riding Farmers' Institute, that he will not be able to send his travelling sprayers into Peterborough this year. It is proposed to first visit the lake counties, but it is probable that the spraying apparatus and attendants will visit this county next year.

Truly Astonishing.

Distressing Constipation Cured by B. B. B.

GENTLEMEN,—For three years I have been terribly troubled with that distressing complaint, Constipation, and tried different medicines until last spring, when I commenced taking Burdock Blood Bitters, and after the use of five bottles had no more of my terrible suffering. Before I began using B. B. B. my appetite had almost gone and I was thin and very weak, but after the use of each bottle I could (and so did others) see a wonderful change in my looks and I felt my strength returning to me.

WARSAW.

From Our Own Correspondent.

Miss Daisy Fowler, of Athens, who has been visiting Miss' cousin, Miss Maud Mangan, for the past two weeks, returned home on Wednesday.

Miss Tilly Hope, of Peterborough, who has been visiting friends here, returned home, on Monday.

The Rev. R. Hyde attended the Presbytery meeting, at Port Hope, on Tuesday.

Miss May Clute has returned from a two months' visit to the parental roof at Bath.

Mr. Angus McIntosh is seriously ill with an attack of pleurisy.

The many friends of Mr. David Miller will be sorry to learn that he has been forced to return to the Nicholls Hospital again for treatment.

The funeral of the late Mrs. John Leslie, Douro, took place on Monday. The Rev. R. Hyde conducted the services.

Mr. J. Griffin, of Lakefield, has completed his contract of moving the cheese factory in a most satisfactory manner. Mr. Griffin's careful skill reflects great credit on him as a workman. The factory is now in a much better position than it was previously. The side of the building is now parallel with South street, making it much more convenient for the delivery of milk and affording better facilities for whey and water drainage.

At a meeting of the School Board held on Monday evening the contract for the carpenter work of repairing our school house was awarded to Mr. G. J. Jopling of Bridgenorth. The buildings will be thoroughly renovated, new floors, desks, etc., will be put in, and an addition of fifteen feet will be built to the north end of the school house. It is expected that the school will be ready for use by the beginning of September, so as not to interfere with the term's work.

In connection with the Sunday School Normal class organized here for sometime, two examinations were recently held. The results have not yet been received.

The first annual meeting of the patrons of the Warsaw Cheese and Butter Factory was held in the town hall on Saturday. There was a goodly number of the patrons present. The stockholders agreed to manufacture the cheese for 1¼ cents per pound. The manufacturing price of the butter will be fixed at a later meeting. On motion Mr. H. Smith was elected secretary and treasurer. The factory is to be open for operation about the 29th of April. Mr. S. H. Payne has been engaged as manager and the outlook for the coming season is a bright one. During the meeting an animated discussion took place on the feeding of turnips to cows during the milking season. The result was that a resolution was passed condemning the feeding of turnips, and strongly advising the feeding of corn, carrots or mangolds instead.

A number of our young people attended the tea held at South Dummer Methodist church last Monday evening. We understand that the tea was up to the usual high standard of excellence, and that the lecture delivered by the Rev. J. Speer, was highly admired and enjoyed by every one present.

Several of of our Methodist friends attended the services at Norwood on Sunday, in order to hear the addresses of the Rev. Dr. Carman, general superintendent of the Methodist church.

THE GUNMAKER OF ILION.

Jefferson M. Clough Refuses a Tempting Offer From the Chinese Government.

From the Springfield, Mass., Union.

There isn't a gun manufacturer in the United States who does not know Jefferson M. Clough, and why? Because he has been intimately associated all his life with the development of the two best American rifles, the Remington and the Winchester. For years he was superintendent of E. Remington & Sons' great factory at Ilion, N. Y. After leaving there he refused a tempting offer of the Chinese Government to go to China to superintend their government factories, and accepted instead the superintendency of the Winchester Arms Co., at New Haven, at a salary of $7,500 a year. Faithful, of untiring energy, and of extraordinary ability in his line of business, he did more to develop the Remington and Winchester rifles than anyone. But he was forced to retire owing to failing of health, and he is now located on his 500 acre country place at Belchertown, Mass., and while his old friends will be delighted at his recovery, he without doubt will not enter active business again, being 65 years old and very well to do.

During the summer of '93 and the winter of '94 it will be remembered he was confined to his house and bed with muscular rheumatism of a severe nature. But he began taking Dr. Williams' Pink Pills about the 1st of March, 1894, and continued to do so until the first part of September following. The first effect noticed was a better appetite, and he began to notice more ability to help himself off the bed and to be better generally. Last August, (1894), he was able to go alone to his summer residence and farm on Grenadier Island, among the Thousand Islands in the River St. Lawrence; and now, instead of being confined to his bed, Mr. Clough is and has been for some time able to be about the farm to direct the men employed there, and is thankful for his recovery.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills contain all the elements necessary to give new life and richness to the blood, and restore shattered nerves. They are for sale by all druggists, or may be had by mail from Dr. Williams' Medicine Company, Brockville, Ont., for 50 cents per box, or six boxes for $2.50.

A Rough Ride.

Three occupants of a cutter had a rough voyage between Havelock and Campbellford, on Sunday. Their horse, unaccustomed to the numerous pitch-holes which ornament the road, became unruly and fractious, and they were pitched out. Three times the animal made a desperate effort at running away, twice he was run into a fence, and six or seven times the cutter was nearly upset. Finally the troublesome beast was unhitched near the I X L cheese factory, and led to Campbellford by one of the party, while the other two hitched themselves to the cutter and drew it to that town—a distance of only three miles! The experience was by no means enjoyed by either of the party.

THE CHIEF CHARGES A CRIMINAL LIBEL

AGAINST W. H. ROBERTSON, OF THE "TIMES."

Hearing of the Charge Before Police Magistrate Dumble—The Charge, the Letter and the Apology—Summary of the Evidence Given—The Case Adjourned for One Week.

THURSDAY, March 21st.

At the police court this morning Mr. W. H. Robertson, publisher of the Morning Times, was arraigned before Police Magistrate Dumble on the following charge preferred by Chief of Police Roszel:—

The said informant says that William Hepburn Robertson, at the town of Peterborough, in the county of Peterborough, on Saturday, the 16th day of March, 1895, unlawfully and maliciously intending to injure and prejudice the said complainant, then holding the office of Chief of Police, of the said town of Peterborough, and intending to deprive him of his office and of his good name and reputation, and to bring him into public contempt and ridicule and disgrace, did publish and cause to be published in the Peterborough Times, a newspaper published in the said town of Peterborough, a false and defamatory libel, in the form of a letter containing divers false and defamatory matters of and concerning the said complainant, which letter is in the words and figures following:—

A LETTER.

Editor of the Times.

A few days ago a telephone message was received at police headquarters asking for protection in a row at the Italian colony. Chief Roszel (alone) responded to the call and to his consternation saw with his own eyes a subject of the sunny south brandishing a dagger and placing life and limb in danger. Did he arrest him? Did he have the courage to arrest him? Did he show any disposition to arrest him? Did he try by any persuasion to make the sunny desperado subside into perfect quiet? These are questions I would like answered. In addition he might, while answering the above questions, answer the following:—Why did he not arrest the desperado on the spot? Why did he issue a warrant for his arrest, and ask a subordinate to carry it into execution? How does he recognize the above facts with a sense of duty—a duty which ought at all times to be exhibited with that degree of courage necessary to the true fulfilment of the position of Chief of Police.

Yours sincerely,

"BRAVERY."

Meaning thereby that the said complainant had seen a breach of the peace committed in the said town of Peterborough, and had, as Chief of Police of said town of Peterborough, acted in an unmanly and cowardly manner, and had utterly failed to do his duty as such Chief of Police in respect of such breach of the peace, and was unfit for his said office of Chief of Police, he, the said William H. Robertson well knowing the said defamatory libel to be false, contrary to the statute in that behalf.

To this Mr. Robertson, who was represented by Mr. Poussette, pleaded not guilty, and elected to be tried by jury.

Mr. Wood, County Crown Attorney, appeared for the Crown, and suggested that the charge might be waived if Mr. Robertson would give up the letter complained of and disclose the name of the writer. This Mr. Poussette was not prepared to assent to, and he further thought that in view of the ample apology that had been published in an early issue the proceedings should be allowed to lapse.

This is a copy of the apology:

"AN APOLOGY TO CHIEF ROSZEL.

In Saturday's issue of "The Times" a letter appeared signed "Bravery," referring to a row at the Italian Colony, in which it is stated that Chief Roszel, in answer to a telephone message proceeded to the spot, and, although "to his consternation he saw with his own eyes a subject of the sunny South brandishing a dagger and placing life and limb in danger," he made no arrests. The letter in other respects reflects upon the Chief's conduct on that occasion. While our columns are open to the public for any fair criticism of the town's officials, we would not willingly allow defamatory matter to be published. We find upon enquiry that the statements made in the letter referred to are wholly without foundation, so far as they contain any imputation upon Chief Roszel's courage or conduct on the occasion referred to; and we regret exceedingly that the letter appeared. It was received late at night and was printed and published without the knowledge or authority of the proprietor or chief editor, neither of whom saw it until after the paper was issued. So far as we are concerned, we fully retract every imputation that the letter contains against Chief Roszel, and tender him a sincere apology for its publication."

No agreement having been arrived at the taking of evidence was proceeded with.

THE EVIDENCE TAKEN.

R. J. Sanderson was the first witness called. Identified a copy of Daily Morning Times of March 16th. He bought it at Times office. Did not know who the proprietor was unless it was W. H. Robertson.

C. H. J. Mitchell, day foreman of the Morning Times, testified that Mr. Robertson was the publisher of the Times and thought the proprietor was the "Times Printing Company." Did not know of any person except Mr. Robertson being associated with the company. The first he knew, to notice it, of the letter complained of, was the day he was subpoenaed—Tuesday.

H. C. Winch testified that Mr. Robertson was the lessee of the premises in which the Times is printed. He had generally understood that Mr. Robertson was proprietor.

To Mr. Poussette — Have no actual knowledge of Mr. Robertson being proprietor.

Here Mr. Poussettee admitted for Mr. Robertson that the latter was proprietor of the Times.

Fred Green, a lad employed in the Times as apprentice, was at work on Friday night last. Mr. Harris, reporter, gave him the copy of the letter (in the case) to set up. The "copy was filed and afterwards thrown into the waste basket. The letter was written on paper with "Snowden House" heading. He set "copy" about 11 o'clock p.m.

F. K. Harris, reporter for the Times, was on duty on Friday night. Found the copy of the letter on his desk. Did not know who left it there. Witness took charge of the office when Mr. Robertson left, about 6 or 7 p.m. that night.

On Mr. Wood's question as to who wrote the letter, Mr. Poussette objected that there was no necessity to find out who wrote the letter, as the case had to do only with the publication. These proceedings were not intended to base a civil suit upon. The objection was over-ruled.

Witness continuing testified that there was no name to the letter except "Bravery." There was a note with the letter, which he did not think was signed. He believed both letters were written by Andrew McNeil. He judged so from the handwriting.

To Mr. Poussette—Did not speak to Mr. Robertson about the letter, because he thought it was from a reputable person. He had instructions to submit all matters of a personal nature intended for publication to Mr. Robertson for approval.

To Mr. Wood—When he was employed he had instructions not to allow anything of a defamatory character to appear in the Times. All personal reflections must be submitted to Mr. Robertson for approval. He took this to apply to Chief Roszel.

Mr. Wood asked who wrote an article in the Times of Feb. 2nd.

Mr. Poussette objected; this was not a matter at issue.

The objection was over-ruled and witness admitted that he wrote the article in the Times of February 2nd. "Man and Boy," respecting the Chief of Police being worsted "by a boy of twenty," which was repeated in Saturday's issue following. Witness admitted that he wrote an article respecting the Chief, on Feb. 6th, under heading "Ins and Outs." He wrote the item on his own responsibility. There was never an apology for these. Didn't know anything of a letter of Feb. 8th, signed "Counsellor." Did not know who wrote the "Lime Juice Club." Witness did not know who wrote editorial squib relating to Chief, on Feb. 9th. Witness said it was not the policy of the paper to keep up a tirade against the Chief. Did not know who wrote the editorial paragraph, suggesting "the Chief and his henchman" in Times of Feb. 14th and in Feb. 16th in the "Lime Juice Club" report, a poem, by Chief Roszel, appears. Did not know who wrote the poem. Witness wrote two paragraphs in 18th, "a false alarm" relating to officiousness of police and another item in "ins and outs." Witness wrote article "Thirty years hence." Thought Mr. Robertson saw this before publication.

To Mr. Poussette—The explanation of the appearance of some articles twice, is that matter through the week is selected from the dailies for the Saturday and weekly editions.

To Mr. Wood—Have no personal animosity against the Chief. He had one bet that the Chief would be discharged, but he had no animosity.

Jos. Stewart, constable, testified that he had heard conversation with Mr. W. H. Robertson on the streets; a councillor was with him.

Mr. Poussettee objected, saying that we had no right to show malice. We must confine ourselves to newspaper remarks.

The objection was noted and the witness allowed to continue. He said that Mr. Robertson, after criticising the Chief, said he would never "let up or be satisfied until he had driven the Chief out of town."

To Mr. Poussette—The councillor was Mr. Best. It was last summer some time, this was said. It was on George street, near Mr. Best's own store. One of the complaints against the Chief by Mr. Robertson was that the Chief followed the latter to the Snowden House on a Sunday in the hope of convicting him of a breach of the license law.

Mr. Poussette—Mr. Stewart, are you a member of the P. P. A.?

Mr. Stewart—No I am not.

Mr. Poussette—You are charged with being one, I believe.

Mr. Stewart—Well, I am not, and I deny it under oath.

Mr. Poussette—I have given you a chance to do so.

Mr. Stewart—I am much obliged to you.

Chief Roszel—Said he was the person referred to in the letter in this case. There was no truth in it except in reference to the warrant, and the subordinate who accompanied him. Mr. Robertson had come to the police office after the summons was served, and said he could produce the men who saw the occurrences as stated. He asked witness if there was any truth in the statements. He said there was not.

To Mr. Poussette—The Chief said that there had been little tiffs between him and Mr. Robertson on account of the way the paper had been attacking him. The paper had complained that witness had not done his duty. Had no animus against Mr. Robertson. He did not follow Mr. Robertson alone to the Snowden House. There were two other citizens with him. He thought they might wish to get a drink on Sunday night. He did not peek into the windows. He did not listen at the door of Mr. Robertson's office, but went up to the doors. He tried the door and found it locked. He acted on information that unlawful practices were going on. He went in and found nothing wrong. This was some three or four years ago. The Chief said he did not bother Mr. Robertson without complaints.

In answer to a question from Mr. Poussette the Chief said he did not know a society like the P.P.A. He was a Protestant anyway. He joined a society two years ago, but had not been to a meeting since.

This concluded the evidence and the magistrate was sorry they could not settle their differences and bury the hatchet. The letter insinuates grave charges against an officer and there was the point to be considered that subordinates had been careless and he had hoped that the matter might be adjusted.

Mr. Poussette contended that ample apology had been published.

The Magistrate—Can't you bury the hatchet so deep that it will not come up?

He suggested that upon Mr. Robertson undertaking to do better the matter might be dropped.

Mr. Wood suggested further retraction, and the Chief said he was not prepared to submit to what he had borne from the Times for the past two years. If he related the circumstances that had influenced his course there would be a different face put upon the matter. He had no animosity against Mr. Robertson.

Mr. Poussette remarked that in conducting an outspoken paper like the Times, Mr. Robertson had had occasion to criticise other officers as well as Chief Roszel. Mr. Robertson had no animus against the Chief, but had acted upon information supplied by citizens.

The magistrate suggested that people that were not the best citizens might suggest false statements, and these being acted upon caused trouble.

The case was adjourned for one week.

PERSONAL.

Mr. J. B. Oke is in Cobourg to-day on a business trip.

Mr. R. R. Hall was in Belleville yesterday on business.

Mr. J. C. Jamieson, of the Belleville Intelligencer, was in town last evening for a few hours.

Rev. Father Cullen, of the Cathedral, delivered a lecture on Irish character, in Lindsay, on Sunday evening last.

Mr. S. W. Merrick, Grand Patriarch of the Grand Encampment, of Ontario, will deliver an address in the I. O. O. F. apartments on Friday evening next. All members of the Encampments will be welcomed.

The Campbellford Herald says: "A popular preacher, and we should judge a favourite among the congregations to whom he has ministered, is the Rev. W. R. Young, B.A., pastor of the George street Methodist church, Peterborough. He was in Campbellford on Sunday last, and conducted the morning and evening services in the church here. Mr. Young is a quiet, yet forcible speaker in the pulpit, presenting excellent thoughts in good language, and strong points in support of his statements, and his well arranged ideas in rounding off a good sermon are strengthened with many apt illustrations."

THE EVANGELISTS.

The Services Still in St. Paul's Increasing in Interest.

St. Paul's church was crowded last evening by a congregation anxious to listen to the eloquent words of Evangelists Moore and White.

Mr. Moore took as the text for his discourse the words "Who shall tell thee words, whereby thou and all thy house shall be saved." Acts xi chap., 14th verse. The address was one of the most practical, earnest and effective of the series given as was manifested by the attention bestowed and by the results, as a large number signified their anxiety as to their future welfare and afterwards spent some time in the enquiry room, where they received Christ and professed to be saved.

The series of services are evidently taking a firm hold, each one apparently growing in interest. The afternoon meetings, as well as those in the evenings, are always well attended.

To-morrow afternoon, at 4.15 o'clock, a children's service will be held in St. Paul's church to which the public is cordially invited.

FELL DOWN THE CELLAR STAIRS.

Old Mrs. Molloy Meets With a Severe Accident While Scrubbing.

Mrs. Molloy, who is well known in the business section of the town, through being employed in cleaning out the stores, etc., met with a most serious accident this morning.

Mrs. Molloy was scrubbing the floor in Mr. Geo. A. Schofield's drug store and in passing through a rear room on her way to empty a pail of water fell through an open trap door down into the cellar.

A few minutes later, Mr. Schofield thinking he heard a muffled groan, proceeded to investigate and was horrified to find the old woman lying in a state of insensibility at the bottom of the staircase. With the help of two others she was carried up into the store and Dr. Clarke summoned. An examination proved that the right arm was broken and that Mrs. Molloy was also badly bruised about the body and head. When sufficiently recovered, she was moved to St. Joseph's Hospital, where she is reported to be resting comfortably.

A Complimentary Resolution.

At the third quarterly meeting of the Charlotte street Methodist Church Board, a very complimentary resolution was moved and seconded, inviting Rev. Mr. Rae to continue his pastorate of the church for another year. After many kind expressions on the part of different members of the board, it was unanimously carried. Mr. Rae, in reply accepting the invitation, gave expression in pleasing terms to the satisfaction he had experienced and encouragement met with in his intercourse with the members of the congregation, which had been of a nature most delightfully happy.

PRESBYTERY OF PETERBOROUGH

It Met and Transacted Business in Port Hope.

The Presbytery of Peterborough met in Port Hope on Tuesday, 19th of March. Mr. Laird, of Port Hope, was chosen moderator for six months.

The consideration of a petition from Warsaw was deferred until next meeting of Presbytery. The difficulty between Bethesda and Alnwick, as to the proportion of stipend to be paid by each station has been overcome, and Mr. Ross remains as the pastor of the charge.

Arrangements were made for the wiping out of all arrears of stipend due by the congregation of Springville to their late pastor.

Reports were received as to visitation made to several of the augmented congregations and the necessary steps taken to secure the visitation of those from which no reports have been received.

There were present. Revs. Dr. Torrance and A. MacWilliams, B.A., of Peterborough; William Bennett, Apsley; A. C. Reeves, B.A., Lakefield; R. Hyde, Warsaw; James Ross, B.A., Harwood; A. K. MacLeod, Brighton; Peter Duncan, Colborne; C. S. Lord, B.D., Grafton; John May, B.D., Cobourg; W. Jamieson, Harvey; Dr. J. K. Smith, James Cleland, A. MacNaughton and A. Laird, ministers, also Robert Tully, Peterborough; Alex. Russell, Cobourg; R. M. Sanderson, Springville; William G. Spiers, Grafton; Robert Graham, Lakefield; and J. MacCulloch elders.

Reports were received from several congregations in which Presbyterial visitations have been held and great gratification expressed in connection therewith.

The remit of assembly anent the appointment of a standing committee on missions to the Jews was approved of.

The remit of the amalgamation of certain committee was approved of to the extent of recommending that reports on the state of religion, Sabbath observance, and systematic beneficence be almagamated, but that there be a separate report on Temperance.

The Rev. Dr. Gregg, of Knox College, Toronto, was nominated as Moderator of Assembly.

The following ministers were appointed as delegates to the assembly, viz., Anderson, MacWilliams, Oswald, Smith, Cattanach, McClelland and Johnston. The elders appointed were Messrs. Underwood, of Grafton; D. S. Hague, of Baltimore; G. Rutherford, of Castleton; A. J. Johnston, of Peterborough; H. Graham, of Lakefield; R. Tully, of Peterborough, and I. Cralck, of Port Hope.

The next meeting of Presbytery was appointed to be held in St. Andrew's church, Peterborough, on the first Tuesday of July at 9 o'clock.

Mr. W. H. Murray, barrister, Peterborough, made application to be received as a student in theology with a view to the ministery. A committee was appointed to consider the application and to confer with Mr. Murray. On the report of the committee the Presbytery agreed to recommend to the Assembly that "Mr. Murray be received as a first year student in theology, and that he be allowed to take two years extra-murally in theology."

The application of Mr. Anderson to be allowed to retire from the active duties of the ministry was considered and the necessary steps taken in the case.

An interesting report on statistics was presented. The Presbytery has now 26 pastoral charges. Five congregations were settled during the year—Havelock, Mill street (Port Hope), Millbrrok, Norwood and Lakefield—and two remain vacant—Omemee and Springville. One church and two manses were built during the year. The total membership under the charge of the Presbytery is 5,150. For Foreign Missions the congregations have contributed slightly less than the year before; but the W. F. M. S. has made a gain greater than this loss. The Augmentation Fund gains $91 as compared with last year; the colleges gain to the extent of about $60, but the Home Mission Fund comes short by about $106. About $140 more than last year have been raised for the schemes of the church as a whole.

STRUCK BY A FALLING TREE.

Howard Oke Instantly Killed Tuesday Morning.

Two brothers, Messrs. William and Howard Oke, of Welcome, near Port Hope, were engaged in getting out wood on the farm of Mr. Joseph Simmons in the Mast woods, and about 11 o'clock Tuesday morning they cut a tree, and ran to what they considered a safe point. They did not calculate correctly, for the tree in falling alighted upon its limbs, which acted in this case like strong springs, causing the tree to rebound with great force and pinioning Howard across the trunk of another large tree. His brother was instantly by his side, but Howard never moved or spoke. William had to go over half a mile to procure assistance, and upon his return and the removal of the tree it was found he was quite dead. Dr. Corbett, coroner, was notified, viewed the body and decided an inquest unnecessary.

Howard Oke was a young man 18 years of age, greatly respected, and his widowed mother has the sympathy of all the community in this last and very great loss of her youngest son. He was a nephew of Mr. J. B. Oke, of Peterborough, who will attend the funeral to-morrow.

CURLIANA.

Last evening Skip Rutherford defeated Skip Ferguson in the final draw for the President's medal. The match was a close one, and before the last end was played Skip Ferguson was one shot up. The last end, however, gave Skip Rutherford three shots, although the result was in doubt until the last shot had been played. The game was watched by an interested group of spectators, who migrated up and down the sides as the ends changed. The rinks were composed as follows:

H Phelan,	J Wills,
C Rutherford,	E S Clegg,
G Brown,	D Davidson,
T Rutherford, sk...16	W G Ferguson, skip..12

HOCKEY.

The combination team from the EXAMINER and Review offices and an aggregation terming themselves the "Greenies" faced each other at the rink, last night, with the result that the newspaper men were beaten by the close score of 2—2.

Mr. Gus Hay, one of the Greenie forwards, was ill and a spare man was utilized in consequence in the person of young Ackerman. He proved to be a man whom the combination team could well have spared from the ice, as being the captain of the Collegiate II and in good practice, his assistance undoubtedly gave the game to the Greenies. The teams were composed as follows:

Combination.		Greenies.
Dobbin	goal	W Hall
Glover	point	R H Bradburn
Heap	cover	W Dumble
Hubbs	forwards	H Goldsmith
MacWilliams		G Frost
MacWilliams		— Ackerman
Terrill		C Dumble

Referee—P. G. Goldsmith.

The first game was scored by Terrill for the Combination team, by a shoot from a a scrimmage in front of the flags, but although the puck was almost constantly kept on the Greenies' flags, it seemed impossible for the newspaper men to score again, not being sufficiently versed in the knack of lifting the puck from the ice. The Greenies scored three games in succession before the Combinations scored another, when Glover shot the puck between the flags. Another goal shortly afterwards went to the Greenies, and though the newspaper men strained every nerve they were unable to score again before time was called.

Each of the forwards on the Greenies team scored a goal, viz: C. Dumble, Ackerman, Frost and Goldsmith. W. Dumble, R. H. Bradburn and W. Hall formed a strong defense and the latter in goal was kept on the alert all evening. He stopped some good ones.

The rushes of the MacWilliams brothers for the combination were brilliant, and it is mystifying to understand how it was that they were not attended with better results.

A return match will be played some evening this week when the combination team hopes to turn the tables on the Greenies.

The hockey match which will be played to-morrow evening between the Peterboroughs and the Collegiate Institute seven will, without doubt, be the fastest which has been played on the rink this season. The Collegiates are in splendid trim as the result of their constant practice and the Peterboroughs — well the Peterboroughs are the junior champions of Ontario. The puck will be faced at eight o'clock.

TURF.

The admirers of fast horse flesh in Eastern Ontario have formed a trotting circuit to take place in the month of June in the towns of Lancaster, Cornwall, Wales, Iroquois and Prescott, beginning with the former and ending with Prescott just before the midsummer races at Ogdensburg, N.Y. Lancaster will hang up $800 in prizes, Cornwall and Wales $1000 each, and Prescott and Iroquois will probably give larger purses.

LACROSSE

A meeting of those interested in the re-organization of the Peterborough Lacrosse team will be held on Tuesday evening next in the Palace Restaurant parlours.

REV. SEPTIMUS JONES.

He Delivers a Wednesday Evening Sermon in St. John's.

A very large congregation greeted Rev. Septimus Jones, of Toronto, in St. John's church last night and his timely sermon was listened to with the closest attention.

He first spoke of the relation borne to each other by husband and wife. The unalterable Bible rule, he pointed out, was that the wife should obey her husband, but the Bible was careful not to mention the word "rule" in this connection and therefore, it might be understood that husbands should govern by love and not arrogantly. The wisdom of ruling through love was apparent in the fact that it smoothed over many difficulties in marital life and the speaker deprecated the fact that some men were more polite to others than to their own wives. Many wives craved for the signs of affection in their husbands and any little acts of thoughtfulness were always appreciated.

Regarding the relationship existing between the parent and child, Mr. Jones argued in favour of exacting the most prompt and implicit obedience from the latter. Without this obedience all the training which children received at school would go for little. A strict line should be drawn in regard to discipline. A distinction be thought, however, should be made between a childish error and a transgression of the moral laws. A little one should not be punished in the same manner for breaking a jug as for telling an untruth.

In connection with the manner in which the employer treated the employee. Mr. Jones thought the relation could never be settled by mere law, although a law could doubtless do much to introduce a more harmonious feeling. Unless, however, both the employer and employee had the love of God in their hearts they would naturally act unjustly towards one another upon occasions. The speaker dwelt to some length on the difficulties now existing in labour circles, and on some points which were not thought of in connection with the settlement thereof.

A great deal of the success of any business, he thought, depended upon the capability of its management and it payed an employer to secure efficient management of his concern. The small economies in life, such as abstinence from the use of tobacco, etc., often accounted for the difference between the thriving and the unsuccessful laboring man. He advocated that all employers should do unto their employees as they would be done by should they change places. If this rule was not complied with retribution would fall upon the head of the employer sooner or later. He urged all men to cultivate a feeling of Christian charity and forbearance towards their brothers and strive to take a broad and liberal view of all things.

In closing, the speaker expressed his pleasure at finding the Church in Peterborough so united and stated that through unnecessary division into small struggling parishes the Church had lost greatly in other sections of the country.

WHAT TO WEAR TO BE IN THE FASHION.

New Things Seen at the Toronto Spring Openings Wednesday.

The millinery openings are in full blast in Toronto now. It may be mentioned that the prevailing shades are blues and browns, the rage for browns that developed last spring having been emphasized in the interval. At the silk counters fancy silks are all the rage, and there is a great stock of taffetas in chine, stripes, plaids, pompadours and broche effects.

Among the fashionable crepes are Crepe de Lyon, Gaufre, Noblesse and Gaufre de Lyon. A good many new shades have been introduced, including Hermosa, Genete, Gulsmonda, Cavillaire, Fuschia, Bluet and cornflower blues, Mordore and Tabac. In fact, tobacco shades and leather browns are the very apex of fashion in colours. A feature of the season will be costumes with a plain silk body and very large sleeves of plaid pattern or other fancy material.

The parasols of 1895 will be of the most elaborate character, and have been selected to match the costumes imported. They are, speaking generally, trimmed with chiffons and lace effects, while a great many are in harmony with the taffetas at the silk counters.

The bonnets of 1895 will run to width rather than height, and all the accessories of trimming will be used to increase the effect. It will be a year of trimmings, and they will be heaped on. Feathers and foliage will be used indiscriminately, and leaves of ivy, roses, violets and other flowers will be a great feature. Some of the pattern bonnets shown are the Baretta, in the pattern of a clergyman's cap, the material used being fancy straw, trimmed around with bows of velvet and feathers and foliage. The Napoleon is a reminder in millinery of the literary Napoleon revival. This is a hat in the form of the three-cornered head dress of the little Corsican, the material of fancy straw trimmed with feathers, that, to increase the effect of breadth stick out at the corners. The Leo XIII toque is a pretty hat of pink fancy straw, trimmed principally with black feathers. A hat in the form of a coronet, with flowers that fall to the back over the hair has been named De Castellane. Prevailing colours are tobacco brown, gold to brown, and cocoa berry. Straw is the basis of most bonnets, and metallic trimmings of steel and like material will be much used.

EXPRESSIONS OF REGRET.

Ottawa Desires That Further Information Should be Disseminated.

Ottawa, March 21—Regrets have been pretty generally expressed throughout the city that the details of other cases similar to that of Mr. G. H. Kent, whose marvellous restoration to health is now so widely known, have not yet been chronicled. It is being urged that, in the interests of humanity and in view of the expressed opinion of doctors that so many people are suffering with Bright's Disease more or less advanced, steps should be taken to disseminate still further all particulars tending to bring Dodd's Kidney Pills before the public, that being the remedy to which these cures have been unhesitatingly ascribed.

COLD SPRINGS—OTONABEE.

(From our Own Correspondent.)

The usual quarterly review of the Sunday School lessons will be conducted at Cold Springs Union Sunday School on Sunday, March 31, beginning at the usual hour, 2.45 p.m. Several have consented to assist. In reviewing the lessons, and there will also be special singing by the children. It is earnestly hoped there will be a large attendance of the members of the Home Class Department on the occasion, to meet their fellow classmates, to receive their tickets and quarterlies for the ensuing quarter and to enjoy the exercises of the afternoon. The Home Circle Class Department members are also asked to bring or send their class record cards to the secretary on or before March 31.

Mr. Samuel Smyth has rented his farm to Mr. Wm. Fawcett. He has disposed of his stock, implements, etc., and expects soon to remove from our neighbourhood.

We regret that Mr. John Clifford who has been ill for some time time, is not improving in health.

Until the lungs become seriously in volved and vitality broken low, before commencing

Madill's Emulsion

OF COD LIVER OIL AND HYPOPHOSPHITES OF LIME AND SODA.

It will do wonders for you if your cough is a hard, troublesome and stubborn cough, or if you require building up and fattening, but you must begin in time and take it regularly, as you do your meals.

Madill's Emulsion is put up fresh and sweet every week. It is far more palatable to the stomach than other similar preparations, while a tablespoonful dose contains a higher percentage of Cod liver oil. It is properly emulsified, without the aid of eggs or other over-rich elements, and assimilates much more easily on that account.

Its potency has created not only an active local demand, but a constant request from other cities and towns of Canada.

THE HYAMS TRIAL

All of the Fractures Could Not Have Been Caused by One Line of Force.

Toronto, March 21.—The evidence given by the Crown witnesses on Tuesday in the Hyams murder trial was of importance as showing, first, that the hook which was found connecting the weight with the elevator rope could not become accidentally unhooked by any conceivable combination of circumstances, and second, that the hook was purchased and spliced into the rope a month before the fatality occurred. Witnesses were called also to show that very little storage business was done in the Colborne street warehouse. Yesterday medical evidence was adduced which thickens the cloud of suspicion over the accused men and greatly strengthens the Crown's theory that Wells was killed first and the weight dropped afterward.

Coroner Johnson was the man who gave it this time. With the skull of the unfortunate Willie Wells in his hand he swore positively that at least two lines of force or two blows had caused the injuries to the head; that the weight falling upon it from any height if the lad were standing up could not cause the injuries, and that he could conceive of no conditions under which the weight falling upon an upright man could produce the injuries. Some of the fractures could have been caused by the falling of the weight from a short distance but not all.

Evidence of a financial nature all adduced to prove motive on the part of the Hyams was also brought out.

Dr. J. H. Richardson, professor of anatomy in the Toronto University, corroborated much of Dr. Johnson's evidence. He declared that all the fractures in the skull could not be produced by one line of force The fractures were not produced by a weight falling vertically upon an upright man, and he could not conceive of the arch of the skull remaining in its shape as now. If the man had been looking up his neck would have been broken by the blow.

Part of the skull had been broken by a blow on the right side of the head. All the other fractures stopped at this point. He further said that if the weight had fallen upon the man who was looking up it would have crushed him down in a heap, injured the shoulders, and the body would not have been found in a horizontal position. Two blows were struck, the first of which broke off the part of the skull over the right eye. The weight lying before him would cause those fractures falling three feet. Practically every bone was broken. If the weight struck the head obliquely the body would be knocked sideways and the shoulders might not be touched, but the weight would not be found on the head and probably part of the head cut off.

This finished the case for the Crown.

E. F. B. Johnston asked for the discharge of Dallas T. Hyams on the ground that there was not enough evidence to sustain the charge.

THE CATHOLIC PYTHIANS.

The Delegates State What Occurred in the Interview With the Ablegate.

Fall River, Mass., March 21. — The French-Canadian Knights of Pythias who recently had an interview with Mgr. Satolli have made the following statement of what occurred: Saturday the delegates had an audience with the Apostolic delegate at which they presented their petitions. After listening to their reasons the Ablegate consented to order a temporary suspension of the decree which would permit any of the members to receive the sacraments, and Mgr. Satolli promised to make a special report to the Holy See on the question. The delegates of Lafayette lodge after the interview concluded that some false representations had been made on the subject of the order. They have presented some important and authentic documents which they think will have a great influence on the final decision of the Pope. One of them said that no special stress was laid on the insurance element in the order as the questions of morals in the edict would not be influenced by the money at stake. It is understood that Bishop Harkins, of Providence, has been in conference with local French-Canadian clergyman in relation to the matters but no action has yet been taken.

The Ruling Passion.

Mr. Theosoph—Speaking of the mysterious, I knew an adept who predicted that he would be taken sick on a certain day, at a certain hour, and would die exactly 2 hours and 10 minutes later. Everything occurred just as he foretold What do you think of that?

Mr. Hardhead—He must have been a New York man who had lived in Jersey and had become accustomed to doing everything on schedule time.—New York Weekly.

She'll Know Him Again.

When the king of the Belgians stopped in tavern at Spike during a recent rainstorm he overheard the hostess remark: "I've seen the mug of this tall fellow before." Ere leaving the place the king presented the hostess with a bust of himself and later forwarded a large photograph, with his autograph.—Exchange.

MINISTER THURSTON'S RECALL.

Secretary Gresham Says It is Not a Subject for Public Discussion.

Washington, March 21.—Now that the demand of this Government for the recall of Minister Thurston appears to be an assured fact, persons familiar with the course of Hawaiian affairs in Congress express no surprise at the result. Members of both Houses who supported the policy of the administration in the Hawaiian matters made no secret of their dissatisfaction with the alleged action of Mr. Thurston in furnishing information to the friends of his Government for use in debate, particularly during the discussion of the Hawaiian cable amendment to the diplomatic and consular appropriation bill. Secretary Gresham refuses to make any comment whatever on the report concerning Mr. Thurston's recall. He maintains that it is not a subject for public discussion by any one connected with the State Department. The principle on which this Government is said to have asked for Mr. Thurston's recall was laid down by Secretary Hamilton Fish in 1871, in the case of Mr. Constantin Catacazy, Russian Minister to the United States, whose recall was demanded by this Government.

TRAIN ROBBERS IN CHICAGO.

The Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul Train Held Up And Trainmen Robbed.

Chicago, March 21.—When the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul train, which leaves the city for Omaha at 10.40 p.m., was passing through the yards to the Union depot last night with the crew on board three robbers armed with revolvers boarded it at Wood and Kinzie streets. They went into a Pullman car and attacked Brakeman O'Connell, beating him over the head with their weapons and taking his money. When the colored porter came to see what the trouble was he was assaulted in a like manner and robbed. Frank Wilbur, the conductor, pulled the air brakes and when the train stopped the police were called. The robbers escaped.

THE NEW ORLEANS RIOT.

Twenty Men Charged With Murder in the Late Levee Trouble.

New Orleans, March 21.—The Grand Jury yesterday presented 15 indictments charging 20 men with the murder committed last Tuesday morning in the levee troubles. All have been in custody but were released from the Recorder's court on bond. There was no change in the levee situation.

His First Experience.

John Smith was a clerk who had to work the telephone which had been newly fitted at his office. He will never forget his first experience with the instrument. On hearing the clatter of the bell he took down the receiver and heard his employer's voice asking for information concerning business. John was under the impression that as his employer was two miles away he ought to put his hand to his mouth like an ancient mariner on the stage, who is paid sixpence a night to do "Ship, ahoy!" business. He accordingly thundered his answer into the transmitter. The answer came, "I don't understand you at all."

Smith essayed again and again, but with no better result. A happy thought struck him when he had recovered his wind after the tenth blast, and he softly whispered to himself, "I wonder if the old idiot is deaf." His hair rose slowly on end as he heard the sound of his governor's voice coming softly from the receiver, "No, John, the old idiot is not deaf, and you can take a fortnight's notice." John now declares that telephones are frauds.—Pittsburg Dispatch.

Kier Hardie.

Kier Hardie, the labor unionist member of parliament, is no fool despite his sartorial eccentricities and his diatribes against constituted society. His enemies tried to deposit him in a cavity not long ago by procuring a firm of clothiers to offer him a suit of clothes free, calculating to expose the transaction to Mr. Hardie's confusion. That gentleman, however, knew his men, and in reply expressed his willingness to accept the clothes if the firm would agree to pay its employees the union rate of wages in the future. That closed the incident.—London Letter.

Corduroy Portieres.

Corduroy promises to be a great favorite, both for hangings and for the coverings of divans and chairs. In some of its newest forms it is strikingly handsome, showing figures of a lighter tone upon a ground of the same color, and in even the familiar plain it is both good and desirable. For portieres it is especially to be commended, as it takes rich, deep folds and gives just that sense of warmth and freedom from draft that is to be desired.

Too Much of a Row.

Sir William Fraser tells a good story of Brigham Young and "The Lady of Lyons." Young took his wives to see a performance of Lytton's play at Salt Lake City. When the agony was piled up, he rose, and, followed by his spouses, left the theater, exclaiming, "I won't stand such an infernal row being made about one woman!"—Argonaut.

The Agricultural Profession.

The educated agriculturist is slowly but surely driving the uneducated and unthinking man from the field. With the retirement of every quack and the corresponding advent of the thinking man on the farm arena is elevated the whole agricultural profession, which is thus brought one step nearer its true position that it justly held in Roman times—the foremost rank of all the world.—Science.

BUILT UP THE SYSTEM IN A WONDERFUL MANNER.

James A. Bell, of Beaverton, Ont., Brother of the Rev. John Wesley Bell, B.D., Prostrated by Nervous Headaches--A Victim of the Trouble for Several Years --South American Nervine Effected a Complete Cure.

In their own particular field few men are better known than the Rev. John Wesley Bell, B.D., and his brother, Mr. James A. Bell. The former will be recognized by his thousands of friends all over the country as the popular and able missionary superintendent of the Royal Templars of Temperance. Among the 20,000 members of this order in Ontario, his counsel is sought on all sorts of occasions. On the public platform he is one of the strong men of the day, battling against the evils of intemperance. Equally well known is Mr. Bell in other provinces of the Dominion, having been for years a member of the Manitoba Methodist Conference, and part of this time was stationed in Winnipeg. His brother, Mr. James A. Bell is a highly respected resident of Beaverton, where his influence, though perhaps more circumscribed than that of his eminent brother, is none the less effective and productive of good. Of recent years, however, the working ability of Mr. James A. Bell has been sadly marred by severe attacks of nervous headaches, accompanied by indigestion. Who can do fit work when this trouble takes hold of them, and especially when it becomes chronic, as was, seemingly, the case with Mr. Bell. The trouble reached such intensity that last June he was completely prostrated. In this condition a friend recommended South American Nervine. Ready to try anything and everything, though he thought he had covered the list of proprietary medicines, he secured a bottle of this great discovery. A second bottle of the medicine was taken and the work was done. Employing his own language: "Two bottles of South American Nervine immediately relieved my headaches and have built up my system in a wonderful manner." Let us not deprecate the good our clergymen and social reformers are doing in the world, but how ill-fitted they would be for their work were it not the relief that South American Nervine brings to them when physical ills overtake them, and when the system as a result of hard, earnest and continuous work, breaks down. Nervine treats the system as the wise reformer treats the evils he is battling against. It strikes at the root of the trouble. All disease comes from disorganization of the nerve centers. This is a scientific fact. Nervine at once works on these nerve centers; gives to them health and vigor; and then there courses through the system strong, healthy, life-maintaining blood, and nervous troubles of every variety are things of the past.

A MAN IN PETTICOATS

THE QUEER NOTION OF AN OLD SOLDIER CITIZEN OF MAINE.

He Has a Whole Closet Full of Dresses Handsomer Than Any Woman in Town—Victims of Lace, Ruffles, Etc.—Weighs 180 Pounds, but Wears a Woman's No. 6 Shoe.

Commander James Robbins of the local post G. A. R., Cooper's Mills, Lincoln county, in this state, is one of the prominent men of his community, a citizen generally esteemed as a man of integrity and intelligence. Mr. Robbins has a brilliant war record as a member of the Thirtieth Maine. He has lived in the village since 1866 and is a jeweler. His house is a neat cottage house on the brow of the hill as one drives into the Mills. In the narrow front hallway is Mr. Robbins' bench, lathe and tools, and here you will find him placidly working away at the tiny wheels and springs.

If you are on sufficiently intimate terms with Mr. Robbins you will find him indulging in his hobby. He has one, like the most of us. In his case the hobby is startlingly picturesque, and it may be safely said that he is the most original man in the state of Maine, so far as his curious fancy is concerned. He wears petticoats. Not when he goes down street for the mail and to do his marketing. At these times he slips on the masculine pantaloons. Yet he does not wear his trousers, even, like ordinary masculinity. No suspenders for him. He wears a sort of dress waist, and his trousers are buttoned tightly about his hips. He always wears a woman's number six shoe, with high heels and graceful, slender shape. Mr. Robbins weighs something like 180 pounds, and the effect produced by those shoes peeping coyly out from beneath manly trouser legs is startling, to say the least. Mr. Robbins doesn't mince or toddle, and his shoes seem to fit him pretty well.

He reserves his petticoats for the sanctity of the home circle, for the partial retirement of his orchard and for calls upon neighbors with whom his acquaintance is close. Mr. Robbins isn't squeamish about showing himself in petticoats. He enjoys wearing them, he has worn them when opportunity has presented all his life long, and he wears them scientifically too. In the first place, there's no half way business about it. Every detail of feminine attire is there, and Mr Robbins is rightly fussy about the details.

There is no woman in Cooper's Mills who owns so many dresses of such excellent material as does the commander of the Cooper's Mills post. He takes pride in having only the best. His lingerie is elaborately tucked and ruffled, edged with lace and fashioned according to the most approved models of any lady's wardrobe. The material is of the finest quality, and when Mr. Robbins lifts his skirts the eye gets a vision of ruffles, lace and "all such like" of dazzing whiteness and immaculate smoothness.

He is very particular about his ironing. Everything must be starched "up to the handle," whatever that is, and sometimes Mrs. Robbins finds her hands full and her clothes horse loaded down like a pack donkey. Amazed neighbors, who were not fully aware of the extent of Mr. Robbins' hobby, have been obliged to ask for more details, when Mrs. Robbins has laconically informed them that "it is Jim's troning." Mr. Robbins' hosiery is of the long sort, and it is currently rumored that the stockings are hitched up at the sides. His corsets he has made especially for his girth, and these he wears continually. His shape is fairly good, especially when he dresses up for afternoons.

In the morning he wears print gowns, for he assists in the housework. Almost every morning Mr. Robbins in his print gown is seen sweeping off the piazza and whisking about the kitchen. He wears petticoats at home almost exclusively, putting on his garb as soon as he enters the house. For afternoon wear his gowns are elaborate. Some of them are made by Mr. Robbins, and some are fashioned by local dressmakers. One cashmere dress is quite a favorite, and this is frequently worn by Mr. Robbins when he promenades in the orchard. He has lots of these good clothes, all of fashionable cut, puffed sleeves, and with all the fixings that go to lend grace and dignity. Usually he wears an apron and especially so when at his bench. The apron is white ordinarily and has a bib with ruffled straps and pockets. Therefore does Mr. Robbins present a somewhat unique appearance as he works away of afternoons or sits and converses with his wife.

Look at the gown and you see a stylishly attired woman, but the face is very mannish indeed. Mr. Robbins would be marked in any crowd. His face is full, and he wears a jet black mustache that possibly owes its color to art. His hair is long, black and curly, his voice is deep and full, and there's nothing effeminate about him except his attire.—Lewiston Journal.

What John Wanamaker, the Most Heavily Insured man in America, Says:

(INTERVIEW WITH JOHN WANAMAKER.)

It is very generally known that Ex-Postmaster General John Wanamaker, of Philadelphia, carries the largest amount of Life Insurance of any man in the United States. A representative of the press recently interviewed this gentleman while he was travelling with the Presidential party, and this interview will be found, we believe, of general interest:—

"You are said to be the most heavily insured man in the country, Mr. Wanamaker," remarked the press representative.

"How did you come to think of that?" he said with a smile. "You are not looking for any disaster under such excellent management as our friend Boyd is giving this train and party?"

"No," I replied. "A newspaper friend in San Francisco, who had heard the report, wanted me to ask you if it was true, and if so, what your business reasons are for it?"

"Well," he modestly answered, "I have heard it stated that I am the most heavily insured man in the country. I don't know about that. The amount of my policies is $1,550,000, and the value, with the accumulations since the policies were taken out, is about two millions of dollars."

"In what class of companies are your policies?"

"They are all in stock and mutual companies, and none of them in what are known as assessment or instalment companies."

"Are they full life term policies or on what is termed the 'tontine' plan?"

"I have generally taken ten and fifteen payment policies and very few life policies. With about all good companies a contract can now be made whereby there is no risk of losing a policy after two years' premiums have been paid. If the party insured chooses to withdraw he can get a paid-up policy. Indeed, I understand that some companies have forms whereby the insurer can after one year, if desired, withdraw and receive a paid-up policy. There is practically little risk, any more, in insuring in the old companies."

"Perhaps you would be willing to tell me how you came to insure so heavily?"

"I thought the matter out, and convinced myself that it was a good business venture. Besides, it seemed to me that I might, perhaps, give away more money in lifetime if there was a fixed certainty of putting it back into my estate by Life Insurance. I conceive that the best way for a man to carry on benevolence is not to leave it to be done through his will, but to do it in his lifetime, and I felt that Life Insurance would give me more freedom in carrying out some plans I have, and which I would be glad to see completed before I leave this world. If you want to ascertain what the circumstances were in placing the Life Insurance, I must go further in my answers and say that I should not have gone so far in my Life Insurance but for the skill of the agent who tackled me to insure to a greater extent than I would otherwise have done. He was an old friend who had been in mercantile business and who knew how to present Life Insurance without boring me. I feel to-day sincerely grateful to the man who followed me so discreetly with information about companies, and who kept the subject before me until I settled the question."

"When did you begin taking Life Insurance policies?"

"My first policy was taken when I was twenty-one."

"Do you consider it a good thing for a man of small means?"

"I certainly do. Most young men spend more for cigars during the year than the annual cost of a $2,500 policy in a good company. If they must have the cigars they might divide between cigars and Life Insurance and carry at least a $1,000 policy. I think every young man, before he is married, ought to try to get at least a $1,000 policy."

"Among how many companies are your policies divided, and where are they located?"

"About forty companies. Most of them are located in the East. A few are in the West and a few in Canada."

"Do you recommend Life Insurance to others, especially those in whom you feel a personal interest?"

"I can perhaps answer that best by saying that I presented a few years ago a $1,000 policy, paid up for one year, to every insurable head of family in my employ. Many of the prudent men who received them not only kept them but added to them, and I have the satisfaction of knowing that in not a few cases those policies have been the means of saving worthy families from want."

It will doubtless be of interest to our readers to know that John Wanamaker carries a large policy in the Canada Life Insurance Company, thus evincing his confidence in the soundness of Canada's oldest and largest Company. During the last few years quite a number of American capitalists have been convinced of the SUPERIOR MERITS OF THE CANADA LIFE, and have accordingly placed their insurance therein, in preference to any other company.

The Canada Life is now being recognized in the states of Michigan, Minnesota and Ohio as the Company that gives the best results for the least premium.

BREATH IN DEAD MEN

STARTLING RESULTS OF A NEW JERSEY DOCTOR'S EXPERIMENTS.

He Has Made a Simple Apparatus With Which the Lungs May Be Put to Work After They Have Once Stopped—It Is Not Patented and Any One Can Make It.

Dr. Edwin De Baun of Passaic, N. J., makes the announcement regarding the time honored statement that a man has died from lack of breath—that if breath was all he needed he should have lived.

Considering that air is the most plentiful resource of nature, having, as political economists would say, no value because of its abundance, one would think that Dr. De Baun had made no particular discovery. But there is more in his statement than is apparent at first.

From time immemorial physicians have directed their ingenuity toward an effective application of this wealth of air, but without satisfactory results. Cases of suspended animation come under their notice every day. Men are rescued from the water after a hard battle with the waves, their lungs filled with water, the life's action suspended. In the majority of instances restoration of animation cannot be effected. The lungs may be emptied of the water; the life giving air, so abundant, is at hand—and if it could only be forced into the organs and respiration started life could be renewed. Physicians' efforts to solve the problem have been unceasing, but, says Dr. De Baun, misdirected.

When a man is rescued from the water, the first thing done is to empty the lungs of water by rolling him on a barrel or lifting him from the ground head downward. Then he is laid on his back, the arms raised to expand the lungs and a ryhthmic contraction and expansion of the chest walls effected by alternate pressure and relaxation. Sometimes the forcing process has been kept up for hours with ultimate success, but considering the possibilities recognized in artificial respiration the results have been far from encouraging.

Dr. De Baun has worked on an entirely new line, and the result of his experiments and observation is a method of internal respiration, which, he claims, cannot possibly fail. His attention was first directed to the subject by a case of suspended animation in a newly born child. It has been the practice in such cases to force air into the lungs of the infant by breathing into its mouth and then contracting the lungs by pressure upon the chest. But this has been found not only intensely disagreeable, but highly inefficient.

Dr. De Bann decided to try a new expedient. He passed a small rubber tube through the nose of the infant and down into the throat. Closing the month, he forced air through the tube from a rubber bag, inflating the lungs; then, releasing the pressure from the mouth, found, as expected, that the elasticity of the muscles of the chest caused immediate contraction of the lungs, forming a complete respiration. This was kept up for 45 minutes, when natural respiration had been restored, and a life had been saved. Since then Dr. De Baun has perfected this hastily improvised apparatus and finds that animation may be often restored within 15 minutes.

The apparatus is as simple as it is ingenious. It consists of a long rubber tube, near one end of which is a piece of soft rubber with which to cover the mouth and nose. At the other end are two rubber bulbs. After the tube has been inserted between the teeth, and the mouth and nose covered slightly, the lower bulb is compressed, forcing air into the second bulb, which acts as a reservoir. This second bulb is much more elastic than the other and maintains a steady pressure of air through the tube. It is covered with loose netting, which acts as a sort of safety valve against overpressure. The tube is fitted with a stopcock that may be used to lend force to the first few respirations.

A few compressions of the lower bulb are sufficient to fill the lungs. Then the pressure on nose and mouth is relaxed, and the lungs are emptied by the natural elasticity of the muscles of the chest. This elasticity remains even after death, and with this instrument it is quite possible to make a dead man breathe regularly as long as the application continues. In some of the doctor's experiments on dead bodies this simulation of life has been absolutely startling.

It is not for dead men, however, that the "insufflator," as it is called, has been devised, but for men who have been brought apparently to death's door by asphyxiation from gas and water. In the latter case the lungs must first be emptied. The apparatus weighs but a few ounces. It is not patented, as Dr. De Baun is a strict observer of medical ethics, which declare that the discoveries of a physician belong to the world. He is treasurer of the state board of medical examiners of New Jersey and has invented several valuable surgical instruments and devices.—New York World.

THE BUTTER INDUSTRY.

The Provincial Government will Facilitate Carriage to Ports of Shipment.

Toronto, March 21.—There was a warm debate on the second reading of Mr. German's bill in the Ontario Legislature yesterday. The bill provides that the poles and wires of telegraph, telephone and electric light companies may be taxed for municipal purposes. It also provides that the income derived by shareholders who hold stock in railway companies shall be taxed. Mr. Hardy thought the bill too sweeping in its provisions but advised that it should go on another stage so that it might be considered fully in committee. A warm debate followed, after which the bill was read a second time.

Mr. Stratton moved the second reading of his bill to abolish wards in cities and towns and giving all electors the right to vote for the entire council. He said that it would kill "log rolling" and the ward heeler element.

The Government did not agree with the principles in the bill but advised that it should pass the second reading and be considered in committee. This was done.

To Aid the Butter Industry.

Mr. Whitney moved that in the interests of the people of this Province and, in order that the producers may secure the full benefit of the sums annually expended to aid the dairy interests thereof, the butter trade deserves to be encouraged. He said that a resolution was passed last January unanimously by the Ontario Creamery Association asking Government aid to place butter on the English market during the winter months. The Dominion Government had acted upon the suggestion and had begun to purchase all fresh made creamery butter at 20 cents per pound for shipment. He would like to have asked for financial aid but the rules of the House would not permit him to do so. He had asked the Minister of Agriculture some days ago if he had received a copy of the resolution passed by the Ontario Creamery Association and if the Government intended doing anything to assist the butter men of the Province. The answer had been that the Government had not decided what to do yet. He trusted that the Government would decide to grant financial aid and that they would announce their intention to do so before the close of the debate.

Sir Oliver Mowat said that the Government had no objection to the resolution, which was declared carried.

Another Butter Resolution.

Mr. Whitney moved that this House, having regard to the butter trade in this Province and the depressed condition thereof, respectfully urges upon the Government of Canada the advisability and necessity of providing such further or other aid as may be found to be necessary from time to time, in order that the producers of fresh-made creamery butter may secure the full benefit of such expenditure. He said that he could not move that the Provincial Government should grant money for this purpose as his resolution would be out of order, but the Government could grant the money and he trusted they would do so. The Dominion Government had done so and he trusted that the Ontario Government would follow suit.

Hon. Mr. Dryden said that Mr. Whitney had shown a particular interest in the butter industry which he said was depressed. What would he do for the farmers about the horse trade and other depressed agricultural industry? He did not agree with Mr. Whitney as to the way in which the butter industry should be aided. He thought the Dominion Government had been too paternal in its policy. He did not think that it was good policy for the Government to purchase butter from the manufacturers. He thought that it was simply an election dodge on the part of the Ottawa Government to be used at the coming elections. He moved an amendment that the House would approve of any reasonable and efficient arrangement that might be made to facilitate the carriage and cold storage of the dairy produce of the Provinces to ports of shipment.

A Patron Protest.

Mr. McPherson, a Patron, said that the reason why the butter and other farming industries were not in a more healthy condition in Ontario was because of the cost of implements. The tariff levied by the Dominion Government was responsible for the depression. He had estimated the cost of implements and had decided that the cost of producing butter in Ontario was increased at least 2 cents per pound because of the tariff.

Mr. Whitney said that his motion covered all that the amendment proposed and more.

Hon. Mr. Ross said that Mr. Whitney's resolution was simply a Tory campaign catch. Mr. Whitney wished the Ontario Legislature to endorse the policy of the Dominion Government and in his opinion particularly upon the eve of an election the members were not required to commit themselves. He said it was a butter policy. If it had been a bread and butter policy he would not have cared so much, but it simply meant that Mr. Whitney wished through this butter resolution to lubricate the Tory machine at the next election. The members were then called upon to vote. All the Patrons with the exception of one, Mr. Kidd, voted with the Government. Both P.P.A. members also voted with the Government and the amendment moved by Hon. Mr. Dryden was carried, the vote being 60 to 21.

Boiler Men's Examination.

Mr. Crawford introduced a bill providing for the inspection of all boilers not used for domestic, railroad or steamboat purposes. The bill provides for the appointment of not less than 3 and not more than 12 inspectors. It provides that all men in charge of boilers must pass an examination and hold a certificate from the Ontario Association of Stationary Engineers or other authorized board. All boilers are to be inspected at least once a year.

Opposed to a Change.

The Conservatives endeavored in the Public Accounts Committee yesterday to have the system of keeping the accounts of the Province changed so as to give details as extensively as found in the Dominion accounts. Hon. Mr. Harcourt objected on the ground that the expense would be too great. Mr. Davis moved an amendment affording the members an opportunity to vote against the change. Messrs. Kidd and McNichol, Patrons, voted against the Government, while Mr. McPherson, Patron, voted with the Government. The vote stood 11 to 7 in favor of the present system.

May Lose Their Organ.

There was a report about the House yesterday to the effect that the Patron organ had been offered for sale. When asked if the report was true Mr. Haycock replied as follows: "The report re sale of Farmers' Sun is news to me and I am not in a position to either confirm or contradict it. I would not publish it without your information is reliable. Thanking you for first referring the matter to me."

Mr. Jas. Benor visited Campbellford on Sunday.

Mr. Jos. Graham has moved to the residence on George street, lately occupied by Mr. D. Best.

A number of the sports took in the carnival at Campbellford last Friday night.

The roads in the town are in a very bad condition at present owing to "summer coming again."

This is a very healthy town, no cases of sickness being reported at time of writing.

Mrs. Clancy's house is being moved rapidly to the central part of the village.

The friends of Messrs. Laing Bros. will be sorry to learn of the death of their father at Peterborough. Mr. Jas. Laing left for Peterborough on Monday.

Mr. R. Wilson, Norwood, has taken charge of Mr. C. Pearce's store here.

The Huckleberry Hockey team was prepared to play a match with the High School team of Norwood, last Saturday afternoon, but the Norwood fellows failed to put in an appearance. They were not altogether disappointed for the Rosebuds, who were present, played an exhibition game with the Huckleberries, which resulted in a victory for the Rosebuds. The score being 7 to 4. The losing team was the Rosebud's "huckleberry."

The ice on the skating rink is threatening to go some of these fine days. Then the boys will sing "gone but not forgotten."

The Imperial Trio Evangelists have apparently impressed some people beneficially.

Mr. T. Smith has sold out his hotel business and Mr. D. J. Connelly has leased his hotel to Mr. Jas. Graham, of Peterborough. Mr. Smith will continue the livery business until further notice, and will be pleased to see the same old patrons.

Miss Stevenson has returned from a week's visit to Toronto.

The Misses Haig and Drinkwater will continue the millinery business lately carried on by Mrs. Milne, of Toronto.

Mr. Smith has removed to the house lately occupied by Mr. Post, on George street.

Mr. Jas. Graham will take possession of the Glynn House next Monday.

WEALTH IN MICA.

Peterborough County Mines Now in Demand by Americans.

There is an increasing demand for the mica properties of Ontario, and large tracts of land are being purchased by Americans who will shortly operate these mines, and give employment to a great number of men.

A few days ago a gentleman representing a wealthy firm of Boston, Mass., wrote to a resident of Campbellford, asking him the price of a mica mine located in Peterborough, in which the latter is interested. Samples of the mica of this mine have been examined by several mining experts, and pronounced by all of them to be of number one quality. One mine in the vicinity of this one, where operations were commenced two years ago, and continued to some extent last year, was sold for $10,000, and other properties can be shown which may be said to contain as great a quantity of mica and fully as good in quality.

The American firm above referred to has already purchased three thousand five hundred acres of mica lands, a considerable amount of which is in the district north of Kingston, and they continue to add to their possessions. Their agent has written to say he will visit Peterborough County in a few weeks.

In the vicinity of these mines there was a discovery of quarts made a short time ago, which is thought to be valuable. Samples of it will be sent to Toronto to be assayed.—Campbellford Herald.

Pretty.

A bedroom suite of native white maple with birdseye maple panels, now in A. Clegg's window, attracted considerable notice on Saturday; and especially during the evening large numbers stopped to admire. It is almost white, of neat design, just the thing for a young ladies room. Though pretty and dainty, it is not expensive. dw

THE SPRING ASSIZES.

The Grand Jury brought in the following presentment yesterday:—

To His Lordship Justice Street:

We, your Grand Jury of our Sovereign lady the Queen, present as follows:—

We congratulate your Lordship and this county on the law-abiding nature of its citizens as shown by the fact that no criminal cases appear on the docket of this Assize.

We appreciate the change in the law reducing the number of the Grand Jury to thirteen, as we believe the increasing intelligence in the magistracy of our country, and the practical care they bestow upon their duties amply justify it.

As instructed by your Lordship we have inspected the gaol and beg to report that we found everything connected therewith very satisfactory indeed. The number of prisoners confined there now is twenty-two, over two-thirds of whom are vagrants. In view of this and of the fact that nearly all the time a large number of people are confined in gaol because they are poor, shiftless and without friends, your Grand Jury would recommend that the town and county unite in considering the advisability of establishing a House of Industry on terms of mutual satisfaction.

We also visited the Nicholls and St. Joseph Hospitals, and beg leave to record our high appreciation of the provision made by both these institutions for the care and comfort of the sick and destitute under their charge.

DAWSON KENNEDY,
Foreman.

His Lordship in reply promised to bring the recommendations concerning the establishment of a house of Industry before the proper authorities.

MILLBROOK

From Our Own Correspondent.

The East Durham Patrons of Industry met in convention here Tuesday and selected Mr. Samuel Grandy as their candidate. Mr. Grandy was the Equal Rights candidate at the last election and was beaten by Mr. Craig by ninety votes. There are three candidates in the field now in East Durham—Craig (Con.), McLean (McCarthyite), Grandy (Patron). The Liberals will hold a convention in port Hope on Saturday when definite action will be taken.

The carnival here on Tuesday, the 12th, was a grand success in every way. The rink was elaborately decorated and the Citizen's band discoursed music. A large number were present from Peterborough, Bethany, Cavanville and Centreville and everyone went home well pleased. The costumes were good and the races exciting, especially the barrel race in which the participants experienced some difficulty in getting through the barrels, but much to the enjoyment of those present. The prizes winners were as follows:—

Best ladies' costume—Miss L. Pettit, Peterborough.

Best gentleman's costume — Mr. W. Fisher, Ida.

Best girl's costume—Miss G. Wood.

Best boy's costume—Master G. Young.

Barrel race—Master Galvin Fee.

Man's race—John Nattrass.

The Fire Company intend giving a grand demonstration here on May 24th. There will be no horse races this year, but the affair will take the form of a lacross tournament and the people who come to Millbrook on that day can rely on seeing some good lacrosse. There will be a purse of seventy-five dollars to play for and already the secretaries of the different clubs in this district have been written to, including Orillia, Peterborough and Port Hope.

A curling match took place on Monday evening between the bachelors and the benedicts and resulted in favour of the former by six shots. The following ware the rinks:—

BABY CARRIAGES.

Your baby deserves a New Carriage. The old one (that is the old carriage) is shabby and persists in running crooked. If the baby is a new baby so much the more does a new carriage complete the turnout.

A neat, well appointed carriage is an evidence of good taste. It is a credit to the family and relations. Do the folks honour and the baby justice with a new vehicle.

The more so that the new carriage, when bought from our stock, costs but a moderate amount. Dozens of styles. None too good. Some tasty and neat, some handsome and stylish. The prices match. All serviceable and durable.

MUSTERED UP COURAGE

The Order for Remedial Legislation Passed by the Cabinet.

BRIBERY BY PUBLIC WORKS

The Disgraceful Way in Which Government—Candidates Bid for the Votes of the People—The Public Debt Increasing at a Rapid Rate.

Ottawa, March 21.—The Cabinet mustered up courage to pass an order on Manitoba respecting the school question, which was signed by the Governor-General today, and forwarded at once to Lieut.-Governor Schultz, of Manitoba. Up to the time of writing the text of the order has not been given out, and it may be that the Government will keep it back until sufficient time has elapsed to enable it to reach Manitoba. This would be a matter of etiquette. The matter has been pushed through with great haste in the end, after the Government had shuffled with it for five years. The suspicious haste with which they summoned Manitoba to appear on five days' notice looks as if political capital and the general elections are bigger factors in this case than the merits of the question.

Bribery by Public Works.

The Government will go to the country again not upon its record, if they have their way, but upon its promises. They will promise everything in the way of public works and favors to particular constituencies. For example during the ministerial tour last November in the Maritime Provinces, the Minister of Public Works, Hon. J. A. Ouimet, speaking in [illegible]' county, now held by that stalwart Liberal, D. C. Fraser, told the people that they had needs in the lines of public works and added: "If any of you had a legacy left you to divide among the people you would most naturally begin with your own friends. This is the principle we follow, and quite probably Mr. D. C. Fraser would do likewise if he were in our place. I have as much humanity about me as anybody, but I cannot serve all together. Mr. Fraser calls us the taxation party. If the Liberals wipe out these taxes the result will be a decrease in revenue of eight million dollars, and where, I ask, will they get the money to build railways or public works of any kind?" Suppose a public man in England were to utter words like these, he would be chased out of public life in disgrace, irrespective of party. The Rt. Hon. Joseph Chamberlain, one of the members for Birmingham, is reported to have said to a friend that during the twenty-five years he had represented that large city, he had never even as much as asked for an appointment for a friend. The people there are asked to vote on issues, and would strongly resent being bribed. When that bribe is a public one from the Minister of Public Works, it is simply an outrage of the grossest description.

A Second Moses.

The Government candidate at that time for Guysboro' was Mr. Forbes, and he made a speech from the same platform as Mr. Ouimet and in his presence, from which the following extract is taken: "I propose to have many other public works undertaken in this county. We want a harbor of refuge at St. Francis Harbor, a breakwater at Oyster Ponds. Now it is useless for me to make promises but I have brought the Minister of Marine and Fisheries (Sir Hibbert Tupper) and the Minister of Public Works (Mr. Ouimet) here before you, and if they will but make the promise here before you to give us these things we need, I will be behind them to spur them up to keep their promises. I begin to look upon myself as a kind of second Moses, to bring deliverance to my people. Another thing we want here is railway communication with this beautiful town of Guysboro', and a fast steamer to Canso to help develop the great wealth of our fisheries." The highly virtuous Sir Hibbert Tupper listened to these indecent words and lent color to them instead of repudiating them, but, alas for their Moses, a vacancy occurred shortly afterwards in the judiciary of New Brunswick and Mr. Forbes, righteous and impartial man—a very law giver—was appointed a judge, and up to this moment no other candidate has been put up against the Liberal sitting member. We all know that on the eve of a general election it was a trick of Sir John Macdonald's to send out telegrams promising this subsidy and that, which promise was speedily forgotten. The Government are letting contracts now for a drill hall in Halifax, for the improvement of the Lachine Canal at Montreal, for a couple of stretches of the Trent Valley navigation, for a penitentiary at Alexandria and for many other public works, although Mr. Foster announced in a Budget speech a couple of years ago that he hoped the expenditure for public works had ceased and on the strength of this opinion pledged his official word not to increase the public debt. When a Government finds it necessary to purchase the votes of the people with public works, the Minister of Finance cannot stop it, and the public debt since he spoke has been increased by nearly $10,000,000, until it now stands at the enormous figure of [illegible],000,000. The Minister has for two years been unable to make both ends meet, in respect to revenue and expenditure, even though he charges all public works and railway subsidies to the debt account. Another reason for useless and extravagant contempt is found in the desire of the Government to keep firm friends with rich contractors, which led them to make the half million dollar contract with Messrs. Davis & Sons in connection with the Cornwall Canal, without calling for tenders. To award a contract without calling for tenders is in direct violation of the statute, but unless the people wake up to the course they are running the Government will be a law unto itself.

What They Did Not Do.

The number of schemes floated by the Government in their minds, upon which they based glowing predictions of great things they were about to accomplish, would make a long list, but here are a few: Fast Atlantic Service; Pacific Cable; Preferential Trade; Treaty with Spain; Trade with South America; Reciprocal Trade with British West Indies, including discrimination against the Mother Country; Reciprocal Trade with the United States to be obtained by means of a high tariff. These are only a few of the tombstones in the cemetery of the Sanguine and Hopeful party, the rosy colored optimists of office.

Mr. Lancefield Writes to the London Times in Answer to the Letter of Mr. Conway.

London, March 22.—The Times publishes to-day a letter from Mr. Lancefield, who has charge of the public library in Hamilton, Ont. He writes under date of March 9. He replies to the letter which Chairman Conway, of the Committee of the Society of Authors, wrote to the Times in February denouncing the Canadian Copyright. Mr. Lancefield says: "I suggest that our English friends be perfectly fair in the statements they make to the press in this controversy. When Mr. Conway says Canadian reprints will flood the United States market and calls for signatures to the petition largely on that account, it is an open question whether every signature secured is not secured under false pretences." The writer cites instances to prove that reprints cannot and never were intended to flood the United States market. "Canadians resent and protest," he says, "against such a misleading statement, as it places their case in a false light."

SPAIN AND UNCLE SAM.

Spain's Minister to the United States Asks to be Relieved of His Post.

Madrid, March 22.—Senor de Muruagua, Spanish Minister in Washington, cabled his resignation on March 14. The Minister of Foreign Affairs has refused to accept it.

Washington, March 22.—When a copy of the Madrid despatch stating that he had tendered his resignation and that it had not been accepted was shown to Minister Muruagua he shook his head disapprovingly. "I shall neither affirm nor deny its correctness," he said, "I have nothing to say for publication." Notwithstanding the Minister's reticence it is officially known that the statement contained in the despatch is true. From another reliable source it is learned that the Spanish Minister sent in his resignation because of comments in some of the newspapers of Havana criticising his course with regard to the present insurrection in Cuba.

GRAND TRUNK BOND HOLDERS

Can No Longer Place Confidence in Sir Henry Tyler's Management.

London, March 22.—A conference of Grand Trunk bondholders was held yesterday with Mr. Gladstone presiding. It was resolved that "Since Sir Henry Tyler's management had brought the company into a disastrous position, and owing to the suppression of important matters which ought to have been communicated to the shareholders, confidence could not longer be placed in his management." The meeting pledged itself to endeavor to secure a change. A committee was formed to notify the shareholders and obtain their opinion for the next semi-annual meeting.

China and Japan Bickering for Peace.

Shimonoseki, March 22. — Li Hung Chang with his suite has left the warship, on board of which he had remained since his arrival, and is occupying quarters in the town. The negotiations between the Chinese envoys and the Japanese representatives began yesterday. The credentials of the parties to the conference were found to be prepared in due form and to confer full powers on both sides. Yesterday's conference began at 2.20 and ended at 4 o'clock.

Japs Searching for Contraband of War.

Shanghai, March 22. — Japanese war vessels have been searching British and German merchantmen in the Gulf of Pechili for contraband of war. The cruiser Æolus has been ordered to lie at Taku to protect British interests. The Japanese fleet has since retired from Taku and the Chinese have a number of junks ready to be sunk at that place in order to block the entrance to the Peiho river.

The Battle of Flowers at Nice.

Nice, March 22.—The Mid-Lenten festival was celebrated yesterday. In the Battle of Flowers Queen Victoria and her party, who drove in from Cimies, attracted more attention than all other visitors. The first prize for carriage decoration was given to Miss Van Buren, of New York, whose victoria driven tandem had been transformed into an enormous cornucopia filled with flowers.

Will be Allowed Their Own Interpreters.

Constantinople, March 22.—The Government after considering the matter for a week, have decided to allow the foreign members of the Armenian commission of inquiry to have their own interpreters. In consequence of this decision the various foreign embassies are now sending interpreters to Moosh.

MANITOBA WILL REFUSE

To Allow any Interference With Her School Act.

PROVINCE'S POSITION DEFINED

The Local Government Will Ask Confirmation of Its Action by Dissolving the House and Appealing to the Country.

Winnipeg, March 22.—It is said here that if the order sent from Ottawa really required the Manitoba Parliament to adopt remedial legislation the Local House may, after debate, define its position and communicate the same to the Government at Ottawa. That position is that Manitoba refuses to allow interference with her School Act and will not suffer remedial legislation. It as reported that, after submitting its reply to Ottawa, the Local Government will ask confirmation of its action from the people by dissolving the House and going to the country on the question. Members of the Government will not talk on the matter until the order has been received from Ottawa.

The Methodist Ministerial Association and the Orangemen of the city have protested against remedial legislation.

HIS EXCELLENCY SIGNS

The Order on Manitoba for Remedial Legislation—Parliament Called.

Ottawa, March 22.—Yesterday afternoon His Excellency the Governor-General and the Ministers signed the remedial order which is the primary for the purpose of re-establishing Separate Schools in the Province of Manitoba, and which were abolished by the Provincial statute of 1890. The order was forwarded at once to Lieut.-Governor Schultz. Of course the order of itself does not establish these schools because if the Province refuses, then Dominion legislation will be required.

Parliament Called.

It was also decided at yesterday's Cabinet meeting to call a session of Parliament on the 18th of April.

Two Manitoba Members Will Resign.

In addition to the rumors going around as to the resignation of Hon. N. C. Wallace, it is said that the two Manitoba members at present in town, Messrs. A. W. Ross, M. P. for Lisgar, and N. Boyd, M.P. for Marquette, are preparing their resignations, to be sent in as soon as there is an official announcement.

BRUTAL PARENTS

They Tie a 13-Year-Old Child Up by the Thumbs and Horsewhip Her.

Hepworth, March 22.—Information has been laid before P. Anderson, J.P., Amabel, against T. W. Henderson and his wife for maltreating their daughter, a child about 13 years of age. It appears that the accused have been in the habit of tying the child's hands and suspending her from a beam overhead and brutally beating her with a black snake whip and a leather strap to which a buckle is attached. When Constable Kruse served the summons he brought the child to the village and had her examined by Dr. Campbell, who says that in all his practice he never saw a case of such brutality. The child is one mass of bruises and partly healed sores from the severe beatings she has received. The examination commenced yesterday at one o'clock before Magistrate Anderson and Parke, of Wiarton, and will be continued to day. The whole community is in a red hot state and lynching is freely talked of.

BETTER TIMES AHEAD.

Boom in the Passenger and Freight Traffic to the Upper Lakes.

Windsor, March 22.—Windsor will have the benefit the coming season of sharp competition in the passenger and freight traffic to the upper lakes. The Beatty Line, which had its terminus at Sarnia, is negotiating to have at least two steamers of its fleet come down as far as Windsor. The Merchants' Line, of Montreal, is making arrangements to have its steamers Acadia and St. Magnus, which have had a thorough overhauling during the winter, make their terminus at Windsor instead of at Toledo as heretofore. J. Brown, the owner of the steamer Cambria, which last season ran between Windsor and Mackinac Island, has purchased the steamer Casmona and will place her on the Mackinac route also the coming summer. If the Canada Pacific decides to put the Manitoba on the lake route Windsorites think they will have the benefit of still greater competition.

NEW STEAMSHIP LINE.

Tenders to be Asked for a Line Between Canada and Antwerp.

Ottawa, March 22.—The Government is about to ask for tenders for the establishment of a direct steamship line between Canada and Antwerp, calling at Havre or Boulogne, in France. It is to be stipulated the service shall be fortnightly in summer and monthly in winter; that the vessels shall not be less than 2,500 tons capacity, and capable of steaming not less than 13 knots an hour at sea.

Will Ask Damages From the G. T. R.

Hamilton, March 22.—On February 16 last John Duffy, a traveler for Robertson, Munroe & Co., while on a G. T. R. train coming from Toronto, was injured on the head by the fall of an overhead ventilating window which in some unaccountable manner became unfastened. The injury was apparently only a slight scalp wound and Mr. Duffy continued his usual trips. He was compelled to return home, however, and is now confined to his bed. An operation will be necessary before Mr. Duffy can secure relief, and it is probable he will try to secure damages from the [illegible] company.

ANOTHER BUNCOMBE AMENDMENT.

Another attempt was made on Tuesday by the Opposition in the Ontario Legislature to make political capital and to entrap the Patron section of the House into a position that would require action inconsistent with their platform and professions. Dr. Meacham of Lennox, introduced an amendment to the motion to go into supply. This amendment in effect called for a declaration of opinion on the part of the House in favour of having county councils appoint registrars of deeds, and other such officials, as sheriffs. The debate was brief, and the Patrons were consistent in adhering to their position evidenced on the first buncombe resolution of Dr. Willoughby; they would not pre-judge the course of the Government on the question but would wait the announcement of their policy on the subject. The motion of Dr. Meacham was defeated by a majority of 56 to 23. The debate brought out the undesirable features of the proposed change, and among the objections urged were the new ones brought out by Mr. W. H. Biggar, of West Hastings, and Mr. J. R. Stratton, West Peterborough, against transferring the appointing powers to county councils. In Mr. Biggar's constituency, the City of Belleville is separated from the county of Hastings, and in Mr. Stratton's the town of Peterborough, is separated from the county of that name. To deprive such separate municipalities of all voice in appointments, and give the authority to surrounding counties, would be manifestly absurd. In addition Mr. Stratton called the attention of the House to the fact that the Peterborough county council had unanimously adopted a resolution, contrary to the demands of Dr. Meacham's amendment. This circumstance shows that county councils do not wish to be bothered with such appointments and are quite content with the present system. The Opposition have hard work trying to create a little political capital. The desperate attempts made by them in this direction show conclusively that the administrative record of the government presents no chance for successful criticism or attack. Subterfuge, not statesmanship, is the cue of the Opposition in the Ontario Legislature.

THE Mowat Government has won all the bye-elections to date and the majorities have ranged from nearly 300 to 800. It would be even dangerous to the Conservatives to have a Toronto seat opened just now. The people of Ontario are evidently determined that there shall be no combination formed in the Legislature to oust the Mowat Government. They are building a majority which renders the "grand old man" independent of all factious intrigues.

IN his speech at Orangeville recently, Mr. Dalton McCarthy speaking of the speech of Mr. J. L. Hughes in the Orange Grand Lodge of Ontario West, said, in reply to a question, "I read that glorious speech of the Grand Master, and I was ashamed of it—and I am only astonished that the Orange people of this country allowed a gentleman to remain as their grand sovereign who is capable of delivering such an address as James L. Hughes did at St. Catharines.

THE victory of Dr. Baxter, who has converted within a few months an adverse majority into a Liberal majority of 300, does not tend to inspire the Dominion Minister without a carpet bag, Dr. Montague, with much hope. He will not have a walkover in Haldimand even though backed with an autograph letter of Her Majesty, written by a premier.

THE Montreal Witness says the imbecility of the (Dominion) Government is painful to its supporters and ridiculous to ist opponents.

NOT ONE DAY

FREE FROM HEADACHE.

Three Years of Suffering, Headache Every Day, and no Relief from Doctors or Medicine until B. B. B. made a Complete Cure.

DEAR SIRS,—I had severe headache for the past three years, and was not free from it a single day. I used doctors' medicines and all others I could think of, but it did me no good. My cousin said I must try B. B. B. because it is the best medicine ever made, and I took three bottles of it, with the result that it has completely cured me. I think Burdock Blood Bitters, both for headaches and as a blood purifier, is the best in the world, and am glad to recommend it to all my friends.

STEWART'S—OTONABEE.

Thorne-Deyell Nuptials Celebrated on Wednesday's Evening.

On Wednesday evening, March 20th, at the residence of the bride's father, Mr. John Deyell, of Otonabee, there were united in matrimony Miss Mabel Deyell and Mr. Jas. Thorne.

Rev. W. C. Bear, of Ashburnham, performed the ceremony in the presence of a large number of the friends of the contrasting parties.

The handsome and extensive array of wedding presents testified to the high esteem in which the bride is held by her many friends. The young couple will take up their residence in Otonabee. All unite in wishing them a long and happy wedded life.

THE LOCAL LEGISLATURE.

A Long Discussion Expected Over the Act Forbidding Bonuses.

Toronto, March 22.—There was quite a ripple of excitement in the Local Legislature yesterday when Mr. Marter asked the Government if it was true that there was any truth in the report that a well-known lumberman had for some time been systematically defrauding the Government and whether an investigation would be held. Mr. Hardy, replying for the Government, said that a prima facie case had been shown and that an investigation was in progress. The lumberman in question had deposited $5,000 to protect the Government in the meantime.

Mr. Harty, replying to Mr. Howland, said that the Government was negotiating with the city authorities of Toronto with the view to obtaining the land in front of the Parliament buildings upon which the Macdonald monument stands.

Shall Bonuses be Allowed.

There will be considerable discussion this session over the Act which forbids municipalities granting bonuses to manufacturing industries. Yesterday in the Private Bills Committee a bill to permit the town of Gananoque to bonus "The Thousand Island Carriage Co." to the extent of $10,000 was brought up. The argument in favor of the bill was that the industry had left Gananoque some years ago and removed to Brockville because a bonus of $50,000 had been granted by that town. The bill was passed and will be reported to the House. The bill to permit the Hamilton Iron and Steel Company to construct a tramway from their smelting works to an adjacent limestone quarry was passed. The clause granting powers of expropriation was struck out.

The Druggists Disappointed.

Hon. G. W. Ross introduced a bill to amend the Pharmacy Act. In 1892 a bill was passed permitting grocers and other dealers to sell patent medicines under certain conditions. The privilege was granted for a year only. Last year a similar bill was passed and the present bill extends the same privileges for an indefinite period much to the disgust of the druggists.

No More Passes.

The Patrons in caucus yesterday decided to introduce a bill providing that no member of the Legislature should be allowed to accept a railroad pass because of his election. The bill will also prohibit members accepting reduced rates. It was decided that where members held passes prior to election they should be allowed to keep them. It is expected that this law will be evaded by railroad companies sending passes to all candidates nominated and before election.

A Disgraceful Scene.

There was a most unparliamentary row worthy only of school children at the Public Accounts Committee yesterday. The members indulged in mutual recriminations and afforded a spectacle that would do no credit to the Province. Mr. James Corcoran, bursar at the Mimico asylum, was a witness. He expressed the opinion that the purhasing system of the Government was the best known. Following this opinion members of both parties became violent and abusive.

The Passes Handed Back.

The Patron members in caucus assembled yesterday decided to return to the G. T. R and C. P. R. all passes that had been sent them. Mr. Pardo, the Liberal-Patron member, was present and handed in the pass he received as a member of the Legislature but retained those he had received as a business man.

Legislature Acoustics.

The members of the Opposition complained of the acoustic properties of the Legislative Chamber yesterday. Dr. Meacham said that though there was some slight improvement noticeable on former sessions yet much remained to be done. Colonel Matheson suggested that wires should be strung. Hon. Wm. Harty said that at the suggestion of President Loudon, of the University, who is an authority on the subject of acoustics, curtains had been hung but that further effort to improve would be made.

The George Brown Monument.

Since the erection of the Sir John Macdonald monument in the Queen's Park last summer a movement has been on foot to have the George Brown monument removed from its present position in rear of the Parliament buildings to the front of the buildings. Dr. McKay will ask the Government to-day if the Government intends having the Brown monument removed to a more suitable location south of the Parliament buildings.

Women Lawyers.

Dr. McKay moved the first reading of his bill to permit women to practice law before the courts. At present women are eligible as solicitors only. This bill if passed will admit them to practice as barristers. The bill is likely to become law although there will be a strong opposition.

Accused of Stealing Timber.

Windsor, March 22.—Joseph Wright, of Gosfield, is under arrest for stealing timber from the estate of Samuel F. Anderson, a Detroit man. He is alleged to have had two accomplices for whom the police are now looking. Magistrate Bartlett says timber thieving is getting to be too common. Several hundred dollars' worth have been cut this season, extending through every township in the county. Millers, some honest and some otherwise, buy the logs, he says, but to protect their name they usually deliver them when owners trace them.

McCarthyites Barred Out.

Stayner, March 22.—About 200 delegates met here yesterday to nominate a Conservative candidate for the Commons. A number of McCarthyites were outside but not being able to show their delegates' ticket were not admitted to the hall. Seven gentlemen were nominated but all withdrew except H. Lennox, of Barrie, and J. W. Garvin, of Peterborough. A ballot was then cast and Mr. Lennox nominated by a majority by about 80. The choice was then made unanimous.

Making the Horse Mourn, Too.

When a prince of the Austrian royal family dies, his horse follows the funeral covered with a black cloth, and lame in one hoof. The lameness is produced by driving a nail through the horseshoe. This is the sign of the deepest possible mourning.

Coughs, colds, sore throat, asthma, bronchitis, and all lung troubles are quickly cured by Hagyard's Pectoral Balsam.

A FATAL ACCIDENT.

Mr. Richard Fitch, of Manvers, Struck by a Falling Tree.

A few days ago while Mr. Richard Fitch, of Manvers, was with his two brother-in-laws, John and William Sisson, engaged in falling trees and getting out timber, he met with a terrible accident which resulted in his death the following day.

It appears that Mr. Fitch and William Sisson were engaged sawing a tree which had been felled, while John was cutting down a tree a short distance away. This tree in falling struck a sapling, which threw it out of its expected course and right across where Mr. Fitch stood. Before the latter could escape he was struck by the falling tree, fracturing his skull, causing fatal paralysis. He was at once conveyed to his home, and Dr. Brereton summoned, and although everything was done that medical skill could prompt, he never regained consciousness and expired about six o'clock on Sunday evening.

The deceased was well and popularly known throughout this district. He was in his thirty-sixth year, and leaves a widow and two children to mourn the loss of a kind husband and father. The funeral to St. Mary's church, near Lifford, was very largely attended, and was under the supervision of the Canadian Order of Foresters, of Bethany, of which lodge he was a member. Only some few weeks ago the deceased had received the news of the death of an uncle in England and who had bequeathed to him some $1,500. He also carried an insurance in the Sun Life and Canadian Order of Foresters.—Watchman.

INSPECTION OF STEAM BOILERS.

Mr. Crawford's bill, introduced into the Ontario Legislature, to provide for the inspection of steam boilers and the qualification of persons in charge of the same applies to all boilers except those used for heating water, domestic, or steam-heating purposes. Provision is made for the appointment by the Lieut.-Governor-In-Council of a chief inspector of steam boilers, and not less than 8 or more than 12 inspectors, who are to constitute a Board of Inspection. All boilers are to be inspected once a year, except those that are insured, and which at present undergo examination. The tampering with a safety valve or piston, so as to subject the boiler to greater pressure than is consistent with safety, is made punishable by fine or imprisonment.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOUR NOTES.

Boston, '95, July 10th to 15th. Preparations are being made for 50,000 delegates. New Hampshire and Pennsylvania are sending 2000 each: New York, 500; Philadelphia, 400; Missouri, 250. How many will go from Peterborough county? A capital way of spending your summer holidays. Fare from Peterborough for round trip, $13.50, valid until July 31st, thus giving two weeks for sight-seeing.

One young man in San Francisco has had to put his boots behind the door to keep them from marching off to Boston. May many Endeavourers throughout Peterborough county have to do the same.

Some noted speakers to be present at the convention are: Rev. F. B. Meyer, London, Eng.; Dr. Theo. Monod, Paris France; Rev. Messrs. Montgomery and Lamont, Ireland; Knight Chaplin and Morgan, England, and many other.

There will be three mammoth meeting places this year instead of two as heretofore. The mechanics' hall, seating 7,000, and two huge tents seating 10,000 each.

A special feature of the convention will be the enormous mass meeting to be held on Boston Common, to be addressed by the Governor of Massachusetts, and other eminent men.

The closing sessions will be held on Monday, evening, 15th July, instead of Sunday. This has been done in order to avoid Sunday travelling.

BRIGHT OUTLOOK FOR LIBERALS.

Mr. Jas. Sutherland, M.P.P., Sanguine as to the Result of the Next Election.

Mr. Jas. Sutherland, M.P., who is home again after about four weeks' absence, submitted to a short interview with a Woodstock Sentinel-Review reporter on Wednesday morning.

"What are the Liberal chances in the coming election, Mr. Sutherland?" was the first question.

"Of the very highest," was the reply. "I have just returned from a trip upon which I visited most of the constituencies in the Province and we are assured of a large majority. Reports from Nova Scotia indicate that the province will return a great many Liberal members. British Columbia is also swinging into line and will give Mr. Laurier a majority of its members. In fact reports from every part of the Dominion are most encouraging. Organizations are completed in every constituency and the Liberals will be ready to make the best fight they ever did, knowing as they do that their reward this time will be greater than any in the past."

TO DISTRIBUTE THE BIG APPLES

Deposed From Their Place of Honour at the Top of the Barrel.

Mr. Dryden's bill in the Local Legislature to prevent frauds in the sale of fruit, provides for the grading of apples and pears that are packed for sale into two classes, and the marking of receptacles containing such graded fruits with the names and address of the packer. Penalties are to be imposed for selling fruit without marking it, or for forging a mark; also for the packing of fruit in such a manner as to conceal defects in size or quality. Every person receiving fruit of any kind for sale in bulk on commission must, within a week after the sale of such fruit or any portion thereof, mail to the consignor a written notice of the prices received, and neglect to do this is made punishable by fine.

Distressing Constipation Cured by B. B. B.

GENTLEMEN,—For three years I have been terribly troubled with that distressing complaint, Constipation, and tried different medicines until last spring, when I commenced taking Burdock Blood Bitters, and after the use of five bottles had no more of my terrible suffering. Before I began using B. B. B. my appetite had almost gone and I was thin and very weak, but after the use of each bottle I could (and so did others) see a wonderful change in my looks and I felt my strength returning to me.

WORLD'S FAIR IN 1896

Montreal Citizens Propose to Hold One in that City.

WILL BE OPEN FIVE MONTHS

An Influential Committee Appointed to Make the Necessary Arrangements—Hotel and Railway Men Entering Heartily Into the Project.

Montreal, March 21.—At a public meeting of citizens held here yesterday afternoon, it was decided to have a World's Fair in Montreal in 1896, and a committee of prominent citizens was appointed to make the necessary arrangements.

The projector of the Fair is Mr. Stiles, who was a commissioner for Great Britain at the San Francisco Fair, and the Montreal Fair will be held on the same lines. A joint stock company will be formed and as soon as $400,000 is subscribed by the citizens, the Dominion Government and the city of Montreal will be asked to make grants towards the project.

It is said that the Fair will be opened on May 24th, the Queen's birthday, 1896, and will be left open for five months.

The leading hotel and railway men are entering heartily into the project, as it is expected to be a big thing for the Dominion.

Dentists' Secrets.

A long chapter of dentists' secrets—the secrets revealed to them by customers made unconscious but talkative by gas—has been revealed by a conscienceless tooth puller up in Pittsburg. One society young lady swore several lines of blank spaces while a tooth was being drawn. A burglar taken from jail to have a tooth pulled confessed all the details of his crime when under the "influence" and parted with 10 years of liberty. Occasionally men want to fight and are very strong; others are jolly and confidential.

The most interesting story of the series is this, told by one dentist of another: "I know of a young dentist who was head over heels in love with a pretty girl, but he could never make any headway with her. He was bashful. That was the main trouble. One day she came to him to have a tooth pulled. He administered gas, and before she revived she let enough drop to assure my friend that if he proposed he wouldn't be rejected. She is his wife today, and if it had not been for the gas I don't suppose the wedding would ever have come off."—Washington News.

Princess Hohenlohe's Inheritance.

Princess Hohenlohe, the wife of the governor general of Alsace-Lorraine, inherited from her uncle, a Russian general, estates in Russia worth 80,000,000 or 40,000,000 rubles. Under the Russian law foreign nonresidents cannot hold property, and the princess is compelled to sell her estates at once. She asked the czar to grant her a little time, as the financial stringency, which prevails in Russia as well as in this country, has made real estate hard to dispose of. The czar, however, for political reasons, refuses to grant the extension, and the woman may be able to realize only 15,000,000 or 20,000,000 rubles from her heritage.

Why Ambition Is Honored.

"Why do we honor ambition and despise avarice, while they are both but the desire of possession?" inquired a friend of Richard Brinsley Sheridan.

"Because," answered he, "the one is natural, the other artificial; the one the sign of mental health, the other of mental decay; the one appetite, the other disease."

A Massage Stone.

A "massage stone" is coming into use in England that is made of unglazed china and provided with a sort of dorsal lump for holding in the hand and has the rubbing surface slightly undulated, not to say ridged. The stone is white, and even when used on recently washed skin it soon becomes darkened, showing that it squeezes a good deal of material from the pores.—London Letter.

Smashup on the I. B. and O.

The Irondale, Bancroft and Ottawa railway had a smash-up last Friday evening. One of the wheels of the passenger coach broke and threw the car off the track. Supt. Hutchinson, who was on board, received severe injuries and was unconscious for some hours, we are pleased to learn, however, that he is recovering. Conductor James Storer also received a severe shaking up.....A rumor was current for a time around town, that Mr. Thomas Walters, of Lindsay, had been in the wreck and was badly hurt. Fortunately this was not the case as he had left the train before reaching the point where the accident occurred.—Lindsay Watchman.

Hotelkeepers' Convention.

The Ontario License Holders' Association wound up the business of its second annual session yesterday noon, the principal business being the election of officers, which resulted as follows: President, H. Maxey, Hamilton; First Vice-President, D. Sayer, London; Second Vice-President J. St. Jacques, Ottawa; Treasurer, Wm. Armstrong, Toronto; Secretary, E. Dickie, Toronto; Solicitor, Jas. Haverson. A committee was struck to confer with a committee of brewers in watching the interests of the trade in the matter of prohibition. The Executive Committee sat during the afternoon and dealt with a large amount of routine business.

The Women's Globe.

Canadian women are already noted for many graces of person, character and heart, and now they propose showing that they also possess mental powers of a high order, combined with business qualities. They have undertaken to assume charge of an entire issue of the Toronto Daily Globe (for April 18th, next). The regular editorial and reportorial staffs, certainly all the male members thereof, will be displaced for that issue by a staff of ladies who will cover every department of the paper—business, editorial, local and general. The issue will be a very large one, both as to the number of pages and as to circulation and will also be non-political and non-sectarian. The result of this unique undertaking will, we are sure, be watched with keenest interest not only by the fair sex of the Dominion, but also by the, on this occasion, more curious male element.

PARLIAMENT MEETS APRIL 18TH,

The Cabinet Succumbs to the Coercion of its Supporters.

Ottawa, March 21—(Special)—The same influences which forced the Bowell Ministry to pass a severe remedial order have also insisted upon a session before dissolution in order that Parliament may place on the statute book a remedial law. Parliament has, therefore been called for April 18, just 28 days' notice.

Latest Game Laws.

The following is the latest revision: Book agents may be killed from Aug. 1st to Oct, 1st; spring poets from March 1st to July 1st; scandalmongers, from January 1st to Dec. 31st inclusive; umbrella borrowers, from Feb. 1st to May 1st and from Aug 1st to Nov. 1st. Open season all the year around on life insurance agents and the fellows who borrow their neighbour's papers.

Applications for Children.

The local branch of the Children's Aid Society is besieged with applications for children, but the great difficulty lies in providing those required at the ages stated in the application. The little ones taken in charge by the Society are never put out into foster homes in the same county in which their relatives and friends live, but are transferred to agencies in other parts of the province. The applications received here are all from families of the highest respectability.

Judgment in McPherson vs. Brown.

In the case of Macpherson vs. Brown et al, an action brought by T. J. Macpherson, of Warkworth, in which he sought damages for erecting engine and engine house on leased land was tried by the judge at the recent assizes and judgment reserved. On Thursday Mr. Justice Street gave judgment dismissing the action with costs G. H. Watson, Q.C., and D. J. Lynch, Campbellford, for plaintiff. E. B. Stone, Peterborough, for defenants.

The New Regime.

Mr. John Sawers, chairman of the Charity Committee, is the authority for the statement that no more wood will be given away at present to the poor, as the winter is now considered to be over and the days becoming sufficiently warm for those in need to search for wood. Mr. Sawers also states that no charity whatsoever will be distributed by the town authorities after April 1st. To those who do not like the new order of things, Mr. Sawers says he will be pleased to issue passes to any of the neighbouring towns.

The Lindsay Fires.

On Tuesday afternoon, Chief Bell, of Lindsay, arrested one Charles Genevckow, on the charge of having set fire to the store of Gough Bros., there, on the night of March 6th. The prisoner was remanded until Monday next, when he will come before P. M. McIntyre to answer to the charge preferred. This is the first arrest in connection with these mysterious fires in Lindsay and it will be hard to tell just where it will end. The council has offered a reward of $200 for information leading to the arrest of the incendiary.

A Trio of Tramps.

There was a chorus rendered in the police court precincts this morning, which partook somewhat of the nature of a glee. It was sung by a trio of tramps and there were no solo parts. The chorus was elicited in answer to a query of Magistrate Dumble's when he questioned the three wanderers as to whether they would take six months in the Central Prison or promise to leave town immediately. It required no consideration for the three to melodiously sing out "We'll leave town." They were given the opportunity of keeping their word.

Pains in the Joints

Caused by Inflammatory Swelling

A Perfect Cure by Hood's Sarsaparilla.

"It affords me much pleasure to recommend Hood's Sarsaparilla. My son was afflicted with great pain in the joints, accompanied with swelling so bad that he could not get up stairs to bed without crawling on hands and knees. I was very anxious about him, and having read

GRUESOME RUMOURS

Set at Rest—They Concerned the Occupants of the Belleville Cemetery Vault.

Various rumours have been circulated in Belleville for the past two days that have caused a good deal of excitement. It was said that the body of P. Fitzpatrick had been taken from the vault in Belleville cemetery by body snatchers. It was proven that the rumour was false. Then another and more startling rumour began to be whispered around, namely, that the lid of the coffin which contained the body of the late Jacob Crothers had been forced off, the glass broken and his arm protruded through the aperature indicating that he been buried alive. The rumor was supported by another so-called fact that the deceased had a sister who was in trance for some time. With a view to ascertaining the truth of the matter and satisfying the public mind, an Ontario reporter drove out to the cemetery and interviewed the caretaker, Mr. Robinson, and took a look through the vault. Mr. Robinson admitted having heard rumours but he did not know how they originated. "There cannot be any truth in them," he replied "because Mr. Crothers was buried without being put in the vault."

SIGNS OF SPRING.

A contributor, who contemplated poisoning his mother-in-law for her life insurance, on second thought gave vent to his depravity by the following lines on spring

Spring has sprung; spring is here,
Melting snow and sunshine clear,
Highways, walks replete with slush,
Loosening streams are on the rush;
Maples yield their sweet white blood,
Starts to life the unfolding bud;
Azure skies are clear and fair,
Buoyant gladness fills the air;
Birds tentatively essay,
Rehearsive chirp and roundelay;
Ladies veiled like cathliques
Brave the March winds freckling risks,
Ladies, spite of pavement slops,
Haunt the blooming millinery shops
Gloating o'er creations rare,
To crown the head of ladies fair;
Marbles, boys on sunny slopes,
Gleesome girls with skipping ropes;
Maple sugar—so put forth,
As from the maple groves up north—
Fresh from the refinery,
Guiltless of the maple tree—
Yes the signs are everywhere,
Spring has left its long kept lair.
But, like spring don't be too fresh;
Winds to mortify the flesh—
Winds that madly rush and roar—
Blustery March has still in store.

EXPRESSIONS OF REGRET.

Ottawa Desires That Further Information Should be Disseminated.

Ottawa, March 21—Regrets have been pretty generally expressed throughout the city that the details of other cases similar to that of Mr. G. H. Kent, whose marvellous restoration to health is now so widely known, have not yet been chronicled. It is being urged that, in the interests of humanity and in view of the expressed opinion of doctors that so many people are suffering with Bright's disease more or less advanced, steps should be taken to disseminate still further all particulars tending to bring Dodd's Kidney Pills before the public, that being the remedy to which these cures have been unhesitatingly ascribed.

PETERBOROUGH'S GREATEST CARPET HOUSE!

HALL, GILCHRIST & CO'S

It is an acknowledged fact, that this largest department in connection with our increasing cash business, has the largest, and most varied, as well as the newest stock of Carpets, Curtains, Curtainings, Window Shades, Curtain Poles and House Furnishings in any house in Eastern Ontario.

Those who have taken the troubble to compare our prices can testify that nowhere in Canada are good Carpets sold so cheap.

It is true that in no line of merchandise is the consumer less capable of judging the quality, very many being unable to tell a 3 frame from a 4 frame, or a 4 frame from a 5 frame, therefore it is of more importance to deal where they know qualities are always kept up, and prices down, and that cannot be done anywhere as well as where goods are sold for spot cash. PEOPLE OUT OF TOWN can have samples sent by express, free of charge.

READ OUR LIST OF PRICES.

Our space will only permit us to mention a few lines:

GRANTS TO HOSPITALS AND CHARITIES.

What the Provincial Legislature Does for the Nicholls and St. Joseph's Hospitals.

A statement has been issued by the Provincial Government, showing the basis upon which statutory aid is granted to hospitals and charities, and the following extracts are made therefrom in reference to the two Peterborough Hospitals:

	St. Nicholls.	Joseph's.
Collective days' stay upon which allowance at Hospital rates is based	2,251	2,205
Collective days' stay upon which allowance at Refuge rates is based	602
Fixed allowance at 20 cents per day	$1,676.20	$ 577.00
Supplementary allowance at 10 cents per day	$ 225.10	$ 220.50
Allowance of 7 cents per day, being Refuge rate for improper cases for Hospital treatment	$ 42.04
Total Government allowance to each Hospital for the year 1894	$2,253.34	$ 805.50

Aid is extended to the House of Providence, in connection with St. Joseph's Hospital and to the Peterborough Protestant Home in the following manner:

	Houses of Prov. P. P. Home.
Aggregate stay of inmates upon which aid was granted	2,295	6,060
Fixed allowance of 5 cents per day for aggregate stay of inmates	$ 417 80	$ 303 50
Amount received from all sources other than Government	1275 72	1032 37
Supplementary allowance of 2 cents per day	181 92	135 66
Total Government allowance to each House of Refuge for the year 1894	599 72	435 86

Orphanage rate of two cents per day forms part in total grant for the day's stay of children in the respective institutions.

PETERBOROUGH'S GRAND MARKET.

The Tolls Sell at an Ever Advancing Figure—A Few Comparisons.

This morning the market tolls were auctioned off for the ensuing year, and after some spirited bidding were again secured by Mr. R. H. Green, the price paid being $2,250.00, Mr. Stapleton being the auctioneer.

The bidding started at $1,500, those making offers being Messrs. John Kincaid, Charles Kelly and R. H. Green, of Peterborough, and Thos. Choate of Warsaw. The bids advanced at jumps of $50 until the two thousand figure was reached, when the increase in each offer was $10. Mr. Green, last year's lessee, finally securing the privileges at $2,250, as stated.

The value of Peterborough's market is steadily increasing. Last year the tolls sold for $2,070, and the year before they only brought $1,780. Five or six years ago the privilege brought only six or eight hundred dollars, so an estimate can be formed of the rapid growth which Peterborough's market has undergone and the value, as a market centre, which the town is assuming.

The Board of Trade has expressed a willingness to co-operate with the town authorities in making a strong effort to build up the Wednesday market equal to the one held on Saturdays, by urging on the railways the necessity of giving a half fare rate into the town on Wednesdays as well as on Saturdays. The town has grown to such proportions now as to need a semi-weekly market, and in order to enable the farmers to attend in numbers some arrangements in regards to the Wednesday fares on the railways will have to be speedily reached.

AMEND THE GAME LAWS.

Sportsmen in Toronto and elsewhere throughout the province are just now making vigorous efforts to impress upon the Minister of Fisheries the necessity for changing that part of the game laws which pertain to the catching of black bass.

Jeff Worden, a member of the International Angling Association, says that it is outrageous that the close season for bass is only from May 10th to July 1st. He says that black bass caught in April and May are not fit to eat, as they are all full of eggs. In his opinion and in the opinion of those who object to the present laws, the close season should be from January 1st until about June 15th, but in no case they say, should black bass be allowed to be caught between the first of March and June 15th.

Communications have passed between members of the association and the Minister of Fisheries, and a box of bass was sent to Ottawa last year to show that these fish should not be caught in April or May, but no action has yet been taken and the angiers are exercised because they say pot-hunters will very soon be engaged again in this objectionable early fishing.

They contend that if these pot-hunters are not stopped at once the grand sport of black bass fishing will very soon be something of the past.

The Minister of Fisheries should act in this matter at once.

A Pleasant Assembly.

At Young's Point Monday evening last a most pleasant assembly was held at the Lakeview House, everything being up to the mark, including music, dancing and luncheon, Mrs. Kearney entertaining a large number of her friends (by invitation) to a social ball and supper. Some fifty couples from Douro, Warsaw, Bridgenorth, Lakefield and Peterborough were in attendance. The evening was most pleasantly spent in the tripping of the light fantastic heel and toe, to the music supplied by John Steele's orchestra, Peterborough. Mr. M. A. Jamieson in his usual good form officiated as floor manager. The party broke up in the early hours of the morning, apparently well pleased with the outing. The dancing hall was most artistically decorated for the occasion, being the handiwork of the Misses Kearney. Flags, bunting and flowers were arranged in a manner most bewitching to the eye.—Com.

HOCKEY.

Everyone seems to be going to see the hockey match to-night at the rink between the Peterborboroughs and the Collegiate Institute team. There is no doubt but that it will be the most interesting game of the season. No one should miss it.

The barbers have organized a hockey club, with Mr. F. Pelvin, as secretary, and are out with a challenge to the wine clerks to play a game.

The Bankers will go to Fenelon Falls to-morrow for a game of hockey, providing the ice there is in good condition. Amongst those who will go down are Messrs. Taylor, Wenham, Parnell, Benedict, Montgomery, LeFevre, King and Parker.

The newspaper combination team plays its return match with the "Greenies" at the rink, to-morrow evening, at seven o'clock.

There was a grand challenge match of hockey at the rink, last evening, between teams from the works and offices of the Canadian General Electric Company.

The two sevens lined up as follows:

Works.		Offices.
Kelly	goal	Layfield
Elliott	point	Thorne
Adams	cover point	Claxton
Hall	forwards	Knowles
Hicks		Wilgar
Melntosh		King
Moore		Dunsford
D Pomfret	umpire	R J Miller

Referee—Bert Bellegham.

The score stood 3—2 in favour of the office team and the game was fast from the beginning and free from any rough play. Honours were even at the start, but the "works" were soon obliged to play a defence game, owing to the determined onslaught of the "offices." Messrs. Dunsford and Knowles played a grand game for the offices, eclipsed only by the gallant and magnificent play of captain Elliott of the "works," whose heroic efforts to secure the puck at any cost, with feet, hands or stick drew forth the unstinted applause of the thousands assembled to witness this heroic struggle. The decisions of the umpires and referee gave great satisfaction as evidenced by the generous and hearty applause.

We are informed on good authority that the return match will be played to-morrow afternoon between five and six o'clock. Arrangements have been made with several leading surgeons to be on hand, to be ready for any emergencies.

CURLIANA.

A most exciting draw in the Innes medal series was played at the rink last night, when the respective rinks of Skips Edmison and Boucher came together in competition. No closer match has been played on the rink this season. It was a see-saw for the first eight ends, each rink laying just one shot alternately. The president's rink then scored three shots and Dr. Boucher's rink secured two on the next end. Skip Edmison held his lead until the fifteenth end, when Dr. Boucher tied him and by laying three upon the sixteenth and final end won the match. The rinks were composed as follows:

R Stevenson,	W H Hill,
G M Roger,	E H D Hall,
E A Peck,	W Salisbury,
Geo Edmison, skip..11	R P Boucher, skip ..14

That the Collegiate Institute can put a strong rink of curlers on the ice was evidenced last evening, when Skip Jeffries, backed by a rink of masters, won from Skip Edwards by the following score:

M O'Brien,	— Waddell,
H R H Kenner,	— Carter,
W J Drope,	Geo A Schofield.
J Jeffries, skip..... 13	E B Edward, skip..... 3

CRICKET.

Are we to have a cricket club this season? If so, is anything being done about it? There is an abundance of good cricket material this year, though the absence of "Charlie" Halliday makes quite a rift in the lute. Will enthusiastic cricketers begin to stir up things and waken up the true cricketting spirit? As far as material goes there is nothing to prevent the development of a strong club this year. If the devotees of cricket would be devotees in earnest and emulate the splendid spirit of the hockeyists, we should have a club in Peterborough second to none in the province.

We may not want to play,
But by Jingo if we do
We've got the grounds, we've got the boys—
but, unfortunately,
We haven't got the money too.

At least, lack of funds, as well as lack of esprit du corps, has militated against maintaining an effective club in the past. The awakening of the esprit involves the development of the funds. There are enough warm hearted and warm pocketed friends of cricket in town to insure the success of cricket if the players will only manifest a live interest. The Irish gentlemen are coming to Canada this year and we could, with proper effort and proper practice, put ourselves in shape to give the Celtic cricketers a game and give the citizens an exhibition of first-class cricket. Who will start the ball rolling—who will call "play?" Now is the time to prepare for active work.

YACHTING.

The Boston Herald, a good authority, publishes a long article devoted almost entirely to general news regarding the dimensions and construction of the new defender. Her length over all is 125 feet, extreme draught 19 feet, extreme beam 28 feet plus inches. The Herald figures the sail plan of the new boat approximately as follows:—Mainsail 7,000 square feet, foresail 1,500 square feet, jib, 1,450 square feet, topsail 1,200; total 11,150, or a gain of 2,400 feet over that of the Colonia.

A comparison with the dimensions of the Vigilant, Colonia, Jubilee, Pilgrim and Valkyrie, which will be found below, will undoubtedly prove of interest:—

Vigilant — Length over all, 126 feet; length on water line, 86 feet 7 inches; beam, 26 feet; draught, 13 feet 3 inches; total sail arena, 11,312 square feet; lower sails, 8,700 feet (approximately).

Colonia — Length over all, 126 feet; length on water line, 85 feet 6 inches; beam, 24 feet; draught, 15 feet 4 inches; total sail area, 11,340 square feet; lower sails, 8,700 square feet (approximately).

Jubilee—Length over all, 122 feet; length on water line, 84 feet 6 inches; beam, 22 feet 6 inches; draught, 13 feet 9 inches; total sail area, 11,343 square feet; lower sails, about 8,700 square feet.

Pilgrim — Length over all, 120 feet; length on water line, 85 feet 3 inches; beam, 23 feet; draught 22 feet 6 inches; total sail area, 10,361; lower sails, about 7,200 square feet.

Valkyrie—Length over all, 133 feet; length on water line, 85 feet 8 inches; beam, 23 feet 7 inches; draught, 17 feet 3 inches; total sail area, about 10,100 square feet; lower sails, about 7,700 square feet.

SNAZELLE AT THE OPERA HOUSE, LAST NIGHT.

The Audience Delighted With His Charming Entertainment.

One of the best and most entertaining entertainments given in Peterborough for many a day is that provided by Snazelle at the Bradburn Opera House. Possessing an excellent voice, clever conversational powers, with an ease and gentleness of manner, he ingratiates himself into the good opinions of his audiences, with whom from start to finish of the programme he is on the best possible terms.

The illustrations and scenic effects to his various songs and recitals are in themselves worth the money. But when one hears "How Bill Adams won the Battle of Waterloo," and "How a friend whistled to cure his stuttering" the cup of enjoyment verily runneth over.

The limelight views of scenes on the Thames were particularly interesting and many of them were recognised with delight by those in the audience.

In a word those who love a real good evening's amusement should not miss the opportunity of hearing Mr. Snazelle. An entire change of programme will be presented this evening.

HARVEY.

Council Meeting.

(From Our Own Correspondent.

The Harvey Council met at School House No. 5, Buckhorn, March 16th, 1895. Members all present. Minutes of the last meeting read and confirmed. Communications read—from Rathbun Co., accepting exchange of road allowance in Deer Bay settlement; list of lands sold by the Crown in the year 1894 belonging to the township of Harvey; W. Davey's account for clothing for Lancefield; report from Mr. Dewdney with regard to opening a road on south side of lot 20, concession 14, was laid over till next meeting of council. Accounts passed and orders drawn for payment as as following: Wm. Davey, clothing for Lancefield, $9.30; C. E. Stewart, printing financial statement and ballots, $6.50; Chas. McIlmoyle, commissioner repairs on Gordon's bridge, $18.35; Wm. H. Taylor, coal oil for Mr. Abbott, 20c. On motion, Jas. Hurl's application for a new road beat to be formed, was laid over for further consideration. On motion the collector was instructed to collect the taxes on lot 22 and 16 in the village of Hall's Bridge, or return same. On motion the time for removing the timber off road allowances bought by W. Copeland and Hugh Allen was extended until farther notice from this council. The clerk was instructed to notify the county treasurer to remove from his books all the taxes charged against lot north half of 9, concession 16, Harvey. The council adjourned to meet at the town hall, on Monday, May 27th for Court of Revision and general session.

AGRICULTURAL SOCIETIES.

A meeting of delegates from each of the Agricultural Societies interested is to be held at the Queen's Hotel, Bellsville, on Wednesday, 20th inst., to consider a proposal from the directors of the Prince Edward Agricultural Society for a circuit of trotting and pacing races, to be held in Kingston, Napanee, Deseronto, Picton, Belleville, Trenton, Port Hope, Brockville, Cobourg, Gananoque and other place. The board of the Peterborough Central Exhibition might do well to consider the advisability of being represented at the meeting.

A BALLAD OF LIGHT HOUSEKEEPING.

'Tis a subtly sweet suggestive phrase,
But the simple soul who is lured thereby
Will make a sorrow for many days.
In secret oft will he moan and cry
And vote the thing a tremendous lie,
For it means, this phrase that sounds so fair,
A world of trouble and toil and care
And a wild distracting wish to go
Away from it soon and anywhere.
I speak of the things whereof I know.

It means all little transparent ways
To hide away from the common eye
The fact that your bread and butter stays
In your desk; that you bake and boil and fry
In a single dish. It means to try
To hang your garments, the best you wear,
In a folding bed, that last despair
Of honest souls; and, bitterest blow,
It means a kitchenly parlor air.
I speak of the things whereof I know.

It means to shrink 'neath the stern amaze
Of the lordly butcher's and baker's eye,
Apologizing in meek dispraise
For your modest wants. To rave or sigh
Over the pangs of the boughten pie.
'Tis to pray a strong, heav'n reaching prayer
For the meal a man pronounces "square,"
And to be once more in life below
Free from that peace destroying snare.
I speak of the things whereof I know.

ENVOY.

Ye who have 'tempted this life to share,
Pause ere ye enter the tiger's lair;
Consider the truth I fain would show.
For with hand on heart I firmly swear
I speak of the things whereof I know.
—Carlotta Perry.

A Mother's Way.

When the Rev. Horace Bushnell was a boy, he was very desirous of knowing som thing about music. No one in the family could teach him, however, and his mother, with that divine patience and insight which belong to mothers in general, found that if the lad was to have his wish at all it must be through her. She obtained a book and soon taught him all she knew—the scale, the keynote and how to find it, and the time of the notes.

This was only "book learning," however, and the question was to adapt it to the use of the voice. Little Horace wanted to sing by note, and that his mother could not teach him. She could sing by ear, however, and the two hit upon a species of reverse process. The mother sang familiar tunes, and the boy watched the notes, observing how the intervals and time ran along, and, as he expressed it, "soon began almost to sing with us."

And from singing airs they knew into notes that bore no meaning they finally learned to sing airs they did not know out of similar notation. The method had been unlocked, and further progress was easy. The mother's heart had found out the way.—Youth's Companion.

Big Guns Don't Last Long.

An English authority, in speaking of heavy guns, says that the 110 ton gun, 16½ inch bore, will fire 96 ordinary rounds, after which the gun is unfit for further service. The 67 ton gun, 18¼ inch bore, will fire 127 rounds, and the 45 ton gun, 13 inch bore, will fire 156 rounds before becoming useless. The cost of the British 110 ton gun is $82,500. That of the 67 ton gun is $54,500, and that of the 45 ton gun $31,500.—Jalapa Journal.

Madill's Emulsion

OF COD LIVER OIL AND HYPOPHOSPHITES OF LIME AND SODA.

It will do wonders for you if your cough is a hard, troublesome and stubborn cough, or if you require building up and fattening, but you must begin in time and take it regularly, as you do your meals.

Madill's Emulsion is put up fresh and sweet every week. It is far more palatable to the stomach than other similar preparations, while a tablespoonful dose contains a higher percentage of Cod liver oil. It is properly emulsified, without the aid of eggs or other over-rich elements, and assimilates much more easily on that account.

Its potency has created not only an active local demand, but a constant request from other cities and towns of Canada.

SHARP BEGGARS AND DULL ONES.

Alms Solicitors Who Choose Between the Entrances of a Cafe.

A well patronized restaurant in the neighborhood of the city hall has an entrance on two populous thoroughfares. In front of the one on the north a lean and whining beggar nightly stands with outstretched hand. He makes no audible complaint, but mutters incessantly in a tone that excites the imagination into conjuring up every horror that waits upon excessive poverty. In spite of this he fares badly, for more men come out of this door than enter by it, and as their stomachs are full the thought of hunger in others obtains no abiding place within their minds.

At the down town entrance there loiters, when the lounging policeman is not in sight, a beggar of another breed. He is sleek and round, with a fat and shiny face and a merry twinkle in his lazy eyes. More than once the writer caught him concealing a cigar behind his back while he extended the other hand in a beseeching way for alms. His sole prayer is for food, intermingled with fervent protestations that he is starving, and that he never drinks a drop of strong liquor! Many men hurrying into the restaurant with a poignant appetite are touched by his prayers and pause long enough to drop a coin into his hand.

It is clear that the sleek beggar knows that a hungry man is more apt to be touched by the hunger of others than he who is well fed, and so he chooses as his workshop the door at which the patrons of the restaurant enter, leaving the one through which they leave to the stupid fellow whose need, like enough, is as great as his mumbled prayers for charity would indicate.—New York World.

The Thrifty Japanese.

What is the reason that Japan has no poverty problem? One reason is probably to be found in the land system, which has given to every worker a holding and encouraged him to supply his wants by his own labor. There is, too, in Japan a curious absence of ostentatious luxury.

The habits of living are in all classes much the same, and the rich do not outshine the poor by carriages, palaces and jewelry. The rich spend their money on curios, which, if these are costly, is limited, and the most popular agitation is against the big European houses which ministers build for themselves. Wealth is thus not absorbed and is more ready for investment in remunerative labor. The last reason which occurs to the mind of a traveler with comparatively few opportunities for forming opinions is the equality of manners in all classes. Rich and poor are alike courteous. It is not possible to distinguish employer from laborer by their behavior. All are clean; all are easy; all are restrained.

The governor lets his child go to the common school and sit next to the child of the casual laborer, certain that his child will pick up no bad manners and get no contamination in thought or in person. This equality enables rich and poor to meet as friends, and gifts can pass without degradation. The rich nobles in the country, just as the university men with whom we met in Tokio, are thus able to give to those whom they know to be in need, and friendship becomes the channel of charity. The question is, Will this survive the introduction of the industrial system? It is possible that some of it may and that Japan may teach the west how to deal with the poor. —Fortnightly Review.

The Electric Capstan.

An expert in railway matters declares that the day is not far distant when the switching engine will be entirely done away with, its place being taken by the electric capstan. The latter is already in use to a certain extent on some of the Pennsylvania lines. The motor, which actuates the capstan by means of gearing, runs at the rate of some 1,200 revolutions per minute, and the gearing motor and switch of the capstan are all contained in a watertight iron case, the top of which comes flush with the ground. There is a cover to it which is readily removable, so as to give easy access to the motor for oiling and cleaning. The wires containing the current for the motor are carried through an iron pipe below the surface of the ground, and the switch for starting and stopping the motor is operated readily by the foot of the attendant in charge of the capstan.—New York Sun.

Shaver Committed for Trial.

THE MINE SORCERER.

MALAY FAKIRS WHO WORK THE IGNORANT AND SUPERSTITIOUS.

They Are Not So Potent as They Were Some Years Ago—Ceremonies Observed by the Pawang In Invoking the Hantu, or Tutelary Spirit, of the Mine.

Miners in all countries have been noted for their superstitious beliefs as to various matters affecting their good or ill luck. Soothsayers, sorcerers, or at least lode finders, were in past ages trusted to secure the satisfactory results which are now nowadays more reasonably hoped for on the report of the mining expert and engineer. The latest survival of belief in the occult powers of the "medicine man" or sorcerer is probably to be found in the Malay peninsula, which contains the most important tin workings yet known to exist. The individual who thus guides his employers to fortune, or the reverse, is known as a pawang.

Until the practical termination of independent Malay rule throughout the major portion of the peninsula, about 19 years ago, the pawang was a recognized member of every mining staff, and recognised not only by the mine owners but by the petty chiefs, who alternately encouraged or obstructed mining enterprise.

So potent was he that he could foretell the prospects of a mine, levy fines (which went into his own pocket), direct the offering up of animal sacrifices and enforce rules respecting the workings of a mine which but for him would have been simply ridiculed by the miners. Although in many districts his pretensions are now discredited, he still lingers on, superstition with the existing generation of miners having yet a firm hold in the more remote districts.

The pawang may or may not be the hereditary successor of a predecessor. In some cases he is self made, and attains his position by a few lucky forecasts as to the value of a projected mine. In a territory where, as is sometimes said, "If you dig up the highway, you are sure to find tin," the supernaturally gifted prospector has a tolerably easy task. Not that tin is always found when a hole is sunk. But a moderate acquaintance with the usual indications is quite sufficient. Chinese of limited means do not often trouble a pawang in the initiatory stages. But when the mine—"stream tin," or tin sand, with an overburden of 10 or 20 feet earth and gravel—is fairly started, the pawang suggests that he alone knows how to keep good luck in sight. Sometimes he is politely informed that his services are not wanted, and he leaves in wrath, predicting all sorts of disaster to the unbelieving towkay or manager. Upon the whole, however, he manages to get his way.

A fine physical appearance is indispensable. When engaged in any duty, such as invoking spirits or offering sacrifices, he is allowed to assume only one of two positions—with his hands resting on his hips or with them clasped behind his back. He alone is allowed to wear a black coat in the mine. As in the case of camphor hunters in Formosa and gutta percha hunters in Malaya, he uses a peculiar vocabulary. Thus cats, elephants, tigers, buffaloes, etc., must not be mentioned by their usual designation, nor are such animals (tigers unfortunately sometimes prove unpleasant exceptions) ever allowed upon a mine. Perhaps the oddest article in the pawang's "index expurgatorius" is the lime fruit or lemon, which under no circumstances may be brought to a mine, and should the juice be thrown into the mine water dire results are dreaded. Raw cotton, glass and earthenware or an unsheathed spear or kris are equally anathema, all the articles mentioned being offensive to the hantu or spirits which haunt the mine.

Assuming that the pawang is engaged by a mine owner at a fee varying from £15 to £30, his first business is to erect a platform or altar, constructed of a special kind of wood. The four branches, which serve as supports, have the bark peeled off for about 4½ feet from the ground to where the twigs begin. The leaves on the latter are not removed. A square platform, measuring 15 inches each way, of peeled sticks is fixed to these supports at about three feet from the ground. A foot above this comes a railing round three sides of the platform, while a railed ladder with four rungs reaches from the open side of the platform to the ground. Fringes of cocoanut ornament the railing, and the whole construction is bound together with creepers, rattan, however, being forbidden. Upon it offerings are laid, and the pawang invokes the hantu or tutelary spirit of the mine to bless it with good fortune. A bag of tin sand from the first washing is the fee paid for this service.

Sometimes a cheaper kind of altar is made by placing in the ground a single peeled stick with its upper end split in four, upon which is placed the little platform above described. The next process is to hang an ancha, or square frame, about 18 inches each way in the smelting house just under the eaves of the roof. This serves as an interior altar, upon which the miners place their offerings to the hantu. The accurate hanging up of the ancha is a matter of special care.

These preliminaries accomplished, the mine is considered sure of luck.—Pall Mall Gazette.

BUILT UP THE SYSTEM IN A WONDERFUL MANNER.

James A. Bell, of Beaverton, Ont., Brother of the Rev. John Wesley Bell, B.D., Prostrated by Nervous Headaches--A Victim of the Trouble for Several Years --South American Nervine Effected a Complete Cure.

In their own particular field few men are better known than the Rev. John Wesley Bell, B.D., and his brother, Mr. James A. Bell. The former will be recognized by his thousands of friends all over the country as the popular and able missionary superintendent of the Royal Templars of Temperance. Among the 20,000 members of this order in Ontario, his counsel is sought on all sorts of occasions. On the public platform he is one of the strong men of the day, battling against the evils of intemperance. Equally well known is Mr. Bell in other provinces of the Dominion, having been for years a member of the Manitoba Methodist Conference, and part of this time was stationed in Winnipeg. His brother, Mr. James A. Bell is a highly respected resident of Beaverton, where his influence, though perhaps more circumscribed than that of his eminent brother, is none the less effective and productive of good. Of recent years, however, the working ability of Mr. James A. Bell has been sadly marred by severe attacks of nervous headaches, accompanied by indigestion. Who can do fit work when this trouble takes hold of them, and especially when it becomes chronic, as was, seemingly, the case with Mr. Bell. The trouble reached such intensity that last June he was completely prostrated. In this condition a friend recommended South American Nervine. Ready to try anything and everything, though he thought he had covered the list of proprietary medicines, he secured a bottle of this great discovery. A second bottle of the medicine was taken and the work was done. Employing his own language: "Two bottles of South American Nervine immediately relieved my headaches and have built up my system in a wonderful manner." Let us not deprecate the good our clergymen and social reformers are doing in the world, but how ill-fitted they would be for their work were it not the relief that South American Nervine brings to them when physical ills overtake them, and when the system as a result of hard, earnest and continuous work, breaks down. Nervine treats the system as the wise reformer treats the evils he is battling against. It strikes at the root of the trouble. All disease comes from disorganization of the nerve centers. This is a scientific fact. Nervine at once works on these nerve centers; gives to them health and vigor; and then there courses through the system strong, healthy, life-maintaining blood, and nervous troubles of every variety are things of the past.

DOGS FOR USE IN WAR

HOW THEY ARE TRAINED IN A LITTLE TOWN IN AUSTRIA.

The Intelligence They Display Is Simply Marvelous—How They Hunt Out and Succor the Wounded and Lost—Scenting an Enemy When Five Miles Away.

Some 80 miles west of Vienna the little market town of Wels nestles in the foothills of the Austrian Alps, which here rise in bold cliffs from the banks of the Traun.

The forests of the neighborhood are too open to harbor much game, but a stranger stopping at the summer hotel of the little town might easily be led to believe that the citizens must be the most indefatigable hunters of the Austro-Hungarian empire. From morning till night, and sometimes till long after dark, he may hear the echo of shots and the barking and howling of dogs approaching the town or dying away in the distant hills, and occasionally answered from far and near, as if all the sportsmen of the northern Alps had met in convention.

For this is one of the stations where Kriegshunde—war dogs—are trained.

The plan of training dogs for military purposes was first adopted by the French garrisons in Algiers, but has since been tried with great success in Prussia, Italy and especially in Austria, where four footed messengers have for many years been taught to carry letters to the snow bound villages of the Alpine highlands. The shaggy collies used for that purpose make the best war dogs and can be trained to race in a bee line to the next military post and announce their arrival by a peculiar bark that is at once recognized and answered by the shout of a sentry.

They will also range a long chain of hills in quest of wounded soldiers, and either dash back to report their discoveries or stand guard at the side of the cripple till an ambulance party comes near enough to be signaled by a long drawn howl.

Trainers send out three or four of their shaggy pupils at once and ascertain their proficiency by all sorts of ingenious tests. Soldiers instructed to act the part of helpless cripples will hide in thickets or caverns and keep still till the dog tugs at their sleeves, when they will sit up and reward his sagacity with a piece of sausage.

They then try to rise, but pretend to be too weak to walk or even to shoot, and ask the dog to call for assistance. If help is near, Collie will set up a loud howl, repeated at shorter and shorter intervals, till the signal is answered from the valley below. If his appeals should remain unheeded, he will mount the next rock and look about as if to impress the lay of the land on his mind, and then dash off to summon help from headquarters.

Should two cripples intimate their need of aid at the same time, Collie will guide the rescuing party to the hiding place of the one farthest away, and help them to pick up or somehow assist the the other man on their way home.

Messenger dogs carry letters in a small bag wrapped around their collar and will permit only the proper officials to touch that collar. A noncommissioned officer, displaying the insignia of his rank, may venture to remove the bag, but the dog will follow him and see to it that he gets him an answer.

Private soldiers are "stood off" with a menacing growl. Persons wearing the uniform of the enemy cannot stop the messenger with anything but an extremely well aimed shot. Dogs racing along the battle front will dodge bullets by running zigzag and develop a marvelous talent for taking advantage of every cover, running through the highest grass or along the safe side of rocks and fallen trees.

Picket post dogs are selected from a different breed. The half shepherd, half wolf dogs that carry letters and hunt up cripples are not entirely devoid of scent and can find their way back home in a manner not wholly explicable on the theory of keen eyesight. But for efficiency in the role of sentries they yield the palm to a species of deerhounds that do their best work after dark.

On picket duty a well trained sentinel of that breed will scent the approach of a troop of cavalry before a man, with his ear on the ground, can hear the trampling of the horses. The dog sentry will announce his discovery in a more discreet way than the Scotch widow who screamed through the citadel of Lucknow when her "inner ear" heard the approaching bagpipe of the McGregors. Phylax on scenting danger will step up close to his uniformed companion, and after a pause of silence and keen attention will announce his suspicion by low growls, getting more frequent rather than louder, as the cause for alarm becomes more unmistakable.

The best dogs of that breed have "challenged" cavalry from a distance of three to five miles, according to the direction of the wind, and infantry from nearly two miles. They can be trained to announce the approach of a known friend in a quite different way—viz. by leaping to and fro or crouching down and jumping up by turns, but without the warning growl of the danger signal.—F. L. Oswald in Youth's Companion.

ITCHING AND PIN WORMS. PILES
No More Misery.
ITCHING PILES is an exceedingly painful and annoying affliction, found alike in the rich and poor, male and female. The principal symptoms are a severe itching, which is worse at night when the suffer becomes warm in bed. So terrible is the itching that frequently it is impossible to procure sleep. Often the sufferer unconsciously during sleep scratches the parts until they are sore—rubbing and moisture, germ, or active moisture is exuded. Females are peculiarly affected from this disease, causing unbearable irritation and trouble. Every and every species of Itching Piles or irritation in any part of the body are immediately allayed and quickly cured by Chase's Ointment. It will instantly stop itching, heal the sores and ulcers, dry up the moisture.
DR. CHASE'S OINTMENT
Gives Instant Relief.
PIN WORMS is an ailment entirely different as to cause from Itching Piles, yet its effects and symptoms are exactly the same. The same intolerable itching; the same creeping, crawling, stinging sensation characterizes both diseases. Chase's Ointment acts like magic. It will at once afford relief from this torment.

What John Wanamaker, the Most Heavily Insured man in America, Says:

(INTERVIEW WITH JOHN WANAMAKER.)

It is very generally known that Ex-Postmaster General John Wanamaker, of Philadelphia, carries the largest amount of Life Insurance of any man in the United States. A representative of the press recently interviewed this gentleman while he was travelling with the Presidential party, and this interview will be found, we believe, of general interest:—

"You are said to be the most heavily insured man in the country, Mr. Wanamaker," remarked the press representative.

"How did you come to think of that?" he said with a smile. "You are not looking for any disaster under such excellent management as our friend Boyd is giving this train and party?"

"No," I replied. "A newspaper friend in San Francisco, who had heard the report, wanted me to ask you it it was true, and if so, what your business reasons are for it?"

"Well," he modestly answered, "I have heard it stated that I am the most heavily insured man in the country. I don't know about that. The amount of my policies is $1,550,000, and the value, with the accumulations since the policies were taken out, is about two millions of dollars."

"In what class of companies are your policies?"

"They are all in stock and mutual companies, and none of them in what are known as assessment or instalment companies."

"Are they full life term policies or on what is termed the 'tontine' plan?"

"I have generally taken ten and fifteen payment policies and very few life policies. With about all good companies a contract can now be made whereby there is no risk of losing a policy after two years' premiums have been paid. If the party insured chooses to withdraw he can get a paid-up policy. Indeed, I understand that some companies have forms whereby the insurer can after one year, if desired, withdraw and receive a paid-up policy. There is practically little risk, any more, in insuring in the old companies."

"Perhaps you would be willing to tell me how you came to insure so heavily?"

"I thought the matter out, and convinced myself that it was a good business venture. Besides, it seemed to me that I might, perhaps, give away more money in lifetime if there was a fixed certainty of putting it back into my estate by Life Insurance. I conceive that the best way for a man to carry on benevolence is not to leave it to be done through his will, but to do it in his lifetime, and I felt that Life Insurance would give me more freedom in carrying out some plans I have, and which I would be glad to see completed before I leave this world. If you want to ascertain what the circumstances were in placing the Life Insurance, I must go further in my answers and say that I should not have gone so far in my Life Insurance but for the skill of the agent who tackled me to insure to a greater extent than I would otherwise have done. He was an old friend who had been in mercantile business and who knew how to present Life Insurance without boring me. I feel to-day sincerely grateful to the man who followed me so discreetly with information about companies, and who kept the subject before me until I settled the question."

"When did you begin taking Life Insurance policies?"

"My first policy was taken when I was twenty-one."

"Do you consider it a good thing for a man of small means?"

"I certainly do. Most young men spend more for cigars during the year than the annual cost of a $2,500 policy in a good company. If they must have the cigars they might divide between cigars and Life Insurance and carry at least a $1,000 policy. I think every young man, before he is married, ought to try to get at least a $1,000 policy."

"Among how many companies are your policies divided, and where are they located?"

"About forty companies. Most of them are located in the East. A few are in the West and a few in Canada."

"Do you recommend Life Insurance to others, especially those in whom you feel a personal interest?"

"I can perhaps answer that best by saying that I presented a few years ago a $1,000 policy, paid up for one year, to every insurable head of family in my employ. Many of the prudent men who received them not only kept them but added to them, and I have the satisfaction of knowing that in not a few cases those policies have been the means of saving worthy families from want."

It will doubtless be of interest to our readers to know that John Wanamaker carries a large policy in the Canada Life Insurance Company, thus evincing his confidence in the soundness of Canada's oldest and largest Company. During the last few years quite a number of American capitalists have been convinced of the SUPERIOR MERITS OF THE CANADA LIFE, and have accordingly placed their insurance therein, in preference to any other company.

The Canada Life is now being recognized in the states of Michigan, Minnesota and Ohio as the Company that gives the best results for the least premium.

A TRAPPIST REFECTORY.

Cold and Gloomy Surroundings and a Scanty Bill of Fare.

We reached the Trappist refectory. A great cold room, with whitewashed walls and five long, narrow tables, with benches on each side, stretching from end to end, was the place where the monks took their very frugal meals. The tables were laid for the first meal. There were no cloths, and it is almost needless to add that there were no napkins, although these are considered so essential in France that even in the most wretched auberge one is usually laid before the guest. Trappists, however, have little need of them.

At each place were a wooden spoon and fork, a plate, a jug of water, and another jug—a smaller one—of beer, and a porringer for soup, which is the chief diet of the Trappists. Very thin soup it is, the ingredients being water, chopped vegetables, bread and a little oil or butter.

Until a few years ago no oily matter, whether vegetable or animal, was allowed in the soup, nor was it permissible, except in case of sickness, to have more than one meal a day, but the necessity of relaxing the rule a little was realized. Now, during the six summer months of the year, there are two meals a day—namely, at 11 and 6, but in winter there is still only one that is called a meal, and this is at 4. There is, however, a gouter—just something to keep the stomach from collapsing—at 10 in the morning. No fish, nor flesh, nor animal product, except cheese and butter, is eaten by these Trappists unless they fall ill, and then they have meat or anything else that they may need to make them well. There is, however, very little sickness among them.

The living of each Trappist probably costs no more than sixpence a day to the community. Assuming that the money brought into the common fund by those who have a private fortune—the fathers, as a rule, are men of some independent means—covers the establishment expenses, and the taxation imposed by the state, there must remain a considerable profit on the work of each individual, whether he labors in the fields or in the dairy and cheeserooms, or concerns himself with the sales and the accounts, or, like the porter at the gate, tests with an instrument the richness of the milk that is brought in by the peasants, lest they who have been befriended by the monks in sickness and penury should steal from them in return.

To devote this surplus obtained by a life of sacrifice, compared to which the material misery of the beggars whom they relieve is luxury, to the lessening of human suffering, to the encouragement of the family, offering the hand of charity to the worthy and the unworthy, expecting no honor from all this, and not even gratitude, is a life that makes that of the theoretical philanthropists and humanitarian philosophers look rather barren.—Temple Bar.

Origin of the Peach.

Nothing is now more universally accepted than the fact that the peach is an improved variety of the almond. The almond has a thin shell around the stone, which splits open and shows the stone when mature. This outer skin has simply become fleshy in the peach, so that it is all that gives it its specific character. It seems now clear from investigation in the history of ancient Babylon that in their gardens, nearly 4,000 years ago, the peach was cultivated then as it now is.

It must have been many years before this that the peach was improved from the almond, and this fact goes to show the great antiquity of the fruit. Possibly gardening in some respects, at least so far as it relates to many of our cultivated fruits, was as far advanced 6,000 or 8,000 or perhaps 10,000 years back as it is today.

Phœnicians, many thousands of years ago, as is proved by the records, had in their gardens almonds, apricots, bananas, citrons, figs, grapes, olives, peaches, pomegranates; and even sugar cane was in extensive cultivation. Certainly this shows how far advanced these nations were in garden culture many years ago. —Detroit Free Press.

Musical Tones.

A stringed instrument suspended in a favorable position near a pianoforte will sound when tones corresponding to the open strings are produced on the pianoforte. The volume of the answering tone will depend upon atmospheric conditions, the quality and color of the persuading tone and the sensitiveness of the responding material. There is a familiar anecdote told of a famous tenor, who by singing the tone that was consonant with that of a wineglass, could make the glass shiver so violently that it would fall to pieces. It is because of this tonal sympathy that the cause of a harsh, rattling tone that may suddenly appear in a pianoforte is detected with difficulty. Though it may appear to be in the instrument, it is often far away and may come from a loose globe or pendant on a chandelier. Even a key in a door has been known to be the guilty cause.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

Nervous People
And those who are all tired out and have that tired feeling or sick headache can be relieved of all these symptoms by taking Hood's Sarsaparilla, which gives nerve, mental and bodily strength and thoroughly purifies the blood. It also creates a good appetite, cures indigestion, heartburn and dyspepsia.

ANOTHER MINE HORROR

A Large Number of Miners Killed and Injured by An Explosion.

SHOCK FELT FOR MILES AROUND

Heart Sickening Scenes at the Mouth of the Mine—The A. O. U. W. Loses About $60,000—The Third Disaster in That Vicinity.

Evanston, Wyo., March 22.—A large number of miners were killed and injured by an explosion which occurred at 6 o'clock last night in the Rocky Mountain Coal and Iron Company's mine No. 5, at Red Canon. Eight bodies have been recovered, but some of them are burned beyond recognition.

All hope of rescuing anybody alive has been given up.

Supt. Malby died shortly after he was taken out of the mine, as did also Jerry Crawford. It is thought Andrew Mason cannot live.

About 150 men were employed in the new mine, but most of them had gone out. The covering of the slope and buildings at the mouth were blown to atoms. The mine was considered perfectly safe.

Sixty men perished in the disaster. Fifty-one of them were married men with large families. About 50 of the men killed belonged to the A. O. U. W. and were insured for $2,000 each. The work of recovering the bodies goes steadily on night and day. The work is attended with grave peril and the first group of miners which ventured to brave the perils of gas, fire damp and crumbling walls were overcome and had to be rescued by others. A little boy who had come to the mine with a horse and buggy was driving over the slope near its mouth on the public highway at the moment of the explosion. He and his horse and buggy were thrown almost perpendicularly in the air fully 25 feet and all fell in a heap into the mouth of the slope, where the buggy was demolished. The boy was picked up unhurt and the horse an hour later was rescued from the first level badly singed and stunned.

The shock of the explosion was felt for miles around, and was distinctly heard at Evanston seven miles away.

The slope penetrates the earth at an angle of about 30 degrees and the full force of the explosion found vent at its mouth, blowing the heaviest timbers into splinters. Pieces of boards and scantling cut their way like bullets through the roofing and rafters of the power house. The scene about the mine was heart sickening. The air was filled with the screams of 50 widows and 250 orphans, as they gathered about and saw the remains of loved ones brought to the surface.

It is thought the 26 men who have not been found were gathered on the seventh level to await the coming of the last man trip of the day which was to take them to the surface. A few lives were saved because of the time of the explosion. The miners quit work at six o'clock and it is customary for them to be near the entrance and come out just as the whistle blows. A number of men had come out and some had just left the entrance to the mine slope away from the working tunnel when the explosion occurred, thus escaping death. This is the third disastrous explosion in this vicinity. In 1881 No. 2 mine Rocky Mountain exploded, killing 36 Chinese and four white men. In the spring of 1886 in Union Pacific mine No. 4, 36 were killed.

THEY HAVE A GOOD THING.

The Rich Gold Fields at Rainy Lake Being Bought by Americans.

Chicago, March 22.—John J. MacIntyre, of Niagara Falls; W. B. Pelton, of Appleton, Wis., capitalists, and Dr. A. J. Thibodeau, of Baker City, Ore., a mining expert, are at the Sherman house, fresh from the new gold region about Rainy Lake, Manitoba. They brought with them six trunks full of gold bearing rocks, as samples of a three weeks prospecting, and the deeds to $250,000 worth of property bought in that region.

Japan's New Treaty With the U. S.

Washington, March 22.—Of most immediate importance in the Japanese treaty ratified yesterday is the protocol providing that after one month the import tariff now in operation in Japan affecting American goods will cease to be binding, and Japanese autonomy in customs duties shall be complete. The treaty itself is not effective until July 17, 1899, but the great principle of recognizing Japan's supreme right as a modern civilized nation to control its domestic affairs relating to imports for which the United States has contended for over ten years is made immediately operative. It is expected that the official proclamation of President Cleveland announcing the new treaty will be issued to-day.

Diamond Cutters Deported.

New York, March 22.—The diamond cutters for whom the immigration authorities have been on the lookout arrived yesterday on the Majestic from Liverpool. There were 125 of them, all second cabin passengers. They were detained and sent to Ellis Island subject to inspection, suspected of being contract laborers. Twenty of them will be deported for having come here under contract and 80 will be deported because they are paupers according to the immigration laws.

Dufferin Christian Endeavorers.

Orangeville, March 22.—The convention of the C. E. societies of Dufferin, which closed last night, has been a success, both as regards the number present at each meeting and the interest shown by those present. The delegates commenced to arrive early and by noon had taken possession of the town, there being about four hundred present. The convention was opened by an address of welcome by the Rev. Mr. McKenzie, of Orangeville. The sunrise meeting at six a.m. was largely attended as were also the various meetings held during the day. Addresses were given by the Revs. Brown, Orangeville; McRobbie, Shelburne; Bell, Laurel; Finish, Grand Valley and Ellison, Mono Centre. The next meeting will be held in Shelburne in October.

Halton Reformers.

Milton, March 22.—The Halton Reform Association held a convention here yesterday for the purpose of nominating a candidate for the Dominion election. Mr. John Waldie was tendered the unanimous nomination. Mr. Waldie stated that his time was so fully taken up with business engagements that he was not prepared to say if he could comply with the wishes of the convention or not and asked that he be given until Tuesday next when he would let them have his answer. This request was readily granted.

Eccentricities In Palaces.

The King of Siam, who, according to late reports, has had a palace constructed which he can submerge in the sea at will and so live under water whenever he chooses, is not the only monarch who has indulged in eccentricities of this sort.

For instance, history has preserved the memory of the ice palace built by the Russian Empress Anne, who punished several of her dainty courtiers by compelling them to pass the night in this great chamber of state, where they were almost frozen to death.

The Czar Paul, ancestor of the present Emperor of Russia, constructed a room formed entirely of huge mirrors, where he spent hours walking to and fro in full uniform—a singular taste for the ugliest man in Russia.

One of the native princes of Java cooled his palace by making a stream fall in a cascade over the gateway, and the Indian despot Tippo Sahib placed beside his dinner table a life size figure of a tiger devouring an English officer, the roar of the beast and the shrieks of the victim being imitated by hidden machinery.—Harper's Young People.

Triple Pillar Saw Frame.

Among the recent mechanical constructions of note is a triple pillar saw frame, conveniently designed to occupy a space not much wider than an ordinary vertical log frame. In carrying out this plan the cross girder, which carries the saw frame and the crank shaft bearings, is in one piece, the whole being supported on three turned pillars, on which by means of screws connected by suitable gearing they are raised and lowered together. In order to limit the distance between the pillars as much as possible, the connecting rod is attached to the saw frame that is farthest from the crank shaft. There is a bell crank and flywheel at each end of the crank shaft, which enable the machine to work steadily at high speeds without excessive vibration.—New York Sun.

Pascal's Early Observation.

Blaise Pascal, who wrote a remarkable treatise on the laws of sound, was constantly observing the familiar occurrences about him, even as a boy. When he was only 10 years old, he sat at the dinner table one day striking his plate with his knife and then listening to the sound.

"What are you doing with that plate, Blaise?" asked his sister.

"See," he replied. "When I strike the plate with my knife, it rings. Hark!"

Again he called forth the sound.

"When I grasp it with my hand so," he continued, "the sound ceases. I wonder why it is?"—Youth's Companion.

The Sturdy Camel.

A camel has twice the carrying power of an ox. With an ordinary load of 400 pounds he can travel 12 or 14 days without water, going 40 miles a day. They are fit to work at 5 years old, but their strength begins to decline at 25, although they usually live to 40. The Tartars have herds of these animals, often 1,000 belonging to one family. They were numerous in antiquity, for the patriarch Job had 3,000. The Timbuctoo or Meharri breed is remarkable for speed and used only for couriers, going 200 miles in eight days with a meal of dates or grain at nightfall.—Exchange.

Perverse Man.

Wife—My husband is the queerest man.

Friend—In what respect?

Wife—Why, before he married me I couldn't get him to leave the house before 12 o'clock, and since I can't get him to come to it before that time.—Detroit Free Press.

FINANCE AND COMMERCE

TORONTO, March 21, 1895.

The trade in wheat, barley, oats, peas and rye is very quiet in the local market, and on the street next to nothing is doing. Only one load of barley was offered yesterday, and it sold for 49 cents.

The demand for choice roll butter is good, but tub continues very slow and weak. Tub, 13 to 14c; rolls, 15 to 17c; creamery, tub, 20 to 21c; creamery, rolls, 21 to 23c.

At East Buffalo yesterday sheep and lambs closed strong for sheep and weak for lambs. A few spring lambs averaging 43 lbs sold at 10c per lb. live weight.

Government crop statistics caused a drop of ½ to ¾c in wheat at Chicago. Corn declined ½c and oats ¼ to ⅝c. Provisions were firm.

The local meat, pork, produce, fruit, vegetable and poultry markets are quiet, and prices are unchanged the past few days.

In the Western cattle market, Toronto, supplies of cattle are inferior, but anything in fair condition was sold. A few loads of export cattle went for 4¼c. For some picked lots 4c was paid. Other lots sold at 3¼c to 3¾c. Calves sold at $4.50 to $5 each, according to quality. The best lambs were 4½c to 5c per lb. Few butchers' sheep were on the market. Hogs brought $4.40 per cwt. for best, weighed off cars, and fat hogs were quoted at $4.25 to $4.30.

TORONTO, March 22, 1895.

Toronto street prices are: 66½c for wheat and 41c for oats. Barley and peas, no receipts.

Dressed hogs are quoted at $5.65 to $5.80 by packers.

Wheat yesterday on the Chicago market closed ¾c lower, as did corn, which fell ⅜c. Oats were active and ⅛ to ¼c lower. Provisions were firm. No. 2 spring wheat was quoted at 59¾ to 60¼c, cash; oats at 29c, rye at 53c, and barley at 53½ to 54½c.

Eggs, new laid, bring 17 to 20c per doz.; limed, 11 to 13c per doz.; butter, pound rolls, choice, 17 to 19c per lb.; tub, 13c to 15c; cheese, 11 to 14c.

At Hamilton yesterday dressed pork took a big and sudden jump in price. The ruling price for months has been $5.40. The demand was good at $6 to $6.25.

Mr. Hackett Returned For Stanstead.

Stanstead, March 22.—The election which took place in this county yesterday to fill the seat in the Legislature which was rendered vacant by the elevation of M. F. Hackett to the Taillon Cabinet, resulted in a for victory Hon. M. F. Hackett, of Stanstead, over his opponent, W. H. Cowhard, of Dixville, by nearly 700 majority. Both sides worked like beavers and nearly every available vote was polled. Hackett received majorities in Ayer's Flats, Barnston, Beebe Plains, Coaticooke Nos. 1, 3 and 4, East Hatley, Libbies Mills, Martington, Magog town and township, Mansur Marlow, Rock Island, Stanstead village, Smiths Mills and Stanhope. Cowhard obtained small majorities at following polls: Barford, Baldwinville, Coaticoke No. 2, Dixville, Fitch Bay, Georgeville, Kateville and North Hately.

Quebec Conservatives Jubilant.

Montreal, March 22.—Hon. Mr. Ouimet, Minister of Public Works, returned from Ottawa last night. The Quebec Conservatives are jubilant over the Government's decision to hold another session. Mr. Ouimet, Mr. Foster and other ministers will attend the Conservative convention at Agenteuil to-day.

Boys Sent to Penetanguishene.

Brantford, March 22.—The three boys, W. Harrison, F. Meade and J. Bradshaw, sentenced for burglary last week, were taken to Penetanguishene yesterday.

BABY CARRIAGES.

Your baby deserves a New Carriage. The old one (that is the old carriage) is shabby and persists in running crooked. If the baby is a new baby so much the more does a new carriage complete the turnout.

A neat, well appointed carriage is an evidence of good taste. It is a credit to the family and relations. Do the folks honour and the baby justice with a new vehicle.

The more so that the new carriage, when bought from our stock, costs but a moderate amount. Dozens of tyles. None too good. Some tasty and neat, some handsome and stylish. The prices match. All serviceable and durable.

POMP AND CEREMONY

How His Excellency Affixed His Signature to the Document.

WHAT THE NORTHWEST WANTS

Mr. McLennan Trying to Save His Seat by Having a Reformatory Erected at Alexandria—A Division in the Government Ranks in Alberta.

Ottawa, March 28.—The order on Manitoba was signed this afternoon by the Governor-General with a great deal of form and ceremony. His Excellency sat in the Council Chamber, where the Ministers were assembled. The document was laid before him and he affixed his signature and the Secretary of State slapped on the great seal. This procedure was in mock imitation of the orders-in-Council passed by the Queen-in-Council ratifying the judgments of the Judicial Committee. It is said that a special messenger will be despatched to Winnipeg with the document. After all is said and done, however, "the Governor-General-in-Council" simply means Premier Bowell and his colleagues, for it is unconstitutional for the Governor-General to be present at any Council meeting, just as it is in the case of the Queen except when some state function is being transacted. The remedial order which has been signed, therefore, is the order of Messrs. Bowell, Haggart, Patterson, Ouimet and the rest of them.

Mr. McLennan Trying to Avert Disaster.

The Liberal demonstration on Thursday at Alexandria is an encouraging sign that the county of Glengarry will be won over from the Government at the approaching election. The Liberals have so far refrained from putting a candidate in the field because Mr. J. Lockie Wilson, one of the Patron leaders, is the Patron candidate against Mr. Rory McLennan, the present Conservative member. Mr. Wilson may not be a Liberal but if he carried the county in opposition to the Government and stands by his public platform he will be compelled to vote on important questions with Mr. Laurier. Mr. McLennan has been vainly endeavoring to avert disaster by having a prison reformatory erected in Alexandria, but the death of Sir John Thompson kept the work back so much that it is questionable whether there will be enough of it to do Mr. McLennan much good by election time.

Government Forces Frightened.

When the Liberals nominated Mr. Oliver as their candidate in Alberta it frightened the Government forces so much that they first begged of Mr. Haultain to come out against him, and then they raised the point that a member of the Legislative Assembly could not resign his seat and was therefore ineligible to run for Parliament. Nothing, however, is going to keep Mr. Oliver from going to the poll, he announced in Calgary a few days ago, to an immense gathering of electors in the opera house. Mr. Oliver is the strongest man in the Northwest as a public man, and although he has never been a straight Liberal, and still prefers to call himself an Independent Liberal, he is on the main issue in the coming elections standing with both feet on Mr. Laurier's platform. Cheers greeted his declaration that what the Northwest most wanted was the abolition of taxes on the necessaries of life. He asked them to say, if a 35 per cent. tariff was to bring prosperity to the country, why in these times of depression a tariff of 70 per cent. should not be levied in order to bring more prosperity. Here is a man who above all others knows public opinion and the needs of the people in the Northwest, and his voice will be potent in the coming campaign to carry more than his own seat against the Government. Premier Haultain announces that he is in the field is the hands of his friends, but so is Mr. Cochrane, another leading Conservative, and there is evidently a division in the ranks as to whom should be chosen. Mr. Cochrane says he will stay in the field whether he gets the convention or not. The convention was to have been held yesterday, but the result has not yet come East.

Would be an Acquisition to the House.

Mr. M. Cowan, of Windsor, Ont., is in the city attending the Supreme Court. He is the Liberal candidate for South Essex, and from all accounts will be the Liberal member after the poll is closed. He does not under estimate his opponent nor over estimate his own strength, but feeling that he has a good policy, and knowing that the Government are very unpopular in Essex he is not afraid of the issue of the contest. Mr. Cowan is a young man, but exceedingly well posted in public affairs and can make his views known with considerable force and eloquence. More like him are wanted in the House of Commons of Canada.

The Home Market.

The favorite argument now being used on the stump by the Conservatives is repeated this morning in a local paper here, to the effect that the home market for the farmers is better now than in 1878. They say that in 1878 agricultural products were imported into Canada of the value of $35,000,000, while in the last three years the average import was only $8,238,000, and they, therefore, argue that over $11,000,000 worth of agricultural products are now sold in Canada, by Canadian farmers, which was formerly imported from abroad. The trade returns, however, show that in 1878 there was exported from Canada goods not the produce of Canada to the value of $11,164,000. Of this between $9,000,000 and $10,000,000 was almost entirely American farm produce which came into Canada at Detroit or Sarnia or some other point, and was transported by Canadian navigation or railway to the seaboard and shipped into Europe. It is clear therefore, that most of the American products which Conservative orators are fond of describing as entering into consumption in Canada during Mr. Mackenzie's time, merely passed through Canada en route for Europe, though most of it was entered as for consumption. The exports, however, show that it did not remain in the country, and simply gave employment to Canadian transportation companies. Of course not much more need be said on the score of a home market than to point to the diminishing population, which grew at the rate of 18 per cent. during Mr. Mackenzie's time and only 11 per cent. during the last ten years of the N.P.

Ponsonby Dying.

Osborne, Isle of Wight, March 28.—Sir Henry F. Ponsonby, Secretary to the Queen, is in a very critical condition, and his death may occur at any moment.

Crown Has Taken Charge.

Toronto, March 28.—The Crown authorities have taken charge of the warerooms at 26 and 28 Colborne street, formerly occupied by the Hyams brothers, now in prison charged with the murder of W. C. Wells, in January, 1896. This is done to prevent any interference with the elevator hoist or appliances, and to have it in the same condition as it is now, in case the jury at the trial should desire to personally inspect the scene of the alleged murder.

Fatal Explosion of Gasoline.

Detroit, March 28.—A fatal gasoline explosion occurred yesterday morning at No. 265 Third street. Mrs. Reading left a two quart pail filled with gasoline on the kitchen table. While her back was turned her daughter, Mrs. Edwards, came into the room. Supposing that the pail contained water she carried it to the stove, raised the lid of the tea kettle and poured the gasoline into the kettle. An instant later it exploded, rending the kettle and throwing the blazing liquid all over the room. Little Robert was standing close to the stove and was drenched from head to foot. Although he was blazing from head to foot his mother succeeded in tearing off his clothes and smothered the flames but not until the child was fatally burned. Mrs. Edwards was terribly burned about the hands, arms and face.

Peculiar Death of a Child.

Vinita, I. T., March 28.—Mrs. James Vaughan was sewing on her machine yesterday afternoon when a needle snapped and a part of it stuck in the table. She put in a new needle and continued her work. About ten minutes later she noticed that her two-year-old daughter sat rather quiet on the floor and called to her but received no answer. She picked the child up and found that she was dead. A physician found that the cause of death was a small part of the needle which had struck the eye and penetrated the brain.

Will Reside in Toronto Now.

Kingston, March 28.—Charles Loucks, of the township of Barrie, was arrested a few days ago on a charge of pointing a loaded revolver at Joseph Cox and threatening to shoot. Yesterday he was tried and sentenced to 18 months in the Central prison.

Telegraphic Briefs.

The Premier has given $1,000 to the Albert College extension fund.

The hoop net fishermen in the Bay of Quinte have been given a two weeks' extension of their fishing season.

The Dominion Line steamer Labrador, with the weekly mails from Liverpool, arrived at Halifax last night.

Pugilist Lindsay, of Omaha, was sentenced to two years in the penitentiary at Plattsmouth for manslaughter in killing Fletcher Robinson, the prize fighter, last year.

Enforcing the Alien Labor Law.

New York, March 28.—The examination of the diamond cutters who arrived here on the Majestic Wednesday was continued at Ellis Island yesterday. Sixty-five of the suspected men were released and took the first boat for this city. Sixty-two will be deported. There are 30 more suspects who came on the Werkendam still to be examined.

Rebellion in Muiluk.

Hong Kong, March 28.—There is a rebellion in Muiluk and the near-by towns in the southwestern part of Kwang-Tung. The rebels repulsed a punitive expedition from Canton with a heavy loss. It is now intended to besiege Muiluk.

One Wants Alimony the Other Divorce.

Hamilton, March 28.—Mrs. Ida May Gould, acting through her solicitor, has issued a writ against her husband, Thos. H. Gould, claiming $7 per week alimony. Gould says his wife has been unfaithful to him and he is now in Michigan with the intention of securing a divorce from his wife.

HE WILL RETAIN HIS SEAT

Hon. Mr. Dickey Mentioned as Minister of Militia—Dr. Montague to Become Secretary of State—Mr. Patterson May Succeed to a Lieutenant Governorship.

Ottawa, March 28.—The rumor is current that Hon. J. C. Patterson proposes to retire from the Cabinet, but so far it lacks confirmation. Nevertheless there is reason to believe that it is well founded. Several months ago, it is understood, the minister expressed a wish to retire from politics, but at that time it was out of the question, just as it is at the present time. It is altogether likely, however, that he will surrender his portfolio to Mr. Dickey and retain his seat until after the approaching session, Mr. Dickey being succeeded as Secretary of State by Dr. Montague.

Whatever takes place, Mr. Patterson will not retire without the opportunity of accepting a high office under the Government. It is not unlikely that when the retirement of Mr. Patterson is announced officially it will be accompanied by the intimation that he is to succeed to a Lieutenant-Governorship.

In this connection it is said that Lieut-Governor Kirkpatrick is to be called to Ottawa to take a seat in the Cabinet, and that Mr. Patterson will reside for the next four years in Government House, Toronto. Touching this, however, no official confirmation can be elicited.

Has Nothing to Say.

Hon. N. C. Wallace was interviewed yesterday as to his resignation. "Do you intend to resign, Mr. Wallace, as has been so much surmised?" was asked. "I have nothing to say," replied the Controller of Customs. "What do you think will be its effect on the country of a session in April?" was the next inquiry. "I have nothing to say," again replied the Controller.

The Vacant Seats.

The writs for Antigonish, Sir John Thompson's old constituency; Quebec West, vacated by the death of Hon. John Hearn, and Vercheres, Hon. Felix Geoffrion's former constituency, will probably be issued to-day. The polling in each case will take place before April 18.

FRAUDULENT ADVERTISEMENTS.

A Young Man Committed for Trial for Using the Mails With Intent to Defraud.

Picton, March 28.—Burton Spafford, a young man, was up before Police Magistrate Curry yesterday on information laid by P. H. Macarow, acting inspector of post offices for this division, and committed to stand his trial. The complaint was laid under sec. 180 of the criminal code for using the mails with intent to defraud. Advertisements have appeared in the Toronto dailies and other papers of the Dominion asking for office clerks, male and female, offering employment at good wages, applications to be addressed Gross Grange Co., box 18, Picton post office, and another advertisement of a similar nature, application to be addressed to box 18, Picton post office. Some parties who answered these advertisements not feeling satisfied communicated with the post office authorities who quietly proceeded to investigate the matter and which resulted in the arrest of Mr. Spafford, who is a young man attending the high school here and respectably connected in the county. A good deal of credit is due Mr. Macarow, the acting inspector, for the promptness and energy shown in working up this case, the result of which is likely to be an effective deterrent to others who might use the mails to assist them in defrauding the public by means of advertisements and circulars.

Discriminated Against a Coal Dealer.

Hamilton, March 28.—Great interest was taken in the Division Court case of Miles v. Grand Trunk Railway Co., tried before Judge Muir yesterday. Miles & Co. brought action against the railway company for the refund of $15.66, alleged to have been overcharged on a consignment of coal. Plaintiffs claimed to have been unjustly discriminated against in order to coerce them into bringing all their coal in by rail instead of partly by water. Mr. Miles testified that his firm brought in 12,000 tons of coal annually by rail and 16,000 tons by water. They had always enjoyed the privilege of ten cents per ton rebate which is paid to large shippers who have their own terminal facilities, but recently this advantage had been withdrawn from them. Several coal dealers testified that they were still allowed the usual rebate. Judge Muir gave judgment for plaintiff for the amount and costs. He said the company could not discriminate against a firm in this way. The case will be appealed.

Drove Off With a Horse and Cutter.

Listowel, March 28.—Yesterday afternoon a stranger called at the livery stables of J. F. Wilson and ordered a horse and cutter with the excuse that he was going out about seven miles in the country to see about a farm. Later in the evening word came from Millbank of a man trying to dispose of the horse and cutter. As yet he has not been traced, but is supposed to be making for Stratford.

The Three Years Knocked Off.

Ottawa, March 28.—The Minister of Justice has remitted three years of the sentence passed on John Simpson, burglar, at Victoria, B.C., recently by Judge Crease. He was sentenced to five years' imprisonment by the judge and immediately remarked in a sneering tone, "Thank you, sir." The judge thereupon tucked on three years more.

THE MEETING OF PARLIAMENT.

Though the Dominion Government has at last mustered courage to summon Parliament, there is no doubt they are sorry for having done so, or, at least, having been forced to do so. The Government has every prospect in this session of spending a bad quarter of a year. In the first place there is serious family trouble to be expected. Messrs. Caron and Ouimet, who have been demanding remedial legislation, are at daggers drawn with Clark Wallace and others of his sympathizers, and if Premier Bowell cannot keep peace between the members of his own Cabinet, how can he expect to keep the peace among his heterogeneous following on the floor of the House? His position is certainly not a bed of roses. And add to this the dread of the skeletons in the departmental closets, which the strong and vigilant Liberal Opposition will certainly vigorously insist on exposing and we shall have no lack of occasion for "pitying the sorrows of the poor old man." Finance Minister Foster will be called on to explain how a deficit of some five or six million dollars in the public treasury can be squared with the boasts of prosperity which he and his colleagues have been promulgating from the stump. We shall certainly see wigs on the green when Parliament assembles.

PERSONS that criticise the press should do so honestly—balance the columnn of bad deeds with the good. Against scores of papers in the United States a charge of unclean sensationalism will lie, but the great majority of Canadian papers are clean and honest. As a rule, if Canadian papers do err, which is human, they have compensating qualities. The great majority of them are ranged on the side of morality, and do yeomen service in the cause of morality and religion. The space devoted to the dissemination of church intelligence and, consequently, as a rule, of religious instruction is far greater than that devoted to any other subject, except perhaps in purely political papers. And sometimes a more special interest is taken in moral work. Take for instance the Globe, which gives up one issue—on April 18th—entirely to the ladies interested in promoting Young Mens' Christian Association work in Toronto. This is a public spirited and good action which should cancel a long score of journalistic peccadilloes. The Globe is a great newspaper, with lofty ideals and with praiseworthy persistence in carrying out its aims. For this reason it has become deeply entrenched in the confidence of the best class of Canadian citizens and its influence for good is correspondingly great.

"CHARLEY" EYKERT, says the Brantford Expositor, now that Sir John Thompson is gone, may hope to regain his place in the "boodle" party. So at least thinks Mr. Clarke Wallace, who at St. Catharines the other day gave it as his opinion that Mr. Rykert should be again the Conservative standard-bearer. We cannot think of any reason why he should not. We do not know of anything that Mr. Rykert has ever done that unfits him for becoming a member of the Bowell cabinet, so long as Caron (et al.) remains therein.

OUR local contemporary has apparently ruled East Peterborough out of the Midland district. In a list of parliamentary nominees of the Midland district, the names of Mr. John Lang, Liberal, and Mr. John Barnham, Conservative, are omitted. We guess the two Johns are going to have a little political "scrap," just for Lang syne; and East Peterborough electors are going to vote for Lang syne, too.

THE names of those who will compose the commission to investigate the affairs of University College were made public Monday evening. His Lordship Chief Justice Taylor, of Manitoba, will be chairman, and the first session is called for April 8th.

THE Opposition organs assert that the people have no faith in the independence of the Patrons—because the latter do not vote with the Conservate Opposition in the House.

NOT ONE DAY
FREE FROM HEADACHE.

Three Years of Suffering, Headache Every Day, and no Relief from Doctors or Medicine until B. B. B. made a Complete Cure.

DEAR SIRS,—I had severe headache for the past three years, and was not free from it a single day. I used doctors' medicines and all others I could think of, but it did me no good. My cousin said I must try B. B. B. because it is the best medicine ever made, and I took three bottles of it, with the result that it has completely cured me. I think Burdock Blood Bitters, both for headaches and as a blood purifier, is the best in the world, and am glad to recommend it to all my friends.

A DISTINGUISHED AMERICAN.

Long Ago He Danced With the Queen—Died at the Age of 74.

Philadelphia, March 28.—Hon. Richard Vaux died yesterday, aged 74. He was admitted to the bar when only 20 years of age. Soon after he sailed for Europe as the bearer of despatches to the Hon. Andrew Stevenson, then the United States Minister at the court of St. James. The Secretary of Legation at this court was sent on another mission at this time, and Mr. Vaux was appointed to the post. He remained a year and then continued a tour of the continent. Returning to London he became private secretary to the American Minister. It was during this visit that he achieved social fame by dancing with Queen Victoria at a court ball, he being the only American, it is said, who ever had that distinguished honor. While in Europe, Mr. Vaux assisted in the organization of the American Embassy at the Court of Brussels. Richard Vaux, or "Dickie" Vaux, as he was familiarly known, was one of the most familiar figures on the streets of this city. In the most rigorous winter weather he disdained to wear an overcoat, never having possessed such a garment in his life. Usually his footwear consisted of patent leather dancing "pumps" and he affected clothing of a cut long ago discarded by men of fashion. Of late years friends endeavored to prevail upon Mr. Vaux to wear an overcoat in winter because of his advancing age, but this he strenuously refused to do, and there is little doubt that it is due to this adherence to what he deemed a principle that death overtook him in the form of the dreaded grip. Mr. Vaux was regarded as the leading penologist of this country, and he wrote many volumes on the subject. At the time of his death he was president of the prison board of the Eastern Penitentiary and the observations embodied in his annual reports on this institution are highly prized by prison managers in this country and Europe.

Trade Improving.

New York, March 28. — Bradstreet's says: Improvement in general trade is more marked, but is not general. It is more conspicuous at larger New England points—notably Boston and Providence—at New York, Pittsburg, Cincinnati, Louisville and other centres along the Ohio river valley to St. Louis and as far west as Kansas City. Similar reports come from Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul, the first named announcing that smaller quantities of 4 per cent. money are being offered, the banks working steadily toward a 5 per cent. basis, demand for loans continuing to improve and reserves being lower than for a year past. From other cities a better feeling is reported, based on the recent development of strength in cotton, wheat and flour. The widespread prevalence of the inquiry whether this upward movement is the beginning of a permanent recovery from the two years of depression is of itself significant. Total bank clearings throughout the United States during the past six business days show a gain compared with last week and with the corresponding week of last year of 6 and 12 per cent. respectively. The condition of the speculative stock markets at New York and other cities shows a decided reflection of the better feeling in trade circles and the advances already recorded in prices for commodities. The situation lends force to the belief in a further though probably gradual improvement. Public participation has increased and outside purchases of stocks and low priced bonds supplement the buying to cover short contracts. Exports of wheat, including flour as wheat, from both coasts, equal 2,998,685 bushels this week or 20,000 bushels more than last week. The total number of business failures in the United States is 269 this week against 263 last week.

Collecting the Income Tax.

Washington, March 28.—Income tax returns are pouring in to the office of the Commissioner of Internal Revenue at such a rate as to make the income tax division a bee-hive of industry and activity. The returns are much more numerous than were calculated upon in the first estimates submitted to Congress as the basis for action. According to officials at the Treasury Department neither corporations nor individuals are holding back in making returns pending the decision of the Supreme Court on the constitutionality of the tax. Although the tax in not due until July 1, it is said $40,000 has already been paid.

It Was a Fake Story.

Jacksonville, March 28.—Philip Isaacs, of Fort Myers, Fla., who is in the city, says that the statement that the American schooner Irene of Key West was fired upon last Saturday by the Spanish cruiser Infanta Isabel is untrue. Mr. Isaacs says that last Monday at 5 p.m. the steamer Electron, on which he was a passenger, passed within 200 yards of the Irene, the schooner being under full sail and all on board in good spirits. The schooner at the time was in San Carlos bay, a few miles north of James City, where the water is too shallow for the Spanish gunboat to follow.

To Establish an Old Maids' Home.

Springfield, Ill., March 28.—A bill to tax bachelors and establish an "Old Maids' Home" when the tax fund shall have reached $60,000 was introduced in the House yesterday by Representative Walleck. The bill defines bachelors as single men of 35 years or over who have never been married and exempts men who have reached 65 who are physically unfit or who can prove to a board of unmarried women over sixty years that they have proposed marriage at least three times to marriageable females and been refused each time.

Enraged at the A. P. A.

Lowell, Mass., March 28.—The children of Thos. Richardson raised a white flag inscribed "A.P.A." in their yard. Yesterday Patrick Conroy threw two handfuls of lime into Richardson's face, saying: "Now will you take down your —— A.P.A. flag?" Physicians think Richardson will lose the sight of one eye and that that of the other will be injured. The police are looking for Conroy.

Why the Driver Did Not Halt.

Redding, Cal., March 28.—As the Weatherville and Redding stage was coming into town last night a highwayman attempted to stop it on Reddish Hills. Manager Haskell, being on the stage, the driver did not halt. Haskell jumped off the stage and ran back. He just got a glimpse of the would-be robber and fired five shots at him. Officers are in pursuit.

A Serious Accident.

Paine's Celery Compound Restores the Victim to Perfect Health and Strength.

'Tis the Spring Medicine that Renews and Invigorates Life.

Mr. Porter Taylor, well known in Musquodoboit, Halifax Co., N. S., suffered intensely for a time from a severe strain in the region of the kidneys. His pains and agonies were terrible for three days.

Mr. Taylor, a year before his mishap, had used Paine's Celery Compound, and was thoroughly well aware of its healing virtues. He immediately procured a supply of the strengthening medicine, and found himself cured and quite strong after the use of two bottles.

Every message of this kind should prove comforting and interesting to all who suffer from disease and general weakness. This is the time to put the system in healthy condition, and no medicine known to the medical world can so well do the good work as Paine's Celery Compound.

Mr. Taylor, thankful for his speedy release from suffering, writes as follows:

"I wish to inform you as to the results received from your valuable medicine, Paine's Celery Compound. I strained my back across the kidneys while lifting a heavy piece of plaster rock. I fell to the ground like one shot down, and it was with the most excruciating pain that I crawled to my house. I fainted twice before I reached the door. I got to bed, and there suffered untold agony for three days, and could not move without the greatest pain. Knowing what Paine's Celery Compound had done for me a year before, my wife went to our merchant, Mr. Edgar Archibald, and procured a supply. I used two bottles and feel as strong and as well as ever before. I wish you continued success in your work."

Sugar Mixed With Arsenic.

Philadelphia, March 28.—Nearly a million pounds of beet root sugar, mingled with which there is a quantity of arsenic said to be sufficient to poison the entire population of Philadelphia, are to be sold to satisfy the Government. The sale is to take place on Friday morning at a bonded warehouse where the sugar, part of the cargo of the German steamer Rennie, is stored. No mention is made of the fact that the sugar to be sold is mixed with arsenic but an analysis shows the presence of a large quantity of the drug. The cargo, which has been abandoned to the Government, was damaged in transit across the Atlantic and was mixed with a quantity of arsenic that was also in the ship's hold.

PAYMENT OF MEMBERS

The Imperial House Decides That Members Shall Be Paid.

WILL NOT LEAD TO CORRUPTION

The Chancellor of the Exchequer Describes it as the Logical Outcome of the Extension of the Suffrage—A Wise Proposal.

London, March 26.—Wm. Allan, Radical, moved last evening in the House that the members receive payment for their services. He reminded the House that a similar resolution was passed in the session of 1893 with the Government's approval although no subsequent action had been taken. Sir H. Stafford Northcote, Conservative member for Exeter, offered an amendment to the effect that further burdens should be imposed on the nation.

Sir William Harcourt, Chancellor of the Exchequer, said the payment of members was the logical outcome of the extension of the suffrage. The House was now too much of one class. He repudiated the suggestion that the payment of members would lead to corruption and election of unfit men. Democracy might be trusted, he said, to prevent such evils. The proposal was wise and expedient and its execution would conduce to the honor of the House. He promised to advance it in every way possible.

Mr. Goschen opposed the motion. He was proud to be acquainted with the genuine labor members now in the House, he said, and he would welcome more but the payment of members would lower the status of Parliament and taint the purity of public life without increasing the number of workingmen in the Commons.

Sir H. Stafford Northcote's amendment was lost and Mr. Allan's motion passed by a vote of 176 to 158.

THE MADRID JOURNALISTS.

Campos Says Their Offence is High Treason and Wants Them Court-Martialled.

Madrid, March 28.—Some days may elapse before the Spanish Ministry will be formed. Meanwhile the Sagasta Ministry is still in office. Gen. Martines Campos strongly favors suspending the constitution and permitting the journalists who have attacked the army and navy to be tried by military court martial on the ground that their offence is high treason and ought not for that reason to be brought before the courts. Just there the difficulty lies. If the ministry should be formed on these lines the consent of the Chambers would be necessary to suspend the constitution and make special laws for the trial of the offending journalists. In these circumstances the purpose of the new ministry would be fully discussed and would provoke sharp criticism from each of the deputies who are not favorable to so arbitrary a proceeding.

Relief Force Attacked.

Calcutta, March 28.—News has been received here of the defeat of a Sikh company under Lieut. Ross by Chitralis. Lieut. Ross and sixty Sikhs were marching to reinforce the troops of Reshu. The natives who were behind breastworks near Karagh fusiladed them and forced them to retreat. They followed the company closely and eventually hemmed them in on all sides. There were about 1,000 natives, all firing steadily upon the Sikhs. Lieut. Ross, 46 Sikh soldiers and eight camp followers were left dead on the field. The rest escaped. Another relief force will be started for Reshun with all haste.

Prospective Royal Wedding.

Rome, March 28.—Numerous stories are current here regarding the arrangements for the wedding of the Duke of Aosta and Princess Helene of Orleans. The latest one is that it will be solemnized at Stowe Hose, England, and that King Humbert, Queen Margaret and the Prince of Naples will be present. It is said the King and Queen will go chiefly to visit Queen Victoria and will be accompanied by Premier Crispi and Baron Blanc, Minister of Foreign Affairs.

A Sudden Illness.

Mrs. Matthew Smith of Millbrook, mother of Mr. William and Mr. James Smith of the Peterborough Public Schools, had a paralytic stroke on Friday, and, as she is over 80 years of age, it is not expected that she will recover. Both her sons are in attendance at her bedside.

The Bicycle Club.

A committee started out the other day with the object of enlarging the membership of the bicycle club. Without going out of the business section of the town over two hundred names were placed on the list, and an endeavour will be made to have 250 or 300 members of the club this year. Few cities can boast of such a roll. Every effort is being made to have the big meet on July 1st held here. It would bring 5,000 people into the town for several days.

Saturday's Market.

The market to-day was a fair one for this time of year, and both butter and eggs were very plentiful and as cheap as they have ever known to have been in the spring. Excellent roll butter was bought for 15 and 17 cents per pound, while crock butter was sold as low as 12 and 14 cents. Eggs sold for 10 and 11 cents, and were very plentiful, but were in demand on account of the scarcity abroad. Chickens brought from 50 to 60 cents a pair. There were few if any ducks or geese to be had. Turkeys were very scarce, at from 75 cents to $1.25 each.

Dr. Clarke will give the last of the course of lectures on Popular Hygiene on Monday evening next in St. Luke's School House. Subject—"What we Should, and What We Should Not, Breathe, or, Fresh Air and Pure Blood."

Resolution of Condolence.

At the last regular meeting of Court Littlejohn, No. 92, C.O.F., held on the 20th instant, the following resolution of condolence was passed:

Moved by Bro. E. A. Kemp, seconded by Bro. W. Menzies, and resolved, That the members of this Court desire to express their sincere regret to our worthy Bro. W. S. Cox, for the severe family affliction which he has been called upon to pass through, by the death of his eldest daughter, who has been called away in the prime of life.

We desire to express the earnest hope that the consolations of our Heavenly Father may be vouchsafed to the bereaved parents and relatives, and that they may have a strong hope of a happy reunion in a better world.

HUGH CAMPBELL MEETS WITH AN ACCIDENT.

If He Recovers He May be a Cripple for Life.

Mr. Bert Dolan received a letter to-day from Mr. H. J. Campbell, of Providence, Rhode Island, who, it will be remembered spent the summer in Peterborough and identified himself with the baseball club.

The letter is a brief one and states that while on the road he met with a serious accident about two weeks ago and is laid up at Farnham, Que. Hugh expresses doubts as to his recovery from the effects of the accident, and says that in the event of his recovery he will be a cripple for life. His agony is described as being intense, and a wish is expressed in the letter that he may be remembered to all his Peterborough friends. Fuller particulars in regard to the accident is expected later.

At the close of the evening a supper was partaken of at Bro. Harry Long's.

Committee of the Whole.

A meeting of the committee of the whole council was called last evening to consider a communication from Contractor Grant, saying he was ready and willing to resume the work of constructing the outfall sewer. In the absence of the Mayor and Town Solicitor no action was taken, but a meeting of the council will probably be called for Monday or Tuesday.

New Uniforms for the Rangers.

The officers of the 57th Battalion are most anxious that all uniforms and accoutrements should be handed in immediately as it is understood that, from those which he has already seen, the Inspecting Officer is willing to condemn the uniforms and recommend the issue of new ones to the Rangers. In order to do this all accoutrements must be submitted for inspection. Prompt attention to this request by the men is urged by the officers.

Snazelle.

Snazelle, the multiform entertainer, appeared before a very small house last night. The portion of the programme presented gave indications that the complete programme would have constituted a very pleasing entertainment. The fact of the house being so discouragingly meagre may have accounted for the limited programme presented, but those who paid their admission in good faith were entitled to the fulfilment of the contract the programme implied. If Mr. Snazelle did not like the house, it was open to him to refund the price of admission and cancel the entertainment, but it was at least undignified on his part to break off in the midst of a selection because the audience did not hilariously respond to the humour supposed to be found in the yarn of Bill Adams as to the winning of Waterloo, and leave the stage in a most abrupt manner.

ELECTION OF MUNICIPAL REPRESENTATIVES.

An Important Proposal in the Way of Municipal Reform—Mr. Stratton's Bill to Permit Ratepayers to Vote for all the Councillors of a Town—The Advantages of the Change.

Mr. Stratton has introduced into the Local Legislature, a bill which has passed its second reading and has been referred in regular course to the Municipal Committee, to provide for the duly qualified electors of towns voting for as many candidates as will compose the council of the town. For instance, suppose the council is composed of twelve members, an elector will be entitled to cast his ballot for twelve candidates. In effect the bill proposes that councillors shall be elected by the vote of the whole body of electors in the same manner in which Mayors are now chosen. This proposed change has many things to recommend it.

It brings the representation by councillors in conformity with the representative spirit of our institutions. Every member of a council has an equal voice in legislating for the whole municipality. Under the present system councillors elected for a single ward do not represent the town at large and practically so far as the town outside of their particular ward is concerned, it is disfranchised; the business is transacted so far as the representatives mentioned go, by persons who do not represent the ratepayers, whose interests are dealt with. If a councillor were directly responsible, as he would be under the proposed system, he would feel compelled to act more independently, and would be in a position to do what he thought best for the interests of the town at large, without having any dread of the section he represents under the ward system.

The change would tend to economy in expenditure, a very desirable consideration when taxation has reached an oppressive figure. What is called "log-rolling" is made possible and encouraged by the ward system. Now a councillor, or councillors wishing to procure a sum for expenditure in his ward, which may be in the interests of that ward, but not in the interests of the town at large, secures the support of the representatives of other wards on the promise of supporting them in a similar claim for their wards. Thus a system of extravagant expenditure of a sectional character is maintained, and the money that should be expended only on objects in the interest of the whole town, is spent, and when legitimate objects demand attention it often happens that there are no funds, and money must be borrowed or the taxation increased.

The evil thus indicated is more extensive than is generally supposed by those who have paid no particular attention to the subject, and it presents a substantial reason for the change proposed.

Every ratepayer has a right to vote for every councillor that transacts public business affecting such ratepayer's interests. A man who has, say, a property interest of $10,000 or $15,000 in one ward, has, now, a chance for voting only for four (including the mayor) out of the thirteen or more, as the case may be, who are to transact his business, and he is to this extent unrepresented and disfranchised.

The proposed change would result in filling our councils with a broad-minded class of men. They would be more independent, because they would not hold their positions at the mercy of a single ward. If they did their duty by the town generally, regardless of the clamour of sectional interests, they would not fear an appearance before the electors. Besides, substantial and capable citizens, who are adverse to running the gauntlet of a ward contest, where they would, to secure election, have to comply with the narrow gauge demands of a ward, would be inclined to accept a contest on broader lines in which the citizens would support candidates solely on account of their fitness for the position. Conversely, undesirable and unfit councillors would be excluded. They might by peculiar processes and promises of local improvements secure a majority of votes in a ward, but the prospect of election at the hands of the citizens at large would be hopeless.

While much more could be said in favour of the change, it is evident that it would be a vast improvement over the present system—and result in more intelligent, public-spirited and economical legislation, and we trust the bill may become law, on being approved of by the electors of the town making the change.

ST. JOHN'S SOUTH WARD MISSION.

Messrs. W. B. Bamford and A. Pearson Elected Assistant Wardens.

The congregation of St. John's South Ward Mission met last evening with Rev. J. C. Davidson in the chair and transacted the following business, in which a great deal of interest was manifested:

Moved by Miss Chamberlen, seconded by Mrs. Buller, that Messrs. W. B. Bamford and A. Pearson be elected assistant wardens of the parish.—Carried. These selections will be formally ratified at the Easter Monday Vestry meeting.

Moved by Mr. Pearson, seconded by Mr. Evans, that Miss Rubidge be requested to retain her position as treasurer.—Carried.

Moved by Mrs. Buller, seconded by Mrs. Bamford, that a vote of thanks be tendered our two organists, Mrs. Hibbard and Miss Barlee, for services rendered.—Carried.

Moved by Mr. Point, seconded by Mr. Pearson, that a vote of thanks be tendered Mr. Lambe and Mr. Parker for services rendered.—Carried.

Mr. H. Long, church warden of St. John's made a short address before the meeting closed.

THE EVANGELISTS.

The Services Will be Held in Next Week in the George Street Church.

St. Paul's church was again crowded last evening with a congregation anxious to hear the words of the Evangelists and to assist them in their work.

Rev. Mr. Moore took the subject of his discourse from the third chapter of John and delivered a very earnest and practical sermon on the story of Nicodemus.

The meetings during the past week have been marked by increasing effectiveness and an attendance which is constantly growing.

The afternoon meetings for next week will be held at three o'clock, each afternoon in the following churches:

Monday—Mark street Methodist church.
Tuesday—St. Andrew's Presbyterian church.
Wednesday — Murray street Baptist church.
Thursday—Charlotte street Methodist church.
Friday—Mass meeting of children, at 4.15 in George street church.

The services will be continued every night next week, in the George street church, at 8 o'clock.

THE C. L. A. CONVENTION.

Lacrossists Assemble in Toronto on Good Friday, for Organization.

The annual convention of the Canadian Lacrosse Association will be held on Good Friday, April 12th, in the rooms of the Young Men's Liberal Club, Stratford, at 2 o'clock in the afternoon. The council of the association will meet at the same place, at 10 o'clock in the morning.

Written notices of proposed amendments to the constitution and rules must be sent to Secretary Hugh McConaghy at least one week prior to the convention. Clubs intending to affiliate with the C. L. A. are requested to send in their applications for membership as early as possible.

Secretary McConaghy looks for a bright season for the national game, and expects at least 25 new clubs to be added to the roll.

Mr. Henry O'Loughlin, President of the St. Catharines Athletics, and long the C. L. A. Secretary, is a candidate for the Presidency. The friends of Dr. J. C. Roberts, of the Brampton Excelsiors, now Vice-President of the Association, will support him for promotion to the President's chair. At their meeting, on Tuesday evening, the Peterboroughs will decide upon whom will represent them at the meeting.

OTONABEE.

Sudden Death of Mr. Anderson Graham, on Friday Last.

On Friday afternoon, Mr. Anderson Graham, who resides in Otonabee, about a mile from Keene, died very suddenly. Dr. Harrison, of Keene, had been summoned to attend Mrs. Graham in her confinement. When ready to depart, the physician was assisted by Mr. Graham in getting out his horse. While in the barn yard, Mr. Graham was suddenly stricken down. Dr. Harrison raised him up and the unfortunate gentlemen recovered sufficiently to say that he was very ill, but died without further speech.

PETERBOROUGH'S GREATEST CARPET HOUSE!

HALL, GILCHRIST & CO'S

It is an acknowledged fact, that this largest department in connection with our increasing cash business, has the largest, and most varied, as well as the newest stock of Carpets, Curtains, Curtainings, Window Shades, Curtain Poles and House Furnishings in any house in Eastern Ontario.

Those who have taken the troubble to compare our prices can testify that nowhere in Canada are good Carpets sold so cheap.

It is true that in no line of merchandise is the consumer less capable of judging the quality, very many being unable to tell a 3 frame from a 4 frame, or a 4 frame from a 5 frame, therefore it is of more importance to deal where they know qualities are always kept up, and prices down, and that cannot be done anywhere as well as where goods are sold for spot cash. PEOPLE OUT OF TOWN can have samples sent by express, free of charge.

THE AMERICAN CANOE ASSOCIATION.

Rice Lake the Centre of Attraction Just Now—Will the Meet be Held There?

Rice Lake is being considered as a good place for the holding of the next annual camp of the American Canoe Association for their outing season in 1896. It is inferred that the officers of the A. C. A. are seriously contemplating the holding of the next meet at Lee's Point, Rice Lake, which is situated two and a half miles from Gore's Landing, twenty-two from Peterborough, ten from Port Hope, and eleven from Cobourg. The lake is easily reached via the P. S. & N. Company's line of steamers, also the G.T.R. & C.P. & M.Ry, which touch at various points along the lake. Rice Lake is one of the prettiest of the inland bodies of water, being dotted with islands, and specially reserved by government for fishing purposes, permits being granted to those applying to the fishing inspector at Harwood at a nominal cost. Rice Lake is four miles wide and twenty-eight long, and connects with the beautiful Trent, Otonabee and Keene rivers, which are all navigable and may be conveniently reached from either Trenton or Campbellford by canoeists. The waters of these rivers teem with maskinonge, rock, yellow bass and other gamey fish.

NOTES.

The steamer North King will run excursions from Rochester to Cobourg in connection with the railways at the time of the meet which will last two weeks.

Mr. Thos. Wallace, boat builder, Gore's Landing, is building a large boarding house at that point for the accommodation of canoeists. He is also erecting a commodious boat livery, which will be thoroughly equipped with all classes of craft.

The Farmers' Institute annual pic-nic will be held at Jubilee Point June 13th.

The Foresters intend holding their annual picnic at Jubilee Point also. They will be joined by the various lodges along the G.T.R. and C.P.R. lines.

Mr. Hickey, boat builder, of Port Hope, is busily engaged in the erection of a floating store house for supplying visitors to Rice Lake with groceries, etc., which will be lowered daily from island to island.

The post office is situated one mile from the proposed camping grounds.

PERSONAL

Mr. John Flood of Ennismore, is registered at the Snowden.

Mrs. Stewart, of Bobcaygeon, is in Peterborough for a few days.

Mr. Geo. E. Minns, of Belleville, is in town on a business trip.

Mr. R. G. Wynne of Hastings, was in town yesterday afternoon.

Mr. Wm. Craig, of Port Hope, was in town for a few hours yesterday.

Miss Lewis, who has been visiting friends in Toronto, returned to Peterborough last evening.

Mrs. and Miss Raymond, who have been spending the winter in Peterborough, returned to New York, yesterday.

Miss Ella McCaffery has returned to Peterborough to fill her position as dress and mantle maker in Robert Hall's.

The Port Hope Guide says: Mr. Sam Henderson, Englishtown, left on Wednesday for Peterborough, where he has secured a position.

Mr. Sandy Johnston, who owns and operates a copper mine at Wahnapatie, Nipissing district, is registered at the Little Windsor.

The Port Hope Guide says: Rev. W. C Beer, Peterborough, made the Guide a call to-day. He came down to attend the funeral of Howard S. Oke, at Welcome.

Mr. Staniscliffe, veterinary student, of Buffalo, N. Y., has begun a course of instruction under Thos. Johnston, V. S., of Chamberlain street. Another student, from a distance, will enter Mr. Johnston's office in a few days. Several students who received primary training under Mr. Johnston are making their mark.

A TRIP THROUGH THE BURNT RIVER DISTRICT.

Little or no Illegal Fishing Being Done this Winter—A $20.00 Fine Imposed.

Mr. Geo. Fitzgerald, Dominion Fishery Inspector, returned from a week's trip up north this morning and reports that illegal fishing in the back waters has been thoroughly stamped out.

While on his trip he covered the territory up back of Minden and Coboconk and states that a great deal of fishing through ice with hook and line is being done. Over fifty of such fishermen were met with in the course of his trip.

Discovering evidences of sawdust being emptied into the Burnt River waters, he traced the clue to its suspected source and fined a Kinmount miller $20 for this breach of the law.

The snaring and spearing of fish, such as was freely indulged in some two years ago, appears to have become a thing of the past and where it was no common thing to come suddenly upon a lone fisherman with a big string of speared maskinonge in his creel, such a thing is now almost unheard of.

BOOKS AND READING—READING FOR INFORMATION.

"We usually fall into much error by considering the intellectual powers as having dignity in themselves and separable from the heart; whereas the truth is that the intellect becomes noble or ignoble according to the food we give it."

"The increase of knowledge (merely as such, does not make the soul larger or smaller."

"There is not at this moment a youth of twenty having received what we moderns call education, but he knows more of anything except the soul, than Plato or St. Paul did; but he is not for that reason a greater man, or fitter for his work or more fit to be heard by others than Plato or St. Paul."—RUSKIN.

It is a perplexing and discouraging fact that there are amongst us hundreds of men and women, who, with what is called a good education, that is, the capability to read easily, never read anything instructive over and above such piece-meal information as is supplied by the newspapers. Sir John Lubbock has written a book entitled "The Pleasures of Life." It deals in a

of Books of Travel, of Science, of Health, of Religion, and other subjects. I note that 84,000 copies have been sold, and at first sight it seems a great number, but what is it amongst 100,000,000 of English speaking people? How many copies of it are there in Peterborough? How many of our citizens have read it?

It is a perplexing fact, because for the past twenty or thirty or more years we have been turning out of our schools boys and girls, who can read well, and who in their school readers have been introduced to extracts from the best writers in which they appear to take an interest. How is it that of these hundreds of thousands only a small percentage read anything but the newspapers, and not a few nothing at all? In how few houses of even well-to-do people do we see any books at all, save the show-books on the parlour table. A huge Bible adorns the centre (too heavy to be read), and radiating from it, at mathematically calculated spaces, are Milton's Paradise Lost, the poems of Cowper

A VOLUME OF ELEGANT EXTRACTS,

Punshion's Sermons, the Whole Duty of Man, or Baxter's Saints Rest. The symbolism of this centre piece, surrounded by such a shining body of satellites, is indeed appropriate, but how long have these books lain each in its own place, undisturbed by the rude hands, or the inquiring gaze of human eyes? There is something almost sacreligious in using books—especially such books—as drawing-room furniture.

Objections raised to book-buying are:

(1) The expense. Yet there are many houses with no books, but with an organ costing a hundred dollars, which no one can play. The organ is good, but, believe me, $25 worth of books is better. Or, my friend, how much do you spend in drinks? If a strict account were made it would be found that many a poor man spends, (or rather mis-spends), at a very low calculation $10 a year. What a blessing to himself and still more to other people, if he divided his drinks by two and invested $5 in books.

(2) "I should not know what to buy." A very sensible objection—we none of us know anything till we learn. Here is a general rule with but few exceptions,

DON'T BUY BOOK AGENTS' BOOKS.

They are generally written by fourth rate writers and like the razors in the story, they are got out by enterprising publishers to sell. They are sold, and unfortunately the purchaser is sold too. You can buy three good books, bound less expensively, but more tastefully, for the price of one bad one. I know a student, who, for two or three years, never bought a book without consulting perhaps the best informed man on the subject in Canada. In this way he secured a good selection and acquired a great deal of information about books and authors. There is nothing that so flatters and pleases a lover of books as to impart his information to others. You can always ask for advice, and thus confer as well as receive a favour. But you can always help yourself. Almost everyone is (even if he does not know it) interested or has the capacity of being interested in some branch of knowledge. Biography, history, travels, politics, social progress, natural history, physical science, theology, art, poetry, essays, philosophy—what a range of subjects! What storehouses of lasting happiness, if we only knew it! What preservatives from vice! What an armoury of weapons to aid in fighting the battle of life! What is your subject? Choose one if you have none, and do not be at first. Were we told of a certain hill, that twenty feet from the surface lay hidden valuable treasure, how eagerly we should dig through the soil, and blast the rock, and when we had our treasure count even the labour a joy. So it is with books. You may have to work hard to cultivate the taste, but once acquired it is a fountain of joy for ever.

AFRAID OF A LITTLE HARD WORK

"The choice of books," says Lubbock, "is a serious duty. We are as responsible for what we read as what we do." A good book in the noble words of Milton, "is the precious life blood of a master spirit, embalmed and treasured up on purpose to a life beyond life." To get the greatest amount. I will not merely say of benefit, but even of enjoyment, from books, we must read for improvement rather than for amusement. "Light and entertaining books are valuable, just as sugar is an important article of food, but we cannot live upon it."

"There are books which are no books, and to read which is

MERE WASTE OF TIME,

while there are others so bad, that we cannot read them without pollution, which if they were men we would kick into the street. But there are others, which no one can read without being the better for them. No one can read a good and interesting book for an hour without being the better and happier for it." Here, finally, is a glorious truth which should fire us with ambition to acquire the love of good books. "English literature is the birthright and inheritance of the English race. We have produced, and are producing, some of the greatest of poets, of philosophers, of men of science. No race can boast a brighter, purer, or nobler literature, richer than our commerce, more powerful than our arms. It is the true pride and glory of our race, and for it we cannot be too thankful."

HOCKEY.

Although it was fully expected that the game of hockey, which was played last night, would be a fast one, yet the match was characterized by plays of such brilliancy as to outstrip the expectations of all. The general opinion was that the Peterborough's would have to play their best to win, but there were few indeed who went so far as to prophesy a victory for the Students, yet such was the results the champions of the Intermediate series of the O. H. A. being actually defeated by eleven goals to six.

There are various reasons assigned, as to how it was that the famous Peterboroughs met defeat for the first and only time this year. In the first place it is contended that it was not the Peterborough's which were defeated as their star player, King, was on the ice against them. If a man from cover-point, point or goal had been transferred from one team to the other the difference made would have been small, as the players in these positions play more or less of an individual game, but taking the star player out of the forward line means the annihilation of a combination, which has proved its worth on many a hard fought field. The town, too, can reasonably put forward the excuse of lack of practice, as since the Granites match it is doubtful if one of the players has had a stick in his hand.

For the Students it may be said that every man on the team played a star game, and no seven from out of town which has played on the local ice this winter could have won from them last night. On the forward line King was here, there and everywhere, playing a hard fast game of great brilliancy. Belleghem, of whom the team were a trifle afraid on account of his lightness, played the game of his life. If a trifle light, he amply made up for it by his quickness, and his lightning like play called forth round after round of applause. Goldsmith showed up well all through the game and his weight and steadiness were felt with telling effect at critical moments. Lewis played steadily and held up his end well, though he has demonstrated that he can put up a better game than he did last night.

Sam Adams, at cover-point, was at his best and his checks and lifts will long be remembered by those who witnessed the magnificent game which he played. It is doubtful if a better man for the position could be picked from any of the teams in the senior series. At point, Poussette played a cool, nervy game. Hamilton, in goal, stopped some shots which almost staggered him. Some very clever manoeuvering was necessary before Poussette and Hamilton were successfully passed with the puck.

At intervals during the course of the game the Peterboroughs would make one of their old time rushes on the flags of their opponents and a goal would be shot, but the great difficulty lay, apparently, in the starting of a rush, as Adams played so close up behind his forwards and was so sure and sharp in his checking, that the rush would be broken up before it was fairly started. At every move the Peterboroughs gave evidence of what lack of practise will do in the way of demoralizing a team and the sense of insecurity resulting from the breaking of the rush line was as a severe handicap as could well be imposed.

Dixon, in goal, played his usual good game and, though the shots rained on him heavily, kept his head throughout. Montgomery in front of him played brilliantly, but in hard luck. He stopped many hard ones, but the fast forward line were on him before he had an opportunity to lift the puck. Parsons was as steady as usual at cover point and the forward line got in some good individual work, although the combination was only apparent at times. Phelan and Wonham made some of their famous rushes, but the missing man from the combination was apparent.

The opposing teams lined up as follows:

Students.		Peterboroughs.
Hamilton	goal	Dixon
Poussette	point	Montgomery
Adams	cover point	Parsons
Lewis	forwards	Wonham
Goldsmith	forwards	Davidson
Belleghem	forwards	Phelan
King	forwards	LeFevre
Referee		Mr. Will Moore

The Peterboroughs in playing the game were unwise. In running up against the Students they had everything to lose and nothing to gain. A victory to the Champions of the Intermediate Series meant nothing, whilst a defeat brings in its train circumstances of a nature that could very well be dispensed with. Games were refused the Peterboroughs by the hockey teams of Montreal and Queen's simply on the ground that the teams were out of practice, having decided to play no more this season. They were content to rest on their laurels. The Champions of the Intermediate Series should have taken a leaf from their book.

The games last evening were scored in the following order:

Scorer.	Scored For.	Time.
King	Collegiates	6½ min
Wonham	Peterborough	6½ "
Belleghem	Collegiates	4 "
Davidson	Peterboroughs	14½ "

Madill's Emulsion

OF COD LIVER OIL AND HYPOPHOSPHITES OF LIME AND SODA.

It will do wonders for you if your cough is a hard, troublesome and stubborn cough, or if you require building up and fattening, but you must begin in time and take it regularly, as you do your meals.

Madill's Emulsion is put up fresh and sweet every week. It is far more palatable to the stomach than other similar preparations, while a tablespoonful dose contains a higher percentage of Cod liver oil. It is properly emulsified, without the aid of eggs or other over-rich elements, and assimilates much more easily on that account.

Its potency has created not only an active local demand, but a constant request from other cities and towns of Canada.

FIGHTING A ROBBER.

WAS IT BRAVERY OR WAS IT A CASE OF FOOLHARDINESS?

A Struggle With the Famous Ed Dalton For the Possession of a $5,000 Money Package—A Telegrapher's Story of One Winter Night's Experience.

When I read of adventures, there comes to my mind my encounter with a notorious outlaw of the name of Ed Dalton. For years he had robbed mail coaches and waylaid and murdered travelers who were belated and so unfortunate as to meet him.

I was employed by the Northern Pacific railway as telegraph operator. It was in the latter part of the winter that the most terrible storm broke upon that section of the country that was ever known. The wind blew a strong gale from the northwest, and the air was full of snow.

All trains were late, and I had found no time to leave my office and take an express package of $5,000 to the bank for safe keeping. The station was crowded and our safe small, so that I usually deposited the company's money in the bank—not liking to risk it in the office. I had an order from the dispatcher not to go to bed till after No. 4 had passed. This was the western bound limited, due at Cameron at 10 minutes of 11.

It was a lonely night. The wires hummed and sobbed in the wind as though they could not withstand the fury of the storm. I had finished my work and was sitting half asleep near the stove, which was filled with coal and red as a cherry, when a sensation of some impending danger took possession of me. Trying to shake it off, I walked to my desk, threw open the key and asked the operator on the "night trick" at Hudson how No. 4 was.

"On time," clicked the instrument in reply, and I stirred the fire, turned the blaze of my lamp higher and sat down again.

For 15 or 20 minutes I sat listening to the monotonous click so musical to the operator's ear, when I became conscious some one was looking through the window, and a thought of the express package flashed through my mind. At the same instant a crashing of glass was followed by a gruff voice saying:

"Move and you are a dead man!"

I did not stir, but I realized that I was looking straight into a six shooter. While I was wondering how I could save the money the robber broke ont the rest of the window pane and crawled in over my desk.

Oh, for some way to reach my trusty "bulldog," which was lying in full sight under the ticket window. Useless wish! Ordering me to rise, the ruffian calmly took my chair and proceeded to warm his chilled members before "cleaning out" the office, all the while keeping the revolver pointed at my head. Glancing around, he spied my pistol and coolly put it in his pocket. As he rose he said:

"Well, now I am ready for business. I will just trouble you for that little package with the red seals that is in your safe."

I was desperate enough to say anything and broke into a loud, harsh laugh as he finished.

"Was ever anything more lucky?" I cried, and my voice sounded like a croak. "Why, my friend, I have been waiting for a chance to rob the express company for a month, and if you are bound to take the package we will divide the contents and strip together."

He looked at me a moment with a skeptical sneer.

"Bosh! Don't talk stuff! Whatever you do be quick about it and look a little out that you play me no trick, or I'll finish you."

I turned the combination and drew the safe door open, making up my mind to throw myself upon him if he moved his revolver away for an instant. It did not seem likely that opportunity would favor me, but as I took the money from the safe and handed it to him he lowered his weapon.

The critical time had come! If I should fail to overpower the fellow, it meant death for me.

I sprang upon him with the strength of a madman, and so unexpected was the movement that we both went sprawling on the floor, the revolver discharging itself harmlessly as we fell. The robber soon struggled to his feet, and lifting me completely from the floor forced me through the ticket window.

But I had wrestled often while at college, and as I crashed through the glass I whirled him around, throwing my left foot back of his in such a way that the next instant found him on his head in a corner. Wild with excitement, I pinned him to the floor, pulling my old "bulldog" from his pocket and changing the situation by placing the muzzle against his temple.

"Lie still, my friend," I panted, "or it will be worse for you!"

At that very moment I heard the familiar whistle of No. 4, which was approaching the station, but would not stop unless signaled. I was master of the situation now. I could stretch out my left hand and touch the signal board, and with a loud cry of triumph that sounded strange and savage in my own ears I turned it. I heard the airbrakes and escaping steam, and then the train came to a full stop. Directly afterward the office door opened, and the conductor came swinging his lantern and expecting his train orders.

I suppose he understood the tableau before him, but that was all I knew for some time.

When I became conscious of what was going on around me, they had my robber bound hand and foot, and an eager crowd stood round my chair, praising my bravery and congratulating me on saving the large sum of money and capturing the boldest robber west of Cameron, the famous Ed Dalton.

Was it bravery? Sometimes I think it was foolhardiness, but it paid me well, for both railway and express companies rewarded me generously in money and advance of position.—Archie Eggleson.

Another Church Burned.

St. Thomas, March 23.—About 5 o'clock last night the First Methodist Church, situated on the corner of St. George and Curtis streets, was discovered on fire. The building is the finest Methodist church in the city and cost $35,000; it was thoroughly repaired and beautified inside and outside two years ago at a cost of between $4,000 and $5,000. The firemen made a brave fight to save it and in a short time had five good streams playing on the building, but at six o'clock it was evident that the church was doomed. At 6.45 the roof fell in and nothing remained but the walls and the tower. The fire is supposed to have originated in one of the furnaces which was being heated for evening special services. The loss is estimated at fully $35,000, including a fine organ worth $3,500. The building was insured for $15,000. There was also $1,800 on the organ. The pastor is Rev. Jas. Hannon, D.D., formerly of Queen's avenue, London. The Rev. Mr. Jenkins had been conducting special services in the church every evening during the present week. The loss will prove a very serious one to the congregation and the St. Thomas Methodists generally and they have the sympathy of the entire community.

A Luscious Sandwich.

There is served at the house restaurant—and for that matter at the senate restaurant—a dish that is fit for the interior of any man, high or low, rich or poor, old or young, whom the Lord has ever suffered to live and sin. It is composed of a couple of slices of tender beef, divinely roasted, inclosed between slices of bread, divinely browned, and over all is poured a half pint of the golden juice of the meat, vulgarly known as gravy, but whose right name is "ambrosia." This dish in its entirety is down on the bills as "hot roast beef sandwich." It had its birth in the once famed Astor House and is the favorite brain child of a cook upon whom one day descended an inspiration. For a long time it was distinguished upon the capitol cartes as "a la Astor House." It has become so much a favorite with the feeders in the big building, however, that its New York patronymic has been dropped.—Washington Post.

May I Have a Fit Here, Please?

Grocer Wessel of Twentieth street and Fourth avenue had a queer customer the other morning. A well dressed woman of middle age walked into his store, and addressing the grocer asked quietly:

"Please, may I have a fit here, sir?"

"Vot is dot?" asked the mystified Mr. Wessel.

"I would like to have a fit in your store," replied the woman, this time in a hurried, excited tone.

"Fit!" exclaimed the grocer. "We don't keep 'em, lady."

He had one in the store a half minute later, however, for his supposed customer fell to the floor in an epileptic convulsion. An ambulance was summoned, and she was taken to Bellevue hospital.—New York Sun.

Hair Drying Stoves.

In the hairdressing parlors of New York, where women pay 50 cents for a shampoo and 75 cents for a shampoo with whipped egg trimmings, the treates are dried over a small sheet iron stove. The attendant mops the wig with a towel, and then wheels the tabled stove up to the customer's back, lets the hair hang down a tin spout, turns on the gas, gives her a fashion paper to read and goes off for 20 or 30 minutes to shampoo or curl another customer.

The Deadly Current.

Two horses attached to a vehicle were killed in Jersey City by coming in contact with the current from a trolley wire. It appears singular when it is stated that the accident occurred a quarter of a mile from the broken wire, the current having been conveyed along the track.—Exchange.

French dandies are now going about with a novel scarfpin under their chins. The ornament consists of a gayly plumaged singing bird connected by means of a tiny rubber pipe with a bulb in the wearer's pocket. Press the bulb, and the bird squeaks and waggles his head and tail.

The fact that Hood's Sarsaparilla, once fairly tried, becomes the favorite spring medicine, speaks volumes for its excellence and merit.

BUILT UP THE SYSTEM IN A WONDERFUL MANNER.

James A. Bell, of Beaverton, Ont., Brother of the Rev. John Wesley Bell, B.D., Prostrated by Nervous Headaches--A Victim of the Trouble for Several Years --South American Nervine Effected a Complete Cure.

In their own particular field few men are better known than the Rev. John Wesley Bell, B.D., and his brother, Mr. James A. Bell. The former will be recognized by his thousands of friends all over the country as the popular and able missionary superintendent of the Royal Templars of Temperance. Among the 20,000 members of this order in Ontario, his counsel is sought on all sorts of occasions. On the public platform he is one of the strong men of the day, battling against the evils of intemperance. Equally well known is Mr. Bell in other provinces of the Dominion, having been for years a member of the Manitoba Methodist Conference, and part of this time was stationed in Winnipeg. His brother, Mr. James A. Bell is a highly respected resident of Beaverton, where his influence, though perhaps more circumscribed than that of his eminent brother, is none the less effective and productive of good. Of recent years, however, the working ability of Mr. James A. Bell has been sadly marred by severe attacks of nervous headaches, accompanied by indigestion. Who can do fit work when this trouble takes hold of them, and especially when it becomes chronic, as was, seemingly, the case with Mr. Bell. The trouble reached such intensity that last June he was completely prostrated. In this condition a friend recommended South American Nervine. Ready to try anything and everything, though he thought he had covered the list of proprietary medicines, he secured a bottle of this great discovery. A second bottle of the medicine was taken and the work was done. Employing his own language: "Two bottles of South American Nervine immediately relieved my headaches and have built up my system in a wonderful manner." Let us not deprecate the good our clergymen and social reformers are doing in the world, but how ill-fitted they would be for their work were it not the relief that South American Nervine brings to them when physical ills overtake them, and when the system as a result of hard, earnest and continuous work, breaks down. Nervine treats the system as the wise reformer treats the evils he is battling against. It strikes at the root of the trouble. All disease comes from disorganization of the nerve centers. This is a scientific fact. Nervine at once works on these nerve centers; gives to them health and vigor; and then there courses through the system strong, healthy, life-maintaining blood, and nervous troubles of every variety are things of the past.

IT LOOKED SUSPICIOUS.

Why a Traveling Man Gave Up Playing Poker With Strangers.

"I don't play cards with strangers," said a quiet looking man on the Pullman in response to an invitation from the drummer to join them in a little game of poker. The drummer finished up and was about to say something.

"Hold on," remarked the quiet man, "and I'll explain. Sit down here a minute or two and let me tell you."

The drummer being an obliging person sat down.

"About five years ago," began the quiet man, "I was out in the west somewhere at a little town, and one night, being fond of cards and a pretty fair player, I asked four or five cowboys at the tavern where I was stopping to play cards with me. I didn't know them, and they didn't know me, but they took it for granted I was all right, and they went to my room, where I had two or three decks of cards. We started the game at a quarter the ante with a $3 limit, and it wasn't long until I was winning nicely; for, as I said before, I was a good player. After some time we took another deck of cards, and as usual I had a good hand.

"My winnings had made my new found acquaintances rather suspicious, but as I was perfectly honest I didn't pay much attention to that. I remember very distinctly I had an ace of diamonds in my hand, and when it came around to show down I knew the pot was mine, but just as I laid down my hand the man opposite me whipped out his revolver and jabbed it into my face, and on the instant out came all the other men's guns, and I was scared almost to death. I couldn't say a word, for I thought my time had come, but nobody shot.

"'Look here!' ejaculated the man who had first pulled his gun, applying several disagreeable epithets in addition, and he took an ace of diamonds out of his hand. This restored my consciousness somewhat, and after waiting until each man had expressed his opinion of me, and the final decision had been reached that I was to give up all I had won and probably be shot later, I got in a word.

"'Gentlemen,' I said, 'appearances are against me, but I am honest. I don't know how that extra ace got in the pack, but if you will look in my valise there you will find a pack exactly like this one lying loose in it, and the cards must have got mixed in there. I'm sure I didn't do it.' One of the men took the cards out of the valise and ran them over, and the ace was missing. That much was in my favor, but it did not restore confidence.

"'Send down stairs,' I said next, 'to the clerk and have him come up. He was playing here this afternoon.'

"Then they sent for the clerk, and he said that he and a pasty of friends had played with those cards during the afternoon, and farther, that they had used two packs to do some tricks with. He also stood bond for my honesty, and after an hour or so of terrific strain on me my friends concluded I was all right. Then, to establish good fellowship firmly, I insisted on their taking their money back. They set up the drinks all around, and I left them at last with a solemn vow registered that when I played poker again I must know everybody in the game, and everybody must know me. Don't you think one experience like that is enough for an honest man of quiet temperament to go through?"—Detroit Free Press.

The Birth of the Opal.

There is a beautiful little story told about the opal, that delicate stone which you have no doubt seen in rings and bracelets. The story is that the opal was long ago promised to anybody who could discover it. It lay hidden away, so the old fortune tellers used to say, at the place "where the sunlight and the moonlight joined" each other, and whoever could find that spot would be rewarded by a quantity of large, beautiful opals. After a long search for the place "where the sunlight and moonlight joined" each other, the place was found by a Spanish traveler, who followed up the rays of the setting sun, and when he had reached the end of the last ray he waited until the moonbeams shone upon the earth, and there he found the opals. They are said to be very lucky stones for those who are born in the fall of the year and very unlucky for those born in the spring. Of course it is only a saying that these are lucky or unlucky, but the rest of the story is true, as you will believe if you look in the heart of an opal and see the pink tints of the sun and the blue rays of the moon nestling in the middle of it. Cincinnati Enquirer.

He Picked His Men.

A prominent Methodist clergyman, who now resides in San Francisco, tells this incident, which occurred in a Pullman sleeper while riding through Iowa. As the train passed over the state line into Iowa a seal was put on the liquor sideboard in the buffet, and the clergyman, wishing to test the enforcement of the prohibition law, called the porter and asked him if he could get a little whisky.

"Oh, yes, sah," said the porter.

"And how about a little wine?" queried the minister.

"I think I can fix you, sah," was the prompt and whispered reply.

"But," continued the reverend gentleman, "how about prohibition in Iowa?"

"Oh," said the porter, with a knowing wink, "we always pick our men, sah."—San Francisco Argonaut.

What John Wanamaker, the Most Heavily Insured man in America, Says:

(INTERVIEW WITH JOHN WANAMAKER.)

It is very generally known that Ex-Postmaster General John Wanamaker, of Philadelphia, carries the largest amount of Life Insurance of any man in the United States. A representative of the press recently interviewed this gentleman while he was travelling with the Presidential party, and this interview will be found, we believe, of general interest:—

"You are said to be the most heavily insured man in the country, Mr. Wanamaker," remarked the press representative.

"How did you come to think of that?" he said with a smile. "You are not looking for any disaster under such excellent management as our friend Boyd is giving this train and party?"

"No," I replied. "A newspaper friend in San Francisco, who had heard the report, wanted me to ask you if it was true, and if so, what your business reasons are for it?"

"Well," he modestly answered, "I have heard it stated that I am the most heavily insured man in the country. I don't know about that. The amount of my policies is $1,550,000, and the value, with the accumulations since the policies were taken out, is about two millions of dollars."

"In what class of companies are your policies?"

"They are all in stock and mutual companies, and none of them in what are known as assessment or instalment companies."

"Are they full life term policies or on what is termed the 'tontine' plan?"

"I have generally taken ten and fifteen payment policies and very few life policies. With about all good companies a contract can now be made whereby there is no risk of losing a policy after two years' premiums have been paid. If the party insured chooses to withdraw he can get a paid-up policy. Indeed, I understand that some companies have forms whereby the insurer can after one year, if desired, withdraw and receive a paid-up policy. There is practically little risk, any more, in insuring in the old companies."

"Perhaps you would be willing to tell me how you came to insure so heavily?"

"I thought the matter out, and convinced myself that it was a good business venture. Besides, it seemed to me that I might, perhaps, give away more money in lifetime if there was a fixed certainty of putting it back into my estate by Life Insurance. I conceive that the best way for a man to carry on benevolence is not to leave it to be done through his will, but to do it in his lifetime, and I felt that Life Insurance would give me more freedom in carrying out some plans I have, and which I would be glad to see completed before I leave this world. If you want to ascertain what the circumstances were in placing the Life Insurance, I must go further in my answers and say that I should not have gone so far in my Life Insurance but for the skill of the agent who tackled me to insure to a greater extent than I would otherwise have done. He was an old friend who had been in mercantile business and who knew how to present Life Insurance without boring me. I feel to-day sincerely grateful to the man who followed me so discreetly with information about companies, and who kept the subject before me until I settled the question."

"When did you begin taking Life Insurance policies?"

"My first policy was taken when I was twenty-one."

"Do you consider it a good thing for a man of small means?"

"I certainly do. Most young men spend more for cigars during the year than the annual cost of a $2,500 policy in a good company. If they must have the cigars they might divide between cigars and Life Insurance and carry at least a $1,000 policy. I think every young man, before he is married, ought to try to get at least a $1,000 policy."

"Among how many companies are your policies divided, and where are they located?"

"About forty companies. Most of them are located in the East. A few are in the West and a few in Canada."

"Do you recommend Life Insurance to others, especially those in whom you feel a personal interest?"

"I can perhaps answer that best by saying that I presented a few years ago a $1,000 policy, paid up for one year, to every insurable head of family in my employ. Many of the prudent men who received them not only kept them but added to them, and I have the satisfaction of knowing that in not a few cases those policies have been the means of saving worthy families from want."

It will doubtless be of interest to our readers to know that John Wanamaker carries a large policy in the Canada Life Insurance Company, thus evincing his confidence in the soundness of Canada's oldest and largest Company. During the last few years quite a number of American capitalists have been convinced of the SUPERIOR MERITS OF THE CANADA LIFE, and have accordingly placed their insurance therein, in preference to any other company.

The Canada Life is now being recognized in the states of Michigan, Minnesota and Ohio as the Company that gives the best results for the least premium.

SELF SACRIFICE.

Without a Justifiable Motive It Becomes a Sentimental Vagary.

Young Lanyan, the midshipman, who went down with Admiral Tryon on the Victoria, was a sentimental lad. "You had better jump," cried the admiral to the boy.

"I'd rather stay with you," was the midshipman reply.

The boy's loyalty to the admiral was pathetic, but it was a barren display of affection. The admiral was right. The lad ought to have jumped and made a resolute effort to save his life. The admiral had weighty reasons for preferring to stay at his post. The midshipman's life was flung away from sheer excess of sentiment.

Equally wasteful and unjustifiable was the zeal of a New Jersey workman, who listened to a lady's frantic appeal for the rescue of her dog, which was floundering in a pond. She fancied that her pet was in extreme danger. The workman plunged into the water and swam out to the dog. There he was suddenly attacked with cramp and was drowned before the lady's eyes. The dog swam ashore and barked from the bank at the rescuer, whose intentions had been misunderstood. It was more than foolish for a man to risk his life for a hysterical lady's pet dog.

Another workman in Brooklyn played a better part. A cry of "Horse run away!" was raised while he was chatting with a friend. A frightened horse was tearing up the street with a wagon behind him, but no driver. Directly in his track was a baby carriage with a sleeping child. The nurse, who had been wheeling the carriage across the street, had been frightened by the outcries of bystanders, and deserting her charge had fled to the sidewalk.

The workman did not hesitate. Springing forward, he caught the animal by the bridle and stopped the horse barely in time to save the child's life. The horse, revolting against capture, reared and made a plunge for liberty. The bridle broke in the workman's hands, and he fell under the horse's feet. In a moment he was trampled to death.

This workman had a wife and children dependent upon him. He undertook a most hazardous feat in attempting to stop the horse by the bridle ends in front of the baby carriage. But although he lost his life and brought calamity upon his household he exhibited singular unselfishness and fortitude. The sight of the sleeping child exposed to a horrible death set his warm heart beating, and generously and impulsively he did the only thing that could have been done for the child's rescue.

That was better than a useless sacrifice of life for a puppy. It was nobler than voluntary suicide with the admiral, who feared a court marshal's probable brand of murderer more than he feared death. Unless self sacrifice have adequate motive and justification for the risks, it becomes a sentimental vagary involving senseless waste of life.—Youth's Companion.

A Model Salesman.

There was an etching hanging in the window of a Broadway store, and in front there was a young woman looking at it admiringly. By and by she went in and asked the clerk who seemed to be in charge of the picture department to show it to her.

"Do you want to buy it?" inquired that gentleman, sharpening a pencil as he spoke.

"I want to see it," replied the young woman with surprise, but commendable firmness.

"Well," drawled the clerk, shutting his pocketknife and favoring the customer with his undivided and somewhat insolent attention. "If you want to buy it, I'm willing to take it out of the window. As for seeing it, you can see it perfectly well from the street. I haven't it in stock, and it's a great deal too much trouble to get it out if you ain't going to buy it. If you are, I'm willing to take it down. It's $2."

The young woman was dumb with surprise. Then she said in soft and polite tones:

"You are too kind. I will not trouble you."

And in the mind of the witnesses there arose a question as to just what the province of an attendant in a store was.—New York World.

A College Joke.

As good an example as can be given of the jokes played on new students is the ancient "Pempe" of Winchester college. On the first appearance of a boy in the school a companion will ask him with a kindly air if he has a book called "Pempe Moron Proteron" (Greek for "Send the fool farther"), without which it will be impossible to properly get through his work. Of course he will say "No," and then he will be sent on a wild goose chase from one boy to another in the hopes of obtaining a copy. The game is kept up with great spirit until the older boys are tired of the fun, and then the green lad is referred to one of the masters, who, instead of giving him a volume, as he expects, ends his trouble by explaining to him the joke of "Pempe."—London Tit-Bits.

Rheumatism Cured

Rheumatism is caused by lactic acid in the blood attacking the fibrous tissues of the joints. Keep your blood pure and healthy and you will not have rheumatism. Hoods Sarsaparilla gives the blood vitality and richness and tones the whole body, neutralizes the acidity of the blood and thus cures rheumatism.

AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL

"Several years ago, I caught a severe cold, attended with a terrible cough that allowed me no rest, either day or night. The doctors, after working over me to the best of their ability, pronounced my case hopeless, and said they could do no more for me. A friend, learning of my trouble, sent me a bottle of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral, which I began to take, and very soon I was greatly relieved. By the time I had used the whole bottle, I was completely cured. I have never had much of a cough since that time, and I firmly believe that Ayer's Cherry Pectoral saved my life."—W. H. PRODUCTS OF SCIENCE FOR HOME USE.

Beautiful and Brilliant Colours.

Within the last few years science has been at work, and the results are the Fast Diamond Dyes for Cotton: Turkey Red, Scarlet, Pink, Crimson, Purple, Seal Brown, Orange, Olive Green and other colours.

These dyes make colours so fast that even washing in strong soap-suds will not cause them to fade. If women will ask for Fast Diamond Dyes for Cotton, and see that they get them, they will be able to dye any of the above colours absolutely fast and unfading, colours that will remain until the goods are worn out.

Fast Diamond dyes for Cotton give grand and brilliant colours to carpet rags, and are therefore invaluable to country people who make rag carpets. These popular dyes are far ahead of all other forms of dyestuffs, and many large dye houses use them constantly.

Common package dyes—worthless imitations—are now sold in some stores; beware of these; insist every time upon getting the guaranteed Fast Diamond Dyes; tried, sure, true, brilliant and unfading.

EXPRESSIONS OF REGRET.

Ottawa Desires That Further Information Should be Disseminated.

Ottawa, March 21—Regrets have been pretty generally expressed throughout the city that the details of other cases similar to that of Mr. G. H. Kent, whose marvellous restoration to health is now so widely known, have not yet been chronicled. It is being urged that, in the interests of humanity and in view of the expressed opinion of doctors that so many people are suffering with Bright's disease more or less advanced, steps should be taken to disseminate still further all particulars tending to bring Dodd's Kidney Pills before the public, that being the remedy to which these cures have been unhesitatingly ascribed.

LINES

On the death of Mrs. Walter J. Patteson, who died at her residence in Ashburnham, Feb. 27th, aged 38 years.

The death angel called in the morning.
And summoned our Lizzie away;
We little expected her death,
But knew on the morn of that day.

We knew not that she whom we cherished,
A sister so faithful and true—
Had, while she closed her eyes in sweet slumber,
To this sinful world bid adieu.

Though close by her side watched her mother,
So peaceful unbroken her rest,
She perceived not a sign of a struggle,
While she passed to the land of the blest.

Now silent forever our loved one,
Though sweeter than music her voice;
But trusting in Jesus we'll meet her,
And with her forever rejoice.

Though strong was the love that did bind us,
And true was our index of heart;
Once more God in mercy reminds us,
That earth's dearest friends here must part.

Not parted forever, but hoping,
That God in compassion will spare,
And gather us home with our loved ones,
A bright crown in glory to wear.

SIR RICHARD AT BOWMANVILLE.

He Addresses a Meeting of Liberals in the Interest of Mr. Beith.

Bowmanville, March 28.—Hon. Mr. Laurier was unable to meet his engagement at the big political meeting here yesterday in the interest of Mr. Robert Beith, M.P., but Sir Richard Cartwright and Mr. Jas. McMullen, M.P. for North Wentworth, addressed the electors who came from all parts of the riding and packed the music hall to the number of over one thousand. Mr. W. Rickard, of Newcastle, president of West Durham Reform Association, was chairman. In the audience were Mr. David Walsh, of Starkville, the Conservative candidate for the Commons; Mr. C. Jonas Thornton, of Kirby, the Patron candidate; Dr. S. C. Hillier, Dr. Bramscombe, Mr. T. H. Underwood, and other leading Conservatives.

Sir Richard Cartwright was in a more cheerful and humorous mood than usual and spoke for one hour, dealing with the exodus to the United States, the census and the financial deficits. Sir Richard claimed that the returns will show a real deficit of five to six millions when the figures are made up at the end of the year. He said the Government asked for $38,600,000 according to the estimates for the year ending June 30, 1895, and up to March 1, only about $21,800,000 had been received leaving over $17,000,000 for the next four months to make ends meet. Already over $700,000 more has been spent than to the same period in 1894. He repeated his former statement that in the past 18 years the total taxation to the country exceeded a billion dollars, of which sixty millions had been extracted from the pockets of people for protecting manufacturers. He contended that the effect of the protective tariff was to take two dollars out of the pockets of the people for every dollar put into the Dominion treasury. He claimed that the people had paid thirty millions annually to encourage manufacturers, but Mr. McCarthy had stated that our protection policy had cost seventy-nine millions yearly. Farmers and working classes in Canada are obliged to pay twenty times as much in taxes under protection as they do in England under free trade. He claimed that excepting coal and tea the articles on the free list were not for the benefit of working classes but for the manufacturers. He quoted form the census returns about the industries credited to Bowmanville, there being 140, yet in driving round the town he saw but two. He closed his speech by a eulogy of the personal standing in the House of Mr. Beith.

Mr. James McMullen, of North Wellington, showed by several practical examples how the price of farm porduce was regulated by foreign markets and what enormous sums farmers and working men were forced to pay to manufacturers by the present tariff. He discussed reciprocity from a farmer's standpoint and showed how free access to the American markets would benefit them. He charged the Government with the responsibility for scheduling of Canadian cattle by Great Britain and estimated a loss to Canadian farmers of one cent a pound on all beef exported since. Both addresses were frequently applauded.

JOY IN THE HOME.

THE LIFE OF A BRIGHT LITTLE BOY SAVED.

The Story Told by His Grateful Father—An Experience That May Bring Gladness to the Hearts of Other Parents.

From Waterloo, Ont., Chronicle.

Mr. David Thaler is a prosperous well-to-do farmer who lives near Centreville, on the main road from Berlin to Galt. He has a fine farm of 100 acres, and everything about his place has an air of neatness and prosperity. A representative of the Waterloo Chronicle lately had occasion to call on Mr. Thaler and in the course of conversation came across one of those remarkable cures through the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, that has given this great life-saving medicine a world-wide reputation. Among Mr. Thaler's family is a bright rosy-cheeked boy of four years, whose winsome manner attracted the reporter's attention, and caused him to remark on his healthy appearance. "Yes," replied the farmer, "the little fellow looks well enough now, but two years ago he was but a mere skeleton and we were sorely afraid we would lose him, and I believe Dr. Williams' Pink Pills saved his life." Asked to give the particulars Mr. Thaler said: He was a strong and healthy child when born and continud so until 15 months old, when unfortunately a servant gave him, without knowledge, food quite unsuited to an infant. The result was his stomach became deranged: he began to pine away and no food would remain with him, but passed off like water. He could not sleep or rest, and cried day and night. He kept going down for six or seven months until the poor child was reduced to skin and bone. He had medical aid, but little or no good was accomplished. It was not until the little fellow was in this desperate strait that we determined to give him Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and I procured a supply and he was given them according to the directions for children. Soon after beginning to give him the Pink Pills the change was remarkable, and from that he became stronger and stronger until he is now the healthy little chap you see before you. As I said before I believe we owe his life, under providence, to Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and if you feel that what I have told you will benefit anyone else you are quite at liberty to publish it." The reporter has no doubt that the statement may point to some other parent the road to renewed health for their child, and gives it as he got it from Mr. Thaler.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are just as valuable in the case of children as with adults, and puny little ones would soon thrive and grow fat under this treatment, which has no equal for building up the blood and giving renewed strength to brain, body and nerves. Sold by all dealers, or sent postpaid at 50 cents a box, or six boxes for $2.50, by addressing the Dr. Williams' Medicine Company, Brockville, Ont. See that the trade mark is on the wrapper around every box and do not be persuaded try something else said to be "just as good."

I have made a specialty of taking Babies Pictures for years, and the task has become an easy one. To be successful in this special line it is necessary to study the nature of the youngsters and their characteristics. That's why mothers find less difficulty in getting good photos of their little ones here than elsewhere. Now is the season of the year, before the sun darkens the complexion, to have your work done.

THE QUEEN'S CONDITION

Her Rheumatism Has Extended to the Back and Arms.

THE POLITICAL SITUATION

Lord Rosebery's Hair Has Grown White in the Past Month from Suffering—Mr. Gladstone's Return—Fresh Troubles Over the Speakership.

London, March 25.—Mrs. Emily Crawford contributes to Truth the first public mention of Queen Victoria's serious condition, concerning which there is much private discussion. Mrs. Crawford writes that on arrival at the railway station at Nice the Queen "seemed unable to raise her head. She looked up and around under her eyelids, as if wanting strength to look otherwise. One might have thought she did not feel her feet under her as with the assistance of her servants she tried to descend the sloping gangway from the train into the station." It is walk nown among those familiar with court affairs that rheumatism of the knees has lately not only developed complete loss of power over both legs, but has extended to the back and arms, and that a fatal issue is to be feared at almost any time.

The reports of the Queen's condition seriously affect the Parliamentary situation. With the death of a sovereign Parliament is immediately dissolved. This contingency is undoubtedly an important factor in all the present calculations. The political atmosphere, in fact, is charged with sensational possibilities. The Government organs have published this week very involved and evasive denials of the reports of Lord Rosebery's intention to resign the Premiership but the Opposition journals repeat the rumor daily. Meanwhile Lord Rosebery is in almost complete retirement in the country and the Premiership practically is out to commission. His physicians give only the guarded opinion that he may soon recover. Those who saw him at the brief Cabinet meeting the other day say his hair has turned quite white within the past month in consequence of his intense suffering and continued insomnia. Of course this situation cannot last and unless some relief is speedily found he will certainly resign at no distant date. There has not been an hour in the past three weeks when he would not himself have done so except for the opposition of his friends.

Rumors of dissolution increase. In addition to the Cabinet's anxieties over the veto bill, the recalcitrant Liberal brewers and the Irish Nationalists, fresh troubles are developing over the Speakership. Mr. Campbell-Bannerman does not care to undertake the drudgery imposed upon the occupant of the chair, and his colleagues cannot spare him from the War Office. Mr. Leonard Courtney has refused to take the place unless he can have the assured support of the whole House. The Conservatives wish to put Sir Matthew Ridley forward as a candidate, but the Government side would feel it hard to hand over the Speaker's chair to the Opposition. Consequently the latter are discussing the possibilities of Mr. Lockwood or Mr. Gully.

There is a feeling that the chairman ought to be elected by acclamation, but there is an apparent impossibility of accomplishing this result, and the probability that the Conservative, Sir Matthew White-Ridley, may secure the position adds not a little to the worries of the Prime Minister.

Princess Beatrice, who is now the Queen's constant companion, has of late been always present during her interviews with the Ministers, and is recognized in official circles as practically the wielder of all the royal prerogatives.

The return of Mr. Gladstone would have been the occasion of a great popular demonstration on Saturday but unhappily the dense fog in the channel delayed his steamer, and he did not arrive till dusk. Despite the hour and the gathering rain a hugh crowd assembled in the station and out on the Strand, and volleys of hearty cheering were raised as the carriage finally emerged. Mr. Gladstone himself seemed physically vigorous and walked across the platform from the car to the curb with erect bearing and firm step. His profile is a good deal sunken, but to look him in the eye, he is as alert and strong faced as ever. The prediction would be foolish but it can at least be said that men's thoughts have been growing accustomed at a rapid rate the last few days to the idea of Mr. Gladstone's re-assumption of power as quite among the possibilities.

Spain's New Ministry.

MURDER AND SUICIDE

A Woman and Her Paramour Found Dead With Their Throats Cut.

NO EVIDENCE OF A STRUGGLE

The Heads Almost Severed from the Bodies—Two Young Children Found Playing in the Room Where the Bodies Were—Inquest to be Held.

Toronto, March 25.—The city was shocked yesterday by the news of a shocking murder and suicide. The victims of the tragedy are John Bell and Sarah Swallow, who had been living together as man and wife, and were found dead in bed in the morning with their heads almost severed from their bodies and an abundance of evidence to show that the woman was killed by her paramour, who had then immediately slain himself. In a corner of the room where the bodies were found weltering in their blood a couple of innocent children, four and six years old, were in their cot playing with picture books, all unconscious of the horror in the bed adjacent to them. They were the children of the woman by her deceased husband. Sarah Swallow's husband was killed by a fall from a horse in August, 1893. The animal had been frightened by a trolley car and some time after Swallow's death his widow received a small amount in damages from the Street Railway Company. She invested in a light delivery waggon and a horse, and John Bell has lately been acting as her driver; also later coming to live with her. During the last few weeks Bell had been drinking hard and Mrs. Swallow had become anxious to get rid of him. She had also taken up with another man named William Gorrie frequently of late, causing jealous remonstrances from Bell. Last Tuesday Gorrie was at her house, which is located on the lower end of Jarvis street. Bell and he met there and had a fight, some windows being smashed. Since then Gorrie has not been at the house, but Mrs. Swallow had spent every evening in his company and was with him Saturday night, Gorrie leaving her at the door of her house as late as 10 o'clock. He is probably, therefore, the last person who saw the woman alive save the murderer. A woman living in the same house with the couple has been in the habit of taking milk and leaving it for them. She got no response when she called them Sunday morning, and pushing open the door beyond the kitchen, used as a bedroom, saw signs of blood. She immediately called a neighbor who notified the police, and entering a few minutes later they found the two lying dead on the bed and covered with blood. The woman's head was almost severed from the body, the throat being cut through to the spine. She had apparently been killed in her sleep, there being no visible evidence of a struggle. The man was lying on the bread of his back and his windpipe severed. Both had been dead some hours. The children were playing in the room as described. The right hand of the man grasped a bloody razor, the evident instrument of death. The half opened drawer of a bureau adjacent contained the razor case. Coroner Johnson was called and after a close examination satisfied himself that no third party was implicated. An inquest will be held this afternoon.

MRS. DICKS DIED BY BURNING.

But the Jury Could Not Agree that Dicks Caused the Fire.

Toronto, March 25.—The Crown closed its case on Friday night without adducing any additional evidence to maintain the charge of murder. The efforts of the Crown officers were directed to prove that Dicks was an incendiary, but they merely succeeded in showing that Dicks had been burned out several times, but not under suspicious circumstances. The heavy insurance carried by the accused and his wife was shown as motive and incidentally the public had an opportunity of learning the loose manner in which insurance risks are taken, two agents stating that they accepted a risk on Dicks' furniture without seeing it, accepting his word as to the value.

The jury, after deliberating over two hours, brought in a verdict early Saturday morning which was, however, not unanimous. As a whole the jury came to the conclusion that the deceased came to her death by being burned in the house on St. Helens avenue, and eight of the jurymen were of the opinion that the house occupied by the Dicks family on St. Helens avenue had been set on fire by Arthur A. Dicks, the prisoner.

Dicks was then taken back to jail and will probably have to stand his trial for arson.

The Patrons' Big Meeting.

Bowmanville, March 25.—The Patrons held their first big meeting in the interest of the candidate for the Commons for West Durham in the Town hall on Saturday. Mr. C. Jonas Thornton, the candidate, opened the meeting with a short but pointed address. Mr. John Caven, deputy leader and member for Prince Edward County, followed with an address on Patron lines and a fearless criticism of the corrupt methods of both Governments. Joseph Haycock, Patron leader, spoke for nearly two hours and with a free lance cut and slashed the Governments and both political parties. He was especially severe on the Dominion Government for its corrupt practices, superannuation fund and oppressive tariff on farmers though favorable to contributors to campaign funds. He asked the meeting to endorse or otherwise the action of the Patrons respecting their views in the Ontario Legislature since the House opened, saying if there was a man amongst them who disapproved of their action or would have voted different to show it by the uplifted hand. No reference was made to Mr. Thornton's candidature at this meeting.

LI HUNG CHANG FIRED AT

A Young Japanese Discharges a Pistol in His Face.

THE WOUND NOT DANGEROUS

The Peace Ambassadors Considering the Conditions Upon Which Japan Will Consent to End the War—Losses of the Japanese.

London, March 25.—The Central News correspondent in Tokio says that an attempt was made to assassinate Li Hung Chang in a street of Simonoseki yesterday afternoon. Li was returning from the peace conference in which he conducts negotiations in behalf of the Chinese mission and was accompanied by several of his suite. When he was a short distance from his apartments a young Japanese ran up to him and fired a pistol in his face. The young man was seized and disarmed at once by the police. At the station house he gave his name as Koyama and his age as 21. According to a short report received in Tokio, Li's wound is not dangerous.

The Peace Conference.

Tokio, March 25.—The Peace Ambassadors of Japan and China met yesterday at Simonoseki. Li Hung Chang presented his credentials as China's envoy plenipotentiary. The credentials were examined by Japan's representatives—Prime Minister Ito and Foreign Minister Mutsu—and were found to be satisfactory. Thereupon the Ambassadors proceeded directly to the business which brought them together. The conditions upon which Japan will consent to end the war were stated in explicit terms by the Mikado's Ministers. After some discussion, Li Hung Chang asked for three days delay in order that he might consult the authorities in Pekin upon certain points. The Japanese Ministers, who have entered upon the negotiations with an earnest desire to reach a satisfactory conclusion, granted the request. Unless the Government at Pekin instructs Li Hung Chang to reject demands which Japan considers indispensible to a permanent peace, the treaty may be speedily executed.

Yokohama, March 25. — The Japanese newspaper Jiji says that on the 21st the Japanese occupied the main island of the Pescadores without opposition. The native press says that Japan has bought two more warships. The official figures regarding the losses of the Japanese from September 21 to March 8 are: Total, 1,654; in the field 549, in hospitals 131 from wounds and 961 from disease.

There were ten deaths from cholera in Moji, opposite Simonoseki, last week.

TWO REFORMATORIES.

Ottawa Ministers Advocate One for Catholics and One for Protestants.

Ottawa, March 25.—The committee appointed a few days ago by the Ottawa Ministerial Association to wait on the Minister of Justice to urge that the proposed reformatory be not located at Alexandria but at some larger town, had an interview on Saturday morning with Sir Charles Hibbert Tupper. The deputation consisted of Dr. Benson, Dr. Saunders, Dr. Campbell, Dr. Moore and Rev. Mr. Mackay. They were received very kindly. The ministers in the deputation spoke in favor of the erection of two institutions. They thought Alexandria might suit for a Catholic institution but felt there were not enough Protestant clergy or lay workers there for a Protestant institution, and that some large place—Ottawa, for instance—where there would be many more clergy and lay workers willing to do work in connection with the reformatory would be more suitable for the Protestant institution.

Sir Charles Tupper seemed to be of the opinion that the Government was committed to erect an institution at Alexandria. However, he spoke favorably of the proposal to erect two reformatories, one for Catholics and the other for Protestants. He promised to take the whole matter into consideration.

Four Firemen Burned to Death.

Denver, March 25.—All but one member of Hose Company No. 3 lost their lives on Saturday night in a fire which destroyed the St. James Hotel. The company, excepting the captain, is composed of colored men. The blaze was discovered at 10.30 o'clock by the clerk. All the occupants of the house escaped without injury. The unfortunate men in the company, with four others, were groping about in the blinding smoke in the rotunda of the hotel when the tile and cement floor gave way and precipitated them into the basement. The other four firemen managed to climb out, though badly bruised and lacerated. The smoke was so dense the men were not missed. It was only when the firemen reached the basement from another entrance in search of the origin of the fire that the bodies were found.

Another Incendiary Fire in Toronto.

Toronto, March 25.—Fire occurred this morning in the establishment of Wilkie Collins, gents' furnisher, Queen street west, nearly in Parkdale, and did $10,000 damage, insured for $18,000. The fire is supposed to have been of incendiary origin.

Another One Gone.

Exeter, March 25.—Sunday morning about 2.45 it was discovered that the Main street church was on fire, and by the time the fire brigade arrived the church was one mass of flames and fire breaking through the roof. The fire brigade was powerless to save the church, as the fire had gained such headway before discovery, but they prevented the fire spreading. It was set on fire, as there had been no fire in it since Friday. There is no doubt that it was the same party that tried to burn it down last year. Loss about $10,000; insured for $5,500.

Daily Examiner.

MONDAY, MARCH 25, 1895.

WHAT about Canada possessing representative government? The constituencies of Quebec, West Vercheres and Argenteuil have been without a representative for some time, and they are to be unrepresented in the present parliament. The government, if it had dared, could have opened these constituencies and had members elected long ago. Then again what about Cardwell. Is the port of Montreal to be without a collector for another season of navigation, or will Mr. White resign as he is said to have threatened?

THE trade and navigation returns and Auditor-General's report for the year ending the 30th of last June are not yet out. There should be no further delay in issuing these documents. They contain much of the evidence on which the electors will be expected to base their verdict in the coming general election, and that evidence ought to be in as soon as possible.—Toronto News, (Liberal-Conservative).

MR. J. H. DELAMERE, of the Minden Echo, is not going to be the mere echo of any political party. In an address to the electors of North Victoria, Mr. Delamere says that, while he is a Liberal Conservative and moderate prohibitionist, he is entirely independent of political parties, and he closes his address by assuring the electors that his services are at their disposal.

MANY of the Conservatives of the House of Commons are naturally jubilant over the announcement of another session. Very many of them did not expect to be elected again and they think the $1,000 sessional indemnity which they would have lost in the event of dissolution—will be so much clear gain.

THE circumstances under which Parliament will meet on April 18th are peculiar. The conditions which the Government have to deal with involve a heavy deficit, public distrust and desperate internal strife in Government ranks and political chaos.

THE CHEESE INDUSTRY AND "PROTECTION."

In 1874 the exports of cheese amounted to 24,000,000 pounds, in 1893 to 94,000,000. Our shipments constituted one-half of the importations of Britain, the United States coming next, then Holland. But what assistance has this industry ever got from the National Policy? There is a duty of three cents a pound on cheese to protect us against the American cheese, itself protected to the extent of four cents. Here again the abolition of the Canadian duty would not affect the Canadian cheesemaker one way or the other, while the abolition of the American duty would enable us to sell tip-top grades in markets like New York, Buffalo and Boston. It is demonstratable that the National Policy hurts the cheese industry. The boiler and engine, steam-pipes, presses, curd-knives, scales, tinware, testing instruments, etc., in a factory are all heavily taxed; so are the supplies, such as bandages, cotton cloths for pressing, linen strainers, colouring, salt, and tacks and wire nails for boxing. The coal and iron duties increase the cost of railroad transportation. The duties on imports in general tend to restrict return cargoes and thus enhance the steamship rates outward. Years ago when Scotland sent for Canadian experts somebody urged that it would be an outrage on our own cheesemakers to teach their competitors. That notion was was absurd enough, though it might have found support in the age when it was deemed wise to prohibit the export of machinery and skilled workmen to foreign countries. But what shall be said of a paternal Government which refunds to the manufacturer of cheese factory machinery 99 per cent. of the duties he has paid on his iron, steel, or other raw material when he sends the machinery abroad, but allows no refund when the machinery is sold here at home? Mr. Macpherson reckons that between the taxes on the farmer and the taxes on the factory the cost of producing cheese in Canada increased from one-half to three-fourths of a cent., the loss on the exports of 1893 amounted to no less than $870,000, or 5 per cent. of their declared value.—Globe.

THE STATE OF TRADE.

Signs of Improvement.

There are some hopeful features in trade this week. The movement in hardware continues to increase. All sorts of spring goods are in active demand and the wholesale houses are busy making shipments. In leathers there has been a marked improvement in the tone of the trade, and one of the most encouraging signs of this is the independent attitude of the wholesale men. In some cases prices have been advanced 5c; there have been considerable sales at the higher prices, and it looks as if the better prices will be obtained. Hides have for a long time been above a parity with the prices of leather, and now that stocks in a good many lines are small it has been all the more easy to establish the advance and it should not be difficult to hold it. Hides and skins in good demand and steady. There is nothing being done in wools for the reason that there are no lots available now for export, but the prospects for the new clip are good, and by the time it is on the market it is expected there will have been such an improvement in the woollen trade in the United States as will create a good demand for our wools for export. There is a fair improvement in groceries and the demand for sugars is keeping up remarkably well considering the large sales that have been made the past ten weeks. The British and foreign markets are firmer, but it is not expected there will be any advance in the price of the Canadian goods. German granulated is offering at 3c ex-ship at New York, and the fear of competition from that source still tends to prevent an advance. There is an active demand for hog products and the market is firm owing to the continued scarcity of hogs in the country and the general impression that the crop is now pretty well out of the farmers' hands.

PICAYUNE POLITICIANS

Government in the Hands of Men Who Make Politics a Trade.

SALARY THE CHIEF ATTRACTION

General Dissatisfaction at the Prospects of a Summer Session—Many Conservative Members Will Vote Against the Government on the Manitoba School Question.

Ottawa, March 24.—There is a feeling of general dissatisfaction with the calling of Parliament at such a late date, chiefly because it will be compelled to sit through the excessively hot weather with which Ottawa is cursed in the summer. Aside from the question of the health of the representatives of the people, it is apt to engender negligence and haste in legislation. The indecision and postponements of the Government, had they ended in dissolution, might have been understood, but ordinary people are asking the question, Why was Parliament not called three months ago? It might have been over by now and the elections held in May, and the business of the country allowed to go on in its usual course. Instead of that, everything will continue to be in confusion. The stability of the Government is not relied on and the general uncertainty will exist until the fall. This is all the result of having men in office of such a calibre that the salary is the chief attraction for them, and their ability is so small that they could not earn half so much in any other position. They therefore make politics a trade, and transact business with their tongues in their cheeks. With the session beginning on the 18th of April, the date for which it is called, it bids fair to be the end of August before it is over.

Manitoba Schools.

The main issue will of course be the question of imposing remedial legislation on the Province of Manitoba and re-establishing separate schools there under the stringent terms of the remedial order passed by Premier Bowell and his colleagues the other day. Many Conservative members of Parliament in Ontario are already pledged to vote against the Government on this question, and it would not be surprising if the Government were not sustained by a majority. The claim that the recent judgment of the Judicial Committee authorized the interference of the Cabinet, or ordered them to make any remedial order, is quite unfounded. The Cabinet were at perfect liberty to let things alone, but they have chosen a different course. Parliament is of course still under less obligation to act. The first judgment of the Privy Council in England when the Manitoba School case came up, contained the following paragraph:

"Their lordships cannot assent to the view which seems to be indicated by one of the members of the Supreme Court, that public schools under the Act of 1890 are in reality Protestant schools. The Legislature has declared in so many words that the public schools shall be entirely non-sectarian, and that principle is carried out throughout the Act. With the policy of the Act their Lordships are not concerned. But they cannot help observing that if the views of the respondents were to prevail it would be extremely difficult for the Provincial Legislature, which has been intrusted with the exclusive power of making laws relative to education, to provide for the educational wants of the more sparsely inhabited districts of a country almost as large as Great Britain, and that the powers of the Legislature, which on the face of the Act appear so large, would be limited to the useful but somewhat humble office of making regulations for the sanitary conditions of school houses, imposing rates for the support of denominational schools, enforcing the compulsory attendance of scholars, and matters of that sort."

Here is a very plain declaration from the Judicial Committee, that if the views of the Roman Catholics were to prevail the functions of the Manitoba Legislature with regard to education would be a travesty on local self-government. The Bowell ministry has said that the views of the Roman Catholics must prevail, and that those portions of the Act of 1890 requiring all the people to attend one common school must be repealed. Whatever the merits of the case are the Cabinet must take the full responsibility for the decision they have come to of forcing separate schools upon the people of Manitoba, and they must not be allowed to hide under the judgment of the Judicial Committee, which did not order them to do anything of the kind.

The Bye-Elections.

The writ for the vacancy in Vercheres was issued to-day and polling will take place in about three weeks. This is a constituency held by the Liberals in the last Parliament and in previous Parliaments, but is vacant owing to the death of the member. The Government have chosen it as the first battle ground since the issue of the remedial order, feeling pretty certain that they can carry it on the strength of that order. It is the custom of this Government never to appeal to the people on the bare record of their trade policy if they can help it. In one case it is the old flag and the cry of loyalty and at another time it is an appeal to the moral and religious prejudices of a section of the people. Quebec West was vacant long before Vercheres and should be filled first, but it is an Irish Catholic constituency and it is well known that the Irish Catholics do not take any special interest in the Manitoba School question.

Has Patterson Resigned?

A report is published in the Government paper here this morning that the Hon. J. C. Patterson, Minister of Militia, has resigned, and is to be succeeded by Mr. Dickie, who is now Secretary of State. It has been known for some time that Mr. Patterson was working for dissolution of Parliament without the passage of any remedial order. Everything has been carried against his wishes and now he could not be elected for any seat in Western Ontario. He has been acting very strangely of late and no explanation has been furnished of why he left Council last Monday and took a mysterious trip down to Quebec and out into the Lake St. John country.

BICYCLES ARE CARRIAGES.

A Proposed Bill That Will Give Wheelmen Considerable Anxiety.

Toronto, March 25.—Mr. Stanton gave notice of a bill yesterday that will cause bicycle men all over the Province considerable anxiety and will meet with the approval of most of the municipalities, so the members say. It is expected that deputations from bicycle clubs all over the country will wait upon the Government next week and ask that the bill be killed upon the second reading. Its provisions are as follows:

1. All bicycles, tricycles, velocipedes and other similar machines are hereby declared to be carriages, and municipal councils shall have full power to pass by-laws regulating the use of the same upon public streets.

2. Municipal councils may pass by-laws licensing such machines provided, however, that all monies obtained from such licenses shall be applied to improving roads and making pathways for persons using such machines.

3. The following regulations shall be observed by any person or persons riding or being upon such carriage:

(a) During the period between one hour after sunset and one hour before sunrise, every person riding or being upon such carriage shall carry attached to the carriage a lamp which shall be so constructed and placed as to exhibit a light in the direction in which he is proceeding, and so lighted and kept lighted as to afford adequate means of signalling the approach or position of the carriage;

(b) Upon overtaking any street car, cart or carriage, or any horse, mule or other beast of burden, or any foot passenger, being on or proceeding along the carriageway or on any crossing, every such person shall within a reasonable distance from and before passing such street car, cart or carriage, horse, mule or other beast of burden, or such foot passenger on such crossing by sounding a bell, gong or other alarm, give audible and sufficient warning of the approach of the carriage, such bell or other alarm to be rung not less than ten seconds from any street or crossing, or before passing any street car or other vehicle.

(c) Any person summarily convicted of offending against the regulations made by this section, shall for each and every such offence forfeit and pay any sum not exceeding ten dollars.

4. The council of any city or town may with the consent of any municipality within ten miles thereof spend money in making paths or roads in or through such municipality especially adapted for the use of such machines.

A Check on Registrars.

Dr. Meacham introduced a bill to compel registrars to appply stamps to all instruments registered at their office showing the amount received for such registration, the stamps to be supplied by the Government.

City Farm Lands.

Mr. Awrey introduced a bill to amend the Assessment Act. The bill simply applies the Act respecting farm lands in towns and villages to cities and also makes clear what is intended by certain expressions used in the Act.

Can't Dock Horses' Tails.

Mr. Howland introduced a bill to prevent the docking of horses. The bill provides that any person convicted of cutting the bone of the tail of any horse or of permitting anyone else to do so shall be liable to a fine of not less than $100 nor more than $200 or to imprisonment not exceeding one year. The bill passed the first reading amid laughter.

Examinations Cost Money.

Hon. Mr. Ross in reply to Dr. Ryerson said that the cost of the departmental examinations in 1894 was $20,345. The amount received in fees from candidates was but $12,459, leaving a deficit of $7886.

Counties Must Pay Up.

Mr. Richardson moved the second reading of his bill to amend the High Schools Act. Under the present law county councils are compelled to pay their proportion of the cost of maintenance of the high schools in towns separated from the county. The bill was to abolish this obligation. The bill was thrown out, the only member voting for it being Mr. Richardson himself.

A Hamilton Bill Defeated.

Mr. Matheson's bill to authorise the city of Hamilton to construct a road upon their waterworks lands was opposed in the Private Bills Committee yesterday by the toll gate interests and was defeated. The bill will not come up for a third reading.

The Municipal Committee.

The first meeting of the Municipal Committee will be held on Monday morning at 9.30 o'clock.

Farmers' Institute Speakers.

Mr. McLean has given notice that he will ask the Government by whom are the leading speakers at Farmers' Institutes elected. Upon what principle are the selections made. What remuneration do the said speakers receive for their services and are they chosen irrespective of their political leanings.

Canadian Trade Report.

New York, March 23.—No improvement in business is reported from Halifax, the weather being cold, roads bad and collections slow. Wholesale trade has improved at Toronto with jobbers of dry goods and hardware; the grain market is stronger and Ontario mills have been receiving wheat from Montreal. The city last named reports an average volume of business for the season. Collections throughout the Province of Quebec are fair only, a great many renewals being asked for. Bank clearings at Winnipeg, Hamilton, Toronto, Montreal and Halifax aggregate $18,118,954 this week, compared with $17,440,205 last week. The total business failures in the Dominion of Canada, as reported to Bradstreet's, is 40; last week the total was 36.

OTONABEE.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

Meeting of Otonabee council March 18, 1895. All the members present. Wm. Nelson was present to appeal against the transfer of his lot to the road division No. 10, representing that it would be very inconvenient for him to perform his statute labour in No. 10, when on motion of Messrs. Lancaster and Weir, W. Nelson was allowed to remain in No. 11. The clerk presented a reply from L. J. Sergeant, re deepening culvert on G.T.R., that the matter would be looked into at once. A petition was presented by John Dinsdale, signed by Wm Hastie and others, requesting that a sidewalk about 800 feet in length be built in Allandale, which would require about 7,000 feet of scantling. On motion of Messrs. Lancaster and Weir, a grant of $40 was given towards purchasing material. John Taylor was present requesting the council to rebate the $6 fine imposed on his cattle impounded for being breachy. On motion of Messrs. Deyell and Johnston, it was laid over till next meeting of council. Wm. Wood, cheesemaker of Peterborough factory, made application for a grant to repair the 9th line between lots 29, as it is in bad repair for milk drawing. On motion of Messrs. Weir and Deyell a special grant of $20 was given. Dr. Shaw was present exhibiting a two seat folding chair at $6.00 per chair, requesting a grant of $100 towards purchasing chairs for town hall, he, Dr. Shaw, guaranteeing to raise another hundred dollars by concert. No action was taken. On motion by Messrs. Johnston and Lancaster, Jas. Eason's house and lot, on lot 24, concession 5, was detached from road division No. 44, and attached to road division and the west half of lots 31 and 32, con. 8, east half of lots 30 and 32, and north-west quarter of lot 31, con. 9, was detached from road division No. 37 and formed into a new division No. 34. On motion Mr. Weir was empowered to have sand holes on the road allowance, between lots 20 and 21, filled.

The following officers were appointed for pathmasters:—Jas. Wood, A. Robertson, John Wood, Alex Nesbitt, R. Cavanaugh M. Breckenridge, R. Elmhirst, Wm. Wood, G. Blezard, Thos. Hope, Wm. THANKFUL TO-DAY

THAT HE IS WELL.

Lorenzo Pulleton, a Well Known Citizen of Sydney Mines, C. B., Tells How Burdock Blood Bitters Cured Him of Scrofula, Spots, Blemishes, etc.

DEAR SIRS—I am thankful to say that through the use of B. B. B. I am strong and healthy to-day. I was troubled with Scrofula and Spots and Blemishes all over my body. Being recommended to try B. B. B. I did so, and can positively say that it made a perfect cure. The first bottle was very successful, and before I had taken half of the second I was completely well. I recommend B. B. B. to all comers.

Telegraphic Briefs.

Herbert Murray, formerly chairman of the customs department, starts to-day for Newfoundland to distribute a relief fund for the Imperial Government. In colonial circles the appointment is criticised severely on the ground that Mr. Murray has had no official or other experience in the colonies.

The correct returns by the returning officer for the Haldimand election give Dr. Baxter a total of 1,220 votes and Mr. Senn, the Patron, 1,640, a majority of 280 for Dr. Baxter. Last election Dr. Baxter polled 1,660 and Mr. Senn 1,690.

FINANCE AND COMMERCE

TORONTO, March 23, 1895.

Wheat opened weak yesterday at Chicago and closed with a loss of ⅝ to ¾c. Corn was active, closing ⅝c lower. Oats were quiet and closed ¼c down. Provisions closed firm; May pork gained 12½c for the day and May lard and ribs each 10c.

A few millers in Ontario are offering No. 1 Manitoba hard wheat for sale. They ask 85 cents at Toronto. This wheat is a scarce article since supplies were shut off from Buffalo by the order from Ottawa to impose the duty on the stuff brought down from Port Arthur in American bottoms and intended originally for export to Britain.

Prices for grain in the Toronto market are as follows: Wheat, red, 63c; wheat, white, 63c; wheat, Manitoba, 68½c; buckwheat, 39c; barley, No. 1, 49 to 50c; barley, No. 2, 46 to 47c; barley, red, 43 to 45c; oats, 35 to 36c; peas, 63c; rye, 45c.

The receipts of dressed hogs on the street are light, and the prices are steady at from $5.75 to $6.

The supply of fresh eggs is only moderate yet, and the demand is fair. There is some inquiry from Montreal for round lots. Fresh are quoted at 12 to 13c and limed at 12c.

The home trade in general seeds is now fairly active. The markets are steady, and there is not much change in the values.

Alsike, fair, $4 to $5; alsike, good, $5.25; red clover, $3.20 to $3.50; timothy, $2.50 to $3.

Tub butter of all kinds is slow, and creamery pounds and dairy rolls are in moderate demand. Prices are unchanged as follows: tub, 13 to 14c; rolls, 15 to 17c; creamery, tub, 20 to 21c; creamery, rolls, 21 to 23c.

Thousands of testimonials warrant the assertion that B.B.B. is the BEST SPRING MEDICINE FOR YOUNG OR OLD.

AN ELECTION IN HALDIMAND.

The Government Will Ask for an Endorsation of its Policy.

Ottawa, March 25.—Haldimand is to be the fighting ground where the Government will ask for an endorsation of its policy. By the acceptance of Dr. Montague of the portfolio of Secretary of State, the seat for Haldimand becomes vacant, and the writ for a new election will probably be issued this week.

It is reported that the Minister of Finance, Hon. J. C. Patterson, is to remain in the Ministry without portfolio until June, when he will be appointed Lieutenant-Governor of Manitoba. This arrangement was made at the time he took office under Sir Mackenzie Bowell. Mr. W. B. Scarth, who is also in the race for the position, is here pressing his claims.

The aid to the Hudson Bay Railway Company is in the nature of a loan of $3,500,000, to be recouped by first preference bonds of the company when floated on the London market. The Government will retain the cash and land subsidies as a guarantee for the due execution of the undertaking.

To Promote Trade With Sweden.

Halifax, March 25.—Among the passengers who arrived by the steamer Labrador on Saturday was Mr. R. Ohlen, Commissioner for Canada of the General Export Association of Sweden, of which the crown Prince of Sweden and Norway is President. Mr. Ohlen, who for several years resided in Winnipeg, has given a number of lectures on Canada in his native country and has induced a large number of foreigners who intended to settle in the United States to go to the Northwest instead. About 300 will come out in the Labrador on her next voyage to Canada. She had among her passengers a dozen people, who will select places for them to settle. Mr. Ohlen, who is to reside in Montreal, will endeavor to build up in Canada a market for Swedish iron and steel and to have hides, fur and fruit exported from this country to Sweden and Norway.

Copies can be had by application to Mr. Kelso at the Parliament buildings, Toronto.

Lovell's Gazetteer.

The EXAMINER has received a copy of Lovell's Gazetteer of British North America. The work was issued in 1881 and the great success that has attended it, has induced the publishers to reissue an edition revised and corrected to the present time, which is now offered to the public. Every known place in the Dominion is embraced in this edition, which contains fourteen hundred more places and six hundred and eighty new lakes and rivers than were given in the second edition. The new Gazetteer contains the latest and most authentic descriptions of over 8,000 cities, towns, villages and places in British America and reliable general information drawn from official sources as to the names, locality and extent of over 2,000 lakes and rivers. An important new feature is the table of routes, accompanied with a key, showing the proximity of the railway stations, sea, lake and river ports to the cities, towns and villages in the several provinces. The work is an invaluable adjunct to every business or other office. Published by John Lovell & Sons, Montreal.

Paragraphs Picked Up and Pencilled for Public Perusal.

—The market is very quiet to-day.

—The diphtheria scare has died out in Kingston.

—Alberta is asking for Provincial autonomy.

—A couple of tramps took lodgings at the police station last night.

—The Ratepayers' Association will meet to-morrow evening in the council chamber.

—The population of the town is gradually increasing, new arrivals being numerous.

—The market square is being cleaned. It needed it badly, being in a most filthy condition.

—Dairymen were numerous in town on Saturday, buying supplies for the opening of the season.

—A large number of shantymen passed through town, to-day, from the Howry camps enroute for Montreal.

—The ice in the creeks is going out in such a manner as to render the probabilities of any flooding doubtful.

—The street watering carts are being repaired and repainted at Means' Ontario Carriage Works, Hunter street.

—In the police court this morning two drunk and disorderly cases were dismissed as it was the first offence of the prisoners.

—The snow and ice disappeared yesterday with marvellous rapidity and the last of the sleighing for this season is over in town.

—Amadee Chatelle, the murderer of little Jessie Keith, will be tried at the Perth Spring Assizes, which open at Stratford to-morrow.

—To-morrow is live stock day at the market and a large number of hogs is expected. Fat cattle and sheep are wanted. The price of hogs this week is $4.25 per 100 lbs.

—Commander Ballington Booth is organizing a brigade of the Salvation Army composed of scholarly and refined members who will hold meetings for the rich and educated classes.

—A resident of the south end who had partaken too freely of "red eye" up town, was nearly killed recently by walking off the high wharf at Wolfe street, and falling on the ice in the river.

—Mr. H. Calcutt received a car load of extra choice light barley, this morning, from Hastings county, which is being unloaded on the G. T. Railway's siding, Ashburnham, and teamed to his brewry.

—A citizen calls the attention of Councillor Sawers to the fact that the delivery of wood to the poor should continue for at least two weeks longer, as wood which can be picked up on the streets is too wet as yet to burn.

—The town merchants have now all resurrected their awnings and they were indeed a necessity during the last few days, when without their protection the March sun would have played havoc with the dress goods displayed in the windows.

Council Meeting.

A special meeting of the council is summoned for this evening, when the advisability of continuing the work on the sewer will be discussed, Mr. Grant, the contractor, having signified that he is anxious to proceed with the carrying out of his contract.

The Skating is Over.

Skating is now probably over for the season, as the rink is flooded with water, the ice having thawed. Since the opening of the rink on December 27th the curlers have not missed a night and the skaters were only shut off for two days. The electric lights will probably be taken out of the rink to-day or to-morrow.

Mrs. Cassidy's Millinery Opening.

Remember Thursday, 28th March. See advt. 1dw

Valuable St. Bernard Drowned.

This morning one of Mr. Faint's valuable St. Bernard dogs undertook to cross the river, just below the Otonabee bridge on a full gallop and suddenly broke through. The struggles of the poor brute were most appealing, but without avail, as it finally disappeared beneath the ice. A number of onlookers standing on the bridge were unable to do anything, the ice having become rotten and unsafe.

A Curiosity.

Mr. Wm. Isaac, of Fenelon, is showing a curiosity in the shape of a solid silver table spoon made in 1734, in the reign of George II. Mr. Isaac says it has been in the family since it was new, and that the letters "P. S." and "T. S." on the flat of the handle are the initials of Peter Snell and T. Sexton, two of his ancestors. The spoon is perfectly plain and somewhat clumsy, but it bears the hall mark, showing that it is made of pure silver, and is worth a dozen of the more graceful and glittering articles of the same kind in use nowadays.

Large Funeral.

The funeral of the late Howard Silas Oke, nephew of Mr. J. B. Oke, of Peterborough, took place on Friday at Welcome, and was one of the largest gatherings of the kind ever seen in the township, showing conclusively that the afflicted mother and brother and sisters have the universal sympathy of all their neighbours and friends in their sad bereavement. Rev. Mr. Thomas, assisted by Rev. W. C. Bear, of Peterborough, a former pastor, conducted services at both the residence and cemetery.

Badly Cut With an Axe.

Last Saturday afternoon, Bruce Letts, about 7 years old, the eldest son of Wm. Letts, Fenelon Falls, got rather badly hurt while squabbling with other children. Two of them were sons of Mr. Thos. Lane, who is Mr. Letts' nearest neighbour. Little Bruce had got possession of a lath, which some of the other boys wished to take from him, but he would not give it up. During the dispute they all went into Mr. Lane's woodshed, where Bruce fell or was thrown upon his back, and while he and the elder of the Lanes both had hold of the lath, the younger Lane, a little fellow of about six years old, got an axe and made a blow at the lath, but unfortunately struck Bruce Letts' right hand, the first and second fingers of which were badly cut.

CHURCH CHIMES.

Rev. W. R. Young occupied the pulpit at Charlotte street church last night.

Evangelist Whyte sang several solos in St. Paul's church last evening with his usual effectiveness.

The choir of the Baptist Mission sang the anthem "Jesus Tenderly Calls Thee" most acceptably last evening.

Mrs. Seward took the solo in the evening anthem in the George street Methodist church last evening with effect.

Rev. J. J. Ree occupied his own pulpit yesterday morning, and in the evening conducted services in St. Paul's church.

Evangelist Moore conducted the services in George street church last evening. In the morning he occupied the pulpit of the Murray street Baptist church.

A solo entitled "Ashamed of Christ" was taken by Mr. Mulligan in St. Andrew's church last night, his fine baritone voice showing to good advantage in the solo.

Miss Lucy McClelland's obligato solo in the anthem, "Oh, Come Let us Worship," last evening in St. Andrew's church, was greatly appreciated, being especially well rendered.

"Jesus Lover of My Soul," was the title of the morning anthem in the Charlotte street church. The duet was taken by Mr. A. L. Davis and Miss Pollard, and the soprano solo by Miss Fiesele Hall.

Mr. R. P. Churchill, of McMaster University, conducted the services in the Park street Mission yesterday. In the evening he preached a most interesting sermon from John xi, 32 : "Lord, if thou hadst been here my brother had not died."

In the evening at the Charlotte street church the anthem, "How Beautiful Upon the Mountains," was rendered in good voice. While the offertory was being collected, Messrs. Davis, Steers and Squires sang a selection entitled "The Beautiful World" in a most praiseworthy manner.

PERSONAL.

Mr. G. A. Gendron, Toronto, spent Sunday in town.

Mr. W. A. Cochrane has returned from a trip to Fenelon Falls.

Miss Emma Pendrie, of Millbrook, is visiting friends in town.

Mr. Charles McKee has returned from Toronto for a few weeks' vacation.

Mr. C. Fessenden, of the Collegiate Institute, has returned from Toronto.

Mr. M. Mowry, formerly with Mr. Robert Hall, has accepted a position with Kells & Co.

Mrs. H. Sanders, of Cobourg, who has been visiting friends here during the past week, has returned home.

Mrs. Louis Archambault, of Lindsay, and Mrs. M. Neithercut, of Dundalk, are visiting Mrs. T. M. and R. W. McFadden, town.

Mr. Edward Morris, Toronto, Inspector of the Ontario Bank, accompanied by Assistant-Inspector, Mr. N. W. Linton, also of Toronto, has been in town since Friday inspecting the local branch of the Ontario Bank.

Mr. Fred Nesbitt left this afternoon on the 4.48 C.P.R. train for Vancouver, B.C., where he will take up his residence with relatives for the summer, and if he likes the country will probably reside in the West permanently.

WALL PAPER OPENING DAY

At the Peterborough Bookstore Wednesday and Thursday.

On Wednesday and Thursday, March 27th and 28th, we will inaugurate a new and novel feature in connection with our wall paper department. The occasion will be marked by a special display of our new and elaborate spring designs for 1895, representing the acme of art in wall paper decorations, both in colour and artistic effect.

Our immense stock, consisting of thousands of rolls of beautiful designs will thus be placed on view before the public and constitute an exposition of the largest wall paper stock in Ontario, in which the handsomest patterns for parlours, drawing rooms, halls, bedrooms, offices, churches and public buildings, will be exhibited.

This will be a sight worth seeing. Everyone invited. Remember the opening days, Wednesday and Thursday, March 27th and 28th—A. H. STRATTON & Co., 417 George street.

RESOLUTION OF CODOLENCE.

Passed by the Members of Lansdowne Lodge, S.O.E.

On Monday evening last at the regular meeting of Lansdowne Lodge, No. 25, Sons of England, the following resolution of condolence was passed to Mr. W. S. Cocks, a member of the lodge :

Moved by Bro. J. J. Turner, seconded by Bro B. Roberts :

Whereas God in his infinite wisdom has seen fit to remove, by death, one so near and dear to you, in the person of your beloved daughter, from her earthly sphere of usefulness, we, the officers and members of Lansdowne Lodge, No. 25, S.O.E.B.S., tender to you our sincere sympathy in your bereavement, praying that the Heavenly Father, who doth all things well, may strengthen you and your wife in this your hour of trial.

Signed on behalf of the lodge,
DAVID CURTIS, W.P.,
W. J. SQUIRES, Rec.-Sec.

Federation of Australia.

Melbourne, March 25.—A farewell banquet was given to the Earl of Hopetoun, since 1889 Governor of Victoria, last evening. Premier Turner said in his speech that he hoped to see before the end of the century a governor-general over a united Australia. Lord Hopetoun urged that federation be made the foremost question of the day.

FINANCE AND COMMERCE

TORONTO, March 25, 1895.

Eggs, new laid, 17c to 20c per doz. ; limed, 11c to 13c per doz. ; butter, pound rolls, choice, 17c to 19c per lb. ; tub, 13c to 15c. ; cheese, 11c to 14c.

Potatoes are up again. By car load 64c was paid to-day per bag. As high as 66c is paid for cars on track. Vegetables are scarce on account of cold weather.

Dressed hogs are advancing in prices on account of a general scarcity throughout the province. To-day in Toronto they are $5.75 to $6 per cwt. As a result hog products are on the upward tendency. The Chicago pork market, which has also been fluctuating, is also advancing again the past few days.

The recovery which was due in wheat at Chicago, took place on Saturday. The aggregate speculation was of fair proportion. Corn shorts covered corn because that class of traders in wheat were similarly bent. The situation presented no particular change and only a small share of the business came from the outside.

The Peterborough Music Co., 404 George street, are offering beautiful new organs at $50.00. A large stock to select from.

Consumption—Low Condition

Wonderful Results From Taking Hood's Sarsaparilla.

Miss Hannah Wyatt
Toronto, Ont.

"Four years ago while in the old country (England), my daughter Hannah was cast away from the hospital, in a very low condition with consumption of the lungs and bowels, and weak action of the heart. The trip across the water to this country seemed to make her feel better for a while. Then she began to get worse, and for 14 weeks she was unable to get off the bed. She grew worse for five months and lost the use of her limbs and lower part of body, and if she sat up in bed had to be propped up with pillows. Physicians

Said She Was Past All Help

and wanted me to send her to the 'Home for Incurables.' But I said as long as I could hold my head up she should not go. We then began to give her Hood's Sarsaparilla. She is getting strong, walks around, is out doors every day; has no trouble with her throat and no cough, and her heart seems to be all right again. She has a first class appetite. We regard her cure as nothing short of a miracle." W. WYATT, 39 Marion Street, Parkdale, Toronto, Ontario.

Fishermen Ice-Bound on Lake Erie.

Sandusky, Ohio, March 25.—For thirty-five hours, from Friday morning until Saturday afternoon, a fishing fleet of steamers, consisting of 50 men, were ice-bound in Lake Erie. The weather was cold, and for a time their position was extremely perilous. During the past several weeks the fishing steamers have been putting into Huron, where the crews would dispose of their catch. On Friday morning the north-east wind piled the floating ice up along the piers several feet in height and for miles along the shore. The steamers, after several hours of hard work, managed to force their way through the ice into the lake. The wind increased in velocity, piling up the ice along the piers. About 5 o'clock the steamers wanted to come into Huron, and for four hours attempted to make a passage but failed. With nothing to eat and unable to get into another port on account of drifting ice, they were compelled to remain out on the lake. Men from the steamers walked to shore over the floating ice for provisions, and though several fell into the lake they succeeded. The next day the wind shifted and the boats landed their men, who were weak from cold and exposure.

Mr. Cargill Nominated.

Walkerton, March 25.—The annual meeting of the Liberal-Conservative Association of East Bruce was held here on Saturday, and was largely attended. Mr. Henry Cargill, M.P., was unanimously nominated as the party candidate at the next election, and accepted the nomination. Mr. Cargill addressed the meeting at length on the public questions of the day.

Helen Virginia.

A good story is told upon a Washington woman who now makes her home in Colorado. With evidently no thought as to the curious sound of the combination if spoken quickly, she has called her oldest child Helen Virginia. Not long ago upon a visit to this city she proudly brought her young daughter in to see an old friend. "What have you called your daughter?" queried the visitor. "Helen Virginia," was the complacent reply. "Ah, and what do you call her in Colorado?" was the unexpected but very natural response.—Kate Field's Washington.

THE CHRISTIAN MINISTRY AND ITS FUNCTIONS.

An Interesting Sermon in St. Andrew's Church Last Evening.

Rev. Dr. Torrance preached a most interesting sermon in St. Andrew's Church last night from II Corinthians 5, 20th verse, "Now then we are ambassadors for Christ, as though God did beseech you by us: we pray you in Christ's stead be ye reconciled to God." The doctor took the "Nature and Function of the Christian Ministry," as his subject.

Some, he stated, were of the opinion that there was a connection existing, or a resemblance to be discerned, between the Christian ministry of to-day and the Jewish priesthood of the olden time. Others again thought that the ministry was the proper attribute

OF ALL MEMBERS OF THE CHURCH.

The New Testament, he pointed out, referred to the ministers allegorically, as watchers or shepherds, and as ambassadors. He himself would deal with the minister as an ambassador, an ambassador with a message.

An ambassador was one who received his commission at the hands of the sovereign. As this was the case in regard to things earthly, so it was in reference to divine arrangements. Unless he received a direct intimation from the Almighty that his mission was to preach the Gospel, none should have the temerity to attempt to do so. Did not the Scriptures say? "No man taketh this honour unto himself save he who is called of God as Aaron." In this one particular the Christian ministry of to-day has a resemblance

TO THE JEWISH PRIESTHOOD.

One could not enter the ministry with carelessness, but only through the medium of a divine call.

In these days when war was declared between two nations, the ambassadors were withdrawn from the courts. This was considered a declaration of war in itself, therefore, the fact of the ministers, Christ's ambassadors, appearing every Sabbath, was indication of the fact that God was not at war with man. He loathes sin with an infinite detestation, but loves the sinner with an infinite love.

The message which the ambassadors were commissioned to deliver to man was "Glory to God in the highest, on earth peace and good will towards man." The message, as could be seen, and as the Word of God was read, a proclamation of peace stood forth on every page. Christ died upon the cross and made atonement for our sins—made peace between God and man. Not an everlasting peace, though; a time was coming when the ambassadors would be withdrawn. The Almighty would no longer be at peace with man and the vials of Jehovah's wrath would be poured forth upon the world.

WAS ONE OF PEACE

In foreign courts there was a great difference in the ranking of the ambassadors. The representative of Great Britain would be treated with far greater deference than he from Turkey. If the British ambassador was treated with such deference how much more should be observed towards him who was the ambassador from the Most High. No office on earth was comparable to that of Christ's minister, for did he not represent a kingdom which was everlasting?

LINES

In memory of a departed father. A loving tribute from a bereaved daughter.

Our father dear and best thou gone,
To be forever with the throng,
Whose voices blend with one accord,
In praising Christ their risen Lord?

Yes, thou hast left this earthly scene,
And gone to roam mid pastures green;
With angels roped in garments white,
And sparkling rivers of delight.

Well didst thou run the Christian race,
And God hast said, receive thy place;
And we, if washed in Jesus blood,
Shall meet thee in that blest abode.

The old arm chair is empty now,
Where thou thy knee did'st daily bow;
And oft did'st read with earnest look,
Treasures from God's own holy Book.

Thou often did'st with loving heart,
Urge us to choose the better part;
And then with eyes bedimmed with tears,
Commit to Jesus all thy fears.

God grant that when the trump shall sound,
We may be all in Jesus found;
And rise to meet thee in that land,
A joyous, bright, and happy band.

Then we but see thee on thy seat,
And gaze into thy raptured heart;
Methinks we there should written see,
"To die has but been gain to me."

HOCKEY.

The printers combination team scored their first victory on Saturday night when they won from the "Greenies" by a score of five goals to four.

The Greenies had things all their own way at first and scored four goals while the combination team was getting one. They completely outplayed themselves, however, and the newspaper men as soon as they carried the war into their opponents territory had no difficulty in scoring the next four goals and winning the game. The two teams played as follows:

Combination.		Greenies.
Dobbin	goal	H Rutherford
Hubbs	point	R H Bradburn
Heap	cover	W Dambie
Glover, McWilliams, McWilliams, Terrill	forwards	E Goldsmith, G Frost, W Ackerman, C Dumble

Referee—Bert Bellaghem.

The goals for the newspaper men were scored by Heap, MacWilliams, Glover and Terrill, and the game throughout was a clean one, some good combination work being apparent at times.

The forward line of the Greenies did some fast work in the first half, but were never in it for a minute after a change of ends.

The decisions of the referee, Mr. Bert Bellaghem, were most satisfactory.

A team of bankers went to Perth Saturday afternoon to play a match with the bankers of that town. After being on the road for seven hours and a half, they just arrived in Perth in time to make a hasty luncheon and go out upon the ice. Instead of a banker's team the Peterborough men men found that they were playing against the best team which Perth could pick up. The Peterborough men lined up as follows:

Goal.....Benedict
Point.....Taylor
Cover point.....Parsons
Forwards..Wenham, Lewis, LaFevre and King

The first three games were scored by the visitors in quick succession, but owing to the peculiar light which fell on the goal, Mr. Benedict was unable to see the puck when it approached his flags, and the Perth men scored rapidly until half time was called, when the score stood 10-3 in favour of Perth.

After changing ends the Peterboroughs held their own, and each side scored three goals.

At the conclusion of the match the guests were entertained at the residence of Senator MacLaren, in the Senator's well known hospitable manner.

The attendance at the match was the largest of the year at Perth, the gate receipts representing a very neat sum.

The Peterborough boys returned home Sunday morning well pleased with their trip, but will think twice before leaving town again on a slow freight train to play hockey. The seven and a half hours occupied in travelling naturally sapped the players of considerable of their snap and energy.

The match between the grocers and clothiers will have to be indefinitely postponed, as the ice is not in sufficiently good condition for the game. There is hardly enough water in the rink yet for the annual match of Pills vs. Putty: about two inches and a half is required.

CURLIANA.

The final draw in the Innis medal series was played off at the rink, Saturday evening, between rinks skipped respectively by Messrs. R. P. Boucher and D. W. Dumble, the latter winning after an interesting game, during which some remarkably fine shots were made. The personnel of the rinks and the score was as is appended:

G W Morrow,	— Carter,
E H D Hall,	J Jeffreys,
W Salisbury,	W L Allen,
R P Boucher, skip..9	D W Dumble, skip..18

LACROSSE

The Ontario Lacrosse Club, of Port Hope, was organized for the ensuing season, at a largely attended and enthusiastic meeting held Friday night. The following efficient staff of officers was elected to direct the affairs of the Ontarious for 1895:—

Hon. Members—Messrs. Chas. Stuart, J. B. Oke, Chas. Wilmot and S. W. Patterson.
Hon. President—Mayor H. A. Ward.
President—Stanley Paterson, Esq.
1st Vice-President—J. A. Woodhouse, Esq.
2nd Vice-President—Col. McLean.
Treasurer—Robt. Misson.
Secretary—Vincent Griffin.
Field Captain—D. N. Hoey.
Committee of Management — Messrs. Tuer, Misson, Griffin, Burt and Hoey.

The absence of Billy Patterson was regretted generally, and his wise management will be hard to equal. The announcement of Mr. Frank Nattrass' return will be hailed with delight, and his presence on the team will greatly strengthen it.

THE RELIGIONS OF THE WORLD.

BY PRINCIPAL GRANT.

Price 90 cents. A. H. Stratton & Co., Booksellers, &c.

There are few subjects in which our age takes a greater interest than in that of the religions of the world, and there is, perhaps, not one upon which greater light has been thrown in the past fifty years by the unremitting labours of devoted students who have not seldom been missionaries.

Two great truths have been gradually emerging into clear relief as the result of these labours. First, that religion is universal, found amongst all tribes and nations, and races of men. That it is natural to men to worship, since the instinct has been implanted in his bosom. That the religious faculty is, therefore, to be cultivated, just as the mental or physical faculties must be cultivated, and that the truly religious man is a more complete man than the irreligious. The second truth is that all religions have some good in them, and answer to some need in the human heart. This latter truth is slowly revolutionizing missionary methods. Men are gradually learning that the abuse of other faiths does not render Christianity any better, and that the greatest encouragement to the belief that Christianity, because the one true and perfect faith, will some day be universal, lies in the fact that, in spite of all errors and abuses, men have in their religious strivings, sought after the true and the good.

All of which and very much more will be found set forth in simple and lucid language by Principal Grant in his little work on the great religions of the world. It is exactly the book required. Brief but comprehensive, simple yet embracing, all the fundamental questions of importance to the general reader, interesting in every page, animated by a genuine spirit of Christianity, and a lofty and assured faith, it is within the reach of every reader, and should be read by all who are (and all should be) interested in the efforts of their fellow-men "to seek after God, if haply they might find Him."

CLEAN THE SIDEWALKS.

To the Editor of the Examiner:

DEAR SIR,—Please let me know in your next paper who is reponsible for keeping the sidewalks clean, the town or the householders. I always understood that a man was bound by law to keep the snow shovelled from the board walk in front of his house, so all through the winter I turned out and kept my part neat and tidy, and my neighbours each side of me did the same. But there is a man down the street a little way who has done nothing, and the result is that all the people on our street, who have cleaned their sidewalk, are put to annoyance and are subjected to wet feet because this one man is too selfish or lazy to do his share of the work. Now, Sir, the snow-plough is only of use to a limited extent and should be backed up in this spring weather by the residents, and I suggest that the town council instruct the police to notify all owners on well travelled streets to clean off the slush or stand a fine in the police court. It would be no great hardship to any one and a great convenience to the public.

HIGHWAY ROBBERY IN THE NORTHERN SECTION.

Mr. J. J. Allidred Held up Near Kinmount.

Just after dark last Friday evening Mr. J. J. Allidred, a farmer who does his buying and selling at Kinmount, left that village for home, but had driven a very short distance when two men jumped upon his sleigh.

Mr. Allidred's whip, a heavy "black snake," was under his arm, and one of the men snatched it away, caught it by the top, shook the butt end over his head and threatened to brain him if he did not give up his money. Mr. Allidred said that he had no money, but, upon his assailant declaring that he had seen him have some in the village, he handed him a quarter dollar and both men then jumped off the sleigh and went away.

Mr. Allidred did not know who the "silent partner" in the transaction was, but on Saturday he went to Police Magistrate Deacon's office at Lindsay and laid information against Joseph Scott, who, he said, was the man who assaulted and robbed him, and whom he had seen looking intently at some money he (Mr. Allidred) was handling in Mr. Graham's store at Kinmount.

By Saturday's mail Constable Nevison, of Fenelon Falls, received a warrant from Col. Deacon, and on Monday morning went to a farm in Somerville where Scott, who is a young unmarried man, was working, arrested him and took him to Kinmount, where Mr. Frederick Train, J.P., took bail for his appearance at that village before Col. Deacon Friday afternoon.

It is but fair to state that the accused says he can prove an alibi, and it is to be hoped, for the sake of his many friends, as well as for his own, that he will be able to do so, as highway robbery, even of a few cents, is a serious offence indeed.—Fenelon Falls Gazette.

ACCIDENT ON THE I. B. & O. RY.

Superintendent Hutchinson Badly Hurt —One Car Destroyed.

Fuller particulars concerning the accident on the I. B. & O. Railway are published in the Fenelon Falls Gazette as follows:

On Friday last a smash-up on a small scale occurred near Troy Hill station, about ten miles east of Gooderham, on the Irondale, Bancroft & Ottawa Railway, while a train, consisting of an engine, tender and one passenger car was running its regular trip.

At the point mentioned the car was thrown upon its side into the shallow ditch by the track in consequence of a wheel breaking, and was almost immediately set on fire by the upsetting of the stove. Mr. Hutchinson, superintendent of the road, who was as far as we can learn, the only occupant of the car, was badly hurt, and in order to get him out, the upper or glass half of the door had to be smashed, as the door itself could not be opened.

He was carried to the nearest shelter, and a lorry was at once sent to Kinmount, a distance of thirty miles, for Dr. Frost, who was in attendance upon Mr. Hutchison as soon as possible, but we have not heard the nature or extent of his injuries. The car was a total wreck, but the engine and tender did not leave the track, as the coupling pin broke when the car fell into the ditch.

THE PATRONS SALT SUPPLY.

The Annual Supply Received From the Kincardine Salt Wells.

The Grand Trunk Railway freight yards presented a busy scene this afternoon, the Patrons of Industry of Douro and North Monaghan being present in large force with their teams and sleighs. The occasion was the arrival of the season's supply of salt for the Patrons, procured from the Kincardine Company's Salt Works. Mr. John Moloney was checking the delivery of 50,000 lbs. of sack and barrel salt for the Patrons of Douro, and Mr. E. Bernard was similarly employed on behalf of the Patrons of North Monaghan, for whom a car load of 40,000 lbs. had arrived. Two grades of salt —coarse and fine—are received. There will be some tired horses to-night, for the loads of salt are generally heavy and the sleighing is not of the best quality.

Madill's Emulsion is put up fresh and sweet every week. It is far more palatable to the stomach than other similar preparations, while a tablespoonful does contains a higher percentage of Cod liver oil. It is properly emulsified, without the aid of eggs or other over-rich elements, and assimilates much more easily on that account.

Its potency has created not only an active local demand, but a constant request from other cities and towns of Canada.

WALL PAPER

Opening Day

—AT THE—

Peterborough Bookstore

On WEDNESDAY and THURSDAY, Mar. 27th and 28th, we will inaugurate a new and novel feature in connection with our Wall Paper Department. The occasion will be marked by a special display of our new and elaborate Spring Designs for 1895, representing the acme of Art in Wall Paper Decorations, both in colour and artistic effect.

Our immense stock, consisting of THOUSANDS of Rolls of beautiful designs will thus be placed on view before the public and will constitute an exposition of the largest Wall Paper stock in Ontario, in which the handsomest patterns for Parlours, Drawing Rooms, Halls, Bed Rooms, Offices, Churches and Public Buildings, will be exhibited. This will be a sight worth seeing. Everyone invited. Remember the opening days—WEDNESDAY and THURSDAY Mar. 26 and 27th.

"Timbuctoo."

There is a story connected with Tennyson's prize poem of "Timbuctoo," which one may surely tell without undue reverence of a master who afterward did such wondrous work. The examiners of the prize manuscripts for the year were three—the vice chancellor, who had a great reputation but a violent temper, and who did not write well; a classical professor, who knew no poetry which was not in a dead language, and a mathematical professor. It was agreed that each should signify what he thought of the poems by the letters "g" and "b," for "good" and "bad."

The vice chancellor had the manuscripts first. When they came to the mathematical professor, he found "Timbuctoo" scored all over with "g's." He did not understand why. He did not even understand the poem itself, and being afraid to ask the irascible vice chancellor for his reasons he also wrote "g" on the production.

The classical professor thought it rather strange that both his predecessors should admire so unintelligible a work; but, as he confessed, he "did not care one iota about the matter." So he put down his "g" with the rest, and as no other poem had three "g's" the prize [illegible] to the author of "Timbuctoo."

After the affair was over the three examiners happened one day to meet, and the vice chancellor, in his absolute fashion, fell to abusing the other two for their taste in admiring the poem. They replied, with some natural indignation, that they should never have dreamt of considering it if he had not scored it all over with g's.

"G's!" he exclaimed. "They were q's, which I put in for queries, for I couldn't understand two consecutive lines of the poem."—Youth's Companion.

Too Sweeping.

After his return from his first lecturing tour in this country, the late Matthew Arnold visited old Mrs. Proctor, the widow of the poet, "Barry Cornwall," and mother of Adelaide Proctor. Mrs. Proctor, who was then 80 years old, in giving Mr. Arnold a cup of tea asked him:

"And what did they say about you in America?"

"Well," replied the literary autocrat, "they said I was conceited, and they added that my clothes did not fit me."

"Well, now," retorted the old lady, "I think they were mistaken about the clothes."—New York Mail and Express.

Chattel Mortgages.

A man who gives a chattel mortgage should always examine it carefully to make sure it is not "on demand." Sharp money lenders who loan funds on chattel mortgages often try to have this clause inserted, and when it is the borrower may expect to part with his chattels at almost any moment. It is a trick by which advantage is often taken of the unwary.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE.

She was a pretty Christian Scientist.
"There is nothing real," said she,
"Except the soul. My body is not real."
"And that's too bad," thought he.

"Pain is not real; this hammock is not real Wherein you think I sit."
Lo! as she spoke the hammock's fastenings broke
And threw her out of it.

Full hard she bumped her immaterial form.
Who could but sympathize?
He begged that she would let a heretic
Pretend to help her rise.

Then, oh, the scorn of her rejection was
A something wholly real!
And, oh, the limp with which she walked away
Proclaimed that she could feel!
—Providence Journal.

What Is an Accident?

To the nonlegal mind the term "accident" would appear to be easily defined, but the late Lord Chief Justice Cockburn thought not, and on several occasions insurance companies have sought a definition in the courts of law. It has been decided that a sunstroke is not an accident, but that injury to the spine through lifting a heavy weight is one. Even if physical ailments contribute to an accident, it is covered by the policy.

The relatives of a man who, while bathing in shallow water, was seized with a fit and suffocated, sustained their claim, as did those of a man who, when similarly seized, fell under a train and was killed. Again, a person having fallen and dislocated his shoulder was put to bed and carefully nursed, but in less than a month he died of pneumonia. The connection between that complaint and a dislocated shoulder is not at once visible, but on the ground that the restlessness and susceptibility to cold produced by the accident led to the disease which killed him, the relatives were held to be entitled to the claim.

"The influence of intoxicating liquor," has been authoritatively defined as "influence which disturbs the balance of a man's mind or the intelligent exercise of his faculties," and injuries received while in that condition are not covered by an accident policy. Nor are those caused by running obvious risk, as crossing a railway, even at a proper place, without exercising due care to avoid passing trains.—Chambers' Journal.

A MOTHER.

Could I but have my baby back again
From the dim vastness of the great unknown,
How would it ease my poor heart's silent pain
As I sit here in shadow and alone!

That heaven is vast but makes me more afraid,
Who shall its hesitating footsteps guide?
Far easier the nest my love had made,
Or so my heart feels, since my baby died.

Cold was the night it left my bosom warm—
A night of wintry tempest harsh and wild!
Into that world of darkness and of storm
Went forth alone my little toddling child.

I say alone, for who hears angels' feet
Passe at the threshold, though we dream they come?
We hear not even death, the robber fleet!
We only know a void is in our home.

Mother! the very name is sorrow's own,
A synonym for heartache and for trial;
'Tis she must tread the wine press all alone,
And when the tears would start must wear a smile.

What is the faith of priest, of Christian brother,
Of mitered bishop, though they kiss the rod?
Weak seems their worship when a trusting mother
Yields up her pretty, smiling babe to God.
—Arkansaw Traveler.

In a Hurry to Get There.

"I fear we will never get down town at this slow gait," said a restless, pale faced woman as she handed her fare to a Third avenue surface conductor the other night.

For a time the conductor was silent. Then, turning, he whispered:

"Do you see the glitter in her eyes?"

"Yes, very plainly."

"In another hour she will be crazy."

As the car rolled down the Bowery the woman looked through the window, and the light fell full in her face. Her eyes gleamed red and bright. Then the conductor leaned in at the door and said:

"It isn't far now—only a few blocks more."

"You fool," she replied, "how dare you drive so slowly! Had I known this I should have come another way," and half rising from her seat she glared through the door.

The conductor smiled sadly. "If ever there was a hopeless case," he muttered, "hers is one."

"Have you known her long?" was asked.

"Yes, a year or more. She often comes down on my late run. At first she was quiet enough, but now she grows worse and worse."

"What caused her insanity?"

"Insanity?" and he turned as though in astonishment. "Why, she is not insane. She hits the pipe. Wait till we get to the Chinese district and you will see."

His words were true. She left the car at Mott street.—New York Herald.

Two Operations.

BOTH FAILURES.

A Case of Kidney Complaint that would Not Yield to Surgery or Medicine until B. B. B. was Tried.

GENTLEMEN,—After having undergone two operations for Kidney Complaint without securing the least relief, and hearing of some remarkable cures made by B. B. B. in our neighborhood, I decided to try it. I was given up by the doctors after the operations failed, and it was providential that I heard of B. B. B. After the use of six bottles I experienced so great relief and so great a change for the better that I felt the good effects would be lasting, as indeed they have been. The seventh bottle perfectly cured me, and I am now stronger and better than I ever was before. People who saw me before I took B. B. B. and who see me now can scarcely believe that I am the same person.

NO SUCH THING AS OLD AGE

To those who use South American Nervine

A Lady of 80 Years Permanently Cured by this Wonderful Medicine.

Three Doctors said "Old Age was Her Complaint" and Gave Her Up—Three Bottles of Nervine Gave Relief—Twelve Bottles Cured Absolutely.

MRS. JOHN DINWOODY, Flesherton, Ont.

Wordsworth speaks of "An old age serene and bright, and lovely as a Lapland night." And elsewhere this same writer talks of "An old age, beautiful and free." These are conditions that come to the man or woman, though their years may border close on to a century, when in the enjoyment of good health. In fact it is difficult to think of some of the old men and women on the stage of life to-day as old people, there seems to be such a perennial youthfulness about their every movement and act.

Does someone tell us that cases like this must be the exception and not the rule with those who have approached to or gone beyond the allotted three score years and ten? Not so, if they have become acquainted with the virtues contained in South American Nervine. Before us in this sketch is the picture of Mrs. John Dinwoody, of Flesherton, Ont., a resident of that town for forty years. No person in the town and country side around is perhaps better known than this lady, and none more highly esteemed. Three years ago it was her sad lot to loose a daughter who had been all the world to her. The shock sustained by this event completely broke up the system of Mrs. Dinwoody. She supposed her end had come. She lingered for one year with three doctors, and they gave her case up, saying that it was one of old age and no one, nor any medicine could do her good. Made of the kind of stuff that gives beauty to age at any time she did not despair. She was influenced to try Nervine. She took three bottles, and this was sufficient to show her that her end was not yet. From these she obtained relief. She persevered, and in all took twelve bottles of the medicine, with the result that she is to-day completely cured of that breaking-up of the system that threatened her three years ago.

There is nothing wonderful in the fact that Mrs. Dinwoody would proclaim to the thousands of old people throughout this broad land, that with old age does not necessarily come decline, decrepitude and disease. Why should we not live into the eighties and nineties, and cross the border of the century?

South American Nervine, whether the person be young or old, gets at the nerve centers, and when they are kept in proper condition the system is as well able to withstand disease at eighty as at thirty. With this prospect in view who would not live to an old age and enjoy the pleasures of family, friends and society, and take a part in watching the marvelous progress and developments of these closing days of a wonderful century, which marks as not the least of its wonderful discoveries, the discovery of South American Nervine.

THE UNIVERSE.

Other Worlds, Suns and Men From the Standpoint of Evolution.

Are there other worlds? The answer must be yes. The deductions of science demand it unmistakably. It may be difficult or impossible to determine just what particular orbs are habitable or inhabited or to what plane their animated structures may have advanced in the creative scale, but as the universe eternally was, since this succession of world development and decadence has been in eternal operation, the conclusion is irresistible that there never has been a time there was not an infinity of spheres inhabited. Are we then to conclude that every orb in the skies is the abode of life?

Certainly not; nor can we conclude that they are all habitable, for that matter.

We must disabuse our minds of the idea that the universe is solely run to accommodate our little earth and its fighting biped known as man—that the universe is simply a stage on which he may sicken the gods with his combastic exploits.

Man, wherever he presents himself, must be simply a response to conditions that invite him, and he is an amazingly long time in responding. Nothing is clearer in mathematics than is this fact in anthropology. Long after the earth's crust was cool, after ages of aqueous and igneous warfare, when vegetation was exuberant and huge animals disported themselves in the great marshes and lagoons, no man was present.

Volcanic Niagaras of molten matter shot from the earth's interior, painting in awful grandeur the nocturnal skies with reflected conflagrations, the mountains commenced to wrinkle, and still there was no man. The cooling continued, the crust thickened, cataclysms ground the rock into drift; the terrors of the convulsive storms grew wider and wider apart, and still there was no humanity to grace the scene. Huge and uncouth life was that, savage and coarse; hoarse cries of savagery, and night was hideous with sanguinary uproar, but no mammalia yet stood erect.

From some other world man may have gazed at the earth through his glass and speculate as we do when we gaze on Mars, and thus, while hundreds of generations may have observed, they looked on a sphere where the culmination of the creative process in human evolution had not yet taken place.

But man finally came. He stood up, but he was a picture. Behold yet his congeneric brethren in Africa and parts of Asia—suspicious heels, suspicious hands! Jaw, face, eyes, brain, general contour, all these were lessons, but ignorance, if not altogether bliss, had to be eliminated, as slowly through the ages did he journey up. His crude brain developed with his ceaseless planning to circumvent his lower congeners struggling for existence. Organ after organ was developed, as new impressions forced themselves, until finally he began to have a vague idea of a most rustic propriety and a dim conception of a crude respectability.

Such, on the earth, has been man's genesis. On other worlds his career must be analogous to this. If, then, we would know aught of man elsewhere we must be able to trace his pedigree here. Knowing the slow stages involved in terrestrial development as regards the evolutions of the spheres, we may know approximately at least its animal development.

But true knowledge, like true charity, must begin at home. This world is the key with which we must unlock the problems of the stellar worlds.—Pittsburg Dispatch.

A Practical Throw Out.

In a first class carriage in Germany an Englishman was observed to be constantly putting his head out of the window. The train was going fast, and a sudden gust of wind blew off his hat. He at once took down his hat box and hurled it after his hat. Then he sat down and smiled on his fellow passengers, but, of course, did not speak. The Germans roared with laughter, and one of them exclaimed:

"You do not expect your hat box to bring back your hat, do you?"

"I do," said the Englishman. "No name on the hat—full name and hotel address on the box. They'll be found together, and I shall get both. Do you see now?"

Then those Germans subsided and said they always had considered the English a great and practical nation.—London Tit-Bits.

Women at the Polls.

"Do unmarried women possess the ballot in this country?" asked the English tourist.

"Not to any great extent," replied the native. "In Wyoming women are allowed to vote, and in a few other states they vote on school questions."

"Don't they vote in Pennsylvania at all?"

"No."

"That's odd. I certainly heard some one speak of the maiden vote the other day."—Pittsburg Chronicle-Telegraph.

Velvet Shoes.

While enjoying the comfortable prettiness of a tea gown the social dame or demoiselle now incases her feet in velvet shoes. They are to be had in all art shades, and fancy may choose from rare olives, rich sapphires, bronzes, old blues, porcelain pinks, sunbeam tints and leaf tones.—New York Press.

ITCHING AND PIN WORMS. PILES

No More Misery.

ITCHING PILES is an extremely itching, burning and tingling affection, found alone in the skin and lining mucus membranes. This distressing symptoms are a severe scratching, which is worse at night or when the skin becomes warm in bed. It produces in the sufferer that terrible longing to scratch that is impossible to prevent sleep. Often the private parts become affected, and they also cause considerable worry and annoyance. Frequently the private parts will be found to be the seat of the trouble. Sometimes the parts will bleed and fester from the scratching, causing sores and ulcers. These sores, if neglected, often result in cancer. Dr. Chase's Ointment is a certain cure for Itching Piles, and has never been known to fail in a single case. Every box is guaranteed and is sold by all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto, will forward it on receipt of price. One box will relieve, two boxes will cure. You are cautioned against using any of the many worthless remedies which are said to be "just as good" as Dr. Chase's Ointment. Do not be persuaded to take any substitute. Insist on getting Dr. Chase's Ointment, or you will be disappointed. Sold by all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto, will forward it on receipt of price. DR. CHASE'S OINTMENT

Gives Instant Relief.

PIN WORMS is an ailment entirely different as to cause from Itching Piles, yet its effects and symptoms are exactly the same. The same blistering itching; the same scratching, crawling, stinging sensation, especially when in bed. Dr. Chase's Ointment acts like magic. It will not cause relief from this torment.

What John Wanamaker, the Most Heavily Insured man in America, Says:

(INTERVIEW WITH JOHN WANAMAKER.)

It is very generally known that Ex-Postmaster General John Wanamaker, of Philadelphia, carries the largest amount of Life Insurance of any man in the United States. A representative of the press recently interviewed this gentleman while he was travelling with the Presidential party, and this interview will be found, we believe, of general interest:—

"You are said to be the most heavily insured man in the country, Mr. Wanamaker," remarked the press representative.

"How did you come to think of that?" he said with a smile. "You are not looking for any disaster under such excellent management as our friend Boyd is giving this train and party?"

"No," I replied. "A newspaper friend in San Francisco, who had heard the report, wanted me to ask you if it was true, and if so, what your business reasons are for it?"

"Well," he modestly answered, "I have heard it stated that I am the most heavily insured man in the country. I don't know about that. The amount of my policies is $1,550,000, and the value, with the accumulations since the policies were taken out, is about two millions of dollars."

"In what class of companies are your policies?"

"They are all in stock and mutual companies, and none of them in what are known as assessment or instalment companies."

"Are they full life term policies or on what is termed the 'tontine' plan?"

"I have generally taken ten and fifteen payment policies and very few life policies. With about all good companies a contract can now be made whereby there is no risk of losing a policy after two years' premiums have been paid. If the party insured chooses to withdraw he can get a paid-up policy. Indeed, I understand that some companies have forms whereby the insurer can after one year, if desired, withdraw and receive a paid-up policy. There is practically little risk, any more, in insuring in the old companies."

"Perhaps you would be willing to tell me how you came to insure so heavily?"

"I thought the matter out, and convinced myself that it was a good business venture. Besides, it seemed to me that I might, perhaps, give away more money in lifetime if there was a fixed certainty of putting it back into my estate by Life Insurance. I conceive that the best way for a man to carry on benevolence is not to leave it to be done through his will, but to do it in his lifetime, and I felt that Life Insurance would give me more freedom in carrying out some plans I have, and which I would be glad to see completed before I leave this world. If you want to ascertain what the circumstances were in placing the Life Insurance, I must go further in my answers and say that I should not have gone so far in my Life Insurance but for the skill of the agent who tackled me to insure to a greater extent than I would otherwise have done. He was an old friend who had been in mercantile business and who knew how to present Life Insurance without boring me. I feel to-day sincerely grateful to the man who followed me so discreetly with information about companies, and who kept the subject before me until I settled the question."

"When did you begin taking Life Insurance policies?"

"My first policy was taken when I was twenty-one."

"Do you consider it a good thing for a man of small means?"

"I certainly do. Most young men spend more for cigars during the year than the annual cost of a $2,500 policy in a good company. If they must have the cigars they might divide between cigars and Life Insurance and carry at least a $1,000 policy. I think every young man, before he is married, ought to try to get at least a $1,000 policy."

"Among how many companies are your policies divided, and where are they located?"

"About forty companies. Most of them are located in the East. A few are in the West and a few in Canada."

"Do you recommend Life Insurance to others, especially those in whom you feel a personal interest?"

"I can perhaps answer that best by saying that I presented a few years ago a $1,000 policy, paid up for one year, to every insurable head of family in my employ. Many of the prudent men who received them not only kept them but added to them, and I have the satisfaction of knowing that in not a few cases those policies have been the means of saving worthy families from want."

It will doubtless be of interest to our readers to know that John Wanamaker carries a large policy in the Canada Life Insurance Company, thus evincing his confidence in the soundness of Canada's oldest and largest Company. During the last few years quite a number of American capitalists have been convinced of the SUPERIOR MERITS OF THE CANADA LIFE, and have accordingly placed their insurance therein, in preference to any other company.

The Canada Life is now being recognized in the states of Michigan, Minnesota and Ohio as the Company that gives the best results for the least premium.

THE GOOD CONDUCTOR GROWLS.

He Sinks His Gallantry and Lets Go With His Tongue.

"I would rather handle twenty men than one woman," said a New York car conductor, eyeing the retreating figure of an irascible old lady who had just got off. "Women have been pampered and humored and taken care of so long that they are rapidly becoming an absolute nuisance so far as street cars are concerned." Then, for the edification of a Herald reporter, the conductor produced a list of one day's experiences with women. It was:

Number of women who chased the car two blocks when another car was just behind, 326; women who complained because the car did not stop within ten feet of the crossing, 78; women who gave the conductor the "bad eye" on general principles, 126; women who hung to straps and refused to "step forward," 375; women who refused to move along and make room for other women, 86; women who carried pug dogs in defiance of all rules, 23; women who quarreled with each other for seats, 18; women who tried to make the conductor believe that 10-year-old children were babes in arms, 13; women who consumed ten minutes looking for their fare, 278; women who felt insulted because worn-out workingmen did not get up and make room for them, 301; women who smiled sweetly on being jostled and acted courteously to all (Salvation Army), 1; women who said "please" to the conductor when asking him to stop the car (blind), 1.

Gen. Ducrot's Letters.

The family of the late Gen. Ducrot have just published in Plous the correspondence of their illustrious relative, which extends from his entrance into the service as a sub-lieutenant in an infantry regiment in Algeria, in 1837, down to the capitulation of Paris, in 1871. The two volumes will prove a mine of wealth to the historian of the monarchy of July, and the second empire, and there are some few of the letters of the highest interest, as showing the state of feeling in France, Germany and Russia previous to the catastrophe at Sedan. It very clearly appears that Gen. Ducrot, like Col. Stoffel and Gen. Trochu, was fully aware in 1870, that, from a military point of view, France was not in a condition to cope with Prussia, and that Marshal Bazaine and Gen. Frossard, and the Emperor himself, were under the same impression as long before the outbreak of the war as 1868.

A relevation, however, which is calculated to cause not a little sensation, is that if the Emperor had shown a little more energy and hurried on the war which he and everybody else knew to be inevitable, the inhabitants and rulers of the Rhine country (excepting Baden) would have joined the French, and, what is stranger still, that the then Grand Duke of Hesse—the granduncle of the present grand duke—actually made overtures to France, urging that power to lose no time, and thus deprive Prussia of the advantage of the offensive, and offered France that part of his possession situated on the left bank of Rhine, against some compensation to be provided at the expense of the grand duchy of Baden. These offers were made at an interview between the grand duke and Gen. Ducrot, which took place some time in November, 1868. Gen. Ducrot was there in command of the Strasburg garrison and fortress.—London Standard Paris Correspondence.

The Production of Ozone.

The value and importance of ozone, from a medical and sanitary point of view, have led to the invention of several methods—electrical and chemical—of producing it for use as a deodorizing and purifying agent. The most recent system is that of Lieut. Poulsen, a Danish officer, whose apparatus is of a simple and efficient character. It consists of a wide-necked glass jar, with a double cover of porcelain plates, finely perforated. The upper plate closes in the mouth of the jar, whilst the lower one is inserted in the neck of the jar, about two inches below the other. Through the center of each of these covers a glass rod passes, terminating at the lower end—which is curved upwards—in a small cup for holding a piece of phosphorus. In the jar is placed a given quantity of acidulated water, the level of which is just above the cup containing the phosphorus, which, when the apparatus is not in action, is always submerged. A small quantity of permanganate of potash is added to the acid solution, and to produce ozone the phosphorus is raised, by means of the glass rod, just to the surface of the water. The chemical action of the system is as follows: Phosphorus acid in the form of fumes is produced by the contact of the phosphorus with the air, and the fumes are seen to rise to a certain height, when they are deflected down upon the solution, into which they are absorbed, and converted into phosphoric acid by being oxidized by the permanganate of potash. In the meantime ozonified oxygen is produced, and passing out through the perforations in the covers, is distributed in the atmosphere. The first cost of the apparatus is small, and the acid bath only requires renewing about once in three months. The system has been in satisfactory use for some time past in hospitals in Denmark and France. It is employed in the Pasteur Institute, Paris.—Engineering.

"Several years ago, I caught a severe cold, attended with a terrible cough that allowed me no rest, either day or night. The doctors, after working over me to the best of their ability, pronounced my case hopeless, and said they could do no more for me. A friend, learning of my trouble, sent me a bottle of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral, which I began to take, and very soon I was greatly relieved. By the time I had used the whole bottle, I was completely cured. I have never had much of a cough since that time, and I firmly believe that Ayer's Cherry Pectoral saved my life."—W. H. BISMARCK'S EIGHTIETH BIRTHDAY.

The Reichstag Refuses to Tender Him its Congratulations.

Berlin, March 25.—The Reichstag on Saturday afternoon by a vote of 164 to 144, rejected the proposal of Herr Von Levetzow, President of the body, that the Reichstag charge him with the duty of offering the congratulations of the Chamber to Prince Bismarck upon the occasion of the ex-Chancellor's 80th birthday. When the result of the vote was announced President Von Levetzow immediately resigned.

Dr. Buerklin, vice-president of the Reichstag, was in Montreaux, Switzerland, when apprised of the resignation of Herr Von Levetzow as President of the Reichstag, and when he learned the cause he at once telegraphed his resignation also.

When Emperor William was apprised of the rejection by the Reichstag of President Von Levetzow's proposal that the Reichstag vest in him (Levetzow) the duty of congratulating Prince Bismarck on the occasion of his 80th birthday, he wired to the ex-Chancellor at Friedrichsruhe the following despatch:

"I have to convey to your serene highness the expression of the most profound indignation at the resolution which the Reichstag has just adopted. It is the most complete opposition to the feelings of all the German princes and peoples.

"(Signed) William."

Prince Bismarck in answer to the Emperor's message sent the following telegram:

"Friedrichsruhe, March 23.—I pray your Majesty to accept my respectful expression of my gratitude to your most gracious message, whereby your Majesty has transformed an unfriendly action of my political opponents, concerning which I am not yet fully informed, into a source of joyful satisfaction to me.

"(Signed) Bismarck."

The loss of an army bill could not have excited Germany more than the Reichstag's refusal to congratulate Bismarck. The moment the result of the vote was known Herr Von Lucanus, chief of His Majesty's Civil Cabinet, went directly from the Imperial box to the castle and described to the Emperor the scenes of tumult in the Reichstag.

A peculiar feature of the whole affair is the apparent indifference or ignorance with which the Emperor and the Ministers steered straight into defeat. The Emperior could hardly have been ignorant of what everybody else knew. He must have been informed that on Thursday the Socialists, Catholics, Richter Radicals and Poles had formed a coalition to reject the Levetzow motion.

Herr Von Levetzow's resignation presents another partisan problem which can hardly be settled without bad blood. There will be a warm struggle for his place as well as for that of Dr. Buerklin, the retiring second vice-president.

Bismarck is enjoying fine health. On Wednesday he inspected the great moveable reception hall which has been put up at the Friedrichsruhe station to accommodate birthday pilgrims. The first deputation to use the hall will be members of the Reichstag and Landtag. About 400 of them will take luncheon there after having been received by the Prince on March 31.

Ill-Treated Her Step-Daughter.

Hepworth, March 23.—The examination of L. W. Henderson and wife for brutally maltreating their 13-year-old daughter was continued yesterday. The defendants were represented by Lawyer Gordon, of Wiarton. Lawyer Tucker, of Owen Sound, took charge of the prosecution. They also had Dr. Gembey, of Wiarton, examine the child, and he corroborated Dr. Campbell's statements as to the severity of the punishment inflicted. The evidence so far shows the accused to be fiends indeed. Th. present Mrs. Henderson is the child's stepmother, and it appears that when the first Mrs. Henderson died she willed some money to her child in trust until she became of age. Should the child die before reaching 21 years the money was to go to Mr. Henderson. Dr. Campbell in giving his evidence stated that the child would not live a year under the treatment she was receiving.

HE WANTED DIAMONDS.

Capture of a Clever Diamond Swindler at St. Marys.

Toronto, March 23.—On Friday morning several of the large jewellery firms of this city, including P. W. Ellis & Co., Goldsmiths Stock Co., T. H. Lee & Son, Edmund Scheuer and E. & A. Gunther, received each a copy of a letter asking that two diamonds be sent to Mr. T. Hutton, a leading broker and banker in St. Marys.

It so happened that the New York Jewelers' Circular of March 20th contained an exposure of the modus operandi of a diamond thief who had swindled the jewellers of the State of Georgia out of $10,000 worth of jewels in the space of a week. Letters had been sent from Swainsboro, Ga., signed J. C. Coleman, to many of the leading jewellers in Atlanta, Macon, Augusta, Savannah and other Georgia towns, asking that certain goods be sent by express on approval.

The striking similarity of the letter sent by this man to the one received by their firm created suspicion in the minds of Messrs. Ellis & Co. These suspicions were communicated to Inspector Stark, and a trap was laid to apprehend the swindler. It was arranged that Messrs. Ellis & Co. would express a decoy package to the name given at St. Marys, and Detective Slemin should accompany it.

Messrs. Ellis & Co. wired the express company at St. Mary's not to deliver their parcel until the arrival of Detective Slemin. When he arrived on the morning train he was concealed in the office of the express company.

A few minutes after 9 o'clock Coleman presented himself and asked for a parcel addressed to Mr. T. Hutton. The Ellis package, which purported to be worth $750, was handed him and he signed the receipt book. He had turned to leave the office, when Detectives Greer and Slemin stepped out and placed him under arrest.

Coleman, is one of a shrewd gang of swindlers, whose headquarters were for a time at Hopkinsville, Ky., and whose operations extended from there to Nashville and Cincinnati. The game thrived effectively wherever it was operated, almost every state in the south and southeast being visited.

Coleman's wife and child were also registered at a St. Marys hotel and were taken into custody by the officers. The prisoner arrived in the city on Saturday night in charge of Detective Slemin.

Tried It in Hamilton Too.

Hamilton, March 23.—George P. Lees & Co. and the Levy Bros. Co., Ltd., also received orders from the swindler for valuables, and detected the fraud at once. The Attorney-General's department was communicated with, and Government Detective Greer, accompanied by Detective McMahon, took train at once for St. Marys. They were concealed by Express Agent Sharp in the office of the company over night.

Mr. Hutton, of St. Marys, when notified of the parcels, after examining them, said they were not for him.

The two Hamilton firms say they did not lose anything by the operations of the gang. The jewellers and police authorities have little to say in reference to the matter and were trying to keep the general public from having a knowledge of the affair in order that others of the gang might be trapped.

WRECKED ON TRIAL ISLAND.

The Tug Velox Carried on the Rock by the Tide—Loss of Life.

Victoria, March 25.—The tug Velox with the barge Pilot in tow, left this city Friday night for Hoddington Island to procure a cargo of stone for the new Parliament buildings. On board the tug were Contractor Adams, Capt. Anderson, Mate Charlsten, Engineer Low and three other members of the crew. When passing Trail Island, which is a barren rock, about two miles from the harbor, the captain found the outside passing too rough and decided to take the inside passing. This island is the most noted place on that portion of the coast, on account of its fierce tide. When in the midst of these tide rips the tug's rudder chain broke and at full speed she ran on the rocks. The barge Pilot brought up against her and as the barge passed Mate Christiansen sprang aboard of her. The barge had twenty-five stone cutters and laborers aboard. The barge drifted past the tug, breaking the hawser and went ashore on Trial Island, all who had been aboard of her escaping to shore. The men who had reached the shore had no boat and could do nothing to assist the unfortunate six left aboard the tug of which Capt. Anderson is now the only survivor. Finally the tug went down stern first, leaving her bow partly above the water. Contractor Adams and three of the crew were quickly washed away and drowned. Capt. Anderson and Engineer Low, however, had lashed themselves to the davits and there they remained for some time, being exposed to a fierce gale accompanied by rain and sleet. Finally Capt. Anderson announced his intention of abandoning the wreck and trying to reach the island by swimming, advising Mr. Low to do the same, as otherwise he must inevitably soon perish from exposure. Capt. Anderson followed out his plan and being caught by heavy seas, was carried in on the top of two big waves and thrown on the shore in a half frozen condition. The body of Mr. Low, who had remained on the wreck, was recovered in the afternoon. The dead man was hanging downward in the water, he having succumbed to the terrible exposure.

None of the other bodies have been recovered and in all probability never will be. The steamer Maud brought in all of the saved. There was a wild, joyous stampede when she arrived, the survivors' hands being eagerly grasped over and over again by anxious friends. The barge still lies ashore and at low tide will be high dry.

MR. PATTERSON'S RETIREMENT.

The Minister of Militia Says the News is Premature but Does not Deny it.

Quebec, March 25.—Hon. J. C. Patterson and party left for Ottawa by the C. P. R. train at one o'clock yesterday afternoon. Being interviewed on his rumored resignation from the Ottawa Cabinet, Hon. Mr. Patterson said: "The news was rather premature," but would not say whether it was true or not.

EARL OF STRATHEARN.

A Citizen of Toronto Claims to be the Owner of the Title.

Toronto, March 25.—A short time ago George Marshall Graham, of 14 St. Albans street, had only those responsibilities which rest upon every ordinary member of this community. Now he is an hereditary peer of the realm, with all the duties and rights appertaining thereto, and will be henceforth known as the Earl of Strathern. The title is one of the most illustrious in Scotland, the earls of Strathern, Monteith and Airth—it is a triple earldom—having sprung direct from King Robert Bruce, who married the daughter of the Earl of Mar. Malise Graham, 5th Earl of Strathern, married in 1427 Lady Anne de Vee, daughter of the Earl of Oxford, who presented her husband with several children, of whom Walter was the 5th son. This Walter had three sons, but in the hurly burly of those times was only credited with one. The family titles and possessions reverted to this one son, and was carried by his descendants until 1694, when William, the 8th earl, died.

Then the title became extinct for want of a male heir, no one knowing of the existence of two other branches of the family descending from the other two sons of Walter, the fifth child of Earl Malise. The present Walter Graham descends directly from the second son of Walter, and all the proofs are in the hands of a firm of London lawyers, who have searched all the titles and not only established his identity, but also the fact that the younger branch descending from the third son became extinct in 1818.

The present earl is the son of James Graham, who was secretary of the Toronto & Nipissing Railway, who came to this country from Leichtown in 1854.

Mr. Graham will return to Scotland and assert his rights to the title as soon as a few preliminary steps are arranged.

The full roll of titles includes, besides that of Strathern, those of Monteith and Airth, and the baronies of Kilpont and Kilbride. The extent of the estates cannot at present be stated.

A SUCCESSFUL EXPERIMENT.

Mr. T. Haslehirst, of Brantford, uses a Specific Remedy With Great Effect.

Brantford, March 25th.—Interest has been revived here through the published despatches about the Kent case in Ottawa, in the extraordinary recovery from diabetes of Mr. Thomas Haslehurst, an esteemed resident of the town. This gentlemen suffered very severely from the complaint, losing a great deal of weight, and trying a number of remedies without success. At last, when completely run down, he determined to try Dodd's Kidney Pills, and in an incredibly short time recovered his health and strength. He attributes his recovery entirely to the use of this valuable remedy, and has recommended it in several cases with marked success.

To purify, vitalize and enrich the blood and give nerve, bodily and digestive strength: take Hood's Sarsaparilla.

New Coal Docks for Amherstburg.

Windsor, Ont., March 25.—The coal docks to be built at Amherstburg by the Mullen-Gatfield Company will have some new improvements to cheapen the handling of coal. One of these will be to substitute steam derricks for chutes and to load from the inside of the dock so as to allow coaling and steamboats on the outside. Flook & Babcock, of Windsor, have the contract, which calls for a construction 325 feet long and 70 feet wide.

BABY CARRIAGES.
Your baby deserves a New Carriage. The old one (that is the old carriage) is shabby and persists in running crooked. If the baby is a new baby so much the more does a new carriage complete the turnout.
A neat, well appointed carriage is an evidence of good taste. It is a credit to the family and relations. Do the folks honour and the baby justice with a new vehicle.
The more so that the new carriage, when bought from our stock, costs but a moderate amount. Dozens of tyles. None too good. Some tasty and neat, some handsome and stylish. The prices match. All serviceable and durable.
See our stock before placing the baby on wheels.

THAT REMEDIAL ORDER

It Will be Taken Up in the Manitoba Legislature To-Morrow.

GREAT INDIGNATION AROUSED

The Feeling Between Roman Catholics and Protestants Becoming More Bitter—The Legislature Expected to Refuse the Order.

Winnipeg, Man., March 26.—The order of the Dominion Government commanding the Manitoba Legislature to pass laws granting Manitoba Catholics separate schools has reached here.

Owing to formalities in copying the school question order, it is probable the discussion will not come up in the Legislature until Wednesday. The remedial order from the Ottawa Government makes a demand upon the Manitoba Government to abolish the clauses of the educational Act ading away with the Separate schools. The ministers say this will never be done, and they say they are prepared to set the Ottawa order at defiance.

In all the city Methodist churches on Sunday, sermons were delivered protesting against Dominion interference with Manitoba in the matter of schools. The fight between Protestants and Catholics is becoming more bitter, the province is overwhelmingly in favor of national schools against separate and the order by the Dominion Government has created much indignation. The Legislature will undoubtedly reject the Dominion Government's order. The following from a provincial paper evidences the feeling against any interference:

"The Dominion Government, after weary weeks of squirming and twisting, has at length passed an order commanding the Legislature to restore Separate schools to the Roman Catholic minority in Manitoba. This act is a deliberate surrender to the demands of the Roman Catholic minority in Manitoba, a deliberate surrender to the demands of the Roman Catholic priesthood of Quebec. It is another proof, were any such needed, that Canada has prostrate under the feet of a foreign, a Roman ecclesiastic. It is another proof that our rulers are recreant to the duties they owe the people and traitors to their Queen, and are ever ready as the price of place and power to sell themselves and the liberties of the free-born citizens of Canada to the Pope of Rome and his unscrupulous devotees in Canada. The question of Separate schools is dwarfed by the issue now raised. We are not called upon to determine whether or not the French Roman Catholics of Quebec, the men who were conquered by Wolfe and his British soldiers on the plains of Abraham, shall rule and control the citizens of Manitoba and arrogantly assume the right to control the destinies of Canada. Since they were conquered by a too liberal foe they have taken advantage of the generous terms given them by their conquerers, and not satisfied by the running of their own province and the driving of hundreds of thousands of its best citizens to a foreign land, they now extend their demands, and nothing less will satisfy them than the control of the destinies of other provinces and bring the whole Dominion into the slavery of Rome. The gauntlet thus thrown down is promptly taken up and let the contest between Romish slavery and freedom and equal rights go on until every vestige of special privilege and the grinding slavery to a state church be driven out of every province in the Dominion and the time-serving caitiffs now ruling in Ottawa sell their souls for prelatical patronage be driven back to the obscurity from which they ought never to have emerged."

The Voice of the Pulpit.

The excitement is intense. In the churches preachers confine their remarks to the impending struggles. The Protestant churches are urging Protestants to stand firm against the order, the Catholic clergy appealing to their flocks to never give up the fight.

Montreal, March 26.—In the course of his sermon in St. Andrew's church, the Rev. J. Edgar Hill said with reference to the condition of affairs in Manitoba: "If the minority have a grievance, and the majority refuse to redress that grievance, ultimately it will be worse for the present majority than for the minority, who ask to be relieved."

Ottawa, March 26.—In referring to the Manitoba school question in the Congregational church, Rev. Mr. McIntosh said he hoped that nothing would be done to retard in any way the educational progress of the young province. All common schools, he said, should be entirely undenominational, in a mixed community all religious forms should be excluded, even to the excluding of the Bible from the public schools, leaving religious instruction to the several denominations.

RESULT OF PROTECTION

The Registered Shipping of Canada Has Largely Decreased.

MORTGAGES HAVE TREBLED

The Number of Failures Last Year was the Largest in Any Year, Except One, Since Confederation—What We Were Promised and What We Got.

Ottawa, March 26.—The Government organ here in defending the ridiculous industrial statistics sent out under official sanction, said that a glance over them serves to show that Canada has in every respect made remarkable progress. The census proper shows that the number of farmers in Canada to-day is less than it was ten years ago. Does this indicate "remarkable progress?" There were 350,000 immigrants officially certified as having entered Canada during the ten years prior to 1891, but the census of 1891 showed that every one of these immigrants had fled the country. Remarkable progress indeed! The registered shipping of Canada, which once held a proud position among the nations of the earth, has largely decreased under the system of protection, as compared with Mr. Mackenzie's regime, and the number of failures last year was larger than in any year since Confederation, except one. These are better tests of progress than the mere general assertion in grandiloquent phrases. The exports of agricultural products during the ten years ending 1892 were smaller than the exports for the ten years ending 1883, which is progress backward with a vengeance, and the home market for the farmer has vanished with the exodus of all our immigrants and tens of thousands of our native Canadians. According to the official returns, published by the Government here, the number of mortgages in Canada has trebled, and the farmers owe the loan companies over $100,000,000, not counting chattel mortgages. Our trade with Great Britain is smaller than it was in 1876, and the financial deficit for the present year will largely exceed the three deficits which Mr. Mackenzie had during his five years. If these signs are not indicative of "remarkable progress," the very manufactures of the country, which the N.P. was designed to develop, may be cited in proof of the kind of progress Canada has made. The largest manufacturing centre in Canada is Montreal, and there the Board of Trade have issued figures showing the development of manufactures in that city, as follows: In 1871 there were 21,877 factories in Montreal, in 1881 there were 32,355, and in 1891 there were 36,502. It will be noticed that the increase of factories between 1871 and 1881, under a revenue tariff, was largely in excess of the increase during the protective period, 1881-91. The increase during the revenue tariff period was 55 per cent., and during the protective period only 16 per cent. It is quite true that the N.P. enables a few to make large fortunes, but the bulk of the manufacturers in Canada can get along a great deal better without the N.P. The city of Hamilton is another example of how the N.P. has closed up manufactures which were prosperous in Mr. Mackenzie's time. It's all very well for Government supporters to say that Canada has made remarkable progress, but when the evidences are compared the assertion will not stand for a moment.

Prophecy and Fact.

A contemporary furnishes the following catalogue of what the Conservatives promised in 1878, and what the people have got:

WHAT WE WERE TO GET.

Protection.
Work for everybody.
Great home market, all our butter, eggs, lambs, etc., were to be taken from our doors at very high prices.
High prices for wheat.
No competition in market with Yankee beef.
Canadian Pacific railway for Canadians only.
Millions of settlers in the Northwest.
Canada for Canadians.
Retention of population.
All the immigrants.
Reciprocity with United States.
Trade with Australia.
Trade with West Indies.
Pure administration.
Equal rights.

WHAT WE GOT.

Protection at public expense.
Home market fake.
Low prices for wheat.
C. P. R. not run by Canadians.
Meat lower in price now in Toronto than in Buffalo.
No work.
Great fall in price of farm lands.
Low prices for all farmers' produce.
Gerrymander.
Franchise bill.
McGreevy scandal.
Loyalty cry.
Northwest rebellion.
Loss of one million people.
Increase of national debt by 100 millions.
Increase of annual expenses by $13,000,000.

More Prophecy and More Fact.

"Twenty-three millions is altogether too much for the cost of administration," said Sir Leonard Tilley in 1878.

"No increase in taxation is contemplated under the National Policy" declared Sir John Macdonald in 1878, "it will be merely a readjustment of the tariff."

"Only place us in power," shouted Tupper senior, "and we will govern the country for $23,000,000, obtain reciprocity with the United States and give work to everybody."

CLAIMS OF THE SEALERS

A Commission to be Appointed by Treaty to Consider Them.

CANADA WILL BE CONSULTED

Sir Charles Hibbert Tupper and Other Canadian Gentlemen Will Confer With the British Ambassador as to the Phraseology and Spirit of the Treaty.

Washington, March 26.—Sir Charles Hibbert Tupper, the Canadian Minister of Justice, who was Minister of Marine and Fisheries at the time of the Paris award, and the other gentlemen who will accompany him to Washington will probably not arrive until the middle of next month. The purpose of their visit is that they may be consulted by the British Ambassador, Sir Julian Pauncefote, in the preparation of a treaty looking to the formation of a commission to consider the claims of the Canadian sealers against the United States under the findings of the Paris tribunal. The Canadians will take no part in the drawing of the treaty, but in view of the direct interest which Canada has in the matter, it was thought well by her Majesty's Government that they should be consulted as to the phraseology and spirit of the treaty, which result could be more expeditiously gained by Sir Charles Hibbert Tupper being in Washington than if the conclusions reached were subject to a correspondence between himself and Sir Julian. The Canadians will remain about one week, at the end of which time it is thought the treaty will have been agreed upon by Secretary Gresham and the British Ambassador.

Meanwhile the British Government is still hopeful that when Congress meets the appropriation of $425,000 will be speedily passed with a view to compensating the Canadian sealers for the losses sustained by them. If not then, the treaty will be sent to the Senate for ratification. The British Government argues that these claims are not for prospective profits and ought not to be so considered. The vessels, they contend, represented a certain earning capacity and when they were seized or driven out of the only business for which they were adapted the result was a distinct loss to their owners. It is known that the claim originally aggregated $700,000, but that agreeably to an understanding between Secretary Gresham and Sir Julian, a compromise of $425,000 was reached.

Some doubt is expressed here as to the correctness of the report that Lord Rosebery has promised the Canadians that the British Government will advance this amount to its Canadian subjects and look to the United States for a reimbursement. No such information has reached here.

Mr. Laurier's Movements.

Montreal, March 26.—Mr. Laurier was here yesterday conferring with Mr. Tarte and other prominent Liberals, and left for home last night. He is still in poor health.

Telegraphic Briefs.

Mr. Leonard Courtney has withdrawn his candidacy for the Speakership of the Imperial House of Commons.

The United States pensioners in Belleville district, who were shut off by the law passed in 1893, have received their back pay.

The river roads opposite the city of Montreal are in a very alarming condition owing to the heavy thaw, and several narrow escapes are reported. Several farmers in crossing went through the ice and were rescued with great difficulty.

THE PEACE CONFERENCE.

China Yields Up Shanhaikwan and Some Other Unoccupied Points.

London, March 26.—The Tokio correspondent of the Central News telegraphs that Li Hung Chang's condition is progressing favorably. The assassin's bullet penetrated the bone one-third of an inch, but the injury, the surgeons say, is not serious.

The parleying in regard to armistice continues. Japan demands Shanhaikwan and other unoccupied points and these demands have been yielded.

The Japanese forces succeeded in taking the Pescadore Islands on March 24. The troops were landed and attacked the forts in the rear, where they were undefended, and carried them by assault.

CANADIAN COPYRIGHT.

The Secretary of the Society of Authors Belittles the Canadian Market.

London, March 26.—Mr. Conway, chairman of the committee of the Society of Authors, will have in the Times to-day a reply to Mr. Lanoefield's recent defence of Canadian copyrights. After reproducing some of his former arguments, he says: "It will pay to undergo material expense to secure the United States market but a much smaller expense to secure the Canadian market would not pay. Canada's retrograde action threatens to postpone indefinitely the only sound argument, namely, a universal copyright following single publication anywhere."

Canadians Crossing the Border.

Buffalo March 26.—Immigration Inspector DeBarry reports a large increase in the number of immigrants entering Buffalo from across the border. With the approaching of summer the immigrants arrive in much larger numbers. Yesterday thirteen immigrants came to Buffalo from Canada. One of these, a middle-aged farmer named John Morris, was arrested but DeBarry was forced to let him go, Morris not having come to this country under contract.

NEW BARRIERS ARE ERECTED BY THE U. S.

The Globe in the course of an article upon Tariff Reform says:—"Our manufacturers of agricultural implements found that if they were to compete successfully in the world's markets they must have the benefit of the world's improvements in the production of iron. They could not be in the world and out of it at one and the same time. Consequently, in the case of machines made for export, where the competition of the world had to be faced, the Government agreed to refund them 99 per cent. of the duties on the iron and steel which they used. With the removal of this burden Canadian enterprise and invention have demonstrated their ability to meet any competition, and Canadian agricultural implements are making their way into all parts of the world. May all our industries reach the same goal. But there is no rebate for the Canadian farmer, who, buying a machine made of heavily-taxed iron and steel, must face in the world's markets the rivals to whom his own Government has virtually given a bounty." Thus the farmer is burdened with taxes to enable him to help citizens of foreign countries to enjoy the benefits of cheap agricultural machinery. The effect of this is that the Dominion Government gives a bounty to these foreign farmers to enable them to compete successfully in the markets of Europe with the Canadian farmer. A moderate duty on manufactured implements and upon raw material, would be just as effective protection to Canadian manufacturers, but the Government does not seem able to come to the point of meting out anything like fair play to all the interests concerned. Nothing can be more jug-handled than the present protective system.

EVER since Sir John Macdonald died the Ottawa Cabinet has been shifting around like a kaleidoscope. Every time you turn the crank you get a new pattern, remarks the Hamilton Herald.

HARWOOD.

From Our Own Correspondent.

Miss M. Billings, who has been attending the Collegiate in Cobourg for the past year, is home. We expect that when she returns in September she will carry off all the honours.

Mr. and Mrs. Campbell, of Plainville, were visiting at the residence of their father, Mr. Geo. Farr, last Saturday.

Miss Stephenson and Mr. O. Lapp were visiting friends in Havelock last week.

Mrs. Grey, of Hiawatha, was of Mrs. J. Blaikie, last Friday.

Miss J. Pollock, of Peterborough, is the guest of Mrs. Havery.

Mrs. F. Macklin, of Fenella, was visiting at the residence of her father, Mr. W. J. Westington, last Monday.

Mr. R. White, who has been working in the shanties for the past three months, has returned home.

Mr. and Mrs. F. Lapp spent Sunday with friends in Peterborough.

Mrs. S. Courier, who has been visiting friends in Port Hope for the past two weeks, has returned.

Miss Annie and Miss Beatrice Farr were visiting friends in Hiawatha last Monday.

Mrs. Rogers, who has been living with her daughter, Mrs. Cooper, Cobourg, for the past winter, has returned home.

Miss Mary Johnstone is visiting at her home.

A surprise party numbering twenty-four arrived at Mr. Geo. Farr's from Hiawatha last Friday evening. After spending a very pleasant time with different kinds of amusement, they returned in the wee sma' hours of the morning for home.

It is with deep regret that we have to announce the departure of Mr. Fred Harstone, and it must be said that this vicinity has lost an excellent friend and neighbour. He carries with him to Warkworth the best wishes for his success of the entire community, and we hope to see his ever-pleasant face in our midst occasionally. Messrs. Ross, Watson & Kennedy have rented his store and taken charge of the P. O. department. There is no need of our wishing three such enterprising citizens success, for they will be sure to succeed.

We are sorry to hear that Mrs. George Cook is not improving very rapidly.

The Governor-General's office, aside from the salary of that officer, costs $50,000 a year;

The Lieutenant-Governors draw $81,000 per annum;

The Provincial gubernatorial residences, together with the salaries of secretaries and servants, etc., involve an annual expenditure of some $80,000 more;

The Cabinet Ministers, Controllers and Solicitor-General at Ottawa receive $107,000;

The Senators draw in indemnity and mileage $90,000 a year, and the salaries of officials and contingencies amount to nearly $300,000 in addition to this.

Here is a total outgo of over $600,000, and every dollar of it—save the salaries of Cabinet and semi-Cabinet Ministers, which might be cut in half—represents an absolute waste of hard-earned money—Toronto News.

JUST THE MAN.

Hopes Expressed That Mr. Arthur Coley May Run for Parliament.

SOMERSET, Manitoba, March 26.—Much interest has been taken in the paragraph referring to the possible candidature of Mr. Arthur Coley, and it is hoped that something may come of it. There is a generally expressed opinion in the neighbourhood that the man who is so quick to select a sure remedy like Dodd's Kidney Pills for the complaints by which he was prostrated, will probably be able to select equally efficacious remedies to cure the evils which are affecting the body politic. If the reasoning be correct and Mr. Coley be returned, it is to be hoped that the political precepts he may advocate in the House of Parliament will be as speedy in their effects as Dodd's Kidney Pills were on the severe attack of Bright's disease from which he suffered.

GOING UP STAIRS.

It is a Subject not a Jest to Women.

A [illegible] now asserts that, [illegible] women [illegible] of [illegible] invention of late to [illegible] To many delicate women it is a benefit, of course, not to have to go up and down the many stairs of the big modern hotels and apartment houses on foot, says this authority; but for the great majority of the sisterhood he distinctly declares that nothing could be better, more strengthening, more health-giving, than such exercise, unless it be some form of climbing in the open air, which naturally would be preferable, but not within the reach of all, as going up stairs certainly is.

Here is a fallacy exploded, to which all women cling tenaciously. There is a constant complaint from women of all stations and kinds that "stairs are killing." Housekeepers groan more heavily over the needful steps to be taken up and down the house in discharge of their duties than over any other part of the domestic drudgery.

Of course there are different ways of going up stairs. One can lean over, contract the chest, hoop the shoulders, bring the foot down like a hundred ton weight and bend the whole body forward from the waist. If this is one's way, it is no cause for wonder that one pants, porpoise-like, at the thought of long stairs after the thirtieth year. But this was not the way which the physician, who says that going upstairs is good for women, has in mind. He means that they shall go up in the Delsartean way, namely: head erect, the chest fully expanded, the shoulders back, with no bend whatever of the body at the waist, and putting the whole weight on the ball of the foot, not touching the step with the heel at all. If you assume this method of mounting stairs you are not dragging the body up, step by step, like a dead weight. There is a springiness felt at every footfall that, starting from the ball of the foot, runs up through the entire frame. There is no fatigue; rather, almost an exhilaration in the elastic series of movements.

You doubt? Try it hereafter and see for yourself.

MOTHERS

SHOULD KNOW ALL ABOUT WHAT THEY USE FOR BABY.

Every mother should know something about the composition of the food that her baby is fed on from day to day. Many prepared foods now sold are vile preparations, and soon bring on serious digestive derangements.

Lactated Food is not a secret preparation. It is prepared in the most careful manner from the nourishing elements of wheat and barley, properly combined with pure sugar of milk. It is nourishing, strengthening and life-giving, and by its use thousands of children have grown from weak and puny babes to healthy, happy and hearty boys and girls.

Thousands of physicians and happy mothers say that Lactated Food "Saves Babies' Lives."

FACTORYMEN SHOULD GO SLOW.

Cheese factorymen, says the Belleville Intelligencer, are making a move toward opening their factories, and several will commence their season's operations during the first and second weeks in April. The conditions for cheese making are not as favourable this year as formerly, owing to the lateness of the season, and the factories should not open too early. The market at this date last year was well cleaned up, and there was a fair demand for new cheese, but the spring the market is well stocked, and the old cheese will have to be sold, if it goes at a loss to the buyer, before the new will be looked at. The factory patrons would do well to keep their milk at home for at least a month yet. Butter brings a good fair price, and the waste milk could be profitably used for bringing on the calves and pigs, which will otherwise have to be fed on coarse feed for at least a month till the grass starts. Fodder cheese is never a desirable article and if the factories start now there will be a lot of it thrown upon the market at necessarily low prices.

FINANCE AND COMMERCE

TORONTO, March 26, 1895.

The offerings of wheat in the local market continue small. The prices are practically unchanged, notwithstanding the fluctuations of foreign markets.

The hay market holds its own. The receipts so far have been heavy, but the indications are that there will be a decrease in the shipments of western dealers in the near future.

Egg dealers complain that they have been not only inconvenienced, but put to considerable expense by the carelessness of country dealers in neglecting to return their empty cases. The trouble will likely be overcome by a resolution that was adopted at a recent meeting of the dealers. It was decided to impose on the country dealers a nominal sum on cases belonging to the wholesale trade.

Buffalo reports that the trading season in barley is pretty nearly at an end. Beyond an occasional lot there will be nothing further done in this cereal until the new crop is ready. The visible supply is 969,000 bushels, which is 276,000 bushels in excess of last year's supply at this date, but most of this is held on consumers' account. No. 2 Canada is quoted at 63c to 63c and there is no other grade of Canada on the market, which is nominally lower.

In Chicago wheat advanced ¾c on higher cables and reports of dry weather; light receipts and the influence of wheat caused a gain of ½ to ⅝c in corn. Oats advanced ¼c to ⅜c in sympathy with the other grains. Provisions were higher.

GIVEN UP TO DIE.

Doctors Thought There Was No Hope.

A Bradford, Ont., Lady Says: "I Owe My Life to Paine's Celery Compound."

The Great Spring Medicine Always Saves and Cures.

Concise and brief is the letter that comes from Mrs. Currier, of Bradford, Ont. It comes from one who was near the gates of death, and whose gratitude and thankfulness are strong and sincere for rescue and deliverance.

Sickness for over a year, attended with pleurisy and inflammation, placed Mrs. Currier's life in jeopardy; indeed the doctors pronounced her case hopeless, and said she would die.

Friends urged the use of Paine's Celery Compound. Mrs. Currier used the medicine, and to-day enjoys the blessings of sound health.

This remarkable cure proves conclusively that Paine's Celery Compound is as much superior to the ordinary physicians' remedies as the diamond is to cheap glass.

At no season of the year does Paine's Celery Compound show its healing virtues to better advantage than in the Spring time. It banishes disease, purifies the blood, enriches and strengthens the system, and adds years to one's life. Mrs. Currier says:

"I take great pleasure in sending you a testimonial for Paine's Celery Compound; I certainly owe my life to it. I may state that I was sick over a year with pleurisy and inflammation, and given up to die by three doctors and all my friends, when I was recommended to try Paine's Celery Compound. After using seven bottles of the wonderful medicine, I am all right again."

A Dance Without a Smile.

They have a singular kind of dance conducted on the greens of country villages in Russia. The dancers stand apart, a knot of young men here, a knot of maidens there, each sex by itself, and silent as a crowd of mutes. A piper breaks into a tune, a youth pulls off his cap and challenges his girl with a wave and a bow. If the girl is willing, she waves her handkerchief in token of assent. The youth advances, takes a corner of the handkerchief in his hand and leads his lassie round and round.

No word is spoken, and no laugh is heard. Stiff with cords and rich with braids the girl moves heavily by herself, going round and round, and never allowing her partner to touch her hand. The pipe goes droning on for hours in the same sad key and measure, and the prize of merit in this "circling," as the dance is called, is given by spectators to the lassie who in all that summer revelry has never spoken and never smiled.—New York Ledger.

Soapstone In China.

The Chinese in utilizing soapstone, which is found in their country in large quantities, make of it trays for pens, slabs for rubbing ink, flower vases, incense boxes, sandal wood burners, flower baskets, candlesticks, chessmen, cups, bowls and lamps, all sorts of emblems, animals and the idols which the disciples of Confucius revere with so much favor.

A very [illegible] member of the French [illegible] reading the newspaper in the [illegible] at Dieppe the other day. He was absorbed by his reading, and with his left hand he unconsciously pushed the files of newspapers on the table. Each moment he sent them farther from him. Beyond the papers was an inkstand, which at last the moving papers pushed over the side of the table. It fell on the trousers of a Paris banker, who was furious at the accident.

The absentminded man offered his best excuses without appeasing the banker's wrath, who shrieked that his new trousers were ruined.

"But, sir, I will cheerfully pay for them. Be good enough to give me your card, and I will send the money to your hotel."

"To my hotel, sir! I don't know you. I must instantly have the 30 francs these trousers cost."

The member of the institute drew forth the 30 francs and handed them to the banker. Then he said:

"Now that you have been paid, I hope you have too much of the delicacy of a gentleman to remain in my trousers. You know they are mine, and I insist upon their immediate delivery to me. You have no confidence in me; I have none in you. My trousers!"

In vain the banker protested against such haste. The crowd that had gathered about the disputants said the member of the institute was right, and the banker, after sending for another pair of other garments, surrendered the ink [illegible] ones, amid the laughter of the bystanders.—Tit-Bits.

ONTARIO LEGISLATURE.

A Number of New Bills Introduced—What the Government Pays for Cattle.

Toronto, March 26.—There is a dispute between Architect Waite and the Government as to the amount of his fees in connection with the new Parliament buildings. Mr. Waite claims some $58,000. The Government admit $8,708, but refuse the balance.

The business of the House is so well advanced that it is the intention of the Government, if the committees are advanced sufficiently, to hold a session next Saturday. The Cabinet had a formal meeting yesterday morning.

Hon. Mr. Harcourt gave notice that he would introduce a bill on Thursday to amend the Public Health Act.

The Attorney-General gave notice that he would introduce a bill to make further provision against transfers in fraud to creditors.

Hon. Mr. Harcourt introduced a bill to amend the Municipal Act. The bill extends the powers now conferred upon cities or towns with regard to constructing drainage works as local improvements upon the recommendation of the local board of health to incorporated villages.

Mr. Harby introduced a bill respecting railway lands. At present there are reserved on each side of all railways ten miles of land to be used for railway purposes. Many of the railways have delayed construction and these lands cannot be used. The bill is to give power to the Lieutenant-Governor in Council to dispose of them.

The Price of Cattle.

Hon. Mr. Gibson in answer to Colonel Matheson said that the average cost per hundred weight of cattle bought by the Government for public institutions during 1894 was $2.57. The average cost per head of cattle bought for these same institutions, including expenses of purchase and delivery, was $36.89.

Houses of Refuge.

Mr. Cleland introduced a bill to amend the Act respecting Houses of Refuge. At present a house of refuge cannot be founded unless there are at least 45 acres of land in connection therewith. If this bill passes but ten acres will be necessary.

No More Passes.

Mr. Haycock introduced his bill yesterday which if passed will make it a crime for members of the Ontario Legislature to accept passes. The bill is causing members on both sides of the House considerable anxiety. It is more than likely that the leaders will pass round the word allowing their followers to vote as they please. If this is done the bill will become law without doubt.

Police Villages Bill.

Mr. Gibson (Huron) introduced a bill giving police villages the same powers as other municipalities. The bill was read a first time, but will receive opposition in committee.

Mr. Howland's New Bill.

Mr. Howland introduced the Toronto bill yesterday. The bill provides that the municipal elections shall be held on January 1, instead of the first Monday in each year. It also empowers police officers to enter public buildings and remove obstructions in the aisles. It allows the authorities in any municipality to license, regulate and govern bicycle riders. It also authorizes the establishment of an official benefit fund for civic employes.

Who Were the Witnesses?

Mr. Kerns moved for an order of the House for a return showing the names, residences and occupations of all parties who gave evidence before the fees commisson.

Sir Oliver Mowat said that it would be impossible to give the information desired since no note had been made of the residences or occupations of the witnesses. The motion was withdrawn. It is understood that no deputy registrars were called to give evidence and that but few were called outside of lawyers, bankers and other professional men whose ideas of salaries are large.

North Hastings Timber.

Mr. Haggerty moved for an order of the House for a return showing the amount received from the sale of timber limits in the riding of North Hastings during the last thirty years, together with the amount received for timber dues during the same period; the amount expended for the making and repairing colonization and other roads in the riding of North Hastings during the last thirty years. The motion carried without discussion.

Second Readings.

These bills were read a second time without discussion:

To enable the corporation of the town of Port Hope to issue debentures for High school purposes.—Mr. Fallis.

To authorize the corporation of the city of Brantford to sell a part of Mount Hope cemetery.—Mr. Hardy.

To enable Herbert Stanley Reynolds to practice dentistry.—Mr. Caven.

To incorporate the village of Bridgeburg.—Mr. German.

Respecting the town of Gananoque.—Mr. Awrey.

To Make Traders Pay.

Mr. Wood moved the second reading of his bill to amend the Municipal Act. The bill provides that transient traders must pay a license. The bill passed the second reading.

Two Operations.

BOTH FAILURES.

A Case of Kidney Complaint that would Not Yield to Surgery or Medicine until B. B. B. was Tried.

GENTLEMEN,—After having undergone two operations for Kidney Complaint without securing the least relief, and hearing of some remarkable cures made by B. B. B. in our neighborhood, I decided to try it. I was given up by the doctors after the operations failed, and it was providential that I heard of B. B. B. After the use of six bottles I experienced so great relief and so great a change for the better that I felt the good effects would be lasting, as indeed they have been. The seventh bottle perfectly cured me, and I am now stronger and better than I ever was before. People who saw me before I took B. B. B. and who see me now can scarcely believe that I am the same person.

A New York electrotyping firm is said to have hit upon the idea of electrotyping articles of apparel which it is desired to preserve as mementoes. A baby's first shoes, for example, may be preserved indefinitely in metal. We might give other instances, but, although we should be sorry to discourage the firm, so far as our experience goes mementoes do not generally take the form of wearing apparel. Such things as Tommy's first trousers and Johnny's first "top" hat would scarcely make good souvenirs.

More women than men voted at the recent election in Colorado, and they cast a larger percentage of their registered vote than the men. They led the men in Denver by 8,000 votes, besides inducing 6,000 men to vote who usually neglect this duty. Only a few of the 70,000 women who voted took part in street processions. A large majority voted the republican ticket and a few supported the prohibitionists. Throughout the whole state not the slightest affront was offered a woman voter. Such are the silent facts of the first general election in Colorado in which women had an equal share.

Fire at Hastings.

Fire on Saturday morning totally destroyed the barn belonging to Andrew Pickens, jr., who lives about two miles east of here, with all its contents, including a horse, buggy, cutter, and a quantity of hay and grain. The fire originated from a spark which fell from Mr. Pickens' pipe, who had been out to feed the horse a short time before. Loss about $1,200; no insurance.

Zera Semon.

At the Opera House to-night. The evening Mail of Halifax speaks of the show as follows: "A packed house greeted the genial Zera Semon at his opening at the Lyceum last evening. Owing to a severe cold little Lawrence Semon was unable to appear, the doctor having advised that he should remain at home. The first part of the performance was magic by the professor and he opened up a box of new tricks, some of them most wonderfully and cleverly done. Next came ventriloquism by Zera in his best style. The shadowgraphs were an interesting feature of the entertainment, and the destruction of a Chinese pirate junk by a British man-of-war, with the national anthem given on the piano, set the house in a furore, though it has been seen here before. At the conclusion of the show over 100 presents were given away, including a gold watch, for which T. Fogarty held the ticket. The show continues all this week." dtf

The Big Suit Settled.

The suit of Wm. Irwin & Co. against the lumber firm of Turner & Fisher, for the sum of $21,000, being for work performed by the plaintiffs in taking out logs and delivering them at Georgian Bay, has been settled by the defendants admitting judgment for the amount in full and paying half of the costs. The defendants have also unequivocally withdrawn the charge of fraud against the seamers, whom they charged with making false returns in the interest of the plaintiffs. Mr. Irwin's friends in Peterborough will be pleased to see that he has been successful. Those having had large business dealings with Mr. Irwin were much interested in the case. Had he been unsuccessful in disproving the charges made, the business community would have been somewhat surprised to find him mixed up in business matters of a dishonest nature. We are glad the suit has resulted as it has.

A PETERBOROUGH MAN SEEKS A DIVORCE FROM HIS WIFE.

A Commission was Taking Evidence in the Matter Last Week.

During the last few months Peterborough has been excelling itself in the way of providing sweet morsels for the tongues of the scandal monger. At present the town is agitated over a case, one side of which is sad in the extreme, casting a reflection as it does on a broken hearted wife.

It is the story of a well-known citizen of Peterborough who, for the past three or four months has been residing in Detroit with the object of obtaining a divorce from his wife, the alleged grievance being unfaithfulness. After residing in the United States for the required ninety days, proceedings were began in the Divorce Court, and last week a commission sat in Peterborough taking evidence in the case.

The husband and wife have not been living together for about a year and the furniture has been moved away. Yesterday the wife learned that the household effects had all been removed from the storehouse and placed in a box car at the Grand Trunk station. She immediately procured a search warrant and the Chief of Police upon discovering the goods, had padlocks placed on the car doors and this morning the furniture etc., was all carted up to the police headquarters, and Magistrate Dumble will decide as to the ownership of the effects to-morrow morning.

THE EVANGELISTS.

The Services Will be Held This Week in the George Street Church.

Yesterday was the commencement of the fourth week of the evangelistic services which are being held in town, and a fair audience was in attendance at the George street church, where the services are being conducted this week. The attendance and the interest manifested are on the increase, and doubtless this week will witness the accomplishment of much good.

The song services are always well attended, and Mr. Whyte's singing is greatly appreciated.

Last evening Rev. Mr. Moore's text was taken from Ezikiel VIII chapter and fourth verse, "And, behold, the glory of the God of Israel was there, according to the vision that I saw in the plain." The theme of the sermon, which was most interesting and instructive, was "the duty of the saved to the unconverted."

After the meeting a large number remained and expressed a desire to lead better lives. The service this evening will be held in the George street church, and to-morrow afternoon the evangelists will hold a meeting in the Murray street Baptist church at three o'clock. Yesterday afternoon a service was held in the Mark street church, Ashburnham, and was largely attended.

Time Wasted.

A great deal of time is always wasted in the council meetings by the reading of the minutes of the previous meeting. The custom has long since been discontinued in the cities, and it is time that the Peterborough council discarded a practice which savours so strongly of the rural municipality.

Commendable Dispatch.

The firm of J. J. Turner & Sons received an order, this morning, at eight o'clock, for a twenty-two foot awning for a firm in Perth. Haste was urged in the filling of the order, as the merchant stated that his goods in the show windows were being spoiled by the sun. The awning was cut, made and shipped to Perth by the eleven o'clock train. It is doubtful if any other firm in existence would have the energy and enterprise to fill an order of this kind with such commendable despatch. 1t

Furniture.

At A. Clegg's; the new goods are coming in and nearly every line is complete. Bedroom suites, a very large assortment; sideboards at all prices, good dining room tables from $5.50 up, chairs at all prices from 33c each and up; couches, easy chairs, parlour suites, fancy chairs, and floor rockers. Pictures, just see them, at prices you never even dreamed of. Window shades, cornice poles, hall racks. Do not leave your upholstering and repairs until the very last minute; now is the time.—A. CLEGG, 427 George street.

Young Women's Association.

The Young Women's Christian Association was very pleased and honoured to have Messrs. Moore and Whyte present on Saturday evening to take charge of the gospel service. Every available seat was occupied. Mr. Moore gave us a very practical and helpful talk. Mr. Whyte sang two solos (accompanying himself on the guitar) with expressions that touched all hearts. At the close of the meeting several stood up for prayer; some of these professed to take Christ as their personal Saviour.

A Bad Mix.

People in the neighbourhood where it occurred are laughing yet over an episode of yesterday in which a well-known kennel owner, a celebrated dog trainer, several well-bred pups, an old lady and a goose were the actors. The old lady owned the goose. The pups chased it and worried it. The trainer followed the first pup to stop the mischief and the fancier tried to hold back the others, but wholly failed. There was, for a time, an awful mixture of goose and pup and trainer and old lady; and when order was finally restored it was found that a new goose must be supplied to take the place of the maimed bird. Late last night the trainer was seen scurrying round the town looking for a right-proper bird, of the male persuasion, to make things even with an angry old lady.

Prof. S. M. Early, of Toronto,

Has arranged to begin classes to give instruction in the most elite society dancing. All those desirous of receiving instruction in the intricacies of the terpsichorean art, and to become thorough proficient in all the graceful movements necessary for a perfect dancer, will please attend the first classes which will begin on Friday, March 29th, 1893. All classes will be under the direction of Mr. Early, who is a master of experience and profitsbay, and parents can rely upon having the same assiduous attention devoted to their children's studies as that which has made his success in Toronto so complete. Mr. Early will be at his office and dancing rooms, Bradburn's Opera House, Peterborough, on Friday, March 29th, at 1.30 o'clock, for the purpose of consulting with anyone desirous of arranging for lessons. Classes will meet in the following manner: Gentleman's class, 8 p.m.; ladies and gentlemen's evening class, 8 o'clock. Pupils attending this class will be expected to be at the hall sharp at that hour; instruction from 8 to 9.30, practice until 11 p.m. Saturday 30th, misses and masters class 10 a.m., ladies 2 p.m. N.B.—Classes will be through with instruction by June 1st. Further particulars will be given after first meeting of classes. 3d72

—An interesting report of a health lecture delivered in St. Luke's church last evening is unavoidably held over until to-morrow.
—Mr. H. A. Massey, of Toronto, who gives $10,000 to Albert College, has also offered $10,000 to Alma College, St. Thomas, on certain conditions.
—The Sheriff of Middlesex has appointed a female constable for the Spring Assize Court, which opens on Tuesday, March 28. Her duty will be to watch lady witnesses who are waiting to be called to the court room.
—As soon as the lake is free from ice the steamer Daisy will swing the Point St. Charles boom in order to receive the first drive of the season, which will be Gilmour's destined to Trenton, the opening of which commenced last fall at Lakefield.
—H. A. Wood, a jeweller of Kingston, has invented the latest thing in bicycles, in the shape of rawhide tires. It is said to be a great improvement on the rubber ones, and besides being able to stand the wear and tear better, will enable the rider to turn in a much smaller space than with the rubber ones.
—A young lady in Denver will publish a paper which will enjoy the name of The Kiss. It cannot fail to be popular.—St. Catharines Standard. No. It will never succeed in the west. It should have been called The Hug.—Belleville Sun. We are not so sure about that. It ought to linger all right if it goes to press often enough.—Hamilton Herald. A great difficulty which the publisher will have to combat is the danger incurred in having it returned. Then again the circulation will never rise above the normal, being e-lip-tickle.
—The steamer Daisy has donned its summer garb. Its interior and exterior are painted in the most brilliant hues of the rainbow and both the after and forward cabins are being handsomely upholstered in garnet and nile green plush. When completed she will be a "Daisy" indeed. The machinery has been placed under the skilful management of engineer Young, who has the handling of the throttle and thinks the Daisy will do up anything floating the waters in these parts. Capt. Charles spares no pains in looking after his craft and wants everything A 1 or not at all.
—Mr. Jas. Smith, known amongst his more intimate friends as "Ripley," returned from Toronto after an extended visit to relatives and friends, and left this morning via G. T. R. for Wahnapitae, where he is largely interested in the lumbering business. While here "Ripley" made many friends. The boys on becoming aware of his intended departure handsomely entertained him at an oyster supper, which was held in the Little Windsor. The evening was most pleasantly spent, songs, speeches and recitations being the order of the evening. The evening wound up with a rendition of "He's a Jolly Good Fellow," and "God Save the Queen."

THE WHEEL.

The Belleville Intelligencer is backing Peterborough up for the C.I.A. meet and says: "Kingston has wakened up and is going to push her claim, if she rightfully has one, for the C.W.A. meet. Peterborough has never had the meet and as far as Belleville is concerned the plate glass city can have it in welcome, and our wheelmen will all go out and help drive it along. Why don't Kingston get into line, for if they divide the vote on the East, the west will get it sure."

WALL PAPER OPENING DAY

At the Peterborough Bookstore Wednesday and Thursday.

On Wednesday and Thursday, March 27th and 28th, we will inaugurate a new and novel feature in connection with our wall paper department. The occasion will be marked by a special display of our new and elaborate spring designs for 1893, representing the acme of art in wall paper decorations, both in colour and artistic effect.

Our immense stock, consisting of thousands of rolls of beautiful designs will thus be placed on view before the public and constitute an exposition of the largest wall paper stock in Ontario, in which the handsomest patterns for parlours, drawing rooms, halls, bedrooms, offices, churches and public buildings, will be exhibited.

This will be a sight worth seeing. Everyone invited. Remember the opening days, Wednesday and Thursday, March 27th and 28th—A. H. STRATTON & Co., 417 George street.

HOW CANADA HEADS ENGLAND

A correspondent of the London (Eng.) Standard says: It would do well to try Canadian stoves in churches instead of coke ones. I have been in Manitoba sixteen years and I have never in any church or public hall there felt the atmosphere so impure as I have found it in almost every church I have attended in England in winter. As to Canadian houses they are better ventilated than English ones, as the stove, by being made up and its dampers opened, reheats the room so quickly that the fresh air can be admitted into a room, and the same thoroughly cooled and be rendered comfortable again in a short time. Frankly, for comfort in houses, on trains and in regard to the use of electricity, dear old England cannot compare with young Canada.

Consumption—Low Condition

Wonderful Results From Taking Hood's Sarsaparilla.

Miss Hannah Wyatt
Toronto, Ont.

"Four years ago while in the old country (England), my daughter Hannah was sent away from the hospital, in a very low condition with consumption of the lungs and bowels, and weak action of the heart. The trip across the water to this country seemed to make her feel better for a while. Then she began to get worse, and for 14 weeks she was unable to get off the bed. She grew worse for five months and lost the use of her limbs and lower part of body, and if she sat up in bed had to be propped up with pillows. Physicians

Said She Was Past All Help

and wanted me to send her to the 'Home for Incurables.' But I said as long as I could hold my hand up she should not go. We then began to give her Hood's Sarsaparilla. She is getting strong, walks around, is out doors every day; has no trouble with her throat and no cough, and her heart seems to be all right again. She has a first class appetite. We regard her cure as nothing short of a miracle." W. WYATT, 59 Marion Street, Parkdale, Toronto, Ontario.

Hood's Sarsaparilla Cures

THE CANADIAN WHEELMEN'S MEET.

The Efforts Made to Have the Meet in Peterborough—It Will Mean Big Money for the Town—Civic and Citizens, Co-operation Urged.

A meeting of the joint committee of the Driving Park Association and the local wheelmen was held this morning to discuss matters in reference to the annual meet of the Canadian Wheelmen's Association, in Peterborough, on July 1st. It was decided to at once make arrangements for the necessary hotel and lodging house accomodation for the large number of wheelmen and their friends which would be attracted to the town if the annual meet were held here. The presence of 3,000 people—the wheelmen and their friends, who would be in town for two or three days, spending an average of $10, not to speak of the immense throngs of daily visitors, would mean that a very large sum of money would be brought into the town and left here. The committee feel, in view of this fact and in view of the large expenditure of something like $1000 in preparing the grounds for the meet and $500 in prizes, that they are entitled to the hearty support of the citizens of the town who will be benefitted; and as will be seen by the report of the council meeting, application has been made to the council for a grant of $500 to assist in defraying the expenses the local committee will be put to in the interests of the town.

In to-day's despatches it is stated that the countil of Windsor, Ont., has voted a grant of $750 to assist in entertaining the Highland Regiment, Toronto, on May 24th and a local firm has donated $250 additional towards the $2,500 it is proposed to spend in welcoming the kilted soldiers.

On principle these citizens who take risks and use energetic exertion to bring people to town and keep citizens at home on public holidays should be encouraged. In the past public holidays have been a source of loss to the town. There were no home attractions. Business was suspended with its accompanying loss, while the great bulk of the citizens left town and left their money in more enterprising places. Now it is proposed to put the boot on the other foot and bring the thousands to town to spend their money and keep our people at home and to bring and to keep thousands of dollars into circulation in town that, under other circumstances, would not be brought here or would be spent out of town. The annual meet of the wheelsmen always attract immense crowds.

A meeting of the Bicycle Club will be held this evening at the Oriental Hotel.

Relieved of Pain in Twenty-Four Hours.

Douglas Bro. & Co., Napanee, Ont.:

DEAR SIR,—About two months ago I had a severe attack of muscular rheumatism, to cure which I tried several remedies, but without effect. The doctor told me I would be laid up for a week or ten days at least. I had heard of such wonderful cures made by your Douglas' Egyptian Liniment I determined to try it, which I did by applying cloths wet with it to parts affected, and in twenty-four hours was entirely relieved of the pain, which has not troubled me since, although subject to attacks of it frequently during year previous.

Yours, etc.,

A CHANGE IN THE MODE OF ELECTING COUNCILS.

THE ELECTION OF MUNICIPAL COUNCILLORS

By the Vote of the Whole Body of Electors — Opinions of Prominent Business Men and Citizens Respecting the Bill now Before the House —The Change Favoured.

Yesterday a representative of the EXAMINER met several of the prominent business men and citizens and made enquiries as to their opinion in reference to the principle of Mr. Stratton's bill, now before the Provincial Legislature, requiring that councillors be elected by the vote of the whole people in the same manner as mayors are now elected. No attempt was made to procure an exhaustive poll, but the opinion of those casually encountered was unanimously in favour of the scheme —only one gentlemen spoken to having declined to express an opinion and he had not thought of the matter, but was inclined to think the present way good enough. The following gentlemen expressed opinions on the subject:—

Mr. Wm. Lech,—If it could be accomplished it would be a great benefit. The ward system leads to extravagance. Now, if one ward wants a hydrant another wants two. I think it is the very thing we want—to elect councillors by the vote of the whole town and not by wards. I have often been asked to run for councillor, and I might be a candidate if the way of electing is changed to a vote of the whole people. I think councillors should be paid for their services.

Mr. A. Mercer,—I vote yes on the proposal to elect councillors by the vote of all the electors. I think the change would benefit the town.

Mr. T. Dolan, of T. Dolan & Co., clothiers,—I think the proposed change would tend to do away with getting unnecessary work done in certain wards. The council elected by the whole people would do the work in the interest of the town at large, and so a large expenditure would be avoided. I certainly am in favour of the scheme.

Mr. Robert Hall, dry goods merchant,—I think the election by the whole body of electors, is the proper way. It would prevent the formation and operation of ward rings and secure better representation. It would tend to economy by preventing jobs being done in the interests of a special ward. I might also say that I think we have too many representatives.

Mr. R. Fair, dry goods merchant and President of the Board of Trade,—I am strongly in favour of the legislation proposed. I have long thought that councillors elected as at present felt themselves amendable only to the ward that elected them and that they could not feel free to consider the interests of the town at large. If that should conflict with some sectional interest. I think if councillors were elected as the members of the Board of Trade are, they would not be fettered by fear of a section and would feel freer to vote in the interests of the town as a whole. I also am strongly in favour of legally compelling electors to vote for the whole twelve councillors required. If any man voted for less than the whole number his ballot should be counted as a "spoiled ballot."

Mr. B. Shortly, harness and saddlery,—I think it the best thing yet proposed. By it you will get a better class of representatives and prevent log rolling and one ward pulling against another. I am in with the proposal heartily.

Mr. R. H. Kells, dry goods merchant,—I am thoroughly in sympathy with the bill—no "ward business" for me. This legislation would do away with, "You support me and I'll support you" in making unnecessary expenditures which is one fruitful way of piling up the taxes.

Mr. J. C. Turnbull, dry goods merchant —I would be in favour of the system of election proposed by the bill. I think the effect would be good.

Mr. Wm. Walsh, druggist—I have no doubt that an elector should have a vote for every councillor on the board. We should then have a better class of representatives—of better business ability—and should have more economical expenditure. Citizens with large stake and business experience would take an interest in civic politics.

Mr. J. T. Stenson, boot and shoe merchant—I am well pleased with the proposal and am glad to see that Mr. Stratton has introduced the bill and hope it will become law. I think it will have a good effect, give us more capable business men as councillors, and that, of course, means better management of our town's business.

Mr. J. J. Lundy, capitalist—I think well of the proposal. I think many capable men are now kept out of the council through some petty local jealousy. The vote of the whole people would result in the election of first class representatives.

Mr. G. M. Roger, barrister and ex-councillor—I haven't thought very much of the mode of election, but I am in favour of having fewer councillors, and of paying them some small salary for their services. I am inclined to having the term of councillor three years—a certain number dropping out each year as in the school board.

Mr. R. G. Kingan, of Kingan & Allen, hardware—Elect councillors by vote of the whole people of course. We'd get men of better business ability.

Mr. E. H. D. Hall, barrister and ex-councillor—I have been favouring this plan for years. I proposed it when I was in the council, but didn't get much encouragement. I think it would do away with setting one ward against another in the matter of improvements and this would mean a great saving of expense—public works would be constructed on their merits. This system would result in more capable and independent councillors. I think the act in question should compel the council to submit the matter of a change to the people.

Mr. R. M. Dennistoun, barrister and ex-councillor—I have long been of the opinion that the proposed mode of electing councillors would be in the interests of the town. I think the advantages would be many. I think it would do away with the evil resulting from the prominence given to sectional interests by the present system; it would induce a good class of citizens (I make no reflection on past or present councillors)—men of business experience to take an interest in local affairs—men to secure election would have to be favourably known by the whole town. I think there is some objection to the number. Twelve names on a ballot would be unwieldly, I think that perhaps six councillors with a mayor would be enough—the largest financial concerns are managed by a board of five or seven—even four councillors with the mayor might be enough. I am quite in sympathy with the proposal.

Mr. Richard Hall, of Hall, Gilchrist & Co., dry goods merchants,—I am decidedly in favour of the proposed change, and have been so for a long time. I am also in favour of reducing the number of councillors to five, and having the business transacted in the day time.

Mr. R. Neil, wholesale and retail boot and shoe merchant,—It's the only sensible way of electing councillors—the most representative.

Mr. Lucius Sherlock, accountant, — By all means; I think so now and have for a long time thought it the proper way of electing councillors.

Mr. R. S. Davidson, of the Peterborough Hardware Company, and an ex-Councillor —I think the plan proposed is a move in the right direction. By this means we will get good representatives—representative men too. It would do away with ward pulling and result in the better and more economical governament of the town.

Mr. W. A. Sanderson, jeweller—I think it a good idea. By this plan we shall get better representatives. Men will be elected on their merits and not from ward influence.

Mr. Geo. Edmison, barrister—I think it is a good movement, and would do away with ward abuses, and secure better representatives and consequently better civic government.

Mr. W. H. Wrighton, grain and commission merchant—I am in favour of the change proposed. It would certainly do away with ward jobbery. It is a step in the right direction. I also think that a majority of the electors entitled to vote for money by-laws should be required to carry a by-law and not the majority of the few that vote.

Mr. Thomas Bradburn, real estate owner,—I am in favour of the change in selecting councillors. I am in favour of reducing the number of councillors too.

Mr. John McKee, druggist,—It's correct; its the proper way; if something of that kind were done, I think it would benefit the town.

Mr. P. Connal, of P. Connal & Co., grocers,—I am inclined to think it is a good idea. It might prevent or at least help to prevent rings, and tend to the election of a better class of councillors.

Mr. W. G. Ferguson, of P. Connal & Co., grocers,—I think it is the proper way. Councillors are elected that way in Scotland. In Stirling, a town of about 14,000, twelve councillors are elected and all the electors have a voice in the matter.

Mr. R. R. Hall, barrister,—I favour the idea. We should thereby get better representation and councillors would be answerable to the whole body of the electors and not to those of a particular ward.

Dr. Burnham—I believe it's the proper principle. I have been always opposed to the ward system, and never regarded it with favour.

Mr. W. H. Moore, barrister, and ex-councillor—I am solid for it. I tried to bring about the change when I was in the council. I do no think there will be satisfactory representation in the council till such a mode of electing councillors is adopted. It should not be left optional with councils to adopt or reject the improved system.

Mr. H. S. McDonald, druggist,—I am in favour of the whole body of electors voting for all councillors.

Mr. J. M. Irwin, lumber merchant,—I believe it is the proper way to elect representatives—it would secure better representation.

Mr. T. E. Bradburn, ex-councillor and President of the Ratepayers' Association, —Yes, I favour the change—do away with the ward politician. Every elector should be allowed to vote for all the councillors.

CANADIAN TOBACCO.

What Councillor Deane and Mr. W. H. Moore Think of It.

Just before the meeting of the council last evening a few of us were sitting around in the town clerk's office and the talk turned on Canadian grown tobacco. Opinions differed concerning it.

Councillor Deane had no use for the stuff at all. He had received a present of a big twist of it not long since, and when he tested it and smoking on unaware of the effect it was having on him, until the floor started to heave and he had to make a dash for the open air before he revived.

At the time he resolved to experiment on someone else next time and accordingly the first drummer that came along was selected as the victim and duly presented with a pipeful. He unsuspiciously filled up and started for the post office, which he made all right, but as soon as he encountered the heated atmosphere inside, the pipe dropped from between his teeth and if asked he couldn't have told his own name. In fact he didn't know what he went into the post office for and dashed out into the open air again with his knees fairly trembling under him. In order to make sure that he had not been poisoned he made straight for Mr. Deane and was considerably relieved when he was given to understand that he was merely suffering from the effects of Canadian home grown tobacco.

Mr. W. H. Moore had quite a different experience with the weed. He had run across a farmer down near Murray Bay, who understood the curing of the tobacco and on smoking some of it he had thought it as good as the American article. Some of this had been sent to Fortier, the Montreal tobacco man, and he had pronounced it even superior to the Virginia tobacco. Mr. Moore thought that the great obstacle to the use of the Canadian weed was that it was never properly cured. When an experienced hand dried and preserved the tobacco the result was all different as the results of a farmer and a tanner competing in the transforming of a hide into leather. In Mr. Moore's opinion Canadian tobacco has a great future before it.

A WORDY WARFARE WAGED IN COUNCIL.

COUNCILLORS DAWSON AND STONE INDULGE IN HARD WORDS.

The Latter Thinks he is Being Bulldozed by the Former, who states that Mr. Stone is Working Against the Interests of the Town by Always Looking on the Dark Side of Everything—Mr. Dawson Retracts.

A special meeting of the town council was held last evening for the purpose of discussing the sewer question as it now stands. There were present the Mayor and Councillors Cahill, Sproule, Best, Denne, Mills, Phelan, Dawson, Clinkscale, Shawers, Stone and Mason.

A communication was read from Mr. W. H. Moore, stating that Mr. Grant, the contractor, wished an order from the council to proceed with his work or, as an alternative, asked that he be paid for the work already done and the contract cancelled. Mr. Moore further stated that the township of North Monaghan was satisfied with the award and would raise no objection to the procedure of the work of constructing the sewer.

Another communication was received from

From Mr. E. B. Edwards also in regard to the outfall sewer matter.

Councillor Cahill moved that this communication, without being read, together with that of Mr. W. H. Moore be referred to a

COMMITTEE OF THE WHOLE COUNCIL

where both could be calmly discussed in private.

Mr. W. H. Moore, who was present, objected to the matter being shelved, as he stated that the water in the Otonabee would rise in May or June and unless the work was proceeded with at once it would necessarily be delayed by the raising of the water. The matter must be dealt with at once. Mr. Grant would submit to no delay.

Councillor Best stated that he had seen Mr. Grant himself a week ago Friday and that he had at that time expressed no such sentiments. He was quite satisfied if the council was not ready, to wait until the water sank again. As far as the rising of the water was concerned, it would be up to the high water mark in a couple of weeks.

Councillor Stone was positive no solicitor would make representations, such as Mr. Moore had made, unless he had the most positive and imperative instructions from his client.

Councillor Dawson thought that Mr. Stone had taken a stand against ever since he had been in it. The council had used Mr. Grant like a gentleman, and would continue to do so, but at the same time would not be dictated to by him. Mr. Grant had nothing to complain of; he had gotten everything he asked from the council.

Councillor Stone resented Mr. Dawson's reference to him. He was supposed to know far more about such matters than Councillor Dawson. He had taken no stand against the council's interests but had simply warned them that they were treading on dangerous ground. Blunders had been made in the past; he took the ground which he did in order to prevent a recurrence of them.

Councillor Dawson replied that eminent lawyers, who had forgotten far more than than Mr. Stone ever knew, had sat at the council board and none of them had ever pictured things so darkly for the council as the representative from the fourth ward.

Mr. Stone warmly rejoined that he didn't propose to sit in the council and be bulldozed all the year by Councillor Dawson. He insisted on knowing the names of the lawyers who had forgotten far more than he ever knew. Mr. Dawson, he stated, had gone too far with his slurs and he

ASKED FOR THE MAYOR'S RULING.

Mr. Dawson rose to answer that the lawyers to whom he referred were Mr. R. M. Dennistoun, Mr. W. H. Moore and Mr. G. M. Roger. He afterwards withdrew his remarks concerning his comparison of Mr. Stone's ability with theirs.

Councillor Stone stated that he felt very much hurt at the remarks which had been made. If the councillors and mayor thought that he was working against the interest of the council he would resign his seat. He would resign it if one other member, besides Mr. Dawson, expressed himself in accordance with the views promulgated by Mr. Dawson.

The mayor re-assured Mr. Stone on this point, and Mr. Dawson in explanation of his remarks stated that when Mr. Edmison, solicitor for the townships, had been present at the last meeting of the council, Mr. Stone had painted a very dark picture of the town's side of the sewer case. This was reprehensible, especially in the presence of opponents.

Mr. Stone's explanation of his position in regard to that matter was that he thought that the decision of the arbitrator would be

and as the arbitrator would be deprived of all power in case his award was not delivered within the time set, he at the time mentioned was only anxious to impress upon the council the urgency of having the time for the delivery of the award extended in accordance with the rules of the court.

After a few more murmurs the storm subsided and Mr. Cahill's motion being carried, the council adjourned to consider the matter in committee of the whole, after referring the application of Mr. J. W. VanNorman, for the position of street and bridge inspector, to the committee on appointments and a communication from Chief Roszel for new summer uniform for the force to the committee on police supervision.

Mr. G. W. Hatton, of the Peterborough Driving Park Association, wrote stating that the Association was making a big effort to bring the annual meet of the Canadian Wheelmen's Association to Peterborough. If the meet was secured it meant that fully 3,000 people would be brought to town through this medium. A number of other cities were also trying to secure the meet and making great preparations. The Driving Park Association asked for a grant of $500 from the town council to aid in the erecting of grand stands and the preparation of a suitable track for the races.

Madill's Emulsion

OF COD LIVER OIL AND HYPOPHOSPHITES OF LIME AND SODA.

It will do wonders for you if your cough is a hard, troublesome and stubborn cough, or if you require building up and fattening, but you must begin in time and take it regularly, as you do your meals.

Madill's Emulsion is put up fresh and sweet every week. It is far more palatable to the stomach than other similar preparations, while a tablespoonful dose contains a higher percentage of Cod liver oil. It is properly emulsified, without the aid of gum or other over-rich elements, and assimilates much more easily on that account.

Its potency has created not only an active local demand, but a constant request from other cities and towns of Canada.

INHUMAN WORK

To the Horrible Process of Docking a Horse's Tail.

One of the worst of all the imported manias of fashion is the docking of carriage horses, now practised in defiance of the law. It is a relic of the days when bull baiting and dog fighting were national sports in England, and appeared to have reached its climax in this country about 40 years ago. Even then it was only practised upon horses of the scanty, spear-tailed variety, but now nothing is sacred.

Less than a month ago the best horse shown under saddle at the Madison square horse show was ordered out of the ring because the owner was too humane to deprive the brute of nature's adornment and almost the sole protection against the legion of pestiferous insects which maraud en horses in this climate. If the Humane Society would encourage such horse owners, a medal should be voted both man and horse.

In England the mosquito is unknown, and flies and gnats abound in very sparing quantities. On that account the practice is cruel only at the time of the amputation. The fadders who insist that their horses shall be mutilated and exposed say the operation is painless and that the horse will not notice it enough to stop feeding. Unprincipled farriers can be found who support them in this ridiculous claim.

In contradiction of this is the whole anatomical structure of the tail. Its angle of use is universal, as it is swung to any part of the body at the will of the horse. In order to do this, a thousand little muscles and sinews are required. The energy which calls these into play is represented by a multitude of nerve fibers, while in the center of the tail is the spinal cord which is the center of the nervous system.

The purchaser of a carriage horse in New York will not buy a docked horse except it be a high-bred hackney. He is afraid the horse will be second-hand. A fine, green horse, fresh from the pastures of the country, is brought to his stables, and a farrier is summoned, who brings a charcoal furnace, sharp knives, ligatures and a sort of plumbing kit with him. The horse is slung from the floor in a canvas hammock, so that his feet are lifted from the floor, and a fence is crowded close to his heels, to prevent him from hurting the gentleman who is about to make him "in fashion." Then the long hair of the tail is turned back so as to bare the place where the cut is to be made, and a cord is tied about the tail. With a keen knife the farrier then hews and whittles until the flesh and nerves are cut down to the bone. Then the point of the knife is driven through the joint, severing the spinal cord, and while the horse gives an agonizing scream the tail drops into the farrier's hand.

The worst is not over.

Now the charcoal furnace is brought forward, and red-hot irons are taken from the glowing coals to be jabbed into the raw stump to stop the flow of blood. Before proceeding at all the doors are closed and the windows darkened, that no one may witness the crime against nature, and bring both operator and procurer within the grasp of the law.

Less than 200 years ago the ears of horses were also cropped, and this disfigurement was as much admired as the mutilation at the opposite end is at the present time. Whether this mania will spread so as to include other species beside the horse and dog remains to be seen. With the horse it is an act of unwarranted cruelty.—Detroit Evening News.

SAVING THE SCRAPS.

Surprising Economy Among New York Restaurant Habitues.

"You would be surprised," said a confidential restaurant keeper to a representative of The New York Sun, "at the growing number of my customers who carry off with them portion of their unfinished meals. Three or four years ago the only person that used to do this was an old French lady, who always used two of the three lumps of sugar that we used to serve with a cup of coffee and pocketed the third. The next person I noticed doing anything of the sort was a young man who ate two out of his three rolls, and after looking a little shame-facedly round the restaurant, reached up and dropped the third roll into his overcoat pocket. The following morning he did the same thing, and now he always does it, and does it, too, as a matter of course.

"Both of these little tricks, you will observe, were at breakfast, and I thought the explanation of them was easy. I knew it was the custom in France to pocket the unused sugar, and I imagined the young man was a clerk in an office and used to eat the third roll during the morning or for lunch. But during the past year or so I have given up seeking for explanations of a habit that has become common, any explanation, I mean, except that of hard times, for now it's done right and left and at every meal. Why, sir, you'd be amused or saddened, I don't know which, to see the matter-of-fact way in which part of a meal are saved. Some customers bring little handbags and sweep every unused thing into them. Others use oiled paper and wrap up the fag end of a steak or part of a bird, and others, again make neat little parcels of their left-over bread and butter. It was only yesterday that I saw one young woman at lunch bring a small bottle out of her pocket and pour into it the milk she had not used in her tea.

"Of course I can't object to the practice, and I don't know that I would if I could. The customer pays for what he is served with, and it doesn't matter much to me whether it is eaten here at my tables or taken home by my customers to be eaten at theirs. Indirectly, of course, it affects me, because it means that there is a great and prevailing spirit of economy abroad, and if the saved scraps from breakfast here can be made do duty for or help out a lunch, why, naturally, I or some other resturant man loses the profit on that lunch. Any way, it's a phrase of the influence of hard times that I haven't seen noticed or commented upon."

The Czar and Insular Vanity.

It is etiquette to predicate every virtue in the occupant of a throne on his accession to it. What the present emperor of Russia may be, and still more what he will become under the baneful influence of irresponsible power, no one knows. It has, of course, been taken for granted that he is one of the wisest and best of human beings, and will ever become still wiser and still better each year that he lives. This is mere courtly phraseology. He probably is not better or worse than any other Russian for his position is due to mere blind accident. But what has particularly amused me in the laudatory lucubrations respecting him in which our press has indulged is that it is deemed proof positive of his fitness for the post of emperor of Russia that he should act not by the advice of his own Ministers but by that of the Prince of Wales, and that he should not so much look to the interests of his own country as to those of ours. There is an insular vanity in all this which is only equalled by the lectures that our press has been addressing to him under the impression that he will read, mark, learn and inwardly digest them.—London Truth.

The Gallant Lilliputians.

In the middle ages the court jesters were dwarfs, but history relates that, though they made others laugh they generally were cloudy-minded little men with sore hearts who could vie with giants in grumbling. It is not so with the merry Lilliputians, the petit actors, who please their audiences and yet retain enough exuberance of spirits to disport themselves occasionally for their own small personal enjoyment.

For instance, those tiny gentlemen, Ebert and Rink, perpetrated a refreshing joke recently. They were both in a Broadway car, occupying adjoining seats. Soon the car filled. A lady got in and had to stand. Seeing this, Ebert jumped up and politely offered his place. But the lady was a fine—a very fine woman. She looked at the homœopathic quantum of seating accommodation which had amply sufficed for the gentleman of reduced inches, crimsoned and remained standing. Instantly alive to the situation of Affairs, Zink, too, sprang up with:

"Ach! Madame taghque (take) boose our seats!"

The laughter delayed the car some seconds and the conductors was fined. He says, though, that the joke was worth the money!—Truth.

NO SUCH THING AS OLD AGE

To those who use South American Nervine

A Lady of 80 Years Permanently Cured by this Wonderful Medicine.

Three Doctors said "Old Age was Her Complaint" and Gave Her Up—Three Bottles of Nervine Gave Relief—Twelve Bottles Cured Absolutely.

MRS. JOHN DINWOODY, Flesherton, Ont.

Wordsworth speaks of "An old age serene and bright, and lovely as a Lapland night." And elsewhere this same writer talks of "An old age, beautiful and free." These are conditions that come to the man or woman, though their years may border close on to a century, when in the enjoyment of good health. In fact it is difficult to think of some of the old men and women on the stage of life to-day as old people, there seems to be such a perennial youthfulness about their every movement and act.

Does someone tell us that cases like this must be the exception and not the rule with those who have approached to or gone beyond the allotted three score years and ten? Not so, if they have become acquainted with the virtues contained in South American Nervine. Before us in this sketch is the picture of Mrs. John Dinwoody, of Flesherton, Ont., a resident of that town for forty years. No person in the town and country side around is perhaps better known than this lady, and none more highly esteemed. Three years ago it was her sad lot to loose a daughter who had been all the world to her. The shock sustained by this event completely broke up the system of Mrs. Dinwoody. She supposed her end had come. She lingered for one year with three doctors, and they gave her case up, saying that it was one of old age and no one, nor any medicine could do her good. Made of the kind of stuff that gives beauty to age at any time she did not despair. She was influenced to try Nervine. She took three bottles, and this was sufficient to show her that her end was not yet. From these she obtained relief. She persevered, and in all took twelve bottles of the medicine, with the result that she is to-day completely cured of that breaking-up of the system that threatened her three years ago.

There is nothing wonderful in the fact that Mrs. Dinwoody would proclaim to the thousands of old people throughout this broad land, that with old age does not necessarily come decline, decrepitude and disease. Why should we not live into the eighties and nineties, and cross the border of the century?

South American Nervine, whether the person be young or old, gets at the nerve centers, and when they are kept in proper condition the system is as well able to withstand disease at eighty as at thirty. With this prospect in view who would not live to an old age and enjoy the pleasures of family, friends and society, and take a part in watching the marvelous progress and developments of these closing days of a wonderful century, which marks as not the least of its wonderful discoveries, the discovery of South American Nervine.

The Deer of Scotland.

Of the four-footed guests the largest are the deer. The roebuck is the only member of the family in a truly wild condition. His small size, nimbleness and ungregarious habits enable him to wander from one place to another with a measure of impunity. In wooded valleys and within reach of the hills he seems to be well able to look after himself. He abounds in the northern counties—in Perthshire, the highland districts of Aberdeenshire and Inverness, and is thinly scattered over the central valley.

The red deer or stag has by no means the same claim to be regarded as a wild animal as in the days when the Commons King made his memorable excursion through the Trossachs. He is now cooped up in savage fastnesses, with mountain fences 8,000 feet high, behind which he only wanders in an exceptionally hard winter. The "forests" with which I am acquainted would neither maintain a crofter nor even reimburse a sheep farmer, and are simply incapable of being put to any other use.

In the middle of the day the deer are seldom to be seen, except by a practical eye, as they are then at rest and lying quietly among the rough heath, or it may be in the shadow of some birch corpse. In the early morning or on the approach of evening they feed downward toward the grassy sides of the rivers and burns. They detect the intruding botanist or geologist long before they see him, and by their actions apprise the keeper that a trespasser is at hand. The fallow deer is still further from the true feral condition and can only be regarded as an ornamental domestic animal kept to give picturesqueness to the park around the mansion. His grass is provided and his water is sure.—Gentleman's Magazine.

Fallacies of Heredity.

Heredity is in the air, says everybody. No doubt of that; but what is heredity?

Most people mean by it little more than the obvious truism that the offspring, on the whole, tends to resemble the parents. Heredity, in that sense, was known before Noah. The real question is, how far does it tend to resemble them? What are the conditions and limitations of the resemblance? How many special features and characteristics of each parent may we expect to see reproduced in the young, and how many may we expect to find neutralized or unrepresented. We must clear the subject of misconceptions; and this is what not even systematic writers, like Galton and Ribot, have hitherto done. We must limit the field of investigation; we must propose for ourselves certain definite questions, and seek to find a definite answer for them.

Our enquiry relates mainly to what may be regarded as individual or personal characteristics, for everybody admits that specific characteristics, and even the characteristics of well-marked varieties within the same species, are almost always normally transmitted. Bulldogs produce bulldogs and terriers terriers. The child of two negroes is always a negro: Japanese parents never beget a European infant. It is only when we come to minor and comparatively personal differences that doubt begins. Where we may reasonably expect to see parental traits reproduced in the offspring, and where to find individual or idiosyncratic differences?

Hitherto, for the most part, enquiry into heredity has begun at the wrong end—with the most complex instead of the most simple phenomena; with the mental instead of the physical; with the morbid instead of the normal and natural. Just as pathology preceded physiology, and just as evolving medicine was ready to prescribe for cancer or phthisis before it knew anything of the circulation of the blood or the digestive process; so, in the study of heredity, enquirers have begun with hereditary genius and hereditary madness, instead of beginning with color of hair and eyes, stature, shape of features, observations, like Bertillon's, on anthropometrical peculiarities. Now, clearly, genius and madness are among the most complex phenomena which the investigator can attack. The psychological is more elusive than the anatomical or the physiological. What we want first is a clear conception of the nature and limits of physical heredity. That will give us a basis from which we can afterwards attack the more difficult problems of psychological heredity.

Hitherto, the chief question has always been, "How is it that this, that, or the other great man has not sons who are equally great with him? Why is not the greatness or the genius inherited?" The very form the question takes shows how far we still are from a scientific standpoint in these matters. For the real difficulty is not why such special combinations of qualities as constitute genius are not transmitted to children, but why they are not shared by brothers and sisters. The great man's children are his offspring by a mother who is often presumably a little less great; and his greatness is the result of an exceptionally delicate balance of qualities. Is it likely, then, that such a balance will survive side by side with the very different qualities of the particular woman he has happened to marry? His brothers and sisters, however, are the product of the self-same father and mother: nothing shows better the delicate nature of the organic balance which produces genius than the fact that these brothers and sisters, though they may greatly resemble the genius in many other respects, both physical and mental, seldom share those peculiar and distinctive traits which make a genius of him. The difference is idiosyncracy, and the idiosyncratic peculiarities of brothers and sisters are the subject matter out of which in the end we must frame a true theory of heredity, human or animal.—London Saturday Review.

What John Wanamaker, the Most Heavily Insured man in America, Says:

(INTERVIEW WITH JOHN WANAMAKER.)

It is very generally known that Ex-Postmaster General John Wanamaker, of Philadelphia, carries the largest amount of Life Insurance of any man in the United States. A representative of the press recently interviewed this gentleman while he was travelling with the Presidential party, and this interview will be found, we believe, of general interest:—

"You are said to be the most heavily insured man in the country, Mr. Wanamaker," remarked the press representative.

"How did you come to think of that?" he said with a smile. "You are not looking for any disaster under such excellent management as our friend Boyd is giving this train and party?"

"No," I replied. "A newspaper friend in San Francisco, who had heard the report, wanted me to ask you if it was true, and if so, what your business reasons are for it?"

"Well," he modestly answered, "I have heard it stated that I am the most heavily insured man in the country. I don't know about that. The amount of my policies is $1,550,000, and the value, with the accumulations since the policies were taken out, is about two millions of dollars."

"In what class of companies are your policies?"

"They are all in stock and mutual companies, and none of them in what are known as assessment or instalment companies."

"Are they full life term policies or on what is termed the 'tontine' plan?"

"I have generally taken ten and fifteen payment policies and very few life policies. With about all good companies a contract can now be made whereby there is no risk of losing a policy after two years' premiums have been paid. If the party insured chooses to withdraw he can get a paid-up policy. Indeed, I understand that some companies have forms whereby the insurer can after one year, if desired, withdraw and receive a paid-up policy. There is practically little risk any more, in insuring in the old companies."

"Perhaps you would be willing to tell me how you came to insure so heavily?"

"I thought the matter out, and convinced myself that it was a good business venture. Besides, it seemed to me that I might, perhaps, give away more money in lifetime if there was a fixed certainty of putting it back into my estate by Life Insurance. I conceive that the best way for a man to carry on benevolence is not to leave it to be done through his will, but to do it in his lifetime, and I felt that Life Insurance would give me more freedom in carrying out some plans I have, and which I would be glad to see completed before I leave this world. If you want to ascertain what the circumstances were in placing the Life Insurance, I must go further in my answers and say that I should not have gone so far in my Life Insurance but for the skill of the agent who tackled me to insure to a greater extent than I would otherwise have done. He was an old friend who had been in mercantile business and who knew how to present Life Insurance without boring me. I feel to-day sincerely grateful to the man who followed me so discreetly with information about companies, and who kept the subject before me until I settled the question."

"When did you begin taking Life Insurance policies?"

"My first policy was taken when I was twenty-one."

"Do you consider it a good thing for a man of small means?"

"I certainly do. Most young men spend more for cigars during the year than the annual cost of a $2,500 policy in a good company. If they must have the cigars they might divide between cigars and Life Insurance and carry at least a $1,000 policy. I think every young man, before he is married, ought to try to get at least a $1,000 policy."

"Among how many companies are your policies divided, and where are they located?"

"About forty companies. Most of them are located in the East. A few are in the West and a few in Canada."

"Do you recommend Life Insurance to others, especially those in whom you feel a personal interest?"

"I can perhaps answer that best by saying that I presented a few years ago a $1,000 policy, paid up for one year, to every insurable head of family in my employ. Many of the prudent men who received them not only kept them but added to them, and I have the satisfaction of knowing that in not a few cases those policies have been the means of saving worthy families from want."

It will doubtless be of interest to our readers to know that John Wanamaker carries a large policy in the Canada Life Insurance Company, thus evincing his confidence in the soundness of Canada's oldest and largest Company. During the last few years quite a number of American capitalists have been convinced of the SUPERIOR MERITS OF THE CANADA LIFE, and have accordingly placed their insurance therein, in preference to any other company.

The Canada Life is now being recognized in the states of Michigan, Minnesota and Ohio as the Company that gives the best results for the least premium.

Saints cut only a small figure in the geographical names of New England. They are abundant upon the maps of most of the southern states saves Virginia and the Carolinas and they are to be found scattered over the rest of the country in three or four different languages. It might be a little harder to find in any calander the St. Jones of Delaware, the name of a small creek familiar to the river and harbor bills if not to commerce.

A New York collector owns a Louis XIV. watch that is said to have once belonged to the Empress Josephine. While she lived at Malmaison she presented it to Abbe Blanchard, and he in turn gave it to his niece, Marie Fectig, of Strassburg. This watch, which was purchased at the Fectig sale in Strassburg in 1879, occupies the center of a black enamel and gold cross and is decorated with the figure of a kneeling angel and heads of saints.

A handy little device has been brought out for preventing the waste of current that often goes on in the electric lighting of hotels and large buildings. In hotel bedrooms, cellars and other places where persons are constantly passing in and out and requiring light for only short periods it not infrequently happens that the light is switched on and left burning, sometimes for many hours, to no purpose. The apparatus which makes such waste impossible is a small piece of clockwork, by means of which an incandescent lamp is automatically switched off in half an hour, an hour, or any prearranged time. It can be included in any ordinary circuit instead of the switch, and at very moderate cost.

As the constellations rise in the sky the Indian refers to his gourd and finds out the hour. By turning the gourd around he can tell the order in which the constellations may be expected to appear. The hill people of Assam reckon time and distance by the number of quids of betelnuts chewed. Impoverished land is now "vaccinated" on the continent of Europe. It is generally known that land is enriched by planting it occasionally with a leguminous crop like clover or lucerne, the roots of which absord more nitrogen than they take from the ground. Where the nitrogen come from was a problem. Messrs. Hellriegel and Willfarth have discovered that the absorption is due to minute organism, a sort of disease in the roots, which, when the supply of nitrogen in the soil begins to fail, appear as an evergreen, draw nitrogen from the air and so enrich the soil again. Experiment have been made in France to hasten the growth of disease by sprinkling the fields with soil in which tuberculous crops have been grown or with water in which they have been steeped. In Prussia a field was sown with lupins, one part of it was then treated in the ordinary way, the other inoculated from an old lupin crop; the yield in the latter part was five and a half times as great as in the other.

RE-OPENING OF THE C. N. & P. RAILWAY.

The Grand Trunk Desirous of Seeing the Harwood Branch Again Utilised.

General Superintendent Stephenson, of the G. T. Ry, has notified the agent of the C. N. & P. Ry., Mr. Robert Buck, Cobourg, that the company is desirous of having the Harwood portion of the road opened up this coming summer. It is intended to provide first-class accommodation in the way of trains, two trips per day to be made each way running in connection with the P. S. & N Co's steamer on Rice Lake, for the benefit of the passengers and pleasure seekers. Mr. Buck highly recommends the re-opening of this line, as it is understood that the American Canoe Association meet will be held at "Lee's" Point, Rice Lake, this coming summer. Trains will begin running regularly about the 1st of June and continue till late in the fall. This arrangement will be most favourable to the citizens of Port Hope, Cobourg and Peterborough and all American visitors. The large number of our American visitors, who are desirous of spending a fortnight or so in Canada's prettiest inland lakes and waters, where the gamiest fish are most bountiful, will be greatly convenienced by the re-opening of the line. Various picnics will be held during the summer months at Jubilee and other points on the lake, from Peterborough and intermediate landing stages along the various rivers entering the lake.—Com.

INHUMAN PARENTS.

Henderson and His Wife Sent to Jail for Ill-Treating Their Child.

Hepworth, March 26.—The trial of L. W. Henderson and wife was concluded yesterday. The magistrate, in passing sentence, addressed the prisoners in most cutting terms, pointing out the inhuman treatment they had been administering to the child they should have protected, and as no extenuating circumstances could be brought forward to justify them in their brutality they were each sentenced to pay a fine of $50 and costs and serve three months in the common jail. The prisoners were taken to Walkerton on the afternoon train.

Wonders In Penmanship.

The renowned Dr. Heylin in his "Life of King Charles" relates the following extraordinary story of the artistic ability of an old time knight of the pen: "In the time of the reign of Queen Elizabeth one Royer wrote the Ten Commandments, the Creed, the Pater Noster, the queen's name and the year of our Lord within a space that could be covered with a penny. He gave her majesty a pair of spectacles of his own artificial making, that by the help thereof she did plainly and distinctly discern every letter."—St. Louis Republic.

The Solution.

"Bridget, what was that loud noise I heard in your room last night? Did something fall?"

"Not that I knows on, ma'am. Maybe it's meself ye heard fall asleep. Ye knows I'm a heavy sleeper."—Truth.

Women and Actors.

Capoul, the French tenor, was the recipient of volumes of letters from lady admirers both here and in Paris. On the English stage, besides Mr. Irving, Mr. Alexander, Mr. Hare and Mr. Bancroft have been overwhelmed with a goodly number. But I am told by one who knows that no actor living ever received such a number of admiring epistles from the fairer sex as the late John Clayton.

Among actresses Mrs. Bancroft has perhaps been treated to the kindliest attentions. Mrs. John Wood, too, on the first or last night of her play had always her dressing room converted into a perfect bower of flowers, and little gifts of jewelry literally poured in upon her. There was one bangle with the inscription "Bless your art." Whether it was Mrs. Woods' heart or art that was blessed remains a riddle to this day.—London Gentlewoman.

THE DIAMOND SWINDLER.

Selects the Name of Hutton From a Large Stock—Remanded till Thursday.

Toronto, March 26.—In the police court yesterday morning the diamond swindler, who was arrested by Detective Slemin at St. Marys, was arraigned on the charge of receiving a quantity of diamonds from the firm of P. W. Ellis & Co. by fraud and under false pretences. He was indicted under the names of Smyth, alias Jackson, alias Miller, alias Coleman, alias Hutton, and in answer to a question from the Colonel as to which name he would rather have, he said Hutton. The prisoner's counsel at this moment came into court, and the prisoner asked for a chance to consult with him before pleading or electing. The case was then adjourned until Thursday next by consent of both parties.

Mr. Johnson said that there was $157 on the prisoner when he was arrested, and, as the wife and children were here penniless, and he had no money for his defence, the lawyer asked that this sum be handed over to the prisoner. The crown objected to this course, producing a notice from a number of chiefs of police in southern cities, asking for his arrest, and specifying the number of crimes. Col. Denison decided, however, that half of this sum be handed over to Mr. Johnston, the prisoner consenting to this being done.

The photograph attached to the communication from the chiefs of police of Atlanta, Macon, Augusta, and Savannah leaves no doubt as to the identity of the man in custody. The circular states he has operated in different parts of the southern country, and is a fugitive from justice for similar offences committed in Tuskahoma, Indian Territory, and Waelder, Texas. Among the goods specified are nineteen diamond rings, three vest chains, four gold watches, three diamond ear rings, three gold lockets, and numerous other articles of diamond jewellery.

Hamilton Was Too Slow.

Hamilton, March 26.—An exceedingly bitter feeling prevails here over the jewellery swindle which was unearthed on Saturday and the failure of the Hamilton police to land the prisoner here. Hamilton had the information four hours before Toronto, and had 40 miles less to travel, but the Toronto detectives were active while the Hamilton chief and detective inspector were waiting for some one else to act. The result was that the Toronto detective got the big game after the Hamilton jewellers had worked up a sure case. The recent changes in the police department here have resulted apparently in want of confidence among the detectives, for not one of the old detectives knew what the chief and the new detective inspector were doing in the case.

WYCLIFFE COLLEGE.

Archbishop Lewis Disagrees with a Great Deal of Its Teaching.

Kingston, March 26.—Yesterday being the thirty-third anniversary of the consecration of Archbishop Lewis as bishop, he was presented with an address signed by the clergy of the Diocese of Ontario. In the address reference was made to the Wycliffe College difficulty. His Grace in his reply said: "It may be well to make plain to you my attitude towards Wycliffe College. Up to the present time I have never made any public statement on the subject, nor exhibited the least hostility to the college, though I never viewed its establishment with favor. Ever since I could reason on such subjects I disliked the multiplication of small theological seminaries. I believe that they beget narrowness, which ends in bigotry. This is inevitable when young men of a certain theological stripe are hived together in order to be moulded to order by professors as narrow as themselves. The policy of the first bishops of Canada, like Bishops Mountain and Strachan, was to concentrate the strength of the church on the establishment of one or two great universities where theological students should be educated in the same buildings with students of arts, as in the great universities in England and Ireland. I have been identified with Trinity College from the day of its foundation. I know its full history. I have fought its battles, and by virtue of seniority of consecration am now the chairman of its corporation. Is it not, then, too much to ask of even archiepiscopal good nature that I should view with equal esteem and favor a college intended to spring into popularity out of the ruins of Trinity College? But this is not the only ground for my dislike to Wycliffe College. I seriously object to some of the text books used there, notably, and as a specimen, Hatch's Bampton Lectures, a book characterized by my dear friend the late Bishop of Lincoln in my hearing as a gross perversion of the objects sought to be attained by the founder of these lectures, the Rev. John Bampton. I also object to it as an authorized book of reference for candidates for holy orders. Further, I disagree with a great deal of the theological teaching given in Wycliffe College. I give as an illustration the following passages taken from the calender of the college. Among the distinctive principles of this college is an historic episcopacy traceable to apostolic direction as conducive to the well-being, but not necessary to the being of the church? This I believe to be a fiction without a particle of support from the New Testament, primitive antiquity, or the Book of Common Prayer."

ON THEIR WAY TO OTTAWA.

Newfoundland Names the Delegates Who Will Discuss Federation With Canada.

St. John's, Nfld., March 26.—The ministerial delegation to Ottawa to discuss with the Canadian Government the terms of confederation was appointed by the Government yesterday. Robert Bond, George H. Emerson, Q.C.; Edward P. Morris and William H. Harwood were the delegates named. They are thoroughly representative of all classes and creeds and have the confidence of the country. They leave here to-night by steamer.

Trade is reviving here and the prospects are good for an average seal fishery. Sir William Whiteway is still seriously ill, but his physicians are hopeful of his recovery.

Where Did You Get That HAT?
Give that old "Back Number" a Resting Place, and buy one of the "Latest" Spring Styles From
GOUGH BROS.

Don't hunt for anything wrong in them. There's nothing there. The price has nothing to do with the quality. The man with $2 can command as good a Hat from GOUGH'S as $3.00 can command elsewhere.

Our position is a little peculiar We don't have to live off Hats alone. We're not bound to any traditional notions of big profits. The difference which makes it so is—we buy right direct from the makers. That's why we've got such a grip on

The Best Hat Trade of Peterborough.

You were never made for the Hat you know. The Hat was made for you. If you like to be abreast with the times, replace that old head block with one of our Leaders for 1895, bought from the best factories of England and America. Our Hats are ALL NEW. Latest in shapes and colour; soft and stiff. Qualities are grandly generous—scarcely a sort that you'll find missing—because we have the biggest Hat Store within miles of Peterborough.

Stylish Hats for Stylish Dressers,
In Men's, Youth's and Boy's Sizes.

Selling Hats alongside of Clothing and Boots and Shoes cuts down expenses and makes prices less. That's the plain fact of the matter. Can you catch on?

Our ONE DOLLAR HAT is in keeping with good quality. Our $1.25 and $1.50 Hats are almost unbelievable—but the bargain is in them—while our $2.00, $2.50 and $3.00 Hats are something mystifying for finish, Trimming workmanship and style. PRICE draws, and when hitched up with our popular team—QUALITY and STYLE—makes a force that irresistibly draws into our stores the bulk of Peterborough patronage. You need a decent Hat—you need it now—don't spoil your credit by a seedy top-piece.

OBITUARY.

Death of Mr. Nicholls.

We clip the following from the Kidderminster, Eng., Shuttle. The deceased gentleman was the eldest brother of the late W. C. Nicholls, McDonell street, Peterborough, and uncle of the Misses Nicholls. "Bewdley has lost another of its oldest and most respected inhabitants, Mr. John Nicholls, whose long and useful life of 92½ years came to an end on Tuesday. The deceased gentleman belonged to a Bristol family, where his ancesters resided for many generations. He came to Bewdley in 1823 and retired from business early. He took a deep interest in all matters that concerned the town; and by his kindly spirit and gentlemanly bearing won for himself the esteem of all who knew him. Three times he occupied the position of Mayor and for many years was a magistrate of the ancient borough, dealing out justice in an impartial manner. His once familiar form has not often been seen of late, but his general health remained good; and he retained the use of his faculties up to the last. During his unusually long connection with the Wesleyan church, he filled all the offices he could hold, discharging the various duties satisfactorily, and with great advantage to the church he loved so well, and for which he laboured so nobly. His personal friends were numerous and the respect in which he was held was evidenced by the large company that gathered at the funeral. The business establishments were partially closed during the time of the funeral and the blinds of private houses were also drawn."

ILLEGAL DEER KILLING.

The Bancroft Times says: "Deer hunters can sometimes be mean, and a peculiar instances of it came under our notice lately. A hunter a few miles west of our town, had the good fortune to succeed in killing a deer, but while gone for assistance to take it home, a rival, who had been watching, lugged it off; and the fun of it is, that neither of them dare squeal on the other, as it was out of season and both are liable to a fine."

It is to be hoped that both the offenders will be punished as they deserve—the one for killing the deer out of season; the other, under the game law, for being in possession of game out of season and under the criminal law, for stealing the deer from the people, to whom it had been forfeited by its slaughter during close season.

THE GENUINE

Pratt's Astral Lamp Oil

May now be procured by the householders of Toronto and Ontario from reliable dealers.

Inasmuch as what is really Canadian Oil is being sold by some dealers as genuine American, and many housekeepers complain that American Oil is not as good as formerly, we have therefore made arrangements to import the genuine American Pratt's Astral Oil.

This Oil is not merely a fancy brand, gotten up by a local dealer to boom his goods, but is a Special Oil made by the STANDARD OIL CO. of NEW YORK, and sold by them throughout the world under this brand.

For more than 30 years it has been acknowledged as the best burning Oil in the world.

It gives a brilliant, soft, steady light, with no smell, no smoke and no explosions.

If your dealer does not keep this Oil, telegraph us, or send a card to us at 26 Front St. East, Toronto, and we will inform you where you can get it, or will send a dealer to supply you.

To be certain that you are receiving the genuine article see that the barrel from which the oil is drawn bears the Pratt's Astral Label—none genuine without it.

VERDICT BY 10 JURORS

Hon. Mr. Hardy's Bill Receives Its Third Reading.

AN ELECTRIC RAILWAY ACT

Toronto, March 27.—The knowing ones say that the session of the Local Legislature will be concluded by Easter. The Government are hurrying through their business. Yesterday saw several important Government measures rushed through the House. If the new members do not catch on, their private bills will not receive more than a second reading.

Hon. Mr. Hardy in committee of the whole House moved the adoption of his bill to make it legal in civil cases for ten of the twelve jurors to render a verdict.

Mr. Whitney objected to the passage of the bill. He said that he could not see why the Government should propose any change in the present jury system, but having done so he could not see why they should stop at a verdict by ten jurors. Why not make it nine, eight, seven, or even six. He was prepared to go the length of abolishing the jury altogether in civil cases.

Hon. Mr. Hardy said that popular opinion was against the abolition of the jury system in civil cases and while he believed that in the far distant future all juries might be abolished, he thought that the time had not yet arrived. The bill passed the committee and will become law on August 1 next.

High School Pupils' Fees.

Mr. Biggar introduced a bill to amend the High Schools Act of 1891. The object of the bill is to compel county councils to contribute to the cost of maintenance of pupils from their counties who attend high schools situated in cities, towns or villages in adjoining counties.

New Laws Passed.

These bills were read a third time and only await the signature of the Lieutenant-Governor to become law:

Respecting dower in mortgaged and other property—The Attorney-General.

Respecting convictions under municipal by-laws—The Attorney-General.

To confirm by-law No. 755 of the city of Hamilton—Mr. Middleton.

To confirm by-law No. 293 of the village of Preston—Mr. Moore.

To incorporate the Advent Christian Church of Ontario in Canada—Mr. Bennett.

An Important Government Measure.

Hon. Mr. Bronson introduced an important Government measure yesterday entitled "The Electric Railway Act of 1895." The bill will stand in the same relation to electric roads that the Railway Act does to steam roads, and the provisions of the bill are based mainly upon the Railway Act. The bill contains some sweeping provisions framed in the public interest.

Directors cannot directly or indirectly be interested in any contract for construction, nor in the sale of any material or plant.

Plant and material must be paid for in cash, not in stock paid up, nor in bonds, at such prices as the directors see fit.

Stock must be sold at par for cash at the first or original issue. Subsequent issues must be sold by tender to the highest bidders, with suitable provision for keeping out parties hostile to the undertaking.

All contracts for construction, for leasing rolling stock, or electric power, must be at reasonable prices and subject to vote of two-thirds in value of shareholders.

Dividends are limited to eight per cent. on the money actually invested in capital stock.

Powers of expropriation are limited to such cases as may be approved by resolution of municipal councils certified by the county judge.

On all electric roads extending more than one mile beyond the limits of any city, town, or incorporated village, Sunday service is forbidden by the Act.

Municipal councils at the instance of interested parties may bring action to compel the observance of the provisions of the Act.

Mr. Stratton's Bicycle Bill.

Mr. Stratton introduced his bicycle bill yesterday and moved its first reading.

Haycock and Matheson War.

A sharp passage between Colonel Matheson and Mr. Haycock while the House was in committee of supply took place yesterday. Mr. Haycock complained that he could not hear what the members were saying while objecting to the estimates. Colonel Matheson took Mr. Haycock to task for having sat silent during the whole session during the discussions that have arisen over expenditure. He called upon him to state his position and asked him if he agreed with the sums that were being voted. Mr. Haycock said he had not come to the House to blow his own trumpet, nor take up the time of the members with bombast.

The Aqueduct Scheme.

In the Private Bills Committee yesterday the Georgian Bay Ship Canal and Aqueduct Company asked that they should be allowed to have the electors vote upon their scheme regardless of the wishes of the Toronto city council. The bill was strenuously opposed, but its support was so strong that the bill could not be killed, although the Government seemed against it. It was finally decided to leave the matter over for a week.

Public Accounts Committee.

At the examination into the public accounts yesterday, Mr. John Weins, newsman shoemaker at the Central Prison, was called upon to give evidence upon oath. He said that he had been in his present position for eighteen years and selected supplies at houses to which he was directed only. He was of opinion that leather could not be purchased to advantage by contract. He admitted that the prison officials and their families got their boots made at the prison price. Mr. Bidwell, burser of Mimico Asylum, said that he did not believe in the contract system, although under it most was purchased about two cents per pound cheaper than at present. He had never been instructed where to purchase supplies. He did not know the politics of the firms with whom he dealt.

DESTRUCTIVE FIRE AT MILWAUKEE.

The Public Library in Danger—The Loss will Exceed $1,000,000.

Milwaukee, March 27.—Fire broke out last night at Grand avenue and Fourth street. The building where the fire originated was occupied by the A. F. Tanner Furniture Company and Landauer & Company, dry goods, and is a total loss. Just east of Tanner's is the clothing house of Bailing & Whitbold, which is also destroyed. The flames jumped across Grand avenue and burned a row of wooden tenement houses so quickly that the firemen and policemen with difficulty saved the occupants.

The heat was so intense that the building of the Y. M. C. A., on the other side of Fourth street, caught fire, as did the cornice on the Library building. At 2 a.m. the fire was not under control.

The Y.M.C.A. building will probably be destroyed, though every effort is being made to save the structure, which is one of the finest in the city. There is hope now that the fire in the Library building will be extinguished before it reaches the books, of which there are 200,000. The total loss is now roughly estimated at $1,000,000. The five-storey brick building, which is owned by the shoe store called Bon Marche, on the south-west corner of Grand avenue and Fourth street, is gutted. The fire has caught the James Morgan building and the roof is burning. The fire is fanned by a breeze from the south-west and sparks are flying all over the lower part of the city.

Minister Muruaga's Successor.

Washington, March 27.—The State Department has received an official intimation of Senor Depuy de Lome's selection as Minister Muruaga's successors, in the form of an inquiry from the Spanish Government through the customary diplomatic channels as to whether the appointment of Senor de Lome would be agreeable to the United States. After a consultation with President Cleveland, Secretary Gresham promptly replied that the selection was entirely satisfactory to this Government and it is presumed in official circles here that the new minister's credentials will be issued at once and that following an authoritative announcement of his appointment he will at once come to Washington. It is not thought that pending his arrival much progress will be made towards a settlement of existing questions between this country and Spain.

San Domingo Satisfies France's Demands.

New York, March 27.—Advices from San Domingo state that political affairs there are quiet. The Government of President l'Heraux is strongly intrenched. The threatening trouble with France has passed over and amicable relations between the two countries are restored. The action of France in sending warships to the principal ports of San Domingo had a very ominous look. But now the cloud has passed away and the French war vessels have taken their departure and friendly relations between the two countries have been re-established. San Domingo has complied with the demand of France. It has paid to the French Government the claim of $90,000 and has executed the Dominican who killed the French consul.

Frederick Douglass' Estate.

Washington, March 27.—Mrs. Rosetta D. Sprague, eldest child of the late Frederick Douglass, has filed a petition in the Probate court in which she charges Mrs. Helen Douglass, her step-mother, and Lewis H. Douglass, her brother, with unlawfully retaining possession of her father's property, and requests the court to grant her letters testamentary upon the estate. She further asks that temporarily the court appoint a collector to take charge of the property and compel her brother and stepmother to make a full and complete discovery and delivery of the estate. This is thought to be the beginning of a bitter contest between members of the family over the division of the estate.

Uncle Sam and Hawaii.

Washington, March 27.—Minister Thurston, of Hawaii, said to-day: "I have received no information from my Government or from Mr. Gresham that my recall has been requested, and up to the present time there has been no change in my official relations with the state department. Whether my recall has been requested or not I do not know. In any event I shall not remain in Washington." There is said to be some possibility that Mr. Thurston may become Minister of Foreign Affairs in the Hawaiian Cabinet. In such an event it is highly probable that Minister Willis would be found persona non grata to the Hawaiian secretary.

Harriet Beecher Stowe.

Hartford, March 27.—The family of Harriet Beecher Stowe has been in receipt during the last forty-eight hours of numerous inquiries as to her condition, owing to the publication in New York of a sensational story that she had become violently insane and was to be confined in an asylum. The following card has been issued: "In accordance with the wishes of the family of Harriet Beecher Stowe, I desire to state as her physician that there is no change in her condition except that she is in better health than usual. She spends much of her time outdoors, visiting freely her friends and neighbors. (Signed) Edward Beecher Hodges, M.D."

HONOR TO BISMARCK

The Emperor Congratulates Him on the 80th Anniversary of His Birth

BISMARCK, LEBE HOCH, HURRAH

The Prince Presented With a Sword of Honor in the Name of the Army—The Kaiser Proposes the Health of His Old Chancellor—A Brilliant Affair.

Friedrichsruhe, March 27.—The sky yesterday morning was overcast and the temperature was several degrees lower. Hundreds of police in plain clothes and a squadron of hussars were detailed as field gendarmes in view of the visit of Emperor William. These guards surrounded the castle and commanded all the approaches to the place.

The Emperor and the Crown Prince started from Berlin for Friedrichsruhe at 8.30 o'clock yesterday morning. The Emperor alighted from his special train at Aumuehle, according to programme, and accompanied by his staff, rode to the Sehwarzenbeek cross-roads where he met the squadron of the Halberstadt Bismarck Cuirassiers and other troops. Placing himself at the head of the troops the Emperor led the way to Friedrichsruhe, where he met Prince Bismarck. The ex-Chancellor drove in an open carriage to the ground where the troops were stationed. He wore the helmet and uniform of the Halberstadt Cuirassiers. The Emperor led the troops to the front of the Friedrichsruhe manor house along the roadway leading to the forest house. No honors were paid to the Emperor but only to Prince Bismarck.

His Majesty then took up a position in front of the troops and delivered an address of congratulation to the Prince.

Bismarck's reply to Emperor William's address was as follows: "Will your Majesty permit me to lay at your feet my most humble thanks? My military position in relation to your Majesty will not allow me further to express my feelings."

In the name of the army the Emperor presented Prince Bismarck with a sword of honor of unique form, richly embossed and inlaid with gold. After this ceremony Emperor William, accompanied by Prince Bismarck, drove along the ranks of the troops, the Prince returning the salutes with evident pleasure.

When the inspection was over Prince Bismarck went to his house, stood on the terrace, from which he addressed the Reichstag and Landtag delegations and the Emperor led the Cuirassiers past the front of the house and back again.

His Majesty afterwards entered the Schloss and lunched with Prince Bismarck, the Cuirassiers mounting guard outside the building and the artillery remaining as a guard of honor on the parade ground. From that spot the artillery fired salutes when the signal was given that the Emperor had proposed the health of Prince Bismarck.

In proposing Prince Bismarck's health at the luncheon Emperor William said: "The 80th birthday of your serene Highness coincides with the 25th year of the German empire. The congratulations of the army rendered sacred the mighty struggle I was able to offer you before the troops. It was not to the great statesman but to the officers that my fervent wishes go out to-day. But we who joyfully and admiringly fete your Highness as a comrade and colleague, with heartfelt thanks to God who permitted you to complete the splendid work under the glorious old Kaiser, one and all join in the cry which all Germans from the snow-clad Alps to the dykes of the Baltic—where the breakers thunder and roar—will shout with glowing hearts 'Bismarck, Duke of Lauenburg, Lebe Hoch, Hurrah!'"

In reply to the Emperor's remarks Prince Bismarck said that he had only done his duty since 1862. Regarding the vote in the Reichstag the Prince said that he could only deplore the lack of national sentiment displayed by the members.

Berlin, March 27.—It is learned that the Kaiser, during the luncheon at Friedrichsruhe yesterday, referred to the political situation. He said he was firmly determined to dissolve the Reichstag and that Count Von Waldersee would become Chancellor shortly. His Majesty has ordered Count Von Waldersee to confer with Prince Bismarck regarding the line of policy to be followed.

The Empress sent to Prince Bismarck by her young son, the Crown Prince William, a basket of exquisite roses and a letter of congratulation. The Crown Prince handed the basket to Bismarck simply saying: "From Mamma."

The Emperor has appointed Dr. Schwenninger, Bismarck's physician, Privy Medical Councillor, and has conferred the order of the Prussian Crown of the Fourth Class upon Dr. Chrysander, the Prince's private secretary.

Daily Examiner.

WEDNESDAY, MARCH 27, 1895.

"Wherever you see a protected industry hit it," is said by the government organs to be the policy of the Opposition. Well, retorts the Witness, why not? What has been the policy of the protected industries for seventeen long years but "wherever you see a Canadian hit him." The farmers and workingmen have been hard hit by the protected industries, and if they hit back who can blame them? The hitting has been too long on one side. If they can get back at the monopolies, combines and trusts they intend doing so. During seventeen years the protected manufacturers have been running to Ottawa and getting the government to hit the consumers wherever a telling blow could be planted, and the government has always done so, and sometimes it has hit over and over again in the same place. It has hit the people of Canada for from twenty to sixty millions of dollars a year.

Newfoundland, Great Britain's oldest colony, is on the verge of some great change of her system of government. Things evidently cannot continue as they are. One way out of her trouble is union with Canada. She long ago rejected overtures to throw in her lot with the Dominion, but she is inclined to think better of it now. A ministerial delegation, representing all classes and creeds, and having the confidence of the country, has been appointed to go Ottawa to confer with the Dominion Government upon the terms of Confederation. Failing an agreement on Confederation, Newfoundland will probably have to face the idea of returning to the condition of a Crown Colony.

It seems incredible, but there is actually some prospect of Mr. Gladstone again assuming the British premiership. Rosebery is in the gripe of the grip, and neither Mr. Morley, or Sir William Harcourt, seem to feel themselves capable of taking the reins the present premier must, it seems, drop soon. The grand old man has returned from a visit to the Riviera, buoyant as a boy and chirpy as a sparrow, his rejuvenated personality extending the aire of the soft Mediterranean. What a surprise if the old man should be compelled to put on the harness again!

NORWOOD NEWS NOTES.

(From Our Own Correspondent.

Mr. Abe. Brown returned from British Columbia.

Miss Ethel Fraser is seriously ill. She is suffering from neuralgia of the muscles.

Mrs. Minaker, of Picton, is very ill at the residence of her daughter, Mrs. G. Patterson.

Mrs. B. Ackerman, of Peterborough, is at the residence of her mother-in-law, Mrs. Crowthers, who is very ill.

Miss Phœbe Wood, of Cornwall, is the guest of her sister, Mrs. Jas. Cumming.

The regular monthly meeting of the council takes place next Monday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. W. Cumming returned to Norwood last week, after a visit to Toronto and other places.

The sound of Finlay's whistle awakened our citizens about 4.30 o'clock Friday morning. A crowd soon gathered at the factory. A spark had fallen on the roof and before long there was a blaze. For a time it looked as if the fire might get beyond control, but in a short time the flames were extinguished. The damage done was slight, only a few shingles being burned.

A sad death occurred in Norwood early on Tuesday morning, when Gertie, only daughter of Mr. Jas. Ferguson, passed away at the early age of 18 years. Deceased took a severe cold some time ago but it was not thought dangerous. A few days ago it developed into inflammation of the lungs and death followed quickly. Gertie was well known and was popular among her many friends. The funeral takes place on Thursday. Much sympathy is felt for Mr. and Mrs. Ferguson in their deep bereavement.

Last Wednesday night about 10.30 the alarm of fire sounded and most of the villagers turned out. The block containing the Union Bank and the Register office had a narrow escape. A strong smell of smoke was noticed around the building early in the evening. Miss McGuire, who lives over the bank, thinking that something was wrong, had the alarm raised. Investigation showed that an ash box in the rear part of the bank had caught fire and burnt through the floor. The fire was put out without much damage being done.

DATES OF EASTER.

The earliest and latest dates upon which Easter can fall are March 22nd and April 25th. In 1886 Easter fall upon its latest date, which had not occurred before in the nineteenth century, and will not occur again until 1943. The last time Easter fell upon its earliest date, the 22nd of March, was in 1818, and will not happen again in this century or in the next.

For the benefit of those who would like to know upon what date Easter falls for the remaining years of this century, we give the following:—1896, April 5th; 1897, April 18th; 1898, April 10th; 1899, April 2nd; and 1900, April 15th.

Two Operations.

BOTH FAILURES.

A Case of Kidney Complaint that would Not Yield to Surgery or Medicine until B. B. B. was Tried.

Gentlemen,—After having undergone two operations for Kidney Complaint without securing the least relief, and hearing of some remarkable cures made by B. B. B. in our neighborhood, I decided to try it. I was given up by the doctors after the operations failed, and it was providential that I heard of B. B. B. After the use of six bottles I experienced so great relief and so great a change for the better that I felt the good effects would be lasting, as indeed they have been. The seventh bottle perfectly cured me, and I am now stronger and better than I ever was before. People who saw me before I took B. B. B. and who see me now can scarcely believe that I am the same person.

Y.P.S.C.E. NOTES.

COMMITTEE CONVENERS.

Young people's work in active; it is full of life and is full of life and action, and herein lies one of the secrets of success in the Endeavour movement. One of the principles laid down at the formation of the first society was to have every member a worker, hence the appointment of committees. We can therefore see that the successful society is the one where all the committees (be their name or office) are active and earnest in the work assigned to them. Now, no matter how zealous for work are the members of the committee, they naturally look to their convener to initiate work and plan for its fulfilment. That is really the work of the convener, it is not a successful committee where the real worker is the convener, even if the work is well done. You want to train your members to work, and work systematically.

We want to ask the conveners of all committees in the town and county how many times during your term of office have you met with your committee for consultation about the work, and especially for prayer? There is a great responsibility resting on the convener. Do not forget you are working for the advancement of Christ's kingdom. All the thought, enterprise and zeal you are capable of can be utilized in bringing out new ideas and getting your fellow members to work with you. Don't follow in old ruts unless they have been successfully tried. Don't forget to bring your report in every month, and be sure you don't fail to be much in prayer for the guidance of the Holy Spirit in your work.

THE LOCAL SOCIETIES.

On Wednesday evening, March 20th, the local executive met in the Y.M.C.A. parlours and nominated officers for the ensuing year. These officers will be formally elected at the annual business meeting of the local societies to be held in the Baptist church on the evening of Monday, May 6th.

Most of the local societies are holding their weekly meetings on Sunday night, owing to the evangelistic services now being held. On Sunday night St. Paul's society held their monthly consecration service. All formality was dispensed with. There was no roll call and no one presided. The meeting throughout was very impressive, nearly everyone present taking some part.

At the last regular meeting Mark street society elected the following officers for the ensuing term:

President—Mr. H. Beer.
1st Vice-President—Miss E. Smith.
2nd " —A Dawson.
Secretary—Miss M. Hamilton.
Treasurer—Mr. C. Crowe.
Convener Social Committee—Miss M. Ferguson.
Convener Prayer Committee—Mr. J. Reid.
Convener Visiting Committee—Miss K. Wand.
Convener Flower Committee—Miss N. Courtney.
Convener Lookout Committee—Mr. S. Taylor.
Convener Temperance Committee—Mr. W. Frith.
Convener Missionary Committee—Miss N. Wood.

WITH THE JUNIORS.

At the county convention to be held on Easter Monday, a portion of the time will be allotted to the junior rally. The juniors will take charge of this meeting and will conduct it through without the assistance of the seniors. Special hymns have been printed for this rally and all the societies are practising for the event. No doubt this will be the liveliest event of the day.

St. Paul's Junior Society is rapidly increasing in numbers. A large number was present on Sunday morning. The singing was bright and the interest displayed by the children was interesting.

The Charlotte street Methodist Juniors are flourishing under Miss Kennedy as superintendent. They held their meeting on Sunday afternoon, about forty children being present. The singing was lively and the meeting throughout attractive.

The county convention will be held in the George street Methodist church, on Easter Monday, April 15th. There will be three sessions, morning, afternoon and evening. An interesting programme is being prepared.

REV. R. JOHNSTON, B. D.

It is a well known fact to many Endeavourers, more especially the members of St. Paul's society, that Rev. R. Johnston, of Lindsay, had promised to give a temperance lecture in St. Paul's church. We are sorry to announce that it is impossible for him to come here, owing to the multiplicity of engagements before leaving for his new field of labour, London, Ont. He could have come last Friday, but it was thought best not to interfere in any way with the evangelistic services now going on.

HIS SATANIC MAJESTY AS AN ENDEAVOURER.

Surely this is news; but, nevertheless, 'tis true that at times he is very active, although he never signed the pledge, nor does what our Master would like to have him do. His duty is to hustle around and make some feel that they are not Christians. Others he makes feel that they cannot take any part in a meeting, while to some he makes them feel that they have the full responsibility of converting the world and gets them fretting because they do not know where to start. To those we want to speak, he first suggests a prayer committee, then the social and again the temperance, gets us all mixed up in the work of the different committees, makes us appear active and apparently enthusiastic workers in the Master's vineyard, all the time helping us away from the all important task of interesting ourselves in the bringing those near to us to a knowledge of Jesus Christ. He knows that we are vain, and that we have large ideas, and when we get to talking about the heathen he encourages us because we then are attracted from doing the personal work that should be done by each Endeavorer. If a young lady paid attention to more than one young man she would be considered a flirt in the eyes of the world. Now is not this intemperance in Endeavour work, flirting with God's work? Let us stop and consider this matter. Find out the work we are best fitted for and stick to it. We should know when to say no when pressed to do more than we can perform. Just as well as when any other allurement presents itself, "Be temperate in all things," this is the command, let us obey.

There is no reason why one should have a cough any length of time. All that is needed to allay soreness of the throat or to free the bronchial tubes from irritating mucous is Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. It is a wonderful cough-cure, and should be in every medicine-chest.

HAMILTON WILL BUILD A JAIL.

Ratepayers to be Asked to Sanction the Issue of Debentures for that Purpose.

Hamilton, March 27.—A by-law will be submitted to the ratepayers of the city shortly for permission to issue debentures for the sum of $60,000 for the erection of a new city jail. The present jail is controlled by Wentworth county council, and they demand 75 per cent. of the cost of maintaining it be paid by the city. The city council are of opinion that this amount is more than the city's fair share and believe that $1,600 a year can be saved to the city by owning their own jail. In this event the county will have a cumbersome institution on their hands for which they will have not much use.

A Valuable Discovery.

In reference to the discovery made by Thomas L. Willson, formerly of Hamilton, of acetyline gas, which it is believed will revolutionize the production of gas light, Manager Littlehales, of the Hamilton Gas Company, says as soon as the gas is in the market it will be introduced in Hamilton at a very cheap price. Mr. Littlehales saw an exhibition of acetyline given here by Mr. Willson some months ago before many prominent citizens and he believes it is the greatest discovery ever made in artificial lighting and of as far reaching an influence as was the discovery of the telephone in connection with electricity.

A Dilatory Official.

Open charges of incest have been made against a well-known colored man who has frequently figured in the police court. The case has been brought to the attention of the police authorities, but the county crown attorney has not taken action and is being severely condemned for his laxity in the affair. The girl is about 15 years of age and gave birth to a child by her father some weeks ago.

Miss Stonabough's Will.

Lawyer L. H. Patton filed in the Surrogate court the will of the late Miss M. L. Stonabaugh, of Ancaster, in which the testator bequeaths $1,695, some of which goes to missionary societies. The will is written upon an old slate with the side of the frame missing and one side of it so dusty that the writing on that portion is barely legible. Application to have the will probated will probably come before Judge Muir to-morrow.

THE HAWAIIAN EXILES.

The Government will Defend the Suit Against the Steamship Company.

Vancouver, March 27.—Some days ago a man named Houck, claiming to be a lawyer from Honolulu, arrived here and succeeded to interest himself in the cases of the three deported exiles, Mueller, Cranston and Johnstone. Saturday night Mr. Kenney, the Judge Advocate who presided at the recent court-martial in Honolulu, arrived here. When interviewed Mr. Kinney was very guarded in his statements, but it was ascertained that he had come here in connection with the suit instituted by the exiles against the Canadian-Australian steamship company, the exiles claiming $50,000 damages each. The Hawaiian Government had to give the steamship company a bond to indemnify them against any action that might be brought and the Government has accordingly decided to fight the suit. Mr. Kinney engaged E. P. Davis, Q.C., of this city, to fight the case and brought with him numerous documents relative to the expelled men. The Hawaiian Government claims that in the deportation they were acting within international law. Mr. Kinney left on Sunday and it is understood that he has gone to San Francisco.

Found Her Truant Husband.

Hamilton, March 27.—Mrs. Joseph Mittenthal and her 12-year-old son arrived in Hamilton from Rochester and with the aid of the authorities the woman was enabled to locate her husband, Joseph Mittenthal, who deserted his wife and five children seven years ago. Mittenthal is a picture-frame dealer, doing business at 64 York street. He says he is unable to support his wife and family, but the woman will invoke the aid of the law to compel him so do so. It is doubtful, however, if Mrs. Mittenthal can succeed in the Canadian courts, unless she takes up her residence here and becomes a Canadian.

KEENE.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

It is with heartfelt sorrow that we chronicle the demise of Mr. Anderson Graham, which sad event occurred on Friday morning last. The deceased was engaged doing his chores when he was suddenly seized with apoplexy and expired in his barn. He was 42 years of age, a kind neighbour and a loving father and husband. He leaves a wife and three small children, the youngest being born on the morning of his death. His remains was followed from the Methodist church on Sunday afternoon to the Keene cemetery, where his body was placed in its final resting place. A very solemn funeral sermon was delivered by the Rev. Mr. Howard. We extend our sympathy to the bereaved wife, family and relatives in their sudden loss, trusting that their loss is his gain.

In glancing over the columns of the Millbrook Reporter my attention was directed to an item concerning a hockey match played here a few weeks ago between the Millbrook and Keene clubs. It is not my desire to convey any offence to the writer of the article for probably he was wrongfully informed about the game, but I cannot refrain from refuting statements made in the article. The writer, in very dejected language, accuses the Keene boys of roughness and shinny while playing. Now, as I was an eye-witness of the game, I can vouch that the Millbrooks were as much if not more guilty of the above charge than the Keene boys. He also compares the Keene spectators to a howling, half civilised crowd. Well, modesty will not permit us to argue on that subject, but thank God a Keene crowd has honesty and civilization enough about them to give a truthful report of a game of hockey. Fault is found with the referee, umpire, light, in fact with everything in connection with Keene. I consider that the Millbrooks were well treated by the boys and citizens of Keene. They are undoubtedly kickers, but could not kick high enough on that occasion to kick the Keene boys out, as the result of the game proves. The correct result of the game was 6 to 4 in favour of Keene, not a tie as they try to claim. The Keene boys are hustlers to play hockey and don't you forget it.

AS TO THE EQUINOCTIALS.

Any great storm that may come during the rest of this month will be called the equinoctial storm. The disbelievers in equinoctial storms say there is no such thing. But the believers prove by the records that a big storm nearly always comes between the 10th and 30th of March and September. The disbelievers assert, as positively, that a big storm is pretty sure to come between the 10th and 30th of any other month.

A Search Warrant Unnecessary.

Concerning an article which appeared in the EXAMINER yesterday, relative to the seizure of certain goods at the station by the Chief of Police, on a search warrant, it appears that had the party aggrieved applied for such personal effects as she claimed, the articles would have been handed over without demur. This morning the articles in question were placed in her possession without the matter being brought up in the court at all. In fact a sewing machine, upon which she had no claim whatever, was given her when she merely expressed a wish for it. The household effects, etc., which were in the car have all been shipped to the west.

A Good Thing is Always Desirable.

So it is with the visits of Prof. Dorenwend to Peterborough. On his last visit he was so busy that many ladies and gentlemen were unable to be attended to. He is therefore returning to give all who desire it another opportunity of procuring his art goods for the head. Prof. Dorenwend is undoubtedly one of the leaders of his profession on this continent. His skill in arranging the coverings for the head of either lady or gentleman is well known. His goods are acknowledged to be perfect and in every way true to nature. They are the best protection to the head, besides giving a refined and youthful expression to the face. Call and examine these marvels of his art, and have them fitted in order to judge of the effect. Consult him about your hair; he will (free of charge) give you advice about the preservation of it. He will be at the Grand Central Hotel on Monday, 8th April. 5t

More Season.

At the Opera House to-night. The evening Mail of Halifax speaks of the show as follows: "A packed house greeted the genial Zera Semon at his opening at the Lyceum last evening. Owing to a severe cold Hatha Lawrence Semon was unable to appear, the doctor having advised that he should remain at home. The first part of the performance was magic by the professor and he opened up a box of new tricks, some of them most wonderfully and cleverly done. Next came ventriloquism by Zera in his best style. The shadowgraphs were an interesting feature of the entertainment, and the destruction of a Chinese pirate junk by a British man-of-war, with the national anthem given on the piano, set the house in a furore, though it has been seen here before. At the conclusion of the show over 100 presents were given away, including a gold watch, for which T. Fogarty held the ticket. The show continues all this week." dtf

A MAN WORTH THREE DOLLARS.

An Auctioneer Sold Himself for That Sum in Mattawa.

In last week's issue of the Belleville Sun there is a notice of the death of a citizen of that place, who is known to more than one person in Mattawa.

Mr. Keys was for several years a licensed auctioneer in Kingston, and on market days sold whatever was delivered to him for that purpose, on the market square. It happened one day that he could not get a bid on some goods he was selling—money was scarce and times were hard. At last he became excited and declared he could sell himself if he could sell nothing else. Accordingly he put himself up at auction and after much haggling and laughter, finally "knocked himself down" to a woman from Wolfe Island for the sum of $3. It was thought to be a good joke at the time. But it turned out to be a joke of another kind, when Mr. Keys found that the woman tendered her money and demanded her purchase. She claimed that the man was sold with his own full and free consent, and by a duly licensed auctioneer. So hot did she make it for him that he was compelled to fly from Kingston to escape her persecutions. He afterwards settled in Belleville, where he remained till his death as stated.—Mattawa Tribune.

Banquet at the Oriental.

The members of Excelsior Lodge, No. 289, of the Machinist's Union, banquetted Organizer Reid, of Stratford, on Monday night at the Oriental Hotel. Mr. Reid is out on an organising trip through the province, and some of the local members of the order becoming acquainted with the fact that he would be in town for the evening, made arrangements for giving him an impromptu reception. The evening passed off most pleasantly.

CLEGG, 427 George street.

Interesting Entertainment at the Opera House.

Zera Semon, the wonder worker, and his talented little boy Laurance, together with a troupe of specialists, gave a first-class entertainment in the opera house last night to a large audience, which greatly enjoyed the exhibition of marvellous sleight of hand tricks and the feats of ventriloquism which were performed. Master Laurance conducted a mystifying "black art" seance, which was interesting in the extreme, after which the other performers took a hand in rendering the performance the great success which it was. A great many who purchased tickets received prizes at the conclusion of the performance. Some very substantial gifts were made in the shape of glassware, china sets, toilet articles, dozen handkerchiefs, etc. Any present given was worth more that the price of admission. In addition to this everybody had a chance for the three principal prizes, which were won as follow:—French china tea set, 40 pieces, Charlie Cavanagh; complete chamber set, M. J. Dees; corset centre, Miss K. B. Mahoney. At the performance to-night a gold watch will be given away.

Prof. S. M. Early, of Toronto,

THE GEO. MATTHEWS CO'Y, (Ltd).

Dr. Clarke's Lecture on "Pure Air and Fresh Blood" at St. Luke's.

The last of the course of popular health lectures was given in St. Luke's school house Monday night, by Dr. Clarke, on "Pure Air and Fresh Blood." There was a fair attendance.

The lecturer commenced by describing the component parts of the air and of the blood, and showed how important the purity of the latter was that of the former. He then proceeded to speak of the impurities in the air, its moisture, bacteria, dust from the streets, or the dust inhaled by workers in mines or workshops.

In breathing the lungs gave off carbonic acid gas. Hence the extreme importance of ventilation in all churches, halls, schools, and above all, bedrooms. The importance of fresh air for consumption was being strongly urged in our day by medical men.

Statistics infallibly proved that those engaged in out-door pursuits were longer lived than those in warehouses, factories, mines, etc. Nevertheless, the mortality amongst the latter would be less if they were more careful to secure a good supply of fresh air after work, and if more attention were given to ventilation.

At the close of the lecture, a vote of thanks was moved by Mr. R. B. Rogers, seconded by Mr. H. T. Strickland, and in putting it to the meeting the Rector remarked that lectures of this kind were of real value, and were becoming more popular in our large cities every year. No attractions had been offered in the shape of music or singing at these lectures as it was the season of Lent, and considering this fact and the novelty of the experiment, the attendance, though not what might have been desired, was encouraging to future efforts another year. The vote was unanimously passed.

EVANGELISTIC SERVICES.

The meeting last evening in the George street Methodist church was well attended and was very interesting. Mr. Moore preached from the text, "And whosoever will let him take the water of life freely." The invitation was clearly brought out and all were urged to accept it.

The address was full of encouragement for the seeking sinner. The speaker dealt (1) with the oft-repeated scriptural invitation to come, assuring every needy sinner that there was a Saviour for him; (2) he showed that wherever there was a soul willing to be saved, there was a God willing and anxious to save; and (3) that the sinner's part in this work is to take or receive the Saviour offered in the Gospel. The points were aptly illustrated and pressed directly upon the consciences of the hearers and many expressed a desire to be saved and remained for the after-meeting to be spoken with.

The singing was very good, two of Mr. Whyte's solos being especially effective. A quiet, yet real and widespread work of grace is going on.

The afternoon meeting was full of encouragment and many took part in it.

The afternoon meeting to-day was held in the Murray street Baptist church. The evening service will be held in the George street Methodist church to which all are invited.

MILLBROOK

From Our Own Correspondent.

Miss M. Anderson and Miss Pierce of Norwood, are visiting at Mr. S. W. Clark's.

Mr. Andrew Dean died at his residence, King street, on Friday last. The deceased gentleman was 84 years of age, and leaves three daughters and two sons to mourn his loss.

Mr. Geo. Duncan has moved his barber shop to the store recently occupied by Mr. John Steel, jeweler.

The annual meeting of the Millbrook Cricket Club will be held in the council chamber on Friday, April 5th.

Mr. Geo. Dean, of Agincourt, was in town last week attending the funeral of his grandfather.

The East Durham Licensed Commissioners met in Port Hope last Saturday and recommended the granting of only two licenses for Millbrook. This will be a disappointment to some as it was thought that four would be granted.

A meeting of the Millbrook Lacrosse Club will be held in the band hall on Wednesday evening April 3rd, for the purpose of organizing for the coming season.

Two rinks of Cobourg curlers came up to Millbrook last Wednesday and were defeated by the local men by sixteen shots. Millbrook have played fifteen matches this season, won ten and lost five. Not a bad record.

Geo. McHugh, the coming representative for the Dominion Government, is preparing for the campaign, as in the time of peace is the time to prepare for war.

T. A. MacPherson, reeve, dwidding to retire from business, has resigned the reeveship. The election for a reeve is to take place on April 1st, 1895.

Robt. Cardwell, son of W. Cardwell, has removed to Toronto to take partnership in a business on Queen street east, Toronto. He leaves here with the best wishes for his success in every respect.

The Presbyterians are almost unanimous on giving the Rev. Mr. Craigg a call from Quebec.

Omemee has had no fires or attempts at incendarism and altogether the town is improving in every respect—morally.

A POSSIBLE CANDIDATE.

A Patron Nomination May Possibly be Offered to Mr. Coley, of Somerset, Man.

Somerset, Man., March 27th.—The item which appeared in several Eastern papers to the effect that Mr. Arthur Coley, a well-known farmer of this place, was asked to accept the Patron nomination for the coming election, but was forced to decline through ill-health, is without foundation. It is true that early in 1894 Mr. Coley was severely afflicted with Bright's Disease, but was enabled to restore himself to health by a course of Dodd's Kidney Pills, and is equal to any amount of hard work, even to the extant of fighting the constituency should the nomination be offered him. He speaks in the highest terms of the remedy which cured him.

THE RATEPAYER'S ASSOCIATION.

A Meeting Held Last Night—Pavement Material Considered—Other Matters Mentioned.

A meeting of the Ratepayer's Association was held last night. There were present Messrs. P. McNamara, Peter Hamilton, Edg. Pearce, D. W. Dumble and T. E. Bradburn. President, in the chair.

A communications was received from W. G. Morrow, tendering his resignation as secretary-treasurer of the Association.—Received.

PAVEMENT MATERIAL.

Several communications were received respecting the relative cost of materials for pavements:

From the town clerk, Woodstock, stating that the cost per square foot of Woodstock's silica-barytic pavement was 14 cents. ($1.26 per square yard) guaranteed 10 years. The walk has given satisfaction.

From the city clerk of Ottawa, stating that the contract price for Ottawa's granolithic pavement was 25 cents per square foot ($2.25 per square yard.) The contractor keeps it in repair for five years without extra charge.

From city engineer, London, stating that that city paid 20c per square foot ($1.80 per square yard) for artificial stone walk, 10 inches deep with crushed granite finish ½ of an inch thick. Its life is put at ten years for local assessment, but the engineer thinks its life is much longer than that.

From the city clerk, Belleville, stating that that city had just put down 4,000 yards of granolithic pavement on the principal streets. The work was done by the Canadian Granite Company, Ottawa. The cost was $1.95 per square yard and 50 cents per square foot for concrete curb. No cost for repairs as work is guaranteed and $1000 left in the hands of the city for the first season.

An informal discussion to place on Mr. Stratton's bill to do away with the ward system so far as relates to the election of councillors and to provide for their election by the votes of the whole body of electors. It was heartily endorsed.

A brief discussion of the matter of remedying inequalities of assessments, as between the several wards, took place, but no action was taken.

WALL PAPER OPENING DAY

At the Peterborough Bookstore Wednesday and Thursday.

On Wednesday and Thursday, March 27th and 28th, we will inaugurate a new and novel feature in connection with our wall paper department. The occasion will be marked by a special display of our new and elaborate spring designs for 1895, representing the acme of art in wall paper decorations, both in colour and artistic effect.

Our immense stock, consisting of thousands of rolls of beautiful designs will thus be placed on view before the public and constitute an exposition of the largest wall paper stock in Ontario, in which the handsomest patterns for parlours, drawing rooms, halls, bedrooms, offices, churches and public buildings, will be exhibited.

This will be a sight worth seeing. Everyone invited. Remember the opening days, Wednesday and Thursday, March 27th and 28th—A. E. STRATTON & Co., 417 George street.

Ladies, clean your kid gloves with Josephine Glove Cleaner, for sale only by Robert Fair, 393 George street. Headquarters for the Perrin Freres celebrated kid gloves in all the most desirable shades for street or evening wear.

Millinery Reception!

Wednesday and Thursday,

27th and 28th March.

Ladies will be interested to know that our Annual spring Millinery Opening will be held on the above dates.

We solicit an examination of our display of Imported Trimmed and Untrimmed BONNETS and HATS, our beautiful collection of ARTIFICIAL FLOWERS, our rich selections of MILLINERY TRIMMINGS, and our superb samples of newest styles in JACKETS and CAPES.

Our Millinery Receptions have always been local events, each season surpassing its predecessor in variety and volume. This Reception will surpass all.

THANKS.

We take this opportunity of thanking the large number of ladies who inspected our DRESS GOODS OPENING, last week, as well as for their kind words and flattering preferences, as for the numerous liberal orders they favoured us with.

SPRAGUE SENT TO COBOURG FOR TRIAL.

Several Charges Preferred Against him at Campbellford.

On Wednesday morning last Wm. Spencer, county constable of Prince Edward county, brought Geo. Sprague of Picton to Campbellford to be examined, charged with entering Mr. Rott. Harston's ready-made clothing store, and also stealing a cutter, horse blanket and a tie strap from Charles Evans, Norham. On Thursday morning Constable Robinson in going to the town hall, found that through the night the prisoner had made desperate attempts to free himself.

Sprague perceived on entering his cell that the adjoining one was open, and that if he could get into this he could easily regain his liberty. To accomplish this Sprague stood a loose bench which was in the cell on its end, climbed up to the ceiling, broke a hole in the lath and plaster sufficiently large to admit his body.

CLIMBED INTO THE LOFT,

and had another hole which would admit him to the open cell just about completed when Constable Robinson arrived upon the scene. When the constable asked the prisoner what he was doing, he answered that in five minutes more he (the prisoner) would have been on his way to the big swamp below Belleville.

Sprague was brought before the police magistrate on Thursday afternoon. The evidence adduced was that on Tuesday morning March 12th, when Mr. R. Harstone returned to his store he found that one suit of navy blue clothes, two small checked rain coats, one dark fawn light overcoat and one heavy dark brown ulster were missing from his stock. On the same night Chas. Evans, Norham, had his cutter, etc., stolen. On Thursday, March 14th Peter Cockburn of Warkworth, and C. Evans went to Picton on business relative to the affair.

Mr. Cockburn went to Picton to secure for Mr. Harston, a robe or $7.00, which Sprague had got from him. When Mr. Cockburn he asked for the robe or the money. Sprague answered that it was up at his mother's house, and they would go to get it. On reaching the house, Sprague told the constable that he would go in and get the key for the building in which the robe was, but when he went inside the house he turned the key of the door and locked the constable out. On meeting the prisoner next day, the constable asked why he had been locked out? "Why," said the prisoner, "where were you all last night? I looked all over town and could not find you." However, Mr. Cockburn secured the robe.

MET SPRAGUE IN PICTON

Constable Wm. Spencer, of Picton, found the missing goods in one of the outhouses of Mr. Sprague's. The prisoner denied any connection with the goods. The evidence adduced warranted magistrate Lynch in sending Sprague down to Cobourg for trial. This is not the first time Sprague has been before a magistrate. He served four months some time ago for a similar offence to the one for which he now awaits his trial.

MANITOBA MATTERS.

The Prairie Province Had a Fine Winter—No Blizzards—Seeding Operations Begun—An Interesting Letter From a Former Peterboroughnian.

Mr. Wm. Turnbull, a former resident of Peterborough, brother of Mr. J. C. Turnbull, dry goods merchant, writes the following letter under date of Hartney, Manitoba, March 21st:

To the Editor of the Examiner:

DEAR SIR,—I thought I would write you a few lines to-night, as we expect to be very busy soon. We have had a very fine winter here—not as much snow as we usually have, and we have not had one bad blizzard. It has been a good winter for stock. Almost every farmer lets his idle working horses and colts run out on the prairie and to the straw piles through the day and gives them a little grain night and morning. It is nothing unusual to see twenty or thirty of them in a bunch pawing off the snow to get at the grass. The snow is almost gone, the ground is getting in good shape for sowing and some farmers have commenced to harrow and, before this reaches you, seeding will have commenced. There will be a large acreage sown this year as ploughing was well done up last fall. The price of horses has fallen in the last few years fully 30 per cent.; wheat has been steady the last three months at 50c, oats 35c, potatoes 35c per bushel, good fresh butter 10c, good prarie hay $3.50 per ton. Good stubble land can be rented for about $1.25 per acre. I have given you a few facts, hoping they will be interesting to some of your readers who may be thinking of coming out here.

THE WHEEL.

The Bicycle Club held its annual meeting last night at the Oriental Hotel, and in attendance was the largest in the history of the club, the apartments in which the members met being crowded to the doors.

A spirit of unanimity pervaded the proceedings from start to finish, all the officers being elected without opposition except in one instance.

The question of bringing the meet to Peterborough was enthusiastically advocated by Mr. G. J. Hopkins and a number of others. The members were unanimous in resolving to leave no stone unturned in the effort to impress upon the delegates to the C.W.A. annual meeting on Good Friday, the advantages which Peterborough possessed as a town in which to hold such a meet, having ample hotel accommodation and one of the fastest tracks in Canada.

The election of officers resulted as follows:

Hon. President—Mayor Kendry.
President—Alex. Gibson.
1st Vice-President—R. M. Deanlstoun.
2nd Vice-President.—W. E. Lech.
Sec.-Treas.—Gus Hay.
Captain—G. J. Hopkins.
1st Lieut.—W. L. Allen.
2nd Lieut.—H. R. H. Kenner.
Bugler.—Tom Rush.
Executive Committee.—Orville Shortly, Fred Dixon and Alf Terrill.
Delegates to the C.W.A. Annual Meeting.—Messrs. Alex. Gibson, Robt. Fife, Orville Shortly, A. H. Stratton, G. J. Hopkins, T. E. Bradburn, Mayor Kendry, G. W. Hatton and Gus Hay.

LACROSSE.

There is no doubt that there is some ground for the statement that Peterborough will this year turn out a lacrosse team which will be superior to the one put in the field during the past few seasons.

At a most enthusiastic and largely attended meeting in the Oriental Hotel last evening the consensus of opinion was clearly shown to be strongly in favour of putting a team in the field this year composed of purely local players. Some of the towns and villages in the vicinity have good men who are anxious to play with the Peterboroughs this year and they certainly would be an acquisition to any team, yet unless they are bona fide residents of the town, there will be no place for them on the team.

The reasons advanced for the adoption of such a course are good. In the first place the public takes far more interest in the game if the team is a purely local one. Every man playing has his little coterie of friends who attend to see how he will acquit himself in the match, and the larger the attendance the more thoroughly do the team enter into the game, inspired by the extra amount of enthusiasm manifested and urged to their greatest effort thereby. Then again the local men who have practised together night after night do not play with the same amount of energy when their clubmates have been supplanted by an outsider of unknow quality. Another great incentive to the doing away with the bringing in of outsiders is the fact that a Peterborough lacrosse team composed entirely of local men has never yet been beaten. Another argument in favour of the question is found in the record which the Peterborough hockey teams, composed purely of local men, have made during the past season.

The election of officers resulted as follows:

Hon. President.—Harry LeBrun.
President—W. A. Sanderson.
Vice-President—W. E. Lech.
Sec.-Treas.—Alf. Terrill.
Captain—Walter Phelan.
Managing Committee—Messrs. Wm. Rudkins, Geo. J. Hopkins and W. E. Lech.

This year the team will practice and play its games on the Driving Park grounds, a most satisfactory arrangement having been made with the Association, the grounds being drained, rolled and otherwise fitted up and no charge being made for practising, a percentage merely of the receipts being taken.

The Street Railway Company has expressed itself to be willing to do anything in reason regarding the arrangement of a cheap rate for the players and it is probable that a fixed charge per capita for the season will be made for the transportation of the members of the team for their evening practices.

On behalf of Campbellford, where a celebration will be held on the 24th of May, Mr. Hopkins stated that if the Peterboroughs would play against the Campbellford team there on that day, a prize of thirteen solid gold lockets, suitably engraved, would be given the winners. The proposition was favourably viewed and the team will in all probability be found in Campbellford on that date.

Campbellford would also like the Peterborough Juniors to go there on the 24th to play against Norwood or Hastings, but the Juniors have already received a good offer from Millbrook. However, the two teams will probably go to the same place. The Juniors meet on Friday next and will consider the matter.

The question of entering the C.L.A. was not considered for various reasons, but a meeting of the club will be held in a few weeks for the purpose of reaching a definite decision as to whether Peterborough will once more enter the Association.

MISCELLANEOUS.

The men connected with the different newspapers of the town have decided to inaugurate an Athletic Association amongst themselves and to put both a baseball and a lacrosse team in the field this year. Brockville has an excellent organization of this nature and it is hoped that other towns in the neighbourhood will join in the movement in order that a series of matches may be played during the season. Peterborough has excellent material amongst its printers for the formation of a very strong aggregation for either the diamond or the lacrosse field. A meeting is called for Saturday evening next at eight o'clock in the Oriental Hotel, when a definite plan of organization will be presented and officers elected. All connected with the different offices are urged to be in attendance in order that their views may be obtained on the question.

WIDE AWAKE HEMLOCK.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

The roads are very muddy breaking up and travel still most difficult owing to banks of snow and bare ground. The good roads are now over until the wheels will be going and the snow all gone.

The Independent Order of Templars here propose having an open temple on Wednesday night of this week when a good programme of songs, recitations, music, etc., will be given, as well as some choice edibles.

Squire Brackenridge's mill pond is literally covered with logs and soon the old familiar sound of the circular will be heard.

An Epworth League of Christian Endeavour in connection with the Methodist church here was organized last Thursday night with the following officers:—

President—Mr. Robt. Weir.
1st Vice-President — Miss Maggie Caldwell.
2nd Vice-President—Miss Mary Slade.
3rd Vice-President—Mr. W. J. McMillen.
4th Vice-President—Miss H. Blake.
Secretary—Mr. G. A. L. Humphries.
Treasurer—Mr. John Sargent.
Organist—Miss Lettie Blezard.

The league is beginning under very favourable auspices, having a large membership and the assistance of their very popular pastor, Rev. J. R. Peake. Night of meeting is Thursday of each week in Methodist church.

The Presbyterian Christian Endeavour Society here is succeeding well and are having pleasant and instructive meetings. They meet every Sunday night.

Squire Brackenridge met with the misfortune last week in losing two valuable horses from distemper. All his horses have the disease but the rest are recovering. Distemper in horses is quite prevalent in this part now.

The Presbyterians had their annual missionary meeting here last Tuesday night, March 19th. The speakers of the evening were Rev. Mr. Sommerville, of Norwood, Rev. Mr. Thompson, Hastings, and the pastor, Rev. Mr. Andrews. Our pastor presided in his usual able and happy manner, making many able comments and happy hits. Rev. Mr. Somerville and Rev. Mr. Thomson both gave excellent addresses, teeming with information, anecdote and amusing experience. The proceeds of the meeting were $122.85. This was one of the most successful meetings ever held here.

Miss Edith Stewart, of Hastings, is the guest of her sister, Mrs. John Sargent.

Miss Lena Cummings, of Warkworth, is the guest of her sister, Mrs. W. G. Read.

Mr. John Gillespie, who has been so seriously ill, is now slightly improved.

HAULTAIN ITEMS.

(From our own Correspondent.)

All who have been engaged in lumbering in this neighbourhood have finished drawing to the lake and are now getting their boom timbers ready. For about two miles down the lake from Mt. Julian on the Burleigh shore, cordwood, timber and logs are piled tier upon tier at a great number of landing places.

A great many horses about here have suffered from the distemper, but so far none have died.

Sap buckets are coming on the scene once more, and it looks as if sugar-making was beginning. The oldest inhabitants prophesy a good year.

The usual number of settlers and campers have been putting in ice.

Mr. John Wright has moved from Julian's Landing to Smithtown.

The roads during the past winter have been very bad, and just now they are even worse. The road leading from Mount Julian to the Burleigh road, past Church's, has been impassible for the first time in a number of years. People have been obliged to use the lumber roads through the woods.

A great many Indians and others have been fishing through the ice, but so far we have seen more holes through the ice than fish. Perhaps some have been more fortunate.

A number from here went over to Zion church, Dummer, one night last week to attend the revival services held there. Rev. R. Emberson has stopped his Tuesday evening service for a time, but expects to resume it in a few weeks.

YOUNG'S POINT.

(From our Own Correspondent.)

Last Thursday one of the oldest residents of this vicinity passed away. Mrs. J. Ayott, sr., who had reached the ripe old age of 87 years. The deceased was well known and respected and leaves a number of sons and daughters to mourn her loss. The remains were brought to the Roman Catholic cemetery here for interment.

Mr. C. Young's residence caught fire the other evening, the cause being a spark from the stove pipe in the telephone office, when the cry of fire was sounded. The neighbours soon gathered around but before they could get the flames extinguished there was quite a bit of damage done.

Mr. W. J. Young is confined to his room with a very severe cold.

Miss Louisa Kearney is visiting friends in Peterborough.

Mrs. J. Chalmers has returned home after a short visit with friends here.

Miss Laura Hockerty is dangerously ill.

The cheese factory being erected by Mr. Wilson in our village is going ahead nicely.

Mr. Wm. McGregor lost a very valuable horse last week.

The roads are in very bad condition at present in our vicinity.

CASUALTIES.

A domestic named Sarah Alcombrac, employed at the Oriental Hotel, was so severely injured by falling down stairs last night that medical attendance had to be summoned.

Mr. Molloy, who broke her arm and otherwise injured herself by falling down the cellarway in Mr. Geo. Schofield's drug store, is at St. Joseph's Hospital, is considerably improved to-day.

THE FAIRY GO-AHEAD.

Once upon a time there lived a poet who had espoused an unsophisticated little woman.

They were happy.

He lived with her in an unassuming little house facing towards the east. The plot of ground on which it stood had been forgotten by speculators, and nobody had built upon it villas for retired tradesmen or mansions for unsound bankers.

The poet had a modest income and knew the emptiness of fame. He wrote verses for his own amusement with the calm pleasure of a flourishing rose tree.

Outside of his art he paid attention to nobody but his companion, in the first place because he loved her and secondly because there were no other women in the country.

As to her, she cared for flowers, the kitchen-garden and the poultry yard.

They had no domestics, since I have said they were happy.

Her housework finished, the simple little woman used to sit down opposite her husband and watch him writing.

He read to her his poems, which she hardly understood, but which she thought very beautiful. Her lips half closed, all her infantine thoughts strained in a sterile effort, she drank in, as if they were warm, sweetened milk, the measured phrases and the sonorous rhymes.

As for him, he preferred this simple faith to the hypocritical admiration of a confrere. Moreover, in this blessed place of sojourn he had no confreres.

I have said that this little woman was very pretty and, exquisite, miracle, totally ignorant of her charm!

The reader will perhaps think that this woman never existed.

Her husband could have offered her splendid and bizarre toilets. But what was the good? Being a poet, had he not in his imagination a magnificent wardrobe? Every day, following the caprice of his fancy, he clothed his sweet companion as a Japonaise, a Swedoise, a Goddess or a Malgache, costumes unceasingly renewed, which could never fade, and which adjusted themselves more to her delicate beauty than if they had been the work of the most clever workwoman.

What ladies' tailor could contend with the dream of an artist?

In reality the simple little woman was clothed in a mouse-brown robe, simple as herself with a pretty apron and bib, embroidered with her only beads. A bunch of keys tinkled gently at her girdle like a sheep-bell.

The story might finish here, without having commenced, if the little woman had not had a little sorrow, which prevented her from enjoying perfect felicity.

She said nothing about it to her husband, who, naturally, saw nothing of it. But in the morning when the sun was rising and she was throwing grain to her pigeons, she sometimes stopped with a heavy sigh. The pigeons, surprised looked at her with beaks in the air.

One day while the poet was still sleeping, having pursued far into the night a rebellious rhyme. The little woman went out of the garden—which happened very rarely—and took a short walk into the neighboring forest, a forest of maritime pines, whose summits, ever green and swayed by the breeze, imitated the caressing murmur of the neighboring Mediterranean.

The evening previous her husband had read to her a poem on the fairy Esterelle, and she was thinking that she would have liked to live in the times of the fairies; perhaps she might have met one and related her troubles.

She was formulating mentally this wish when she saw appear in a clearing of the wood a young man mounted upon a bicycle, which skimmed the ground so rapidly as to pass over the ferns and grasses without bending them.

In the twinkling of an eye, he was near her, stopped short and dismounted from his metal courser.

She recognized then that the young man was a woman in cycling costume.

With the aspect of a Miss her blonde hair streaming over her jersey, the stranger regarded the simple little woman with steel-blue eyes.

"You called me?"

"Are you then a fairy?" interrogated the little woman more surprised than alarmed.

"Yes. You don't know me. I am the fairy Go ahead."

"Why do you not 'thou' me?"

"Because I am an English fairy, and in England people don't 'thou' one another."

"And there are still fairies?"

"Do you doubt it? There are the fairies of the new generation, the fairies of progress, of modern science, of the forward march—'Go-ahead!' Do you think, for instance, that Edison without our help would have been able so ingeniously to utilize a force which no savant can define? How do you explain the marvels of electricity without supernatural intervention?"

The face of the little woman showed that she had never put this question to herself."

"We are practical fairies," continued the bicyclist, with a very light British accent. "Humanity is behind hand; it must make up for lost time. It has loitered too long, deceived by the useless dreamers and fairies of long ago."

"Those of the present day fight against vain chimeras, especially art and poetry. You are the wife of one of our worst enemies."

"What?" stammered the little woman uneasily.

The fairy Go-ahead imparted a softer tone to her sharp voice.

"Rest assured. I bear you no ill-will, but I pity you. Yes, poets and philosophers are wicked genii, who resist the mysterious progress of matter. There are nowadays hardly any philosophers, my American friend, the fairy Dollar, has transformed almost all of them into stockbrokers and members of Parliament. But there are still some poets left, and they only become inoffensive after they have been elected to the Academie Francaise."

"I don't understand."

"True. You are quite an innocent little woman, and I am gossiping, I who ordinarily employ telegraphic language. Let us come to the point. What do you ask of me? That your husband may cease verse making?"

"Oh! never. I do not think——"

"It would only be a very natural wish, but I should be unable to grant its fulfilment. You know that the power of fairies is limited, notwithstanding what you may have seen in the performance of the 'Sheep's foot,' or 'The white cat.'"

The pantomime of the little woman expressed her ignorance of these works.

"Moreover, we could not hinder a poet from rhyming. But is there anything else I can do to please you? Tell me my darling, while I oil my bike." And with a small aluminium oil can, she poured some fine oil into the mechanism of her mount.

"I am happy," commenced our innocent woman, "I love my husband and he loves me."

The fairy Go-head was too young a fairy to have ever heard such strange and old fashioned words.

"In what country am I in?" murmured she.

Laying down for an instant her oil can she rapidly turned over the pages of a pocket guide for traveling fairies—but without success—then allowed to escape from between her rather long teeth a British exclamation and continued her work.

"But," continued her protégee, "there is something that makes me a little sad. When my husband has finished in writing and speaks to me of our love he never speaks simply. I say to him: 'I love thee.' Instead of replying to me kindly; 'Marie, I love thee,' he compares me to flowers and animals which I do not know. He compares himself. He makes pretty phrases, but when people love one another things should not be so complicated. As to me that intimidates me, and he reproaches me. That is not my fault. Why does he always indulge in——?"

"Metaphora," interrupted the fairy, who had by this time finished her work. "Aristo calls those things metaphora. Your husband is metaphorical in his intimacy. Well, I charge myself with the cure of his mania. Go home; don't be uneasy about anything."

"Thank you."

"No, don't thank me. I shall enjoy playing him a trick. Good-bye?"

Already the bicyclist was in her saddle and was working the pedals with sinewy strokes; in less than three seconds she had disappeared beyond the horizon.

As soon as dinner time approached in the dwelling of the poet, it was demonstrated that the fairy had kept her word.

The repast was ready. The rhymer quitted his work table, and, smiling upon his wife:

"Thou are thin and pale this morning, Mariettina. Thou art a tall lily of the Ganges inclosed in a vase of Singapore."

Hardly had these words been pronounced, when the young woman had disappeared, and in her place was waving to and fro a tall Indian lily, which almost touched the ceiling.

Rearing up against his misfortune, he mounted upon a chair to smell the odor of the silver calix. Instead of the sweet perfume of the innocent little woman he breathed a violent odor which gave him immediately a headache, without taking into account that his nose was smeared with the yellow pollen from the stamens.

The lily waved slowly to and fro with irony.

Exasperated, he attempted to carry it into the garden, but the pot was too heavy.

Happily, the charm was removed and the little woman reappeared with her faithful smile and her nut-brown eyes.

She only retained a very vague sensation of having suddenly blossomed, and of feeling her dainty feet lengthen themselves out into thin white roots in the fresh earth.

"Let us have dinner," she said. "Everything is almost cold."

The poet ate with a very bad humor. However, in looking at his companion face to face, he could not help recognizing how much more agreeable she was to look upon than a flower pot.

And she was less heavy—for, having kissed her after dessert, he carried her without effort to the end of the garden to a rustic seat in a thicket of rose lauriers.

He immediately began to think that he had been the victim of hallucination and returned to finish his interrupted love poem.

But, in the evening, during supper, satisfied with the day's work, and having forgotten the incident of the morning, he had the fatal idea instead of calling his wife "my dear Marie," to call her "my Persian gazelle."

Immediately, in place of the adored one, a gazelle sprang upon the table, breaking three plates of old Nevers, and began to browse upon the lettuce in the salad dish.

This time the poet understand that a sovereign will was interdicting to him the use of all metaphors in private life.

And, while the frightened beast was bounding about the dining room and butting against the carved panels of the sideboard he swore to express himself thenceforth like a vulgar citizen; he would even forbid himself the use of expressions commonly used in the language of love, such as "my dove," or "my kitten," provided that his Mariette returned to him.

The poet kept his oath, to the great joy of his little innocent woman, who fervently thanked the good fairy.

But, although still young, he had passed the age at which one can renounce inveterate habits. The poverty of the language of love which was imposed upon him caused him cruel sufferings. From the second week he commenced to pine away.

He soon grew, so feeble that he was obliged to cease writing. He remained in his bed, which the little woman had uneasily pushed in front of the balcony where the climbing vines were interlacing.

One peaceful evening in June the poet, who held the hand of his companion in his own, said: "I feel that I am about to leave thee, Marie."

The innocent little woman burst into sobs.

"It is my fault," stammered she through her tears.

And she confessed to the dying man her meeting with the fairy Go-ahead.

NO SUCH THING AS OLD AGE

To those who use South American Nervine

A Lady of 80 Years Permanently Cured by this Wonderful Medicine.

Three Doctors said "Old Age was Her Complaint" and Gave Her Up—Three Bottles of Nervine Gave Relief—Twelve Bottles Cured Absolutely.

MRS. JOHN DINWOODY, Flesherton, Ont.

Wordsworth speaks of "An old age serene and bright, and lovely as a Lapland night." And elsewhere this same writer talks of "An old age, beautiful and free." These are conditions that come to the man or woman, though their years may border close on to a century, when in the enjoyment of good health. In fact it is difficult to think of some of the old men and women on the stage of life to-day as old people, there seems to be such a perennial youthfulness about their every movement and act.

Does someone tell us that cases like this must be the exception and not the rule with those who have approached to or gone beyond the allotted three score years and ten? Not so, if they have become acquainted with the virtues contained in South American Nervine. Before us in this sketch is the picture of Mrs. John Dinwoody, of Flesherton, Ont., a resident of that town for forty years. No person in the town and country side around is perhaps better known than this lady, and none more highly esteemed. Three years ago it was her sad lot to loose a daughter who had been all the world to her. The shock sustained by this event completely broke up the system of Mrs. Dinwoody. She supposed her end had come. She lingered for one year with three doctors, and they gave her case up, saying that it was one of old age and no one, nor any medicine could do her good. Made of the kind of stuff that gives beauty to age at any time she did not despair. She was influenced to try Nervine. She took three bottles, and this was sufficient to show her that her end was not yet. From these she obtained relief. She persevered, and in all took twelve bottles of the medicine, with the result that she is to-day completely cured of that breaking-up of the system that threatened her three years ago.

There is nothing wonderful in the fact that Mrs. Dinwoody would proclaim to the thousands of old people throughout this broad land, that with old age does not necessarily come decline, decrepitude and disease. Why should we not live into the eighties and nineties, and cross the border of the century?

South American Nervine, whether the person be young or old, gets at the nerve centers, and when they are kept in proper condition the system is as well able to withstand disease at eighty as at thirty. With this prospect in view who would not live to an old age and enjoy the pleasures of family, friends and society, and take a part in watching the marvelous progress and developments of these closing days of a wonderful century, which marks as not the least of its wonderful discoveries, the discovery of South American Nervine.

BREAKING THE ICE.

When William Larker irrevocably made up his mind to take Mary Kuchenbach to the great county picnic at Blue Bottle Springs, he did not tell his father, as was his custom in most matters. To a straight laced old Dunkard like Herrmah Larker the very thought of attendance upon such a carousal, with its round dancing and square dancing, would have seemed almost impiety. Henry Kuchenbach was likewise a member of that strict sect, but not quite so narrow in his ideas as his more pious neighbor. Yet to him also the suggestion in such frivolity would have met with scant approval.

But William was longing to dance. For many years he had secretly and fondly cherished the belief that he was possessed of much inborn ability in that art—a genius compelled to remain dormant by the narrowness, the strictness of his family's ideas. Many a rainy afternoon had he given vent to his desire to swinging corners and dosey-do-deux-deux about his father's barn floor, with no other partner than a wheat sheaf and no other music than that produced by his own capacious lips.

It was for this reason that when on one beautiful July day William Larker attired in his best—a plain black frock coat, trousers of the same material, reaching just below his shoe tops, a huge derby hat, no longer black, but green, as a result of long exposure to the elements, and a new pair of shoes well tallowed—stepped into his buggy, tapped his sleek mare with the whip and started at a brisk pace toward the Kuchenbach farm, his stern parent believed that he was going to the great bush meeting at Bunkertown, twelve miles up the pike, and was devoutly thankful to see his son growing in piety, and when Mary Kuchenbach, buxom and rosy, wearing a plain black dress, the somberness of which was relieved solely by a white kerchief about the neck, and a grey poke-bonnet, as became one of her sect, climbed up and took the vacant place beside him. Henry Kuchenbach, standing at the gate with his wife at his side, called after them as the vehicle rattled away, "Be sure an' tell Preacher Book when he comes this way to stop in an' get that crock o' sausages we've be'n keepin' for mieuss."

And good Mrs. Kuchenbach threw up her hands and exclaimed, "Ain't them a lovely pair."

"Yes," replied the husband, grimly, "an' they've be'n keepin' company six years now, an' that there fellow ain't never spoke his mind."

Then there was silence between them—a silence broken only at rare intervals, when one of the pair ventured some commonplace remark, which was always rewarded with a laconic reply of "Yais" or "Yer don't say?"

Up hill and down rattled the buggy, following the crooked country road across the wide valley. Over three low, wooded ridges, then several miles up the broad meadows that line the picturesque Juniata, it wended its way, until at length the green grove in the centre of which lies Blue Bottle Spring was reached.

The festivities had already begun. The outskirts of the wood were filled with vehicles of every description—buggies, buckboards, spring wagons, omnibuses and ancient phaetons.

An orchestra of three pieces, a bass viol, a violin and a cornet, operated by three men in shirt sleeves, sent forth wheezy strains, to the time of which men and women, young, old and middle aged, gayly swung corners and partners, galloped forward and back, made ladies' chains and gentlemen's chains, winding in and out and then back and bowing, until William Larker and his companion fairly grew dizzy. The crowd of dancers was a heterogeneous one.

There were young men from the neighboring county town, gorgeous in blazers of variegated colors; there were young farmers whose movements were not in the least impeded by the somber, heavy clothing or the high-crowned, broad-rimmed hats that they wore; there were a few particularly forward youths in bicycle attire, and three gay young men from the neighboring City of Harrisburg, whose shining high silk hats and dancing pumps made them the envy of their more rustic companions. The women likewise, in beauty and dress, went to both extremes. Gayly flowered, airy calico, cashmere and gingham bobbed about among shining, frigid satins and silks as modest as their owners in demeanor. Now in apparent inextricable chaos; now in perfectly orderly form—six sets; now winding into a dazzling mass of silk, calico, high silk hats and blazers, then out again went the dancers.

"Oh, a'n't et grand!" exclaimed Mary Kuchenbach, clasping her hands.

"Thet's good dancin', I tell yer," her companion replied, enthusiastically.

She had seated herself upon a stump, and he was leaning against a tree a few feet away.

"Good dancin'. Jest look at them three ceety fellers, with them high, shiny hats, aswingin' corners. Now a'n't they cuttin' it? Next comes 'a-la-man all.' Jest watch 'em—the two in the fur set, the way they throw their feet—the gal in pink with the feller in short pants and a striped coat. Now back. Thet there's dancin', I tell yer, Mary. 'Gents dosey dough' next. Thet 'ers feller don't call figgers loud enough. There they go—bad in the near set—thet's better. See them ceety fellers agin—swingin' partners. Grand chain! Good all round—no—there's a break. See the girl in blue sating—she's turned too soon. That's better—tother way—bow yer corners—now yer own. All over."

The music stopped, and the dancers, panting from their exertions, fanning and mopping, left the platform and scattered among the audience.

William Larker's eyes were aglow with excitement. The opportunity of his life had come. He was to dance to real music, with a real flesh and blood partner, after all those years of secret practice with a wheat sheaf in the seclusion of his father's barn. He would put his arms aroun' Mary Kuchenbach, a feat for the accomplishment of which he had probably longed more than the other. While his companion, seated upon the stump, gazed curiously, timidly at the gay crowd around her, he, his hands thrust deep in his pockets, stood frigidly before her, mentally picturing the pleasure to come.

His feet could hardly keep still when a purely imaginery air floated through his brain, and he fancied himself "dosy—doughing" and "goin' a visitin'" with the rosy girl beside him.

The man with the bass viol began to rub rosin on his bow, the violinist was tuning up and the cornetist giving the stops of his instrument the usual preliminary practice, when the floor master announced the next dance. One after another the couples sifted from the crowd and clambered upon the platform.

"Two more couple," cried the conductor.

"Come 'long, Mary. Now's our chance," whispered the young Dunkard to his companion.

"Oh, B-e-e-ll, really I can't. I never danced in puberlick afore."

"But you kin. Eet ain't hard. All yer'll hev ter do is ter keep yer feet amovin' an' do what the fellar that's callin' figgers says."

The girl hesitated.

"One more couple," roared the floor master.

William was getting excited.

"You kin dance with the best uv 'em. Come along."

"Really no. I'm too narvous. Jest wait."

The twang of the fiddle commenced; the cracked, quavering notes of the horn arose above the buzz of conversation.

"Bow yer partners—corners," cried the leader. And the young man sat down on the stump in disgust.

"We'll hev ter git in the next," he said. "Why, it's dead easy. Yer see, this 'ere's only a plain quadrille. Youse orter see one 'et ain't plain. One of them where they has sich figgers as 'first lady on the wardance,' like they done at the big weddin' up at Bunkertown three years ago. These is plain. I've never danced before meself, but I've seen 'em do it, an' I've be'n practicin'. All you'll hev ter do is mind me."

And so the following dance found the pair on the platform among the first, the girl trembling, blushing and self-conscious, the young man self conscious but triumphant and composed.

"Bow yer partners," cried the floor master when the orchestra had started its scraping.

Down went the grey pokebonnet, down went the great derby, and a smile of joy overspread the broad face beneath it.

"Swing yer partners!"

The great arms went around the plump form, lifting it off its feet. Their owner spun round, carefully replaced his burden on the floor, bowed, smiled and whispered, "Ain't et grand?"

"Corners!"

William Larker seized his partner's plump hand and bounded forward, bowing and twisting, his free arm gesticulating in unison with his legs and feet. He was in it now, in the thick of the dance, in it with his whole heart. Whenever there was any "dosy doughing" to be done William was there. If a couple went "visitin'," he was with them. When "Ladies in the centre!" was called, he was there. In every "grand chain" he turned the wrong way. He gripped the ladies' hands until they inwardly groaned; he tramped on and crushed the patent leather pumps of the young city man, and in response to a muttered something smiled his unconcern, bolted back to his corner and swung his partner and whispered, "Ain't it grand?" The young woman giggled facetiously, and winked at their acquaintances in the next set, the forward youth in the bicycle costume talked about road sweepers, and the city young man said, "Oat cake."

But the young Dunkard was unconscious of it all to the end—the end that came most suddenly and broke up the dancing.

"Swing yer partners!" bawled the floor master.

William Larker obeyed. A ragged bit of the sole of his shoe, worn through by scuffling, caught in a crack, and over he went, his partner clasped tight in his arms, off the high platform.

There was blood on the big bowler and a gash in William's scalp when he was picked up a moment later and carried down to the spring. The doctors poured water over him and bandaged up his head, and when he recovered his senses he found himself the centre of all eyes.

His first glance fell upon the white face of Mary Kuchenback, who, seated on a stump, was weeping heartily, despite the efforts of a large crowd of sympathizing women to allay her fears. He looked up, and his eyes met those of the young woman in blue satin, who was looking down on him, and he saw her giggle and turn and speak to the crowd. He thought that he noticed a high silk hat and heard the words "Oat cake," and then and there he resolved to return and never again depart from the quiet ways of his fathers.

They drove home in the early evening, William Larker and Mary Kuchenbach. And they had crossed the last ridge and were looking out over the broad valley toward the dark mountains at the foot of which lay their homes when the first word was spoken.

The girl looked at her companion and said, "Be-el, ain't dancin' dang'ros?"

The young man cut the mare with the whip, blushed and with much confusion replied: "Yais, kinder. But—but—I'm sorry I drug you off the platform like thet."

She covered her mouth with her hand and giggled. William just saw the corner of one of her eyes as she looked up at him from under the gray bonnet and replied: "Oh, I didn't min that. It was jes, lovely—tell we hit."

The mare swerved to one side toward the fence, and the driver seized the rein he had dropped and pulled her back into the beaten track. Then the whip fell from his hands, and he stopped and clambered down into the road and recovered it. But when he regained his seat in the buggy he wrapped the reins twice around the whip, and the intelligent beast trotted home unguided.—New York Sun.

What John Wanamaker, the Most Heavily Insured man in America, Says:

(INTERVIEW WITH JOHN WANAMAKER.)

It is very generally known that Ex-Postmaster General John Wanamaker, of Philadelphia, carries the largest amount of Life Insurance of any man in the United States. A representative of the press recently interviewed this gentleman while he was travelling with the Presidential party, and this interview will be found, we believe, of general interest:—

"You are said to be the most heavily insured man in the country, Mr. Wanamaker," remarked the press representative.

"How did you come to think of that?" he said with a smile. "You are not looking for any disaster under such excellent management as our friend Boyd is giving this train and party?"

"No," I replied. "A newspaper friend in San Francisco, who had heard the report, wanted me to ask you if it was true, and if so, what your business reasons are for it?"

"Well," he modestly answered, "I have heard it stated that I am the most heavily insured man in the country. I don't know about that. The amount of my policies is $1,550,000, and the value, with the accumulations since the policies were taken out, is about two millions of dollars."

"In what class of companies are your policies?"

"They are all in stock and mutual companies, and none of them in what are known as assessment or instalment companies."

"Are they full life term policies or on what is termed the 'tontine' plan?"

"I have generally taken ten and fifteen payment policies and very few life policies. With about all good companies a contract can now be made whereby there is no risk of losing a policy after two years' premiums have been paid. If the party insured chooses to withdraw he can get a paid-up policy. Indeed, I understand that some companies have forms whereby the insurer can after one year, if desired, withdraw and receive a paid-up policy. There is practically little risk, any more, in insuring in the old companies."

"Perhaps you would be willing to tell me how you came to insure so heavily?"

"I thought the matter out, and convinced myself that it was a good business venture. Besides, it seemed to me that I might, perhaps, give away more money in lifetime if there was a fixed certainty of putting it back into my estate by Life Insurance. I conceive that the best way for a man to carry on benevolence is not to leave it to be done through his will, but to do it in his lifetime, and I felt that Life Insurance would give me more freedom in carrying out some plans I have, and which I would be glad to see completed before I leave this world. If you want to ascertain what the circumstances were in placing the Life Insurance, I must go further in my answers and say that I should not have gone so far in my Life Insurance but for the skill of the agent who tackled me to insure to a greater extent than I would otherwise have done. He was an old friend who had been in mercantile business and who knew how to present Life Insurance without boring me. I feel to-day sincerely grateful to the man who followed me so discreetly with information about companies, and who kept the subject before me until I settled the question."

"When did you begin taking Life Insurance policies?"

"My first policy was taken when I was twenty-one."

"Do you consider it a good thing for a man of small means?"

"I certainly do. Most young men spend more for cigars during the year than the annual cost of a $2,500 policy in a good company. If they must have the cigars they might divide between cigars and Life Insurance and carry at least a $1,000 policy. I think every young man, before he is married, ought to try to get at least a $1,000 policy."

"Among how many companies are your policies divided, and where are they located?"

"About forty companies. Most of them are located in the East. A few are in the West and a few in Canada."

"Do you recommend Life Insurance to others, especially those in whom you feel a personal interest?"

"I can perhaps answer that best by saying that I presented a few years ago a $1,000 policy, paid up for one year, to every insurable head of family in my employ. Many of the prudent men who received them not only kept them but added to them, and I have the satisfaction of knowing that in not a few cases those policies have been the means of saving worthy families from want."

It will doubtless be of interest to our readers to know that John Wanamaker carries a large policy in the Canada Life Insurance Company, thus evincing his confidence in the soundness of Canada's oldest and largest Company. During the last few years quite a number of American capitalists have been convinced of the SUPERIOR MERITS OF THE CANADA LIFE, and have accordingly placed their insurance therein, in preference to any other company.

The Canada Life is now being recognized in the states of Michigan, Minnesota and Ohio as the Company that gives the best results for the least premium.

Justifying the German Cattle Embargo.

Washington, March 27.—The German Government, it is stated, points to a recent report of the live stock commissioners of Illinois which shows that the system of inspection of Texan cattle coming into the state has been loose, and that a number of these cattle from the south have been infected with Texas fever. This is regarded as justifying the German embargo. It is still denied that the action of the German Government in shutting out our meat products is a retaliation for the differential duty placed by Congress on beet sugar imported from Germany.

Arrested for Smuggling Chinese.

Washington, March 27.—Mr. Crowley, chief of the Treasury Department special agents, has received a telegram from Plattsburg, N.Y., stating that W. C. Casey had surrendered himself to the authorities there. Casey was indicted last summer at Plattsburg for smuggling Chinese across the Canadian border. A warrant was issued for his arrest, but he kept out of the clutches of the law officers until last week. Casey, it is said, is wanted also in Burlington, Vt., for a similar offence.

Canadian Horse Sale at Buffalo.

Buffalo, March 27.—Since Saturday over 1,600 horses have been put on the market here. Yesterday D. H. Grand & Co. began a two days' sale of Canadian stock, consigned by Lowes Bros., Brampton, Ont.; J. Watson, Toronto; J. Acer, Jarvis, and Grand & Graham, Toronto. About 100 horses were sold at prices ranging from $585 down.

Murdered by John Bell.

Toronto, March 27.—At the inquest upon the body of Mrs. Sarah Swallow, who was found dead on Sunday morning with her throat cut, the jury returned a verdict after ten minutes' deliberation to the effect that deceased came to her death at the hands of John Bell. Coroner Johnson withdrew the warrant for an inquest on the body of Bell.

FINANCE AND COMMERCE

TORONTO, March 27, 1895.

On the street wheat is offered at 64 to 66c, barley at 49c and oats at 41c.

In Chicago May wheat declined 1-8c on realization sales, causing a sympathetic loss of 3-8c in corn and 1-4c in oats. Provisions were lower.

It is learned that a very large shipment of gold will probably be despatched from London to America by the syndicate today. It will probably be at least half a million sterling.

No. 2 Canada barley was quoted at 62 to 63c yesterday in Buffalo.

BEFORE THE HOUSE

The Order Presented as a Communication from the Governor.

WILL CERTAINLY BE DISCUSSED

The Catholics Jubilant Over the Situation—They Claim that It Would be an Act of Open Rebellion to Reject the Command from Ottawa.

Winnipeg, Man., March 27.—The remedial message from Ottawa ordering Manitoba to give Catholics Separate schools was read before the House yesterday afternoon. The order was sent in the morning by Lieutenant-Governor Schultz to the Provincial Secretary and was read as a communication from the Governor. Afterwards the House proceeded with its usual work. It is necessary that 48 hours, according to the rules of the House, must elapse before the order can be discussed.

The Premier was asked if there was any probability of the order being passed over in silence and he replied that it was sure to be discussed in the House. The Catholics are jubilant over the situation and declare that the Manitoba Government will not dare to reject the command from Ottawa, which is virtually the command of the Queen. To do so, they claim, would be an act of open rebellion.

A BUDGET FROM OTTAWA.

A Delegation on Water Privileges—The Conservative Whip on the Order.

Ottawa, March 27.—Deputy Speaker Bergeron of the Commons, arrived in the city at noon yesterday with a delegation from Valleyfield, at the head of which was Mayor Geo. M. Loy, the father of the young man who was murdered by Shortis. J. H. Sullivan, J. Watts and R. S. Joran, were also members of the delegation. They had an interview with Hon. John Haggart in regard to water power privileges on the Beauharnois canal.

The Conservative Whip Satisfied.

George Taylor, M.P., Conservative whip, is in the city. Referring to the action of the Government in regard to the Manitoba school case, Mr. Taylor expressed himself as being perfectly satisfied. He does not see how the Government could have done anything different. They merely transferred the case to Premier Greenway, as directed by the Judicial Committee of the Privy Council, to let him do with it as he pleased.

Dairying Prospects in the East.

Prof. Robertson, of the Experimental Farm, has returned from the Maritime Provinces. He attended conventions at central places in New Brunswick, Nova Scotia and Prince Edward Island. The prospects, he says, are good for a large extension of dairying there during the summer. About thirty new factories are being put up and will be in operation after June 1. The snowstorms were very bad during the past fortnight. The Island railways were blocked several days and Mr. Robertson drove over 100 miles through what were called impassable roads to meet his engagements. The steamer Stanley was stuck out in the ice between Georgetown and Pictou and the return was made by the iceboats between the capes, where the crossings have been good during the winter.

FERRIES ON LAKE ONTARIO.

Formation of a Company to Carry Freight and Passengers all the Year Round.

Buffalo, March 27.—As a result of a favorable report by the board of railroad commissioners, engineers have begun staking out the line for a new railroad between Batavia and Oak Orchard harbor on Lake Ontario. Confident with the beginning of work on this railroad, the American and Canadian Navigation Company has been incorporated at Trenton, N.J., for the purpose of operating two freight and passenger ferries between Oak Orchard harbor and Port Hope and Cobourg. The navigation company will at once begin the construction of two steam ferries, each 255 feet in length, with 45 feet beam, 10½ feet draught. Each will carry 26 loaded cars and will be equipped with ice-breakers, so that they can run all the year round. It is said that the company has made large contracts for carrying coal to Canada. The cars will be put aboard the ferries right from the track of the new railroad. The Canadian Pacific railroad has built from Peterboro' to Cobourg, where connections will be made.

Found Dying in a Woodshed.

Owen Sound, March 27.—There is intense excitement at Shallow Lake over the mysterious death of a man named John Flynn, aged about 64. It appears that deceased left Owen Sound on Friday night for his home in Shallow Lake and was seen later in the vicinity of Cruikshanks P.O. On Sunday afternoon a youth found deceased lying in an unconscious state at Cruikshanks school house in a woodshed. He was immediately removed to his home and upon examination it was found that he had a bruise on the right side of the forehead and another upon the right breast. He died half an hour after being conveyed to his home. A post-mortem is being held, as it is mysterious how the man met his death and it is rumored that foul play was the cause.

Chattelle's Trial.

Stratford, March 27.—The assizes opened here yesterday, Chief Justice Armour presiding. The list of cases is not a large one and the chief interest centres in that of Queen vs. Chattelle for the murder of Jessie Keith. About 100 witnesses have been subpœnaed for the Crown. It is understood that Chattelle is to be defended by H. M. East, of Toronto, who has requested some time to enable him to get witnesses here, so that the case may not be taken up until to-morrow.

Robbed and Murdered His Mistress.

Toronto, March 27.—It is said that the real name of the diamond swindler, who was captured in St. Marys by Toronto detectives on Saturday last, is Abraham Rothchild, and a despatch from the south says that in 1880 he robbed and murdered a woman named Bessie Moore, his mistress, at Marshall, Texas. He originally came from Philadelphia.

Experience Has Proved It.

A triumph in medicine was attained when experience proved that Scott's Emulsion would not only stop the progress of Pulmonary Consumption, but by its continued use, health and vigor could be fully restored.

IMPERIAL HOUSE OF COMMONS.

Government will not Grant a Holiday on May-Day—Payment of Members.

London, March 27.—In the House of Commons yesterday James Kier Hardy asked if the Government would introduce a bill making May-day a general holiday, or whether they would grant a holiday to Government employes that day.

Sir William Harcourt said the Government might consider both questions in the negative. Sir William intimated that the Government would introduce a bill providing for the payment of members of the House of Commons when such a measure could become practicable.

The Scotchman Agents What Pay.

Rome, March 27.—The Italian emigration commission have adjudged that the steamship agents shall indemnify the two Italian emigrants who were refused permission to land at New York, and were sent back to this country by the authorities, for the expenses incurred by them.

Absconded with Money Collected from Cattle.

Toronto, March 27.—John Moore, alias Scott, the General Prison convict, who made a desperate effort to escape the other day, while employed as a messenger about the prison, was sentenced by the police magistrate to be confined in the Central Prison for one year after he finished his present sentence.

Norfolk County's Treasurer.

Simcoe, March 27.—At a special meeting of the council yesterday, Roger Chrysler, of Delhi, was elected treasurer for the county of Norfolk.

The Aristocrats
Among Wall Papers.
OUR New Spring Designs in Wall Paper for 1895 are the most elaborate ever shown in the Dominion. They represent the finest effects in High Art Paper Decorations ever shown here, and are the Aristocrats of Wall Papers.
WE have done our level best to encourage Home Decoration by selling Handsome Room Paper, and allied combinations, but our samples this spring transcends every previous display we have opened out. The patterns embrace many beautiful designs to suit every taste and every purse. The most effective being in
COLOURED AND EMBOSSED GOLDS,
VARNISHED AND FLITTER BRONZES,
PLAIN AND FLITTER INGRAINS,
ENGLISH SANITARY,
PLAIN AND CLOUDED FLOCKS,
CEILING DECORATIONS.
OUR Prices are only a fraction of what you're accustomed to pay for equal qualities. At a small expense you can improve every room in the house, and landlords get tenants quicker when walls are newly papered. The best time to think of such things is now before the spring rush begins.
HOME ADORNMENT
Cannot be made complete with Wall Paper alone. The best papered room is incomplete without other harmonising effects. Chief among these specialities, of which we are the almost exclusive dealers in Peterborough, and which are so closely allied with Wall Paper Hangings, comes—
ROOM MOULDINGS,
WINDOW SHADINGS,
CORNICE POLES,
PICTURE FRAMES.
IN all these we have effects to match the different Papers, Furniture and Furnishings of your rooms. Inspection will convince you that in every line we carry we lead, and that our prices, like this line, are at the bottom.

THE GENUINE

Pratt's Astral Lamp Oil

May now be procured by the householders of Toronto and Ontario from reliable dealers.

Inasmuch, as what is really Canadian Oil is being sold by some dealers as genuine American, and many housekeepers complain that American Oil is not as good as formerly, we have therefore made arrangements to import the genuine American Pratt's Astral Oil.

This Oil is not merely a fancy brand, gotten up by a local dealer to boom his goods, but is a Special Oil made by the STANDARD OIL CO. OF NEW YORK, and sold by them throughout the world under this brand.

For more than 30 years it has been acknowledged as the best burning Oil in the world.

It gives a brilliant, soft, steady light, with no smell, no smoke and no explosions.

If your dealer does not keep this Oil, telephone 236, or send a card to us at 20 Front St. East, Toronto, and we will inform you where you can get it, or will send a dealer to supply you.

To be certain that you are receiving the genuine article see that the barrel from which the oil is drawn bears the Pratt's Astral Label—none genuine without it.

ONTARIO LEGISLATURE

Mr. Haycock's Bill to Amend the Medical Act Thrown Out.

LANDLORD AND TENANT LAW

A Number of Important Measures Introduced by the Government—The Monument to Hon. George Brown will be Moved to the Front of the Buildings.

Toronto, March 28.—The Patrons took the floor in the Legislature yesterday and kept the leaders of the other parties busy keeping up their fences.

Mr. Haycock moved the second reading of his bill to amend the Medical Act. He made a lengthy speech explaining the provisions of the bill, which have been fully reported in these columns. He said that the clause referring to midwives he would not press. Mr. Stratton moved an amendment to discharge the bill. The amendment carried and the bill was thrown out by a vote of 71 to 15. McLean (Liberal) voted with the Patrons. Pardo (Patron) voted with the majority.

Elect County Officials.

Nothing daunted, the Patrons advanced to the second charge, when Mr. McNicol moved this resolution:

"That in the opinion of this House all county officials paid by the county, except county judges, should be elected by a direct vote of the municipal electors, the existing system of Government inspection being continued, and office held during efficiency and good behaviour, and that where incompetency or irregularity occur in any office, the inspector shall lay his complaint before a non-partisan tribunal to be specified by an Act of this House, who shall have power to act."

The motion was voted down, 65 to 20. Mr. Reid (Conservative), McLean (Liberal), Haggerty (Independent) and both P.P.A. members voted with the Patrons.

The Patrons were overjoyed at the result, claiming that they had secured support from members of all parties in the House.

A Radical Change.

Hon. Mr. Harcourt introduced a Government measure relating to the constitution of local boards of health. It provides that the establishment of waterworks systems or sewerage shall be subject to the approval of the provincial board of health, and to prevent the feeding of blood or meat or of dead animals which has not been previously boiled or steamed when fresh to hogs.

New Landlord and Tenant Law.

Sir Oliver Mowat introduced a bill respecting the relation of landlord and tenant. The bill allows the removal of tenants fixtures at the end of the term and amends the short form of leases Act. It restricts the lien of the landlord for rent after the assignment has been made to arrears of rent of one year previous to and for three months following the assignment. It further provides that the relation of landlord and tenant shall be founded in the contract of the parties and not upon tenure or service.

Employees' Protection Act.

Hon. Mr. Dryden introduced an act for the further protection of persons employed in places of business other than factories. It gives the Lieutenant-Governor power to appoint inspectors for the enforcement of the Act passed in 1892. The salaries of such inspectors to be fixed by the Lieutenant-Governor and paid by the municipal councils, and one of the persons appointed is to be a woman.

A New Factory Law.

Hon. Mr. Dryden introduced a bill to amend the Factory Act. The bill provides for additional fire protection, the reporting of accidents to the Minister of Agriculture, protecting machinery while in motion and for the appointment of a female inspector.

Third Readings.

These bills were read a third time.

To incorporate the Advent Christian Church of Ontario in Canada—Mr. Bennett.

To enable Herbert Stanley Reynolds to practice dentistry—Mr. Caven.

To incorporate the village of Bridgeburg—Mr. German.

Respecting the town of Gananoque—Mr. Awrey.

Separate School Teachers.

In answer to Mr. Ryerson, Hon. Mr. Ross said that all Separate school teachers possessed the qualifications required by the Revised Statutes of Ontario, section 61, chapter 227. The Education Department had never passed a regulation to authorize members of religious orders to teach in Separate schools. There was no provision in the Separate Schools Act whereby any teacher, lay or clerical, from Quebec, not qualified under the B.N.A. Act, could teach in either the Separate or Public schools of Ontario.

Cold Storage of Dairy Products.

Mr. Whitney asked if it is the intention of the Government to give financial aid to facilitate the carriage in cold storage of the dairy products of the province to the ports of shipment in Great Britain, and to supply cold storage for such products in such of the cities of Great Britain as may be necessary in the interests of the trade.

Hon. Mr. Dryden replied that since the Dominion Government had promised to act in the matter there was no necessity for the Government to undertake any responsibility in this line.

Woodstock Normal School.

Mr. Whitney asked if it is the intention of the Government to establish a Normal school at the town of Woodstock.

Hon. Mr. Ross replied that it was not the intention of the Government at present to establish such a school at Woodstock or elsewhere.

Mr. Whitney—"At present?"

Hon. Mr. Ross—"Yes, at present."

The Brown Monument.

Hon. Mr. Harty, answering Dr. McKay, said that the Government intended removing the George Brown monument from the rear of the Parliament buildings and placing it in front.

The Fees Commission.

Mr. Whitney asked what has been the total cost of the Fees Commission; what amount has been paid to or earned by each commissioner, and what do the expenses of the commission amount to.

Sir Oliver Mowat in reply said that the total figure had not been received yet. Up to the present $6,550 had been paid out.

Telegraphic Briefs.

Jake Gaudaur says that he will row Harding, the English champion, for a purse of $1,000 at Belleville.

W. W. Sably and V. Andersen were arrested at Montreal yesterday afternoon charged with attempting to pass a forged cheque on the Bank of Montreal for $800.

VANCOUVER'S POLICE FORCE.

The Conduct of a Number of Its Officers to be Investigated.

Vancouver, March 28.—Vancouver will in all probability have a Lexow investigation into the police force soon. Monday night Sergeant Haywood was suspended from duty, and, it is said, several serious charges will be made against him. The Police Commission have decided proof that for some years past all fuel used by him has been taken from the city's supplies and carried to his house by prisoners. He also had a house connected with the electric light system at the police station and never paid a cent for the light, the same being charged to the city. These are the two specific charges on which he was suspended, but it is understood others of a more grave nature are contemplated. The conduct of certain other officers will also probably be investigated.

The Case of the Hawaiian Exiles.

In speaking of the case brought by the Hawaiian exiles Muller, Cranston and Johnstop, against the Canadian-Australian Steamship Co., E. P. Davis, counsel for the company, said yesterday regarding the attitude of the Hawaiian Government: "They are anxious to have the question settled as to their right to deport dangerous characters from the islands, when the latter is, as during the late crisis, under martial law. They claim such a right in this instance and are anxious to have the right established by a judicial decision in another country. Mr. Kinney came here with authority to retain special counsel to represent them, but on consideration decided to leave the matter as it was. Consequently I am not retained by the Hawaiian Government at all, but in looking after the interests of the present defendants, I am raising a point they wished to have settled and which comes to the same thing." The case, he added, could not possibly come up for trial until the fall, since a commission would have to be issued to take evidence in Honolulu.

A Young Haligonian Missing.

Halifax, March 28.—William Gibson, son of City Tax Collector Gibson, aged 26, is missing and it is feared he has met with foul play. Some weeks ago Gibson received a letter from his son in Boston, who stated he was coming home. He fixed the date of his departure and advised his parents that he was coming by the Yarmouth line. It is known that he purchased his ticket and placed his luggage on board the steamer Yarmouth at Boston. He failed to board the steamer himself. Gibson was known to have had a large sum of money on his person, which gives rise to the theory that he has met with foul play.

True Bill Against Chattelle.

Stratford, March 28.—The grand jury returned a true bill yesterday against Aimede Chattelle for the murder of Jessie Keith in October last. The prisoner was not arraigned in court. The trial is peremptorily fixed to open at nine o'clock this morning.

Hops for England.

Bloomfield, March 28.—Hop growers in this vicinity have just shipped 172 bales of hops direct to England. A much larger shipment is expected to be made in a few days.

The Reichstag's New President.

Berlin, March 28.—The Reichstag yesterday elected Baron Von Buol-Berenberg first vice-president of the Reichstag and recently acting president, to be president of that body in succession to Herr Von Levetzow, who resigned on Saturday last as a result of a refusal of the Reichstag to permit him to congratulate Prince Bismarck in the name of the House on his birthday.

Hon. Thomas McIlwraith Resigns.

London, March 28.—Thos. McIlwraith, Queensland's Chief Secretary and Secretary for Railways, has resigned his portfolios on account of his recent severe illness, and Premier Wilson has undertaken the duties of the Ministry. Sir Thomas remains in the Cabinet as minister without portfolio.

WILL NOT COMPROMISE

The Option of Secular Schools Not to be Offered by Manitoba.

A LONG DEBATE EXPECTED

The Discussion in the Legislature will Begin this Evening—The Government will Reply to the Request for Remedial Legislation by a Resolution of the House.

Winnipeg, March 28.—The remedial order of the Dominion Government on parochial schools will be brought up for discussion in the Legislature this evening. Premier Greenway has denied the report that the Government contemplated the option of secular schools.

The Government will not introduce a bill embodying their reply to the order, but the answer will be expressed in a resolution. Upon this a debate will arise, and it is likely to continue for some length. Both the Government supporters and Opposition members have discussed the matter thoroughly in caucus and, while their decisions have not been learned, both parties have decided on a certain course of action, and there is no doubt an amendment will be moved to the resolution of the Government, offering a compromise to the Catholics.

MANITOBA SCHOOLS.

Mr. McCarthy Delivers His First Address on the Question at Almonte.

Almonte, March 28.—Mr. Dalton McCarthy delivered an address on the Manitoba school question in the Opera house here last night, which was crowded. Mayor Thoburn occupied the chair, and on the platform were several prominent men of the town. Mr. Thoburn briefly introduced the speaker.

Mr. McCarthy stated that this practically was his first address on the school question. He had spoken briefly once or twice before, but he had been speaking principally on the financial policy of the Government and was sorry that the school question had been thrust on the people at the time of a political contest as a political question, as it would interfere with the discussion of the fiscal and other important questions before the people on both sides. It was impossible to ignore that the people had made great sacrifices to bring in the Northwest, and he was proud of the fact that the Dominion stretched from ocean to ocean, and had spent millions. If Canada was to become a great country it could only be done by building up that country. He had hoped the school question had ended when the 1890 legislation passed. Nothing but peace was looked for. When Manitoba became a province Separate schools were established within one year. At confederation the political parties on both sides treated education as belonging to the provinces, and with the exception of Ontario, which had had Separate schools forced on them, this was the B.N.A. Act and could not be changed. But other provinces had no clause regarding schools, and it was a fact to-day that no Separate schools were in these other provinces excepting Manitoba. The Dominion Parliament have the power to constitute new provinces, and when framing the Manitoba constitution the province had a population of about ten thousand. Roman Catholic representatives asked to have Separate schools. No one said "no" to the clause and it was put in the constitution without opposition. He detailed the question from court to court; that there was only one section wanted Separate schools and in this they were forced by the priests; that Mr. Donahue's address before the Privy Council was in favor of public schools; that he (Mr. Donahue) had contested an election for trustee in Winnipeg on this question and had polled ninety per cent. of the Catholic vote and was elected. Mr. McCarthy also quoted statistics against Separate schools on the question of morality between the two systems, proving a larger number of crimes by Separate school supporters than Public. He said that the remedial order only brought the question before the Parliament and that it was one for the people to look to and select representatives which would deal with it on its merits as man to man, and not as a political question. Mr. McCarthy spoke over two hours and was well received.

Flagrant Violation of the Game Law.

Hamilton, March 28.—Mayor Stewart, who is still attending to the duties of game warden, received a letter from W. P. Hutchinson, of Detroit, complaining of open and flagrant violations of the same law on the Detroit river on the Canadian side and on the islands in the vicinity. Mr. Hutchinson says hunters from the United States and Canada are shooting ducks by the hundreds. One Canadian bagged 250 in two days for market purposes, and an American bagged 300 in two days and shipped them away. Mayor Stewart will move in the matter and arrests are likely to follow if the practice is continued longer.

The Grand Trunk's Management.

London, March 28.—The Times urges to-day the necessity of a change in the management of the Grand Trunk board in London. A strong chairman is especially needed, the writer says, and he recommends that the shareholders endeavor to obtain Sir Charles Rivers Wilson.

Prof. Huxley Suffers a Relapse.

London, March 28.—Prof. Huxley, who has been at Eastbourne for some time recovering from a long attack of influenza, has had a rather serious relapse.

Mr. Laurier Much Better.

Montreal, March 28.—Mr. Laurier was much better yesterday and left for his home at Arthabaska. His doctors here have ordered him to take a complete rest from all work for a couple of weeks.

THE MARKET FOR CHEESE.

The Mail and Empire says; "Some people say the United States are our natural market. In the matter of cheese they prove a market for $6,552 worth, while England bought and paid for $18,450,198 worth." This is a conspicuous example of the shifts to which the advocates of trade restriction are put to justify its injustice. The Mail and Empire omits to mention the fact that the United States being an agricultural country can possibly manufacture enough cheese to supply its own citizens, and that the imports of cheese are made for the purpose of supplying the few who demand a superior article, such as Canada supplies. Besides, there is a duty on Canadian cheese sent to the United States of 4 cents per pound. If this were removed, the higher quality of the Canadian product would create a demand that would largely destroy the discrepancy between the present imports of cheese to England and the United States respectively. Thus would be opened a new market, and the farmers of the country, instead of having to restrict the output of their most paying industry, for fear of destroying the profits by glutting the market, would be able to develop it to its utmost capacity, which all agree has not by any means been reached. If the United States people once got a taste of good Canadian cheese, at a price not enhanced by a duty of four cents per pound, they would demand it and Canadians would supply it. We should still retain the English market and be all the better prepared to fight Australia and New Zealand for our laurels as cheese purveyors to the British people. We should have the market that might be developed in the United States under sensible trade relations and we could hold it, (as we are not so certain of doing as respects Great Britain,) in spite of Australia, for the difference in freights, on so short a haul as across an imaginary line, would decide the matter in our favour.

CABINET CHANGES.

It is an ill omen that the Dominion Government has to have recourse to swapping horses as they are crossing the stream—the turbulent stream of a session. According to despatches from Ottawa to the Toronto World Sir Charles Hibbert Tupper, Minister of Marine and Fisheries, has resigned his portfolio. The World says that Sir Charles Tupper's reasons for deserting his colleagues at this critical juncture is that the government should have taken the ground of immediately appealing to the country on the Manitoba school question and that the Premier in deciding in favour of a session, has wounded the young knight's amour propre. He claims credit for the genesis of the remedial order solution adopted by the Cabinet and is aggrieved to such an extent that he has no further use for his portfolio. Without questioning the bona fides of Sir Charles' resignation, it may be suggested that his purpose will be served by his being coaxed to reconsidering his decision. Hon. J. C. Patterson, the Minister of War, has resigned his portfolio but remains in the Cabinet as a minister without portfolio and is succeeded by Mr. Dickey, whose vacant portfolio as Secretary of State, is assumed by the verbose Dr. Montague. Dr. Montague has left for Haliburton, where he will seek election, the writ for which is expected to be issued today. It is said that Hon. Mr. Patterson retires from the ministry on account of ill health. While one must feel sympathy with the honourable gentleman under such circumstances, it may be remarked that on that plea the ministry might well resign in a body—it must be confessed that it will be exceedingly trying to the health of every member of the cabinet to face another session of parliament.

CANADA EXCELS IN WILD FLOWERS.

Canada has mountains and rivers that have challenged the admiration of every beholder, and now, after hundreds of years of practical ignorance on the subject, the world is learning that the wild flowers of Canada are amongst the most beautiful and most interesting that the earth produces. There is a fashionable craze sweeping over Europe and America in connection with wild flowers, and everybody is striving to know the names and colours and blooming time of the wild-flower beauties. The craze is affecting all classes, from artists, botanists and educationists down through all the different strata, and is even more popular the farther down it goes. It touches a Canadian's pride to hear that even in Europe they are now in ecstacies over the wild flowers of Canada. What do Canadians know about their own wild flowers?

Two Operations.

BOTH FAILURES.

A Case of Kidney Complaint that would Not Yield to Surgery or Medicine until B. B. B. was Tried.

GENTLEMEN,—After having undergone two operations for Kidney Complaint without securing the least relief, and hearing of some remarkable cures made by B. B. B. in our neighborhood, I decided to try it, I was given up by the doctors after the operations failed, and it was providential that I heard of B. B. B. After the use of six bottles I experienced so great relief and so great a change for the better that I felt the good effects would be lasting, as indeed they have been. The seventh bottle perfectly cured me, and I am now stronger and better than I ever was before. People who saw me before I took B. B. B. and who see me now can scarcely believe that I am the same person.

Johnston, that the account of Mr Burnham be referred to the reeve and clerk for investigation with authority to pay if found correct—Carried. Moved by Mr. Waterman and Mr. Johnston, that the accounts of Messrs. W. H. Hamilton, John Harper and R. Lifflco be passed and orders issued therefor—Carried. Moved by Mr. Hunter and Mr. McIntosh, that Benj. Thompson be paid $1 as North Monaghan's equivalent for digging out pitch holes on boundary road.—Carried. A communication from the Times Printing Company, asking for the municipal printing for $29.—No action taken. Moved by Mr. Johnston and Mr. Hunter, that the taxes of W. Close for the years 1893-94 be remitted.—Carried. Moved by Mr. McIntosh and Mr. Waterman, that order be drawn on treasurer for sum of $36, salary of collector for 1894.—Carried. Communication was received from Mr. G. Edmison, solicitor for the township, informing the council of the probable appeal by the town of Peterborough against the award re sewer arbitration and asking instructions. It was moved by Mr. Johnston and Mr. McIntosh, and unanimously resolved, that in the event of the town of Peterborough making an appeal against the sewer award Mr. Edmison be and is hereby authorized to endeavour to sustain the award, and to employ Mr. G. H. Watson, Q.C., of Toronto, as counsel to assist him in the necessary argument therefor, or in the event of Mr. Watson not being procurable to then to employ the assistance of the next best procurable counsel in Canada.—Carried. On motion of Mr. Hunter and Mr. McIntosh, a bylaw to appoint pathmasters, poundkeepers and fenceviewers was passed as follows: Road Division No. 1, W. Whitfield; 2, G. Menterief; 3, J. Johnston; 4, J. Brown; 5, J. J. Bennett; 6, Wm. Whitfield; 7, R. Waterman; 8, R. Dobbis; 9, Jos. Forester; 10, Jas. Davidson; 11, Isaac Clark; 12, D. Galloway; 13, W. Goodfellow; 14, T. Moved by Mr. Hunter and Mr. Johnston, that the council meet in special session in conjunction with the councils of Smith and South Monaghan on Saturday, 30th inst, at Mr. Edmison's office in Peterborough.—Carried. Council adjourned to meet as court of revision on assessment roll, on Monday, May 27th, at 1 o'clock p.m.

A Common Affliction

Women the Greatest Sufferers.

GRAVE RESULTS OFTEN OCCUR

In all Cases Paine's Celery Compound Cures and Restores Perfect Health.

Headaches are varied in character, of frequent occurrence, and are produced by a variety of causes. The common headache is often produced by some indiscretion in diet or deviation from ordinary habits of life. We have also congestive headaches, rheumatic headaches and bilious and nervous headaches. Women are oftener the victims of these troubles than men. When neglected from day to day grave and fatal consequences often occur.

Some of the ablest and best physicians freely admit that Paine's Celery Compound is the safest, surest and best medicine for every character of headache. Indeed, this opinion is strengthened by the thousands who have given testimony in favour of Paine's Celery Compound.

Headaches being more prevalent in the Spring season, it is of the utmost importance that every sufferer should know how to act. One bottle of Paine's Celery Compound will often permanently cure. Nature's marvellous spring medicine will, at the same time, build up the entire system.

NO SYMPATHY FOR MURDERERS.

Evangelists Crossley and Hunter are conducting a revival in Toronto at present. On Sunday last Mr. Hunter spoke of an invitation they had received at St. Thomas to preach to Henderahott and Welter, the two condemned murderers. He said he had no sympathy with men capable of such crimes; and that he was opposed to making heroes of them before they went to the gallows. Neither had he any patience with women who made fools of themselves carrying flowers to the jail. If in St. Thomas he would not refuse to go and see them if the visit would do them any good. As for repentance he did not believe they could repent of such a crime even though profession was made.

There is no reason why one should have a cough any length of time. All that is needed to allay soreness of the throat or to free the bronchial tubes from irritating mucous is Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. It is a wonderful cough-cure, and should be in every medicine-chest.

When Baby was sick, we gave her Castoria.
When she was a Child, she cried for Castoria.
When she became Miss, she clung to Castoria.
When she had Children, she gave them Castoria

Coughs, colds, sore throat, asthma, bronchitis, and all lung troubles are quickly cured by Hagyard's Pectoral Balsam.

THE BISMARCK CELEBRATION.

The Federal Council and Prussian Ministry Tender Their Congratulations.

Berlin, March 28.—The object of the visit of Prince Hohenlohe, the chancellor of Prince Bismarck, at Friedrichsruhe yesterday, is to convey to him the congratulations of the Federal Council and the Prussian Ministry.

In presenting the joint letter of congratulation, Chancellor Hohenlohe remarked that both bodies were proud of having worked many years under the Prince's leadership. They hoped that God would preserve him for many years. After [illegible] the chancellor warmly Bismarck's [illegible] was always a pleasure for me to work with you; therefore I feel all the more pleased to have you, its chancellor, bring me these congratulations."

The Sword a Work of Art.

The sword presented by the Emperor to Bismarck is a masterpiece of art. The hilt is entirely of gold, and is surmounted with a cameo portrait of the Emperor. The sheath is of nickle with gold rings. On one side of the blade is inscribed: "To Prince Bismarck, Duke of Lauenburg, on the completion of his eightieth year." The Emperor's and Empire's arms are on the same side. On the other side are Bismarck's and the Reichstlands arms, together with Bismarck's famous words: "We Germans fear God, but nothing else in the world."

The Pope's Best Wishes.

London, March 28.—The Daily Chronicle's Rome correspondent says that the Pope originally intended to send Bismarck a telegram or letter of congratulation, but in view of the clerical party's attitude, it is believed he will merely instruct Cardinal Kopp to communicate his best wishes to the old Chancellor.

GREAT BRITAIN'S ULTIMATUM.

The Phrase "No to Citizen of any American Republic" Does Not Mean the U. S.

Washington, March 28.—It is claimed that there is a misconception of the text of Great Britain's ultimatum to Nicaragua. The seven words to which so much importance has been attached were those which provides that the third member of the arbitration commission should be "Not a citizen of any American republic." The intention to cast any reflection upon the United States was promptly disavowed by Lord Kimberley. As ordinarily employed and understood by the British Foreign Office the phrase "American republic" is limited in application to the smaller republics of Central and South America. Viewed in this light a clearer understanding is given to the denial on the part of Great Britain that any reflection was intended upon the United States in the proposition referred to.

The full text of the ultimatum of Great Britain to Nicaragua has been made public. After detailing the outrages suffered by Consul Hatch and other British residents of Bluefields in August last, Lord Kimberley says that Her Majesty's Government cannot admit that any adequate or reliable evidence has been produced to justify the arbitrary and violent action taken against the Queen's subjects. The Nicaraguan Government is held responsible and must pay the sum of £15,000 as damages on account of their action in arresting, imprisoning and expelling those British subjects.

PEACE NEGOTIATIONS SUSPENDED.

They Will Not be Continued Until Li Hung Chang is Better.

Tokio, March 28.—The peace negotiations will remain suspended until Li Hung Chang shall be convalescent.

Washington, March 28.—The Japanese legation was able to give the State Department positive assurance that the injury received by Li Hung Chang, the Chinese envoy, was only a slight flesh wound, not likely to produce serious results even in one so advanced in years as the Chinese viceroy unless blood poisoning should set in. Every precaution has been taken to prevent that result, which is rendered much less likely to occur than in the case of an ordinary patient by reason of the enforced abstemious living which Li Hung Chang has for some years been compelled to pursue.

London, March 28.—The Times correspondent in Simonoseki says: I visited Li Hung Chang and found him calm and collected and without fever. The bullet pierced his upper jaw, making a direct wound. The antiseptic treatment is perfect. The surgeons have ceased to probe for the bullet and will not make an incision at present.

Shanghai, March 28.—The latest report from Simonoseki is that Li Hung Chang is making satisfactory progress towards recovery. The Prefect and Chief of Police have been deprived of their offices at the Mikado's orders because they failed to protect Li.

LINES

Addressed to Mr. and Mrs. William Ferguson on learning of the sudden death of their beloved daughter, Flora M. Ferguson.

Dear friends to-night around your hearth there is one empty chair,
The silent tomb holds the remains of one who oft sat there;
Death's ruthless hand invades your home, the family circle's broke;
No palace doors can bar his way nor yet the poor man's cot.

Your loving rosebud has been nipped just bursting into bloom,
Like early blossoms killed by frost when they appear too soon;
Your loving hearts are mourning sore, yet still the maid has gain;
Her spirit safe on Jesus rests free from all worldly pain.

In early years she made her choice the narrow path to tread,
Mature thoughts increased her faith in the blessed Son of God;
Now ransomed by the Saviour's blood her gentle spirit glides,
No pain to bear no ills to dread when near that spear-pierced side.

Sweet thought to think of her now gone, the Jordan safely crossed;
She sings the praises of the Lamb among the white-robed host;
Death's robber hand is safely barred, no empty chair is there,
In joy and peace at Jesus feet—God grant you meet her there.

WALTER WOOD.

Peterborough, March 28th, 1895.

GALWAY.

From Our Own Correspondent.

We regret to announce the death of Mr. Dennis Conolly, who died on Sunday morning. The deceased was one of the oldest and most respected citizens of the township. He leaves behind him two daughters and three sons to mourn his loss. The family received the sympathy of the entire community in their sad bereavement.

We are sorry to record that the quietness of the village was disturbed the other day, when a young man, who hails from Peterborough and who occupies no mean position, abused one of our law-abiding citizens. His language became unendurable and although his opponent is older by many years and has partly lost the use of one limb, still the loud-spoken woodman came to a sudden check when his length was measured upon the floor. We trust he will profit in future by this valuable lesson.

Mrs. David Hickey is visiting friends in Toronto. It is Mrs. Hickey's intention to go to Chicago before returning, for the purpose of seeing her daughter.

Messrs. Ed. O'Neil, John Cain and his son Wm. John, who have been employed by the Gilmour Co. for over three months have recently returned home.

Mr. J. McGann, formerly teacher of No. 4, who has had an extensive tour in the east, has just arrived. As the writer has not been favoured with an interview with the gentleman, the details of his tour must be omitted.

A few weeks ago a valuable barn, owned by Mr. Chas. McMahon, was entirely consumed by flames. As the insurance is very light, the loss is great.

Our patient collector, Mr. T. R. White, is still on his rounds, but expects to terminate his visit on April 1st. As a necessary result of his engagement, large sums of money are frequently about his person, and on being asked if he dreaded robbery, he replied that none but Jesse James would be his equal.

Mr. and Mrs. T. O'Neil were visiting friends in Bobcaygeon on Sunday.

Mrs. M. Cain, her son Thomas, and Miss M. E. Flaherty are the guests of Mrs. J. Owens, of Emiamore.

FAST ATLANTIC STEAMSHIP LINE.

Mr. Charles McGee, President of the Bank of Ottawa, on the Scheme.

Ottawa, March 28.—Charles McGee, president of the Bank of Ottawa here, who has returned from England, was asked about the fast Atlantic steamship line. "Well, Mr. Huddart is working away, but has had hard luck. The British Government are considering the question of granting a subsidy, and until they decide the scheme cannot be floated. At the time of the death of Sir John Thompson he had an appointment with Lord Rosebery to press upon him the necessity of assisting the scheme. Since then the Government have not been able to give much time to the matter. My own opinion, however, is that the Dominion Government are aiming at too much in insisting upon 20 knots as a minimum speed. Seventeen to eighteen knots would be fast enough and steamers of about the tonnage of the Germanic and Britannic would be large enough, and would probably pay, but I do not think steamers as fast or as large as the Majestic or Lucania would pay. You know the cost of getting two or three additional knots is something enormous. The Paris, of the American line, burns 280 tons of coal per day, whilst the Lucania, only about a knot faster, burns 350 tons."

WANTED IN THE STATES.

The Express Companies Want to Extradite the Diamond Swindler.

Toronto, March 28.—F. C. Dodge, of Kansas City, a representative of the Wells-Fargo Express Company, and of the Southern Express Company, will arrive in Toronto to-day, and will endeavor to effect the extradition of the man who tried to swindle Canadian jewellers under the address of "H. Hutton, St. Marys."

In every case whose "Hutton" has buncoed jewellers in the States, by means of the scheme used in his last exploit, the express companies have had to reimburse the firms who lost jewels. They have lost thousands of dollars in this way and are anxious to see him in an American penitentiary. It will probably be some time, however, before the Canadian courts are through with the prisoner.

Lady Tweedmouth at the Falls.

Niagara Falls, N.Y., March 28.—Lady Tweedmouth, of London, and her son, the Hon. Dudley Majoribanks, arrived here last night and are registered at the Prospect house. Lady Tweedmouth is on her way to the Government House at Ottawa to join her daughter, Lady Aberdeen, whom she will visit three weeks. Lord Tweedmouth could not accompany the party as he is in attendance upon the Queen. Lady Tweedmouth and son will do the falls to-day and leave here either to-night or Friday.

Hon. J. C. Patterson Nominated in Kent.

Chatham, March 28.—The Liberal-Conservatives of Kent county met in convention yesterday in Northwood's Hall for the purpose of nominating a candidate to represent the riding in the Dominion Parliament. A ballot resulted in the choice of Hon. J. C. Patterson, whose nomination was made unanimous.

Give that old "Back Number" a Resting Place, and buy one of the "Latest" Spring Styles From

GOUGH BROS.

Don't hunt for anything wrong in them. There's nothing there. The price has nothing to do with the quality. The man with $2 can command as good a Hat from GOUGH'S as $3.00 can command elsewhere.

Our position is a little peculiar We don't have to live off Hats alone. We're not bound to any traditional notions of big profits. The difference which makes it so is—we buy right direct from the makers. That's why we've got such a grip on

The Best Hat Trade of Peterborough.

You were never made for the Hat you know. The Hat was made for you. If you like to be abreast with the times, replace that old head block with one of our Leaders for 1895, bought from the best factories of England and America. Our Hats are ALL NEW. Latest in shapes and colour; soft and stiff. Qualities are grandly generous—scarcely a sort that you'll find missing—because we have the biggest Hat Store within miles of Peterborough.

Stylish Hats for Stylish Dressers,

In Men's, Youth's and Boy's Sizes.

Selling Hats alongside of Clothing and Boots and Shoes cuts down expenses and makes prices less. That's the plain fact of the matter. Can you catch on?

Our ONE DOLLAR HAT is in keeping with good quality. Our $1.25 and $1.50 Hats are almost unbelievable—but the bargain is in them—while our $2.00, $2.50 and $3.00 Hats are something mystifying for finish, Trimming workmanship and style. PRICE draws, and when hitched up with our popular team—QUALITY and STYLE—makes a force that irresistibly draws into our stores the bulk of Peterborough patronage. You need a decent Hat—you need it now—don't spoil your credit by a seedy top-piece.

An Impressive Discourse.

The Rev. Wilson McCann, of Omemee, preached in St. Luke's church, Ashburnham, last night, delivering an impressive discourse from the text, Acts xxiv, 25:—"And as he reasoned of righteousness, temperance and judgment to come, Felix trembled." The remarkable points of the circumstance were emphasized, the appropriateness of St. Paul's subject, his courage, and the results upon his hearer, whose salvation was only hindered by procrastination. Such truths, it was pointed out, not what people enjoy, what attacks their weakness and strikes home to their hearts, are what the world needs to-day, and such are ever to be found in the Gospel of Jesus Christ. But it is not sufficient to have our emotions aroused, even to trembling, if we are not ready to give up our sins and declare ourselves on the side of Jesus Christ. The speaker concluded with an appeal for spiritual warmth, fellowship and earnestness.

Hastings as a Summer Resort.

Mr. Henry Johnston was in town yesterday arranging with the Peterborough Navigation Co's line of steamers to run excursions to the park at Hastings. Mr. Johnston intends fitting up the grounds in a manner which will make them second to none as a summer picnicing grounds in Ontario. He also anticipates erecting luncheon tables, dancing pavillions and all necessary accommodations for picnicers. If the villagers will unite and bestir themselves it would bring the town under favourable notice and, at the same time, would help to build it up by bringing visitors from Rochester and other parts of the States. As regards the fishing, no better angling grounds can be found as the waters in the immediate vicinity cannot be equalled. Hotel accommodation cannot be surpassed in Canada for a place of its size. Steamboats run into this port every day and the G. T. R. furnishes two trains daily each way which passes in close proximity to the landing stage

The Court House Park.

The Finance Committee of the town council meets this evening when the question of making the annual grant to the Horticultural Society for the care of the Court House Park will be considered. The Park is one of Peterborough's prettiest spots, and the citizens will certainly resent any change which would result in its not being properly embellished with flowers during the summer.

A Good Thing is Always Desirable.

So it is with the visits of Prof. Dorenwend to Peterborough. On his last visit he was so busy that many ladies and gentlemen were unable to be attended to. He is therefore returning to give all who desire it another opportunity of procuring his art goods for the head. Prof. Dorenwend is undoubtedly one of the leaders of his profession on this continent. His skill in arranging the coverings for the head of either lady or gentleman is well known. His goods are acknowledged to be perfect and in every way true to nature. They are the best protection to the head, besides giving a refined and youthful expression to the face. Call and examine these marvels of his art, and have them fitted in order to judge of the effect. Consult him about your hair; he will (free of charge) give you advice about the preservation of it. He will be at the Grand Central Hotel on Monday, 8th April. 5t

Prof. S. M. Early, of Toronto,

Has arranged to begin classes to give instruction in the most elite society dancing. All those desirous of receiving instruction in the intricacies of the terpsichorean art, and to become thorough proficient in all the graceful movements necessary for a perfect dancer, will please attend the first classes which will begin on Friday, March 29th, 1895. All classes will be under the direction of Mr. Early, who is a master of experience and proficiency, and parents can rely upon having the same assiduous attention devoted to their children's studies as that which has made his success in Toronto so complete. Mr. Early will be at his office and dancing rooms, Bradburn's Opera House, Peterborough, on Friday, March 29th, at 1.30 o'clock, for the purpose of consulting with anyone desirous of arranging for lessons. Classes will meet in the following manner: Gentleman's class, 8 p.m.; ladies and gentlemen's evening class, 8 o'clock. Pupils attending this class will be expected to be at the hall sharp at that hour; instruction from 8 to 8.30, practice until 11 p.m. Saturday 30th, misses and masters class 10 a.m., ladies 2 p.m. N.B.—Classes will be through with instruction by June 1st. SCULLING.

Mr. W. W. Power, of the Queen's Hotel, Belleville, received a letter yesterday from Jake Gaudaur, champion sculler of America informing him that he would be pleased to row for the championship of the world at Belleville. He does not at present think of going to England to row Harding, the English champion, but thinks he might be induced to come to Canada and have the race pulled at Belleville. He thinks that a purse of $1,000 would be a fair offer. He also sent Mr. Power a programme of races for the regatta, consisting of single and double sculls and four oared crews, provided the committee saw fit to offer. He also intends taking part in the Austin, Texas, regatta in June, also the Boston regatta, the first week in July, and he assured Mr. Power that if the Belleville people intended having a regatta he would use his influence in inducing the oarsmen of these places to come to Belleville.

LACROSSE.

A meeting of the members of the Peterborough Junior Lacrosse Club will be held in the parlours of the Palace Restaurant to-night. Amongst other things to come up for discussion will be the choice of a practice ground, and the advisability of going to Campbellford on May 24th.

CRICKET.

The cricketers will re-organize immediately for the coming season, which promises to be a bright one for the local knights of the crease. Several first class men have been lost in Charlie Halliday, Leefe and Shireff, and they will be hard to replace, but some new blood which will be introduced into the club this year will serve to strengthen many of the weak points. That veteran, Mr. Sam Ray, will again be on the field and his sage advice, if followed, will do much to get the team into proper shape. A meeting has been called in Mr. R. B. Rogers' office for Monday evening next for organization purposes and also to make arrangements for the rolling of the ground, etc., as soon as the frost is out of it. A large attendance is urged.

COL. ROGER'S RETIREMENT FROM MILITARY SERVICE.

He Resigns the Command of the Peterborough Rangers.

A rumor to the effect that Lt.-Col. Rogers was about to retire from the post of commanding officer of the 57th Battalion has been confirmed and the news is received with universal regret.

The Colonel has held his position now for 16 years and feels the younger blood in the regiment should be given an opportunity of advancement and, though regretting the severing of his connection with the Rangers, feels that it is his duty to so do.

If the Colonel's resignation be accepted at headquarters a great many changes will necessarily follow in the corps. Lt.-Col. Bell, as senior major, will naturally succeed to the command and a more popular officer for the position would be hard to find. The new commanding officer is a veteran in the volunteer service, having donned the scarlet coat in the year 1866, when he enlisted as a bugler during the Fenian troubles and was in active service against the invaders in 1870 and 1871.

Following the retirement of Col. Rogers a number of changes will necessarily take place, Mr. E. B. Edwards, junior major, being promoted to the senior majority and senior captain Brennan probably succeeding to the junior majority.

TREE PLANTING.

To the Editor of the Examiner:

SIR,—As the season for tree planting will soon be here I would like to offer a few remarks on that subject.

Tree planting in Beautiful Peterborough has been done very extensively, but in many cases not too well. Along the streets where new avenues are to be planted, the work should be superintended by the street inspector, as the old system of allowing everyone to plant opposite his own lot has had the effect in too many cases of far too close planting, which makes not fine trees, but a lot of brushwood, and when thinning out is resorted to the trees left are often unsightly. No avenues should be planted closer than forty feet apart; fifty is better. A very good plan is to put in a stake at each end of the street to be planted, then divide the length of the street into forty or fifty feet spaces, putting in a stake where each tree is to be planted. And why always plant maples? There are other trees far more graceful. If all the beautiful residences in town were alike, the eye would tire looking at them; and so with the trees. It is time Peterborough should get out of the old rut in tree planting. Why not plant elm or limes (basswood) or chestnuts, or the lovely weeping birch? And why not plant some of the catalpa, with its glorious leaves and immense trusses of lilac and pink flowers? In general trees are planted too large. They are unsightly and more apt to die than smaller trees. Trees if got from a nurseryman with poor roots should be returned. A great many nurserymen send out trees of all sorts lifted carelessly, with roots mutilated and more likely to die than to live. It is poor satisfaction to have to plant year after year in the same spot. I will say something about evergreens next week.

FELL ON THE ICY SIDEWALK.

Mrs. Crossley in Slipping on the Street Unfortunately Breaks Her Arm.

Mrs. Crossley, who conducts a dressmaking establishment on Water street, opposite the Mechanics' Institute, had the misfortune to slip on the icy sidewalk on the corner of Water and Hunter streets last evening, and to sustain very severe injuries.

Thinking that she had merely sustained a bad fall, and had strained her wrist, Mrs. Crossley repaired to her home, but the intense pain in her right arm led her to consult Dr. Clarke, who ascertained that she had sustained what is designated as Collis's fracture of the arm, just above the wrist. The fracture was reduced, and though the injury is a painful one Mrs. Crossley is reported to be improving.

TEACHERS' SALARIES.

The average salary paid male teachers in the Public Schools of Ontario cities is $911 and of female teachers $409. In Toronto some male teachers are allowed $1,500 and one lady receives $1,100. The taxpayers of Toronto, the News claims, are doing their share towards keeping up the average for the Province.

THE C. W. ASSOCIATION MEET.

To the Editor of the Examiner

SIR,—I notice by the Morning Times that the application by the committee, which was made through me to the town council for a grant of $500, was to be expended in building a grand stand on the grounds of the Peterborough Driving Park. This is entirely wrong as any one can see by reference to my letter on fyle in the town clerk's office. In case the grant is made and the meet given to this town, the Driving Park Association will construct, at their own expense, grand stands and bleaching boards and make the necessary improvements on the track and grounds and run all the risk on the gate, not asking the citizens for subscriptions or guarantees. The grant will be expended in printing, prizes and other incidentals and not one cent will go into the improvements needed on the Driving Park grounds.

The committee do not presume to suggest to the members of the town council any reason why said grant or any grant should be made or as to its advisability or legality. They are business men and doubtless know better than we do, the advantages, if any, that the town will derive from the presence of a large body of people in our midst for a period of three or four days, and as to whether or not the loss of the money these people would bring in here will justify them in refusing the grant. They will assume the responsibility to the ratepayers.

Should the weather be inclement for the two or three days of the meet, the Driving Park Association will alone be the sufferers, as the people will be in town and must live. We do not propose to go to the town, hat in hand, begging a grant. Not a member of the council has been canvassed, either directly or indirectly, to my knowledge. It is simply a matter of business. The committee making application for this grant last summer arranged a bicycle meet, a visit from the Royal Scotts band and Cadet Corps from Montreal at their own expense, and made the same a success. They are therefore not without experience in this line.

YOUNG SIBLEY AGAIN IN TROUBLE.

He Was at One Time a Law Student Here With Mr. R. B. Edwards.

Mr. W. H. Sibley, Barrie, is under arrest in Montreal in connection with a forgery case.

Ten or twelve years ago this young man, who is of respectable parentage, was a law student in the office of Mr. R. B. Edwards here, and lived a fast life, which culminated in his sudden disappearnce from town, in Mr. Edwards' absence, just a day or so after a farmer had left several hundred for the office with young Sibley.

Sibley's father, who lived in Barrie, was notified of the turn which affairs had taken and coming to Peterborough settled all debts which the young man had contracted, while here, and also made amends to Mr. Edwards for his loss.

It is said that Sibley went from here to Ottawa, where he also got into trouble, and a gentleman in the legal profession, who is cognizant of the circumstances, is authority for the statement that the young man was arrested in the Capital, and that sentence was passed upon him.

When here Sibley was about 22 years of age, and quite a ladies' man, being at one time, it is said, engaged to a fair Peterboroughian. He will be remembered by many.

"ARE WE UP TO THE MARK."

An Opportune Sermon Delivered by Rev. Canon Spragge.

Rev. Canon Spragge, of Cobourg, delivered a most timely and interesting sermon in St. John's church last night, as one of the series of the Lenten services which are being taken by visiting ministers on Wednesday evenings.

As the text for his discourse Canon Spragge took the latter part of the second verse of the third chapter of the Revelation of St. John the Divine. "For I have not found thy works perfect before God."

The theme upon which his remarks centered was the query "Are we up to the mark which God has placed for us." The speaker thought that as a whole the members of the church and when they compared themselves with others no doubt a favourable comparison might be drawn, but this was not the point; the question was, "Have we, as a church, reached the mark?" He thought not, and asked if Christ was honoured by giving the Holy Communion the chief place in the service. This was Christ's own particular service and at one time was the only service known in the Church of England. In the early days communion was partaken of by every church worshipper. It was a service which in the prayer books was made most beautiful and grand. The people should gather together regularly to honour Christ and then receive those blessings through partaking of the sacrament, which He was willing to bestow. "Do we not," queried the speaker, "attend other services far more often than that of the Holy Communion and do we not attend church for the purpose of hearing a

WERE NO DOUBT EARNEST,

PARTICULARLY ELOQUENT PREACHER

and for many other reasons? Was not this a proof that the church was not up to the mark? The Holy Communion was the greatest and the highest form of worship. After partaking of the Sacrament on the Sabbath the communicant could go forth with a strong heart to face the temptations of the week.

Then again Canon Spragg queried as to whether we were up to the mark in taking a Christlike stand to solve the difficulties of modern times? Are we resting content thinking only of ourselves, he asked, or like Christ, thinking of the masses—striving by prayer and manfully endeavouring to bring right out of wrong and peace and quietude out of chaotic confusion?

It was said that

was a church for the rich. So it was. It was a church for all. For the poor as well as for the wealthy and for the wealthy as well as the poor. The Church's arms were outspread to embrace all who wished to come within the fold. Within her walls no rank of wealth or position should be known. Spirituality should be the test of worth.

The speaker then enquired if his hearers thought the church up to the mark in giving? The present was a time when the Church was growing and stretching out her arms in every direction and funds were urgently needed. It was with pain that he announced that by the statistics the Church of England had lost her place at the head of the list in this respect and was in a position below many other denominations. All, he trusted, felt with him that they were not doing as they should in this matter and had fallen far short of the mark. He concluded his address by urging all to give regularly, give systematically and give with prayer towards the Church's schemes.

EVANGELISTIC SERVICES.

The Interest Still on the Increase—A Most Helpful Address

A good congregation greeted the evangelists in the George street Methodist church last evening. Mr. Moore took as his text the words: "Behold now is the accepted time, behold now is the day of salvation," II Cor. vi, 2. The speaker dealt (1) with the indifference that exists regarding this great fact and the necessity of the unsaved realising that the present is the only opportunity of which they are sure; (2) he dealt with the fatal tendency that exists to postpone the matter of salvation to some future day. This point was emphasized by an appeal to the Christians in the audience, which showed that the large majority of them were saved in youth, and that the chances for salvation rapidly diminished with advancing years. He closed a very helpful address by dealing with some of the difficulties which rise up before an anxious sinner. The singing was most appropriate, and gave weight to the message.

The afternoon meeting in the Baptist church was an earnest and profitable one.

The evening meetings will be continued in the George street Methodist church.

THE EASTER OFFERTORY IN ST JOHN'S.

It Will be Devoted to the Beautifying of the Interior of the Church.

At the request of the Wardens, Rev. Mr. Davidson, rector of St. John's, called a meeting of his congregation, last evening, to consider several propositions which the wardens were anxious to have decided by the members of the church.

Mr. Robert Fair, the rector's warden, briefly explained to those assembled, that it was deemed necessary to have an expression of opinion as to the advisability of asking for a special offertory at Easter and as to the application of the same.

THE CHURCH DEBT,

he explained, had been reduced to only $5,275 and if the congregation thought it expedient the mortgage could be reduced to the even $5000 by applying the proceeds of the offertory to its reduction.

Before those present were asked to decide on this point, another factor was placed before them for consideration. Mr. Harry Long, the people's warden, stated that many were anxious for the introduction of electric lighting into the church. The illuminating power of the gas was poor and more expensive than that of the incandescent system. Besides the gas had a tendency to make the church uncomfortably warm in the summer. The interior of the church would be greatly beautified, too, by the introduction of the electric light, together with the handsome fixtures which would be accessories of the contemplated change. A church so noted for its beautiful environments should have interior and he strongly advocated the adoption of the electric system, and the applying of the Easter offertory towards defraying the expense consequent upon the change.

A great variety of opinions on the matter were expressed. It was advocated by Dr. Boucher and Mr. A. P. Poussette that the church debt be reduced and by Mr. Peter Campbell and Mr. R. M Dennistoun, that the church be beautified. A suggestion came from the ladies that the contributions be placed in envelopes upon which could be marked to which object the enclosure should be devoted.

Mr. Dennistoun then suggested that the collection taken up be devoted to the reduction of the church debt and the beautifying of the church, the amounts to be given towards each object to be afterwards determined. The consensus of opinion, however, was for the offering should be named, and Mr. Fair moved, seconded by Dr. Boucher, that the sum be applied to the mortgage debt. In amendment Messrs. Peter Campbell and Harry Long moved that the proceeds of the offertory be devoted to the beautifying of the interior of the church, the former pointing out that the congregation had responded so freely to calls to reduce the debt that it would be a mistake to press them too hard. The amendment was carried almost unanimously, and doubtless the interior of St. John's will rival its exterior in beauty, if the former Easter offerings, which have always been so generously given, are any criterion to go by. A general opinion appears to exist amongst the church people that a step in the right direction has been taken in this matter.

THE HATCHET BURIED.

The Police Magistrate's Advice Taken—In Rossel vs. Robertson, after Satisfactory Apology, the Chief withdraws the Charge—The Case Dismissed.

THURSDAY, March 28th.

At the police court this morning the case of Rossel vs. Robertson, adjourned from Thursday last, came up. Mr. R. E. Wood, county crown attorney, and Mr. A. P. Poussette were present.

It will be remembered that at the preliminary hearing on Thursday last, the Chief was willing to withdraw the charge of libel if the name of the writer of the letter was disclosed, and a general apology published in the Times for previous attacks complained of by the Chief, as shown by the copies of the Times produced in court. The name of the writer was disclosed in the evidence, and this morning the Times editorially published the following:

"CHIEF ROSSEL AND "THE TIMES."

This paper has at different times published items of news and editorial notes referring to the Chief of Police who complains that this journal has not treated him fairly, and that many of the statements which have appeared in the columns are, in fact, untrue. We can only say that we have acted in good faith throughout, but all newspapers are liable to be imposed upon, and in view of the Chief's denial we have no doubt we have been misled. Without going into particulars we have pleasure in stating that further inquiry has satisfied us that anything we have published impugning the Chief's ability to discharge his various duties has in some cases been without foundation, and in others considerably exaggerated. We regret that this paper should have done the Chief any injustice. We can assure him that we have no ill-feeling towards him, and, so far as we are concerned, the controversy is at an end."

The conditions required at the beginning of the preliminary hearing having been met, with the consent of the parties, the police magistrate endorsed the information as follows:

"The defendant having made and published a satisfactory apology the informant, with the permission of the court, withdraws the charge. Charge withdrawn and case dismissed."

WEDDED IN SMITH.

Celebration of the Edmison-Fowler Nuptials Last Evening.

Last evening a very pleasant event took place at the home of Mr. John Fowler, in the township of Smith, near Best's Landing, the occasion being the marriage of his youngest daughter, Louisa Jane, to Mr. Geo. A. Edmison, youngest son of Mr. Alex. Edmison, of Smith township.

The important ceremony was performed by Rev. A. MacWilliams, B.A., of St. Andrew's, Peterborough. Mr. R. G. Higgins, of Peterborough, and Miss Bertha E. Smith, of Emily township, ably supported the groom and bride.

After the bride and groom had received the congratulations of the large number of friends present, an elaborate dinner was enjoyed by all present. The gifts to the bride were numerous and handsome, indicating the high esteem in which she is held by her many friends.

The happy couple will make their home in the township of Smith, on the old homestead. Their numerous friends will unite in wishing them a long, happy and prosperous wedded life.

G. W. A. MEET.

An Hotel Man Expresses His opinion in Regard to the Meet.

To the Editor of the Examiner:

SIR,—I see that a committee has been appointed to try and arrange for a meeting of the bicycle men here on July 1st and that they have asked the town council to help them through with a grant of $500, and one signing himself "Tempus Fugit" has written to the Times newspaper to say the council ought to pay this money. Well, sir, I think so, too, but the councillors, don't they, say the hotel men get all the benefit and they ought to pay this money.

Now, sir, hotel men in this town are not making any money. Everyone knows that they must pay spot cash for everything they get, being all hard up. And don't they pay enough now, with big licenses to the town and the Government, big licenses for billiard rooms they only keep open for the pleasure of the people, short hours and being shortened now all the time. They have to give the best of everything to eat and drink at the smallest price, keep lots of help and keep their places orderly all the time. Can they afford to give to everything as they are asked to? I say they can't. This meeting will put lots of money in town for two or three days. Last year we made a pile of money out of strangers for over a week, and paid it all out to merchants, employees, bakers and others. It was private enterprise got up all that show, except the 1st of July, and the town then gave the firemen $250—money well spent, but not enough, as they were behind, and they had to get subscriptions from private people. On the 24th of May too, a large number of citizens asked the town council for a grant. Some of the best citizens we have too, and they gave them $200, but they knew this was no use, and they refused it and dropped the whole thing.

$200 or $300 these days when times are hard and people do not feel like paying out any more money than they have to, is no use to help people who are prepared to risk two or three times that much. Other places are giving much more for regiments and other attractions on public holidays, and as for this bicycle meet, if towns thought they could get it they would pay big money to do so. If Peterborough can get it the councillors will be acting right if they give the $500 the committee ask for. One has no idea the amount of money that will be spent to make arrangements alone. Carpenters, labourers, tent men for exts and things, and last, but not least, you printers will get some of it—all have to be paid. Now, please Councillors, some of you have the name of looking very closely to a dollar: you think it is in the town's interest, but it isn't. Give us the meet, or don't let us miss it for trying. Good men are giving their time and money and they will go to Toronto at their own cost—both money and time—to fight for it.

HOTELKEEPER.

A CASE OF POISONING IN THE POLICE COURT.

The Disgracefully Unsanitary Condition of the Police Court Precincts—A Call for Immediate Action.

Police courts are generally given over to dealing with moral sewage and moral foul air. But that is no reason why the Peterborough police court chambers should be poisoned with literal foul air. Those who are acquainted with the extraordinary architectural conformation of these quarters will remember that from the police cells corridor a narrow, precipitate stairway, with steep, break-bone steps, leads up, to the hall of justice, like an overgrown flue. Up this flue the foul air of the police court cells—reeking with the noisome odours of slop buckets, the sickly animal smells from filthy tramps, and the nameless scents that well up on general principles, like the stale fragrance of a dissecting room, all combined, making in the language of Falstaff, after his buck-basket experience, "the rankest compound of villainous smells that ever offended nostril"—pour up in a nauseating stream, poisoning the air and of the police magistrate, the police court clerk, the constables and all who have business at the court. Some times for hours the police court room is crowded and the carbonic acid gas given off by the people that pack the room, mixed with the poisonous and foetid air that comes up the stairway flue constantly, makes the police court a reminiscence of the Black Hole of Calcutta.

The town authorities are spending $20,000 to $25,000 to build an outfall sewer; but the habitues of the police court room regard this stairway flue, as far as foul smells are concerned, a ready made outfall sewer.

The authorities have had the matter called to their attention frequently, and the cheap and easy remedy, to a certain extent pointed out. This remedy is a tightly fitting glazed door (for the purposes of light) at the foot of the stairs, made to close with a spring. This would shut off almost entirely the foul smells from the police court corridors, and improve the situation immensely. The neglect to improve the sanitary conditions of the police court precincts is almost criminal.

THE NEW LAKE FERRY.

A Company Formed to Operate Ferries Between Oak Orchard and Port Hope.

The following additional particulars are to hand concerning the new ferry route between Port Hope and Oak Orchard, N. Y.:

As a result of a favourable report by the Board of Railway Commissioners, engineers, yesterday, began staking out the line for a new railroad between Batavia and Oak Orchard Harbour, on Lake Ontario. Coincident with the beginning of the work on this railroad, the American and Canadian Navigation Company has been incorporated at Trenton, N. J., for the purpose of operating two freight and passenger ferries between Oak Orchard Harbor and Port Hope, Canada. The Navigation Company will at once begin the construction of two steam ferries, each 255 feet in length, with 45 feet beam, 10½ feet draught. Each will carry 26 loaded cars and will be equipped with ice breakers so that they can run all the year round. It is said that the company has made large contracts for carrying coal to Canada. The cars will be put aboard the ferries right from the track of the new railroad.

[If this project is carried out the tendency will be to decrease the price of coal, an important matter in view of coal being a necessary for domestic heating nearly six months of the year.]

Your Physician

Orders you to take Cod Liver Oil. Of Course he means the BEST, and the best is

Madill's Emulsion

OF PURE NORWEGIAN COD LIVER OIL COMBINED WITH HYPOPHOSPHITES OF LIME AND SODA.

It will do wonders for you if you require building up and fattening, but you must begin in time and take it regularly, as you do your meals.

Madill's Emulsion is put up fresh and sweet every week. It is far more palatable to the stomach than other similar preparations, while a tablespoonful dose contains a higher percentage of pure Cod liver oil.

CHILDREN like it better than any other. Its potency has created an active local demand, and a constant request from other cities and towns of Canada.

THE GERMAN SCHOOLBOY.

He Other Student Studies So Hard or Knows So Little About Sport.

Year after year gymnasiums, high schools and universities send out into the world, there to look for a living, multitudes of overwrought youths, teeming with instruction which has unfitted them for bread earning by the practice of any purely mechanical craft or petty trade, and has imbued them with many of the tastes and sympathies that can only be productive of happiness or even enjoyment to those who are enabled to take their stand and maintain it in one of the upper social spheres. These youths have been "put through the mill" with a severity of which the British public schoolboy and university "man" have not an even approximate notion.

Nothing is less like the school life of England than that of Germany. In the first place it is entirely devoid of the element of play. Games, such as those which constitute an important feature of our educational curriculum and are specifically associative in character, are unknown to the boys who attend German gymnasiums and Realschulen. All these establishments are in the nature of day schools. They do not take in boarders. No leisure moment of the scholar's life is spent within their precincts; consequently no playgrounds are attached to them, and they are exclusively utilized for study. There is no such thing as cricket or football, rowing or paper chasing at a German school, nor were those or any other open air sports tolerated by the management of any educational institution would there be any time for indulgence in them.

It may be said of the average German schoolboy that during the seven years or so which he passes in working his way up from "sexta" to "prima" his labors never cease save during meal times and sleeping hours and are only lightened to a certain extent by his annual summer vacation, which, however, is abundantly fraught with tasks calling for careful fulfillment ere he returns to the regular routine of school life. This routine begins at 8 a. m. and lasts, with an interval for necessary refreshment, until a late hour of the afternoon. Should the "gymnasiast" happen to reside at any considerable distance from his school, he is compelled to rise at 6 or a little after in order to dress, get his breakfast, cast a glance at his lesson books and exercises, and reach the gymnasium in time to avert an imposition for unpunctuality.

When he returns home at the end of school hours, he carries with him a quantity of work, the adequate preparation of which for submission to his teachers next morning will occupy him until 10 p. m. if he be a quick student and probably until midnight if he be a slow one. For healthful recreation—nay, for absolute rest—he has not had five minutes at his disposal throughout the working day. Week in, week out, excepting on Sundays, with him it is toil and trudge, toil and trudge.—London Telegraph.

Recalling a Mailed Letter.

To recall a letter once mailed is almost as difficult a task as to take back an assertion once uttered. The sender must appear at the postoffice and is handed a blank to fill out. In this he must state when and where he mailed the letter, how it was addressed, must describe the envelope, state the amount of postage prepaid and testify "that the above mentioned letter was written by me or by my authority, and I desire to recall it for the following reasons"—and then state the reason, which is usually, "mailed by mistake." He must then sign his name, so that the handwriting may be compared with that on the letter, and sign a receipt. If the address cannot be shown to be in his handwriting, or is printed or typewritten, he must describe some peculiarities of the envelope sufficient to identify it. If he is unable to do this the letter is refused, unless the postmaster knows the applicant and is satisfied concerning his good intentions. If he is satisfied, he asks for a statement concerning the contents, and the applicant is then obliged to open the letter and read portions of it in the postmaster's presence to prove that it is the one he described.

But if the letter has been sent away the process of recalling it is still more difficult. A similar blank has to be filled out, and a minute description telegraphed at the sender's expense to the postmaster at the office of its destination. If discovered in time, the letter is then intercepted and sent to the department at Washington with a statement of the case. Why should any one want to recall a letter so much as to take this trouble? Well, there was one case at the local office recently where a valuable deed was mailed and the sender received information that satisfied him that the sale should not be made.—Exchange.

FRENCH GIRL'S FEAT.

She Changed Her Clothes in a Couch and Nobody Was Shocked.

"Savoir-faire," of the French Frenchy, is without a synonym in the English language. It properly belongs to a race that intuitively follows the old adage, "What's worth doing is worth doing well." They are adepts in the art of diplomacy. Under trying circumstances they are cool and collected.

"I had taken a train in this city for a trip to Philadelphia," said a Washington man, "and after an hour's stay in the smoker went into one of the regular passenger coaches. Casually looking over my fellow-passengers, I happened to let my gaze rest on a demure, dainty little woman across the aisle from me, but whose seat was in alignment with mine. She was intently perusing the pages of a paper-covered French novel. A little later she dropped the book and produced from her traps—she was surrounded by boxes, hand-bags and shawl strap bundles—a steamer schedule of the Compagnie Generale Transatlantique, the French line to Havre.

"To all appearance she was unconscious of the existence of her neighbors. She had removed her hat, a tasty toque, and was attired in a skirt, beneath which there peeped forth a trim little foot incased in a soft slipper.

"As we neared the Quaker City she became nervously animated. Laying aside her steamer schedule she resurrected from some unseen hiding place a blouse of soft, rich material. She then tripped down the aisle to the ladies' lavatory, and a moment later returned with the silk garment, the blouse having taken its place. Resuming her seat she buttoned the blouse with deft fingers, fixed a gold brooch in place at her throat, and as quickly girded her petite figure with a leather belt.

"By this time I became interested in her movements, and wondered what she would do next. I was not long left in the dark. With refreshing nonchalance she tossed over her head a street skirt of like fabric to the blouse. In some mysterious manner this was secured under the belt as the alpaca gown dropped to the floor. Then it was that every person in the car was watching her.

"I knew the next scene in the transformation act would be her most trying ordeal—the substitution of something more than insubstantial slippers. The circumscribed space between the seats of a day passenger coach is hardly the place one would select for such calisthenic exercise as I knew my fair fellow-traveler was about to indulge in. Time, place and surroundings disturbed her not. A pair of stout walking boots were brought forth, and the exchange soon made, and with the assistance of a silver button-hook, firmly fastened. During this operation her skirts were so carefully arranged about her ankles that not the smallest bit of hosiery was displayed, nor could a close observer, had one been present, get a glimpse of lingerie.

"The whole thing was so deftly done, so quickly accomplished, with grace and ease, while the principal performer was evidently ignorant of the contiguity of half a hundred amused people, that I could not help but admire the lovely little creature, so independent and self-contained."—Washington Post.

The Religions of China.

The eyes of the world are at the present time centered upon China. Particular interest is taken in the "Flowery Kingdom" by Christians. It is claimed that defeat in the present war would wonderfully open up the way for missionary work, China being now about the most unfruitful field for missions. Apropos of the progress of Christianity in the Empire, it might prove interesting to glance at the other great religions that hold sway there. Christianity counts for little so far, as not much has been accomplished, relatively. The state religion of China is Confucianism, which, though is rather a moral code than a religion. It is exclusively the belief of the higher class, and emanates from Confucius, who was born in 535 B. C.

Taoism is another religion of the country, and consists in the belief in a multitude of spirits, who are supposed to influence the destiny of man. Buddhism is the great popular religion of China, and has had a foothold there since the first century of our era. It alone has nearly a million of priests. A strange thing about it all is that there is a bond of harmony between these three faiths, the adherents of each of them frequently being found at worship in the same temple. For example, the Confucians, or high caste, will worship in the Buddhist, or lower-class, temples, using the Taoist, or heathen ritual. This is more than can be said of a great many Christians, especially when we consider the great difference which exists between all heathen religions.—New York World.

Italian Shops.

The shops in Italy are a startling surprise to travelers. There is a dazzling window display that is impossible to resist, and the traveler enters the shop to see the magnificence that must be beyond it. Nothing is there but a small dark room in which the family of the shopkeeper lives. The whole stock in trade is in that one window. Behind it sits the owner, his wife or clerk, peering out at the passers-by like a spider watching for the unwary fly. The twinkling dark eyes might easily be mistaken for sparkling jewels, as they flash out from among the beautiful wares.

NO SUCH THING AS OLD AGE

To those who use South American Nervine

A Lady of 80 Years Permanently Cured by this Wonderful Medicine.

Three Doctors said "Old Age was Her Complaint" and Gave Her Up—Three Bottles of Nervine Gave Relief—Twelve Bottles Cured Absolutely.

MRS. JOHN DINWOODY, Flesherton, Ont.

Wordsworth speaks of "An old age serene and bright, and lovely as a Lapland night." And elsewhere this same writer talks of "An old age, beautiful and frail." These are conditions that come to the man or woman, though their years may border close on to a century, when in the enjoyment of good health. In fact it is difficult to think of some of the old men and women on the stage of life to-day as old people, there seems to be such a perennial youthfulness about their every movement and act.

Does someone tell us that cases like this must be the exception and not the rule with those who have approached to or gone beyond the allotted three score years and ten? Not so, if they have become acquainted with the virtues contained in South American Nervine. Before us in this sketch is the picture of Mrs. John Dinwoody, of Flesherton, Ont., a resident of that town for forty years. No person in the town and country side around is perhaps better known than this lady, and none more highly esteemed. Three years ago it was her sad lot to loose a daughter who had been all the world to her. The shock sustained by this event completely broke up the system of Mrs. Dinwoody. She supposed her end had come. She lostored for one year with three doctors, and they gave her case up, saying that it was one of old age and no one, nor any medicine could do her good. Made of the kind of stuff that gives beauty to age at any time she did not despair. She was influenced to try Nervine. She took three bottles, and this was sufficient to show her that her end was not yet. From these she obtained relief. She persevered, and in all took twelve bottles of the medicine, with the result that she is to-day completely cured of that breaking-up of the system that threatened her three years ago.

There is nothing wonderful in the fact that Mrs. Dinwoody would proclaim to the thousands of old people throughout this broad land, that with old age does not necessarily come decline, decrepitude and disease. Why should we not live into the eighties and nineties, and cross the border of the century?

South American Nervine, whether the person be young or old, gets at the nerve centers, and when they are kept in proper condition the system is as well able to withstand disease at eighty as at thirty. With this prospect in view who would not live to an old age and enjoy the pleasures of family, friends and society, and take a part in watching the marvelous progress and developments of these closing days of a wonderful century, which marks as not the least of its wonderful discoveries, the discovery of South American Nervine.

THE LOVE OF THE SEA

HOW MEMORY OF EARLY DAYS AFFECTED AN OLD MERCHANT.

The Queer Actions of a Well Dressed Man Explained by His Conversation With a Ship's Watchman—Affection For a Ship Strong In After Life.

He was portly in figure and had on his face that look of contentment and peace which comes with the possession of plenty of the world's goods and the disposition and ability to enjoy them. He was well dressed, wore a silk hat and would have given to a casual observer the impression that he was a retired merchant, one of the many men in this great big city who have successfully fought the battle of life and calmly settled down to enjoy the fruits of victory. The casual observer would have been right in his impression. He was a retired merchant. He had wealth in plenty. His home was fitted and filled with all the luxuries which the unsparing use of money could procure. His wife and daughter appeared at all the fashionable social functions, and he and they were welcome guests in the proudest homes of the great city.

Sheltered from the falling rain by a large umbrella, he sauntered down South street as unconcernedly as if he were a hundred miles from any excitement instead of being only a short distance from the scene of a great celebration. At Burling slip he stopped, looked carefully around and went across South street and down the pier, where a big ship was tied up. The gangway stretched from the rail of the ship to the pier floor, and up the narrow walk, over the rail and down on to the deck he went. The watchman was there, and after a brief talk they went aft and down the cabin gangway. He gave a sniff of delight and a sigh of satisfaction as the warm air from the cabin rushed up the gangway, and he disappeared into the depths whence it came.

When he reappeared, he wore a suit of the watchman's clothes, and the silk hat was replaced with a "sou'wester." He went forward with the rolling gait of a born and bred sailor, took a look aloft in a way which showed that he knew what he was looking at, unlocked the cook's galley and explored it thoroughly, went into the paint locker and fumbled around among slush buckets, paint cans, scrapers, "bo'sun's chairs," swabs and tar pots. Then he went into the sail locker and stretched himself at full length on the jibs and stay sails, which were carefully rolled up and packed away in the little room. Long, deep breaths he took, and a look of bright, buoyant happiness came into his eyes.

The big iron eye at the clew of a topsail stuck out from a mass of canvas near him, and he patted and stroked it and spoke soft, low words to it as though it were the hand of a woman whose heart he hoped to win. Over the great folds of storm stained duck he rolled and tossed and at last went out and closed the door, with a "goodby" which was partly a whisper and partly a sob; then into the "fo'c'sle," with its three tiers of bunks deserted, save by the pungent odor which is always a part of Jack's floating home.

There was the forward bunk, always the last one taken, because, being built athwartship instead of fore and aft, its owner may wake up and find that "tacking ship" has placed his heels higher than his head, and Jack prefers sleeping on an even keel. Into one of the bunks he crawled and carved his initials on the board which separated it from the one just forward of it, then out and forward to the chainlocker, the big box where the anchor chains are laid away.

Still forward, away under the forecastle deck, where the dull glint of the water came up through the great round eyes of the ship—the hawseholes—the air was full of a damp, sticky odor that told of stores of salt beef for the men and a pig for the cabin. Back again by the big windlass, which received a loving pat from the hand which only a short time before had been soft and white, but now was soiled by contact with almost everything it had been able to reach on board the ship.

Giving a pull at the neatly coiled ropes as he went by, he talked to them as if they were old friends, gave the main deck capstan a whirl, picked up a marline spike and carried it to the locker, found a belaying pin and put it into a vacant hole in the rail where it belonged, and at last got back to the cabin, where the watchman had a tin pan of coffee and a couple of "hardtack" waiting for him. Mechanically he rapped the "soup plate crackers" on the table and dropped them into the hot coffee.

"There's none in them, sir," said the watchman. "They're too hard for the creepers. But I s'pose it's habit, sir."

"Yes," was the answer. "It is habit. When I was a boy and ran away to sea, as so many boys have done, we used to get 'hard tack' that would have walked overboard if it hadn't been kept in a barrel."

"Them was great times, sir," remarked the watchman.

"True, they were, and they gave me the love of the ship. Did you ever feel it, watchman? That love for the sea and its ships and the life of it all, that once you have tasted is always with you? That makes of a ship a living being, to be loved and petted and taken care of and chided and watched over. That makes it a part of your own life and almost as precious?"

"Indeed I have, sir, or I wouldn't be here now," answered the watchman, and the men, so widely separated by circumstances, but with kindred hearts, clasped hands and then "spliced the main brace."

Then he changed clothes again, put on his silk hat and went up on deck with the watchman. At the rail he stopped and shook hands once more with the ship's guardian.

"Goodby," he said. "The sea was my first love, and she treated me so harshly that I left her. But I cannot get rid of the old feeling, and once in awhile it conquers me. Now I'll go home again and be all right for a time. Goodby," and as the watchman's hand closed over a $5 gold piece his visitor went up the pier to the street, with a light, springy step and a slight roll which showed that the successful merchant had not entirely obliterated the sailor lad of years gone by and that the sea and her ways had not been forgotten.—New York Tribune.

What John Wanamaker, the Most Heavily Insured man in America, Says:
(INTERVIEW WITH JOHN WANAMAKER.)

It is very generally known that Ex-Postmaster General John Wanamaker, of Philadelphia, carries the largest amount of Life Insurance of any man in the United States. A representative of the press recently interviewed this gentleman while he was travelling with the Presidential party, and this interview will be found, we believe, of general interest:—

"You are said to be the most heavily insured man in the country, Mr. Wanamaker," remarked the press representative.

"How did you come to think of that?" he said with a smile. "You are not looking for any disaster under such excellent management as our friend Boyd is giving this train and party?"

"No," I replied. "A newspaper friend in San Francisco, who had heard the report, wanted me to ask you it it was true, and if so, what your business reasons are for it?"

"Well," he modestly answered, "I have heard it stated that I am the most heavily insured man in the country. I don't know about that. The amount of my policies is $1,550,000, and the value, with the accumulations since the policies were taken out, is about two millions of dollars."

"In what class of companies are your policies?"

"They are all in stock and mutual companies, and none of them in what are known as assessment or instalment companies."

"Are they full life term policies or on what is termed the 'tontine' plan?"

"I have generally taken ten and fifteen payment policies and very few life policies. With about all good companies a contract can now be made whereby there is no risk of losing a policy after two years' premiums have been paid. If the party insured chooses to withdraw he can get a paid-up policy. Indeed, I understand that some companies have forms whereby the insurer can after one year, if desired, withdraw and receive a paid-up policy. There is practically little risk, any more, in insuring in the old companies."

"Perhaps you would be willing to tell me how you came to insure so heavily?"

"I thought the matter out, and convinced myself that it was a good business venture. Besides, it seemed to me that I might, perhaps, give away more money in lifetime if there was a fixed certainty of putting it back into my estate by Life Insurance. I conceive that the best way for a man to carry on benevolence is not to leave it to be done through his will, but to do it in his lifetime, and I felt that Life Insurance would give me more freedom in carrying out some plans I have, and which I would be glad to see completed before I leave this world. If you want to ascertain what the circumstances were in placing the Life Insurance, I must go further in my answers and say that I should not have gone so far in my Life Insurance but for the skill of the agent who tackled me to insure to a greater extent than I would otherwise have done. He was an old friend who had been in mercantile business and who knew how to present Life Insurance without boring me. I feel to-day sincerely grateful to the man who followed me so discreetly with information about companies, and who kept the subject before me until I settled the question."

"When did you begin taking Life Insurance policies?"

"My first policy was taken when I was twenty-one."

"Do you consider it a good thing for a man of small means?"

"I certainly do. Most young men spend more for cigars during the year than the annual cost of a $2,500 policy in a good company. If they must have the cigars they might divide between cigars and Life Insurance and carry at least a $1,000 policy. I think every young man, before he is married, ought to try to get at least a $1,000 policy."

"About how many companies are your policies divided, and where are they located?"

"About forty companies. Most of them are located in the East. A few are in the West and a few in Canada."

"Do you recommend Life Insurance to others, especially those in whom you feel a personal interest?"

"I can perhaps answer that best by saying that I presented a few years ago a $1,000 policy, paid up for one year, to every insurable head of family in my employ. Many of the prudent men who received them not only kept them but added to them, and I have the satisfaction of knowing that in not a few cases those policies have been the means of saving worthy families from want."

It will doubtless be of interest to our readers to know that John Wanamaker carries a large policy in the Canada Life Assurance Company, thus evincing his confidence in the soundness of Canada's oldest and largest Company. During the last few years quite a number of American capitalists have been convinced of the SUPERIOR MERITS OF THE CANADA LIFE, and have accordingly placed their insurance therein, in preference to any other company.

The Canada Life is now being recognized in the states of Michigan, Minnesota and Ohio as the Company that gives the best results for the least premium.

A MEXICAN FETE.

CELEBRATING THE FEAST OF SAN LORENZO IN NEW MEXICO.

A Weird Performance in Which Grotesque Dancers Pay Tribute to the Saint—Ludicrous Features of the Ceremony.

Shortly after sundown the fete of San Lorenzo was inaugurated. It was an opening performance, as weird as a witches' dance, with a fiend from the Inferno fiddling out the accompaniment, says a Hernahillo dispatch to the New York Advertiser. Fagot fires were lighted in every square of the narrow, dusty streets, and soon the town was all ablaze with the yellow glare that cast fantastic shadows upon the walls of the little cubes of mud, the abode houses of a sun-kissed clime. A shot was fired, and there emerged from one of the low buildings a string of as peculiarly-garbed men as one might see in a year's travel through foreign countries. They came tripping out in single file, about twenty in number, swaying their lissome bodies in rhythm with a two-string fiddle and a guitar that was sadly out of tune, the while executing a dance that was never seen upon any stage. The costume was really a wonderful affair, the headdress being markedly striking in design and finish. In shape something like the French chapeau, it served the double purpose of a mask and headgear, extending to the mouth and enveloping the greater part of the head. It was gayly tinseled and tasseled and fairly shone with beads and all the ornamentation which the Mexican fancy can suggest. The lower part of the face was concealed by a silk handkerchief of brilliant color, leaving a small aperture for breathing purposes. Down the back floated vari-colored streamers, and capes of rich material drooped gracefully from the shoulders. In one hand they carried scroll work that looked like the substantial side of a paper rack, and with the other they rattled their prettily decorated castanets in tune with the monotonous movements of the dance. Some of the dancers were distinguished in an original and startling way, which, to the American onlooker, lent ridicule to the whole inane proceeding. Over their velvet trousers were drawn abbreviated balloon pantalettes of the style so affected by the comic paper cartoonists in their sketches of the aunties of colored society.

Around the flaming fagot fires they formed and amid a silence as profound as a graveyard at night they circled these tributes to the saint, never changing the step, but varying the movements of the body at command of the leader. Sometimes they would bow and scrape to the flames, and then fall to the earth and squirm and wriggle like so many horrid snakes. It was a weird scene. The glow from the fires dreadfully accentuated the painted faces of the Indians, who stood stoically silent, with no manifestation of approval or displeasure. They formed a lurid background to a decidedly dramatic ceremony. The senors themselves, mantled in their scrapes, were an interesting part of the stage group, and the gaunt and sallow faces of the senoras seemed to reflect the spirit of superstition that swayed the scene. The dancers never appeared to grow tired. It was "Oh, on with the dance" all the time, until a diversion was created by the sudden appearance of an evil spirit in the makeup of a bull. This fellow wore horns, and the greater part of his body was incased in the hide of the animal that shows so much antipathy to red.

Rational Disinfection.

A practical unanimity of opinion may be said to prevail at present among physicians and chemists that the following methods of disinfection have proved the most effective and trustworthy: All fabrics which will not be injured in the process are to be boiled in water for at least four hours, and fabrics which will not stand this treatment require to be subjected to the action of dry heat for a much longer time. Furniture, etc., may be treated with a four-tenths per cent. solution of carbolic acid. All articles which have been in actual use by a patient are to be burned, the walls of the room must be thoroughly rubbed down with bread, which is afterward to be burned, and the sputa and excrements of the patient treated at once with chloride of lime. German authorities advocate the employment of steam and heat, maintaining that these are cheap and efficient agents, being also highly penetrable and at the same time are dangerous to but few household articles. Of the three chemical agents destructive of disease germs viz.: carbolic acid, corrosive sublimate and chloride of lime, the last is the least expensive and dangerous.

TUPPER DISSATISFIED

He Wanted an Election Before a Session of Parliament.

RETIRES FROM THE CABINET

The Minister of Finance Said to be of the Same Opinion—The Controller of Customs Likely to Resign Also —The Premier Refuses to Deny the Report.

Ottawa, March 28.—The whole talk here to-day is the resignation of Sir Charles Hibbert Tupper. Everybody says it is correct, and no one will deny it. The difficulty is not in connection with the Manitoba school case although it started with that matter. Sir Charles prepared the order in Council in the case and is of the opinion that the minority is entitled to separate schools. The school case, however, was the means of forcing a session, and Sir Charles was opposed to that. He was strongly opposed to a session of Parliament in advance of an election.

In this connection a curious bit of gossip has been going the rounds here. It is that Sir Charles, in sporting parlance, wanted to ride for a fall. In other words, that he was quite content to risk a general election, no matter how great the possibility of the Government's defeat. The point would be that Sir Charles looked to the financial and other difficulties which Mr. Laurier would face if successful in the election being so great that his administration would be a speedy failure, and that at the following election the Conservatives would be returned triumphantly for a long lease of power with all the old timber cleaned out of the party, and a run ahead including, so the gossip adds, the Premiership open to Sir Charles Tupper himself. However, this bit of conjecture shows that foes as well as friends looke on Sir Charles as the coming Premier. The story, if there is anything in it, might explain Sir Charles' strong feeling against another session of Parliament before dissolution. Sir Charles was not at the Justice Department yesterday, and a reporter who called at his house was informed that he was not in. Some of the other Cabinet Ministers when questioned declined to say anything either in confirmation or denial of the rumor that Sir Charles had resigned.

Another rumor states that Sir Charles' resignation is due to the question of the leadership of the House of Commons next session. The Premier being in the Senate, one of the other Ministers must lead in the Commons, and undoubtedly it must be either Hon. Mr. Foster or Sir Charles Tupper. The leadership of the Commons will be very significant as undoubtedly it would designate the next Conservative Premier.

Premier Bowell would not deny that Sir Charles had resigned when spoken to yesterday, and it is conceded therefore that the Minister of Justice has definitely given up his portfolio.

Mr. Foster, Too.

The latest report in Government circles is that Hon. Mr. Foster may resign. He has been more strongly opposed to a session than even Sir Hibbert Tupper was.

Mr. Wallace to Resign.

It is stated on very good authority that Hon. N. Clarke Wallace will resign immediately. The meeting of last Saturday was so unanimous that the result of his retirement will greatly strengthen him at the next election, while as matters now are a three-cornered fight would be embarassing.

No Money for the Teachers.

St. Johns, Nfld., March 28.—The financial condition of the colony is very bad. Mr. Goodeve, the chairman of the Northern school board, informs the teachers under his control that after the end of March he will not be responsible for their salaries as the Government has not made any provision for the payment of their educational grants, and that the teachers can close their schools or teach the scholars at their own risk.

Experience Has Proved It.

A triumph in medicine has been attained when experience proved that Scott's Emulsion would not only stop the progress of Pulmonary Consumption, but by its continued use, health and vigor could be fully restored.

ANOTHER TRAGEDY IN TORONTO.

A Man Brutally Hammers His Wife's Head and Then Stabs Himself.

Toronto, March 28.—What may result in another murder and suicide occurred about 5.15 yesterday morning at No. 16 Heart place, a short blind alley about one block west of Spadina avenue, running south from King.

The house, which is one of a terrace, is occupied by A. T. Zimmerman, a silver-plater in the employ of the Toronto Silver Plate Company, his wife and four children, from four to eight years of age.

It is said that Zimmerman has been ill-treating his wife for a long time past, and affairs recently came to such a pass that the wife was obliged to get out a summons against her husband for ill-using her. She obtained this on Tuesday, but was afraid to hand it to him for fear of personal violence. Friday morning, however, the woman mustered up courage enough to serve her husband with the necessary paper. She then left the room and went upstairs. She waited for some time, thinking that he had gone, but such was not the case. Zimmerman had possessed himself of a hammer and was waiting by the kitchen door, hidden by the angle of the wall. Presently the ill-fated woman came downstairs and as she entered the room Zimmerman stepped from his place of concealment and dealt her a murderous blow on the right side of the head. Three times in succession he struck the woman on the head, inflicting horrible injuries. She fell on the floor and her husband turned and went upstairs. Evidently thinking that he had killed his wife he determined to put an end to himself and after locking the door stabbed himself in the left breast, the knife penetrating the lung.

Meanwhile Mrs. Zimmerman got up and rushed into a neighbor's house where she begged the people to interfere before he killed the children. Several of them went immediately, and proceeding upstairs burst in the door. There they found Zimmerman lying on the floor with the knife thrust in his chest. Drs. Eadie and Fisher were sent for, and the injuries of the intended murderer and his victim were attended to. Zimmerman was at once taken to the General Hospital, where he at present lies. The wound he inflicted on himself is not necessarily fatal, the knife having missed the heart. Mrs. Zimmerman was removed to the hospital in the afternoon.

Zimmerman is a man about 45 years old with a heavy jaw and black beard. His wife is a slight little woman about 36 years old. She thinks that his mind is partially deranged.

From all accounts this man Zimmerman is far from being a model husband or father. On Monday Zimmerman picked up a newspaper containing an account of the murder of Mrs. Swallow and the suicide of the man Bell in Jarvis street on Saturday night. Turning to his wife he pointed out the story of the crime and said, "That will be your fate."

When Zimmerman was taken to the hospital the summons charging him with ill-treating his wife was found in his pocket. The doctors did not know whether he would live or die. The knife and hammer are in possession of the police. The knife is a large butcher blade, sharpened to a point. It is eight inches and the handle five inches long. The officer first on the scene says it was driven into Zimmerman's breast up to the hilt. The hammer is one of the ordinary style, and the above policeman says there is a mark from one blow on the woman's head, reaching all the way to the skull bone.

A. A. Scottish Rite Consistory.

Buffalo, March 28.—The third annual consistory of the Ancient Accepted Scottish Rite Masons began yesterday. Some of the most exalted princes of the Masonic order are in attendance, including John W. Merchant, sovereign grand commander of the Supreme Council of Canada, Hamilton, Ont., and Hugh J. Murray, 33rd degree, of Canada. The work of the consistory will be concluded on Saturday afternoon.

FINANCE AND COMMERCE

TORONTO, March 28, 1895.

The receipts of live stock at the Western cattle market are lighter than usual, but that did not cause any activity in the market. Good export cattle brought 4 to 4 1-4c per lb. As high as 4 1-2c was paid for choice steers fit for export.

Stockers and feeders — Prices ranged from 2 1-2 to 3c, the latter being for the choicest.

Calves—Prices ran from $3 to $6 per head for the usual class, but $8 was paid for extra choice.

Sheep and lambs—Good fat lambs brought 4 1-2c lb. and others sold down as low as 3c. There were no sheep on the market.

Hogs—The market was firm at $4.60 per cwt. off cars. Fat hogs sold at $4.40 to $4.50, and choice steres $4.10 to $4.25 per cwt.

Hides, heavy steers, $5.50; cows, $5; sheepskins, 90c for best; wool, fleece, 20c.

Potatoes are still on the upward movement in price. Wholesalers yesterday were charging as high as 70c a bag to retailers. The retail price will be 75 to 80c generally in a day or two.

MIDLAND CENTRAL POULTRY ASSOCIATION.

It is Revived and Re-organised—Officers Elected.

About ten years ago this association, which had enjoyed several years of prosperous existence, became practically dormant and has remained so ever since. On Wednesday afternoon a meeting of the old directors and members, called by Mr. T. E. Bell, vice-president, was held at the Morgan House to revive the Association or wind up its affairs.

There were present T. E. Bell, Lakefield; Jas. Baptie, Springville; A. H. R. Sproule, Ballymena, Ireland, (one of the original promoters); I. Dorner, Geo. Pratley, N. Lush and M. O'Brien.

The Association was revived and the following officers elected:

President—T. E. Bell.
Vice-President—J. Baptie.
Secretary-Treasurer—Wm. Collins.
Directors—Messrs. Robert Hall, Geo. Pratley, I. Dormer, N. Lush and M. O'Brien.

The secretary was instructed to request the late secretary of the Association to deliver to the present secretary all the books and other property of the Association remaining in his hands at the last meeting thereof.

Adjournment was made till Wednesday, April 3rd, when another meeting will be held at the Morgan House at 3 p.m.

RESTORED TO POWER.

Mr. Buchanan, of Leamington Restores His Health With Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Leamington, Ont., March 28.—There has been quite a run on the druggists throughout this county for the specific remedy, well known under the title of Dodd's Kidney Pills. The cause of the unparalleled demand is the wonderful benefit which Mr. Sherman Buchanan of this place has derived from the use of the medicine. Mr. Buchanan has suffered for over a year from a very severe form of kidney complaint and became utterly helpless, his digestive organs refusing to do their work. He tried the above mentioned remedy with entire success, and his exordiums on on the means of his cure have been instrumental in inducing the enormous demand on the county druggists.

The Aristocrats Of Wall Papers.

OUR New Spring Designs in Wall Paper for 1895 are the most elaborate ever shown in the Dominion. They represent the finest effects in High Art Paper Decorations ever shown here, and are the Aristocrats of Wall Papers.

WE have done our level best to encourage Home Decoration by selling Handsome Room Paper, and allied combinations, but our samples this spring transcends every previous display we have opened out. The patterns embrace many beautiful designs to suit every taste and every purse. The most effective being in

COLOURED AND EMBOSSED GOLDS,
VARNISHED AND FLITTER BRONZES,
PLAIN AND FLITTER INGRAINS,
ENGLISH SANITARY,
PLAIN AND CLOUDED FLOCKS,
CEILING DECORATIONS.

OUR Prices are only a fraction of what you're accustomed to pay for equal qualities. At a small expense you can improve every room in the house, and landlords get tenants quicker when walls are newly papered. The best time to think of such things is now before the spring rush begins.

HOME ADORNMENT

Cannot be made complete with Wall Paper alone. The best papered room is incomplete without other harmonizing effects. Chief among these specialities, of which we are the almost exclusive dealers in Peterborough, and which are so closely allied with Wall Paper Hangings, comes—

ROOM MOULDINGS,
WINDOW SHADINGS,
CORNICE POLES,
PICTURE FRAMES.

IN all these we have effects to match the different Papers, Furniture and Furnishings of your rooms. Inspection will convince you that in every line we carry we lead, and that our prices, like this line, are at the bottom.

CHATTELLE CONVICTED

To Be Hanged on May 31 for the Murder of Jessie Keith.

CONDUCTED HIS OWN DEFENCE

The Prisoner Makes a Few Incoherent Remarks to the Jury—The Crown Prosecutor Did Not Need to Reply—A Short, Brief Trial.

Stratford, March 29. — The trial of Amede Chattelle for the murder of Jessie Keith near Listowel on October 19 last took place here yesterday before Chief Justice Armour. A large crowd gathered about the court house to gain at least a glimpse of the prisoner en route from the jail, while the court room had all its available space occupied. In appearance Chattelle had not materially changed since his arrest except that he was somewhat less swarthy. He paid close attention to the proceedings but showed no sign of being affected by the awful position in which he was placed. On being arraigned the prisoner pleaded not guilty.

Mr. John Idington, of Stratford, County Attorney, acted for the Crown, and the prisoner conducted his own defence. Mr. H. M. East, of Toronto, had been retained by some of Chattelle's relatives, but after an interview with the prisoner he withdrew, Chattelle declining his assistance.

The evidence for the Crown was largely the same as that given at the inquest and preliminary examinations at Listowel and formed a strong web of circumstantial evidence around the accused. Chattelle occasionally questioned the witnesses, but oftener than not the replies told against him.

Shortly before four o'clock the evidence was all in and Chattelle, being asked if he had anything to say, made some incoherent remarks, but offered no defence. The judge's charge occupied about half an hour and was impartial.

At half-past four the jury retired and about ten minutes later returned with a verdict of "Guilty." On being asked if he had anything to say the prisoner said "Nothing," and then the judge briefly pronounced sentence to the effect that Chattelle be hanged on May 31.

NON-RESIDENT WORKMEN.

A Niagara Falls Delegation Want to Stop Canadians Working Across the Border.

Niagara Falls, N.Y., March 29.—C. H. Turner and four others constituted a delegation which called upon the collector of this port to see if he could not do something to prevent Canadians from coming over here in the morning and doing a day's work and then returning to their homes in Canada at night. It was stated that these people in many instances worked for less than resident workmen were in the habit of receiving, and that if they did not, their coming here was an injustice to people who live here and have property interests here.

Immigration Inspector O'Brien was present at the conference. This official, unlike De Barry, of Buffalo, is not willing to exercise autocratic powers in defiance of law, and wanted authority. Collector Richmond said he was powerless, as the United States court, in a case against the Michigan Central, decided that the law was not applicable to such cases.

Ah Linn, a Chinaman from Toronto, was prevented from entering the United States here yesterday. He claimed that he had been in business in New York for three years, but had paid a visit to China during the year.

Marjoribanks-Brown Engagement.

Ottawa, March 28.—The engagement is announced of Hon. A. J. Marjoribanks, A.D.C., brother of Lady Aberdeen, to Mysie Brown, of Nashville, Tenn. Miss Brown is expected here next week on a visit to Government House. Lady Tweedmouth, who is expected shortly on a visit to Government House with her son, the Hon. Dudley Marjoribanks, is the sister-in-law of her Excellency, the Countess of Aberdeen, and the wife of the present Lord Privy Seal, who is now the Minister in attendance on her Majesty in the South of France.

TUPPER'S RESIGNATION

No Longer Any Doubt that It Has Been Tendered.

QUEBEC FORCED A SESSION

Sir Charles Considers the Calling of Parliament to Deal with the Manitoba School Case Before It has Been Submitted to the People Wholly Unconstitutional.

Ottawa, March 29.—There seems to be no doubt any longer as to Sir Charles Hibbert Tupper having resigned his portfolio as Minister of Justice.

There is said to be a great deal more in the reasons which have actuated Sir Charles in withdrawing, for the present, at all events, if not permanently, from the work of the Cabinet than the mere fact that he could not have his own way in regard to di solution. In other words it is said on his behalf that he considered the action of the Government in calling Parliament to deal with the Manitoba school case before it has been submitted to the people wholly unconstitutional. In his opinion the people ought to have had an opportunity of pronouncing upon the case before Parliament would attempt to legislate upon it. That, of course, makes his stand more tenable than was at first reported, for it was scarcely possible that a man like Sir Charles Tupper would have left the Government on a matter of detail like the ordinary holding of a session of Parliament, a matter which did not come directly within his own province, but was purely a question for the Premier himself to have determined. The question of dissolution or session was one which Sir Mackenzie Bowell should have, as Premier, settled without direct reference to his colleagues. Having, however, referred the matter to the Cabinet, the view of the majority prevailed, and although the work of the campaign was well under way the French Canadian Ministers forced a session so as to be able to deal with the remedial order in Manitoba.

When Sir Charles Hibbert Tupper prepared his report on the school question, it is said that he did so on the distinct understanding that the matter was to be submitted to the people and not to Parliament. Some say that the Premier had assured him that such was to be the case so that the contention of the Minister of Justice is that Sir Mackenzie Bowell did not carry out his arrangements in respect to dissolution, and in this way Sir Charles Tupper's report is going to be dealt with in a very different way from what he intended. It is even said that from the strong views which the Minister of Justice holds on this question and the manner in which it ought to be dealt with, he would have to oppose Parliament dealing with his own report as it now stands. Everybody is talking as to how the matter will be settled. Few believe that Sir Hibbert will withdraw his resignation. A prominent Conservative, speaking on the point, said: "The man who is not afraid to lecture the Imperial authorities and the American authorities as well, as to the course they persued in the Behring Sea case, accusing the former of neglecting the interests of Canada for the purpose of serving those of the Yankee, is not likely to make any apologies for what he has done in this case so as to stay in a Cabinet of whom he considers himself the most prominent member and the coming leader."

There are some Conservatives, however, who are talking strongly against Sir Charles and accusing him of disloyalty to the party at a time when the Premier wanted his assistance most. They say that his ambition led him to take this step, and that he is so anxious to become Premier that he cannot wait until Parliament has run its full course. These parties have been assuring Sir Mackenzie Bowell that they can get along all right without the Minister of Justice.

The report that Lord Aberdeen has been recalled is without foundation.

The Cabinet Meets.

At yesterday's meeting of the Cabinet an order-in-Council was passed appointing the returning officers, so as to permit the issuing of the writs for all the by-elections to the Dominion Parliament. They take place on the 17th of April, the day before Parliament meets. Nominations come off a week earlier. The elections on that date take place in Huldimand, Vercheres, Quebec West and Antigonish. Neither Sir Charles Tupper nor Hon. Mr. Foster were present.

Thinks Bowell May Resign.

Montreal, March 29—The general opinion here is that the present Conservative Government is tottering. Men who are in the secrets of the party say that it should not surprise them if, under the circumstances, Sir Mackenzie Bowell, the Premier, did also resign.

Meeting of C. O. F. Executive Committee.

Brantford, March 29.—The Executive Committee of the Canadian Order of Foresters, comprising C. S. Britton, Gananoque, High Chief Ranger; H. Gummer, High Vice-Chief Ranger, Guelph; Robert Elliott, Past High Chief Ranger, Wingham; H. I. Henderson, Whitechurch; F. J. Jameson, Peterborough; W. J. Cameron, Toronto; R. Dowling, Harriston, are at present in session here. The reports submitted to them from all parts of the Dominion are highly satisfactory, showing gratifying results both as to the number of new courts organized and the increase of membership generally. The payment of $60,000 insurance claims was passed, and investment of the accumulated surplus since last meeting was disposed of. The total surplus now is about $680,000. Notices of motion relating to proposed changes in the constitution are being considered by them. The bill for Dominion incorporation, as prepared by High Court Solicitor Wilkes, was considered and approved of.

MANITOBA WANTS TIME

Will Not Deal with the Mandate from Ottawa at Present.

LEGISLATURE WILL ADJOURN

The Order Considered Too Important to be Dealt With Precipitately by the House—Change in the Attitude of the Government—Secular Schools Disapproved.

Winnipeg, Man., March 29.—The Manitoba Legislature will not deal at present with the parochial school mandate from Ottawa, as it has been decided by Premier Greenway to adjourn the House till May 9, and in the interval meetings will be held in every section of the province in hope of influencing the action of the House of Commons, as it is thought Parliament will interpret the Legislature's silence as tantamount to a refusal to comply with the order.

Catholic members of the Legislature say the Government is merely trying to shirk responsibility and that adjournment is merely a subterfuge.

The Government has changed its attitude within the past few days. On Tuesday the Premier stated that they would adhere to the present law, but to-day his language is modified, and as a reason for postponing consideration of the remedial order the Ministers say they want to consult constitutional lawyers respecting the status of the Legislature in the premises.

A member of the Cabinet was asked what the object of the Government was in moving for an adjournment. His reply was that the remedial order on schools was too important a matter, involving as it does great vital issues, to be dealt with precipitately by the House.

The Government and its supporters are puzzled, and the Opposition is in the same predicament. Correspondence has already been opened with Mr. McCarthy, who conducted the case for the Government before the Dominion Cabinet, and it is probable he will visit Manitoba for a personal interview with members of the Government.

The friends of the Government have approached the clergymen and suggested the secularization of the schools, but this was not approved.

The Orangemen, of Manitoba, in mass meeting assembled, passed the following resolution unanimously: "Resolved—That we view with the greatest alarm the present state of affairs which exists between the Dominion and the Local Government and we desire to express our approval of the stand taken by our representatives in the Provincial Legislature of Manitoba in defending our rights and privileges in brooking no interference by the central Government in our educational affairs, and we call upon all Orangemen and Protestants to support no candidate for the House of Commons or the Local Legislature who will not openly and unqualifiedly pledge himself to determinedly oppose any and all attempts toward breaking up our public school system and the imposing upon us and our children the accursed system of Separate and sectarian schools."

It is proposed to hold a convention of all religious and political bodies in Winnipeg shortly to discuss the question.

FOR SPECIAL INSTRUCTION.

Officers and Non-Coms. of the Permanent Corps Leave for England.

Halifax, March 29.—The undermentioned officers and non-commissioned officers of the permanent force have been selected to proceed to England for the purpose of undergoing special courses of instruction in their military duties. They leave Canada under command of Lieut.-Col. Otter by the Allan line steamer Mongolian, which sails from Halifax to-morrow: Lieut.-Col. W. D. Otter, D.A.G., No. 2 M.D.; Lieut.-Col. J. F. Wilson, R.C.A., Quebec; Major F. L. Lessard, R.C.D., Toronto; Captain Macdougall, R.R.C.I., St. John's; Captain R. W. Rutherford, R.C.A., Quebec; Sergeant-Instructor Jas. Page, R.C.D.; Sergeant-Instructor Young, R.C.D.; Sergeant James Slade, R.C.A.; Sergeant G. R. Damour, R.C.A.; Sergt.-Major J. B. Munro, R.R.C.I.; Color-Sergt. G. W. Galloway, R.R.C.I.

VAN HORNE SECURES A MONOPOLY.

The St. John, N.B., Gas and Electric Light Co. and the Street Ry. Amalgamate.

St. John, N.B., March 29.—Yesterday afternoon was an extraordinary one in the history of the Gas and Electric Light Company when the proposition to take over the works by the St. John Electric Street Railway Company was voted on. Of a total of 2,660 votes no less than 2,600 were represented. The vote stood 1,890 for amalgamation and 580 against it. The St. John Railway Company is composed of Van Horne, Shaughnessy and others, and this move gives them the monopoly of gas and electric light in this city.

Violent Wind Storm in New York.

New York, March 29.—All wind records were broken yesterday by the howling gale which swooped down upon the city early in the morning. Shortly before 1 o'clock the wind had worked itself up to 75 miles an hour, three miles beyond the previous records of March, 1876, which had stood untouched for nineteen years, but only lasted a few minutes. At sunrise the trouble began. Every hour witnessed a jump of ten miles, and at 10 o'clock 65 miles an hour was the score. Shipping down the bay was paralyzed and much damage done. Not a single vessel ventured outside of Sandy Hook. Later in the day the wind's velocity began to fall. At 4.30 o'clock it was blowing at the rate of 68 miles an hour.

Daily Examiner.

FRIDAY, MARCH 29, 1895.

It is now said that Sir Charles Hibbert Tupper has resigned the office of justice, because he wanted to be leader of the House. But because Sir John Thompson, who was Minister of Justice, was given the leadership, it does not follow that Sir Charles should be given it for the same reason. Sir John was given the important position, because—he was Sir John Thompson, and doubtless Sir Hibbert was refused the leadership because he was Sir Hibbert Tupper. Now it is Mr. Foster's turn to kick. He wants the position, and in the score of ability and experience and age, has some claim to it. What a happy family the Cabinet is. Hon. J. C. Patterson has resigned the portfolio of militia and sent back his kit to the armoury. Sir Hibbert Tupper resigned. Hon. Clarke Wallace in a condition of armed neutrality. Hon. Mr. Foster with his foot rilled to kick! The Premier and Mr. Haggart not speaking as they pass by. Can a house so divided against itself continue to stand?

The Toronto World under the heading, "the Conservative party all right," says:

The only thing for the Conservative party to do is to close up its ranks, stand by the National Policy and continue the progressive policy which it received from its first and greatest Chieftain, Sir John A. Macdonald. But it will not ask anyone to keep step that wishes to fall out of the march.

It is very kind of the junior Conservative organ to give permission for the disgruntled members of the party "to fall out." They hardly need such permission from such a humble source. They have a higher authority—the Dominion Cabinet has set a very flagrant example of "falling out."

A series of elections for the House of Commons will take place almost immediately. The constituencies affected are Antigonish, Quebec West and Vercheres, which have become vacant through the demise of the sitting members; Haldimand, where Dr. Montague will have to seek re-election in view of his entry into the Bowell ministry, and West Huron, to be vacated by the appointment of Hon J. C. Patterson to the position of Lieutenant Governor of Manitoba.

The Finance Minister, by multiplying 1,000,000 families by $200, makes the farmers' home market worth $200,000,000. But when he argues that all the people would quit eating if the National Policy should be suspended, the Globe thinks the weak spots of his philosophy begin to show through.

As a cabinet kicker, Mr. Chapleau, if he were in politics, would be out-classed by the present "stars" in Sir Mackenzie's menagerie.

CANADIAN PENSIONERS.

Republicans in 1896 Out Off U. S. Pensioners Resident in Canada—President Cleveland Restores Their Rights—Peterborough Pensioners Share in the Restoration.

After two years of persistant effort President Cleveland succeeded, just as Congress adjourned a few weeks ago, in having the independent pensioners living in Canada restored to the rolls. Consequently Mr. Dooda, U. S. Consul for this Consular District, has had the pleasure of listening to a great deal of sincere commendation and heartfelt praise for his President and his Government, from the soldiers' mothers and widows that have been dropping into the Consulate again to have their vouchers executed. Not only have they been but they have received cheques for the period of suspension, ranging from $186 to $252. In all, some $1,000 has been paid at the Consulate.

PUT BACK ON THE ROLLS,

Some five or six pensioners were replaced on the list in Peterborough, there being altogether about fifteen residents of the town on the U.S. pension list.

One of the last acts of the late Republican Administration was the passing of the following law, which President Harrison signed just three days before he was succeeded by President Cleveland:

"That, from and after July 1st, 1893, no pension shall be paid to a non-resident, who is not a citizen of the United States, except for actual disabilities incurred in the service."

THIS LITTLE AMENDMENT, which was tacked on to the Pension Act, had the effect of having between three or four thousand residents of Canada struck from the roster.

President Cleveland and the Democratic Commissioners of Pensions have ever since been urging the repeal of the act. They held that it "caused great trouble and annoyance to the excepted classes, who constitute the great bulk of non-resident pensioners, in compelling them to make proof that they belong to these excepted classes. And the final result is that payments under it are withheld from but few, save widows and dependent mothers, who have little else for their maintenance. The saving is too little to offset the suffering inflicted in individual cases. If all non-residents were refused payments of pensions might be made in support of such policy; but none can be urged in favour of this law, which, while giving annoyance to all, strikes only the most helpless."

SOME PLAUSIBLE ARGUMENT

In a letter addressed to Congress by the Commissioner of Pensions, under date of December 18, 1893, referring to this law he says:

"It has caused, and is causing, great trouble and annoyance to a large number of pensioners, and the final result is that they are now about 2,000 cases suspended in which it is practically impossible to furnish the testimony necessary to secure a resumption of payment. I have already called attention to the propriety of repealing this act in my annual report for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1894. I believe that an early passage of this bill will be of inestimable benefit to a most worthy class of pensioners, for the suspension of whose pensions there does not appear to have any satisfactory reason.

IMPERIAL POLITICS.

Great Britain's Relations to France in Africa Discussed in the House.

London, March 29.—Sir E. Ashmead-Bartlett, Conservative for Sheffield, opened an interesting debate in the Commons last evening on Great Britain's relations to France in Africa. He moved a reduction of the Foreign Office estimates for the purpose. He first directed the attention of the House to the encroachments which the Government permitted France to make upon Siam. In Africa, France was still more active than in Asia, he said. She had sent out an expedition which was menacing the Upper Nile and was seizing African territories recognised as being within the British sphere of influence.

Sir Edward Grey, Parliamentary Secretary of the Foreign Office, said Great Britain stood in such a position of trust in Egypt as to make the British and Egyptian spheres of influence cover the whole waterway. The House ought to be careful about giving credence to a rumour that a French expedition had been sent to the Nile country to occupy the valley of the river. Without doubt African affairs for the last two years had caused considerable anxiety as to what might happen in the future. During these years no provocation had been given France from the British side. The Government would continue to omit nothing calculated to maintain the good relations with France, and at the same time to uphold the undoubted claims of Great Britain.

Joseph Chamberlain, the Liberal-Unionist leader, spoke of Sir Edward's statements as the clearest and most satisfactory declaration yet heard on the subject from a responsible representative of the Government. The statement ought to leave Great Britain's claims on Egypt beyond all misunderstanding. He must remind the House, however, that as recently as the beginning of this month the statement was made unchecked in the French Chamber, and in the presence of the Ministers of Foreign Affairs, that France's object was aways to make England feel that her presence in Egypt was harmful, and that France could come up with her elsewhere than in the Mediterranean. If the French Government did not accept such statements it ought to repudiate them.

Henry Labouchere, the Radical leader, pronounced Sir Edward Grey's speech a menace to France ("Oh, Oh!"). He quite understood those cries of "Oh, Oh." They came from the Tory members who were delighted to find a Liberal Minister acting upon their principles.

Sir Edward Grey denied that this statement had implied in any way a menace to France. The question of a general settlement of their respective interests in Africa was under discussion between the two countries. The British claims had been stated clearly.

Sir E. Ashmead-Bartlett said that in view of the satisfactory reply made by the Government he withdrew his motion.

Hamilton and Niagara Central Ry.

Hamilton, March 29.—W. A. Wood, A. Zimmerman, W. W. Osborne and W. F. Forsyth went to St. Catharines prepared to fulfil the agreement between the Hamilton Redial Electric Railway Company, of Hamilton, and the Niagara Central Railway Company, and tendered a marked cheque for $175,000 as first payment for the purchase of the latter road. The directors of the Niagara Central were unable to deliver over the road unencumbered, as required by agreement. They were compelled to refuse payment in consequence. The agreement will be extended to give the Niagara Central directors time to arrange with the city of St. Catharines in regard to the transfer of bonds held by that city.

Will Not Modify the Embargo.

London, March 29.—The Right Hon. Herbert Gardner, President of the British Board of Agriculture, has received from Hon. A. R. Angers, the Canadian Minister of Agriculture, his further report on the cattle question. In the House of Commons yesterday Mr. John Lang, member for Dundee, tried to draw Mr. Gardner out on the subject, but the hon. gentleman only promised to consider whether the report and the veterinaries' statement of the suspicious cases at Antwerp can be fittingly published. It is not believed that the Board of Agriculture intends to modify the embargo on Canadian cattle at present.

FARMERS' INSTITUTES.

In answer to Mr. McKim, M. P. P., in the Local Legislature on Wednesday, as to the principle upon which selections are made of the leading speakers at Farmers' Institute meetings; as to the remuneration for such services, and also as to the political leanings of the gentlemen selected, Hon. Mr. Dryden, Minister of Agriculture said: Previous to the appointment of a Superintendent of Institutes the selection of speakers for Farmers' Institute meetings devolved upon President Mills of the Ontario Agricultural College, in conjunction with the President of the Central Farmers' Institute. Upon the appointment of a Superintendent, that official placed himself in communication with the various farmers' associations of the Province with the view of getting recommendations of suitable speakers. From the list submitted to him, and from those employed in the past, the selection was made by the Superintendent, after consultation with the President of the Agricultural College and the President of the Central Institute. The principle acted upon in making the selections is to secure as far as possible only practical, experienced and successful men. No attention has ever been given since the organization of institutes to the political leanings of those engaged in the work, the object being to keep politics entirely out of the discussions. Institute speakers now receive $2.50 per day for the actual time engaged, including Sundays, except those who have charge of deputations, who receive $3.50. The officers and professors of the Agricultural College receive no remuneration whatever for their service.

WHEN DOES A DAY BEGIN

AN INTERESTING EXPLANATION OF AN INTERESTING PUZZLE.

The Always Puzzling Questions of Time and Chronology—Perpetual Day and Perpetual Night—How the Mystery is Solved—A Scientific Explanation.

Questions of time and chronology are always puzzling. When does a day begin? Where does Saturday or Sunday begin? Is Sunday universal over the earth, or is it partly Sunday and partly Saturday or Monday or some other day? Is to-day the same day of the month at New York and New Zealand at Bombay and at San Francisco? Let me say that there is always day and night on the globe—that is to say somewhere it is always perpetual day and somewhere perpetual night around the world. The sun is always waking up in the morning and chasing away the shadows of night. And night is always following up the day. Where, then, does the day begin? Now suppose we begin our investigation of this subject at Chicago, near the 90th meridian of west longitude, on, say, Saturday morning at 6 o'clock, we shall find the local time of New York to be 7 o'clock a.m.; 10 a. m. at the Azores in Mid-Atlantic, noon in London, 7.30 p.m., at Pekin, China, while at New Zealand the day is drawing to a close. Thus it is early morning at Chicago, breakfast time in New York, dinner time in London, and supper time in Pekin all the same day.

Suppose we now take a step to the westward of Chicago. It is 4 a. m. at San Francisco and 1.30 a. m. at Honolulu. Even all this is Saturday, a civil day 24 hours long, and as the civil day begins at midnight, it is evident that this particular day was born a little to the west of Honolulu. Civil days are divided with two periods of 12 hours; hence all clock dials are divided into 12 spaces of one hour each. To a person living at Honolulu, then, Saturday has just begun; to one living in London it is noon Saturday; to one living in New Zealand Saturday is nearly over and he is sleeping into Sunday morning; to a resident of Chicago Sunday is 18 hours away, while to a Londoner it is but 12 hours away. Now it is clear that by the time Sunday gets to Honolulu, it is Monday morning at New Zealand. Though Honolulu and New Zealand are not far apart in longitude, they are widely apart as regards latitude, the one being in north latitude and the other in south latitude. But latitude does not affect time.

The people of Europe have observed their Sundays while the people of the United States are sleeping, and while the people of the United States are observing their Sunday, the people of Europe are sleeping into Monday morning. It is evident, therefore, that for purposes of commerce and navigation there must be a beginning somewhere of a day, at some point on the earth a day must begin and end, that is, the commercial civil day; Saturday, for instance, the day we have just been describing.

The maritime powers of the world have agreed to regard this 180th degree of longitude from London (or Greenwich) as the point where the day changes. This meridian, therefore, leads the day. Its passage under the 180th or midnight meridian marks the beginning of a new day on earth; here to-day becomes to-morrow. We have a new day for the month and a new day in the week for the transition. It is here that Saturday ends and Sunday begins. It is here then that Sunday is born, just to the west of Honolulu, but bear in mind that the day travels westward; therefore, this new born day does not visit Honolulu until it has made the circuit of the round globe. Honolulu and New Zealand are only about 30 degrees apart in longitude but they are a whole day apart as regards any particular day, because the points at which the day changes lies between them.—Geographical Magazine.

Geraniums Disliked by Flies.

Here is an interesting idea for the housewife who is troubled with the aggravating flies flourishing in their furnace-heated rooms long after cold weather is supposed to have destroyed them. The suggestion comes from abroad that the fragrant geranium—the old fashioned rose geranium beloved by our grandmothers—keeps flies away. A moderate sized geranium of this variety is said to be so disagreeable to flies that they avoid its neighborhood, and two or three of those plants in a room will drive them out altogether.

MEDICAL STUDENTS' FEES.

Mr. Haycock Gives Notice of a Bill to Reduce them from $100 to $50.

Toronto, March 28.—The Patrons have not yet finished fighting the medical profession. Their defeat of Wednesday has been followed up by another attack. Mr. Haycock gave notice of another bill yesterday which provides that the fees paid by medical students to the Medical Council for examination shall be reduced from $100 to $60. For matriculation $10, for intermediate $15 and for the finals $25.

The bill will be opposed by the Government.

New Industrial School Law.

Hon. Mr. Gibson introduced a bill to amend the Industrial School Act. The bill authorizes corporations to guarantee debentures issued for Industrial school purposes. It provides that any debenture debt incurred by any individual school board acting under powers derived from the public school board shall be a liability of the supporters of Public schools, and in the same manner when the Separate school board authorizes the expenditure its supporters shall be liable. The school boards may pay a per capita allowance instead of supplying teachers to the Industrial board. All children sent to Industrial schools shall remain under the control of the Industrial school board up to the age of 18 years. The bill was read the first time.

York County not Divided.

In the Private Bills Committee yesterday, the bill to divide the county of York into North and South York was defeated. Had the bill passed the farm lands in the northern half of the county would have been divided from the villages situated in South York. The farmers complain that they cannot make money because their taxes are too high. This state of affairs obtains they claim because of the local improvements at boom times.

The Hamilton Aqueduct.

The Hamilton and Lake Erie Power Company have requested the Government to permit them to build an aqueduct from the Niagara river to Burlington bay. They wish to supply surrounding towns with light, heat and power. Their bill was thrown out.

The Patrons in Council.

The Patrons held a caucus yesterday and discussed the petition of the supporters of the Separate schools of Cornwall, who are anxious to have a bill passed to legalize the division of certain school taxes. The Patrons did not fully decide whether or not to support the bill. Mr. McPherson is out hot-footed against Mr. Crawford's bill to compel all persons in charge of steam boilers to hold certificates. He says that he has been running 60 cheese factories for 20 years past and although the boilers are in charge of men who do not hold certificates there has never been an accident. He claims that as a matter of statistics it can be shown that in the majority of cases where accidents occur the boilers have been in charge of experts. Mr. Caven said that if Mr. Crawford's bill passed it would add at least one cent a bushel to the cost of wheat. He did not think the Patrons would vote for the bill.

The Law Reform Bill.

Sir Oliver Mowat moved the second reading of his law reform bill. He said that many suggestions had been made by interested parties which were altogether impracticable, while others were good and would possibly be incorporated in the bill. The agitation had been chiefly directed to having the number of appeals lessened and making necessary appeals less expensive. His bill provided remedies along these lines.

Mr. Whitney was sorry that the bill had not gone further. He agreed that one court of appeal was sufficient, but he feared that this end would not be obtained by the bill because of the number of exemptions. He favored the abolition of the High Court and agreed in favor of the establishment of a Supreme Court for Ontario, to be head and beyond which no litigant would have the right to go. Considerable discussion followed, after which the bill was read a second time.

Fruit Frauds.

Hon. Mr. Dryden moved the second reading of his bill to prevent fraud in the sale of fruit. The bill provides that all packages shall be marked with name and exact grade of fruit. It was argued against the bill that an inspector would have to be appointed to see that its provisions were carried out. This would entail great expense and annoy dealers. The bill was read a second time.

Want a Butter Bonus.

President Derbyshire and John A. Ovell, Aultsville, representing the Eastern Dairymen's Association, waited upon the Government yesterday and asked that a provincial bonus should be given for all butter exported. Hon. Mr. Dryden said that he was not in favor of the bonus system but that the Government would consider the matter.

A Women's Paper.

Ottawa, March 29.—The women's edition of the Evening Journal, which was announced some weeks ago, will appear April 11, with Her Excellency, the Countess of Aberdeen, as one of the editors. The chief editress will be Mrs. Frechette, a sister of W. D. Howells, the American novelist. Madame Laurier, wife of the Opposition leader, Mrs. (Hon.) G. E. Foster and Madame Ouimet, Lady Henry Somerset and Miss Frances Willard are among the contributors. A number of prominent society ladies are soliciting advertisements. Every department of the paper down to the police court reports will be run by women on April 11. The Journal will give the profits to the free library fund.

Two Operations.

BOTH FAILURES.

A Case of Kidney Complaint that would Not Yield to Surgery or Medicine until B. B. B. was Tried.

GENTLEMEN,—After having undergone two operations for Kidney Complaint without securing the least relief, and hearing of some remarkable cures made by B. B. B. in our neighborhood, I decided to try it. I was given up by the doctors after the operations failed, and it was providential that I heard of B. B. B. After the use of six bottles I experienced so great relief and so great a change for the better that I felt the good effects would be lasting, as indeed they have been. The seventh bottle perfectly cured me, and I am now stronger and better than I ever was before. People who saw me before I took B. B. B. and who see me now can scarcely believe that I am the same person.

Where Did You Get That ⁘HAT?⁘

Give that old "Back Number" a Resting Place, and buy one of the "Latest" Spring Styles From

GOUGH BROS.

Don't hunt for anything wrong in them. There's nothing there. The price has nothing to do with the quality. The man with $2 can command as good a Hat from GOUGH'S as $3.00 can command elsewhere.

Our position is a little peculiar We don't have to live off Hats alone. We're not bound to any traditional notions of big profits. The difference which makes it so is—we buy right direct from the makers. That's why we've got such a grip on

The Best Hat Trade of Peterborough.

You were never made for the Hat you know. The Hat was made for you. If you like to be abreast with the times, replace that old head block with one of our Leaders for 1895, bought from the best factories of England and America. Our Hats are ALL NEW. Latest in shapes and colour; soft and stiff. Qualities are grandly generous—scarcely a sort that you'll find missing—because we have the biggest Hat Store within miles of Peterborough.

Stylish Hats for Stylish Dressers,

In Men's, Youth's and Boy's Sizes.

Selling Hats alongside of Clothing and Boots and Shoes cuts down expenses and makes prices less. That's the plain fact of the matter. Can you catch on?

Our ONE DOLLAR HAT is in keeping with good quality. Our $1.25 and $1.50 Hats are almost unbelievable—but the bargain is in them—while our $2.00, $2.50 and $3.00 Hats are something mystifying for finish, Trimming workmanship and style. PRICE draws, and when hitched up with our popular team—QUALITY and STYLE—makes a force that irressitibly draws into our stores the bulk of Peterborough patronage. You need a decent Hat—you need it now—don't spoil your credit by a seedy top-piece.

The committee will also recommend that the usual grant of $400 be made to the Horticultural Society for the purpose of keeping the Court House Park in order and that the Salvation Army receive a grant of $25.

A Too Early Shipment.

The Brockville Recorder of March 27th says: "Forty new cheese from Bissell's willow factory, at Algonquin, were brought into town yesterday and delivered to Mr. A. A. Davis, who bought them a few days ago for 9½c. They were shipped to-day to Liverpool with about four hundred last season's make which Mr. Davis has been holding here during the winter. This is said to be the earliest shipment of new cheese ever made from Canada."

To Farmers.

For taking off deacons, in the first place, don't kill a calf until it is as least three days old. In taking off a calf skin never cut the throat crosswise. Slit the skin from the brisket to the tail; and from the brisket to the jaw; then cut around each leg near the hoof. Slit the hind leg from the hoof up directly over the gambrel, and the forward legs in the front, directly over the knee, to the top of the brisket bone. Skin the head and legs carefully to avoid cutting them; then commencing at the head, draw or fist off the skin without any further use of the knife. When taken off, lay the skin flat upon the floor in a cool place where the sun cannot shine upon it, and cover with salt. Don't roll it up, but let it remain flat on the floor till you want to sell.—Madoc Review.

Honour to a Peterborough Artist.

Mr. Shaw, artist, last fall exhibited in Toronto one of his original productions, an oil entitled "Alone in the World." The picture was greatly admired by the artists and critics at the time; but nothing more was thought of the matter, until a short time ago, when Mr. Shaw was asked for a reduced copy of his picture for reproduction with the gems of original art in the Mail and Empire, Toronto. The picture will appear in to-morrow's (Saturday) issue of that journal. This request made to Mr. Shaw is a high honour and a practical tribute to the excellent and artistic nature of his work. Few home productions are similiarly honoured—a painting must possess more than ordinary merit to be considered worthy of reproduction among the works of the best Canadian artists in the Mail and Empire, which aims to make that paper the highest home authority on the subject of art.

The Sons of England Band.

The members of Lansdowne Lodge, Sons of England, have been working quietly, but persistently, for the past few months with the object of forming a band in connection with the lodge and their efforts have at last been crowned with success, as it is announced that an organization, twenty strong, fully provided with instruments, has been formed. The leadership of the new band is vested in Mr. Pennington, who is well known in all local musical circles. The instruments required have not only been purchased, but have been paid for already through individual subscriptions from the members of the Lodge. The new musical organization will be known as the Sons of England Band.

Handicappers—T. W. R. McRae and W. Kennedy.
Executive Committee—Jas. Brown, F. B. Smith, B. E. Cummings, S. G. Retallack, F. Lewis, H. Austin and F. S. Foster.

The club decided to send three delegates to the C. W. A. annual meeting to be held at Toronto on Good Friday, and the following gentlemen were selected to represent the club: F. B. Smith, H. McGinnis, and L. O. Frost.

Belleville will help Peterborough out in her bid for the big bicycle meet.

BASEBALL.

An enthusiastic meeting of Lindsay baseballists was held on Thursday evening last, for the purpose of re-organising for the season of 1895. The boys are determined that Lindsay will not be behind the pennant this year and only await fine weather to get down to active practice. She following were elected officers for the season:

Honorary-President—J. D. Flavelle.
President—George Lytle.
Vice-President—H. Middleton.
Captain—A. Hamilton.
Treasurer—T. Armstrong.
Secretary—N. McWilliams.

An energetic managing committee was formed to carry on the arrangements.

ASHBURNHAM BASEBALL.

At a meeting of the Chevaliers de Tirebouchon baseball club held last evening the following officers were elected for the ensuing year:

Hon. President.—Commodore H. Calcutt.
President—Harry Neil.
Vice-President—Alf. Terrill.
Sec.-Treas.—Jas. Drain.
Field Captain—Alex. Patterson.

Mr. Harry Neil is manager. The positions in the field will be taken as follows: W. J. Scott, pitcher; M. Costello, catcher; Harry Neil, 1st base; W. Crane, 2nd base; W. Gay, 3rd base; James Tobin, short stop; W. Kennedy, left field; Samuel Adams, right field, Robt. Butcher, centre field.

Capt. Clare Calcutt and Capt. Charles Calcutt are spare men, while Mr. M. A. Jamieson officiates in the capacity of mascot.

The battery will excel that of former years. W. J. Scott, the invincible, reversible curve twister has been added to the club, with Michael Costello behind the bat and Harry Neil on first base. No doubt some most effective work will be performed this season. The first practice match will be held on their grounds—Riverside Park, the first Friday in April, at 6.30 p.m. All members are particularly requested to be present on this occasion.

The club will hold its annual dinner at its club rooms, Ashburnham, next week. Tickets of admission will be issued to members of the club. During the evening a schedule of the season's games, both home and abroad, will be drafted. Manager Neil is desirous of seeing all members present on this occasion.

CRICKET.

The Belleville cricket club elected the following officers:

President—J. P. C. Phillips.
Manager—J. Brasier.
Secretary-Treasurer—W. E. Brown.
Captain—Ward Cutler.
Executive Committee—F. Lewis, W. Wallace and the other officers of the club.

LACROSSE.

The Junior Peterboroughs met last evening and after considerable discussion decided on practicing on the same grounds as the senior team, viz: the Driving Park.

It is hardly probable that the team will go to Millbrook on May 24th, as the boys would naturally prefer going with the seniors to Campbellford where good inducements are held out to them.

An effort was made during the evening to persuade the members of the team to play for the season with the Juniors, but the majority of the members were of the opinion that if the Seniors wished to draw from them it would be only right that they should do so.

The meeting called for the purpose of organizing the Lindsay junior lacrosse club proved very successful and the athletic juniors are determined to make a name for themselves during the coming season. They purpose trying to form a district league comprising Woodville, Cannington, Uxbridge, Port Perry, Whitby, Peterborough and Lindsay. The following officers were elected:—

Manager—A Gillies.
Captain—Wm. Smith.
Secretary-Treasurer—R. Menzies.

A lacrosse tournament is on the tapis for Millbrook on the 24th, when teams from Port Hope, Millbrook, Peterborough, Lindsay and Norwood will likely be entered.

A meeting of junior lacrosse players for the purpose of forming a district league is expected to be held at Peterborough on Good Friday, to be composed of clubs from Peterborough, Millbrook, Lindsay, Norwood, Hastings and Campbellford.

HOCKEY.

The brilliant performances of the hockey club during the past season has placed the name of Peterborough in everybody's mouth. Though a great success on the ice the club has not flourished financially, and the boys have decided to give a high class entertainment on April 18th in the opera house, with the object of placing their exchequer in a better position. Pauline Johnston, the Indian Poetess, and Owen A. Smiley will present the programme. This effort, on the part of the hockey club, should meet with the most generous support from every citizen.

FELL HEADLONG INTO THE AYLMER STREET DRAIN.

Town Clerk Armstrong's Little Girl Has A Dangerous Fall.

The little four-year-old daughter of Mr. S. R. Armstrong, town clerk, had a narrow escape from being the victim of a very serious accident this morning by falling into the deep Aylmer street drain at the identical spot where the sad drowning of a little boy took place some years ago.

Mr. Armstrong's little girl was playing in the vicinity of the drain on the corner of Aylmer and London streets, with an older sister and some of the children of Mr. John Glass, when she lost her footing and fell headlong to the bottom of the drain. The affrighted cries of the other children drew Mrs. Glass to the spot and the little one was rescued from her perilous position.

Fortunately the water in the drain is very low at present and beyond the shock from the fall and a thorough wetting the child escaped uninjured.

The drain in question may be characterised as a death trap indeed, as if the water was high and a child fell into it at this spot it would be swept away under the covered portion to a fearful and certain death.

"C. I. Hood & Co., Lowell, Mass.:

"For a number of years I have been troubled with a general tired feeling, shortness of breath, pain in the back, and constipation. I could get only little rest at night on account of the pain and had no appetite whatever. I was that tired in my limbs that I gave out before half the day was gone. I tried a great number of medicines but did not get any permanent relief from any source until, upon recommendation of a friend, I purchased a bottle of Hood's Sarsaparilla, which made me feel better at once. I have continued its use, having taken three bottles, and

A FORMER PETERBOROUGHNIAN IN TROUBLE.

Initials Cleverly Forged, but the Scheme Was Clumsily Handled.

Young Sibley, concerning whom an item appeared in yesterday's EXAMINER, has evidently travelled at a rapid pace since leaving Peterborough as the appended despatch from Montreal goes to show:

Montreal, March 28.—Victor Anderson and W. H. Sibley were arrested yesterday on a charge of forgery by Detective Silas Carpenter, of the Canadian Secret Service. The attempted swindle was made on the Bank of Montreal, and in the hands of a smarter man than Anderson would no doubt have been successful.

Early yesterday afternoon a cheque was presented to the paying teller, Mr. Scott Henshaw, for $398.76. The check was neither signed or dated, but bore the forged initials of Mr. Parke, chief discount clerk of the bank. Cheques initialed by Mr. Parke are supposed to represent the proceeds from notes that the bank is discounting. The attention of the young man who presented the cheque was called to the absence of the signature. In the ordinary course the cheque could have been filled in at the bank counter. Instead, the youth took the cheque and glided through the door. Detective Carpenter was sent for at once. Presently the cheque was presented again, this time by another man. The cheque now bore the signature 'John A. Doran.' The man when arrested said he had received the cheque from a man across the street. The latter was recognized as Anderson by the detective. The young man, who was evidently a gull, was instructed to take the cheque back to Anderson. This was done, and as Anderson received the cheque he was arrested. From information given by Anderson, Sibly was arrested as an accomplice, as he was entering 83 St. Denis street, where he resides, last night. On the way to the police station Sibley took some papers from his pocket and threw them away. The pieces were carefully collected by one of Carpenter's men, who was following.

In the police court this morning, Sibley pleaded not guilty to the charge of forgery. 'I never saw the cheque before in my life," he said.

He was quite ready for his trial, and the enquete was begun. Mr. Falconer appeared for the Bank of Montreal. The prisoner was undefended.

Victor Anderson was one of the witnesses. He said he lived with the prisoner Sibley at 83 St. Denis street. Sibley told him that he was short of money. Witness had seen the cheque before in his own hands. It was given to him by Sibley a few days ago. It bore neither signature nor date, but was initialed. He did not see Sibley put the initials on the cheque, but he had seen him practising the initials on another sheet of paper. Sibley had told him that the initials were good, no matter what the cheque was signed—'Smith, Jones or Robinson.' Witness knew nothing about the banking business, but Sibley had assured him that there was no danger.

A cheque covered with initials the same as on the one presented was filed as an exhibit.

Witness recognised the handiwork of Sibley. When the cheque was returned to him by the teller, witness went into the post office and signed the cheque "John A. Doran." He then got a young man whom he did not know to present the cheque again.

During the enquete, after the production of several documents belonging to Sibley, he asked that the enquiry be postponed until he consulted a lawyer.

Judge Desnoyer reminded him that he had said he was ready. He was at liberty to ask any questions and was assured that he should have verbatim copies of the evidence given and all manner of fair play. The enquete was then adjourned until ten o'clock to-morrow morning. Both accused have been convicted before.

It was learned that Sibley had had a note discounted at the Bank of Montreal last fall and had received an initialed cheque from the discount clerk, to be paid by the teller. The initialed cheque had been returned by the bank to Sibley afterwards, with his other cheques, and it was from this cheque that the forged initials were copied.

DIED.

DIXON.—In Cavan, on Thursday, March 28th, 1895, Norman Stanley, infant son of Mr. Robert and Edith Dixon, aged 3 months and 7 days.

PETERBOROUGH, Thursday Mar. 28, 1895.

The weather is likely to be bright, but sloppy, windy and moderately cold.

Such a Day as Yesterday

can always be turned to good account by taking a car to our store. In fact many ladies did do so and spent a profitable and pleasurable day. In spite of the snow storm, we were favoured by a large attendance of the fair sex, who turned out to get a sight of our Millinery display on the Opening Day. Some people prefer snowy and rainy days for shopping. No jury of Ladies can find an indictment against our recherche Exposition of Spring and Summer styles. Some thought it was better to-day. If so, it will be still better Friday and Saturday. Just wait till the snow rolls by—"When we all Thaw Out."

In spite o' wind an' weather,
In spite o' every doubt,
We'll wear the winsin feather
When we All Thaw Out!

In spite o' wintry weather
Bad luck 'il turn about,
An we'll march with colors flyin'
When we All Thaw Out!

DEATH OF ANDREW McGEE.

It Occurred on March 19th, in Asphodel.

(Norwood Register.)

The late Andrew McGee, who died in Asphodel on Tuesday of last week was born in the county of Donegal, Ireland, in August 1817, and came to Canada in 1840. He settled in Waterloo, a small village near Kingston, where he married Miss Mary Pearson. After a residence of three years in Waterloo they removed to Asphodel, where his wife—by whom he had three children—died shortly afterwards. The children are: Alexander, and Mrs. Samuel Scott, of Asphodel, and the late Mrs. Wm. Thistlethwaite. Some time after the death of his first wife, Mr. McGee married Margaret Stephenson, daughter of the late Jas. Stevenson. Three boys were born to them, viz., Samuel, George and Andrew, all of whom reside in Asphodel. Mr. McGee has resided on lot 11, in the 11th con. for about 53 years. He was a very industrious man and lived to see his family well provided for. He was a member of the Methodist church and a regular attendant until he became too feeble on account of his years to come so far. In politics he was a life-long supporter of the Reform party. He was a kind father and a good neighbour and was highly esteemed by all who knew him. His remains were laid to rest in the Norwood cemetery on Thursday last. The funeral service was conducted in the home by the Rev. James Anderson. The funeral was largely attended. His widow and family have the sincere sympathy of all.

NEW CHEESE FACTORY.

The New Cheese Factory at Young's Point Nearing Completion and Will be Open May 1st.

(Lakefield News.)

The cheese industry must be one of the most profitable of the farmers' business, if we should judge by the number of factories in operation in and around Peterborough county. In the county itself the industry is rapidly going ahead, many new factories being started, the latest among them being the Young's Point factory, which is now nearing completion. The new factory is being built on the Smith side of the river, near the school house, and when finished will be a very neat and compact one. The building will be a two story, frame, 20x30, the upper story being used as a curing room and the lower one the cheese factory proper. Messrs. Wilson Bros., the proprietors, expect to have the factory in operation by the first of May. Only the latest and most improved machinery will be used and the patrons will be paid by the Babcock tester which is coming into general use. Mr. W. H. Casement, of this place, has the contract of supplying the cheese vats, etc., and it is needless to say they will be the best that can be turned out. Mr. A. Wilson has been engaged as maker, who will no doubt give satisfaction to all, as he has had considerable experience in the States and Canada, and is considered a first class maker. The new facoory is promised a good support, and the territory it will cover is a good one. A meeting of the patrons will be held as soon as the building is completed.

EVANGELISTIC SERVICES.

Large Congregations—Earnest Interest in Spiritual Matters.

Last night's congregation in the George street Methodist church was one of the largest of the series, and a spirit of deep solemnity pervaded the meeting. Mr. Moore spoke from Gal. ii, 20, "Who loved me, and gave himself for me." (1) God's love appeals to the human heart with more power than any other of His attributes. (2) This love is directed towards the ungodly and undeserving. (3) It is personal and individual. Mr. Whyte conducted the after meeting, during which many testified as to what God had done for them while many others expressed a desire to be saved, and were spoken to by the ministers and others present.

A large number of written requests for prayer have been sent in each evening and read by Mr. Moore, which shows that many have become anxious about their loved ones.

The afternoon meeting in the Charlotte street Methodist church was well attended and many took part in it.

At 4.15 this afternoon there was a mass meeting for children in the George street Methodist church, and at 8 o'clock the evangelistic service will be held.

TORONTO'S GREAT HORSE SHOW

The breeders and all those interested in horses in this part of the country are looking forward to visiting the first Canadian horse show, which is to be held in the new armories, Toronto, on Thursday, Friday and Saturday, April 18th, 19th and 20th. The event is given under the joint auspices of the Agriculture and Arts Association, representing the breeding societies of Ontario, and the Country and Hunt Club of Toronto, which has charge of the harness, saddle and hunting classes. Over $5000 are offered in prizes and the arrangements are all on a large scale. The ring will be 210 by 80 feet, almost as large as the Madison Square Garden, New York, where the National Horse Show is held every year, and there will be accommodation for 6000 spectators. All the railways are making reduced rates, and return tickets can be obtained on Thursday, April 18th, at a single fare, and on Friday or Saturday, April 19th or 20th, at a fare and a third. All tickets good to return on or before Monday, April 23nd. Entries close on Wednesday, April 3rd. All information and catalogues can be obtained from the Secretaries, Henry Wade, 12 Elm street, Toronto or Stewart Houston, 18 Toronto street, Toronto.

On motion of Messrs. McKee and Ferguson, the report was carried.

MONTHLY PAYMENTS.

Mr. Ferguson rose to state that he had consulted the legal firm of Dennistoun & Stevenson, and had been advised that the Board could require the town to advance to it in monthly payments, as required, the amount need for the schools, as stated in the estimates. He therefore submitted the following resolution:

Moved by W. G. Ferguson, seconded by L. M. Hayes, that pursuant to 57th Vict. cap. 50, sec. 5, the municipal council of the town of Peterborough be and they are hereby required to pay to the treasurer of the Board of Education in monthly instalments the money to be raised for the current expenditure of the Public and High Schools of the town of Peterborough as follows:

On the 15th of	April,	1896	$2,500
" " "	May	"	2,500
" " "	June	"	2,500
" " "	July	"	2,500
" " "	Sept	"	2,000
" " "	Oct	"	1,500
" " "	Nov	"	1,500
" " "	Dec	"	1,000
			$20,000

And that the Secretary forward a copy of this resolution to the municipal council. —Carried.

Mr. Peter Hamilton had not expected the calling of this special meeting, and in consequence the Property Committee was not in a position to make a report yet concerning the question of school accommodation for the children in the southern portion of the town.

Mr. Law was anxious to have the matter left in abeyance for the present. If the Board met in regular session on Tuesday evening next a large deputation of ratepayers would be present to urge the claims of the south for a new school of four rooms.

Mr. Stevenson thought that a strip of land owned by the town and held as could be secured for nothing as a location for the new school.

Mr. Ferguson pointed out that this land was very valuable as a manufacturing site, lying as it did between the two railroads. It had been asked for before and the grant refused.

Principal Yeomie being present was asked for his views upon the subject. He stated that he understood that the new school would only be a four-roomed one, and in this event was not in favour of seeing it erected, as it was an impossibility to grade properly in a school of this size. He therefore was in favour of having two more rooms added to his six room school, which was greatly crowded at present. So much so in fact,

AS THE BOARD KNEW,

as to necessitate the renting of the Mission school in which to hold classes. Even if a new school was built he urged that his own be improved to the extent which he asked. In the present state of affairs scholars entering even the junior fourth book had to walk from the extreme south to the central school for tuition, as there was no accommodation for them in the South Ward school.

Principal Smith, of the Central school, spoke strongly in favour of adding two rooms to the present South Ward school. A scholar entering the higher grades was handicapped unless properly instructed in the primary departments and it was an impossibility to properly grade unless there were in a school.

Mr. Peter Hamilton was in favour of adding two rooms to the present school and placed the advantages of his view of the situation in a very clear light before the Board. By the statement of the two principals it was clear, he thought, that if two rooms were added to the south ward school, Principal Yeomie's usefulness to the Board would be greatly increased, as with an 8 roomed school his work would be attended with better results. For the new school an extra janitor and another teacher or so would be required, which would be an additional expense and if the present school was enlarged, $100 paid in rent for the mission school would be saved. A new school would be very expensive as there would be no use

IN BUILDING A POOR ONE.

The present school buildings of Peterborough were a disgrace to the town, many villages boasting far better ones. A new one, if erected, would have to be built according to the latest improved system. He would not press any motion in regard to the matter on the Board and had no pet scheme in connection with the matter. He was open to conviction regarding the question, but at present thought it to the advantage of the Board to improve their present property.

Mr. Stevenson pointed out that from an architectural point of view, the adding on of two rooms to the South Ward school would have a tendency to make the school most unsightly indeed. The grounds, too, were not large enough at present and their smallness would become when the school was enlarged. The children were forced to play upon the streets and over the wood piles at the risk of breaking their necks, and when they weren't engaged in breaking somebody else's windows their own suffered on account of the limited space allowed them in which to play.

EVEN MORE APPARENT

Mr. Hartley was opposed to building a new school on the ground of the great additional expense.

Mr. Stevenson, seconded by Mr. Law, moved the following resolution, which was carried:

"That the Property Committee be requested to obtain plans of the proposed improvements to the No. 1 Ward school, also plan of a four-room school, the cost of which shall not exceed $8000 for the South Ward, and submit as soon as ready to the Board."

On motion of Mr. Hamilton and Mr. Law the Board adjourned to meet at the call of the chair.

WALL PAPER OPENING DAY

At the Peterborough Bookstore Wednesday and Thursday.

On Wednesday and Thursday, March 27th and 28th, we will inaugurate a new and novel feature in connection with our wall paper department. The occasion will be marked by a special display of our new and elaborate spring designs for 1896, representing the acme of art in wall paper decorations, both in colour and artistic effect.

Our immense stock, consisting of thousands of rolls of beautiful designs will thus be placed on view before the public and constitute an exposition of the largest wall paper stock in Ontario, in which the handsomest patterns for parlours, drawing rooms, halls, bedrooms, offices, churches and public buildings, will be exhibited.

This will be a sight worth seeing. Everyone invited. Remember the opening days, Wednesday and Thursday, March 27th and 28th—A. H. STRATTON & Co., 417 George street.

How does the bread that mother bakes
Give strength when I am weak,
Make for my body dimpled flesh,
And scarlet for my cheek?

How does the milk that Daisy gives,
White as drifted snow,
Change to drops of crimson blood
That through my body flow?

How does the air, the pure, sweet air,
Blowing gently by,
Laugh right merrily in my voice
And sparkle in my eye?

THE SPARROWS AND THE CHIPMUNK.

An Account of a Very Fierce Battle Between Them.

A young naturalist who is a close observer of birds tells this little story:

"One morning last summer, while walking through one of our parks, I was attracted by a tremendous chattering from a clump of bushes near the pathway. It sounded as if a hundred birds were having a fight over their breakfast—for sparrows think that a fat worm or a juicy bug is worth making a great fuss about.

"I walked quickly and stealthily up to the bushes and peeped in. It was not a worm which caused the commotion, but something bigger. A large flock of English sparrows were flying about, screaming as if they had gone mad and pecking savagely at intervals at some small animal, which was running about on the ground. It was a poor little red chipmunk who had excited their wrath. He was running back and forth, evidently trying to get away from his tormentors. It was of no use, for he was closely surrounded by them, and he evidently was getting weak in the unequal struggle.

"So I drove away the sparrows and tried to rescue the miserable little squirrel. When the birds flew away the chipmunk still lay upon the ground and seemed unable to move. I picked him up in my hands. He was in a pitiable condition. The sparrows had pulled nearly every hair out of his tail. One of his eyes was entirely pecked out and he was covered with cuts and wounds, where the pugnacious little sparrows had pecked and beaten him.

"Poor little chippy! He was nearly dead and evidently in such suffering that he had to be put out of his misery. We had Mr. Chipmunk stuffed and put him up on the mantel-shelf for an ornament. He looks much more happy there than he did the day the quarrelsome little sparrows pecked his life away. But what it was that excited their wrath Mr. Chipmunk never told."

Faure's Unaffected Cordiality.

Mr. Felix Faure continues, says our Paris correspondent, to win public favor by his unaffected, hearty manners. He refuses to be bound by the Protocol unless on questions of international politeness and public ceremonial. The President, he says, should be his own protocol, particularly when he wishes to act according to the dictates of his heart and of common sense. Thus at the ball at the Hotel de Ville he left Mme. Poubelle, wife of the Prefect of the Seine, to be taken to the buffet by a Minister, and gave his arm to the homely Mme. Champoudry. This lady's husband represented on that occasion the town council. The President thought that she, as hostess, should be treated as the highest lady present. This delighted all the Radicals of the town council, who constantly rebel against the tutelage in which M. Poubelle, the Prefect of the Seine, tries to keep them. The courteous instincts of the President were also shown in the way in which he received at the Elysee the old boys of the Pompes Technical School, where he was educated. Those who called on him were his classmates and are now all business men. The senior old boy, M. Chapron, a civil engineer attached to the School of Arts and Trades, delivered an address. When it was ended, M. Felix Faure said: "Do me the pleasure of making yourselves at home and putting away ceremony. Let us smoke a cigar in remembrance of our school days; drink a flagon of beer and have a chat. But I expect all of you to use the old familiar 'thee' and 'thon' in talking to me; otherwise I shall feel on stilts, and I hate nothing more than that."—London News.

THANKFUL TO-DAY

Lorenzo Pulliston, a Well Known Citizen of Sydney Mines, C. B., Tells How Burdock Blood Bitters Cured Him of Scrofula, Spots, Blemishes, etc.

DEAR SIRS—I am thankful to say that through the use of B. B. B. I am strong and healthy to-day. I was troubled with Scrofula and Spots and Blemishes all over my body. Being recommended to try B. B. B. I did so, and can positively say that it made a perfect cure. The first bottle was very successful, and before I had taken half of the second I was completely well. I recommend B. B. B. to all comers.

THE ALABASTER INDUSTRY.

It Has Flourished in Italian Caves Since the Days of the Ancients.

Thirty-two miles to the south east of Pisa, in the province of that name, a very remarkable and very ancient industry is carried on. We refer to the alabaster industry, of which a full description from actual observation is given by Vice-Consul Carmichael, of Leghorn, in a Foreign Office report just issued. Volterra, where the alabaster is found, enjoys special distinction among places in the world which produce that commodity. The material, which is of five main varieties, is found in nodules, embedded in huge masses of limestone. At the end of each cavern whence it is extracted two or three men are to be seen working away with small T-shaped picks by the dim light of unprotected oil lamps of Etruscan pattern, which, by a singular tenacity of tradition, are still in use in the district. In one case the block of alabaster will be already well projecting from its bed of limestone, and the operator is carefully picking away all around it, in order to extricate the complete block. The larger the specimen the more valuable it is in proportion to its weight. In another, search is still being made for the alabaster, and the workman is vigorously beating down the wall of limestone until he lights upon the white nose of what looks like a block. He then picks away carefully, so as not to injure the prize. When there seems a likelihood of a large quantity of limestone having to be removed, blasting with gunpowder is resorted to.

The alabaster industry dates back to classic times. Great changes have taken place in it, however, within living memory. In former days there were three distinct classes of workmen engaged in the work of fashioning the raw material—the master artist, who owned a workshop and employed numerous workers, selling his products direct to the alabaster shops or "galleries;" the journeymen, and the travellers, men who took huge cases of the goods and sold them as they went along, in all the countries of the world, civilized and uncivilized. Of these, two, the masterworker and the traveller, are extinct species. Nowadays three men, usually relatives, work together in informal partnership, one being a turner, another a modeller and the third a decorator, who carves such decorative adjuncts on the finished articles as fruit and flowers. Their gains are very small, and, indeed, travellers who put in at the port of Leghorn and have alabaster vases, statuary and the like offered at almost absurdly low prices, refuse, as a rule, to believe that they can be made by hand.

One kind of alabaster is made by a process of dyeing, which is still a trade secret, into an excellent imitation of coral. For a time this had a very large sale, but the trade is now threatened with extinction. It is suggested that the people of the East, who used to buy it largely, left off doing so as they were doubtful whether the sham article could properly be used in the religious rites wherein coral plays a part. The alabaster workers have true artistic characteristics, but in their desire to turn out what they think will sell they neglect the fine models that are to be found in such profusion in the churches of Italy, and flood the market with eternal reproductions of a limited number of classical figures and with flashy modern dancing girls, coquettish diving girls, faultlessly clad pifferari and impossibly spruce lazzaroni.—London Daily News.

Men and Women in all Walks of Life Tell of the Remarkable Cures Wrought by South American Nervine Tonic.

SIX DOSES WILL CONVINCE THE MOST INCREDULOUS.

EDITOR COLWELL, OF PARIS, ONT., REVIEW.

Newspaper editors are almost as sceptical as the average physician on the subject of new remedies for sick people. Nothing short of a series of most remarkable and well authenticated cures will incline either an editor or a doctor to seriously consider the merits honestly claimed for a medicine.

Hundreds of testimonials of wonderful recoveries wrought with the Great South American Nervine Tonic were received from men and women all over the country before physicians began to prescribe this great remedy in chronic cases of dyspepsia, indigestion, nervous prostration, sick headache, and as a tonic for building up systems sapped of vitality through protracted spells of sickness.

During his experience of nearly a quarter of a century as a newspaper publisher in Paris, Ont., Editor Colwell, of The Paris Review, has published hundreds of columns of paid medicine advertisements, and, no doubt, printed many a gracefully-worded puff for his patrons as a matter of business, but in only a single instance, and that one warranted by his own personal experience, has he given a testimonial over his own signature. No other remedy ever offered the public has proved such a marvellous revelation to the most sceptical as the South American Nervine Tonic. It has never failed in its purpose, and it has cured when doctors and other medicines were tried in vain.

"I was prostrated with a particularly severe attack of 'La Grippe,'" says Mr. Colwell, "and could find no relief from the intense pains and distress of the malady. I suffered day and night. The doctors did not help me, and I tried a number of medicines, but without relief. About this time I was advised to try the South American Nervine Tonic. Its effects were instantaneous. The first dose I took relieved me. I improved rapidly and grew stronger every day. Your Nervine Tonic cured me in a single week."

The South American Nervine Tonic rebuilds the life forces by its direct action on the nerves and the nerve centres, and it is this notable feature which distinguishes it from every other remedy in existence. The most eminent medical authorities now concede that fully two-thirds of all the physical ailments of humanity arise from exhaustion of the nerve forces. The South American Nervine Tonic acting direct upon the nerve centres and nerve tissues instantaneously supplies them with the true nourishment required, and that is why its invigorating effects upon the whole system are always felt immediately. For all nervous diseases, for general debility arising from enfeebled vitality, and for stomach troubles of every variety no other remedy can possibly take its place.

The Parrot's Facetious View.

The family of a professional man, living on the East Side, is the owner of a parrot of such precocity, wit and enterprise, that there often is some doubt as to whether the family owns the parrot or the parrot owns the family. On Christmas Day all the members of the household where this bird holds forth, with some relatives and guests, partook of a late breakfast and afterwards went into the parlors, where gifts were distributed, with the usual merriment and chatter. This started the parrot, and all day long it made more noise than a sewing society. This was amusing at first, but became monotonous as the hours passed, and at last, after vain efforts to quiet the bird by expostulation, its master, took it from the cage and cuffed its head severely. This had often proved sufficient as a means of discipline, but the master of the house fled in terror when the parrot, cocking his head on one side, exclaimed in falsetto: "Thank you so much; that is exactly what I needed." The bird evidently had stored up the expressions of the morning.—Rochester Democrat and Chronicle.

What John Wanamaker, the Most Heavily Insured man in America, Says:
(INTERVIEW WITH JOHN WANAMAKER.)

It is very generally known that Ex-Postmaster General John Wanamaker, of Philadelphia, carries the largest amount of Life Insurance of any man in the United States. A representative of the press recently interviewed this gentleman while he was travelling with the Presidential party, and this interview will be found, we believe, of general interest:—

"You are said to be the most heavily insured man in the country, Mr. Wanamaker," remarked the press representative.

"How did you come to think of that?" he said with a smile. "You are not looking for any disaster under such excellent management as our friend Boyd is giving this train and party?"

"No," I replied. "A newspaper friend in San Francisco, who had heard the report, wanted me to ask you it it was true, and if so, what your business reasons are for it?"

"Well," he modestly answered, "I have heard it stated that I am the most heavily insured man in the country. I don't know about that. The amount of my policies is $1,550,000, and the value, with the accumulations since the policies were taken out, is about two millions of dollars."

"In what class of companies are your policies?"

"They are all in stock and mutual companies, and none of them in what are known as assessment or instalment companies."

"Are they full life term policies or on what is termed the 'tontine' plan?"

"I have generally taken ten and fifteen payment policies and very few life policies. With about all good companies a contract can now be made whereby there is no risk of losing a policy after two years' premiums have been paid. If the party insured chooses to withdraw he can get a paid-up policy. Indeed, I understand that some companies have forms whereby the insurer can after one year, if desired, withdraw and receive a paid-up policy. There is practically little risk, any more, in insuring in the old companies."

"Perhaps you would be willing to tell me how you came to insure so heavily?"

"I thought the matter out, and convinced myself that it was a good business venture. Besides, it seemed to me that I might, perhaps, give away more money in lifetime if there was a fixed certainty of putting it back into my estate by Life Insurance. I conceive that the best way for a man to carry on benevolence is not to leave it to be done through his will, but to do it in his lifetime, and I felt that Life Insurance would give me more freedom in carrying out some plans I have, and which I would be glad to see completed before I leave this world. If you want to ascertain what the circumstances were in placing the Life Insurance, I must go further in my answers and say that I should not have gone so far in my Life Insurance but for the skill of the agent who tackled me to insure to a greater extent than I would otherwise have done. He was an old friend who had been in mercantile business and who knew how to present Life Insurance without boring me. I feel to-day sincerely grateful to the man who followed me so discreetly with information about companies, and who kept the subject before me until I settled the question."

"When did you begin taking Life Insurance policies?"

"My first policy was taken when I was twenty-one."

"Do you consider it a good thing for a man of small means?"

"I certainly do. Most young men spend more for cigars during the year than the annual cost of a $2,500 policy in a good company. If they must have the cigars they might divide between cigars and Life Insurance and carry at least a $1,000 policy. I think every young man, before he is married, ought to try to get at least a $1,000 policy."

"Among how many companies are your policies divided, and where are they located?"

"About forty companies. Most of them are located in the East. A few are in the West and a few in Canada."

"Do you recommend Life Insurance to others, especially those in whom you feel a personal interest?"

"I can perhaps answer that best by saying that I presented a few years ago a $1,000 policy, paid up for one year, to every insurable head of family in my employ. Many of the prudent men who received them not only kept them but added to them, and I have the satisfaction of knowing that in not a few cases those policies have been the means of saving worthy families from want."

It will doubtless be of interest to our readers to know that John Wanamaker carries a large policy in the Canada Life Insurance Company, thus evincing his confidence in the soundness of Canada's oldest and largest Company. During the last few years quite a number of American capitalists have been convinced of the SUPERIOR MERITS OF THE CANADA LIFE, and have accordingly placed their insurance therein, in preference to any other company.

The Canada Life is now being recognized in the states of Michigan, Minnesota and Ohio as the Company that gives the best results for the least premium.

LADY STANLEY OF ALDERLEY.

A Woman of Unusual Personality and Sweetness of Character.

The death of Lady Stanley of Alderley, practically from the wave of cold, but for which she might have reached her natural age of 90, removes a figure from the stage of London society of which there will not in the next generation be many replicas. There will be many great ladies till society altogether loses its present character, which will probably not happen in any period worth considering; but they will not be like Lady Stanley.

She resembled the great Scotch ladies of the beginning of the century, of whom Mrs. Oliphant has drawn so charming and powerful a sketch in her picture of "Mrs. Catherine Douglas, who, protected alike by station, etiquette, and by charm, dared say precisely what arose in their minds; which was, nine times out of ten, the actual truth, expressed either epigramatically or roughly, or caressingly, according to the character of each interlocutor, but which was invariably made forcible by hard, clear sense. Always a liberal, always inquisitive, always eager for new ideas, provided she could learn them from persons and not books, Lady Stanley of Alderley probably never believed a fad in her life, and never was carried away by an unsound idea. As independent as the most independent of the advanced school, utterly careless of many conventionalities, very brusque both in manner and talk, the impression she always left—if she had a chance of making herself felt—was one of sane originality, and of a reserve force which could be used if necessity arose.

She was even singularly tolerant of opposition, at least outside her own doors, but people were shy of fighting her in committee—and she sat much on various committees—partly because she was sure to speak the exact truth without regard to persons or consequences, but partly also because of her remarkable business efficiency. She was as good a chairman as the ablest man, and better in this, that she would put down the wandering or the loquacious or the foolish with a trenchancy which, when men display it, always gains them personal foes. Lady Stanley did not make personal foes even among women who avenged their defeats by saying she was "so rude." Possessed of such faculties, so well placed, and so interested in all the life around her, politics more especially, Lady Stanley exercised an influence which, when the world was a third of its present size, and people repeated clever things to each other instead of reading the evening newspapers, must have been very considerable.

The politicians who talked to her found what all men seek in able women, sense which is not sensible, that is, which is not an induction from many facts, but a self-generated, and, so to speak, instinctive opinion, which may not serve as a guide, but is an invaluable contribution towards guidance. Lady Stanley, for example, probably hardly understood the "alternative policy," as it is called, of abandoning the Mediterranean for the moment in the event of war with France; but her instant remark reported in the Times by Mrs. Courtney, that she disapproved clearing out of anywhere or surrendering anything, states the counter-argument almost completely in a sentence. Her summaries of character were just as effective, and had usually this effective quality, so rarely found in women who speak epigrammatically, that they were not ill natured, that she saw the whole character and not its special weakness or peculiarity. We do not know if she ever used her influence, as Lord Beaconsfield thought she did, to secure patronage for her friends, but we are quite sure that if she did, she smoothed the path for the right persons, and never left on the patron's mind a false impression.—London Spectator.

A City of Roof Gardens.

The majority of the houses in Buenos Ayres have but one story, whose flat roof serves all the purposes of Yankee lawns and door yards. While the patios are frequently utilized as dining and sitting rooms, it is the universal custom to promenade in the cool of the day on the housetops, to sit there at morning and evening enjoying the refreshing breezes, extensive views and varied panorama in the street below. The children find their favorite playground on the roof. There the nurses bring their infant charges, the seamstress her sewing and the maid her mistress' bedraggled finery to put in order again. The clothes are dried and aired and ironed atop, and during the "heated term" of this dewless latitude thousands bring up their beds and sleep with starry sky for a counterpane.—Philadelphia Record.

How He Died.

Mrs. Mulcahey—Shure, docther, and is it thrue that little Jimmy O'Toole bit yoore termomty in two and swallowed the mercury.

Doctor—Yes, my dear madam, it is, and the boy is dead.

Mrs. Mulcahey—Shure, docther, and it were a cold day for Jimmy, poor bye, whin the mercury went down.

Doctor—Yes, madam, he died by degrees.—Hot Springs Medical Journal.

HON. MR. PATTERSON BANQUETTED.

The Officers of the Montreal Militia Force Appreciate the Services of the Minister.

Montreal, March 29.—Hon. J. C. Patterson, Minister of Militia in the Dominion Cabinet, was tendered a complimentary banquet at the Windsor hotel last night by the officers of the city militia force, in appreciation of his services as Minister of Militia on behalf of the force. Several hundred guests were present and the banquet proved a great success. Nearly all of the leading military men of the district were present and with the guest of the evening, Hon. J. C. Patterson, at the table of honor were seated Col. Powell Adjutant-General of the Dominion; Col. Lake, Quarter-Master General; Solicitor-General Curran and other distinguished gentlemen. Mr. Patterson made an eloquent speech, referring to the progress of the militia.

THE BYE-ELECTION IN HALDIMAND.

Hon. Dr. Montague Likely to be Opposed by a McCarthyite.

Cayuga, March 29.—The Hon. Dr. Montague is in town in connection with the forthcoming bye-election in Haldimand. Dr. Montague will have to fight every foot of the ground. Already the active politicians of the town are on the war path. Haldimand politicians are good soldiers and thoroughly enjoy fighting. Mr. Fee, the McCarthy organizer, is also in town, and it looks as if there is going to be a McCarthyite in the field in opposition to Dr. Montague.

Attempted to Kill Her Child.

St. Thomas, March 29.—Mrs. Rolling, a young married woman, who resides on Hiawatha street, this city, attempted to kill her child yesterday morning by shooting it with a revolver. The bullet entered the breast and passed along the ribs and out again, not doing any serious injury. The woman has recently shown symptoms of insanity, but it was thought she had recovered. Steps will be taken to have her sent to the asylum.

Zimmerman's Case.

Toronto, March 29.—Arthur Zimmerman, the man who tried to kill his wife on Wednesday, and then attempted suicide, is showing his vicious nature at the General hospital. Last night he had to be handcuffed to his cot for fear that he would injure himself or some of the sleeping inmates in the ward.

R. H. Bethune Dead.

Toronto, March 28.—R. H. Bethune, cashier and general manager of the Dominion Bank, died at his residence, 184 College street, on Wednesday of hemorrhage of the brain following an attack of pneumonia. He was in his 60th year.

It is understood in political circles that before the French treaty can be brought into force further legislation on the part of Canada will be necessary.

About noon yesterday Mr. Henry Tinney, aged 95, and a long time resident of Cobourg, dropped dead while preparing for the noon meal. Mr. Tinney had been in good health for some time. Heart failure was the cause of death.

CHINESE REGISTRATION PAPERS.

Discovery of a Gang Organized to Flood the States with Bogus Papers.

San Francisco, March 29.—A gang of clever forgers, organized to flood the country with bogus Chinese registration papers, has been discovered by the Federal Secret Service agents. Chinese, as well as white men, were in the gang, and a contract to furnish 15,000 of the bogus papers had already been secured. The organization began about a year ago in this city, and the department in Philadelphia first learned that the certificates of residence were being printed there and shipped to Oregon. The Government agents learned at the same time that the influx of Chinese from Victoria, B.C., was increasing. An ex Customs officer is said to be at the head of the gang.

Wisdom of the Wolf.

The extraordinary sagacity of wolves has been powerfully instanced in a recent event on the upper Waldron Ridge. A colt died and Mr. Warnock took ten strychnine tablets and inserted them carefully in various parts of the body. He did not go near that vicinity for a couple of days, and when he did he went expecting to see some results from the bait. There was, however, no sign of a wolf, living or dead, in sight; he hunted around within a radius of a mile or two, but found nothing, and finally he went over and examined what remained of the dead colt. There was not much: the skin appeared to have been neatly and completely flayed from the body; nearly every particle of flesh was gone, as were also the rib bones and anything smaller; the fore and hind legs had been wrenched off from the knee joint down and carried off some distance, where everything mashable on them had been properly mashed. The skin was almost intact, and, spreading it out, hair side down, Mr. Warnock casually examined it, when he noticed with some surprise a small bunch of flesh that had been left untouched and which was adhering to the hide, and inclosed in which was the strychnine tablet. A closer examination revealed the fact that every single one of the ten strychnine pellets that had been inserted had been left similarly. Every shred of flesh had been eaten all around them and not a single one touched. No wonder it is a difficult matter to catch wolves when they are endowed with a cunning like this. The explanation is that on this occasion Mr. Warnock had picked up the pellets before inserting them into the bait with his fingers, instead of, as was his usual custom, with a pair of forceps. But the fact illustrates the kind of foes the ranchers have to deal with.—McLeod Gazette.

An African Chief's Umbrella.

Visitors to the Nelson Bazaar and Exhibition lately had an opportunity of examining "Alumma's Umbrella," which was the centre of much attraction. It is a gigantic sunshade, the nine sections of which are made of silk, each of a different color, and is trimmed with two rows of rich gold lace. The whole is mounted on a staff of silver nine feet feet long. This gorgeous trophy was the principal personal property of Alumma, a West African chief, and was captured by British bluejackets in the autumn of last year at Brohomie, the stronghold of Nana, Alumma's son. It reached the Admiralty a few days ago, having been sent home for preservation as a memento of the capture of the slave-raider's headquarters.—London Telegraph.

Scientific Potato Growing.

At one of the experimental agricultural colleges in Germany the remarkable yield of 42 tons of potatoes per acre has been obtained by treating the seed tubers with sulphate of ammonia. The potatoes were steeped for 24 hours in a solution of six pounds of saltpetre, six pounds of sulphate of ammonia and 25 gallons of water, and afterwards allowed to stand and drain for a day, in order that their buds might swell before planting them.—San Francisco Examiner.

American Arms Shipped to Cuba.

Washington, March 29.—The State Department has been recently advised that three shipments of arms have been made within the past few weeks from the United States to the insurgents in Cuba. In one case the arms were sent from Philadelphia to Savannah. They were transferred at that point to a small fishing smack and carried to the east coast of Cuba. These fishing vessels can hover about the shores until the coast is clear and then make a landing at any one of a score of safe points. The administration, it is said, is doing all in its power to prevent the shipment of these contraband of war, but it is claimed they are being made constantly.

A Wave of Insanity.

Buffalo, March 29.—The number of people in this city who have been stricken with insanity during the past few days was swelled by an addition of two this morning. These arrests bring the total number of maniacs gathered in by the police in the past four days up to seven.

Rosebery Sleeping Better.

London, March 29.—The British Medical Journal says Lord Rosebery is sleeping better and without the aid of narcotics.

FINANCE AND COMMERCE

TORONTO, March 29, 1895.

The grain market suffered a slight decline yesterday but nothing to seriously affect present prices. In Toronto there is little fluctuation in the grain market, prices being almost stationary as follows:

Wheat, red, 63c; wheat, white, 64 1-2c; wheat, Manitoba, 69 1-2c; buckwheat, 40 to 41c; barley, No. 1, 49 to 50c; barley, No. 2, 46 to 47c; barley, feed, 42 to 45c; oats, 35 to 36c; peas, 60c; rye, 46c.

Seeds—Alsike, fair, $4 to $5; alsike, good, $6 to $6.25; red clover, $6.20 to $6.60; timothy, $3 to $3.60.

Butter—Tub, 13 to 14c; rolls, 15 to 17c; creamery tub, 20 to 22c; creamery rolls, 21 to 23c.

Eggs are scarce, the recent decline in price having exhausted the supply. Fresh are quoted at 13 to 15c and limed at 11c.

In London C.P.R. stock suffered another small decline. It now stands at 38 1-2.

Pork is firm in the speculative market.

Weather conditions controlled the Chicago wheat market, and on predictions of rain in the wheat belt the prices fell off 1-8c for May and 1-4 to 1-2c for cash. Corn followed wheat with a loss of 1-8c, but oats advanced 1-8 to 1-4c on discouraging crop reports. Provisions were higher.

IN MEMORY

Of John McMahon, Galway, Who Died Jan. 4th, 1895.

BY MRS. WM. ROSS.

Dear brother John has gone from earth,
Gone where there's neither pain nor death;
Gone to dwell with the saints above,
Where all is peace, and joy, and love.

Yet we'll often miss our brother here,
To speak to us a word of cheer;
For since to God he gave his heart,
In leading others he did his part.

His little class in Sabbath school,
Will miss his loving face;
And as we look around in church,
We see his vacant place.

His voice on earth no more we'll hear,
Joining in songs of praise;
But with the saints he'll praise his God,
Throughout eternal days.

He committed wife and family
To their heavenly Father's care;
And wished us all to meet him,
In a mansion bright and fair.

And as we stood around him,
When the end was drawing near;
We knew he had the victory—
Of death he had no fear.

Oh, let us all look up to him,
Who in every trial here,
Can give us consolation
And take away all fear.

Then when His call comes unto us,
We'll say, "Thy will be done;"
And go to meet our loved ones,
In that bright and happy home.

THE STORY VERIFIED.

Mr. J. W. Smith, of Leamington, Bears Out Mr. Buchanan's Story.

Leamington, Ont., March 29.—Enquries made at the well known drug store in this town kept by Mr. W. J. Smith, have elicited the fact that it was through Mr. Smith that Mr. Sherman Buchanan obtained the remedy so widely known as Dodd's Kidney Pills, and was enabled to make the wonderful recovery from a serious kidney complaint, particulars of which were forwarded to you yesterday. Mr. Smith states that there is no question about the truth of Mr. Buchanan's recovery through this agency, and also asserts that many other people in the neighbourhood have derived equal benefit from its use. He believes it to be invaluable.

There will be offered for sale by public auction on Thursday, the 18th day of April,

1895, at 2.30 o'clock p. m., at the Office, at the Northern Terminus of the Street Railway, those lands, etc., belonging to the Hilliard estate more particularly described below:

PARCEL NO. 1.—Consisting of all the unsold lands which are enclosed by the following roads and streets, viz., Anson street, Communication Road, Concession Road, and Water street north. Save and except the Homestead lot:

The above block contains 60 acres (more or less), most of which is under cultivation and on which are located 5 dwelling houses, 2 large barns (both underpinned with stone and one fitted up as a stable) a storehouse, an office and a large and flourishing orchard.

This property is well situated on the Street Railway on rising ground, and contains many fine building sites, commanding excellent views of the town and surrounding country.

PARCEL NO. 2.—Consisting of all the unsold lands in block B. enclosed by Anson street, Victoria Ave. and Water street north, amounting to about two acres, on which are located two dwelling houses. This lot is adjacent to the Grand Trunk Ry., and has a large quantity of good gravel and stone on it.

PARCEL No. 3.—Consisting of the Homestead lot of about 1¼ acres. Containing a large Dwelling House, Sheds, Stable, Hen House, etc. Also a large amount of fruit, chiefly Grapes, some Apples, Pears, Raspberries, etc.

If Parcel No. 1 does not reach the reserve bid it will be divided and offered in two separate portions as follows:

A. BLOCK F., (excepting parcel No. 3) and Block H. Consisting of all unsold lands south of Mill Street, and 1½ acres north of Mill Street. About 33 acres in all, with the building thereon.

B. BLOCK G. Consisting of all the unsold lands north of Mill street, (excepting Block H.) about 27 acres.

HALF-ACRE LOT, Corner Water and Dublin Streets:—

PARCEL No. 4.—Consisting of half an acre on the south east corner of Water and Dublin Streets, on the southern portion of which is a terrace of four houses which are seldom unoccupied. This lot is very conveniently situated, the northern portion is vacant and makes a very desirable building lot.

If this parcel does not bring the reserve bid it will be offered in two separate portions.

There will be a reserve bid on each parcel offered, which will be placed at low figures so that intending purchasers will have a chance to secure a bargain.

TERMS:—5 per cent. on day of sale; 15 per cent. in 30 days; 20 per cent. in 12 months with interest at 5 per cent. upon payment of which a deed will be given and a mortgage taken (if desired) for the balance at 5 per cent. per annum payable half yearly.

The Aristocrats
Of Wall Papers.

OUR New Spring Designs in Wall Paper for 1895 are the most elaborate ever shown in the Dominion. They represent the finest effects in High Art Paper Decorations ever shown here, and are the Aristocrats of Wall Papers.

WE have done our level best to encourage Home Decoration by selling Handsome Room Paper, and allied combinations, but our samples this spring transcends every previous display we have opened out. The patterns embrace many beautiful designs to suit every taste and every purse. The most effective being in

COLOURED AND EMBOSSED GOLDS,
VARNISHED AND FLITTER BRONZES,
PLAIN AND FLITTER INGRAINS,
ENGLISH SANITARY,
PLAIN AND CLOUDED FLOCKS,
CEILING DECORATIONS.

OUR Prices are only a fraction of what you're accustomed to pay for equal qualities. At a small expense you can improve every room in the house, and landlords get tenants quicker when walls are newly papered. The best time to think of such things is now before the spring rush begins.

HOME ADORNMENT

Cannot be made complete with Wall Paper alone. The best papered room is incomplete without other harmonizing effects. Chief among these specialities, of which we are the almost exclusive dealers in Peterborough, and which are so closely allied with Wall Paper Hangings, comes—

ROOM MOULDINGS,
WINDOW SHADINGS,
CORNICE POLES,
PICTURE FRAMES.

IN all these we have effects to match the different Papers, Furniture and Furnishings of your rooms. Inspection will convince you that in every line we carry we lead, and that our prices, like this line, are at the bottom.

TURNBULL'S

Our Millinery Openings are over and have been quite a success. The show rooms have been crowded with delighted visitors the greater part of the time, but to enable those who have not had an opportunity of seeing the display the decorations will remain as they are for a few days. We are showing an abundance of choice goods and know the values are right. As we import direct wherever it is an advantage and from the many praises we have received during the past few days we expect to greatly increase our turnover this season.

Embroideries and Insertions.

Just opened out fresh from the factory in Switzerland a large consignment of Embroideries and Insertions, from 4c. up. They are all new patterns and good quality, suitable to be made up with the best Cottons. Those requiring Fine Swiss Embroideries could not do better than look through our stock.

Dress Trimmings.

Dress makers should know for the benefit of their customers that we have received a fresh lot of Jet Gimps in narrow widths which are worn so much just now. Our new stock of Stripe and Check Silks for Blouses and Trimmings is very choice, having all the shades to match the Dress Goods, and we pride ourselves in having secured the cheapest line in the trade.

Wrappers.

Received yesterday a fresh lot of Wrappers, which makes our assortment very complete. They have only to be seen and our prices obtained to be appreciated.

We keep continually in stock Sewing Machine Needles in all sizes and makes.

THE WAR IN THE EAST

Emperor of Japan Orders a Temporary Armistice Without Conditions.

HOSTILITIES TO CEASE AT ONCE

The Japanese Armies Will Make No Further Advance as Long as the Armistice Lasts—Japan Does Not Wish to Humiliate China.

Washington, March 30.—The following telegram was received yesterday at the Japanese Legation by the Japanese officials: "On the opening of the negotiations the Chinese plenipotentiary proposed an armistice, which the Japanese Government were willing to accept on certain conditions. While this negotiation was going on the untoward event happened on the person of the Chinese plenipotentiary. His Majesty the Mikado having in view this unhappy occurrence, commanded the Japanese plenipotentiaries to consent to temporary armistice without conditions. This was communicated to the Chinese plenipotentiary."

Minister Kurino says that the effect of the Emperor's order will be the immediate cessation of aggressive hostilities, and that the Japanese armies will make no further advance as long as the armistice lasts. The minister is of the opinion that the action of the Emperor was influenced by the confidence His Majesty reposed in the successful conclusion of the peace negotiations and the ultimate acceptance by Li Hung Chang of the terms stipulated by Japan. The Emperor's command of temporary armistice is also a refutation of the idea that Japan is disposed to humiliate China or merely to acquire territory. Japan has gained the end of demonstrating Japanese importance in Eastern affairs.

When Mr. Yu, the Chinese Minister, was handed the news of the armistice between Japan and China he said it was the first information he had received on the subject, as he had not yet been notified by his Government of the matter. He was very thankful for the news.

St. Petersburg, March 30.—News has been received from an authoritative source that the Emperor of Japan, who is extremely indignant on account of the attack upon Li Hung Chang, has ordered a temporary suspension of hostilities.

ENGLAND AND FRANCE IN AFRICA.

The French Press on Sir Edward Grey's Statement in the House of Commons.

Paris, March 30.—The Debats says in commenting upon Sir Edward Grey's statement before the House of Commons last evening: "These recriminations are unfounded. We do not admit that France's silence to England's claims to the Upper Nile region meant consent. France was no party to England's treaty with Germany and Italy, in which these claims were submitted. We must object to Sir Edward Grey confounding British and Egyptian rights. The Khedive, in the eyes of France, is the sole and legitimate chief under the Sultan's soverlegnty. We do not know that we have an expedition on its way to the Upper Nile region, but we do know that France under all circumstances will recognize the Porte's and Egypt's rights to the Upper Nile and nobody's else."

The Paris says: "England is observing with a jaundiced eye France's action in Madagascar, and is seeking to raise obstacles to French policy in other parts."

The Patrie says: "Sir Edward Grey's statement is calculated to strain the relations of France and England. We perceive in it Germany's influence. As soon as Germany raises her voice England begins to bray."

The Feeling on the Continent.

London, March 30.—The Daily News correspondent in Paris says: "M. Lamarzelle has given notice of a question to M. Hanotaux, Minister of Foreign Affairs in the Senate, as to Sir Edward Grey's statement. M. Hanotaux conferred with Premier Ribot, and agreed to reply on April 3. The official world does not see any quarrelsome intention in Sir Edward Grey's declaration, but the latter has fallen with startling effect upon those wanting to climb into great financial and political situations through Africa."

The Daily News learns from its Cairo correspondent: "Sir Edward Grey's statement has caused a profound sensation here. It is the absorbing topic. The Anglophobe section is especially struck by the clear, firm attitude of the Government. The declaration cannot fail to have a good effect here."

The News is informed that a Cabinet meeting will be held to-day to consider foreign affairs.

BURIED THE HATCHET

The Premier and the Minister of Justice Settle Their Differences.

CONDITIONS OF SURRENDER

The Manitoba School Matter to be Left an Open Question—Only the Estimates to be Submitted to Parliament—An Early Appeal to the Country.

Ottawa, March 30.—The political crisis is over. Sir Charles Hibbert Tupper has returned to active work in the Cabinet, the difficulties between himself and the Premier having been amicably settled.

Sir Mackenzie Bowell was asked if everything was all right now. The Premier answered with a smile that there was never anything wrong.

It is said that the conditions on which Sir Charles has surrendered are that no Government measure will be introduced this session regarding the Manitoba schools, that the matter will be left an open question and that only the estimates will be submitted to Parliament, so that the session may be as short as possible, thus giving an opportunity of an early appeal to the country after proroguing.

Sir Charles was at his office in the Department of Justice yesterday, and was seen in conversation with several Cabinet Ministers, with whom he appeared on the best of terms.

The next crisis will arise when the Government submits its policy to Parliament and asks a favorable verdict upon it. This will give Hon. Clarke Wallace an opportunity to declare himself concerning the late crisis.

Rumor has it that an agreement was reached through the mediation of Sir Donald Smith and Senator Drummond.

JOE MARTIN SCORES TUPPER.

Says His Action in the House is That of a Forward and Impertinent Boy.

Ottawa, March 30.—Hon. Joseph Martin, M.P., when asked what he thought of the resignation of Sir Charles Hibbert Tupper, said: "I think the Minister of Justice's resignation at the present moment is the most contemptible trick that any politician was ever guilty of. I am sure no public man in Canada except a Tupper would do such a thing. The resignation of Sir Charles Hibbert Tupper in ordinary times would not have affected the Government at all; in fact, I should imagine that to most of the supporters of the Government in the House it would be a great relief, but at this particular crisis this move is calculated to inflict great injury upon the Government, and, while no one will suspect me of wishing Sir Mackenzie Bowell's Government well, still I cannot help expressing my detestation of such treacherous conduct. The excuse put forward is most frivolous. . . His action in the House is that of a forward and impertinent boy."

CONTROLLER OF INLAND REVENUE.

Strongly Opposed to Active Interference with Manitoba and May Resign.

Brockville, March 30.—A personal friend of the Hon. J. F. Wood is authority for the statement that the Controller of Inland Revenue is strongly opposed to the adoption of any policy looking towards active interference with Manitoba, and that this opposition may carry Mr. Wood to the length of resigning his office.

CHATTELLE'S FEIGNED INSANITY.

The Jail Surgeon Says He has No Morals and is a Human Monstrosity.

Stratford, March 30.—Dr. J. M. Dunsmore, jail surgeon, is of the decided opinion from observations made since Chattelle was lodged here, that his actions in court were only feigned insanity. That was the first occasion on which he had given any indication of his being mentally unbalanced, and yesterday he behaved quite rational as he has since confinement. Dr. Dunsmore is also of the opinion that Chattelle is devoid of all natural affection and feels no remorse for his crime, and that his moral sensibilities have become so blunted that it may be said he has no morals, but is a human monstrosity.

Trade Quiet Throughout the Dominion.

New York, March 30.—At Toronto business is unchanged, according to Bradstreet's to-day, being characterized by only a fair demand for sorting-up goods. Manufacturers and jobbers at Montreal report business quiet, and do not expect activity until navigation opens. Business is quiet also at Halifax and throughout Nova Scotia, where collections are slow. The output of lumber is heavy in New Brunswick, and it is of interest to note there is some revival in trade in Newfoundland, the sealing industry having been successful. Bank clearings at Winnipeg, Hamilton, Toronto, Montreal and Halifax aggregate $15,261,000 this week, a falling off of about 16 per cent. from last week, and practically the same total as was recorded in the week a year ago. There are 561 business failures reported to Bradstreet's from the Dominion of Canada during the past three months, contrasted with 588 in the first quarter of last year. There were two more this year than last in the Province of Ontario, and ten fewer reported from the Province of Quebec. The favorable feature, however, is found in total liabilities for the Dominion, which are only about two-thirds the amount in the first quarter in 1894.

FOR NATIONAL SCHOOLS

The Supporters of the Greenway Government are United.

THE LEGISLATURE ADJOURNS

Sensational Developments Expected when the Legislature Resumes on May 9—The Opposition will Declare for the Secularization of all the Schools in the Province.

Winnipeg, March 30.—No amendment was offered yesterday afternoon to the motion of the Government for adjournment of the House to consider the school question, and the Legislature accordingly adjourned to May 9, when sensational developments are expected. In the meantime it is proposed to hold meetings to get the feeling of the farmers on the question.

A Cabinet Minister in an interview denied the statement that the supporters of the Government were divided as to the line of action to be adopted in respect to the remedial order. They were united for National schools.

When the House resumes it will be for the purpose of discussing the remedial order and drafting a reply. It is understood the policy of the Opposition will be to declare for the secularization of all schools when the Legislature meets.

An American Opinion.

Chicago, March 30.—Mr. John Jamieson, editor of the Western British American, has just returned from an extended tour through Manitoba. Speaking of the action of Premier Greenway in adjourning the Manitoba Legislature, he said the movement was a wise one. It will doubtless result in a peaceful settlement of the school question. Violence need not be feared. Canadian troops cannot be legally used for the purpose of coercing the province. The whole Dominion, outside of the particular province which is seeking to restore laws that were annulled in 1890, will sustain the Manitobans.

MANIFESTS OF VESSELS.

New Law Affecting Canadian Vessels Arriving at the Port of Buffalo.

Buffalo, March 30.—Notification of the enactment of a new law affecting the making of manifests of vessels arriving from foreign ports has been received by Collector Doyle from the department at Washington. The law applies to vessels from Canada arriving at the port of Buffalo, as there is no naval officer here. The law is as follows: "On and after July 1, 1895, each master of vessels arriving in the United States from a foreign port, except vessels carrying traffic in bond on transfer ferries, shall immediately upon landing, and before entering his vessel at the customs house, mail to the auditor of the Treasury Department at Washington a true copy of the manifests of his vessel, and shall on entering his vessel make affidavit that he has mailed such copy and that the same is true and correct; and he shall also mail to the said auditor a true copy of the corrected manifest filed on any port entry of his vessel." Failure to comply with the new law is punishable by a fine. The law applies only to ports where there is no naval officer.

ST. LUKE'S CHURCH.

A very earnest and powerful address was delivered in St. Luke's church last evening by Rev. Geo. Warren, of Lakefield, on the subject of "Each Abstinence." The speaker seemed to inspire the congregation with some of his own spiritual fervour; at all events his remarks were listened to with profound attention. The text was taken from St. Luke xxi. 34: "But take heed to yourselves lest haply your hearts be overcharged with surfeiting and drunkenness and cares of this life." In these words our Lord cautioned us against a constant danger arising from the temptation to devote ourselves too assiduously to the satisfaction of the claims of our lower natures, eating and drinking and the cares and pleasures of this life. This devotion to material things was injurious and might be destructive of the mental powers and of the spiritual faculties. Now the season of Lent came to remind us of this truth. Our Lord spoke equally against the over-devotion to the cares of this world as against surfeiting and drunkeness. The attitude of the Church England towards abstinence was sometimes misunderstood. Nowhere did she say that fasting or self-imposed abstinence was a good thing in itself. There is no necessary virtue in fasting. But the Church's real teaching, a teaching firmly founded upon the teaching and practice of Jesus Christ, was beautifully expressed in the collect for the first Sunday in Lent, wherein we pray for "grace to use such abstinence that our flesh being subdued to the Spirit we may ever obey Thy godly motions in righteousness and true holiness."

On Friday next next Mr. Warren will speak on "The Consolations of God through Christ."

The Rector desires to acknowledge with thanks a donation of $1.00 towards the collection for the sufferers in Newfoundland from "A Churchman."

WELL KNOWN HERE.

The Many Friends of Mr. G. H. Kent in Montreal Make Enquiries.

MONTREAL, March 30th.—Much interest is being taken in this city over the published reports of the recovery from a supposed fatal attack of Bright's disease of Mr. G. H. Kent, of Ottawa. Mr. Kent is well known here having been employed for many years at the works of the British North American Bank Note Printing Company, previous to their removal to Ottawa. The fact of his having been restored to health through the medium of Dodd's Kidney Pill has stimulated enquiry into the merits of the remedy and their enquiries are resulting in the daily bringing to light of similar cases of people who have made almost equally startling recoveries through the same means.

SIR HIBBERT'S HIGH KICKING.

It's no wonder, when one reflects how large a hole ambition fills in the human heart, that there is such a desperate struggle for the position of leader of the House of Commons. The Premier is in the Senate and leads the funeral procession of that solemn political "remains." Mr. Bowell is wall stricken in years and in the natural course of life, not speaking of political possibilities, will have to resign the premiership, and the leader of the House of Commons will naturally fall heir to the Premier's shoes. This explains Sir Hibbert's anxiety to qualify himself for the possession of the said shoes by kicking. Mr. Foster naturally resents the ambition of the youngster, who was wrestling with school books when Mr. Foster was delivering temperance lectures at $10 an oration. Foster is 48 years of age and Tupper is 40, but both entered Parliament at the same time—1882. In the matter of parliamentary experience, they are on equal terms, but Sir Hibbert is the son of his father—but, again, he is out of the Cabinet and his rival still holds the fort. We can afford to regard the struggle with equanimity.

The reports of a latter date state that Sir Hibbert has not resigned but is resigned to still occupy the subordinate position, which cannot afford the opportunity for a full display of his pyrotechnic abilities.

DR. MONTAGUE'S CHANCES.

Dr. Montague's chances for election in Haldimand are not very brilliant—what with the riding going Liberal at a late bye-election to the tune of nearly 400 and with the avoirdupois doctor's past record of difficulty in securing a seat. He was an unsuccessful candidate in the general election of 1883 for the Legislative Assembly. He was first returned to Parliament for Monck at the general election of 1887—but not to stay. This election was voided. He was returned at the bye-election in November of the same year. The Supreme Court also voided this bye- (buy, evidently the proper spelling) election, and the doctor failed to carry the consequent bye election in January 1889. This bye-election was also voided, but he managed to "get there" to stay in the bye-election in February, 1890. If history should take a fancy for repeating itself, Dr. Montague's chances for election in Haldimand are not of the most brilliant character—unless his portfolio will bring him the privileges of a pass which is not probable. A McCarthyite candidate is after the doctor's scalp.

"I believe within two years from the adoption of the National Policy—not a policy of hostility to the United States, but one of following the system they had adopted to foster their industries—they will give us a free market for coal in the United States. While adopting measures to meet the Government of the United States by a tariff somewhat analogous to their own, and to protect the mining, manufacturing and agricultural interests of Canada against the unfair competition of our neighbours across the line, my hon. friend, the Finance Minister, also proposes to insert in the bill the statement that when the Americans shall reduce this tariff on these natural products, we will reduce ours to the same extent, and that when they wipe out the duties altogether we will admit their products free. At no distant day we shall enjoy all the advantages which we possessed under the reciprocity treaty."—Sir Charles Tupper.

If Hon. J. C. Patterson, who has resigned, becomes, as it asserted he will do, Lieutenant-Governor of Manitoba, his experience in the war department will stand him in good stead. Manitoba will fight the remedial order to a finish, and will adjourn till May 9th—in other words, go into training for the "mill." In the Legislature on Thursday in answer to a question, Premier Greenway said: "The Government does not see any reason to change its position in regard to the school system of this Province." This does not look like a compliance with the demands of the Order in Council.

The total amount paid in life insurance premiums in Canada, to old line companies, for 1894, amounted to $9,911,000. Of this total Canadian companies received $5,434,000; American, $3,398,000, and British, $1,078,000. Canadian companies show an increase of $278,060 in premiums received, and British of a little over $4,000, while American exhibit a decrease of more than $5,000.

A change in the English management of the Grand Trunk Railway is urged by the London Times. That's all very well, but it is merely attempting to cure an evil by calling it a new name. The cure for the English management is to abolish it and substitute Canadian.

The Toronto World in cartoon represents Sir Hibbert Tupper as a sore-head. This must be a rather severe affliction—there is so much head to be sore—Sir Hibbert has been suffering from big-head for a long time.

There is no reason why one should have a cough any length of time. All that is needed to allay soreness of the throat or to free the bronchial tubes from irritating mucus is Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. It is a wonderful cough-cure, and should be in every medicine-chest.

BELMONT COUNCIL.

The council met at the town hall, on Saturday, March 2nd, 1895; members all present; J. B. Peoples, reeve, in the chair.

Account of $7.60 for insuring town hall paid.

Application of E. Perry asking the council to make an abatement of his taxes.

Communication from John Vanskikle in the matter of giving deed of road on lot 4, in the 1st concession, and the east ½ of lot 3, in the 2nd concession, Methuen; would give a deed of the road on lot 4, 60 feet same as road on Burgess lot; had not the deed from the Crown for the east ½ lot 3, in the 2nd con., but give a Quit Claim deed for a forty foot road reserving the timber and minerals.

The clerk to notify Mr. Vanskikle that the by-law was passed legalising the road 66 feet wide and that the council are willing to give him the timber and minerals.

On motion of Dep. Reeve Aunger, Dr. Jelfs was paid $5, refund for a bottle of diphtheria anti-toxine.

The Norwood Register offers to do all the printing for $37.00.

Application of J. B. McWilliams, claiming the sum of $300 for road, east half of lot 15, con. 8, Belmont; laid over.

Application of Mr. McWilliams asking abatement of taxes on lots in Methuen for the last three years; assessed too high.

On motion of Mr. Aunger, clerk instructed to notify Mr. McWilliams that council are willing to make an abatement; taxes to be 35c. per acre for the years 1892, '93, '93 and '94 on condition that Mr. McWilliams will pay the taxes on those years at that rate.

Wesley Keich, asked council to pay him W. Baisley's allowance of two months; laid over.

The auditor's report was adopted, auditors each to be paid the sum of $5.

Application of Mr. Huston in the matter of road n e 25 acres of lot 4 in the 10th con. Belmont. W. Johnston was willing to sell a road to the council for W. Huston to get out to the concession line; application laid over and that the reeve procure legal advice whether council is obliged to open road.

E. Perry was allowed abatement of $3.30, roll 1894.

$2.33 was appropriated for line north of Garrison's, Mr. Saxsmith to be commissioner.

Absalom Brown applied for one year to cut and remove timber on 1st con. line, Belmont, lots 20, 21, 22, 23, 24.

On motion of Councillor Wilson, P. Preston is to have the hardwood timber on the above lots for $5, and have two years to cut and remove.

The clerk is to notify the County Treasurer to make abatement of $65.45 on the non-resident collector's roll, 1893 and 1894.

The Council of Marmora asked Belmont to pass a bylaw to open the Belmont portion of the boundary line, Belmont and Marmora, opposite lot 7.

The collector was allowed an abatement of $2 statute labour tax, roll of 1894, made up as follows: Martin Clark, $1, R. McAdams, $1.

Emmanuel Stevens asked payment of the sum of $1 for one day's extra statute labour. Credit given for one day.

Jas. A. Allen asked an abatement of $4 statute labour tax, roll of 1894. Jas. A. Allen and Samuel Allen each allowed an abatement of $2.

Wm. Anderson asked an abatement of taxes on a valuation of $50. The clerk to send him the assessment of the east half of lot 22 in the 8th concession of Belmont for 1893.

Application of Ledyard Gold Mining Co. to have road opened to east quarter lot 19, concession 1, laid over.

A bylaw to appoint certain township officials was passed.

A bylaw to appoint a local board of health was passed.

A bylaw to appoint a medical health officer was passed.

Amount voted 2nd March, $101.11; amount previously voted, $177.00; total voted up to date, $278.11.

Council adjourned to 25th May, at 9 a.m., as a Court of Revision.

Y.P.S.C.E. NOTES.

C. E.—Can't Expunged.

The pansy is the Christian Endeavour flower.

A Charlestown, Mass., society is doing good work in missions. Three fourths of its members have pledged themselves for a penny a day for that purpose.

An "anti-gossip" pledge has been successfully adopted by a C. E. society in Lima, N. Y.

Miss Jennie Louise Colman, Jumna mission, Allahabad, India, would be pleased to receive all kinds of illustrated papers for her work. Many of the nations can read English and all can appreciate the pictures. Look up your old magazines and send them to Miss Colman.

The Christian Endeavour movement is rapidly developing in Hawaii. The Hawaiian, Chinese and Japanese churches in Hawaii have all tried and proved the C. E. idea to be admirably adapted to the spiritual growth of their young people.

A Maryland society furnishes good literature for barber shops, railroad stations, hotels, etc. A capital idea.

The duty of any social committee is to meet strangers and make them welcome. See that they become acquainted with others and are made to loose their feeling of strangeness, to see that everybody is made comfortable and happy.

FINANCE AND COMMERCE

TORONTO, March 30, 1895.

The wheat market is steady. For oats there is an active demand with prices a shade higher. There is very little doing in the other grains. Prices are as follows: Wheat, red, 63c; wheat, white, 64 1-2c; wheat, Manitoba, 85 1-2c; buckwheat, 40 to 41c; barley, No. 1, 49 to 50c; barley, No. 2, 46 to 47c; barley, feed, 43 to 45c; oats, 35 to 36c; peas, 60c; rye, 46c.

Potatoes are quiet at 70 to 75c per bag, retail.

The report of the various millers who met here a few days ago, to the effect that their stores were far below last year's has a tendency to strengthen the price of oats in the local market.

The supply of fresh eggs is not quite so large, and the prices are down to a reasonable figure. Other produce is likewise to be had in quantity, and especially butter and cheese, which are almost too abundant for the supply. Fresh eggs are selling at 13 to 15c; tub butter at 13 to 14c; rolls 15 to 17c; creamery tub brings 20 to 22c; rolls, 21 to 23c.

The receipts of stocks at the cattle market yesterday were rather higher than for the corresponding day of last week. Prices were practically unchanged, except for choice grain-fed lambs, for which there was a lively demand. Sheep, per head, $4.50 to $4.75; lambs, choice, per cwt., $4 to $5; lambs, ordinary, cwt., $3 to $3.75.

At Buffalo barley maltsters are in the market again for small lots slightly under quotations. Quotations are unchanged.

To destroy worms and expel them them from children or adults use Dr. Low's worm Syrup.

NINE TAILORS MADE A MAN.

An Old Proverb Very Interestingly Explained.

"Nine tailors made a man." This expression brings us to the consideration of the universal custom of the ringing of church bells, a practice regarded as almost sacred in most minds as being one of the ceremonies attached to the Christian faith.

Its origin, however, is a very superstitious one, and the ringing of bells was formerly practiced from a belief in their efficacy to drive away evil spirits. The "tailors" in the above phrase is a corruption of the word "tellers," or strokes tolled at the end of a knell.

Immediately on the death of a person a knell is tolled, the idea having originally been, as previously observed, to keep off hostile spirits from the now departing one.

In some places the departure of an adult was announced by nine strokes in succession; six were rung for a woman; three for a child. Hence it came to be said by those listening for the announcement, "Nine tellers make a man." As this custom became less general, and the illusion less generally understood, there was an easy transition from the word "tellers" to the more familiar one "tailors." At the present day at Wimbledon it is still the custom to toll nine times for a man.

That inveterate joker, Curran, took advantage of this popular saying to poke some fun in a good-natured way at his host on the occasion of his being entertained at dinner by eighteen of the Guild of Tailors. Curran, on leaving, rose and said, "Gentlemen, I wish you both good evening."

This anecdote reminds one of the tale told of a former skipper of a good-sized ship on which several hands had been employed, who had become so impregnated with the phases of command used in directing such a craft, that, when at length he took to working a small boat with the assistance of one other individual, and it became necessary to summon the latter, he would cry out, "All hands abaft" then, suddenly recollecting himself, he would add, "both of us."

ANOTHER TEST CASE!

A Lady Concerned.

Paine's Celery Compound Brings Her Health and Strength.

EARTH'S BEST SPRING MEDICINE.

Nervousness and nervous debility are almost invariably the results of some drain upon the vital forces. The results that follow, when nervous troubles are allowed to run unchecked and uncared for, are terrible and appalling. Sleeplessness, mental depression, loss of spirits and energy, dullness of brain and eye, shrinking from society, defective memory and insanity, makes life a continued agony.

Medical science has bestowed upon nervous sufferers a great blessing and a perfect cure. It is known to the world as Paine's Celery Compound, Prof. Phelps' great discovery for nervous diseases.

The record of this wonderful medicine is truly a grand one, and thousands now live who owe their lives to its marevilous curing virtues. Each passing day brings fresh and grateful letters from men and women who have found a new life through the use of Paine's Celery Compound.

Mrs. W. Allen, jr., of Almonte, Ont., writes thus:

"Through the pleadings of a friend I tried Paine's Celery Compound for nervousness and loss of sleep, and I find it has done more for me than any other medicine I ever used; it is certainly the best of all medicines. After using two bottles of Paine's Celery Compound, I find myself as well and as strong as ever before. It is needless to say that I recommend the compound at every opportunity."

Barnardo and De Barry.

Buffalo, March 30.—Several friends of Dr. Barnardo in this city have entered a public defence of the philanthropist against the charges made by one De Barry, a Government immigration inspector in this city, who has charged that "Barnardo maintains private orphan asylums in England, where the illegitimate children of the rich are received, and afterwards brought to the Canadian border and smuggled into this country and abandoned." Dr. A. D. McGillivray, of this city, has made an open statement describing Dr. Barnardo as a philanthropist whose life is given to the rescue of children. Dr. McGillivray says Barnardo's work is laudable, and many men prominent in Canadian circles owe their success in life to the start Dr. Barnardo gave them. DeBarry claims that he had instructions from the Treasury Department warning him of Barnardo's scheme, and ordering him to keep a sharp lookout for such children as he might try to get into this country.

THE DELEGATES ARRIVE.

Newfoundland's Deputation to the Dominion Government Arrive at Halifax.

Halifax, N.S., March 30.—The Newfoundland delegation on the way to Ottawa to negotiate with the Dominion Government for confederation with Canada, reached here last night in the steamer Grand Lake. They will remain in Halifax until Monday, when they proceed direct to Ottawa. The delegation consists of Hons. Robert Bond, Geo. H. Emerson, E. P. Morris and W. H. Harwood. They have the authority of both branches of the Newfoundland Legislature to negotiate the treaty, and hope to be successful. After the terms on which the Dominion will receive the Island into confederation are secured they will be submitted to the people of the colony. The Newfoundlanders say that there is little or no sentiment in the island in favor of annexation to the United States.

Distress exists to a considerable extent, but not to the extent implied in the telegraphic reports sent out. It is hoped that the seal fishery will be a success this season, as that would mitigate the distress to a great extent. The distress will really be more keenly felt in May than now.

STRATFORD ASSIZES.

James Shean Made a Business of Stealing His Neighbors' Sheep.

Stratford, March 30.—The attention of the assize court yesterday was occupied with a charge of sheep stealing against John Shean, of Logan. John Whyte and son, of Mitchell, own a farm opposite to that occupied by Shean, which is used principally for grazing sheep. Toward the close of last year a number of animals were missing from time to time, and suspicion fell to Shean, and his premises being searched several sheep were found as well as the pelts of others which had been killed, which Mr. Whyte claimed to be his. Shean had also been in the habit of bringing mutton and sheepskins to Stratford for sale, and an investigation revealed among his sales skins bearing Whyte's private mark. The total number of sheep claimed to have been lost was 55. These facts led to Shean's arrest. Late last evening the jury brought in a verdict of guilty and Chief Justice Armour sentenced Shean to five years in Kingston penitentiary.

THE SIBLEY FORGERY CASE.

Outcome of a Plot by Convicts to Blow Up the Bank of Montreal.

Montreal, March 30.—The forgery case in which W. H. Sibley, late editor of the Toronto Earth, is implicated, turned out this morning to have been the outcome of a plot concocted by three inmates of St. Vincent De Paul penitentiary to blow up the Bank of Montreal when they were liberated. Sibley has J. N. Greenshields, the well-known criminal lawyer, defending him.

Insane Through Feigning Insanity.

London, Ont., March 30.—Henry Ives, the man charged with attempting to blackmail Insurance Agent May, and who went insane while in jail awaiting trial, has been released from the insane asylum as cured. It will be remembered that Superintendent Bucke said Ives became insane through feigning insanity hoping thus to escape justice. The doctor's opinion is that should Ives be worried by further prosecution he would probably again lose his reason. He was therefore brought before Justice William Elliott this morning, and no evidence being offered on the charge, he was set at liberty.

Inquest on John Flynn Adjourned.

Owen Sound, March 30.—The adjourned coroner's inquest over the death of John Flynn, of Shallow Lake, was resumed yesterday afternoon. A number of witnesses were examined, but nothing of importance was brought out. Dr. Cameron, coroner, adjourned the inquest till Monday, April 15, and has issued summonses for a number of fresh witnesses.

Stewart Would Not Deny

Hamilton, March 30.—It is said Mayor A. D. Stewart has been asked to oppose Hon. Dr. Montague in Haldimand county in the bye-election on April 17. The Mayor would not deny the truth of the statement, but has not decided yet if he will accept a nomination in that constituency in the interest of the McCarthyites.

Two Operations.

BOTH FAILURES.

A Case of Kidney Complaint that would Not Yield to Surgery or Medicine until B. B. B. was Tried.

GENTLEMEN,—After having undergone two operations for Kidney Complaint without securing the least relief, and hearing of some remarkable cures made by B. B. B. in our neighborhood, I decided to try it, I was given up by the doctors after the operations failed, and it was providential that I heard of B. B. B. After the use of six bottles I experienced so great relief and so great a change for the better that I felt the good effects would be lasting, as indeed they have been. The seventh bottle perfectly cured me, and I am now stronger and better than I ever was before. People who saw me before I took B. B. B. and who see me now can scarcely believe that I am the same person.

An excellent entertainment will be given in the town hall, Ashburnham, the first week after Easter. Miss M. Calcutt has charge of the arrangements for the programme which will include two comedy dramas, with grand tableaux, fairies, etc., and Blue Beard. Further particulars in reference to the entertainment which will be given in connection with St. Luke's church, hereafter.

Something Nobby in Walking Sticks.

"There's no use talking, they're a dandy lot of sticks." If you haven't seen them you should pay the Peterborough Bookstore a visit. There are a handsome lot of travellers sample canes—the most "swagger" stock for young men, elderly gentlemen and boys. In natural Canadian cherry, Congo oak, Equador oak, Georgia pine, Irish black-thorn, and other fancy woods. Come and see them, and note how cheap they are.

Speaks for Itself.

TORONTO, March 19th, 1895.

This is to certify that we have known Mr. George Gumpricht for years as a thoroughly competent piano tuner and action regulator. Any work entrusted to him we feel assured will be thoroughly attended to.

Dairymen's Association Inspector.

At a meeting of the directors of the Dairymen's Association of Eastern Ontario, held in Belleville Tuesday, the following resolutions were moved and adopted: That Geo. Benaley be appointed inspector for Napanee and Kingston districts and W. W. Grant be appointed for Belleville and Peterborough district. That each inspector send the chairman of the different districts a report of the work done every two weeks—E. J. Madden, chairman of Napanee and Kingston, and T. B. Carlow, chairman of district west of Napanee. That when the inspectors find any adulteration in the milk it shall be their duty to go and see the cows milked, and report to the presidents of the factories.

A Good Thing is Always Desirable.

So it is with the visits of Prof. Dorenwend to Peterborough. On his last visit he was so busy that many ladies and gentlemen were unable to be attended to. He is therefore returning to give all who desire it another opportunity of procuring his art goods for the head. Prof. Dorenwend is undoubtedly one of the leaders of his profession on this continent. His skill in arranging the coverings for the head of either lady or gentleman is well known. His goods are acknowledged to be perfect and in every way true to nature. They are the best protection to the head, besides giving a refined and youthful expression to the face. Call and examine these marvels of his art, and have them fitted in order to judge of the effect. Consult him about your hair; he will (free of charge) give you advice about the preservation of it. He will be at the Grand Central Hotel on Monday, 8th April. 3t

Telfordian Temperature Topics.

Saturday, March 30th.—At this morning's observation the self-registering thermometer indicated 12 degree above zero, with a twin-sister snow storm last night. —THOMAS TELFORD.

Dublin Porter

If you want to keep off la grippe, use "Dublin Porter," as a tonic. It will strengthen you system an give you an appetite. Recommended by all the medical faculty to delicate people. Sold by the leading grocers. Quarts, $1 per doz.; pints, 60 cents. Telephone No 98 H. CALCUTT.

George Street Sunday School.

To-morrow is the first Quarterly Review Sunday of this year. In the George street Methodist Sabbath school special services will be held, to which all members of the Home Department, and any others not connected with the school, are invited to be present. The officers are particularly anxious to see a large representation of the Home Department members present.

The Saturday Market.

There was a very small outside market to-day, on account of the very unsatisfactory condition of the roads, but the butter market was a large one, the local trains bringing in a good many farmers' wives. Eggs have risen somewhat in price and are now bringing 12 and 13 cents per doz. Butter is worth from 12 to 18c. and chickens about 60c. per pair. Turkeys are scarce and are selling for from 75c to $1.40. No geese or ducks were brought in.

Cricketers' Ball.

At the annual meeting of the cricket club on Tuesday evening next the advisability of holding a ball immediately after Easter will be discussed. It is a well known fact that the assemblies given by the Toronto cricket club are social events which are always eagerly looked forward to, and a number of the members of the local club will strongly advocate the scheme of holding similar affairs in Peterborough annually.

The Abolition of Wards.

Mr. Stratton's bill for the abolition of wards in towns, so far as applies to the elections of councillors, came before the municipal committee of the Legislature, on Wednesday morning, and was thoroughly discussed. A large number of members approved of the principle of the bill, but in view of many desiring to consult their constituents on the subject, the bill was withdrawn for the present session. It will, however, be introduced again next session, when the information that may be gained in the meantime will be applied to making it as perfect as possible.

A W. C. T. U. Worker Dead.

The news of the sudden death of Mrs. Ella F. M. Williams, which occurred Thursday, at her home in Montreal, will come with sorrow to the hearts and homes of the white ribbon army throughout the Dominion, of which she was the beloved and honoured President for many years. Though confined to her rooms for some months, her death at this time was unexpected, but did not find her unprepared, as all can testify who knew her sterling and upright character. The funeral took place yesterday at her late home, and the remains were taken to Boston, Mass., for interment.

A Senator From Peterborough.

A town gentleman in inside political circles has received a communication from Ottawa regarding the appointment of a Peterborough man to fill a Senate vacancy. The Government has not yet decided, but it is certain that the Iron Moulders' Annual Ball, in Bradburn's Opera House, April 15th, will be one of the greatest social successes of the season. An experienced committee is completing preparations on the most elaborate scale. First-class music will be provided. Nothing will be left undone to make this annual occasion the most enjoyable success. Invitations are being issued and the responses so far received indicate that the gathering will be of a most delightful character. 1d

A Fine Specialty.

We would call attention to the ad. of Henry Best, that will appear daily on the lower corner of our first page for some time to come. He is adding a number of fine specialties to his business, and as much as possible, handling lines that his neighbours do not have. He has added of late to his large and increasing oil trade a fine specialty that is a sure seller wherever it is offered—Pratt's Astral Oil. This is the finest brand of oil made in the world, it is imported direct from New York. A reliable good burning oil is hard to get, and this has not come any too soon; its just what is wanted. When Mr. Best says an article is good we can safely recommend it to our friends. We shall not be surprised hereafter to see a perfect blaze of light where small lights were before. 1d

Excursions for the Summer.

Commodore H. Calcutt, president of the P. S. & N. Co., has arranged with the steamer North King and G. T. R. to run excursions during the summer months from Rochester and other ports on the American side to Peterborough and Hastings. The steamer North King will connect with the G.T.R. trains at Cobourg, which will convey tourists to Rice lake, where the steamers of the P. S. & N. Co. will be in waiting to convey passengers to the various ports on Trent, Otonabee and other rivers along the route. It is an almost settled fact that the American meet will be held at Rice Lake this season. Commodore Calcutt is doing his utmost to secure the meet and is meeting with every success, many of the American canoe clubs having already decided on coming to Rice Lake, Rice Lake is considered by the Americans who have a knowledge of the various rivers entering it, as a fishing ground that cannot be beat. Mr. Calcutt has his eyes open and deserves great credit for making the arrangements.

Oddfellows Annual Report.

The annual report of the Grand Secretary, Independent Order of Oddfellows for the year ending Dec. 31, 1894, is most satisfactory, showing that the order, notwithstanding the prevailing depression in commercial business, is still enjoying increasing prosperity. The net increase in membership for the year was 1,104, within a trifle of the best since 1879, and twelve subordinate lodges have been instituted, with every prospect of several further additions in the near future, the total membership in good standing being 21,862. During the year 3,000 brothers, 150 widows and 27 children had received sick benefits and relief, amounting to $72,555,-44. The total amount paid for current expenses was $75,845.55, making total disbursements $155,400.99, the average cost per member for all averages being $7.17. The total average receipts per member was $9.34, making total receipts $202,515,-47. The funds of the society are as follows: General benefit fund, $764,064.45; widows' and orphans' fund, $79,036, and contingent fund, $17,866.55; total, $860,967. The Rebekah Branch also continues to prosper, having gained 736 members during the year, with increase of assets of $743.57.

NEWS NUGGETS

Paragraphs Picked Up and Pencilled for Public Perusal.

—The town council meets on Monday evening next.

—Ashburnham council meets in regular monthly session Monday evening.

—Men's meeting in Y.M.C.A. rooms to-morrow afternoon at 4.15 will be specially interesting.

—A few muskinonge are being brought into town by local fishermen, and command a good price.

—Trade reports unite in saying prospects are improving, and prices are higher for many lines of goods.

—Messrs. Moore and Whyte will have charge of a meeting for men in the Y.M.C.A. rooms at 8 o'clock to-night.

—The Knights of the Maccabee will meet in the Sons of Canada hall on Wednesday evening next week instead of on Tuesday.

—The ice has disappeared from the river and creeks as if by magic, with the result that there has been no flooding to any extent.

—The Young People's Association of St. John's intend giving an entertainment next month, when a farce entitled "The Manager" will be presented.

—An Ashburnham citizen for being drunk and disorderly on the streets last evening was fined two dollars and costs by the magistrate this morning.

—The regular meeting of the W.C. T. U. will be held on Monday, April 1st, at 3.30 p. m., at the residence of Mrs. Paton, Brock street. All are welcome.

—The Canadian Pacific conductors, engineers, firemen and brakemen are having their eyes examined by an expert oculist to guard against accidents arising from colour blindness.

—South Monaghan has retired from the triple township alliance in the sewer campaign against Peterborough. The township was not represented at the conference in Mr. Edmison's office, noted elsewhere in this issue.

—The old Gilmour limits in Galway township, supposed to have been cleaned out of good timber years ago, have been worked during the past winter by Mr. Owen Fortune of Bobcaygeon, who has drawn about 4,000 logs to water.

—Three hangings are fixed to come off in Ontario within the next few months, Chatelle, at Stratford, in May, and Hendershott and Walter, in St. Thomas, in the month following. The public executioner has an interesting time ahead of him.

—The expenditure on the public schools of the province in 1893 was $2,780,000. Of this sum $400,000 was expended in Toronto. With one-thirteenth of the population of Ontario, Toronto spends nearly one-ninth of the total sum appropriated for schools.

—The old log school house, which a generation ago was such a familiar sight in almost every section of Ontario, is now almost a thing of the past. There are today only 498 of these left. Of the other 4,834 school buildings in existence, 2,448 are brick or stone and 2,386 frame.

—The action brought by the widow of the late John Free for herself and her children against the G. T. R. Company for the death of her husband at the crossing at Melbourne street Lindsay, last fall, was settled by the authorities of the company after the record was entered for trial at this week's assizes. The amount paid and distributed amongst the widow and children is $2,100, the company paying the costs.

—In 1893 there were over 178,000 pupils receiving instruction in temperance and hygiene in Ontario public schools, an increase of nearly 145,000 in eleven years. The progress made is fairly satisfactory, but sufficient has not been done yet. All the advanced pupils should be instructed in these matters. The proper care of the body is one of the most important studies to which the attention of boys and girls can be devoted.

California Oranges.

Messrs. J. R. Oke & Co., fruit merchants, have made arrangements for a supply of California oranges for this market. A letter received to-day from Mr. J. C. Edwards of Riverside, California, advises Messrs. Oke & Co. that a carload will be shipped at once, and will reach here in about two weeks. As California was not touched by the frost, the public may depend on a very fine fruit. 1d

Compiled in Peterborough.

The Monetary Times says:—"A table which will indicate at a glance and with the minimum amount of labour, interest on any sum, for any time, and at any rate per cent., are the features of a new interest table compiled by Mr. C. L. Benedict, Peterborough. It is printed on white paper, in clear type, and is encased between cloth covers which measures when opened 17x20 inches. We do not think the size is a good feature, because an accountant's desk is generally reserved for calendar and file. But if a space can be made for it, it will certainly prevent many a headache to a person who has much computing to do."

"Gentlemen:—I feel that I cannot say enough in favor of Hood's Sarsaparilla. For five years I have been troubled with scrofula in my neck and throat. Several kinds of medicines which I tried did not do me any good, and when I commenced to take Hood's Sarsaparilla there were large bunches on my neck so sore that I could not bear the slightest touch. When I had taken one bottle of this medicine, the soreness had gone, and before I had finished the second the bunches had entirely disappeared." BLANCHE ATWOOD, Sangerville, Maine.

Otonabee and North Monaghan Unite in Opposing the Appeal.

This afternoon at the office of Messrs. Edmison & Dixon the Otonabee council met a deputation from North Monaghan to consult in reference to the action of the town council in appealing against the award of Judge Ketchum. The matter was generally discussed, and the Otonabee council passed a resolution similar to that passed by the council of North Monaghan, and joined with the latter in employing Mr. Geo. Edmison and G. H. Watson, Q.C., Toronto, to look after the interests of the two corporations in fighting the appeal.

ARREST OF A YOUNG SHOP-LIFTER.

He is but one of Many—The Merchants Suffer Great Losses Through Such Depredations.

The alarming extent to which the crime of petty thieving has spread, lately, has driven the Peterborough merchants to their wit's end to devise measures to protect their goods from the many "shop-lifters," whose operations in a store very quickly cancel a day's profits.

Perhaps no store in town has been so pestered in this respect as the Peterborough Book Store and time and again have people been caught in the very act of walking from the store with goods unpaid for upon their persons and have been compelled to disgorge.

Yesterday, shop-lifters were caught twice, while operating on the premises and the proprietor, losing all patience, resolved making an example of the next one, no matter whom it was or how respectable their connection. He did not have to wait long for within a very few minutes a boy of about twelve years of age entered and asked to see some rubber bands, while looking them over to apparently make a selection, he cooly pocketed a handful, when the clerk's attention was attracted to another portion of the store.

The bands were instantly missed and the boy's actions being suspicious, he was questioned as to whether he had taken any of the bands, but flatly denied the accusation. Being threatened with arrest he confessed, gave up the rubbers and begged to be let off, but as an example had to be made sooner or later, the police were called in and the lad was taken to the cells, where he spent the night.

This morning the magistrate explained that, as Mr. A. H. Stratton had no wish to press the charge on account of the boy's youth, there would be no conviction. A few earnest words of warning were addressed to the prisoner, and upon his promising to abstain in the future from taking things that were not his own, the boy was discharged.

A general complaint is made by all the merchants relative to the great losses suffered through the operations of shop-lifters, and the foregoing case is but the first of a number of arrests which will surely follow in case the practice is not discontinued. A few such examples will go a long way to remedy the difficulty.

EVANGELISTIC SERVICES.

The Largest Congregation Yet—The Evangelists to Stay Part of Next Week.

The largest congregation of the special series met last night in the George street Methodist church. It was a meeting of unusual power. Many anxious souls were there, and some entered the new life of faith in Jesus Christ.

Evangelist Moore spoke from Ezekial 33: 11—"As I live, saith the Lord God, I have no pleasure in the death of the wicked; but that the wicked turn from his way and live; turn ye, turn ye from your evil ways, for why will ye die, O house of Israel?" The truth that God takes no pleasure in the doom of sinners was first pressed home. To makes this truth doubly sure, God takes an oath about it. (2) God earnestly entreats the sinner to turn from his evil course; and (3) God closes with a searching and solemn query: "Why will ye die? Who can answer this?

Mr. Whyte's solo, "Jesus is Calling Thee Home," which followed the address, was a sweet and tender appeal to those away from God.

The evangelists will be here a part of next week.

THRIFTY MOTHERS CAN DRESS THEIR LITTLE ONES HANDSOMELY AND CHEAPLY.

Thrifty and economical mothers rarely buy new clothing for their children, yet the little ones are always well and handsomely dressed for school and church. This is the result of using Diamond Dyes, which make all the fashionable colours with but little work.

Suits for boys and little dresses and jackets for girls that have faded and become discoloured, are quickly transformed into new garments by the magical working of Diamond Dyes.

These wonderful package dyes cost but 10 cents per package; they are simple to use—indeed any child can use them and get a grand colour. The colours produced by Diamond Dyes are fast and strong, and in many respects far superior to the colours used in large dyeing factories.

When buying dyes for home use see that your dealer gives you "Diamond Dyes"; imitations and worthless dyes will ruin your materials and garments.

Save money by buying from the manufacturer—Grafton & Co.

Furniture.

At A. Clegg's; the new goods are coming in and nearly every line is complete. Bedroom suites, a very large assortment; sideboards at all prices, good dining room tables from $5.50 up, chairs at all prices from 39c each and up; couches, easy chairs, parlour suites, fancy chairs, and floor rockers. Pictures, just see them, at prices you never even dreamed of. Window shades, cornice poles, hall racks. Do not leave your upholstering and repairs until the very last minute; now is the time.—A. READING FOR INFORMATION (continued).

Who with a generous instinct to discern what knowledge can perform, is diligent to learn.—WORDSWORTH. Character of the Happy Warrior"

The evening papers recently published a report of the present standing of our Mechanics' Institute, which must have excited mingled feeling of pride and shame in those interested in its progress. We have the largest library, outside the larger cities, in Ontario. Upon its shelves are between 7,000 and 8,000 volumes, whilst no less than seventy newspapers and periodicals are to be found in the reading room. On the other hand, we are told that in the matter of membership we are far behind other and smaller places. Of a population of 12,000, there are but 317 members, of one of our churches, and I fear that an analysis of the roll of members would show that of the 317 a very small proportion are mechanics.

NOT HALF THE MEMBERSHIP

The membership fee is not an extravagant charge. In this connection, that question of drinks, referred to in our last letter, crops up again. I suppose there are a good many people in Peterborough who would look upon a $1.50 ticket for the use of the Institute as an injustifiable luxury, who spend that amount in drinks in a month.

A copy of

THE DECLARATION OF THE PRINCIPLES

of the Knights of Labour was sent me through the post a few days ago. Of the twenty-three objects of that powerful organization there are not a few upon which different opinions may be entertained by the most benevolent of men. But it can scarcely be doubted that it is a worthy object to endeavour "to secure to to the workers sufficient leisure in which to develope their intellectual, moral and social faculties."

Now, I make bold to say, that there are hundreds who do not belong to the order of manual workers, who will enthusiastically support such an object, as soon as they receive satisfactory assurance that such development is sought by the workers, as a body, themselves. But 317 amongst a population of 12,000, is not a very encouraging symptom of progress.

In reading for information there are one or two simple rules to be borne in mind, such as: (1) Before commencing a book on any given subject, try and find out something about the author. All writers have and must have predilections for this side or that side of a question. To try and find out what these are before commencing to read will prevent many a misjudgement. When Professor Huxley makes a statement in the sphere of science, every sensible man will listen to or read it with respect. But when he ventures upon the ground of theology or religion (and the two are distinct) he is to be followed with caution, for it is one of the

MOST ASTONISHING DELUSIONS

of the age, that man of science are highly qualified to speak with authority on matters of faith. As if the devoted study of things material rendered one competent to judge of things spiritual!

Another kindred rule to the above is, first, find out whether the author of the book is a recognised authority. This can be ascertained in various ways, as e. g. (a) What firm publishes the book? The names of such firms as MacWilliams, Longman's, Scribner's, etc., are sufficient guarantee that their books are worth reading. (c) Enquire of some one who knows. (c) Read the reviews of one or two good papers, such as are to be found in the Institute. Anyone, who, at the outset, will follow such rules, will soon be competent judgment (though not infallible) for himself.

A third rule is (3) begin with a small book, so as to gain what may be called a bird's-eye-view of the whole subject in a short time. It is a curious experience sometimes encountered to find a man thoroughly posted in some one or other detail of a subject, but with no conception of that subject as a whole, as though one should desire information on the use of the microscope and receive a learned lecture on its brass fittings. One, who before taking a bird's-eye-view of his subject, fills up his mind with all sorts of miscellaneous information, is in the position of the proverbial man who can't see the wood for the trees.

It is one of the good features of our time that the very best authorities are writing, not merely for scholars and students of leisure, but for

ALL CLASSES OF READERS.

Take for example the subject of History. In our Institute will be found a series of little books, simply written, interesting in the highest degree by men and women, of mark, entitled "Epochs of History." Here will be found not only information in regard to the great turning points of European civilization, but also on the relation which such a period bears to that which preceded and followed it, an estimate is attempted of the value of the accomplishments of the period bears to that which preceded and followed it, an estimate is attempted of the value of the accomplishments of the period in the development of our civilisation, and all in such a simple unostentatious style, as to bring it within the reach of every intelligent reader. Such are Church's Beginning of the Middle Ages, Cox's Crusaders, Creighton's Age of Elizabeth, Gardiner's French Revolution, Ludlow's War of American Independence, Seebohm's Protestant Revolution, or if English History is desired such as Browning's Modern England, Cowley's Rise of the People, Gardiner's Struggle Against Absolute Monarchy and others.

WE HAVE SIMILAR SERIES,

The study of history appears to me the most valuable of all studies. First because it is, as Arnold, of Rugby, said, "The biography of a society." It is a record of what man has thought, said and done, and

"On earth there is nothing great but man,
In man there is nothing great but mind."

We read of his successes and failures, of his goodness and badness. We learn to avoid old fallacies, and find guidance in our efforts after true progress. For human nature may be improved, its environment may be indefinitely ameliorated, but it does not at bottom change. Good and evil instincts there have always been. To foster the one and to check the other is the object of all good men; but even the best men may err, and the teachings of History are, in the hands of a good and wise man, a mighty weapon to aid him in the battle for right.

But, secondly, History is the story of the unfolding of the purposes of God—ALL HISTORY, not of the Church, or of the Jews alone, but of and of the law-giving Romans. We English-speaking people ought to recognize that we, too, are a people with a work to do for God and man, greater, it may be, than that of any other people the world has ever seen. Despite all our failings and errors, we stand as no people ever before have stood, for justice, for peace, for mercy, for home, for freedom and for faith. "The fear of God," says a great historian, "made England great." That is the lesson of English History. It is worth while studying that history so as to learn the lesson for ourselves, and, as the Jews of old used to do, to hand it to our children after us.

Notice.—The tenth regular meeting of the Club will be held on Monday, April 1st, at 8 p. m. Programme—Paper, "Other Worlds than Ours," by J. W. Garvin, B. A. Special Speakers—Mr. W. J. Drope, B. A., Mr. R. A. Peck and Mr. W. Innes, C. E. Open discussion.

SPORTS AND PASTIMES.

Items of Interest to Local Sportsmen. —Curling and Hockey.

YACHTING.

Lord Dunraven's new yacht Valkyrie III, with which he has challenged for the America's cup, is, when completed, to have a test with the Atlas. Supposing the Valkyrie win, she will have proved herself by far the fastest British yacht, and the contests for the America's cup this fall will possess the keenest interest. But if the Valkyrie loses to the Atlas what interest will the cup races have? Yet the rules do not permit the substitution of the Atlas or any other boat as challenger.

CRICKET.

The meeting of the cricketers has been postponed from Monday until Tuesday evening, when a large attendance is expected in Mr. R. R. Rogers office. A number of the members of the club will advocate a departure from the Club's policy, and it is hoped that all who can will be present in order that a general idea of the feeling of the members may be gathered.

THE NEW ATHLETIC CLUB.

The members of the staffs of the three newspaper offices in town are reminded of the meeting at eight o'clock this evening in the Oriental Hotel for the purpose of forming an athletic association. A large attendance is urged.

HOCKEY.

The Peterborough hockey club boasts of never having gone to the citizens with a subscription list since its formation. It has alway been a self-supporting institution and therefore the concert which is to be given on April 18th in the opera house should be liberally patronized by the public. Pauline Johnston and Owen A. Smiip are artists of national repute, and coming here as they do under the auspices of the hockey club, a bumper house should greet them.

THE WHEEL.

Peterborough will have some very fast men riding this summer and will have the advantage (in training) of being paced by Walker, who won last year's novice race, and Walter Phelan, who will ride a tandem together and should make a very fast pair.

PERSONAL.

Mr. H. Mulligan, Millbrook, was in town yesterday.

Mr. F. J. Jameson has returned from Brantford.

Dr. Shaw, of Keene, was on the streets this afternoon.

Mr. Harry Phelan is still confined to the house with illness.

Mr. A. W. Lawson, of Toronto, is in town for a few days.

Reeve Forster, of North Monaghan, was in town this afternoon.

Dr. Grey of Bailliieboro, was in Peterborough this afternoon.

Corporal Weston, of the Toronto Cavalry School, is in town visiting friends.

Miss Ainlie, of Barrie, who was the guest of Mrs. D. A. Shaw, has returned home.

Mr. Henry Green of Peterborough, was registered at the Anglo-American Hotel in Belleville yesterday.

Mrs. J. F. Crowley of Peterborough, is at present nhe guests of friends and relatives in Lindsay.

Street Inspector Pope has not sufficiently recovered from his recent illness to be able to resume his duties.

Mrs. J. R. Baker, of Mountain, Dundas county, is visiting in town with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Thomson, 123 Stewart Street.

Mrs. W. R. Russell and children, Quebec, who have been visiting Mrs. J. A. Hartley, Murray Street East, left this morning for the ancient capital, via C.P.R.

The numerous friends of Mrs. Adam Hall will be glad to know that she is recovering from her severe illness at Toronto. Mr. Hall, who has been in constant attendance, is expected home to-day.

Mr. Robert Armstrong, who has been attending the Dental College in Toronto, has successfully passed his final examinations, and having returned home, is to-day receiving the congratulations of his numerous friends.

Mr. R. P. Boucher, son of Dr. Boucher, has passed his final examinations at McGill, and with most creditable success, taking first class honours in pathology, gynæcology, ophthalmology and otology. Cordial congratulations are called for and given.

Mr. Angus Carmichael, of Rat Portage, Ont., is in town to-day, visiting with his brother, Dr. Carmichael. Mr. Carmichael was one of a civic deputation that visited Ottawa in the interest of certain local improvements for Rat Portage. He dropped off en route, and leaves for the west to-night.

Miss Maggie Stenson, daughter of Mr. J. T. Stenson, the many friends of the family will regret to learn, is very seriously ill in Toronto. Her mother and sister are with with her. Yesterday, information was received of a slight improvement, but this morning, news of an unfavourable character came, and Mr. Stenson has gone to the city.

At the annual examinations of the Ontario Veterinary College, Toronto, Mr. Wm. S. Hamilton of Chelsea, Mich., who took his practical course as a student with Dr. Johnston, V. S., Chambers street, passed the final examinations with first-class honours in Materia Medica, Pathology and Anatomy. Mr. Ray J. Stanclift, of Buffalo, who but recently entered with Dr. Johnston, in his first year's examinations took first prize in histology and miscropy, third in pathology and honours in chemistry. Being in good hands for practical work, this young man with his ability and application has a promising future. Mr. Turnbull, of Milton, Ont., who is also a student with Dr. Johnston, also mada a splendid record in honours last year.

Disease is an effect not a cause. Its origin is within; its manifestations without. Hence to cure the disease the cause must be removed, and in no other way can a cure be effected. Warner's SAFE Cure is established on just this principle. It realizes that of all diseases arise from deranged Kidneys and Liver, and it strikes at once at the root of the difficulty. The elements of which it is composed act directly upon these great organs, both as a food and restorer, and, by placing them in a healthy condition, drive disease and pain from the system.

For the innumerable troubles caused by unhealthy Kidneys, Liver and Urinary Organs; for the distressing disorders of Women; for all Nervous Affections, and physical derangements generally, this great remedy has no equal. Its past record is a guarantee for the future.

Your Physician

Orders you to take Cod Liver Oil. Of Course he means the BEST, and the best is

Madill's Emulsion

OF PURE NORWEGIAN COD LIVER OIL COMBINED WITH HYPOPHOSPHITES OF LIME AND SODA.

It will do wonders for you if you require building up and fattening, but you must begin in time and take it regularly, as you do your meals.

Madill's Emulsion is put up fresh and sweet every week. It is far more palatable to the stomach than other similar preparations, while a tablespoonful dose contains a higher percentage of pure Cod liver oil.

CHILDREN like it better than any other. Its potency has created an active local demand, and a constant request from other cities and towns of Canada.

MUCH LIKE A MIRACLE.

A STATEMENT FROM A WELL-KNOWN BERLIN MERCHANT.

How His Daughter Was Restored From the Terrors of St. Vitus Dance —Her Case One of the Worst Ever Known—Has Fully Recovered Her Health.

From the Berlin News.

The readers of the News have been made familiar with the virtue of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People through the articles appearing from time to time in these columns, and while the druggists say that many in this vicinity have received undoubted benefit from their timely use, it is only recently that we have heard of a cure in Berlin of such importance as to rank among the most remarkable yet published. There is hardly a man or woman in the town of Berlin, or the county of Waterloo, who does not know Mr. Martin Simpson, issuer of marriage licenses and general merchant, King street. Anything said by Mr. Simpson will be implicitly relied upon. A day or two ago we had a talk with him in reference to his fourteen-year-old daughter, Helen, who had for two years been a great sufferer from St. Vitus' dance. He tells us that it was the worst case he ever saw. She did not sleep for whole nights and was an intense sufferer. She was totally helpless and could neither eat nor drink unless administered to her by her parents. The best medical attendance was had, but all to no avail. She kept getting worse and worse, and finally, when in the paroxysms, commenced to froth at the mouth, and her parents believed she was going out of her mind. Though unable to walk for about eight months she would in her spells have fits, making her jump high above her couch. While in this condition, the worst case ever seen in this place, Mr. Simpson, as a last resort, purchased some Pink Pills and gave them to his suffering and afflicted daughter. He assures us that in thirty hours she found some relief. In a week the "dance" was entirely stopped and she was able to sleep, and was rapidly regaining her former strength. Some months after the use of the Pink Pills was discontinued she again had touches of disease, but a few doses of the pills stopped it, and for the last eight months has been entirely free from the terrible malady from which no one who knew the circumstances, expected she would recover, and her parents, as may be expected, are warm in their praises of the wonderful remedy which worked such great results. These facts are known to all who are acquainted with the family and further comments are wholly unnecessary.

When such strong tributes as these can be had to the wonderful merits of Pink Pills, it is little wonder that they are the favourite remedy with all classes. They are an unfailing specific for locomotor ataxia, partial paralysis, St. Vitus' dance, sciatica, neuralgia, rheumatism, nervous headache, the after effects of la grippe, palpitation of the heart, nervous prostration, all diseases depending upon vitiated humours in the blood, such as scrofula, chronic erysipelas, etc. They are also a specific for troubles peculiar to females, suppressions, irregularities, and all forms of weakness. In men they effect a radical cure in all cases arising from mental worry, overwork, or excesses of any nature.

These Pills are manufactured by the Dr. Williams' Medicine Company, of Brockville, Ont., and Schenectady, N. Y., and sold in boxes (never in loose form by the dozen or hundred, and the public are cautioned against numerous imitations in this shape), at 50c. a box, or six boxes for $2.50, and may be had of all druggists, or direct by mail from Dr. Williams' Medicine Company, at either address.

The Grass Widow.

According to recent researches the phrase "grass widow" is a corruption of "grace widow," which is a term for one who becomes a widow by grace or favor, not of necessity as by death. It originated in the earlier days of European civilization, when divorces were but seldom granted, and then only by authority of the Church. When such a decree was granted to a woman the rescript stated: "Viduca de gratia," which interpreted is "widow of grace." A woman receiving such a divorce was commonly called "a grace widow," and the transition to "grass widow" was easy. This latter term is in the United States applied to a woman whose husband has been away from her for considerable length of time, or who has deserted her. In England it is applied to an unmarried woman who has borne a child.—San Francisco Call.

Horses Fed on Potatoes.

In the first issue of the Planter we gave the experience of Mr. W. G. Hinson, of James Island, in reference to feeding horses and mules on potatoes. We have since found two farmers, Mr. J. C Lampley, of Darlington County, and Mr. W. D. Harriss, of Florence County, who are utilizing their potatoes in the same way. These gentlemen are not doing it from necessity, but as a matter of farm economy, and are well pleased with the experiment. According to the estimate of Col T. W. Woodward, of Fairfield, it takes three bushels of potatoes to equal in nutriment one bushel of corn, but even if it took four the cost of feeding on the potatoes would be far less. It is well known that a dry summer is very favorable to potatoes and just the opposite for corn, and this fact ought to be sufficient to induce every farmer to plant them more largely.—Carolina Planter.

To have perfect health you must have pure blood, and the best way to have pure blood is to take Hood's Sarsaparilla.

Canada's Butter Policy.

London, March 30.—The new butter policy of the Canadian Government was made a point of special interest in the House of Commons yesterday when John Kenelm Wingfield-Digby, member for Dorset North, drew the attention of the members to what he termed the unequal competition to which the home farmers are subject, owing to the large imports of cheese and butter which were greatly assisted by bounties. He urged the British Government to impose an equivalent import duty on produce thus bonused.

The Right. Hon. Herbert Gardner, president of the Board of Agriculture, in reply, flatly refused to embark on such a policy of retaliatory tariffs, and urged the members to consider the effects of such bounties in France.

Municipal Fire Insurance.

The bill to create a municipal bureau of fire insurance now before the Ontario Legislature, has been much criticised here, and the Birmingham and Midland counties Master Printers' Association has decided to urge the Toronto proposal upon the town councils in the Midlands.

The University Boat Race.

The Oxford-Cambridge boat race, which is to be rowed on the Thames to-day, is the only topic among university men and others interested in aquatic sports. The prospects seem even more favorable than usual to Oxford. Both the general public and boating experts have been for weeks of the opinion that Cambridge's defeat was certain. Last night the betting was 9 to 2 against Cambridge. This gives some idea of the confidence felt in the Oxonians.

The Paris Award will be Adhered To.

London, March 30.—It is learned officially that whatever Canada may desire in reference to the enforcement of the Behring Sea regulations of 1895, the decision of the Paris arbitration will be strictly adhered to during the ensuing season, and no side issue will be allowed to affect that decision.

Dicks Committed for Trial.

Toronto, March 30.—Yesterday in the Police Court Mr. E. F. B. Johnston, counsel for Arthur A. Dicks, waived the preliminary investigation in the charge of the murder of Mrs. Dicks, and despite the Crown Attorney's desire for the investigation, Magistrate Denison sent the case to the higher court without taking evidence. The assizes will be opened on April 30, and at that court Clara Ford, the Hyams brothers and Dicks will all be required to defend their lives from the accusation of murder.

The Price of Cut Nails.

Montreal, March 30.—The Hardware and Metal Merchant gives the following important piece of news: At a meeting of the Cut Nail Association last night the price of cut nails was fixed at $2.10 per keg, delivered to all parts of Canada in ten keg lots, which means that the wholesale trade has decided to sell direct to the retail trade.

Montreal's Proposed World's Fair.

Montreal, March 30.—The Citizens' Committee appointed for the World's Fair, to be held in Montreal in 1896, left yesterday for Ottawa to interview Premier Bowell, and if possible obtain a grant from the Dominion Government.

Breathing Carbonic Acid.

It is well known that a very much larger proportion of carbonic acid than usually exists in the atmosphere can be inhaled with impunity, but only recently have we been aware of the large quantity that can be breathed without actual danger. Ordinary fresh air contains by four parts in 10 000, yet the carbonic acid has to reach three per cent, or 100 times the usual quantity before any difference is noticed in the respiration. As the percentage rises the person breathing it begins to pant, but with air containing as much as ten per cent only a headache is produced, although the panting is violent. The actual danger point is not reached until the carbonic acid rises to eighteen per cent.

Foul air in a room where a number of persons are present is not dangerous on account of the carbonic acid it contains, but owing to a poisonous organic substance given off with the breath. Carbonic acid is not a direct poison, but when the danger point is reached the air can take none from the blood in the lungs, so that the fires of the human engine are extinguished by their own smoke, as it were. It is really wonderful what the human engine will endure, for a candle goes out when the oxygen in the air sinks to 18.5, instead of the usual twenty per cent, and the carbonic acid rises to 2.5.—Chambers' Journal.

HER MAJESTY.

She wears a royal golden crown,
Our little, laughing, shy-faced queen;
The clust'ring curls o'er eyes of brown
Are bright as summer starlight's sheen.

She sways a sceptre o'er us all,
And we obey each proud command;
For we are held in slavery's thrall
By that imperial, dimpled hand.

Her robes of state are pure as snow,
In every heart she finds a throne;
In all the land she has no foe—
The name of rebel is unknown.

Her loyal subjects, low and high,
Full many a costly tribute bring;
The glories of her kingdom, I,
Her humble poet-laureate, sing.

Around my neck her soft arms twine,
My song is smothered in her curls;
Her sweet, fresh lips are pressed to mine;
Oh, baby little queen of girls!

Men and Women in all Walks of Life Tell of the Remarkable Cures Wrought by South American Nervine Tonic.

SIX DOSES WILL CONVINCE THE MOST INCREDULOUS.

EDITOR COLWELL, OF PARIS, ONT., REVIEW.

Newspaper editors are almost as sceptical as the average physician on the subject of new remedies for sick people. Nothing short of a series of most remarkable and well authenticated cures will incline either an editor or a doctor to seriously consider the merits honestly claimed for a medicine.

Hundreds of testimonials of wonderful recoveries wrought with the Great South American Nervine Tonic were received from men and women all over the country before physicians began to prescribe this great remedy in chronic cases of dyspepsia, indigestion, nervous prostration, sick headache, and as a tonic for building up systems sapped of vitality through protracted spells of sickness.

During his experience of nearly a quarter of a century as a newspaper publisher in Paris, Ont., Editor Colwell, of The Paris Review, has published hundreds of columns of paid medicine advertisements, and, no doubt, printed many a gracefully-worded puff for his patrons as a matter of business, but in only a single instance, and that one warranted by his own personal experience, has he given a testimonial over his own signature. No other remedy ever offered the public has proved such a marvellous revelation to the most sceptical as the South American Nervine Tonic. It has never failed in its purpose, and it has cured when doctors and other medicines were tried in vain.

"I was prostrated with a particularly severe attack of 'La Grippe,'" says Mr. Colwell, "and could find no relief from the intense pains and distress of the malady. I suffered day and night. The doctors did not help me, and I tried a number of medicines, but without relief. About this time I was advised to try the South American Nervine Tonic. Its effects were instantaneous. The first dose I took relieved me. I improved rapidly and grew stronger every day. Your Nervine Tonic cured me in a single week."

The South American Nervine Tonic rebuilds the life forces by its direct action on the nerves and the nerve centres, and it is this notable feature which distinguishes it from every other remedy in existence. The most eminent medical authorities now concede that fully two-thirds of all the physical ailments of humanity arise from exhaustion of the nerve forces. The South American Nervine Tonic acting direct upon the nerve centres and nerve tissues instantaneously supplies them with the true nourishment required, and that is why its invigorating effects upon the whole system are always felt immediately. For all nervous diseases, for general debility arising from enfeebled vitality, and for stomach troubles of every variety no other remedy can possibly take its place.

DAVID DOIG!

BALD AND TOOTHLESS.

NOT A FLATTERING PROSPECT FOR US, TO SAY THE LEAST.

Dr. Charles E. Page of Boston Writes in the Dietetic and Hygienic Gazette of a Tendency of the Age—Hollow Cheeks Made Plump by Chewing Raw Grain.

Nature is in some respects a patient and long-suffering creditor; but she never fails, finally, to collect, with interest and costs, although it may in some matters be a question of generations, even centuries.

In spite of many generations of unnatural treatment of the head, whose best protection is found in a good body of hair, we still have something like a natural covering during a considerable portion of our lives; and we continue to have teeth, though finding small use for them in these days of soft food, hot and moist, but they give us endless trouble, pain and expense.

One hundred years ago New York, with 60,000 population, had but one dentist, and tradition says that he was not very busy. Now it has a dentist for every 1,000, and many of these are driven with work. Doubtless all of them would have their hands full if every sufferer could afford their services; while one-half of the present number would suffice for the rising generation if all parents would give their children enough chewing exercise throughout the growing period, themselves setting the example by giving the teeth fair play before it is too late.

Congestion of the scalp-skin makes us bald; the teeth die of anæmia. That the race is destined to become absolutely bald and toothless seems evident enough to many thoughtful minds.

Owing to heredity and continued wrong treatment, men are often entirely bald at the age of thirty; while women, having only heredity to contend with, since their hats and bonnets are not held in place by a tight encircling band, retain their hair as a rule till very late in life, often till the final close.

In the matter of the teeth, both sexes, having to contend with both heredity and present personal abuses, are likely to have full sets of artificial teeth before middle age, sometimes long before. There are other things to consider besides the influences mentioned, but the writer is convinced that these are the most active and powerful. Among the causes of decay of the teeth we may mention the following: the practice of walking hot and ice cold drinks, the effect being much worse than when these are alternated at short intervals, as is the practice with many in the use of tea, coffee, and ice water at meals; tobacco has the effect to poison the gums, and cause them to recede by, and often before, middle life; the careless use of the toothpick constantly irritates and wounds the gums, and that alone would cause a tendency to recession and consequent lack of the natural support of the teeth in position, which grow loose and have to be drawn.

The free use of artificial sugar, sweets, bonbons, pastry, etc., has been condemned on the score of injury to the teeth. These substances are a nuisance to the organism as a whole, without doubt, destroying the tone of the stomach, loading the circulation with waste, in some cases preventing appetite for enough plain food to well nourish the body, or the gross quantity of food taken causing dyspepsia, and thus indirectly affecting the teeth. But it is still the opinion of the soundest men among dentists, as well as others who have made a study of the question, that our teeth decay chiefly for want of the natural exercise of chewing that alone can bring to them such blood-supply as is essential to keep them solid and sound, especially in view of the inherited tendency. This, together with poor general health, is doubtless the real cause of our failure to keep the teeth, as all other animals do, as a rule, till the end of life.

It is extra exercise that makes the blacksmith's right arm larger than the left, and if the latter were kept in a sling, instead of having a modicum of exercise, it would either grow steadily smaller till in time little would be left but skin and bone, or, if not that, the muscles of the loafing arm would rapidly become degenerated with fat. This is what happens to certain ones who eat freely, indulge in improper foods, and take too little exercise, the ones who have a tendency to obesity. The unused muscles and the unused teeth alike must fail of nutrition, and decay.

Great stress has always been laid on the value of flourishing the tooth-brush, and doubtless it is important to take care to gently clean the teeth, in view of certain deficiencies, in the juices of the mouth under our civilized and unnatural dietetic habits; but the dog, whose teeth would in beauty and soundness shame those of the most elegant Back Bay belle, though she were an extremist in the care of them, is, as we all know, not at all fussy in the care of his teeth. This, of course, has reference to dogs that have a fairly natural chance, not to the over-petted ones kept indoors, and badly fed. The latter some times suffer from toothache and even lose their teeth.

A final word concerning the causes of baldness: The idea still prevails that it is due to lack of ventilation of our hats, and now-a-days most hat manufacturers seek to set things right by filling their hats with holes almost innumerable, not only in both sides and the top, but under the band, between the latter and the hat itself. The writer formerly held to this opinion, but after the most thorough-going experiments in increasing the number and size of the holes in his tile, till finally these occupied the top, front and rear, and on both sides, a large proportion of the space, he was forced to give up the ventilation theory. It gave him no relief. His light straw hat gave him almost as much trouble as his silk hat or derby, and he wondered at this, while he held to the old theory, since the straw let in the air very freely. But on lifting his hat, either the tile, derby or the light straw, ease came to the oppressed head almost immediately. This finally led him to experiment with a cord brought about the head at the point encircled by the hat-band, when lo! the same discomfort was at once felt as in case of the hat. This seemed to settle the question, and the more suggestion generally convinces all who are well versed in the study of anatomy and physiology that it is rather a question of the circulation of the blood than of the air. When the blood, which is brought to the head by the arteries within, is distributed to the scalp-skin there is at the points all about the head encircled by the band such impediment to free circulation that it piles up, so to say, about the top of the head, or at any rate a degree of congestion is produced causing an oppressed feeling, and in time destruction of the "roots" and gradual loss of the hair.

Hollow-cheeked persons may take the following hint as to the value of exercise in chewing: In the course of my dietetic experiments I at one time lived wholly on raw wheat (seed wheat, procured from the farmer or seed man) and apples, and after chewing a cupful of the grain, which is almost as hard as shot, every day for several weeks, my friends began to congratulate me on my improved appearance. They said I was getting plump; and, true enough, my cheeks, which had been bordering on hollowness, had filled out completely, and I appeared at least fifteen pounds heavier, though in fact my weight had not changed at all. Since that time I have taught the trick to a great many persons, who have found that by chewing a few mouthfuls of any kind of raw grain, cracked oats answering the purpose very well, every day, not only are the cheeks favorably affected (being "trained down" if too fat, and "up" if too thin), but the teeth also. The tendency to decay is thereby checked. Beginners are cautioned against overdoing it at the start, lest the weak and frail teeth be injured by their altogether unusual work.

What John Wanamaker, the Most Heavily Insured man in America, Says:

(INTERVIEW WITH JOHN WANAMAKER.)

It is very generally known that Ex-Postmaster General John Wanamaker, of Philadelphia, carries the largest amount of Life Insurance of any man in the United States. A representative of the press recently interviewed this gentleman while he was travelling with the Presidential party, and this interview will be found, we believe, of general interest:—

"You are said to be the most heavily insured man in the country, Mr. Wanamaker," remarked the press representative.

"How did you come to think of that?" he said with a smile. "You are not looking for any disaster under such excellent management as our friend Boyd is giving this train and party?"

"No," I replied. "A newspaper friend in San Francisco, who had heard the report, wanted me to ask you it it was true, and if so, what your business reasons are for it?"

"Well," he modestly answered, "I have heard it stated that I am the most heavily insured man in the country. I don't know about that. The amount of my policies is $1,550,000, and the value, with the accumulations since the policies were taken out, is about two millions of dollars."

"In what class of companies are your policies?"

"They are all in stock and mutual companies, and none of them in what are known as assessment or instalment companies."

"Are they full life term policies or on what is termed the 'tontine' plan?"

"I have generally taken ten and fifteen payment policies and very few life policies. With about all good companies a contract can now be made whereby there is no risk of losing a policy after two years' premiums have been paid. If the party insured chooses to withdraw he can get a paid-up policy. Indeed, I understand that some companies have forms whereby the insurer can after one year, if desired, withdraw and receive a paid-up policy. There is practically little risk, say more, in insuring in the old companies."

"Perhaps you would be willing to tell me how you came to insure so heavily?"

"I thought the matter out, and convinced myself that it was a good business venture. Besides, it seemed to me that I might, perhaps, give away more money in lifetime if there was a fixed certainty of putting it back into my estate by Life Insurance. I conceive that the best way for a man to carry on benevolence is not to leave it to be done through his will, but to do it in his lifetime, and I felt that Life Insurance would give me more freedom in carrying out some plans I have, and which I would be glad to see completed before I leave this world. If you want to ascertain what the circumstances were in placing the Life Insurance, I must go further in my answers and say that I should not have gone so far in my Life Insurance but for the skill of the agent who tackled me to insure to a greater extent than I would otherwise have done. He was an old friend who had been in mercantile business and who knew how to present Life Insurance without boring me. I feel to-day sincerely grateful to the man who followed me so discreetly with information about companies, and who kept the subject before me until I settled the question."

"When did you begin taking Life Insurance policies?"

"My first policy was taken when I was twenty-one."

"Do you consider it a good thing for a man of small means?"

"I certainly do. Most young men spend more for cigars during the year than the annual cost of a $2,500 policy in a good company. If they must have the cigars they might divide between cigars and Life Insurance and carry at least a $1,000 policy. I think every young man, before he is married, ought to try to get at least a $1,000 policy."

"Among how many companies are your policies divided, and where are they located?"

"About forty companies. Most of them are located in the East. A few are in the West and a few in Canada."

"Do you recommend Life Insurance to others, especially those in whom you feel a personal interest?"

"I can perhaps answer that best by saying that I presented a few years ago a $1,000 policy, paid up for one year, to every insurable head of family in my employ. Many of the prudent men who received them not only kept them but added to them, and I have the satisfaction of knowing that in not a few cases those policies have been the means of saving worthy families from want."

It will doubtless be of interest to our readers to know that John Wanamaker carries a large policy in the Canada Life Insurance Company, thus evincing his confidence in the soundness of Canada's oldest and largest Company. During the last few years quite a number of American capitalists have been convinced of the SUPERIOR MERITS OF THE CANADA LIFE, and have accordingly placed their insurance therein, in preference to any other company.

The Canada Life is now being recognized in the states of Michigan, Minnesota and Ohio as the Company that gives the best results for the least premium.

TEMPERING ALUMINIUM.

A Discovery That May Increase its Modern Usefulness.

The successful tempering of aluminium so as to give it the consistency of iron is the latest triumph of F. Allard, the Levis blacksmith, whose rediscovery of the lost Egyptian art of hardening copper startled the mechanical world some three or four years ago, and only failed to make the fortune of the author because of the expensiveness of the process. A recent trial of Allard's tempered aluminium has proved a success of his method in Quebec and the practical purposes to which it can be applied. He had made and hardened a cannon, which has just been tested in presence of Col. Spence, the American consul, with the greatest success. This cannon is twenty-six inches long and five inches in diameter, the metal of the gun outside the bore being only a quarter of an inch thick. A charge, consisting of a pound of powder, has been successfully fired out of this little piece of ordinance without having any appreciable effect upon it. A new and more scientific trial of the cannon has been ordered by the Canadian military authorities to be held immediately at the Quebec Citadel by the artillery experts there, and the United States Consul, in view of this move, is understood to have encouraged Mr. Allard to manufacture, as speedily as possible, a cannon twelve feet in length for shipment to Washington, but whether this is to be at Allard's risk or by instructions from the United States Government is not known and cannot be learned. The advantage of cannons made of aluminium, everything else being equal, lies of course in the lightness of the metal. The cannon just tested weighs fourteen pounds. If it were of iron and the same dimensions it would weigh 180 pounds. Allard's friends, and military enthusiasts over the project, assert that if the tempered aluminium supersedes iron for the making of big guns field artillery men, instead of being dependent on horses and gun carriages for dragging their weapons over rough country, will be able to shoulder them like muskets. In appearance the finished specimen looks as though it was made of burnished silver.

Who Wrote "The Raven"?

Dr. Matthew Wood of Philadelphia has gathered a mass of evidence in the attempt to prove that Charles Bock Hirst and not Edgar Allen Poe was the author of "The Raven." Hirst and Poe were for a long time intimate friends, and the law office of the former in Philadelphia was one of the favorite resorts of the latter. Many times during his later years Hirst declared that he wrote "The Raven," and that Poe's only hand in the matter was to make slight changes and add a few lines. He had a manuscript copy of the poem, which was almost entirely in his own handwriting—only a small portion in that of Poe. But Hirst was very careless as to the paternity of his poems, and Dr. Woods, after years of research, has failed to find some that were highly spoken of and sharply criticised by his contemporaries. This is notably the case with "The Antediluvians."

Briefly stated, Dr. Wood's argument for Hirst is: 1. Hirst's claim that he wrote "The Raven." 2. That eight years before "The Raven" appeared Hirst wrote a poem ("The Unseen River") in the same peculiar measure. 3. That another of his poems ("Eleanore") suggests the Lenore of "The Raven." 4. That Hirst was one of the most expert ornithologists of his day and passionately devoted to the study, writing of "The Wren," "The Song Sparrow," "The Falcon," "The Eagle," "The Owl," "The Robin," and many others. 5. That Hirst thoroughly well knew the raven and its peculiar ways, which Poe did not, and that no one unfamiliar with the bird could have produced the marvelously true-to-nature picture which "The Raven" presents. 6. "The Raven" was published anonymously in January, 1845, not long after the friendship between Hirst and Poe had been broken, and Dr. Wood sees in the signatures Quarles a hint of the quarrel between them.—Philadelphia Press.

BUILDING SOCIETIES.

The Bill to Provide for Their Inspection Receives Its Second Reading.

Toronto, March 29.—The important feature of yesterday's session of the Local Legislature was the second reading of Dr. McKay's bill to provide for the inspection of building societies. He argued that banks, insurance companies and other financial institutions were now under Government inspection as a matter of protection to the public.

Sir Oliver Mowat said that the inspection of these companies was of great importance to the public. He thought that the companies should have an opportunity of expressing themselves upon the subject. The companies might themselves agree upon some form of inspection. The introduction of the bill had done good. It would bring matters to a head. He thought it would be better if the bill were withdrawn and future action might be taken.

Messrs. Stratton and Howland opposed the bill, which after considerable discussion was read a second time and referred to the special committee.

Aid for Butter and Cheese Men.

Mr. Cleland introduced a bill for the relief of butter and cheese manufacturers. If passed, the manufacturers will be allowed, through their associations, to borrow money upon real and personal property. The bill passed the first reading.

Ontario's Timber Assets.

Mr. St. John asked if it is the intention of the Government to take any steps towards ascertaining the quantity, quality, acreage or value of the timber assets of the province.

Hon. Mr. Hardy replied that the department was constantly taking steps such as suggested, but the Government at present had no intention of appointing a commission to deal with the subject.

Crime and Criminals.

Hon. Mr. Gibson laid the annual report upon the prisons, jails and reformatories upon the table yesterday. It shows an increase in crime during 1894 within the province. There were 851 committals more during that period. Of the increase more than half were for petty larceny, 136 for trespass, and for burglary 26. There were 8,038 males and 1,357 females convicted. The committals of boys and girls show a decrease, and the drunkards show a decrease of 378. The cost of rations, clothing and fuel for the 9,460 prisoners last year was $45,115, and the salaries to jail officials $79,700. The crime of murder has not increased within the province. It has remained about the same since 1877. There were 23 murders in 1894, while in 1877 there were 20, and 27 in 1893 and 24 in 1892. The crime of rape nearly doubled last year, and manslaughter diminished by one-half. Attempts at suicide more than doubled, while felonious assaults remained at the same level. Arson increased 40 per cent. and bigamy nearly 50 per cent. The crime of perjury increased over 200 per cent., while indecent assault increased 20 per cent.

New Laws.

Mr. Gibson (Huron) introduced a bill to enable public parks to be established in police villages. The bill received its first reading.

Mr. St. John introduced a bill to limit the rate of interest on arrears of taxes to 6 per cent.

Mr. Middleton moved the first reading of his bill to enable municipalities to elect their aldermen for the term of three years. The motion carried.

Second Readings.

These bills were read a second time:

Mr. Wood, to amend the Act respecting mortgages and sales of personal property.

Mr. Ryerson, to give municipalities the right to make assessments every five years.

Mr. Whitney, to permit the issuing of debentures for the completion of county drainage works commenced before 1894.

Mr. Marter, to provide for the appointment of an arbitrator, who shall act in all cases of dispute between municipalities and private citizens.

Mr. Crawford, to provide for the inspection of boilers, and qualification of persons in charge of the same.

Mr. Conmee, respecting the municipality of Neebing.

Mr. Whitney, respecting the Stormont Electric Light and Power Company.

Mr. McKay (Oxford), to confirm certain municipal by-laws respecting the Tilsonburg, Lake Erie and Pacific Railway Company and the Port Burwell harbor.

Mr. Mutrie, respecting the town of Palmerston.

Mr. Middleton, to confirm by-law numbers 650 and 773 of the city of Hamilton.

Mr. McKay (Oxford), respecting the debt of the town of Woodstock.

Mr. Stratton, respecting the Irondale, Bancroft and Ottawa Railway Company.

Mr. Bigger, respecting the Ottawa Railway Company and the township of East Whitby.

Mr. Stratton, to confirm a by-law of the united townships of Burleigh and Anstruther.

Mr. Biscott, to confirm by-law No. 944 of the city of St. Catharines.

Registrars' Fees.

Dr. Meacham moved the second reading of a bill to compel registrars to stamp upon all instruments registered the amount of the fee charged in each case. The bill was opposed by the Government on the ground that it was not necessary since all that anyone had to do who thought the fee excessive was to inform the inspector, who without charge would look into the matter. The bill was withdrawn.

Separate vs. Public Schools.

There was a great fight in the Private Bills Committee yesterday over the Separate school bill introduced at the instance of the Separate school supporters and the town council of the town of Cornwall. It would appear that there has been a dispute of long standing at Cornwall between the Public and Separate school boards about the proportion of taxes that should go to the respective boards to be paid by two large cotton mills. The town council and the Separate school board agreed that 30 per cent. of these taxes should go to the Separate school board, and it was to ratify this agreement that the bill was introduced. A heated discussion took place. Both sides were represented. Finally the bill was thrown out on a vote of 27 to 8.

Central Prison Wool.

In the Public Accounts Committee yesterday, Mr. E. T. Carter, bookkeeper for Mr. John Hallam, admitted that the firm had charged the Central Prison two cents per pound more for a certain grade of wool than had been paid by an outside dealer for the same grade. The explanation was that the prison wool had been specially selected.

An Active Mining Policy.

Mr. Conmee has given notice that he will move that the Government take such steps as may be necessary to insure the more rapid development of mining, and the establishment of metallurgical works for the treatment of the more important economic minerals of the province.

THE CHILDREN'S AID SOCIETY DOING A GOOD WORK.

It Steps in to Protect an Ill-used Orphan in Havelock Yesterday.

The officer of the Children's Aid Society presented a case of cruelty to an orphan boy six years old at Havelock yesterday.

A large number of witnesses was examined and it was shown that the mother had been guilty of excessive whipping. She admitted using a strap, which she kept for the purpose, over the boy's head and body which both bore the marks of severe bruises. The general reputation of the woman is that she has illused the child. He is a very handsome little fellow and with difficulty stifled his sobs as he stood near the table.

County Police Magistrate Edmison, who had two justices of the peace, associated with him, was very severe in his remarks to the woman, but on consulting with the Society's officers, it was thought advisable to put her under strict supervision with the understanding that if there is the slightest cause for complaint in the future the child will at once be taken away.

It was a case in which it was difficult to get at the particulars, although it was plain that the boy had been very severely ill-treated.

It was thought better to give her a severe warning and another chance, than to deprive her of the child she had brought up from infancy. It is to be hoped that this leniency, on the part of the Society, will have a good effect upon her. Precautions were taken to secure her apprehension in case of necessity.

Where Did You Get That HAT?
Give that old "Back Number" a Resting Place, and buy one of the "Latest" Spring Styles From GOUGH BROS.

Don't hunt for anything wrong in them. There's nothing there. The price has nothing to do with the quality. The man with $2 can command as good a Hat from GOUGH'S as $3.00 can command elsewhere.

Our position is a little peculiar We don't have to live off Hats alone. We're not bound to any traditional notions of big profits. The difference which makes it so is—we buy right direct from the makers. That's why we've got such a grip on

The Best Hat Trade of Peterborough.

You were never made for the Hat you know. The Hat was made for you. If you like to be abreast with the times, replace that old head block with one of our Leaders for 1895, bought from the best factories of England and America. Our Hats are ALL NEW. Latest in shapes and colour; soft and stiff. Qualities are grandly generous—scarcely a sort that you'll find missing—because we have the biggest Hat Store within miles of Peterborough.

Stylish Hats for Stylish Dressers,
In Men's, Youth's and Boy's Sizes.

Selling Hats alongside of Clothing and Boots and Shoes cuts down expenses and makes prices less. That's the plain fact of the matter. Can you catch on?

Our ONE DOLLAR HAT is in keeping with good quality. Our $1.25 and $1.50 Hats are almost unbelievable—but the bargain is in them—while our $2.00, $2.50 and $3.00 Hats are something mystifying for finish, Trimming workmanship and style. PRICE draws, and when hitched up with our popular team—QUALITY and STYLE—makes a force that irressitibly draws into our stores the bulk of Peterborough patronage. You need a decent Hat—you need it now—don't spoil your credit by a seedy top-piece.

The Aristocrats Of Wall Papers.

OUR New Spring Designs in Wall Paper for 1895 are the most elaborate ever shown in the Dominion. They represent the finest effects in High Art Paper Decorations ever shown here, and are the Aristocrats of Wall Papers.

WE have done our level best to encourage Home Decoration by selling Handsome Room Paper, and allied combinations, but our samples this spring transcends every previous display we have opened out. The patterns embrace many beautiful designs to suit every taste and every purse. The most effective being in

COLOURED AND EMBOSSED GOLDS,
VARNISHED AND FLITTER BRONZES,
PLAIN AND FLITTER INGRAINS,
ENGLISH SANITARY,
PLAIN AND CLOUDED FLOCKS,
CEILING DECORATIONS.

OUR Prices are only a fraction of what you're accustomed to pay for equal qualities. At a small expense you can improve every room in the house, and landlords get tenants quicker when walls are newly papered. The best time to think of such things is now before the spring rush begins.

HOME ADORNMENT

Cannot be made complete with Wall Paper alone. The best papered room is incomplete without other harmonizing effects. Chief among these specialities, of which we are the almost exclusive dealers in Peterborough, and which are so closely allied with Wall Paper Hangings, comes—

ROOM MOULDINGS,
WINDOW SHADINGS,
CORNICE POLES,
PICTURE FRAMES.

IN all these we have effects to match the different Papers, Furniture and Furnishings of your rooms. Inspection will convince you that in every line we carry we lead, and that our prices, like this line, are at the bottom.

THE BUDGET FROM THE CAPITAL.

A Peculiar Phase in the Agreement Between the City and Street Ry. Crops Up.

Ottawa, April 1.—A new and somewhat peculiar phase of the city's bargain with the Street Railway Company has arisen. It appears that under a clause of the contract the company by simply forfeiting their bond of $5,000 that lies with the city treasurer, might decline to build any of the lines stipulated by the agreement to be built this year, including Elgin, Theodore and Nicholas streets. It is therefore thought the committee should not be too hard on the company, or the city might lose all the projected lines.

Want L'Orignal Wharf Repaired.

A deputation consisting of Messrs. Hall, Johnston and David, of L'Orignal; D. Sabourin, Conservative candidate for Prescott; Hartubise, Conservative candidate for Russell; Lowry, of Duncanville; Chastelain and Captain Bowie, of Ottawa, waited on the Minister of Public Works to urge that the wharf at L'Orignal should be repaired. Mr. Ouimet promised to take the matter into consideration.

Montreal's World's Fair.

A delegation from Montreal, headed by Mayor Villeneuve, waited on the Government on Saturday and asked that assistance be given to the proposed international fair in that city. Sir Mackenzie Bowell asked the delegation to submit their views in, writing to the Government, so that he might lay the matter before his colleagues.

The friends were at once communicated with and arrived here on Sunday morning's train, and claimed the body as that of John Hamilton. Coroner J. L. Bray, of Chatham, was notified, and after hearing the facts he deemed an inquest unnecessary and handed the body over to the relatives, who took it to Detroit last night on the 10.30 train, thence to Toronto, where two brothers and a sister of deceased live, for burial.

ACCIDENT ON THE G.T.R.

Thirteen Freight Cars Destroyed in a Rear-End Collision.

Hamilton, April 1.—An accident occurred on the main line of the G.T.R. at Hamilton Junction yesterday morning about 4 o'clock, which resulted in the destruction of thirteen freight cars, but fortunately no lives were lost. A freight train from the west was standing on the line awaiting orders when another freight from the west, which was following rather close, ran into the rear of the first train. The engineer and fireman of the first train jumped and were only slightly injured and no others of either crews were injured. The cars caught fire from the stove in the caboose, and thirteen freight cars, some of them loaded, were consumed. The city firemen were called out and did good work in extinguishing the blaze. A wrecking crew from Hamilton had the line cleared early in the day and traffic was not delayed. An investigation into the cause of the accident will take place.

STEAMBOATS AND RAILWAYS.

Vanderbilt System After Canadian Charters—A. M. Smith Estate.

Ottawa, April 1.—The Vanderbilt system have long been said to want an entrance to Toronto, and it was said they were behind the new Toronto, Hamilton & Buffalo railway. This is conclusively proved by notice of application in the Gazette for an Act giving the Canada Southern Railway Company power to "acquire, lease or amalgamate" with the T., H. & B. railway.

A charter has been granted to the executors of the late A. M. Smith, of Toronto, to purchase the steamer Persia and other vessels, and carry on a general transportation business, under the name of the Toronto and Montreal Steamboat Co.

French Troops Cautioned.

Paris, April 1.—Gen. Duchesne, in command of the main force of the French expedition in Madagascar, has issued an order to troops enjoining them to respect the persons and property of natives and the foreign residents, and to treat all those peaceably disposed in a friendly manner and their enemies, on being disarmed, justly and kindly.

Extent of the Armistice.

London, April 1.—A special despatch from Simonoseki says the three weeks' armistice agreed to between Japan and China applies only to the localities of Moukden, the Gulf of Pe-Chi-Li and the Shantung peninsula.

Increase in the Revenue.

London, April 1.—The revenue returns for the year just ended are £101,697,104, an increase of £2,899,949 as compared with the returns in the preceding year.

THE ACT PREARRANGED

The Valleyfield Murderer Asked a Fellow-Workman to Assist Him.

REQUEST TREATED AS A JOKE

The Plan was to Disguise their Faces With a Mask and Enter by the Back Way and Take the Clerks by Surprise—A Scheme to Avoid Suspicion.

Montreal, April 1.—A remarkable story comes from Cornwall in regard to Shortis, the Valleyfield murderer, which will come before the judge and jury that will try Shortis, and will tend to show that he premeditated the horrible butchery. Michael J. Gleason, who plays inside home for the junior Cornwalls, and during the summer was employed in the Valleyfield Cotton Company, was brought into constant contact with Shortis and became quite intimate with him.

He often lunched with Shortis, but he became so quarrelsome that Gleason made up his mind to drop him. One day Shortis accompanied Gleason to a deserted part of the mill.

"While I was busying myself getting what I required," said Gleason, "he suddenly remarked: 'Say, Mike, how would you like to make $1,000?' I replied laughingly that I should like it first rate, at the same time asking him what on earth he meant. He then entered into an elaborate explanation, telling me how he was perfectly conversant with the method of paying the men's wages which was in vogue at the mill, and explained how the money was distributed and how easy it would be to secure the whole amount."

"I should want someone to help me," he said.

"I don't want to do it alone, but with the assistance of a friend who would act with me the matter could be very easily arranged."

"We could disguise ourselves by putting a mask of something over our faces, and then by taking the back way, and avoiding the bridges, we could creep quietly along, and with something on our feet to avoid making a noise we could make our way to the office and take them by surprise. Aleck Lowe would be the only one we would have to deal with, and we could manage to fix him so that we could lock him in the vault. The other two are only inoffensive young fellows, anyway, and we should have no trouble with them. I guess they wouldn't do anything to us. We could then get the money and make away with it without anyone interfering with us. We would secrete it on the island down the river, and no one would be any wiser as to who had stolen it or where it was. We would remain around town and act just the same as usual, and no one would suspect us."

"I waited until he had outlined the whole plan, and then I said: 'Well, Shortis, I always thought you were a fool, but I never thought you were quite such a fool as all that.' He tried to persuade me that he was not joking, but I refused to listen to him, and we started to return to the mill. Before leaving the 'scrap room' he said to me, 'You will not tell anyone what I said to you?' and I replied that it was so nonsensical that I certainly would not, but even then he made me promise over again.

"That evening I paid a visit to a young lady who was employed in the mill, and who is still working for the Montreal Cotton Company, and as we were talking Shortis passed by on the other side of the street. The young lady remarked that she thought Shortis was half crazy, to which I replied, 'If you only knew what he proposed to me to-day you would think him more than half crazy,' and thereupon I told her what had passed between the young Irishman and myself that afternoon. This young lady, who, as I say, is still in the employ of the Montreal Cotton Company, will bear me out in what I say at the present time."

CHATHAM VISITED BY FIRE.

Two Large Buildings Fall a Prey to the Fiery Element.

Chatham, April 1.—About five o'clock yesterday morning fire broke out in Jordan's jewellery store in the block on the corner of King and Sixth streets. The fire station is situated in the rear of this building and the firemen were on hand and in a few minutes had several streams laid, but notwithstanding their efforts, the flames reached the second floor and thence to J. W. Burgess' dry goods store and other portions of the large building, which, with the exception of the portion occupied by G. E. Young, grocer, was completely gutted. Losses—J. W. McLaren, druggist, $2,500, insurance, $2,000; J. Jordan, jeweller, $10,000, insurance $6,000; J. W. Burgess, dry goods, $20,000, insurance, $16,000; G. E. Young grocer, $3,000, insurance, $1,000. The upper storeys were occupied as offices by lawyers, insurance agents and by Dr. Cornell, dentist, all of whom will suffer considerable loss. The building is owned by James Lamont, C. Richardson and G. E. Young. Lamont is insured for $6,000, Richardson for $6,000 and Young for $3,000. Miss Manning, dressmaker, was carried out unconscious from smoke, but soon recovered. She had a narrow escape.

In the afternoon about four o'clock, a large wooden building on Fifth street, containing five stores on the ground floor and occupied by a number of different tenants in different storeys, caught fire and was completely destroyed. The building was owned by Mr. Houston. Loss $10,000.

Experience Has Proved It.

DUKE OF YORK'S ILLNESS

Was at Death's Door with a Violent Attack of Influenza.

THE ATROCITIES IN ARMENIA

The Chitral Campaign Attracting Widespread Attention—The Region to be Penetrated is an Unknown Country—British Authorities Anxious.

London, April 1.—There has been an unusual and very welcome display of tact with regard to the Duke of York's illness. Now that he has recovered it is permitted to be known that he has been almost at death's door with a violent seizure of influenza. If a hint of this had been given at the time the whole country would have worked itself up into a state of excitement over threatened complications in the line of succession. It may be said without the least exaggeration that a great number of people would have had influenza, too, who, as it is, escaped this curious tendency to imitate unconsciously royalty in diseases. It has often been noted and was exemplified peculiarly three years ago when the death of the Duke of Clarence and the consequent commotion and public mourning gave to influenza an immediate and prodigious impetus among the young gentlemen of about his age.

England Must Interfere in Armenia.

It has taken a long time and an enormous expenditure of printers' ink, but English public opinion is at last beginning to simmer on the Armenian subject. Four London dailies, headed by The Times, are now printing pages of broadsides from correspondents in Armenia or on the frontier, piling up sickening details of the story, which makes the Bulgarian atrocities paltry by comparison. Special attention is paid to the elaboration of apparent proof that the Turkish troops had specific orders from Constantinople to do what they did. The sheer cumulative weight of what passes for evidence crushes skepticism into silence. Nobody longer doubts that England must interfere. Lord Kimberley is confident that this interference would be in perfect concord with Russia and France, but whether this confidence will be justified no one can tell.

The Chitral Campaign.

The Chitral campaign attracts more attention than is generally devoted to any Indian frontier war. It has been expected for months, and the Government, in anticipation of this and other Northwest frontier difficulties, has always maintained a substantial army in readiness around Peshawur. Within a fortnight they are able to move 14,000 men into the Pathan hills, and to take them straight across country to the rescue of Robertson and his besieged escort. The Chitral region to be penetrated is a terra incognita. No Englishman has travelled between India and Chitral by the short route. The passes and defiles have been mapped by a few of the large body of native geographers trained in the Indian survey office, who for twenty years have travelled into the least known regions of India, where a white man or a Christian would not dare to show his face.

But the difficulties of the enterprise are not only topographical. The expedition will enter a veritable hornet's nest of the wildest hillmen in Asia. There is no tribe in Afghanistan more fanatical and warlike than the Swatis. The chief ruler of those regions, Urma Khan, whose forces are assisting in the investment of Chitral, is an adventurer who raised himself to his present position by the sword. He has enormous influence and it is not improbable that the British expedition may find itself confronted by 70,000 to 100,000 hillmen at various stages of the journey. The British authorities are naturally exceedingly anxious about the outcome of this enterprise. It will be a great achievement to secure a short cut from Peshawur to Chitral, beyond which is a comparatively easy pass into Russian Turkestan, for the command at that point is the real objective point of the campaign; but this result can be obtained only by an enormous outlay of money and probably a large sacrifice of life. Chitral may prove another Afghanistan.

Calcutta, April 1.—Sher Afzul has closely invested Chitral, where the British agent, Mr. Robinson, now is. The British relief force, numbering 14,500 men, will cross the frontier to-day. It is expected that the expedition will meet with resistance in the snowbound mountain passes.

The Debates in Parliament.

Last week's debates in Parliament dealt chiefly with Welsh disestablishment, but it was purely a harmless gladiatorial display; nothing will come of the bill. The debate showed the hand of the assailants very clearly in one respect, namely, that a successful attack upon the Welsh church would be immediately followed by an assault upon the churches of Scotland and England.

The discussion upon Mr. Dalziel's proposal of Home Rule all round was hardly a serious business. The only English speaker who advocated Home Rule for England was a Mr. Neville. The most prominent speaker on the Government side in favor of the resolution was Sir George Trevelyan. Mr. Redmond opposed the scheme because it would delay the accomplishment of Irish aspirations. No Cabinet Ministers were present during the debate, and though the proposal was carried by a majority of 26, there were only 280 members present, or about one-third of the House.

MONDAY, APRIL 1, 1895.

THE PRODIGAL'S RETURN.

It appears that the strike for the leadership is over, and that Sir Charles Hibbert Tupper has gone back to work at the Justice shop at the same wages. His strike was a failure, and in addition to the loss of prestige by his ambitious bolt, he has the humiliation of sitting in the House behind Sir Adolph Caron, who occupies the seat of the late Sir John Thompson. Fancy the aspirant for the leadership "taking a back seat" to Sir Adolph Caron, who though older in years, and—political—well, peculiarities, is, one would think, not a very pleasant man for an aspirant to the leadership to sit in the shadow of.

THE bye-elections are full of terrors for the government. In Quebec West the result is so doubtful, says the Ottawa Free Press, that Sir Adolphe Caron has instructed the government organ to say that the Cabinet has no intention of interfering in the matter, does not particularly care who is brought forward, and that "in consequence of the advanced date at which Parliament will meet, and the necessity of not allowing the people of the division to remain unrepresented during the coming session, the government will take no part in the election at all, one way or the other, leaving the field open to all-comers." It is sublimely indifferent to its fate, and apparently become callous. It seems to think that matters are about as bad as they can possibly be, and that it is not of any very special importance what may happen. Meanwhile the chances are in favour of Mr. McGreevy.

THE defeat of Dr. Montague in Haldimand is now counted on as a more than probable contingency. It is doubtful, even, whether the costly public buildings which adorn the village of Cayuga will have much effect in aiding the Secretary of State. The fact is publicly announced that a very thorny electoral path lies before him, and that he will have to "fight every foot of his way."

THE Ottawa Journal too hastily stated the other day that Dr. Montague will be easily re-elected in Haldimand again, because the constituency has been gerrymandered into a safe Conservative seat. So it has, but the coming by-election will not be in the new limits, but in the old ones, so that the new Cabinet Minister will have a hard enough fight yet.

CONTRACTORS AND PUBLIC FUNDS.

Cause of Our Thumping Debt and Deficits—The Conspiracy Between Contractors and Politicians.

The Montreal Star has the following: The revelations in the Caron case alone would have rendered the country suspicious of the destination of public votes, if it had not grown permanently sceptical on that point long before the Globe and Mr. Edgar formulated their charges. Different members of the Dominion Parliament took different views of the relations between Sir Adolphe Caron, Mr. Beemer, Senator Ross and the Lake St. John Railway; but when it was shown that Mr. Beemer, who became the possessor of all subsidies voted the Lake St. John Railway, his dealings to the amount of $35,000 with Ross & Co., and that Senator Ross, President of the Construction Company for that Railway, paid Sir Adolphe a subscription of $25,000 for campaign purposes, the country felt inclined to "wink the other eye." A good deal of Government help has been given the railways of this country since Confederation, and if the Baie des Chaleurs and Lake St. John cases are typical, it is no wonder that we have a thumping debt and little to show for it, that the coming session of Parliament must face an ugly deficit, and that the campaign funds of the parties in power have always seemed to be well supplied. The Dominion Year Book reports that the total capital of the Canadian railways in 1893 amounted to $373,152,476. Analysing the sources of this capital, it states that the following portions of it have been drawn from public moneys:

Aid from Dominion Government	$147,212,610
Aid from Ontario Government	6,201,933
Aid from Quebec Government	12,630,410
Aid from New Brunswick Gov't	4,495,283
Aid from Nova Scotia Government	2,121,944
Aid from Manitoba Government	2,633,287
Aid from British Columbia Gov't	37,500
Aid from municipalities	14,017,957
	$189,460,923

The noble way in which Quebec has outshone its sister provinces in this matter will be noted. Now when the eye of suspicion, sharpened by the revelations of late years, is turned upon this enormous sum which has been paid by politicians in power to railway builders, made presumably of the same clay as Messrs. Armstrong and Beemer, a possible reason for public debts and permanent deficits rises to view. We know that some politicians and some contractors have conspired to rob the country. But we do not believe that every crime of the kind has been discovered; nor can we comfort ourselves with the pleasing notion that the discovery of some has discouraged all others. There is no safety for us, save in the breaking up of that malign partnership; and in no way can the public do this so effectually as by insisting upon free and fair competition in all tendering and by regarding every claim for "extras" as prima facie evidence of legitimate ground for suspicion.

THE WHEAT SITUATION.

The present is most unquestionably a favourable time for the Ontario farmer to market his wheat, and the inexorable connection between cause an effect is shown by the fact that the condition of country roads makes it almost impossible for him to do so. The situation recalls the old complaint that whenever the crops are good the prices fall. If the roads were passable our farmers could take advantage of the rise, but with good wheeling in the country there would be no such rise to take advantage of. May wheat is now selling in Detroit at 67, while at Ontario points it has reached 67 and 67½c. The difference has made Canadian exporters desirous of [illegible] wheat in bond in the [illegible]. But [illegible] obvious [illegible] have made that impossible. Part of the difference is due to speculative movements on the Chicago Board of Trade. But the condition of the roads in Ontario is doubtless among the chief influences tending to stiffen prices. The fact that flour has refused to respond to the upward movement of the past few weeks shows that men in the trade do not expect it to be permanent. Flour is still selling at and below $3, a price not proportionate to the quotations of wheat. Those farmers who are in a position to market their wheat should make an effort to take advantage of the present situation. It is due to a combination of causes which may be turned to good account.

A NEW YORK SENSATION.

The Dead and Mangled Body of a Colored Woman Found in the Street.

New York, April 1—The body of a colored woman, strangled to death and with both legs cut off at the knees and a large gash at the right hip, was found at six o'clock yesterday morning in front of No. 75 Sixth avenue. The bundle was removed to the station house. Around the neck was a piece of pink gauze or cheese cloth, about five feet long, which was twisted to serve as a rope. This was knotted once over the wind-pipe and drawn so tightly that the skin was broken. On the body was a tightly fitting white cotton chemise, the lower [illegible] of which was saturated with blood where it had come in contact with the severed limbs. The outer garment on the body was a cheap black cloth skirt. There was nothing to indicate the identity of the dead woman. She was apparently about 26 or 30 years old. The surprising thing is that the body could have been deposited where it was found without attracting attention and discovery of the person or persons placing it there. The coroner's office was notified of the finding of the body, and late in the afternoon the corpse was removed to the morgue, where Deputy Coroner Weston made a post-mortem examination. Dr. Weston said the examination showed that the woman died of strangulation, and the cutting was done after death. A close examination of the severed legs showed that they had been cut just above the knee joint. As to the instrument used Dr. Weston would not say decisively. It might have been done with a butcher's cleaver, or it could have been done with a knife and sharp hatchet. It was not skilled work. Dr. Weston said the murder certainly was not committed previous to Saturday evening.

Up to a late hour last night it was said that no tangible clue to the perpetration of the crime had been unearthed. Detectives who were sent to Rahway, N.J., in the hope of finding a clue, learned that about ten days ago a colored domestic named Mattie Ivory left Rahway for New York, since which time nothing has been heard of her. It is claimed that the description of Mattie tallies pretty closely to that of the murdered woman, and her friends believe that possibly she may be the victim. Among Mattie's lovers, it is said, was a member of a colored minstrel troupe which recently played in Rahway, and who is believed to be at present in this city.

Boston Sends More Relief.

Boston, April 1.—The steamer Halifax, of the Canada Atlantic and Plant line, sailed with freight for Newfoundland, including flour and boneless ham and other provisions and clothing. The goods are consigned to the Episcopal committee at St. John's, with the understanding that the supplies are to be distributed where the need is greatest in all parts of the island. It is thought that this shipment will relieve about all the suffering there is on the island and that no further supplies will be needed.

Eastbound Freight Rates.

Chicago, April 1.—The bottom seems to have dropped out of eastbound freight rates. There was fully as much if not more demoralization on Saturday, and there seems to be little prospect for a better state of affairs. It is said that the Grand Trunk will make a rate of 12 cents on grain to-day and of 20 cents on provisions. Grain was taken at almost anything shippers offered.

Coleman is Demand.

Chattanooga, April 1.—Assistant-General Manager Leary of the Southern Express Company, said this evening that extradition proceedings have been instituted to get Coleman, the diamond robber with the many aliases, recently arrested in Canada, from the Canadian authorities and to take him to Waynesboro, Ga., for trial. He is known as "Diamond Charlie."

Trees In Japan Sacred to the Gods.

Near every temple in Japan are certain trees which are supposed to be peculiarly loved by the gods and to be sacred to them. Any one injuring or causing to be injured one of them will bring down the wrath of the "kami" or god whose particular property it is. If the trees be injured in the name of any one, the kami avenges himself on that person instead. So when a girl finds that a swain's love has cooled, and she thinks revenge would be sweet, she makes a straw manikin and calls it by his name. If she is very vengeful, she may also make one of her hated rival. At 2 o'clock at night (called the hour of the bull) she rises, and clad in a white nightdress only, with high clogs on her feet, her hair hanging loose and crowned with an iron tripod, on which three lighted candles are stuck, she proceeds to the shrine of the patron god of the family.—San Francisco Chronicle.

A Musical Typewriter.

An ingenious young woman of New Orleans is about to bring to completion one of the most unique musical instruments perhaps ever yet invented. It is nothing more or less than a simple device with strings and sounding plate to be attached underneath the keyboard of a typewriting machine, in such a manner that when a letter is struck by the operator a note of music will be produced instead of the ordinary click-clack noise which sometimes becomes so very disagreeable. Of course, it is only once in a hundred times, no doubt, that such a combination of keys will be struck as to produce any real harmony of sound, still each note will be distinctly musical, and the invention will probably greatly enhance the use and value of the typewriter. It is expected that a patent will soon be applied for.

COUNTERFEITERS AT WORK.

Health and Life Endangered by Unscrupulous Dealers Who Persuade Unsuspecting People to Take Imitations—Some Pointers Worth Remembering.

It is a fact that is not of more than ordinary merit suffers from imitations or substitutes. The fact that an imitation is offered is one of the strongest proofs of the excellent qualities of the genuine article. The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co. is continually trying to impress upon the public the fact that Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are only sold in securely sealed boxes, the wrapper around which is printed in red ink and bears the registered trade mark Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People." Notwithstanding this constant warning there are unscrupulous dealers here and there who defraud the public by selling an imitation pill (also coloured pink) either by the dozen, hundred or by the ounce, alleging that they are "just as good," or "just the same" as the genuine Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. This is a falsehood and the unscrupulous dealer who offered the imitation knows it, but is more concerned for the extra profit he makes on the imitation than for the health of his unfortunate victim.

Will the public, in their own interest, bear in mind the following facts,—Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are never sold by the dozen, hundred, or ounce. If any dealer offers you a pill in this form (no matter whether coloured pink or not) he is trying to cheat you and should be avoided.

The formula of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills is a secret and is known only to the company. Therefore if some dealer tells you a substitute is "just the same" or "just as good" he is simply trying to deceive you because there is a larger profit for him in selling the imitation.

When you ask for Dr. Williams' Pink Pills see that the trade mark is on the wrapper of every package, and do not be persuaded to take anything else, no matter how plausable a story the dealer may tell. Imitations in medicine are always cheap, always worthless and often dangerous, and people who have a care for their health will always refuse them.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills CURE when other medicines fail. That's why they are imitated, and that is why you should insist on getting the genuine. Used as a spring medicine Dr. Williams' Pink Pills surpass all other medicines. If feeling "out of sorts" give them a trial.

THE DISMARCK CELEBRATION.

Programme of the Festivities for the 80th Anniversary of the Prince's Birth.

Friedricsruhe, April 1.—A beautiful sunny afternoon brought thousands of people to the castle gates yesterday, where they vainly sought admittance to the park in the hope of catching sight of the ex-Chancellor. Prince Bismarck did not take his customary walk, but had a short stroll around the park to gather strength for today. Numberless presents of all conceivable kinds continue to arrive from all parts of the world. Prince Bismarck will rest until 10 a.m., when he will take breakfast alone with his family. At noon he will receive the Cuirassiers of Magdeburg, the rectors of the universities and other officials, who will come to offer congratulations. He will not make an address, but one of the delegations of students will deliver a long oration. After seven o'clock no one will be received. At 8 o'clock the torchlight procession will take up its march.

Hamburg, April 1.—Fully 6,000 students took part in to-day's procession. On all the houses dirty flags are displayed, and on most of them wreaths and garlands add to the decorations. Many of the shop windows are converted into small temples for the glorification of Bismarck. In these, busts of the ex-Chancellor surrounded with suitable decorations and inscriptions are to be seen. There is hardly a house without candles and tinted lamps in the windows. In the center of the Inner Alster one hundred barges are stationed, from which fireworks will be set off. The special feature of this display will be Bismarck and the Bismarckian coat of arms in brilliant fire. The police will stop all traffic after seven o'clock this morning.

THE UNIVERSITY BOAT RACE.

Oxford Wins After an Exciting Struggle by Over Two Lengths.

London, April 1.—The usual immense crowds of people of all classes and conditions thronged the banks of the Thames on Saturday morning to witness the 52nd race between the Universities of Cambridge and Oxford. Cambridge launched their boat first, and were immediately followed by Oxford. They were cheered by their respective partisans as they carried their boats to the river and the cheering was continued while the boats took the water. The launching of the boats was very pretty and the crowds showed their appreciation of the scene. The river was alive with every conceivable kind of craft, but the arrangements for keeping the course clear were perfect, and no boats were permitted to obstruct the way to the goal. The weather was cold and raw with squalls of drizzling rain. There was also changeable southwest winds which put the water in pretty bad condition. Oxford took the lead from the start and maintained it to the end, winning by over two lengths.

The time was 20.50, which, despite the adverse conditions is 49 seconds faster than the time in which the Oxfords won last year's race, when they finished three and a half lengths ahead. Oxford has now won 29 and Cambridge 23 races since the series began. The contest in 1877 resulting in a dead heat. The first contest between the two Universities was at Henley in 1829, the next in 1836. Since 1845 the races have been rowed on the course from Putney to Mortlake, except on three occasions, in 1846, 1856 and 1863, when the order was reversed and the crews pulled from Mortlake to Putney.

TAKEN IN TIME.

Mrs. Carlough, of South Casselman, Makes Trial of a Certain Remedy.

South Casselman, April 1.—The approach of spring has been marked in this neighbourhood by a considerable amount of sickness, and much uneasiness was felt at one time over the condition of Mrs. Jemima Garlough, who is well known in this part of the country. She was compelled a short while ago to take to her bed suffering from severe pains in the back, loins and side, and the rear part of the head, and it was feared that her illness would develop formidable formidable symptoms, which it doubtless would have done had she not promptly sought relief in Dodd's Kidney Pills, which have effected a marvellous cure.

PLOT AGAINST HAWAII

Clarence W. Ashford and Other Exiles Said to be the Leaders.

NEGOTIATING FOR A SCHOONER

The Exiles Confident that if They Could Appear with an Armed Vessel in Honolulu Harbor They Would Have Little Difficulty in Capturing the Town.

San Francisco, April 1.—Information has reached the office of Hawaiian Consul Wilder of a plot to overthrow the present Government in the islands. The leaders of the alleged conspiracy, which was hatched in this city, are said by the consul to be C. W. Ashford, ex-Attorney-General, and others who were deported for complicity in the recent revolution. Immediately upon the arrival of Ashford he gave it out that he intended soon to return to Honolulu, and proposed to remain in spite of the wishes of the Government. Little attention was paid to his threat at the time, but subsequent developments go to show that he meant business. The conspirators, it is said, have been negotiating for the charter of a schooner, which was to make an attack upon Honolulu. The plan was to supply the schooner with a crew of men who were willing to take the chances of the expedition, furnish them with arms and ammunition, and a couple of Hotchkiss rapid-firing guns, and so set sail on a filibustering excursion.

Negotiations were entered into with the owners of the schooner Alexander, but whether they were successful or not is a matter of conjecture. The Alexander is lying at the sea wall, fitting out for a mysterious cruise to the South Seas. That she has fallen under the suspicion of the authorities is shown by the fact that the customs inspectors are keeping a close watch upon her.

The exiles felt confident that if they could appear in Honolulu harbor with an armed schooner they would have little difficulty in capturing the town. The money to pay the cost of fitting out the vessel and carrying out the plot will, it is said, come from the same source that furnished the cash to buy arms used by the rebels in the recent insurrection. Several conferences have been held recently in the rooms occupied by Ashford, and it is asserted that an attempt will be made to bring the enterprise to a head soon.

The Grand Trunk President.

London, April 1.—It is understood that Sir Charles Rivers Wilson, who has lately been concerned in the Central Pacific Railway, has agreed to become president of the Grand Trunk, providing a large majority of the shareholders support him. A deputation is now actively engaged in canvassing for proxies in his favor in view of the annual meeting in April.

Hon. Mr. Gully for Speaker.

London, April 1.—The Daily News announces officially that there is no truth in the statement that the Cabinet decided to support Mr. Gully for the Speakership of the House of Commons. The subject of the Speakership did not come up at the meeting of the Cabinet, the time being exclusively occupied with the discussion of foreign matters.

Admiral Seymour Dead.

London, April 1.—Frederick Beauchamp Paget Seymour, first Baron Alcester, died here on Saturday. He was born in 1821. He was admiral and commander-in-chief of the Mediterranean station from 1880 to 1883, and commanded the fleet at the bombardment of Alexandria in 1882, for which he received a peerage and £35,000.

FINANCE AND COMMERCE

TORONTO, April 1, 1895.

Potatoes are still inclined to rise. Retail prices are 80c to 85c a bag. Wholesalers get as high as 65c and 70c from retailers.

Timothy is slow at $10.50 to $11; clover, $9 to $1; and straw $7 to $8.50.

The prices for beef, mutton, pork and poultry, wholesale and retail, at St. Lawrence market stand unchanged from last quotations. The supply is fair.

There is scarcely enough wool in the market to make a price. It is sure to open with a high figure for the new supply to come soon.

Dressed hogs in Toronto are quoted a shade higher and the supply is about equal to the demand.

Saturday being the last business day of the month there was a sort of a clearing-up process going on in wheat at Chicago. The market was dull. Corn was in a neglected state. The range was narrowed to ¼c, the steady feeling of wheat and the strength of oats acting in the capacity of a support to prices. Oats had quite a shaking-up. There was a good general trade, the outside and country sending numerous buying orders.

Wheat went up 1½c on the Hamilton market on Saturday, selling at 65c per bushel, which is the highest price for the past three years. The supply was not nearly sufficient to satisfy local millers, and higher prices are anticipated. The millers met Saturday and decided to raise the price of flour, which has been selling at $2.60 per bbl. The increase will be from 50c to 75c per bbl. The price of bread will also be raised on account of the rise in flour.

A Peculiar Case.

COVERED WITH PIMPLES.

AN ANXIOUS MAN.

The Disease Disappears in Three Weeks by the use of B. B. B.—Letter From Manitoba Describing it.

DEAR SIRS—During the winter of 1892-93, I was covered with pimples on the inside of my right leg between the knee and the ankle. As I never had anything of the kind before, I was anxious about it, and sought medical advice, but getting no relief from the doctor I tried a bottle of B.B.B., applying some of it to my leg as well as using it internally, and to my surprise the nasty disease, whatever it was, disappeared within three weeks, and I am thankful to say it has never re-appeared.

Jack Light Fishers.

The Kinmount correspondent to the Bobcaygeon Independent says:—"A Fishery Inspector was around here last week. He seems to make himself busy where there is very little need of his valuable services, and we never hear of his being busy where we know that his services are very much needed. He was up at Minden where no bass exist, and he fined a mill owner here $20 for putting sawdust in a river that never has any fish in it anyway. We would like to hear of his doing something down in the lower lakes where there are fish, and big mill owners, and where we hear every spring of shores being lit up with jack light fishers.

THE BICYCLE BILL.

A Toronto Victim Who Strongly Sympathises with the Measure.

Considerable adverse criticism having been printed concerning the bicycle bill introduced into the Ontario Legislature, which is doubtless due to the provisions and scope of the proposed measure not being understood, the following letter addressed to Toronto papers in this connection will be read with interest:

Mr. Beverley Jones writes: "After a painful experience for several months from being run down and severely injured by a bicycle, I can speak feelingly as to the necessity for some legislation to regulate the 'scorcher' cyclist. Adam Harkness, who worked at Clark's factory on William street, was knocked down last August by a bicycle and killed. I have had numbers of people tell me of injuries they have received in a similar way from reckless riders.

"The provisions of Mr. Stratton's bill are chiefly those in force in England, France and Germany and many of the United States.

THE LICENSING SYSTEM.

"As to licensing. Mr. Stratton's bill leaves this solely in the hands of the municipalities. They need not charge a license fee, but if they do the money must be employed in making bicycle paths. Paradoxical as it may seem, the provision is one in favour of cyclists, and I have no doubt that if passed the bicycle clubs would be the first to move for the licensing system.

"The following paragraph from the Brooklyn Eagle will illustrate what I mean:

BICYCLE PATHS.

"'The first public path in the United States made especially for wheelmen is in Brooklyn, and extends from Prospect Park to the Atlantic ocean, a distance of five miles and a half. The top is dressed with crushed blue limestone, which, when properly smoothed by a heavy steam roller, is the best surface at present known for bicycling. The path cost $3,500 and the amount was mainly contributed by wheelmen. The press of Brooklyn aided greatly in raising this money, and the Eagle was the first and last contributor.

"Bicyclists want similar paths, and if they want them they must pay something towards them.

A LARGE REVENUE.

"I have calculated that a license fee of two cents a week on all the bicyclists in Toronto would yield $6,000 a year. If debentures were issued on this basis the city could build from 80 to 100 miles of bicycle paths in the neighbourhood of Toronto.

"If the bicyclists had this tax in their favour they need not pass around the hat or tax their club funds for such a purpose. Two cents a week would easily be saved in the wear and tear of a bicycle by reason of having good roads.

"In Germany no cyclist can ride on the public streets till he has a certificate from a bicycle club that he is qualified. From the number of reckless and inexperienced riders one sees in Toronto this provision might, with advantage, be inserted in Mr. Stratton's bill."

CHURCH CHIMES.

The St. Andrew's church services were conducted by the Evangelists, last evening.

Yesterday was review Sunday in the George street Methodist church Sunday school, and a number of visitors were in attendance. The orchestra rendered special music, and addresses were delivered by the pastor and Mr. Lewis of the Central School.

Rev. Mr. Pady took the service at the Park St. Mission yesterday, and in the morning delivered a stirring missionary address on "The Great Commission," his text being, "Go ye into all the world and teach all nations, baptising them in the name of the Father, Son and Holy Ghost.

Rev. Mr. Trotter, of the Murray street Baptist church, occupied Dr. Torrance's pulpit last evening and delivered an interesting sermon from the text "And let the peace of God rule in your hearts," being a portion of Colossians, III chap. 15th verse. Few, he thought, were aware of the precious legacy which the peace of Christ was to all believers. In regard to the introduction of this peace into the heart, he held that the first and chief requisite was in being justified. Many, he knew, did not believe in justification, but he trusted that the majority of his hearers were sufficiently old fashioned to have faith in the doctrine of justification, which he explained at length in a manner which claimed the closest attention of all.

No Strength, No Ambition

Hood's Sarsaparilla Gave Perfect Health.

The following letter is from a well-known merchant tailor of St. George, N. B.:

"C. I. Hood & Co., Lowell, Mass.:

"Gentlemen—I am glad to say that Hood's Sarsaparilla and Hood's Pills have done me a great deal of good. I had a severe attack of the grip in the winter, and after getting over the fever I did not seem to gather strength, and had no ambition. Hood's Sarsaparilla proved to be just what I needed. The results were very satisfactory, and I recommend this medicine to all who are afflicted with rheumatism or other

OBITUARY.

The Late Miss Maggie Stenson.

In Saturday's issue the EXAMINER mentioned the painful news of the serious illness in Toronto of Miss Stenson, elder daughter and eldest of the family of Mr. J. T. Stenson; and now the melancholy fact of her death is recorded. She passed peacefully away at three o'clock on Sunday morning in the presence of her father, mother and sister, and a few friends in Toronto, whose extreme and thoughtful kindness and ready sympathy, during the young lady's illness, are remembered with the warmest gratitude. Miss Stenson has been some time in Toronto occupying a responsible position. On March 20th she was attacked with illness of a pulmonary nature, which was not considered alarming till the following Monday, when a letter giving details was received here, and her sister, Miss Emma, went to Toronto. On Wednesday her illness had increased and a consultation of the best specialists in pulmonary affections was called. On Thursday Mrs. Stenson also went to the city. A slight improvement took place in the patient's condition, but it was followed by very serious symptoms, and Mr. Stenson on Saturday proceeded to the city, arriving about eight o'clock. On his arrival he found his daughter barely able to recognise him and address a few words to him. She immediately afterwards became unconscious, and remained in that condition until three o'clock on Sunday morning, when she passed peacefully away. All that the best medical skill and nursing could do failed to stay the hand of death. The death of the deceased is a serious blow to her immediate family friends. She was the eldest of a family of nine children, and her death, is the first break in the home circle. She will be greatly missed also in social circles, where her gentle disposition, unassuming modesty and lovable character made her many warm friends. She was a devoted member of St. Paul's Presbyterian church, and a most active worker in all church interests while she remained in town. She was actively associated with the work of the Christian Endeavour, and was one of the first four delegates sent to Toronto to represent St. Paul's Society at the provincial convention. She also took a deep interest in Mission Band and Sunday school work. She carried her zeal in church affairs to Toronto, where she became a member of the Presbyterian church, of which Rev. Dr. Parsons is pastor, who, on the remains leaving the Toronto residence of the deceased, spoke with feeling appreciation of the many estimable qualities of Miss Stenson during her association with him and his congregation in Christian work. The remains were brought to town on Sunday midnight, and the funeral will take place from the family residence, 349 Reid street, on Tuesday, April 2nd, at 3 o'clock. The afflicted family will have the earnest and heartfelt sympathy of the entire community in their first and great bereavement at the hand of death.

A VALUABLE HORSE WHICH HAD TO BE DESTROYED.

So Severely Burned as to Render Recovery Impossible—A Sudden Blaze.

At about a quarter to eight o'clock, last evening, the fire alarm was sounded and as the hose waggon went dashing up Water street to the northern portion of the town, a good many householders hastily picked up their hats and coats and suddenly took their departure from the various churches.

The fire took place on the premises of Mr. W. H. Moore, originating in his stables, and the flames were soon quenched, but not before a valuable horse belonging to Mr. Moore had been so badly burned as to necessitate its being killed, in order to put it out of its suffering, this morning.

The animal, it seems, was being bedded down for the night by the stable-boy, while Mr. Moore, who had just returned from a drive, held the lantern, which was one with a spring bottom. Through some defect in the spring or through having been improperly fastened the lower portion of the lantern suddenly dropped to the floor and the oil spreading over the straw quickly ignited and sprang into instantaneous flame.

As stated the fire was quickly put out, but in the meantime the horse had been terribly burned, Mr. Moore receiving painful, but not serious burns. Dr. Thos. Johnston was summoned, but the animal was too badly burned to be saved and was accordingly destroyed early this morning.

A couple of colts in the barn were also singed by the flames, but were not so severely injured as to impair their value to any great extent. The horse which had to be destroyed was valued at $200.

MANTLE OPENINGS

AT

HALL, GILCHRIST & CO'Y

—ON—

Wednesday, April 3rd.

Owing to the unadvoidable delay and late delivery of 200 Pattern Capes and Jackets, which only arrived on Friday last, we have decided to make a special display of these goods on above date.

The ladies who have seen these, have testified that they are without exception the most stylish and cheapest garments that ever came to this town, and those who attended the openings in the large cities, state that they saw nothing to compare with the goods we show, for style and quality.

A CORDIAL INVITATION

Is extended to all who would like to see the very latest Paris styles to call on above date. We don't ask anyone to buy.

THE PRIZE IS OURS

For the finest display of Pattern Hats and Bonnets, Millinery, Trimmings, etc.

All the ladies who attended the Millinery Openings were of one opinion. That was, that our display surpassed anything they had ever seen, and our prices are so much lower than any other house, that it did not take them long to decide where to leave their order.

PLAIN TALK.

The truth is always plain. We wish to make this plain statement:—That our prices are "Wholesale Prices" for this season. We mean that for the general bulk of the imported goods we handle, that we sell them to the customers at the same prices as other merchants buy the same quality of goods from the wholesale houses.

THE BICYCLE MEET.

To the Editor of the Examiner:

DEAR SIR,—With your kind permission I would like to say a few words relative to the approaching annual meet of the Canadian Wheelmen's Association. For the benefit of those who, perhaps, may not have a very thorough acquaintance with the workings of the above association, I may be permitted to say something about it. The C.W.A. embraces the whole of the Dominion, and has in affiliation with itself all the bicycle clubs of every province, which think it to their interest to join. During the present year the membership of the C.W.A. is between 4,000 and 5,000. July 1st has been fixed as the day upon which the annual race meet of the whole association is to be held, and it is important to notice that upon that day no other meet shall be held by any club in affiliation with the C.W.A. In consequence of this rule, all wheelmen upon that day, if at all they can make it convenient, go to the place which has been chosen for the meet. We may, then, judging from the attendance at previous meets, conclude that at the lowest estimate 3,000 wheelmen alone will be in Peterborough if the meet is held here. Besides this a large number of non-wheelmen would be in attendance.

The benefit to the town of this large influx of strangers for two or three days will be great indeed. Anyone who has come in contact with the wheelmen of Ontario on July 1st and the week succeeding cannot fail to have noticed the freedom with which the almighty dollar is put into circulation. What the 12th of July is to the Orangemen, the 17th of March to the Irishmen, the 1st of July and subsequent days are to the wheelmen and all go in for a jolly good time. I have seen a card from H. B. Donly, the secretary of the C.W.A., to the local club secretary, in which among other things he says: "Your membership is the largest any club ever had in the C.W.A. You may be interested to know that London will not apply for the meet. Practically the fight is between Peterborough and Waterloo." A. J. Wilson, chief consul of the Midland district, writes "that in the event of Peterborough getting the meet, he will run a century tour from Kingston to meet Dr. Doolittle's party from Toronto at Port Hope and run in together from that point."

In all probability there will be three day's racing this year owing to the division of the riders into classes A. and B.

During the meet there will be a grand wheelmen's parade. It is a sight indeed well worth seeing to see 3,000 wheelmen in gay uniforms riding along on the silent steed. The expenses in connection with the meet will of course be large. Prizes amounting to $1,500 or over will be given, and the fastest riders in Canada will naturally be here. The management of the races will be in the hands of officials appointed by the C.W.A., and that means that they will be run off in first class style. I am satisfied that, if Peterborough gets the meet, July 1st will be a red letter day in the history of the town. It will be too bad indeed if the committee, who are agitating the meet for Peterborough, have to drop the matter owing to lack of support, inasmuch as the town will reap immense good from the celebration of that day in Peterborough.

The races would start on Monday and continue until Wednesday night, which would necessitate the wheelmen coming here on Saturday. If the committee are willing to risk the expenditure of nearly two thousand dollars (for it will take that amount for prizes and preparing the ground) the council would surely be justified in granting the $500 asked for.

Thanking you, Mr. Editor, for your valuable space, and hoping the town council may grant the amount asked for,

I remain,
Yours respectfully,
WHEELMAN.

SPORTS AND PASTIMES.

Items of Interest to Local Sportsmen.

The Newspaper Amateur Athletic Association was organized under most favourable auspices on Saturday evening last, at a meeting held in the Oriental Hotel, when a large and representative attendance of those interested was present.

Mr. Wm. Manzies was voted into the chair, and Mr. F. T. Harris was elected secretary pro tem.

It was decided that the name of the new organization be the Newspaper Amateur Athletic Association, and that during the coming summer both lacrosse and baseball teams be put in the field, with the probability that other games would also be played in season.

The election of officers resulted as follows:

Patrons and Patronesses—Mrs. and Mrs. J. R. Stratton, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Robertson, and Mr. and Mrs. Dobbin.

Honorary Presidents—The Editors of the EXAMINER, Review and Times.

President—Alf. Terrill.

Vice-President—W. A. Buchanan.

Secretary—F. J. Harris.

Treasurer—Roly Glover.

Executive Committee—T. J. Begley, Fred Hubbs, Geo. MacWilliams, Fred Dobbin, Geo. Heap, Leslie MacWilliams, Geo. Paxman, C. H. J. Mitchell and Harry LaBelle.

The executive committee was instructed to make arrangements with regard to the securing of grounds upon which to practice, and the meeting then adjourned, to meet again at the call of the president.

The finances of the new association are in excellent condition.

It is hoped that the newspaper men of Belleville, Lindsay and Port Hope will fall in line and organize similar associations, when arrangements might be made for games during the summer.

THE WHEEL.

Two bills introduced in the New Jersey Legislature have been for the protection of cyclists. One affixes a penalty of a month's imprisonment or a fine of $100, or both, for throwing glass, broken china, etc., in the streets and roads to injure bicycles. The other provides that railroads shall carry bicycles free, where the passenger in charge of the machine pays his fare.

The secretary of the Bicycle Club received a letter this morning from the headquarters of the C. W. A., stating that the Peterborough Bicycle Club had now the largest membership of any club in the Canadian Wheelmen's Association. This fact is highly gratifying, and one which should be a strong card in the hands of the delegates who go to Toronto on Good Friday to work in the interest of having the annual meet of the Wheelmen held in Peterborough on July 1st. The letter in question also stated that as London had withdrawn from the contest, the race now lay between Peterborough and Waterloo.

The citizens who are doing so much in the endeavour to have the races held here on Dominion Day feel not a little discouraged over the fact that the Finance Committee is recommending the council to-night that a grant of $250 instead of $500 be made to assist in entertaining the visitors. It would be a great thing for Peterborough if the meet was held here, as an influx of 3000 visitors for three days would mean the leaving of at least $30,000 in the town, added to which is the fact that the Peterborough people, instead of going away for their holiday, will stay at home and spend their money in the town.

At the meeting of the Council to-night there will be a large attendance of wheelmen to observe the action to be taken by the different councillors towards an amendment, which will probably be introduced, increasing the grant to $500. If Peterborough has to drop out of the contest for the meet on account of the refusal of the Council to grant the extra $250, the ratepayers will, in all probability, remember the fact on election day.

Mr. J. R. Stratton has expressed his willingness to attend the annual meeting of the C.W.A. in Toronto, on Good Friday, as one of the delegates from the Peterborough Bicycle Club.

MISCELLANEOUS.

All cricketers are reminded of the annual meeting of the club which will be held to-morrow evening in the office of Mr. R. B. Rogers. A full attendance is desired.

The baseball club meets for re-organization to-morrow evening.

THE C. W. ASSOCIATION MEET.

To the Editor of the Examiner:

SIR,—The town council will, to-night, discuss the advisability of making a grant to the Bicycle Club to aid them in purchasing prizes and defraying the large expenses necessarily incurred in an undertaking of such magnitude as the C. W. A. "meet." Owen Sound, Brantford, London and Waterloo are all making every effort to obtain the meet, so that undoubtedly it is considered by them that the cost is little compared with the benefits which will accrue to the fortunate town which obtains the coveted prize. Three years ago in view of Sarnia getting the C. W. A. meet, the town council, at the request of bicycle club, built a cinder track and a large grand stand with dressing room and all conveniences for bicyclists at an expense of almost $2,000, at Bay View Park. Sarnia failed to get the meet that year, but the next year was successful and held a three days' meet. Sarnia being a summer resort has a much larger number of hotels than any town of its size in Ontario, but they were quite unable to accomodate the visitors though cots were placed in every available place. Port Huron, the American city across the river, received the overflow. It was estimated that of wheelmen alone there were three or four thousand at the meet, besides thousands of spectators. These men were off for a holiday and determined to have a good time and spent their money freely. The prize committee put up $1,200 in prizes, a substantial part of this sum being made up by the town. Last year the Sarnia Bicycle Club held a meet of its own under the sanction of the C. W. A., which was almost as great a success as the C.W.A. "Meet," thousands coming to it, knowing from experience that it would be conducted in a proper manner.

The Town Council of Peterborough should consider the request of the wheelmen in a broad and liberal spirit, and make the grant asked for, viz., $500, which will, with the amount added by the Club, be spent in Peterborough for prizes. It is true of course that some of the citizens will reap greater benefit than others, but a scheme paying a dividend to every ratepayer in town must prove impracticable. The hotel men, the livery men and the Street Railway Company will reap a golden harvest, but the labouring man will also profit; a grand stand and bleaching-boards must be built and the track must be banked and placed in the best condition. The poor man who pets his few dollars into the pea nut stand will also wax fat. The Town Council has now the opportunity of showing that it appreciates the efforts of citizens to boom the town.

Yours truly,
N. ST. C. GUEST.

Will please bear in mind that my formal

SPRING MILLINERY OPENING

Will be held on

WEDNESDAY and THURSDAY

March 27th and 28th.

My display this season will repay a special visit of inspection, as the very superior selections of Imported Hats and Bonnets, Delicate Flowers, Ohaste Ornaments and Fashionable Millinery Trimmings cannot fail to attract and command your most critical attention.

A special exhibition will also be made of New Millinery for MISSES and CHILDREN, of the most seasonable and suitable styles, for spring wear.

In addition, I will show a rich and attractive stock of LADIES' FANCY GOODS—Silks, Heniton Laces, Stamped Linen Goods, Sofa Cushions, Toilet Sets and many other novelties.

Kindly remember day and date, and be sure and favour me with a visit.

NYM CRINKLE ON WILDE

"LADY WINDERMERE'S FAN" CAREFULLY DISSECTED.

Where the Epigrammatic Brilliancy Comes From—Is the Play Irritatingly Brilliant or Exasperatingly Uninteresting?—Its Smartness and Its Cheapness.

There is no portion of the theatre-going public which has no false modesty about being intelligent, and it cannot exactly determine if Oscar Wilde's play, "Lady Windermere's Fan," is irritatingly brilliant or exasperatingly uninteresting.

This is a bad dilemma for intelligence and you can see just how bad it is when intelligence in a bell skirt said to me: "I don't exactly know what it is about, but it crackles and gleams like a chapter of Victor Hugo's."

Of course if intelligence doesn't care whether Vulcan is forging thunderbolts or horseshoes, so long as there are sparkles, and is sublimely indifferent whether the result is junk or javelins, so long as the process is red-hot, why, as Mrs. Kendal, with unanswerable synthesis always remarks, "There you are, don't you know!"

The play must be smart. To deprive it of that merit violates the instincts of humanity, if not the canons of criticism, for humanity does not take the last crust from anybody. Besides, it is easier to concede that smartness than it is to find any other quality.

It is a bonbon play. I think we shall have to go to the confectioner for similitudes. In the first place, the quality of the sweets is of less consequence to Oscar Wilde's customers than the impeachable charm of the packages. It is not the goods, which may be glucose at bottom, but the gusto of the "sales gent" that does the business.

In this view, "Lady Windermere's Fan" exactly reproduces Oscar Wilde, and I need scarcely say that, to a well-defined and not very extensive group it is of far more importance to reproduce him than it is to reproduce life—to which, indeed, he bears in his work the same relation that green sickness bears to health.

If you go to the performance of "Lady Windermere's Fan," you will observe that modest intelligence does not know if it is delighted or dosed.

The swooning incertitude at the end of the play wavers between a cheap delectation and an expensive disappointment. Events have sputtered and corruscated nowhither. It is futile to say that the problem of the drama was not resolved, because it is not the function of this playwright to resolve problems. Nor is it his privilege to perceive any. Interpreted by his declarations and his drama, I should say that his main purpose is to jig on joyously and let others find out if it be a debating club or a funeral.

When we got through, the motif, the purpose, the conclusion were all in the air.

"Madame," said the aeronaut, to the old lady who had asked him if the going up was very dangerous; "madame," said he, "the goin' up ain't what bothers us; it's the comin' down again that gravels a man."

If people go to the play to hear and see a story fashioned to a purpose, that is one thing. If they go to listen to some pungent gossip, that is another. It would not be fair to ask Oscar Wilde to assume that he has any well defined theory that people prefer gossips to events. It is sufficient to understand that he hasn't got any events, and proffers what he has.

He has furnished Mrs. Grundy with a wasp's sting.

Taking the apothegms of the play as indicative of the author, they are admirably adapted for current use, like our silver dollar. The only possible objection will be a gold protest. We may weigh them with reference to a universal standard if you please, and the probable result will be that we shall not want too many of them.

The play bristles with them. They are the cloves stuck into the ham, and like all cloves they leave a suggestion that you have been swallowing something that ought to be disguised.

I recall some of the sentences with the same smile that was reflected by the audience. Somebody said, "I prefer women with a past; they have so much to talk about." But Mrs. Belle Skirt, who is not at all aesthetic, immediately said to me: "I prefer a man with a future; it is so much easier to forgive him for his present."

And when the playwright said, "The woman who moralizes is invariably plain," she immediately added, "but the playwright who moralizes—isn't."

To which I could only respond, "Alas! no; not plain, but plaintive."

But when the author, speaking through one of his characters, says: "I am the only person in the world that I should like to know thoroughly," I doubted it. Really he seemed to me to be a playwright who had been dodging round corners all his life time, so as not to run the risk of being introduced to himself.

And he had good warrant for it, because, this as a rule, is the familiarity that breeds contempt.

Elsewhere he observed: "Whenever people agree with me, I feel I must be wrong."

Right you are, my boy, in that feeling, and, when they disagree with you, the chances are that they are right, and all is right as right as can be.

But as the remark was put forth, not as a conviction, but as a mot, I can't see that it is any improvement on Photion's remark, made a good many hundred years ago, to-wit: "What new error have I committed, that the crowd applaud me?"

London says the playwright, is full of women who trust their husbands. You can always recognize them, they look so thoroughly unhappy."

But Heine hits better than this: "London is full of husbands who treat their wives with respect; their other women have told me so."

"Wicked women bother one. Good women bore one. That is the only difference between them."

To this Belle replied: "True; if they could only become men, the distinction would disappear."

Oscar Wilde's philosophy is summed up in the reflection that existence has only two annoyances—life and death. Both of them interfere with our tranquillity. And it is astonishing that he does not see what a delightful advantage vice has over virtue, the moment tranquillity becomes the great desideratum of existence. For, while virtue, can only attain it in the grave, vice can secure it at any time in the State's prison.

"I prefer," he says. "a woman with a past: she has so much to talk about."

Dumas; "It is not the innocent soul that charms me, for it is mute, and I am deprived of the joyous pleasure of being its confessor."

"So many people," says Oscar Wilde, "pretend to be good, that it is sweet and modest to pretend to be bad."

Rousseau, who lacked the felicitous crassness to say this, had the reckless candor to be it.

The difference between saying and doing is, however, in France, only the difference between a feuilleton and a revolution. It is possible in France to make hysterics historic.

It was Sir Charles Lyall who remarked that the origin of man varied from monkey to mind, when we go from science to revelation. He began in one or the other. It was the esthetic privilege of Rousseau to demonstrate that he ended in both.

"There is nothing," said Oscar Wilde in the play, "Like the devotion of a married woman. It is something that no married man knows anything about."

They cut these things off like coupons in Paris.

"You never know how devoted a woman can be to you," says Ohnet, "until she begins to love somebody else."

"I never can be thankful enough," said Dumas pere, "that such things as virtue and religion exist. Without them the race would have been stupidly pure."

"Life," remarks Oscar Wilde, "is far too important a thing ever to talk seriously about."

But, after all, my final reflection is that some American philosopher, and I cannot at this moment say if it was Emerson or Sam Jones, remarked, "What the age wants is not a prolongation of the mellifluous noiseless, but more strawberries in the shortcake."

Jealous of a Stage Lover.

Too much zeal in the discharge of his stage duties has led a jeune premier at a Paris preparatory theatre into a disagreeable, not to say painful adventure. The young actor was acting with a lady of his own age in a new piece, and had to make a declaration of love. He held the mirror up to nature so well in the matter that the young lady's intended husband, who was looking on from the stalls, flew into a towering passion and thirsted for blood. When the performance was over the man possessed by the green eyed monster waited at the stage door for the jeune premier and whacked vigorously at the actor's face with his cane. The player—bruised, bleeding and tearful—did not make any effort to return blow for blow, but, holding up a manuscript which contained his part in the play, remarked to his aggressor that he had done no more than follow the instructions of the author of the little love comedy in which he had acted with the beautiful young lady. The affair ended there.—London Telegraph.

Curious Accident.

One of the most curious accidents ever known recently happened at Dieppe, France. A Canadian bark loaded with flint stones pounded against the quay, the flint struck fire and the vessel was ignited. It had been used for carrying petroleum and was full of inflammable vapors. The bark was entirely destroyed.

Anti-Septic Telephones.

In a number of German offices anti-septic telephones have recently been introduced. The mouth of the transmitter is covered with discs of anti-septic paper, and after each conversation the paper is torn off, thus leaving a fresh one for the next customer.

The fact that Hood's Sarsaparilla, once fairly tried, becomes the favorite spring medicine, speaks volumes for its excellence and merit.

Effectively Cured of Indigestion and Nervous Troubles By South American Nervine—No Trifling With Disease—This Medicine Cures at the Nerve Centers and thus Effects a Certain Cure—Never Fails in Cases of Indigestion, Weakness and Nervous Prostration.

"In a multitude of counsellors there is safety," said a wise man centuries ago. A multitude of counsellors testify that South American Nervine cures disease and removes suffering as no other medicine will do. In these pages, from week to week, has appeared the testimony of well known people—men and women, in all parts of the Dominion, telling in distinct and thankful terms what this wonderful discovery has done for them. A large volume would be needed to contain all the evidence that comes to the discoverer of this medicine.

This talk is to-day illustrated with faces of three well known people who add their testimonials to the others. Here we have Mr. H. H. Darroch, of Mount Forest, who found himself weak to desperation after an attack of la grippe. South American Nervine was the only medicine to be found that gave him back his former strength.

Mr. Thomas Sullivan, a second figure in the group, was a sufferer for a number of years with aggravated indigestion. He had been treated by several doctors, with very little benefit. A friend recommended South American Nervine, and after taking a few bottles he has found himself completely relieved of swelling of stomach and other disagreeable evidences of indigestion. In a brief sentence, he says—"it has cured me."

Mr. Noble Wright, of Orangeville, was a sufferer for a long period with indigestion and sluggish liver, these culminating in gastric and nasal catarrh. Doctors and doctors' medicines were unavailing to cure. Having taken only two bottles of South American Nervine he found himself greatly benefited, and after six bottles had been used he is cured.

Baffled though doctors often are with disease, when the root trouble is discovered a cure is not difficult. Here rests the entire success of South American Nervine. Certain nerves control entirely the stomach, liver and all the internal organs of the body. Let these become weakened and disease follows and will continue until strength is given to these nerve centers. The motor power is centered there. Attempts to heal an organ is only patchwork of the worst kind and cannot possibly be effective. South American Nervine heals at the nerve centres, and for this reason people, after having tried doctors and doctors' medicines without success, because the effort is only to give temporary relief, find it effects an absolute, positive and unmistakeable cure.

DAVID DOIG

WOMEN OF TO-DAY.

A Great Number of Facts Interesting to the Fair Sex.

What to wear about her neck is the all-important question to the girl of fashion. She appreciates the importance of dressing her neck becomingly and is, therefore, giving the subject much thought. The shops are helping her to solve the problem with the spray of dainty neck adornments they are now displaying.

The flower boa is, perhaps, the latest novelty. It is made of flowers which seem almost fragrant in their naturalness. The boa of sweet peas is an exquisite fancy. The sweet pea blossoms are in varying shades of pinkish white and violet. They are fastened to a foundation of periwinkle satin ribbon, which is arranged at the side in dashing loops to give a stock effect.

Flower boas of bon arcups mounted on black ribbon are effective worn with a black gown and a little toque of black velvet and buttercups to match. The boa of mignonette, with knots of baby blue velvet here and there and fastened in front with a big blue velvet bow, is another novelty. High plaitings of ribbon caught with clusters of tiny flowers make a fetching boa to wear with a spring gown.

A ruche of lace combined with flowers is another new fancy. Full-blown roses and poppies are the flowers most used for these boas. Many of the new boas have the stole effect which is generally produced by jeweled ribbon, or sometimes two fluffy scarfs of chiffon fall well over the gown.

With these pretty caprices a woman can make the plainest frock presentable, and enliven a morning costume so that it could never be told from one especially devised for the theatre or other occasions of ceremony.

Some Feminine Personals.

Mrs. Oscar Wilde continues to dress well enough to interest the women of two continents, but she does it in a fashionable, not an esthetic way.

The oldest woman in North Carolina is said to be Mrs. Katherine Besheares. Her exact age is not known, but it is supposed to be between 125 and 130 years.

Ouida never shakes hands. She declares it to be the most vulgar form of salutation. As soon as she enters a room she makes for a seat. Once seated she will not budge until she takes her leave.

Dublin has a new paper called To-day's Woman. It is edited and written by a group of talented women, many of whom are university graduates.

A New York widow, in looking over her late husband's effects, found an old savings fund book having but a single deposit for $5, dated 1869. She laid claim to the money and, to her surprise, found that the principal and accumulated interest amounted to $348.

The Empress Eugenie is engaged on a volume of recollections. The proceeds of the sale will be given to the fund for the widows of the French soldiers killed in the Franco-German war. An English translation will be published at the same time as the French.

Mrs. Sarah Thomas of Burryport, Llanelly, who last year received a check of £5 6s. from the Princess of Wales or a shilling for each natal anniversary, celebrated on February 5th her 107th birthday. She is in possession of all her faculties and is a very amusing conversationist.

Some Tid-Bits.

English women are taller than their American sisters.

A fashionable dress designer in the west end of London is computed to make on an average between $25,000 and $30,000 a year.

Collarettes and movable berthas of the same variety of materials are in all shapes and sizes and as plenty and pretty as fancy can picture.

The indefatigable Mrs. Oliphant has written another novel, which is announced for publication this spring. She calls it "Two Strangers."

The chief exponents of music in Japan are women. Most men would consider that they were making themselves ridiculous by playing or singing in society.

"The Story of Bessie Costrell" is the title of Mrs. Humphrey Ward's new novel. It is a tale of English village life. Serial publication will precede its appearance in book form.

No season at Bermuda is complete without the engagement of some British officer stationed there to an American girl, even though the engagement does not always result in a wedding.

Mrs. Eliza Lord, a member of the Brooklyn Tabernacle, who died on June last, left all her property to Mrs. Talmage, in return for her kindnesses shown during her last illness. The will shows the estate to be worth about $18,000.

A New Way of Catching Rabbits.

In some parts of Australia the tank trap is growing greatly in favor for the extermination of rabbits. It consists of a tank containing water at the bottom, into which the rabbits jump, and from which they are unable afterwards to escape. It, however, is successful on a large scale only during the dry months of the year. A couple of stations using seven of them recently captured 28,000 rabbits in one week, and it is calculated that they can destroy 30,000 a month regularly.—New York Advertiser.

The King and the Page.

The great Frederick was very fond of snuff. He had a box of it put on every mantel-piece in the palace. One day he saw his page helping himself liberally. He said nothing then, but a little while afterward he told the boy to bring him the box. "Take a pinch," said the king; "How do you find it?" "Excellent, sire." "And the box?" "Superb, sire." "Very well," returned Frederick, "keep it, then; it does not hold enough for two."

Two Opinions.

Mr. Morally Goode—My dear sir, there's no earthly use of my joining the church.

Pastor—But there's a heavenly use, my dear friend.

The rapidity with which croup develops calls for instant treatment; and yet few households are prepared for its visits. An admirable remedy for this disease is Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. It has saved hundreds of lives and should be in every home where there are young children.

The best cough cure is Hagyard's Pectoral Balsam. It heals the lungs and cures coughs and colds.

IT SPEAKS FOR ITSELF.

What John Wanamaker, the Most Heavily Insured man in America, Says:

(INTERVIEW WITH JOHN WANAMAKER.)

It is very generally known that Ex-Postmaster General John Wanamaker, of Philadelphia, carries the largest amount of Life Insurance of any man in the United States. A representative of the press recently interviewed this gentleman while he was travelling with the Presidential party, and this interview will be found, we believe, of general interest:—

"You are said to be the most heavily insured man in the country, Mr. Wanamaker," remarked the press representative.

"How did you come to think of that?" he said with a smile. "You are not looking for any disaster under such excellent management as our friend Boyd is giving this train and party?"

"No," I replied. "A newspaper friend in San Francisco, who had heard the report, wanted me to ask you it it was true, and if so, what your business reasons are for it?"

"Well," he modestly answered, "I have heard it stated that I am the most heavily insured man in the country. I don't know about that. The amount of my policies is $1,550,000, and the value, with the accumulations since the policies were taken out, is about two millions of dollars."

"In what class of companies are your policies?"

"They are all in stock and mutual companies, and none of them in what are known as assessment or instalment companies."

"Are they full life term policies or on what is termed the 'tontine' plan?"

"I have generally taken ten and fifteen payment policies and very few life policies. With about all good companies a contract can now be made whereby there is no risk of losing a policy after two years' premiums have been paid. If the party insured chooses to withdraw he can get a paid-up policy. Indeed, I understand that some companies have forms whereby the insurer can after one year, if desired, withdraw and receive a paid-up policy. There is practically little risk, any more, in insuring in the old companies."

"Perhaps you would be willing to tell me how you came to insure so heavily?"

"I thought the matter out, and convinced myself that it was a good business venture. Besides, it seemed to me that I might, perhaps, give away more money in lifetime if there was a fixed certainty of putting it back into my estate by Life Insurance. I conceive that the best way for a man to carry on benevolence is not to leave it to be done through his will, but to do it in his lifetime, and I felt that Life Insurance would give me more freedom in carrying out some plans I have, and which I would be glad to see completed before I leave this world. If you want to ascertain what the circumstances were in placing the Life Insurance, I must go further in my answers and say that I should not have gone so far in my Life Insurance but for the skill of the agent who tackled me to insure to a greater extent than I would otherwise have done. He was an old friend who had been in mercantile business and who knew how to present Life Insurance without boring me. I feel to-day sincerely grateful to the man who followed me so discreetly with information about companies, and who kept the subject before me until I settled the question."

"When did you begin taking Life Insurance policies?"

"My first policy was taken when I was twenty-one."

"Do you consider it a good thing for a man of small means?"

"I certainly do. Most young men spend more for cigars during the year than the annual cost of a $2,500 policy in a good company. If they must have the cigars they might divide between cigars and Life Insurance and carry at least a $1,000 policy. I think every young man, before he is married, ought to try to get at least a $1,000 policy."

"Among how many companies are your policies divided, and where are they located?"

"About forty companies. Most of them are located in the East. A few are in the West and a few in Canada."

"Do you recommend Life Insurance to others, especially those in whom you feel a personal interest?"

"I can perhaps answer that best by saying that I presented a few years ago a $1,000 policy, paid up for one year, to every insurable head of family in my employ. Many of the prudent men who received them not only kept them but added to them, and I have the satisfaction of knowing that in not a few cases those policies have been the means of saving worthy families from want."

It will doubtless be of interest to our readers to know that John Wanamaker carries a large policy in the Canada Life Insurance Company, thus evincing his confidence in the soundness of Canada's oldest and largest Company. During the last few years quite a number of American capitalists have been convinced of the SUPERIOR MERITS OF THE CANADA LIFE, and have accordingly placed their insurance therein, in preference to any other company.

The Canada Life is now being recognized in the states of Michigan, Minnesota and Ohio as the Company that gives the best results for the least premium.

AMERICAN CADS.

An Unmerciful Scoring of the Money-Worshipping Type.

The American cad almost always worships money; is more or less obsequious to millionaires; is anxious to figure in a rich set. He is not cured of his desire or ambition, as one might think he would be, by having a fortune himself. Contrariwise, his worship is increased, as well as his self-importance and egotism by the fact. He then thinks, having money of his own, that it possesses positive and extraordinary virtue. He is ever talking about it and measuring the world by its standard.

When he hears the unfamiliar name of a man he is very likely to ask what he is worth, and, if worth a great deal, how he got it and how long he was in getting it. He is fond of telling the number and names of millionaires who are in his favorite club; how much his friends Jones, Brown and Smith made last year and what extraordinary financiers, what bold operators, they are.

When some man has achieved fame or distinction in a learned profession, or in any intellectual way, he is inclined to pity him, because he has so meagre an income, and to add that great brains get very poor pay. He is too politic to say so, but he evidently feels a secret disdain for any man who does not or cannot make money. He could not be persuaded that any man who could make it would not, any more than that a starving wretch would throw away the best of food.

The cad who has made money is not given to miscellaneous confidence on the subject. He seldom cites his own financial enterprises, fond as he is of recounting those of others, preferring, as he would put it, to sink the shop. Although he glorifies money and its possessors he is contented with the fact of having it, leaving to his acquaintances any deduction to his method of getting it that they may be pleased to draw. If he has inherited it he is almost certain to intimate as much, boasting of his ignorance of business as if it were unworthy of a gentleman. He would like to have it believed that his family had been rich for generations, though most persons who meet him are well aware that his father, or grandfather at furthest, was wholly self-made and began life in the humblest manner.

The sons of rich men very poor at the start, and always sordid, are generally the worst kind of cads. They may have gone through college and have picked up a lingo, composed largely of slang and Englishisms, which they think denotes their fashion, but they are rarely troubled with intellect or culture. To ideas they are hostile, and, indeed, to any mental or healthful occupation. Their desire is to be thought fast, and to do things that will make them talked about by their set. They are seldom very vicious, though there are exceptions; but they have a fancy for affecting wickedness and intimating, after the Byronic manner, that they have been guilty of deeds without a name. This sort of boastful folly strikes them as worldly, as proof of great experience. They who indulge in it are, for the most part, young, between twenty-five and thirty-five, still bachelors, and engaged in that noxious agriculture known as sowing wild oats. Marriage does not, to their mind, impose any special moral restraint. Husbands cannot be expected to relinquish all their pleasures and settle down to prosaic domesticity. But it is not good form for them to be quite so free of speech as in their ante-matrimonial days.

Cads of this order are addicted to saying that they have not made their own money—one might know this by looking at them—and that money-making is not what gentlemen should engage in. They seem to forget that their fathers think of little else, and that but for their fathers they would be the poorest of poor devils. They even go so far as to declare, particularly when they are mellow, that it is not exactly the thing to work; that work prevents a gentleman—they never tire of using this word—from acquiring the proper tone and having the true air of distinction. Their assumptions are repellent, and their bearing insolent.

The cad is frequently not a fool at the start, but he cannot help becoming one ultimately. Years of sycophancy, pretense, fawning and falsification will undermine any man mentally and morally. He deteriorates with age. There is no hope of his reformation. Having surrendered his manhood he cannot recover it if he wishes, and he does not wish to. Once a cad, always a cad. He is an anomalous compound in this broad, breezy, hustling country; and it is to be hoped that he will gradually die out, on the principle of the extinction of the unfittest. Essentially and invincibly un-American, he is a fungus on the body politic; is despised alike by natives and foreigners and shunned soon or late by everybody but his own meretricious order. The sole pretext he can have for assuming to be a gentleman may be his belief that a gentleman is not a man, which all who have known him will admit he cannot be.

WORST KIND OF DYSPEPSIA.

GENTLEMEN,—I write to inform you that for years I had been troubled with Dyspepsia and having tried other medicines which entirely failed, I at last found relief and cure in Burdock Blood Bitters, of which I took two bottles, the result being a perfect cure. Although only a young lad I had been troubled with Dyspepsia for four or five years, but I can say now that B. B. B. does its work faithfully in the worst kind of Dyspepsia, and has proved itself the only cure for me.

A YEAR OF GREAT PROSPERITY.

The I. O. F. Goes Marching On.

The following interesting statement has been handed us by Mr. Meldrum, the esteemed Court Deputy of Court Chemong, No. 530. The information will be of interest to many readers who are Foresters:

Up to the present it has been the good fortune of the Independent Oorder of Foresters to find each year's history of the Order better than any preceding year. Notably is this true of 1894; the record shows a higher gain than any other year. Allowing for deaths and lapses,

THE NET GAIN IN MEMBERSHIP IS 15,151.

The total membership stood, on 31st December, at 66,468.

Another fact, equally gratifying, is that although the Order is now in the 20th year of its history, an age when the death rate might reasonably be expected to be increasing from year to year, the DEATH RATE FOR 1894 WAS 5.39 PER 1000, AS AGAINST 5.47 FOR 1893.

Though the Order is a year older than it was twelve months ago, yet, owing to the influx of new members, the average age to-day is 34.82 as against 35.31 last year; in other words, we are growing younger as we grow older. We know of no fraternal organization where the average age of members is as low. It is an Order of young men, for young men.

One of the most gratifying facts in the year's history is the rapid growth of the Reserve Fund. After paying out all death claims and sick and other benefits, amounting to $511,162.30, the Order has and stands now at $1,235,188.57.

INCREASED THE RESERVE BY $298,367.22,

This rather contradicts the assertions of financial journals that have been predicting all along that the reserve could not continue to grow. Four years ago we were told the end had been reached, growth would cease, and the demands on the reserve to pay claims would wipe it out. As a matter of fact, the growth for 1894 of the reserve, shows the LARGEST increase in its history.

During 1894 the Order has been greatly extended both in America and Great Britain, the new organizations of the Order for the year being

4 HIGH COURTS AND 376 SUBORDINATE COURTS.

The Subordinate Courts instituted show an average of over one per day, and the rate is increasing. Equally gratifying is the fact that the utmost harmony prevails throughout the whole order. The membership have the fullest confidence in the administrative ability and high integrity of Dr. Oronhyatekha, the Supreme Chief Ranger, and his colleagues on the Supreme Executive. The 26 High Courts are working cordially with the Supreme Executive. The 2,000 subordinate courts are doing their work better than ever. And the letters of thanks, published from month to month, show that the fraternal spirit of the order is not only professed, but practiced.

NOT A SINGLE CLAIM IN DISPUTE OR UNPAID

The 337 claims were paid, on an average, inside of 10 days after death.

A showing, such as the above, is certainly one to assure the members of the strength and permanence of the order, as well as of the efficiency of its management. And also one well fitted to inspire the public with the fullest confidence in the I.O.F., when it appeals for support, and presents the benefits it offers in connection with membership.

MINERAL PRODUCTIONS.

The Bureau of Mines has just issued statistics bearing on the mineral production of the Province for 1894. During the year 1894 the total revenue derived from mining lands amounted to $7,942.56. Patents were issued for 3,271 acres of mining land, and 7,050½ acres were leased for mining purposes. The following figures show the total mineral production for 1893, 1894: 1893—Value, $6,120,753; employees, 7,162; wages, $1,995,590. 1894—Value, $6,088,758; employees, 6,075; wages, $1,840,299. Illuminating oil brought in this largest returns, 14,340,472 gallons of petroleum being sold, valued at $1,337,040. Common brick came next; 131,500 thousand were used, valued at $690. Cement was manufactured extensively; 85,908 barrels were consumed, valued at $109,804. The gold output amounted to $32,776, and nickel brought $612,724. One peculiar feature of the table is the absence of iron among the mineral products, for although there are extensive deposits of hematite and magnetic iron ore in various parts of the province there is not a single blast furnace in operation.

IN MEMORIAM.

Of Ellen Elizabeth Flood, who died in Ennismore, Feb. 20th, 1895.

Among the pillows, chaste and white,
A fading form lay;
While round about in raptures wild,
The fluttering angels stay.

For up in heaven that dawning morn,
A voice all kindness, told
The guardian of our little one
To bring her to the fold.

Forthwith, descending from the throne,
All clothed in bright array,
A troop of angels wandered down
And bore her soul away.

Her angel spirit felt them near,
And knew her troubles o'er;
And to the loved ones waiting round
She said, "I am no more."

Dear father, brothers, sisters, all,
Think not of her as dead;
But as a long imprisoned bird
Now with its playmates fled.

Behold! the golden gates roll back,
And in triumph borne home,
The angel yields her cherished prize
To Him upon the throne.

One moment more.—the Saviour smiles,
What is it He doth say?
"Well done, my good and faithful child,
Thou'rt with me from this day."

What rapturous joy: The cup runs o'er,
Such bliss cannot contain,
When lo! a long-lost mother's arms
Are clasped 'round her again.

What cruel friends would call them back
From such bright realms as these,
To wander through a cold, cold world
Where pain the heart doth freeze.

Kind friends who weep, dry up those tears,
For 'round that glorious throne
Two loving ones are waiting,
To greet you when you come.

April snow breeds grass.
April cold and wet fills barn and barrel.

A cold and moist April fills the cellar and fattens the cow.

A dry April not the farmer's will; rain in April is what he wills.

When April blows his horn,
'Tis good for hay and corn.

April borrows three days from March, and they are ill.

Whatever March does not want, April brings along.

When April makes much noise we will have plenty of rye and hay.

Milburn's Magazine.

Messrs. T. Milburn & Co., Toronto, Ont., have just issued a neat and readable publication under the title of "Milburn's Magazine," which contains many good things. The proprietors of Burdock Blood Bitters are to be congratulated on the enterprise they have displayed. Our readers can obtain a sample copy by enclosing a one cent stamp for postage to the firm's address. There is one story, "The Little Weaver," which will alone repay the trouble of sending for the paper.

Two Story Sidewalks.

A plan has been proposed by George D. Boulton, of the First National Bank at Chicago, for increasing the sidewalk capacity of that city. Mr. Boulton had in mind particularly the sidewalks on Wabash Avenue, but after carrying the plan to its logical conclusion, he became convinced that it can be put into no effect other down-town streets. The plan provides for a continuous duplicate walk above the present sidewalk, on each side of Wabash Avenue, from Lake Street to Congress, the walk to be constructed of glass and iron, ornamental in its character, and to be level with the second story of the buildings adjacent thereto.—Paving

WOULD BE UNSTATESMANLIKE.

Premier Greenway Thinks that Quebec will not Force Remedial Legislation.

Winnipeg, April 1.—Premier Greenway, in an interview on the school question, said: "There is no likelihood that the Quebec members will be able to force the Dominion Government to legislate for Separate schools at the opening of the session at Ottawa on the plea that Manitoba has refused to pay attention to the remedial order. Such a course, in view of the fact that, at some inconvenience to the members, the Manitoba Government had adjourned the House for a time so that the order may be fully and deliberately considered, would be unstatesmanlike and impossible."

Greenway Showed Statesmanship.

Ottawa, April 1.—When asked what he thought of Greenway's attitude, Sir Mackenzie Bowell said that it showed some statesmanship. It was an evidence that he did not propose to act precipitately, and that was to his credit.

Mayor Stewart, of Hamilton, acknowledges that he has been offered the McCarthyite nomination for Haldimand county to oppose Hon. Dr. Montague.

The Aristocrats
Of Wall Papers.

OUR New Spring Designs in Wall Paper for 1895 are the most elaborate ever shown in the Dominion. They represent the finest effects in High Art Paper Decorations ever shown here, and are the Aristocrats of Wall Papers.

WE have done our level best to encourage Home Decoration by selling Handsome Room Paper, and allied combinations, but our samples this spring transcends every previous display we have opened out. The patterns embrace many beautiful designs to suit every taste and every purse. The most effective being in

COLOURED AND EMBOSSED GOLDS,
VARNISHED AND FLITTER BRONZES,
PLAIN AND FLITTER INGRAINS,
ENGLISH SANITARY,
PLAIN AND CLOUDED FLOCKS,
CEILING DECORATIONS.

OUR Prices are only a fraction of what you're accustomed to pay for equal qualities. At a small expense you can improve every room in the house, and landlords get tenants quicker when walls are newly papered. The best time to think of such things is now before the spring rush begins.

HOME ADORNMENT

Cannot be made complete with Wall Paper alone. The best papered room is incomplete without other harmonizing effects. Chief among these specialities of which we are the almost exclusive dealers in Peterborough, and which are so closely allied with Wall Paper Hangings, comes—

ROOM MOULDINGS,
WINDOW SHADINGS,
CORNICE POLES,
PICTURE FRAMES.

IN all these we have effects to match the different Papers, Furniture and Furnishings of your rooms. Inspection will convince you that in every line we carry we lead, and that our prices, like this line, are at the bottom.
